15 YEARS' DIGEST

1951-65

(INCLUDING CASE-LAW OF 1950)

VOL.

4

D. V. CHITALEY

&

S. APPU RAO

ALL INDIA REPORTER LTD.

NAGPUR

A. I. R. Publications — A Tribute from the Law Quarterly Review

"One cannot but marvel at the industry and wide scope of the activities of the authors. Each month, to-date Courts digests. ncyclo- tatutes. world which authors rden of occupy at, like ner nor ent."— 6-317.

DONATED

By

PANDIT SHAMBOO NATH DAR,

(1901 — 1969)

ADVOCATE, and former President

SRINAGAR MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

"The organisation required to produce such books exists at present only in India, and there is no prospect that anywhere but in Nagpur, will a small village of devoted workers be dedicated to the production of the reports, manuals and editions of standard works of reference that have given All India Reporter its unique position. Mulla and "A. I. R." are the great names in the Law Books for India; they are as different as chalk from cheese; and recent works appearing in their series confirm the impression that they will go on for ever."—(1964) 80 Law Quarterly Review.—Page 448.

S. N. Dar

Advocate High Court

Jammu & Kashmir

Srinagar.

DATE LABEL

1590

*Call No.*_____ *Date*_____

*Acc. No.*_____

K. UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

This book should be returned on or before the last date stamped above. An over-due charge of .06 P. will be levied for each day if the book is kept beyond that day.

Law that is not latest is not living

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THE ALL INDIA REPORTER

1. Entire case-law of India for 52 years in one compact series of reports.
2. Cheapest Journal in India for the service it renders to the Bench and Bar.
3. Easy mode of citation invented for first time in India.
4. All reportable judgments of all the High Courts, J. C.'s Courts and of the Supreme Court which could possibly be reported within the price charged, are reported.
5. Unrivalled promptness and exhaustiveness in reporting Supreme Court cases.
6. Specially good type for Supreme Court judgments.
7. Maximum number of law points at minimum price.
8. The only report which is cited most.
9. Separate pagination for each Court.
10. Acts of Parliament printed in full.
11. Dates of commencement of Acts of Parliament notified during the month are given at one place.
12. Erudite journal section.
13. Comparative Tables giving references to other journals.
14. Complete Subjectwise and Courtwise List of Overruled, Dissented and Reversed cases given.
15. Notable Case-Law indicating very important cases.
16. Unequalled for exhaustiveness of reporting.
17. Adoption of statutory headings to the maximum extent in preference to topical headings.
18. Topical headings also adopted but referred to statutory headings.
19. Points in parallel legislation of different States brought together in the Subject Index.
20. Points given in the words of the judges as far as possible.
21. Separation of points in head-notes.
22. Exhaustive culling out of points.
23. Dissenting judgments reported and points of dissenting judge also indicated in Headnotes.
24. Exhaustive cross references given to all relevant headings, statutory or topical.
25. Numbering of paragraphs of the judgment.
26. Para numbers of judgments indicated for each point in headnote as well as at the top of each page for facility of reference. Names of parties and Judges also mentioned at the top of each page.
27. Marginal marking of all points.
28. Cases cited in judgment listed at the beginning of each judgment, with the number of the paragraph where it occurs for facility of reference.
29. Cases reversed, overruled and dissented clearly shown at the end of a point.
30. Volume and case numbers indicated for checking and ensuring accuracy.
31. Notable case-law indicated to enable the profession to be up-to-date in a minute.

Case-law is the life-blood of a law book

[Vol. 4] Fn. D. SP—5/67 (4 pp.)

A. I. R. PUBLICATION

THE FIFTEEN YEARS' DIGEST 1951–1965

(Civil, Criminal & Revenue)

[Including the cases of 1950]

BY

D. V. CHITALEY, B.A., LL.B., Advocate.

AND

S. APPU RAO, B.A., B.L.,
Advocate, High Court of Madras.
Chief Editor, "The All India Reporter" Authors of A. I. R. Commentaries and A. I. R. Manual)

Volume 4

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA (1950), ART. 19

TO

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA (1950), ART. 300

PUBLISHERS

THE ALL INDIA REPORTER LTD.

Registered Office :
Medows House, Medows Street,
Fort, Bombay.

Address for Correspondence :
Post Box No. 56, Nagpur.

Books Checked 7.12

Printed by D. V. Chitaley at the All India Reporter Rotary Printing Press and by G. D. Khanna at the All India Reporter Press, Nagpur.

S. N. Dar
Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

J. & K. UNIVERSITY LIB.
K. DIVISION
Acc No. 76100
Date 24.2.70

SV.02

PREFACE

(REPRODUCED FROM VOLUME I)

We have great pleasure in placing before the public this digest which covers the case law of India for the entire post-Constitution period from 1950 to the end of 1965, and which, therefore, is really a sixteen years' digest although it is named "THE FIFTEEN YEARS' DIGEST" as distinguished from the "Fifty Years' Digest" which comes up to the end of 1950.

The Digest covers a very important period in the development of Indian law as it relates to the period immediately following the commencement of the Constitution and thus includes the decisions of the Supreme Court and of the High Courts bearing upon the interpretation of the Constitution in its earliest stage of growth. The judgments of the Supreme Court during this period on the interpretation of the Constitution are comparable in importance to those of Chief Justice Marshall and other eminent Judges of the American Supreme Court in the early years of the American Constitution. This Digest will serve as a key to all these important decisions.

The post-Constitution period has also seen other important developments bearing on the growth of Indian law. Firstly, Independence has heralded a period of unprecedented legislative activity to give effect to the policy of bringing into existence a welfare State. A mass of subordinate legislation has also come into existence in the wake of the same policy.

The number of High Courts in the post-Constitution period is also about double of the number of High Courts in the previous period. This together with the fact that the distinction between "Indian India" and "British India" has been done away with and that the Courts in the erstwhile Native States are no longer "foreign Courts" vis-a-vis India, makes the decisions of all the High Courts in India "authorities" throughout the country, though they may not be binding precedents outside the States of the particular High Courts. All these factors have not only contributed to an enormous growth in the volume of the case-law but have added a new significance to the case-law of this period.

In this connection, special mention has to be made of the position of the Supreme Court under the Constitution. Previously to the Constitution also, appeals lay to the Privy Council in England and thus there was a Court of ultimate resort for the whole of India superior to the High Court. But although the Supreme Court of India may in one sense be regarded as having only succeeded to the position of the Privy Council in India, its importance from the point of view of the development of the Indian law is incomparably greater. This can be seen from the very fact that, while previously the Privy Council volume of the A. I. R. used to contain only about 200 pages for the whole year, the decisions of the Supreme Court reported in the A. I. R. each year now occupy two stout volumes of about two thousand pages on the whole. The importance from the juristic point of view, of the case-law reported in these pages cannot also be exaggerated. The Supreme Court occupies a unique position under the Constitution as a "sentinel on the qui vive" in respect of the fundamental rights granted by the Constitution and all the important pronouncements of the Supreme Court bearing on the fundamental rights will be found epitomized in this Digest. Moreover, the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court is much wider than that of the Privy Council and practically every branch of law is now covered by the decisions of the Supreme Court. This Digest will afford a key to all these decisions.

Further, the centre of gravity in law has shifted during this period and a new type of litigation has come into existence after the commencement of the Constitution. The emphasis has now shifted to Constitutional law, taxation law, company law, industrial and labour laws, etc., and a new body of jurisprudence is rapidly coming into existence. The whole of this new body of law in India will be found enshrined in the judgments digested in these volumes. A special body of law both as to principles and practice has been forming round the writ jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and the High Courts, and new and novel forms of remedy unknown before have come into force.

Thus, it will be seen that this Digest is of more than ordinary significance from the point of view both of lawyers and Judges and its importance can hardly be exaggerated.

As regards the special features of this Digest, they contain all the important features of the law digests hitherto published by the A. I. R. Among them may be mentioned the fact that it is a digest of full headnotes and not of mere catch-words or short notes. The points are arranged under appropriate headings and sub-headings and synopsis given under all the headings so as to facilitate the task of reference. The cases under each heading and sub-heading are arranged in the order of the Courts, the cases of the Supreme Court being given first. Where a case is reversed or overruled by a subsequent decision, it is mentioned under the particular point itself in the Digest. This is a unique feature in a digest and it will save the labour of the lawyer in trying to find out whether the case is still good law by referring to a separate index of cases judicially noticed. Each headnote will also indicate whether a previous decision has been reversed or overruled by the particular case. The last volume will also contain a list of overruled and reversed cases. Another very useful feature is that the Supreme Court, Full Bench and Special Bench cases are marked with a thick dot at the beginning of the point so that on each topic one can pick out such decisions without wading through the whole mass of case-law appearing under that heading.

The system followed is, as usual, that of statutory headings as the basis wherever possible. But in the last volume we are giving a table of topical headings in alphabetical order with the corresponding statutory heading for each topical heading, so that the lawyer can, by using this topical index find out easily the correct statutory provision under which the cases on that topic have been given. This topical index will be useful not only for the purpose of this Digest but also generally for finding out the statutory provisions dealing with the particular legal topics.

Another most important feature which must be mentioned here is that each point of a case reported in the A. I. R. will give the page and the paragraph of the report where the point occurs. Where a point is relevant under other statutory headings, cross-references are given to such headings. Separate points in a case have been digested separately under separate headings and not mixed up together under the same heading. When a case contains more than one point, the Digest will indicate the number (A), (B), (C), etc. of the particular point in the headnote of the report in the A. I. R.

We are sure that the legal profession will appreciate the several improvements made in this Digest and extend to it its full support and encouragement.

In conclusion we wish to place on record our appreciation and thanks for the co-operation given by our colleagues on the editorial staff of the A. I. R. both in the preparation of the manuscripts of this Digest and also in seeing it through the press.

15th August 1966.

D. V. C.
S. A. R.

ABBREVIATIONS

(i) Relating to Journals and Reports.

A. I. R. 1914 All., Bom., etc. ... All India Reporter, Allahabad, Bombay, etc., sections of the respective years.

A. M. L. J. ... Ajmer-Merwara Law Journal.

All. or I.L.R. All. ... Indian Law Reports, Allahabad Series.

All. L. Jour. ... Allahabad Law Journal.

All. W. R. ...Allahabad Weekly Reporter.

I. L. R. Andhra (Andh. Pra.) ... Indian Law Reports, Andhra (Andhra Pradesh) Series.

Andh. L. T. ... Andhra Law Times.

Andhra (or Andh.) W. R. ... Andhra Weekly Reporter.

I. L. R. Assam ... Indian Law Reports, Assam Series.

B. L. J. or Bihar L. J. R. ... Bihar Law Journal Reports.

Bom. or I. L. R. Bom. ... Indian Law Reports, Bombay Series.

Bom. L. R. ... Bombay Law Reporter.

Cal. or I. L. R. Cal. ... Indian Law Reports, Calcutta Series.

Cal. L. Jour. ... Calcutta Law Journal.

Cal. L. R. ... Calcutta Law Reports.

Cal. W. N. ... Calcutta Weekly Notes.

Com. Cas. ... Company Cases.

Com. L. J. ... Company Law Journal.

Cr. or Cri. L. Jour. ... Criminal Law Journal.

I. L. R. Cut. ... Indian Law Reports, Cuttack Series.

Cut. L. T. ... Cuttack Law Times.

E. P. or East Punj. ... East Punjab.

I. L. R. E. P. or East Punj. ... Indian Law Reports, East Punjab Series.

F. C. R. ... Federal Court Reports.

F. L. J. ... Federal Law Journal.

F. J. R. ... Factories Journal Reports.

I. L. R. Guj. ... Indian Law Reports, Gujarat Series.

Guj. H. C. R. ... Gujarat High Court Reporter.

Guj. L. R. ... Gujarat Law Reports.

Him. Pra. ... Himachal Pradesh.

Hyd. ... Hyderabad.

I. L. R. Hyd. ... Indian Law Reports, Hyderabad Series.

Ind. App. ...Law Reports, Indian Appeals.

Ind. Cas. ... Indian Cases.

I. T. J. ... Income-Tax Journal.

I. T. R. ... Income-Tax Reports.

Jab. L. J. ... Jabalpur Law Journal.

J. & K. ... Jammu & Kashmir.

J. & K. L. R. ... Jammu & Kashmir Law Reports.

J. L. R. or Jaipur L. R. ... Jaipur Law Reports.

Kar. L. J. ... Karnatak Law Journal.

I. L. R. Ker. (or Kerala) ... Indian Law Reports, Kerala Series.

Ker. L. J. ... Kerala Law Journal.

Ker. L. R. ... Kerala Law Reports.

K. L. T. or Ker. L. T. ... Kerala Law Times.

Lab. L. J. ... Labour Law Journal.

Law Rep. ... Law Reports (Mys).

Luck. or I. L. R Luck. ... Indian Law Reports, Lucknow Series.

Madh. B. or M. B. ... Madhya Bharat.

I. L. R. Madh. B. ... Indian Law Reports, Madhya Bharat Series.

Madh. B. L. J. ... Madhya Bharat Law Journal.

Madh. B. L. R. ... Madhya Bharat Law Reporter.

I. L. R. Madh. Pra. or M. P. ... Indian Law Reports, Madhya Pradesh Series.

M. P. C. ... Madhya Pradesh Cases.

M. P. L. J. ... Madhya Pradesh Law Journal.

Mad. or I. L. R. Mad. ... Indian Law Reports, Madras Series.

Mad. L. Jour. ... Madras Law Journal.

Mad. L. Tim. ... Madras Law Times.

Mad. L. W. ... Madras Law Weekly.

Mad. W. N. ... Madras Weekly Notes.

Mah. L. J. ... Maharashtra Law Journal.

M. L. R. or Marwar L. R. ... Marwar Law Reporter.

Mys. ... Mysore.

I. L. R. Mys. ... Indian Law Reports, Mysore Series.

Mys. H. C. R. ... Mysore High Court Reports.

Mys. L. J. ... Mysore Law Journal.

I. L. R. Nag. ... Indian Law Reports, Nagpur Series.

Nag. L. Jour. ... Nagpur Law Journal.

Orissa J. D. ... Orissa Judicial Decisions.

I. L. R. Patiala ... Indian Law Reports, Patiala Series.

Pat. or I. L. R. Pat. ... Indian Law Reports, Patna Series.

Pepsu L. R. ... Pepsu Law Reports.

I. L. R. Punj. ... Indian Law Reports, Punjab Series.
Pun. L. R. ... Punjab Law Reporter.
Raj. ... Rajasthan.
I. L. R. Raj. ... Indian Law Reports Rajasthan Series.
R. L. W. or Raj. L. W. ... Rajasthan Law Weekly.
R. D. ... Revenue Decisions.
Sau. ... Saurashtra.
Sau. L. R. ... Saurashtra Law Reporter.
S. C. A. ... Supreme Court Appeals.
S. C. C. ... Supreme Court Cases.
S. C. D. ... Supreme Court Decisions.
S. C. J. ... Supreme Court Journal.
S. C. R. ... Supreme Court Reports.
S. C. W. R. ... Supreme Court Weekly Reports.
Trav.-Co. or T. C. ... Travancore-Cochin.
I. L. R. Trav.-Co. or T. C. ... Indian Law Reports, Travancore-Cochin Series.
T. C. L. R. or Trav-Co. L. R. ... Travancore-Cochin Law Reports.
T. L. J. or Trav. L. J. ... Travancore Law Journal.
Vind. Pra. or V. P. ... Vindhya Pradesh.

(ii) Other Abbreviations.

Appr. ... Approved.
Art. or A. ... Article.
B. R. ... Board of Revenue.
Civ. ... Civil.
Cl. ... Clause.
Cons. ... Considered.
Cr. ... Criminal.
Diss. ... Dissented.
Dist. ... Distinguished.
D. B. ... Division Bench.
Expl. ... Explained.
F. A. ... First Appeal.
F. B. ... Full Bench.
F. C. ... Federal Court.
Foll. ... Followed.
Illus. ... Illustrations.
Jour. ... Journal.
L. P. A. ... Letters Patent Appeal.
O. ... Order.
Over. ... Overruled.
P. ... Page.
Pr. or P ... Para.
Pt. ... Point.
P. C. ... Privy Council.
Pre. ... Preamble.
R. ... Rule.
Ref. ... Referred or Reference.
Regn. ... Regulation.
Rel. on. ... Relied on.
Rev. ... Revenue.
S. ... Section.
S. B. ... Special Bench.
S. C. ... Supreme Court.

● at the beginning of the point indicates a case of Supreme Court, Privy Council, Federal Court, Special Bench or Full Bench.

Contents of Volume 4.

	Pages
CONSTITUTION OF INDIA (contd.)
—Article 19
1. Scope and applicability	2
2. "Police powers"	5
3. This article and Art. 21	5
4. This article and Art. 31	8
5. Rights which are not fundamental ...	13
6. Conflicting rights	15
7. Contracting out of fundamental rights ...	15
8. Infringement of right by private individuals	16
9. Construction of laws restricting fundamental rights	16
10. Citizens	17
11. "Rights"	21
12. Who can raise question of unconstitutionality	21
13. Retrospective effect	21
14. Onus	22
15. Restriction on the fundamental rights ...	22
16. "Interests of the general public" ...	37
17. "Public order"	39
18. "Restriction"—Meaning of	41
19. "Existing law"	41
20. Clause (1) (a)—(General)	42
21. Freedom of the press	45
22. Pre-censorship	47
23. Security of the State	48
24. Sedition	48
25. Promoting enmity between classes ...	50
26. Decency or morality	50
27. Contempt of Court	50
28. Defamation	51
29. Incitement to offence	51
30. The film as a medium of expression ...	52
31. Loudspeakers, ban of	52
32. Picketing, prohibition of	52
33. Right to make demonstrations ...	52
34. Restrictions on freedom of speech and expression—Miscellaneous examples ...	53
35. Clause (1) (b)—(General)	54
36. Right to take out procession along highway	55
37. Clause (1) (c)—(General)	56
38. Labour and trade unions	57
39. Right of businessmen to form combinations	60
40. Supersession of local board, municipality etc.	60
41. Clause (1) (d)—(General)	60
42. "Throughout the territory of India" ...	63
43. Externment and internment orders ...	64
44. Restrictions on entry into India ...	66
45. Clause (1) (d)—Illustrative examples ...	66
46. Clause (1) (e)	68
47. Clause (1) (f)	69
48. "Property"	74
49. "Acquire"	77
50. "Hold"	78
51. Taking away right of management of property etc.	78
52. Control of accommodation and rents ...	84
53. Tenancy laws	86
54. Pre-emption	94
55. Acquisition of lands	98
56. Restraint on alienation	99
57. Evacuee property legislation... ...	99

	Pages
CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Art. 19 (contd.)
58. Debt laws	101
59. Clause (1) (f) — Illustrative examples — Valid restrictions	102
60. Clause (1) (f) — Illustrative examples — Invalid restrictions	107
61. Prohibition law	108
62. Clause (1) (g)—General	110
63. Practice any profession	112
64. Carry on any occupation, etc. ...	113
65. Legal profession—Restrictions as to ...	114
66. Licence, requirement of	115
67. Trade restrictions	122
68. Price control	132
69. Monopolies	132
70. Labour laws	134
71. Industrial Disputes Acts	136
72. Clause (1) (g)—Illustrative examples ...	138
73. Clause (6) (i) — Professional or technical qualifications	144
74. Clause (6) (ii) — Transport business — General	145
75. Taxation laws—General	151
76. Right to strike	157
—Article 20
1. Scope	158
2. Ex post facto laws—Clause (1)—Scope ...	158
3. Double jeopardy for same offence — Rule against—Clause (2)	164
4. Accused not to be compelled to be witness against himself—Clause (3) ...	175
5. Statement of accused under Criminal P. C., S. 342	183
6. Compulsion to be witness—What amounts to	184
7. Evidence Act, S. 132—Validity of ...	192
8. Unreasonable searches and seizure ...	193
9. Confessions of accused obtained under pressure	193
—Article 21
1. Scope of the Article	194
2. "Life"	195
3. "Deprivation" of personal liberty ...	195
4. This Article and Art. 19	196
5. This Article and Art. 22	197
6. "Procedure established by law" ...	197
7. Preventive detention	201
—Article 22
1. Scope	203
2. Retrospective effect	205
3. Procedure to be followed on arrest—Clauses (1) and (2)	205
4. "Arrest," meaning of	205
5. Information of order of arrest ...	206
6. Information of grounds of arrest ...	206
7. Right to be defended by pleader ...	206
8. Clause (2)...	208
9. Right of foreign nationals	210
10. Validity of Preventive Detention Act (1950)	210
11. J. and K. Preventive Detention Act—Validity of	210
12. Preventive detention—General ...	210
13. Satisfaction of detaining authority ...	212
14. Bona fides of the order of detention ...	212
15. Advisory board	213
16. Procedure before advisory board ...	213

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Art. 22 (contd.) — Pages

17. Advisory board — Qualification of members 213
18. Clauses (7) (a) and (b)—"Any law" ... 213
19. Maximum period of detention ... 213
20. Detention beyond three months without obtaining opinion of advisory board ... 214
21. President's powers 215
22. Clause (5)—General 216
23. "Grounds on which the order has been made" 216
24. Vagueness of grounds 218
25. Grounds of detention—Consideration by Court 221
26. Supplementary grounds 223
27. Grounds on which detention can be ordered 223
28. "As soon as may be" 224
29. Right to make representation against order of detention 225
30. Clause (6) 225
31. Fresh order of detention 226

—Article 23

1. Traffic in human beings 226
2. Begar or forced labour 226
3. Compulsory service for public purposes—Clause (2) 227

—Article 25

1. Scope 228
2. Corresponding provisions in American Constitution 229
3. Freedom of religion 229
4. "Subject to the other provisions of this Part" 233
5. Power of State to provide for social welfare and social reforms 233
6. State regulation—Clause 2 (a) ... 236
7. Religious institution of public character—Clause 2 (b) 236
8. Explanation I 236
9. Explanation II 237

— Article 26 ... ...

1. Scope of the Article 237
2 Right to manage its own affairs in matters of religion—Clause (b) ... 239
3. Right to own and acquire property—Clause (c) 241
4. Right to administer property—Clause (d) 242

—Article 27 243
—Article 28 245
—Article 29

1. Scope of the article 245
2. Admission into educational institutions—Clouse 2 246
3. Special provision for benefit of backward classes 248
4. Ground of discrimination 248
5. Directive principles of State policy ... 249

—Article 30 249
—Articles 31, 31A and 31B

1. Amendments—Validity 252
2. Scope of Article 31 252
3. Clause (1)—General 255
4. "Eminent Domain" 262
5. Clause (2)—General 262
6. Clause (2A) 268
7. "Acquired" 269
8. "Requisition" 272
9. Regulating the relation between landlord and tenant 272
10. Accommodation control 273
11. "Public purpose" 273
12. "Compensation" 283

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Arts. 31, 31A and 31B (contd.) — Pages

13. "Property" ... ... — 294
14. Property of Rulers of merged States — 299
15. Clause (3) ... ... — 299
16. Clause (4) ... ... — 301
17. Clause (5) ... ... — 303
18. Taxation ... ... — 306
19. Evacuee property ... — 308
20. Public health, etc. ... — 309
21. Clause (6) ... ... — 310
22. Article 31-A—Scope ... — 312
23. "Acquisition" ... ... — 315
24. "Extinguishment or modification of any such rights." 318
25. Taking over of management—Clause (2) (b) ... ... — 319
26. Clause (1) (e) ... ... — 319
27. First Proviso to Clause (1) ... — 319
28. "Estate"—Clause (2) (a) ... — 320
29. Rights—Clause (2) (b) ... — 326
30. Article 31-B—Scope ... — 327

—Article 32

See Ibid, Arts. 226 & 32 — — 329
—Article 33 ... ... — 330
—Article 34 ... ... — 330
—Article 35 ... ... — 330
—Article 36 ... ... — 331
—Article 37 ... ... — 331
—Article 38 ... ... — 332
—Article 39 ... ... — — 332
—Article 40 ... ... — 333
—Article 41 ... ... — 333
—Article 43 ... ... — — 333
—Article 45 ... ... — 334
—Article 46 ... ... — 334
—Article 47 ... ... — 334
—Article 48 ... ... — 335
—Article 50 ... ... — 335
—Article 51 ... ... —

1. Scope of the Article ... — 336
2. Respect for treaty obligations—Clause (c) 336
3. Foreign State ... ... — 337
4. Sovereign State ... ... — 337
5. Merger of States ... ... — 338
6. Belligerency ... ... — 341
7. Acquisition of territory ... — 341
8. Act of State ... ... — 341
9. Jurisdiction of Municipal Courts — 342
10. Territorial waters—Extent of — 343
11-12. Law of Air ... ... — 343
13. Immunities and privileges ... — 343
14. Scope and operation ... — 343
15. Law applicable to India ... — 344
15A. Foreign judgment ... — 344
16. Domicile ... ... — 345
17. Citizenship ... ... — 346
18. Emigration and expulsion — Passports and Visas ... ... — 346
19. Domicile and nationality ... — 346
20. Citizenship and nationality ... — 346
21. Succession to immovable property — 346
22. Matrimonial matters ... — 347
23. Tort in foreign country — When actionable in home country ... — 348
24. Extradition ... ... — 348
25. Contracts ... ... — 348
26. Arbitration ... ... — 350
27. Debts ... ... — 350
28. Maritime law ... ... — 351
29. Corporations ... ... — 351
30. Conflict between Municipal and International law ... ... — 351

Pages

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA (contd.)

—Article 53 351
—Article 58 353
—Article 59 353
—Article 64 353
—Article 71 353
—Article 72 354
—Article 73 356
—Article 74 357
—Article 75 357
—Article 77 357
—Article 79 358
—Article 80 358
—Article 81 358
—Article 83 358
—Article 84 358
—Article 98 358
—Article 101 358
—Article 102 358
—Article 105 359
—Article 107 360
—Article 110 361
—Article 118 361
—Article 120 361
—Article 121 361
—Article 122 361
—Article 123 361
—Article 124 362
—Article 129 362
—Article 131 363
—Article 132 ... ...

1. Scope 363
2. "Judgment, decree or final order" ... 364
3. "Final order" 365
4. High Court 365
5. Appeal from single Judge of High Court 366
6. "In a civil, criminal or other proceedings" 366
7. Substantial question of law 367
8. "As to the interpretation of this Constitution" 371
9. Special leave 374
10. Scope of appeal before Supreme Court ... 374
11. Form of certificate 376
12. Stage at which certificate can be granted 376
13. Cancellation of certificate 376
14. Effect of grant of certificate 376
15. Order refusing certificate—Appeal ... 377
16. Procedure 377
17. Limitation 377

—Article 133 ... ...

1. Scope 378
2. Conditions under which appeal lies under the Article 380
3. This Article and Ss. 109 and 110, Civil P. C. 381
4. Retrospective effect 382
5. "Judgment, decree or final order" ... 387
6. "Judgment" 390
7. "Decree" 394
8. "Final order" 395
9. Civil proceeding 402
10. High Court 409
11. Value of subject matter in Court of first instance—Clause (a) 409
12. Amount or value of subject-matter in dispute on appeal 415
13. Clause (1) (b)—General 417

Pages

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Art. 133 (contd.)

14. Grant of leave to appeal 421
15. Decree of affirmance 430
16. "Court immediately below"... ... 435
17. Substantial question of law 436
18. Clause (2) 444
19. Judgment of single Judge of High Court 445
20. Concurrent findings of fact 445
21. Practice and procedure 447
22. Limitation 451

—Article 134 ... ...

1. Scope of the Article 451
2. Special leave and certificate of fitness—Distinction 452
3. "Judgment, final order or sentence" ... 453
4. Clause (1) (a) 453
5. Certificate of fitness for appeal — Clause (1) (c) 454
6. Proviso to Clause (1) (c) — Rules of High Court 470
7. Bill 471
8. Powers and duties of Supreme Court on appeal 471
9. Laches and limitation 474

—Article 135 474

—Article 136

1. Scope 477
2. Special leave—General 479
3. Certificate of fitness and special leave... Distinction 484
4. Effect of grant of special leave ... 484
5. Duty of High Court in disposing of appeal 485
6. "Judgment . . . . . order" ... 485
7. "In any cause or matter" 485
8. "Any Court or tribunal" 486
9. "In the territory of India" ... 488
10. Criminal cases — Appeal to Supreme Court 489
11. Appreciation of evidence 492
12. New point 499
13. Retrospective operation 502
14. Bail 502
15. Limitation 502
16. Interference with exercise of discretion ... 503
17. Appeal against decisions of Income-tax Appellate Tribunal 504
18. Appeal against decisions of Industrial Tribunal 506
19. Appeal against decisions of Labour Appellate Tribunal 509
20. Appeal against decisions of Election Tribunal 510
21. Appeal against orders under Arts. 226 and 227 511
22. Appeal against miscellaneous decisions ... 511
23. Practice and procedure 512

—Article 137 513

—Article 139 513

—Article 141

1. Scope of the Article 514
2. "Law declared by the Supreme Court" ... 514
3. Can Supreme Court reconsider its own previous decisions 517
4. Power of Legislature to alter law declared by Supreme Court 518
5. All Courts in India 518
6. Present authority of Privy Council and Federal Court 518

—Article 142 519

—Article 143 520

—Article 144 520

—Article 145 521

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA (contd.)	Pages
—Article 146	522
—Article 148	522
—Article 149	522
—Article 150	522
—Article 154
1. Executive power of the State ...	523
2. Exercise of executive power ...	524
3. "Officers subordinate to him" ...	525
4. Executive and Judiciary—Relation between	525
5. State Government	525
—Article 160	526
—Article 161
1. Scope of the Article	526
2. Power to grant pardons	526
3. Suspension of sentence	527
4. Remission of sentence	527
5. General amnesty	527
—Article 162	528
—Article 163	531
—Article 164	532
—Article 165	533
—Article 166
1. Scope	533
2. "All executive action of the Government of a State"	534
3. Non-compliance with Clause (1)—Effect...	536
4. Authentication of Government orders ...	538
5. Rules of Business of Government ...	541
—Article 167	543
—Article 168	544
—Article 169	545
—Article 170	545
—Article 171	545
—Article 172	546
—Article 173	546
—Article 174	547
—Article 176	547
—Article 178	548
—Article 183	548
—Article 185	548
—Article 187	548
—Article 188	548
—Article 190	549
—Article 191
1. Scope	550
2. "Office of profit"	550
3. "Government of any State" ...	551
4. Law by State Legislature removing disqualification	551
5. Disqualification under law of Parliament	552
—Article 192	552
—Article 193	552
—Article 194
1. Freedom of speech in the Legislature ...	553
2. Publication of speech made in the Legislature	554
3. Clause (3)	555
4. Freedom from arrest	561
—Article 196	562
—Article 199	562
—Article 200	563
—Article 201	564
—Article 202	564
—Article 203	565

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA (contd.)	Pages
—Article 204	565
—Article 205	565
—Article 207	565
—Article 208	565
—Article 210	567
—Article 211	567
—Article 212
1. Irregularity of procedure in Legislature —Effect—Clause (1)	567
2. "Officer or member of the Legislature" ...	569
3. Immunity from legal proceedings — Clause (2)	569
—Article 212-A	570
—Article 213	570
—Article 214	572
—Article 215
1. Scope	573
2. Court of Record	573
3. Contempt of Court—Essentials ...	573
4. Power of High Court to punish contempts —General	581
5. Evidence and mode of proof ...	582
6. Exercise of power is discretionary ...	583
7. Jurisdiction	583
8. Punishment—Principles	584
9. Apology	584
10. Appeal	585
—Article 216	585
—Article 217	585
—Article 218	587
—Article 219	587
—Article 220	588
—Article 224	588
—Article 225
1. Scope....	588
2. "Subject to the provisions of this Constitution"	589
3. "Any law of the appropriate Legislature"	590
4. Jurisdiction	590
5. "Respective powers of Judges." ...	591
6. Power to regulate procedure of Court ...	591
7. Proviso	593
—Articles 226 & 32
1. Act of State, writ in respect of ...	601
2. Administrative authority	602
3. Administrative order	602
4. Affidavit in support of application ...	602
5. Against whom writ can issue ...	602
6. Aggrieved person	616
7. Alternative remedy	635
8. "Any other purpose"	716
9. "Any person", meaning of	721
10. Appeal from order in	721
11. Application for	725
12. Article 32, scope of	741
13. Articles 32 and 226 compared ...	747
14. Articles 226 and 227	748
15. Assessment, illegal, writ against ...	751
16. Authority not duly constituted, writ against	751
17. Bar to	751
18. Board of Revenue	756
19. Burden of proof	756
20. Certiorari	757
21. Circumvention of orders under Art. 226...	757
22. Civil Procedure Code, applicability of ...	757
23. Civil servant, dismissal of	757
24. Clarification, order for	778
25. Company, application by	778

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Arts. 226 & 32 (contd.)	Pages
26. Complicated question of fact	779
27. Concurrent jurisdiction of High Court and Supreme Court	779
28. Conduct of petitioner	779
29. Contractual rights, enforcement of ...	779
30. Corporation, application by	782
31. Costs in writ proceedings	782
32. Court-fees	783
33. Courts, writs to	784
34. Declaratory relief	784
35. Delay in applying	786
36. Demand and refusal of relief ...	802
37. Directions, orders and writs	803
38. Discriminatory and mala fide orders ...	806
39. Discretionary remedy	806
40. Discretionary orders	816
41. Dismissal, removal, discharge or reduction in rank	816
42. Domestic tribunals	816
43. Effect of issue of writ	821
44. Election dispute	822
45. Election tribunal, writ against ...	839
46. Eminent persons, writ against ...	839
47. English law, applicability	839
48. Estoppel against applying	840
49. Executive and quasi-judicial decisions—Distinction	845
50. Executive, writs and orders against ...	846
51. Fundamental rights, contracting out of ...	859
52. Fundamental rights, suspension of ...	859
53. Futile or unnecessary writ	859
54. Government, writ against	863
54A. Habeas Corpus	868
55. High Court, writ against	868
56. High Court, power to issue appropriate writ	868
57. History of writs	869
58. Hypothetical opinion	869
59. Illegal assessment	869
60. Illegal taxation	870
61. Industrial tribunal	873
62. Informal committee, writ against ...	873
63. Interim relief	874
64. Interlocutory orders	875
65. Joint application	875
66. Judicial and quasi-judicial authorities ...	875
67. Judicial proceedings, writ in respect of ...	875
68. Jurisdiction and power conferred by Art. 226	876
69. Jurisdiction of High Court	876
70. Laches	884
71. Legal right	884
72. Legislature, writ against	886
73. Letters Patent Appeal	886
74. Limitation	886
75. Mandamus	886
76. Military authorities	886
77. Municipal election	886
78. Natural justice	886
79. Nature and scope of proceedings under ...	934
80. New point at hearing	976
81. Non-fundamental rights	976
82. Notice of proceedings	977
83. Notice under S. 80, Civil P. C. ...	977
84. Official body	977
85. Orders that can be passed	977
86. Other remedy	980
87. Parties to proceedings	980
88. Pending cases	988
89. Personally aggrieved	990
90. Powers of High Court	990
91. Powers of Supreme Court and High Court	990
92. Power of Supreme Court under Art. 32 ...	990

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Arts. 226 & 32 (contd.)	Pages
93. Premature writs	990
94. Prerogative writs	991
95. Presentation of petition	991
96. President, writ against	991
97. Private person, writ against	991
98. Procedure	992
99. Proceedings under Art. 226	1012
100. Prohibition	1012
101. Quasi judicial authority	1012
102. Quo warranto	1012
103. Rajpramukh	1012
104. Relief, consequential	1012
105. Res judicata	1013
106. Retrospective effect	1016
107. Revenue matters	1022
108. Review	1022
109. Rights conferred by Part III of Constitution	1023
109A. Scire facias, writ of	1025
110. Statutory body, writ against ...	1025
111. Stay of proceedings	1025
112. Sub judice question	1026
113. Subsequent events	1026
114. Successive applications	1027
115. Suo motu interference	1028
116. Suppression of material facts ...	1029
117. Supreme Court, appeal to	1029
118. Supreme Court, power to issue ...	1029
119. Suspension of writ jurisdiction ...	1029
120. Territorial jurisdiction of High Court ...	1030
121. Tribunal, writ against	1050
122. Union of India, writ against ...	1050
123. University, writ against	1050
124. Who may apply	1050
125. Writ of right and writ of discretion ...	1050
126. Administrative order	1050
127. Against whom lies	1055
128. Bar to	1057
129. Bias	1057
130. Board of film censors	1061
131. Co-operative Societies Act, order under ...	1061
132. Costs	1062
133. Court of Wards Act, order under ...	1062
134. Courts	1062
135. Custodian of evacuee property ...	1062
136. Domestic Tribunal	1064
137. Effect of order under	1064
138. Election authorities, against	1065
139. Error on face of record	1065
140. Executive and ministerial orders ...	1095
141. Futile or unnecessary writ	1097
142. Government against	1097
143. Government servant, order of dismissal or reduction in rank	1097
144. Grounds	1099
145. Income-tax Act, orders under ...	1114
146. Industrial disputes, orders in respect of ...	1115
147. Judicial decision	1119
148. Jurisdiction	1122
149. Labour Relation Board	1131
150. Land acquisition proceedings ...	1132
151. Legislature, against	1133
152. Licensing authority, against ...	1133
153. Mandamus and certiorari	1136
154. Mines and minerals, orders in respect of	1136
155. Municipal laws, orders under ...	1136
156. New point	1141
157. Order for clarification	1141
158. Orders that can be passed	1141
159. Origin and nature of	1142
160. Other remedy	1142
161. Parties to proceedings	1142
162. Persona designata	1142
163. Police Act, orders, under	1142

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Arts. 226 & 32 (contd.) — Pages

164. Pre-Constitution power of High Courts ... 1143
165. Private body, against 1143
166. Production of records 1143
167. Prohibition and certiorari 1144
168. Quasi-judicial orders 1144
169. Rent Control Acts, orders under ... 1152
170. Requisitioning order 1157
171. Revenue and tenancy authorities ... 1158
172. Revision, power wider than 1158
173. Sales-tax law, orders under 1158
174. Sea Customs Act, orders under ... 1159
175. Stage at which can issue 1160
176. Stamp Act, orders under 1161
177. Statutory bodies, powers and duties of ... 1161
178. Stranger, application by 1163
179. Submission to or acquiescence in jurisdiction 1163
180. Tenancy laws, orders under 1166
181. Transport authority, orders of ... 1166
182. University, college and education authorities 1174
183. What is 1178
184. Who can apply 1182
185. Writ of right 1182
186. Against whom can be issued... ... 1182
187. Appeal 1182
188. Application for 1182
189. Bail and habeas corpus 1183
190. Contempt, detention for 1183
191. Conviction by criminal Court, power to question 1183
192. Costs in proceedings for 1184
193. Criminal P. C., S. 491, powers under 1184
194. Delay in applying 1185
195. Discretion of High Court 1185
196-197. Disobedience of order 1185
198. Enquiry, scope of 1185
199. Foundation of Court's jurisdiction ... 1185
200. Illegal detention 1185
201. Internment, order for 1187
202. Lunatic asylum, detention in ... 1188
203. Minor, application by 1188
204. Object of the writ 1188
205. Power of Court to go behind order of executive 1188
206. Pre-Constitution order of detention ... 1188
207. Prerogative process for securing liberty ... 1188
208. Preventive detention 1188
209. Private custody, detention in ... 1192
210. Production of prisoner in Court ... 1192
211. Protective custody 1193
212. Re-arrest after release 1193
213. Res judicata in writ proceedings ... 1194
214. Return to the writ 1194
215. Review or rehearing 1195
216. Successive applications 1196
217. Suspension of fundamental rights — Effect 1197
218. Territorial jurisdiction 1197
219. To whom writ may be issued ... 1197
220. Under-trial prisoner, detention of ... 1197
221. Who can apply 1197
222. Wife, to recover custody of 1197
223. Writ of right 1197
224. Administrative authorities, proceedings of 1197
225. Against whom can be issued ... 1204
226. Alternative remedy 1216
227. Application for 1216
228. Body of persons holding office ... 1217
229. Certiorari and mandamus compared ... 1217
230. Contracts, rights relating to ... 1218
231. Contractual duty 1220
232. Decree, mandamus to enforce ... 1220

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Arts. 226 & 32 (contd.) — Pages

233. Defined 1220
234. Demand and refusal of relief ... 1223
235. Discretionary matters 1227
236. Discretionary remedy 1233
237. Duties that can be enforced ... 1233
238. Duty and liability, distinction ... 1239
239. Educational authority, against ... 1239
240. Election, mandamus to elect ... 1239
241. Errors, mandamus to correct ... 1239
242. Executive duty and ministerial act ... 1241
243. Futile writ 1241
244. Government, against 1241
245. Grounds of 1241
246. History of 1242
247. Individual officer, against 1242
248. Interim relief 1242
249. Judicial and quasi-judicial authorities ... 1242
250. Laches 1244
251. Legal duty 1244
252. Legislature, against 1244
253. Meaning of 1244
254. Ministerial act and executive duty ... 1244
255. Moral duty 1244
256. Office, mandamus to restore to ... 1244
257. Order that can be passed 1244
258. Order affecting legal right 1246
259. Other remedy open 1246
260. Principle applicable 1246
261. Private individual, writ against ... 1246
262. Private right, enforcement of ... 1246
263. Prohibition and mandamus compared ... 1246
264. Quasi-public authority, writ against ... 1247
265. Question of title 1247
266. Revenue matters 1248
267. Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 45—Powers under 1248
268. Statutory body of fluctuating nature ... 1248
269. Stranger, application by 1248
270. Successive applications 1248
271. To deliver or to allow inspection of accounts or documents 1248
272. University, against 1248
273. When may be issued 1248
274. Who can apply 1248
275. Writ of discretion ... ... 1248(1)
276. Against whom can be issued ... 1248(1)
277. Application for, stage at which may be made ... ... 1248(3)
278. Certiorari and prohibition ... ... 1248(4)
279. Discretionary remedy ... ... 1248(4)
280. Erroneous decision as to jurisdiction ... 1248(5)
281. Grounds ... ... 1248(7)
282. Mandamus and prohibition, compared... 1248(9)
283. Nature and object of writ of prohibition ... ... 1248(9)
284. New point ... ...1248(10)
285. Non-compliance with order ...1248(10)
286. Other remedy open ... ...1248(10)
287. Premature application ... ...1248(10)
288. Private body against ... ...1248(10)
289. Submission to jurisdiction ...1248(10)
290. Who can apply for ... ...1248(10)
291. Writ of right ... ...1248(10)
292. Advocate General or Government pleader, validity of appointment ...1248(10)
293. Against whom can be issued ...1248(11)
294. Bar to, by statutory provision ...1248(11)
295. Discretion ... ...1248(11)
296. Elective office ... ...1248(11)
297. Futile, writ ... ...1248(11)
298. General principles ... ...1248(11)
299. Office in respect of which writ lies ...1248(12)
300. Other remedy open ... ...1248(14)
301. Parties to proceeding ... ...1248(14)

Pages

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Arts. 226 & 32 (contd.)

302. Possession of office, defendant must be in ... ...1248(15)
303. Resignation from office ... ...1248(15)
304. Title to office ... ...1248(15)
305. Who can apply ... ...1248(15)

—Article 227
1. Scope of applicability 1249
2. This Article and Article 226... ... 1250
3. Nature and scope of power 1251
4. Power, whether includes power to transfer 1290
5. High Court 1290
6. "All Courts and tribunals" 1290
7. Revision and power of superintendence ... 1299
8. Power conferred is not an appeliate power 1300
9. Other remedy open 1301
10. Laches 1305
11. Limitation 1306
12. Statutory bar 1306
13. Election disputes 1307
14. Contempt of Court 1308
15. Retrospective application 1308
16. Territorial jurisdiction 1310
17. Application under Article 1310
18. Suo motu exercise of power 1312
19. Prccedure 1312
20. New plea 1313
21. Appeal 1314
22. Rule of High Court 1315
23. Exemption of Military Courts and Tribunals 1315

—Article 228
1. Scope and object of the Article ... 1315
2. "Case pending in a Court subordinate to it" 1316
3. "Court subordinate to it" 1317
4. "Involves a substantial question of law as to the interpretation of this Constitution" 1318
5. "The determination of which is necessary for the disposal of the case" ... 1319
6. Onus of proof 1320
7. Retrospective effect 1320
8. Appellate side of the High Court ... 1320
9. Who can move the High Court ... 1321
10. Procedure of High Court under this Article 1321

—Article 229 1321
—Article 230 1322
—Article 233 1322
—Article 234
1. Scope 1324
2. Rules made by the Governor ... 1325

—Article 235 1326
—Article 236 1328
—Article 237 1328
—Article 238 1329
—Article 239 1329
—Article 240 1331
—Article 241 1331
—Article 242 1331
—Article 243 — 1331
—Article 244 1331
—Article 245
1. Scope 1332
2. Retrospective effect 1332
3. Sovereignty of the legislature ... 1333
4. The legislature and the executive ... 1334
5. The legislature and the judiciary ... 1334

Pages

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Art. 245 (contd.)

6. Delegation of power by the judiciary ... 1337
7. Conditional legislation 1358
7-A. Temporary legislation 1361
8 Subordinate and ancillary legislation ... 1361
9. Retrospective laws 1364
10. Validating laws 1367
11. "Subject to the provisions of this Constitlon" 1369
12. "Law", meaning of 1371
13 Territorial extent of legislative power ... 1372
14. Constitutionality of statutes... ... 1376

—Article 246
1. Scope 1382
2. Retrospective effect 1383
3. Limitation on legislative powers ... 1383
4. "Exclusive power" 1384
5. Interpretation of legislative entries — General principles 1385
6. Interpretation of legislative entries — Conflict of jurisdictions 1388
7. Doctrine of pith and substance ... 1391
8 Doctrine of occupied field 1393
9 Colourable legislation 1393
10. Scope and extent of legislative powers ... 1396
11. Constitutional validity of statutes—Test of 1406
12. Constitutionality of Acts — Illustrative cases 1407
13. Presumption: of constitutionality ... 1411
14. Delegation of legislative functions ... 1411
15. Territorial limits of legislative power ... 1412
16. Extra territorial operations 1413

—Article 247 1413
—Article 248 1413
—Article 249 1414
—Article 250 1414
—Article 251 1414
—Article 252 1414
—Article 253 1414
—Article 254
1. Scope and applicability 1415
2. Repugnancy of State law to law made by Parliament 1415
3. Repugnancy of State law to "existing law" 1418
4. "Law made by Parliament" ... 1420
5. Law made by legislature of a State ... 1421
6. Order by State Governor 1423
7. Existing law 1423
8. "With respect to one of the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List" ... 1423
9. "Repugnancy", meaning of ... 1426
10 Proof of repugnancy 1428
11. Effect of repugnancy 1428
12. Repeal by implication 1429
13. President's assent (Clause (2)) ... 1430
14. Proviso to Clause (2) 1431

—Article 255 1432
—Article 256 1433
—Article 258 1433
—Article 258-A 1435
—Article 259 1435
—Article 261
1. Scope of the article 1435
2. Clause (2) 1436
3. Clause (3) 1436

—Article 264 1439
—Article 265
1. Scope 1439
2. Tax 1439
3. Authority of law 1445

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Art. 255 (contd.) — Pages

4. Taxation power and fundamental rights... 1447
5. Taxation and equality before law ... 1448
6. Retrospective taxing law 1448
7. Double taxation 1449
8. Remedies for illegal taxation ... 1449
9. "Levied or collected" 1449
10. Taxation—Exemption from 1452
11. Taxation laws—Validity 1452

—Article 266 1453
—Article 269 1453
—Article 271 1453
—Article 272 1454
—Article 276
1. Scope and applicability 1454
2. Taxes in respect of professions, trades, callings or employments 1454
3. Maximum limit of profession tax — Cl. (2) 1456
4. "Any person" 1458
—Article 277
1. Scope and object of the Article ... 1458
2. "Immediately before the commencement of this Constitution" 1460
3. "Continued to be levied" 1460
4. "Until provision to the contrary is made by Parliament by law 1461
5. "Levy" and "imposition"—Distinction... 1462
—Article 278 1462
—Article 281 1463
—Article 282 1463
—Article 285 1464
—Article 286
1. Constitution (Sixth Amendment) Act, 1956—Object and effect 1465
2. Scope and object of the Article ... 1467
3. Interpretation of the Article ... 1469
4. Clause (1) 1469
5. Clause (1) (a) 1470
6. Clause (1) (a), Explanation—Before Constitution (Sixth Amendment) Act 1956... 1472
7. Sale and purchase in course of import and export—Clause (1) (b) 1488
8. Clause (2) — Inter-State sales — Before Constitution (Sixth Amendment) Act, 1956 1500
9. Clause (2), Proviso—Before Constitution (Sixth Amendment) Act, 1956 ... 1507
10. Clause (2)—Inter-State sales—After Constitution (Sixth Amendment) Act, 1956 1508

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA, Art. 285 (contd.) — Pages

11. Clause (3) — Sale of essential commodities 1510
12. Validity of sales-tax laws — Illustrative cases 1513

—Article 288 1514
—Article 289 1514
—Article 291 1517
—Article 294 1518
—Article 295 1520
—Article 296 1523
—Article 297 1523
—Article 298 1524
—Article 299
1. Analogous law 1525
2. Scope and applicability 1525
3. Contract must be executed by proper authority 1527
4. Oral contract 1527
5. Formal document, whether necessary ... 1527
6. Contract by correspondence—Validity ... 1528
7. Non-compliance—Effect 1528
8. Relief under Contract Act, S. 65 ... 1529
9. Relief under Contract Act, S. 70 ... 1530
10. Ratification 1530
11. Contracts made in the exercise of executive power 1531
12. Contract of service 1531
13. Immunities in favour of the President, Governor or Rajpramukh 1532

—Article 300
1. Scope, object and applicability ... 1533
2. In what cases suit will be against Government—General principles 1534
3. Suits on contracts 1538
4. Suits on torts 1538
5. Act of State 1538
6. "Can sue or be sued" 1539
7. Writ proceedings 1539
8. Contempt of Court 1539
9. Proceedings pending at commencement of the Constitution 1539
10. States 1539
11. Personal exemption of President or Governor 1540
12. State as juristic person 1540
13. Crown, when bound by statute ... 1540
14. Duty of the executive to obey the law ... 1540
15. Suit against the railway 1540
16. Local jurisdiction 1540

A. I. R. PUBLICATIONS

By

CHITALEY & RAO

BOOKS Under Print

(1) FIFTEEN YEARS' DIGEST (1951 to 1965) (Includes also cases of 1950) (Civil, Criminal & Revenue) (in 13 Volumes.)

Vols. I to III already despatched. Vol. IV under despatch.

(2) TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT — (4th— 1967 — Edn.) (3 Vols.)

Ready for Despatch

1. CIVIL P. C. — (7th—1963—Edn.) (in 4 Vols.)
2. LIMITATION ACT — (4th — 1965 — Edn.) (2 Vols.)
3. CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE — (6th — 1966 — Edn.) (3 Vols.)

JOURNALS :

ALL INDIA REPORTER
CRIMINAL LAW JOURNAL

A. I. R. Back sets (only available sets)
Cr. L. J. Back sets (only available sets)

Quotations on request. Supply will be made subject to previous engagements.
Money payable at Nagpur.

Sales Manager,

All India Reporter Ltd.,

(Post Box No. 56) NAGPUR 1.

NOT AVAILABLE FROM ANY BOOKSELLER.

Very few sets in stock

FIFTY YEARS' DIGEST (1901–1950)

CONSOLIDATED DIGEST

OF

Civil, Criminal & Revenue Cases

A unique publication to commemorate Fifty Years Case Law of India.

IN FOURTEEN VOLUMES

Indispensable to every Lawyer

Limited number of copies in stock. Please reserve your set with the Representatives or with :—

DIGEST PUBLICATIONS

A. I. R. Buildings, Congress Nagar,

NAGPUR 1.

THE FIFTEEN YEARS' DIGEST 1951-1965

(CIVIL, CRIMINAL & REVENUE)

VOLUME 4

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA (1950)—contd.

ARTICLE 19

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India (1950), Art. 19)

1. Scope and applicability.
- (a) Infringement of fundamental rights — Remedy.
- (b) Suspension of fundamental right.
- (c) Waiver.

See also Ibid, Note 7.

2. "Police powers."

3. This article and Art. 21.

See also Ibid, Note 41.

4. This article and Art. 31.
- (a) Illustrative cases.

5. Rights which are not fundamental.

6. Conflicting rights.

7. Contracting out of fundamental rights.

See also, Ibid, Note 1 (c).

8. Infringement of right by private individuals.

9. Construction of laws restricting fundamental rights.

10. Citizens.
- (a) Corporations and companies.
- (b) Foreigners and foreign companies.
- (c) Citizenship Act and Rules thereunder.

11. "Rights."

12. Who can raise question of unconstitutionality.

13. Retrospective effect.

14. Onus.

15. Restrictions on the fundamental rights.
- (a) Reasonableness of restrictions — Tests.
- (b) Article 19 (2).
- (c) Article 19 (3).
- (d) Article 19 (4).
- (e) Article 19 (5).
- (f) Article 19 (6).

16. "Interests of the general public."

See also Ibid, Note 15.

17. "Public order."

18. "Restriction" — Meaning of.

See also Ibid, Note 15.

19. "Existing law."

See also Ibid, Art. 254.

20. Clause (1) (a) — (General).

21. Freedom of the press.

See also Ibid, Notes 22, 26, 27, 28.

22. Pre-censorship.

23. Security of the State.

See also Ibid, Note 25.

24. Sedition.

25. Promoting enmity between classes.

26. Decency or morality.

27. Contempt of Court.

28. Defamation.

29. Incitement to offence.

30. The film as a medium of expression.

31. Loudspeakers, ban of.

32. Picketing, prohibition of.

33. Right to make demonstrations.

34. Restrictions on freedom of speech and expression — Miscellaneous examples.

35. Clause (1) (b) — (General).

36. Right to take out procession along highway.

37. Clause (1) (c) — (General).

38. Labour and trade unions.

39. Right of businessmen to form combinations.

40. Supersession of local board, municipality etc.

41. Clause (1) (d) — (General).

See also Ibid, Notes 3 and 45.

42. "Throughout the territory of India."

43. Externment and internment orders.

44. Restrictions on entry into India.

45. Clause (1) (d) — Illustrative examples.

46. Clause (1) (e).

47. Clause (1) (f).

48. "Property."

See also Ibid, Note 4.

49. "Acquire."

See also Ibid, Note 4.

50. "Hold."

51. Taking away right of management of property etc.
    (a) Religious Endowments and Charitable Trusts Act.
    (b) Court of Wards Acts.
52. Control of accommodation and rents.
53. Tenancy laws.
54. Pre-emption.
55. Acquisition of lands.
    See also Ibid, Note 4.
56. Restraint on alienation.
    See also Ibid, Note 54.
57. Evacuee property legislation.
58. Debt laws.
59. Clause (1) (f) — Illustrative examples — Valid restrictions.
60. Clause (1) (f) — Illustrative examples — Invalid restrictions.
61. Prohibition law.
62. Clause (1) (g)—(General).
63. Practice any profession.
64. Carry on any occupation, etc.
65. Legal profession — Restrictions as to.
    See also Ibid, Note 73.
66. Licence, requirement of.
67. Trade restrictions.
    (a) By Shops and Establishments Acts.
        See Ibid, Note 70.
    (b) By Municipal and Local Boards Acts.
    (c) By Control Orders.
    (d) By Agricultural Produce Markets Acts.
    (e) By Police Acts.
    (f) By other statutes.
68. Price control.
69. Monopolies.
    See also Ibid, Note 74.
70. Labour laws.
    See also Ibid, Note 71.
    (a) Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952).
    (b) Minimum Wages Act (1948).
    (c) Shops and Establishments Acts.
    (d) Other Acts.
71. Industrial Disputes Acts.
72. Clause (1) (g) — Illustrative examples.
73. Clause (6) (i) — Professional or technical qualifications.
    See also Ibid, Note 65.
74. Clause (6) (ii) — Transport business — General.
    (a) Motor Vehicles Act (1939).
    (b) State Acts and Rules.
75. Taxation laws — General.
    (a) Income Tax Acts.
    (b) Sales Tax Acts.
    (c) Miscellaneous.
76. Right to strike.

1. Scope and applicability.
    (a) Infringement of fundamental rights — Remedy.
    (b) Suspension of fundamental right.
    (c) Waiver.
    See also Ibid, Note 7.

1. Scope and applicability.

● —— Art. 19 — (Mad.) Vexatious Litigation (Prevention) Act (Mad. Act 8 of 1949)—Validity—Right of citizens to seek redress in a Court of law not affected —Act does not contravene Arts. 14 and 19—See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1965 S C 1827.

● —— Art. 19 (1) (g)— Confiscation of imported goods and penalties imposed by order made under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act, 1878 — Order passed by authority with jurisdiction under valid Act — Order cannot be challenged as being repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) on sole ground that it is based on misconstruction of provision of law—Petition questioning validity of order does not lie under Art. 32. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1963 S C 734.

● —— Art. 19—Scope — The fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution are not absolute rights but are subject to the restrictions placed in the subsequent clauses of Art. 19. A I R 1952 S C 196, Rel. on. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (S C) 154 : (1961) Mad L J (Cr) 297 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 16 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 S C D 597 : 1961 Andh L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (890) (Pt E) (Pr 24).

● —— Art. 19—Scope —If controls Art. 194—Art. 194 not subject to Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 194. AIR 1959 S C 395.

● —— Art. 19 and Art 31 — Act of State — No State Government has a right to do anything in the nature of an Act of State. Virendra Singh v. State of U. P., 1954 S C J 705 : 1955 S C R 415 : 1954 S C A 686 : (1954) 2 M L J 369 : AIR 1954 S C 447 (449) (Pt B) (Prs. 5, 6).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 S C 1043.]

● —— Art. 19—Interpretation of - Article guarantees to citizens enjoyment of civil liberties while they are free.

Per Patanjali Sastri, J.—Read as a whole and viewed in its setting among the group of provisions (Arts. 19-22) relating to "Right to Freedom," Art. 19 pre-supposes that the citizen to whom the possession of these fundamental rights are secured retains the substratum of personal freedom on which alone the enjoyment of these rights necessarily rests. But where, as a penalty for committing a crime or otherwise, the citizen is lawfully deprived of his freedom, there could no longer be any question of his exercising or enforcing the rights referred to in Cl. (1). Deprivation of personal liberty in such a situation is not, within the purview of Art. 19 at all but is dealt with by the succeeding Arts. 20 and 21. In other words, Art. 19 guarantees to the citizens the enjoyment of certain civil liberties while they are free, while Arts. 20-22 secure to all persons—citizens and non-citizens — certain constitutional guarantees in regard to punishment and prevention of crime.

Per Das, J.—The freedom of the person is not the result of Art. 19. Article 19 only deals with certain particular rights which, in their origin and inception, are attributes of the freedom of the person but being of great importance are regarded as specific and independent rights. It does not deal with the freedom of the person as such. Article 19 (1) (d) protects a specific aspect of the right of free locomotion, namely, the right to move freely throughout the territory of India which is regarded as a special privilege or right of an Indian citizen and is protected as such. The protection of Art. 19 is co-terminous with the legal capacity of a citizen to exercise the rights protected thereby, for sub-cls. (a) to (e) and (g) of Art. 19 (1) postulate the freedom of the person which alone can ensure the capacity to exercise the rights protected by those sub-clauses. A citizen who loses the freedom of his person by being lawfully detained, whether as a result of a conviction for an offence or as a result of preventive detention loses his capacity to exercise those rights and, therefore, has none of the rights which sub-cls. (a) to (e) and (g) may protect. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383: 1950 S C R 88 :1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (69, 70, 113, 114) (Pt K) (Prs. 102, 225).

● —Arts. 19, 20 to 22— Interpretation of—Article 19 gives list of individual liberties, while Arts. 20 to 22 primarily deal with penal or other laws.

Per B. K. Mukherjea, J.—Article 19 of the Constitution of India gives a list of individual liberties and prescribes in the various clauses the restraints that may be placed upon them by law, so that they may not conflict with public welfare or general morality. On the other hand, Arts. 20, 21 and 22 are primarily concerned with penal enactments or other laws under which personal safety or liberty of persons could be taken away in the interests of the society and they set down the limits within which State control should be exercised. Article 19 uses the expression 'freedom' and mentions the several forms and aspects of it which are secured to individuals, together with the limitations that could be placed upon them in the general interests of the society. Articles 20, 21 and 22 on the other hand do not make use of the expression 'freedom' and they lay down the restrictions that are to be placed on State control where an individual is sought to be deprived of his life or personal liberty. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (93) (Pt L) (Pr 171).

—Art. 19 — Scope — U. P. Police Regulations, para. 228 — Power under — Not unchartered or unregulated — Opening of history sheet — When affects Art. 19.

Power under para. 228 of U. P. Police Regulations is justified because the exercise of such a power is necessary in the interest of society. The power cannot be said to be unchartered or an unregulated power which is capable of being used chimerically by the police. Prima facie neither the opening of any history sheet, nor having surveillance of, a citizen can affect the freedom of speech and expression, nor can it touch the citizen's right to acquire, hold and dispose of property, nor even his right to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business.

A bona fide opening of history sheet in accordance with the provisions of the Police Regulation is not per se invasion on the freedoms guaranteed to a citizen. Where, however, the police publicises the fact that they had opened a history sheet of a certain citizen or had put a certain citizen under surveillance, the citizen should have the adequate remedy, but where the police maintained a history sheet in accordance with the provisions of the police regulations then such maintenance of a history sheet cannot be said to affect that reputation of the citizen which the law thinks just and proper to protect. AIR 1962 All 216, Approved. ILR (1963) 1 All 289 : 1963 All L J 590 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 241 : AIR 1963 All 408 (410, 411) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 13) (DB).

—Art. 19—Direction by Chief Justice, if contravenes the article. See U. P. High Courts (Amalgamation) Order (1948), Cl. 8 (2), Second Proviso, Cl. 18. AIR 1962 All 391 (DB).

● —Art. 19—Applicability — Income-tax Act, S. 34 (1-A)—Proceedings under —Subjective satisfaction of authority concerned necessary for purpose of initiating proceedings—Art. 19 cannot apply at initial stage, See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1960 All 19 (FB).

—Art. 19—Applicability — Infringement of fundamental right — Effect of. See Sales Tax — U. P. Sales Tax Act (15 of 1948), S. 28 (3). (1957) 8 S T C 795 (All).

— Arts. 19 and 14—U. P. Pure Food Act (1950), S. 10 — U. P. Pure Food Rules (1952), R. 18 — Presumption under S. 10 not conclusive but rebuttable — Section does not contravene Art. 14 or Art. 19—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 3, 4) See U. P. Pure Food Act (32 of 1950), S. 10. AIR 1956 All 520.

—Art. 19—Scope—Freedom of speech or movement —Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3.

Right of freedom of speech or movement or any right under Art. 19 of the Constitution is exercisable only if the same has not been curtailed or obviated pursuant to some lawful order. If, therefore, the detention is lawful under the Preventive Detention Act, rights of speech or movement under Art. 19 ceases : (1950) 2 M L J 42 : 1950 S C J 174: AIR 1950 SC 27, Relied on. 63 Punj L R 242 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 547 (551) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

—Art. 19—Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), Sch. I. Item 9 (1)—Unmanufactured tobacco other than flue cured—Levy of duty—Stage at which it can be levied—Reduction of duty ex-gratia—Art. 14 or 19 of Constitution not applicable. 61 Pun L R 154 : AIR 1959 Punj 357 (359, 360) (Prs 8, 13).

—Art. 19—Scope.

Article 19 of the Constitution which guarantees the seven freedoms in the citizens of India was not intended to lay down any new or novel rules of Government but simply embodies the principles which have crystallised themselves into fundamental law by the lapse of time. 58 Punj L R 464 : 1957 Cri L J 88 : 1957 All W R (Supp) 21 : ILR (1957) Punj 218 : AIR 1957 Punj 1(3) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

1 (a). Infringement of fundamental rights—Remedy.

● —Art. 19—Khorposh grants to junior members of the family of Rulers of Native States first in the shape of lands but ultimately assuming shape of money allowances payable at regular intervals—States merging in Dominion of India— Before coming into force of the Constitution Government by their order stopping the grants — Junior members entering into prolonged correspondence with Government insisting upon their rights under the grants by the former Rulers—Members realising only in 1957 that revision of the Government's policy cannot be hoped for. Held that every periodic deprivation of money allowance would give such members a right to approach the Court for relief. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1962 S C 1288.

● —Art. 19—Scope—Interference with fundamental rights to property by executive action without any authority of specific rule of law—Issue of writ—Person building on State land with permission of Government— Position of. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32, AIR 1961 S C 1570.

● —Art. 19 — Petition challenging constitutionality of Madras Act 32 of 1955 on ground of infringement of fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 (1) — Dispute held not to be of private nature — Petition maintainable. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1959 S C 725.

● —Art. 19 — Applicability — Respondent, whether can complain of violation of fundamental right.

A respondent cannot be allowed to complain of a violation of his fundamental right, apart from and independently of the appellant where all along the line, the respondent has preferred to sail with the appellant, but figuring as a respondent only. Sewpujanrai Indrasanrai Ltd. v. Collector of Customs, 1958 Cr L J 1355; 1958 S C J 1199 : 1958 M L J (Cr) 929 : 1959 S C R 821 : AIR 1958 S C 845 (856, 857) (Pt J) (Pr 26).

——Art. 19 — Applicability — Mandamus — Police opening history sheet and watching movement of petitioner — Action in accordance with Police Regulation — Not a violation of freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 — Court will refuse to interfere with the action of police as such interference would be putting in jeopardy the safety of the community at large in the locality. See Ibid, Art. 226. 1963 (2) Cr L J 201 (All).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 226 — Confiscation of petitioner's property under R. 151 (c) of Central Excise Rules — Confiscation unlawful—Restriction in exercise of fundamental right — Cognizance of writ petition though other remedies are available — Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 151 (c) — (Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), S. 36). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1960 All 402.

——Art. 19 — Deprivation of personal liberty under Statute by preventive or punitive detention — Constitutionality of Statute, if can be challenged on ground of infringement of Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1955 All 193 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Section 3, Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act, 1946, declared as constitutional by Supreme Court — High Court cannot enter into question of validity of S. 3 (4), even on grounds not alleged before Supreme Court. See Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3 (4). AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3594.

——Art. 19 — Restrictions on the right of free movement — Justiciability — Assam Opium Prohibition Act (23 of 1947), S. 17.

The validity of the legislation permitting restrictions on the right to move freely throughout the territory of India is justiciable. It is open to the Courts to consider the reasonableness of the restrictions. It is also open to the Court to examine the procedure to be followed before any restrictions on the right to move freely throughout the territory of India can be imposed. AIR 1950 S C 211, Foll. 52 Cri L J 966 : ILR (1951) 3 Assam 181 : A I R 1951 Assam106 (117) (Pt K) (Pr 70) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to apply under. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1962 Andh-Pra 363.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Fundamental rights violated — Question of alternative remedy as a bar does not arise. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1965 Cal 236.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Form of and contents in petition under Art. 226 — Allegation of infringement of fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f) — Omission to mention is immaterial. AIR 1953 Him-Pra 95 (99) (Pt C) (Pr 16).

——Arts. 19 (1), 32 and 226—Infringement of fundamental right—Remedy other than one under Art. 226 is not open. AIR 1953 Him.Pra 8 (10) (Pt B) (Pr 13).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Right to hold property — Unauthorised interference by executive — It is actionable wrong. AIR 1953 NUC (Hyd) 417.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 32 and 226 — Rights to property — Executive interference — Powers of High Courts and Supreme Court indicated. AIR 1955 NUC (Hyd) 417.

——Art. 19 — Applicability — Validity of Notification — Notification not properly interpreted by Registering authority — Remedy is against officer and not under Art. 19.

The notification published in the daily newspaper 'Sandesh' Jammu on 25th April, 1959 cannot be construed to mean that the motor vehicles which are under repair in the petitioner's garage are to leave the garage without the repairs having been executed. The fact that the officer is not carrying out the directions in the notification properly would not make the notification liable to be challenged. AIR 1959 J and K 141 (143) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 18) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 — Discretion of High Court under Art. 226 — Petitioner after enjoying right to vend meat under auction (of such right by local body) for full term challenging validity of auction under Art. 19 (1) (g) in writ petition — High Court not justified in exercising its discretion under Art. 226 in petitioner's favour. Observations of Bhagwati, J., in AIR 1959 S C 149, Rel. on. AIR 1957 Ker 85, Disting. 1961 Ker L T 159 : AIR 1961 Ker 289 (290) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 — Scope of—Cancellation of gun licence — Effect on fundamental right of citizen to hold property—Application under Art. 226—Competency, See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1957 Mad 692.

——Art. 19 — Scope—Revision petitioner questioning order under S. 144 which was against public generally on the ground of trespass on his fundamental rights under Art. 19 of Constitution — Powers of High Court. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144. 1961 (1) Cr L J 676 : AIR 1961 Manipur 12.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 — Mandamus — Writ can issue prohibiting authority to do certain thing — Infringement of fundamental right to carry on trade by stopping movement of foodgrains - Issue of mandamus. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1956 Manipur 13.

——Art. 19—Citizen deported—Compliance required within 3 days—Writ application, if can be entertained —Another remedy, under Foreigners Act or Citizenship Act. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1959 Punj 261.

——Arts. 19, 226, 301—Articles in transit seized by police officer - Articles suspected to be stolen property—Arts. 19 and 301 do not apply — High Court will not interfere under Art. 226.

Article 19 of the Constitution does not apply in the case of articles seized under S. 550, Criminal P. C., the articles being suspected to be stolen property and found being taken away out of one district to another in the night. Freedom of trade does not extend to protect actions which are suspected to be offences. Nor does Art. 301 of the Constitution authorise what is sought to be justified by the petitioner whose articles were seized. And as none of the conditions calling for an exercise of inherent or extraordinary jurisdiction exist in such a case the High Court will not interfere with the order of seizure of the articles by issuing any writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1960 S C 866, Applied. 1963 Raj L W 30.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 226—Mandamus—Petitioner wrongfully deprived of his property by executive authority — Mandamus against executive. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1956 Tripura 9.

1 (b). Suspension of fundamental rights.

● ——Art. 19—Scope—Emergency proclaimed— Suspension of provisions of Art. 19— Scope of Art. 358. See Ibid, Art. 358. AIR 1963 Assam 94 (FB).

1(c). Waiver.

See also Ibid, Note 7.

——Arts. 19, 31, 226—Government order contravening fundamental right—Conduct acquiescing in the order—Order challenged as ultra vires as contravening the right — Waiver of fundamental right—See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1953 Pepsu 9.

——Art. 19—There can be no waiver of fundamental rights by a party and mere laches will not deprive him of that right. 62 Pun L R 612: AIR 1960 Pun 439 (444) (Pt E) (Pr 10).

2. "Police powers."

● ——Art. 19—Reasonable restrictions.

Cls. (2) to (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution may be said to be a somewhat partial codification of the police powers known to the American Constitutional Law. The expressions 'reasonable restrictions' and 'in the interests of the general public' in Cl. (5) of Art. 19 undoubtedly enable the Courts to construe the rights conferred by sub-Cls. (d), (e) and (f) of Cl. (1) of the article in such a manner as to make them accord with social needs and economic and other interests of the community at large. S. Sant Singh v. State of J & K. AIR 1959 J & K 35 (47) (Pt F) (Pr 35) (FB).

3. This Article and Art. 21.

See also Ibid, Note 41.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (d) and 21—U. P. Police Regulations, Reg. 236, Cl. (b)—Domiciliary visits—Meaning of—Such visits do not affect fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (d) but they affect personal liberty contemplated by Art. 21.

Domiciliary means 'of a dwelling place'. A domiciliary visit is a visit of officials to search or inspect a private house. It is clear that having regard to the plain meaning of the words 'domiciliary visits', the police authorities are authorised to enter the premises of the suspect, knock at the door and have it opened and search it for the purpose of ascertaining his presence in the house.

Per Majority—The intrusion into the residence of a citizen and the knocking at his door with the disturbance to his sleep and ordinary comfort which such action must necessarily involve, does not constitute a violation of the freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d). But they are a deprivation of the personal liberty guaranteed by Art. 21, as an unauthorised intrusion into a person's home and disturbance caused to him thereby, is as it were the violation of a common law right of a man an ultimate essential of ordered liberty, if not of the very concept of civilisation.

Per Subba Rao and Shah, JJ.—The freedom of movement in Cl. (d) of Art. 19 (1) must be a movement in a free country, i.e., in a country where a citizen can do whatever he likes, speak to whomsoever he wants, meet people of his own choice without any apprehension, subject of course to the law of social control. The petitioner suspect under the shadow of surveillance is certainly deprived of this freedom. He can move physically, but he cannot do so freely, for all his activities are watched and noted. Hence, the entire Regulation 236 offends also Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 329 : AIR 1963 S C 1295 (1303, 1306) (Pt A) (Prs 22, 32).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) and Art 21—Freedom of movement and personal liberty — Scope of these provisions—Their relation inter se.

Per Majority : In Art. 21 of the Constitution of India as contrasted with the 4th and 14th Amendments in the U. S., the word 'liberty' is qualified by the word 'personal' and therefore its content is narrower. But the qualifying adjective has been employed in order to avoid overlapping between those elements or incidents of 'liberty', like freedom of speech, or freedom of movement, etc., already dealt with in Art. 19 (1) and the 'liberty' guaranteed by Art. 21—and particularly in the context of the difference between the permissible restraints or restrictions which might be imposed by sub cls. (2) to (6) of the Article on the several species of liberty dealt with in the several clauses of Art. 19 (1).

The words 'personal liberty' in Art. 21 are used as a compendious term to include within itself all the varieties of rights which go to make up the 'personal liberties' of man other than those dealt with in the several clauses of Art. 19 (1). In other words, while Art. 19 (1) deals with particular species or attributes of that freedom, 'personal liberty' in Art. 21 takes in and comprises the residue.

Per Subba Rao and Shah, JJ.—The provisions in Art. 19 (1) (d) and Art. 21 are distinct fundamental rights. No doubt the expression 'personal liberty' is a comprehensive one and the right to move freely is an attribute of personal liberty. Both are independent fundamenal rights though there is overlapping. The fundamental right of life and personal liberty have many attributes and some of them are found in Art. 19. If a person's fundamental right under Art. 21 is infringed, the State can rely upon a law to sustain the action; but that cannot be a complete answer unless the said law satisfies the test laid down in Art. 19 (2) so far as the attributes covered by Art. 19 (1) are concerned. In other words, the State must satisfy that both the fundamental rights are not infringed by showing that there is a law and that it does amount to a reasonable restriction within the meaning of Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution, Kharak Singh v State of U P. 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 329 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : AIR 1963 S C 1295 (1301, 1302, 1305) (Pt G) (Prs 15, 17, 30).

● ——Arts. 19, 21 and 31 — Interpretation — 'Law' —Meaning of—Articles are not in pari materia.

In (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 1950 S C J 174 : AIR 1950 S C 27 the Supreme Court rejected the plea that law made under Art. 21 shall not infringe Art. 19 (1). But the word 'law' as used in Art. 31 (1) cannot be interpreted in the way it was interpreted in construing Art. 21 in that decision, for there is no analogy between Art. 21, as interpreted by the Supreme Court in that decision and Art. 31 (1). Arts. 19, 21 and 31 are not in pari materia and they differ in their scope and content. There is material difference not only in the phraseology but also in their setting. Art. 19 cannot be construed on the basis of the construction placed upon Art. 21 in AIR 1950 S C 27. Both Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) deal with the same subject, namely, property. While under Art. 19 (1) (f), a citizen has the right to acquire hold and dispose of property, Art. 31 (1) enables the State to make a law to deprive him of that property. Such a law directly infringes the fundamental right given under Art. 19 (1) (f). Art. 31 (1) does not exclude the operation of Art 19 (1). AIR 1950 S C 27, Dist Kochuni v. States of Madras and Kerala, 1960 Ker L J 1077 : 1960 Ker L T (S C) 31 : (1960) 2 S C A 412 : (1960) 3 S C R 887 : (1961) 2 S C J 443 : AIR 1960 S C 1080 (1092, 1093) (Pt G) (Prs 25, 26).

● ——Arts. 19, 21, and 22 — Scope of—Detention of persons for preventing them from making speeches prejudicial to maintenance of public order — Legality — Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3.

Although personal liberty has a content sufficiently comprehensive to include the freedoms enumerated in Art. 19 (1) and its deprivation would result in the extinction of those freedoms, the Constitution has treated these civil liberties as distinct, fundamental rights and made separate provisions in

Art. 19 and Arts. 21 and 22 as to the limitations and conditions subject to which alone they could be taken away or abridged. A law which authorises deprivation of personal liberty does not fall within the purview of Art. 19 and its validity is not to be judged by the criteria indicated in that Article but depends on its compliance with the requirements of Arts. 21 & 22.

Article 19 clearly means that the legislation to be examined must be directly in respect of one of the rights mentioned in the sub-clauses. If there is a legislation directly attempting to control a citizen's freedom of speech or expression, or his right to assemble peaceably and without arms, etc., the question whether that legislation is saved by the relevant saving clause of Art. 19 will arise. If, however, the legislation is not directly in respect of any of these subjects, but as a result of the operation of other legislation, for instance, for punitive or preventive detention, his right under any of these subclauses is abridged, the question of the application of Art. 19 does not arise. The true approach is only to consider the directness of the legislation and not what will be the result of the detention otherwise valid, on the mode of the detenu's life.

It therefore clearly follows that the order of detention under S. 3 of the Preventive Detention Act, 1950, preventing certain person from making speeches prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order is valid even though it has the result of abridging his right under Art. 19 (1) (a) by such detention. AIR 1950 S C 27, Foll. AIR 1950 S C 124 and AIR 1950 S C 129, Ref. Ram Singh v. State of Delhi, 1951 Mad W N 765 : 52 Cri L J 904 : 1951 S C J 374 : 1951 All L J (S C Supp.) 111 : 1951 Mad W N Cr 233 : 1951 S C R 451 : AIR 1951 S C 270 (272) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6).

● ——Arts. 19 and 21 — Art. 19 is a separate complete article.

Per Kania C. J. — It is improper to read Art. 19 as dealing with the same subject as Art. 21. Article 19 gives the rights specified therein, only to the citizens of India while Art. 21 is applicable to all persons. The word 'citizen' is expressly defined in the Constitution to indicate only a certain section of the inhabitants of India. Moreover, the protection given by Art. 21 is very general. It is of "law" — whatever that expression is interpreted to mean. The legislative restrictions on the law-making powers of the legislature are not here prescribed in detail as in the case of the rights specified in Art. 19. Therefore Art. 19 should be read as a separate complete Article. A. K. Gopalan v State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127: AIR 1950 S C 27 (37) (Pt N) (Pr 12).

● ——Art. 19—Preventive detention, whether article applies to.

Per Kania, C. J., B. K. Mukherjea and Das, JJ. — Article 19 has no application to a legislation dealing with preventive or punitive detention as its direct object. A K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (36, 96, 113, 114) (Pt O) (Prs 8, 176, 225).

● ——Arts. 19 and 21 — Articles are not complementary to each other.

Per B. K Mukherjea, J.—Article 19 cannot be said to deal with substantive law merely, nor Art. 21 with mere matters of procedure. It cannot also be said that the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (d) read with cl. (5) and Art. 21 are complementary to each other. The contents and subject-matter of the two provisions are not identical and they proceed on totally different principles. There is no mention of any 'right to life' in Art. 19, although that is the primary and the most important thing for which provision is made in Art. 21. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950) S C 27 (94) (Pt P) (Pr 172).

——Arts. 19, 21 and 22 — Constitution, recognition by, of personal liberties.

Per Das, J. — The Constitution has recognised personal liberties as fundamental rights. It has guaranteed some of them under Art. 19 (1) but put restraints on them by Cls. (2) to (6). It has put checks on the State's legislative powers by Arts. 21 and 22. It has, by providing for preventive detention, recognised that individual liberty may be subordinated to the larger social interests. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (108, 109) (Pt Q) (Pr 215).

● ——Arts. 19 and 21—"Personal liberty", connotation of.

Per Das, J. — The Constitution has in Art. 21 used the words "personal liberty" which have a definite connotation in law. "Personal liberty" does not mean only liberty of the person but it means liberty or the rights attached to the person (jus personarum). The expressions "freedom of life" or "personal liberty" are not to be found in Art. 19 and it is straining the language of Art. 19 to squeeze in personal liberty into that Article. In any case the right to life cannot be read into Art. 19. There is no reason to suppose that in Art. 21 of the Constitution the expression 'personal liberty' has been used in the restricted sense in which Blackstone used it in his Commentaries. Article 19 protects some of the important attributes of personal liberty as independent rights and the expression 'personal liberty' has been used in Art. 21 as a compendious term including within its meaning all the varieties of rights which go to make up the personal liberties of men. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (110, 111) (Pt R) (Prs 219, 220).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d), Art. 19 (5) and Art. 21—Deprivation of movement whether includes restriction on movement.

Per Kania, C. J. — Deprivation (total loss) of personal liberty, which is sought to be protected by the expression "personal liberty" in Art. 21, is quite different from restriction (which is only a partial control) of the right to move freely (which is relatively a minor right of a citizen) as safeguarded by Art. 19 (1) (d). Deprivation of personal liberty has not the same meaning as restriction of free movement in the territory of India. Therefore, Art. 19 (5) cannot apply to a substantive law depriving a citizen of personal liberty. The contention that the word 'deprivation' includes within its scope 'restriction' when interpreting Art. 21 is not acceptable.

Per Fazl Ali, J. Contra. — Preventive detention amounts to a complete deprivation of the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d). It is highly technical to argue that deprivation of a right cannot be said to involve restriction on the exercise of the right. Having regard to the context in which the word 'restriction' has been used, there is no antithesis between that word and the word 'deprivation'. Restraint on the right to move can assume a variety of forms and restriction would be the most appropriate expression to be used in Cl. (5) of Art. 19 so as to cover all those forms ranging from total to various kinds of partial deprivation of freedom of movement. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (37, 51) (Pt T) (Prs 12, 51).

●——Arts. 19, 21 and 22—Articles whether supplemental or exclusive.

Per Kania, C. J.—Article 21 has to be read as supplemented by Art. 22. Reading in that way, the proper mode of construction will be that to the extent the procedure is prescribed by Art. 22 the same is to be observed; otherwise Art. 21 will apply.

Per Fazl Ali, J. — Article 22 does not exclude the operation of Arts. 19 and 21, and it must be read subject to those two articles, in the same way as Arts. 19 and 21 must be read subject to Art. 22. The correct position is that Art. 22 must prevail in so far as there are specific provisions therein regarding preventive detention, but, where there are no such provisions in that article, the operation of Arts. 19 and 21 cannot be excluded.

Per Mahajan, J. — Article 22 is self-contained in respect of the laws on the subject of preventive detention. Article 19 (5) is a saving and an enabling provision. It empowers Parliament to make a law imposing reasonable restriction on the right of freedom of movement while Art. 22 (7) is another enabling provision empowering Parliament to make a law on the subject of preventive detention in certain circumstances. If a law conforms to the conditions laid down in Art. 22 (7), it would be a good law and it could not have been intended that that law validly made should also conform itself to the provision of Art. 19 (5). One enabling provision cannot be considered as a safeguard against another enabling provision. Article 13 (2) has absolutely no application in such a situation. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174: 51 Cri L J 1383: 1950 S C R 88: 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (40, 61, 82, 83) (Pt ZC) (Prs 22, 78, 137, 138).

——Art. 19 and Art. 22—Article 19 does not apply to preventive detention — Articles 21 and 22 are complete in this matter. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 4507.

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), (5) and 21 — Validity of Section 7, Police Act (1861).

Article 19 (1) (d) has to be read with Article 21 which lays down that a person may be deprived of his personal liberty according to procedure established by law, which means valid law. Section 7 of the Police Act 1861 is valid law being saved by Article 19 (5). The restriction imposed by S. 7 is reasonable and is necessary in the interest of the general public. AIR 1950 S C 27, Foll. I L R (1955) 2 Cal 28 : 58 C W N 18 : AIR 1954 Cal 60 (64) (Pt H) (Pr 53) (DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (d), 21—Refusal of passport amounts to an unauthorised deprivation of personal liberty—Passport Act (1920), S. 3. AIR 1954 Mad 240, held no longer good law in view of AIR 1959 S C 1315.

There is no statute in India governing the issue of a passport or a refusal thereof. There is, however, a statute requiring passports from persons entering India, the Indian Passport Act, 1920 and the Indian Passport Rules, 1950, framed under S. 3 of that Act.

The right to travel except to the extent provided in Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution, is within the ambit of the expression 'personal liberty' as used in Art. 21 of the Constitution. A passport is essential for the enjoyment of that right, therefore the denial of a passport amounts to a deprivation of that right. Article 21, no doubt, permits a deprivation by 'procedure established by law' but no such procedure is laid down by the Union of India. The expression 'procedure established by law', means procedure laid down by statute or procedure prescribed by the law of the State. In the absence of any procedure prescribed by the law of this country sustaining the refusal of a passport to a person, its refusal amounts to an unauthorised deprivation of the personal liberty guaranteed by Art. 21 and the appropriate authority must be directed to reconsider the refusal and grant a passport. AIR 1954 Mad 240, held no longer good law in view of A I R 1959 S C 1315.

Per Raman Nayar, J. — Confinement is but a particular form of restraint. Section 340 of the Indian Penal Code describes wrongful confinement as wrongfully restraining any person in a manner to prevent him from proceeding beyond certain circumscribing limits. Consequently, if freedom from confinement is a personal liberty within the meaning of Art. 21, freedom of movement to any particular direction of one's choice is also a personal liberty. AIR 1963 S C 1295 and AIR 1950 S C 27, Rel. on. Francis Manjooran v. Govt. of India, Ministry of External Affairs, New Delhi. 1965 Ker L J 919 : 1965 Ker L T 1076 : I L R (1966) 2 Ker 663 : AIR 1966 Ker 20 (21, 24, 25, 26, 32) (Prs 2, 3, 25, 27, 28, 36, 37, 55) (FB).

——Art. 19—Refusal to issue passport — Interference with right guaranteed by Article. See Ibid, Art. 14. (1953) 2 M L J 413 : AIR 1954 Mad 240 (DB).

[Held in AIR 1966 Ker 20 (FB) to be no longer law in view of AIR 1959 S C 1315.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), (2) and 22 — Interpretation — Liberty of persons —Arts. 19 (5), 21 and 22 providing for restriction — Interest of the general public or of the interests of any scheduled tribe — "Procedure established by law"—Scope of Art. 22 (7).

Article 19 (1) (d) creates the right in all citizens of India to freedom of moving throughout the territory of India and it is qualified by the provision in Art. 19 (5) for reasonable restrictions in the interest of general public or for the protection of the interest of any schedule tribe.

Article 21 provides against deprivation of life or personal liberty except "according to procedure prescribed by law."

The expression "according to procedure prescribed by law" is clarified in the Constitution; it means legislative enactment passed either by the Parliament or the State legislature which does not offend or is not revolting to, notions and ideas of the dignity of the human being and is neither indecent, unconscionable or repugnant to civilized beliefs. Article 22 prescribes one of the modes of depriving the personal liberty and it should be read as a proviso to Art. 21 If the same is followed in letter and spirit the Court cannot question the detention, otherwise the detention is unlawful.

"Any law" in Art. 22 (7) prima facie refers to only protective legislation and not to a "law in force" or "existing law" and the power of the Parliament (and that of the President under Art. 373) relate only to detentions under any law enacted in pursuance of and conformity with Art. 22 of the Constitution and not to detentions under any law existing prior to the Constitution. 1952 Cr L J 170 : AIR 1951 Mad 1015 (1025, 1040) (Pts H, I, J) (Prs 13, 19, 63) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) — Applicability to preventive detention legislation.

The principle of reasonable restriction or reasonableness of law imposing restriction upon the liberty of citizens has no application to the laws prescribing preventive detention. 17 Cut L T 109 : 52 Cri L J 679 : I L R (1951) Cut 387 : AIR 1951 Orissa 251 (254) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e), and (5) — Public Safety—Orissa Maintenance of Public Order Act (10 of 1950), Ss. 2 (1) (b) and 3 —Provisions, if void under Arts. 13 (2) and 21 of Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 13 (2). AIR 1951 Orissa 86 (DB).

——Arts. 19, 21 and 22—Relative scope of — Preventive Detention Act (4 of 1950) —If void as inconsistent with fundamental rights guaranteed by Constitution. See Preventive Detention Act. ('50) 29 Pat 502.

——Art. 19 — Scope — If concerned with personal liberty.

Per Meredith C. J. — Article 19 is not concerned with personal liberty at all. It is not concerned with the right of every one to personal liberty, which is separately laid down for every person in Art. 21. It is concerned only with the additional rights of citizens—rights described on the presupposition that they are at liberty. It is describing the rights of citizens who are legally at liberty, and not of those who may be imprisoned under a procedure established by law. Article 21 does not say that no person shall be deprived of his personal liberty except according to procedure established by a reasonable law. The limitation is in respect of laws, meaning all valid laws validly enacted and not merely such laws as the Courts decide to be, in their opinion, reasonable. I L R 29 Pat 461 : 52 Cri L J 610 : A I R 1950 Pat 332 (336) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

4. This article and Art. 31.

(a) Illustrative cases.

4. This article and Art. 31.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) — Art. 19 applies both to concrete and abstract rights of property—Such construction given to Art. 19 (1) (f) does not make Art. 31 (1) otiose.

The phraseology used in Art. 19 (1) (f) is wide and prima facie it takes in its sweep both abstract and concrete rights of property. To suggest that abstract rights of a citizen in property cannot be infringed by the State, but his concrete rights can be, is to deprive Art. 19 (1) (f) of its real content. It would mean that the State could not make a law declaring generally that a citizen cannot acquire, hold and dispose of property, but it could make a law taking away the property acquired or held by him and preventing him from disposing it of. Though there is no final expression of opinion by Supreme Court on this question, yet the Supreme Court and the High Courts all through since the date of promulgation of the Constitution proceeded on the assumption that Art. 19 applied to both the rights. It may, therefore, be held that Art. 19 applies both to concrete as well as to abstract rights of property. A I R 1951 S C 41 and A I R 1954 S C 282, Rel. on.

Such a construction given to Art. 19 (1) (f) does not make Art. 31 (1) otiose. Article 31 (1) is couched in a negative form. It says that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. In effect, it declares a fundamental right against deprivation of property by executive action, but it does not either expressly or by necessary implication take the law out of the limitations implicit in Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. The law in Art. 31 (1) must be a valid law and to be a valid law it must stand the test of other fundamental rights. A law, therefore, depriving a person of his property would be bad unless it amounts to a reasonable restriction in the interest of the general public or for the protection of the interests of Scheduled Tribes. Swami Motor Transport, Ltd. v. Sri Sankaraswamigal Mutt, (1964) 1 S C J 530 : (1964) 1 Mad L J (S C) 146 : (1964) 1 Andh W R (S C) 146 : (1963) Supp 1 S C R 282 : A I R 1963 S C 864 (872, 873) (Pt B) (Prs 28, 29).

● ——Art. 19 (1)—Scope—If excluded by Art. 31 (1).

After the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act (1955), Art. 31 (1) and (2) cannot be held as dealing with the same subject-matter but they deal with two different subjects ; Art. 31 (2) and (2-A) with acquisition and requisition and Art. 31 (1) with deprivation of property by authority of law. After that Act, 1955 S C J 10 : A I R 1955 S C 41 no longer holds the field and Art. 31 (1) does not exclude the operation of Art. 19 (1). A I R 1955 S C 41 and A I R 1954 S C 92, Dist. Kochuni v. States of Madras and Kerala, 1960 Ker L J 1077 : 1960 Ker L T (SC) 31 : (1960) 2 S C A 412 : (1960) 3 S C R 887 : (1961) 2 S C J 443 : A I R 1960 S C 1080 (1093, 1094) (Pt I) (Pr 27).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1)—These do not provide protection against private actions.

Neither Art. 19 (1) (f) nor Art. 31 (1) on its true construction was intended to prevent wrongful individual acts or to provide protection against merely private conduct. The language and structure of Art. 19 and its setting in Part III of the Constitution clearly show that the article was intended to protect those freedoms against State action other than in the legitimate exercise of its power to regulate private rights in the public interest. Violation of rights of property by individuals is not within the purview of the article.

The position is no better under Art. 31 (1). Even assuming that Cl. (1) of Art. 31 has to be read and construed apart from Cl. (2), it is clear that it is a declaration of the fundamental right of private property in the same negative form in which Art. 21 declares the fundamental right to life and liberty. There is no express reference to the State in Art. 21. But it cannot be suggested on that account that that article was intended to afford protection to life and personal liberty against violation by private individual. The words "except by procedure established by law" plainly exclude such a suggestion. Similarly, the words "save by authority of law" in Cl. (1) of Art. 31 show that it is a prohibition of unauthorised governmental action against private property, as there can be no question of one private individual being authorised by law to deprive another of his property. Quaere : Should Cl. (1) of Art. 31 be construed in isolation from the rest of the article ? 1950 S C R 869, Ref. Shamdasani P. D. v. The Central Bank of India Ltd., 1952 S C A 36 : 1952 S C J 29 : 1952 Mad W N 102 : 1952-1 Mad L J 423 : 65 Mad L W 357 : 1952 S C R 391 : 54 Pun L R 190 : 54 Bom L R 403 : A I R 1952 S C 59 (60) (Pr 5).

——Arts. 19 (1) and 31 (1)—(As amended in 1955)—Applicability—Whether mutually exclusive.

After the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955, Art. 31 (1) does not exclude the operation of Art. 19 (1), and even though the provisions of the impugned statute may not contravene Art. 31, yet they may still be unreasonable and contravene the provisions of Art. 19 (1). A I R 1960 S C 1080, Foll.; A I R 1955 S C 41, held no longer good law after the amendment of the Constitution in 1955. A I R 1962 All 521 (534) (Pt E) (Pr 47) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Relative scope and distinction.

Articles 19 (1) (f) and 31 deal with different subjects and cover different fields. Article 19 (1) (f) postulates the existence of a property which can be enjoyed and over which rights can be exercised. If there is no property which can be acquired, held or disposed of, no restrictions can be placed on the exercise of the right to acquire, hold or dispose of it. If the law is valid and saved under Art. 31 (5) the acquisition of the property will be justified under the law and once the property is acquired there is no property in respect of which the petitioner can claim the fundamental right to acquire, hold or dispose of it, nor can there be any occasion for placing any restriction on such a right. Clause (5) contains no provision for the payment of any compensation and while Art. 19 applies only to citizens, Art. 31 protects all persons from being deprived of their property save by authority of law. The acquisition of property is not subject of Art. 19 (1) (f) but of Art. 31. A I R 1958 All 126 (132, 133) (Pt I) (Prs 16, 18).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — If contravened by the U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (1 of 1951).

The acquisition of property is not the subject of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution but of Art. 31. If a person loses his property by reason of it having been compulsorily acquired under Art. 31 he loses his right to hold the property and cannot complain that his fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f) has been infringed. The provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f) are not contravened by the U. P. Act (1 of 1951). Suryapal Singh v. Government of Uttar Pradesh, 1951 All W R (H C) 317 : I L R (1952 2 All 46 : 1951 All L J 365 : A I R 1951 All 674 (690) (Pt P) (Pr 80) (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1)—Articles are different in scope and content — Art. 19 (1) (f) gives citizen right to acquire, hold and dispose of property — Art. 31 comes into play not only in case of citizen of India but in case of any person and only after property is acquired or held—Person acquiring rights of occupant before order cancelling patta – Art. 19 (1) (f) does not apply — (Bhopal Land Revenue Act (4 of 1932), S. 38). AIR 1955 NUC (Bhopal) 1784.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5), Art. 31 — Applicability — Landlord served with notice under municipal law to pull down building—Tenants challenging validity of municipal law — Compentency — (Municipalities — Bombay Municipal Corporation Act (III of 1888), Ss. 354, 66 (1) (c)—Constitutional validity of S. 354.

The landlord of the plaintiffs in occupation of a building was served with a notice under S. 354, Bombay Municipal Corporation Act, requiring him to pull down the house. The plaintiffs brought a suit saying that by reason of the notice their rights to hold the property as tenants under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution were affected and the restriction sought to the placed by S. 354 of the Bombay Act was not reasonable.

Held (i) that the right of the plaintiffs as tenants was the right to hold the property and not the right to dispose of the property,

(ii) In view of the fact that the property had been ordered to be pulled down, the case was one of deprivation of property. Art. 19 (1) (f) could not clearly apply because the question of the applicability of Art 19 (5) would arise only in cases where the applicability of Art. 19 (1) (f) would arise. In point of fact, Art. 19 (1) (f) was controlled by Art. 19 (1) (5). Art. 19 (1) (f) had therefore no application and Art. 31 would apply. Appeal No 67 of 1955, dated 20th April, 1956 (Bom.), Foll.

(iii) The restriction imposed was a reasonable restriction in the interests of public safety. S. 354 was not, therefore, open to challenge in view of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. The view of the authority acting under S. 354 was also open to correction under S. 66 (1) (c) of the Bombay Municipal Corporation Act. Spl. Civ. App. No. 233 of 1956, dated 18-9-1956 (Bom), Rel. on. 60 Bom L R 515 : I.L R (1958) Bom 824 : AIR 1959 Bom 332 (337, 338, 339, 341, 342) (Pt B) (Prs 16, 17, 18, 30) (DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31—Deprivation of property—Article applicable is Art. 31 and not Art. 19 (1) (f).

When property is requisitioned, the person against whom the order is made is deprived of his property, and in the case of deprivation of property the proper Article to consider is not Art. 19 (1) (f) but Art. 31 (1) or 31 (2). AIR 1951 Bom 121, Foll ; AIR 1954 SC 447, Considered. Kaikhusroo Phirozshah Doctor v. State of Bombay, I L R (1955) Bom 69 : 57 Bom L R 24 : AIR 1955 Bom 220 (224) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (1), (2)—Scope of.

Article 31 (1) and (2) must be read in conjunction with Art. 19 (1) (f). The rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) can only be enjoyed provided the citizen is in a position to enjoy those rights, and provided those rights can be enjoyed although he has been deprived of his property under Art. 31 (1) or his property had been acquired or taken possession of under Art. 31 (2). It would be impossible for a citizen to say that he has a right to hold and dispose of property if that property has been validly taken away from him under Art. 31 (1) or 31 (2). Therefore the proper and the logical approach to the subject must be first to consider whether the effect of the legislation is either to deprive the subject of his property under Art. 31 (1) or to acquire or take possession of it under Art. 31 (2). If the answer to either of these querries is in the affirmative, then the only question that would remain to be considered would be whether, after deprivation of his property or taking possession or acquiring of his property and rights remain in the citizen which can be asserted under Art. 19 (1) (f). 53 Bom L R 218, Rel. on. 53 Bom L R 621 : I L R (1952) Bom 378 : AIR 1951 Bom 440 (448) (Pt G) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31—Scope of.

The right to acquire, hold and dispose of property guaranteed to the citizen under Art. 19 (1) (f) would only be operative in the case of those whose property has not been taken away under Art. 31. If a man has been deprived of property under Art. 31 (1) or (2) no question of his acquiring, holding and disposing of that property could possibly arise under Art. 19. This right can only be made justiciable provided the Legislature has not validly taken action under Art. 31 and it is only then that the question might arise whether any restrictions placed upon that right under sub-cl. 5 of Art. 19 are reasonable restrictions or not. 53 Bom L R 218 : I L R (1951) Bom 473 : AIR 1951 Bom 86 (89) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 119.]

——Arts. 19 and 31—Only some of the rights interfered with—Effect.

If the totality of the rights are not acquired or taken possession of but only some of the rights are interfered with, then clearly, the subject can ask for the assistance of the Court under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution, because without an acquisition or taking possession of the totality of rights the interference with some of the rights of ownership would result in restrictions upon ownership and whether those restrictions are reasonable or not would have to be determined by the Court. 53 Bom L R 218 : I L R (1951) Bom 473 : AIR 1951 Bom 86 (90) (Pt E) (Pr 6) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 119.]

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g) and 31 — Scope — If mutually exclusive — Article 19 (1) (f) and (g) on the one hand and Art. 31 on the other deal with different subjects and cover different fields. They are mutually exclusive—If Art. 31 applies, Art. 19 cannot be invoked — AIR 1955 S C 41, Rel. on. Paschim Banga Malbahi Cycle Mazdoor Union v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, 65 Cal W N 213 : AIR 1961 Cal 125 (133, 144) (Pt L) (Prs 27, 77) (SB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Applicability — West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (II of 1948), S. 3—Validity.

The right to hold property is guaranteed under the Constitution. Any reasonable restriction upon the right which is in the public interest would be valid.

But there must be certain safeguards. Firstly, the person whose property is being taken away must have an opportunity of making representations. The person responsible for making the order must be a qualified person and he should not be a law unto himself and there should be an appeal. The power should not be naked and arbitrary. Such being the limitations, if they are to be applied to Act (II of 1948), then there is little doubt that it must be struck down.

Where property is acquired by the State, then it must be held that Art. 31 applies and not Art. 19. Article 19 applies when the citizen has a right to property. Once it is compulsorily acquired, the right to property is gone and there can be no question of invoking the fundamental right to hold property which is guaranteed by the Constitution. Where it is not a case of acquisition but a case of requisition, there is only a partial acquisition of property and consequently what the State acquires is only some of the bundle of rights which go to constitute the 'property' of the citizen. The compulsory requisition of any land under S. 3 of W. B. Act II of 1948, which may be followed by compulsory acquisition amounts to a substantial deprivation of the rights to property, and therefore what applies is Art. 31 and not Art. 19. The provisions contained in S. 3 of the West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act, 1948 (Act II of 1948) are intra vires and valid. 63 Cal W N 101 : AIR 1959 Cal 402 (409, 412, 413) (Pt E) (Prs 31, 45, 46).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (1) — Land in possession of individual — State as owner giving him notice to quit — Application for writ of mandamus — Art. 226 —Maintainability—Right to property—If affected.

The fundamental right of holding property is to guarantee such a right to the citizen against the State. Art. 19 grants right to the citizens and not to the State. But this does not preclude the State from holding property, and when the State holds property, it exercises all rights relating thereto, as are given by law. In such a case, the provisions of Art. 31 do not come to be considered. Where, therefore, the State purports to exercise its own right of property, the ordinary law applies and the remedy of a high prerogative writ is not available.

Held, that on the facts, the petitioner had not been able to establish any grounds for the issue of a high prerogative writ or any order and direction under Art. 226. What has been purported to be exercised is an ordinary right under the ordinary law. If the service of the notice to quit is at all an 'executive action', it is an action which is still within the precincts of the law and it could not be construed as a threat that law will be violated. If it is found later on that the right to possession did not exist, there might then arise all kinds of civil or criminal liability. AIR 1955 Cal 601 and (1920) 1 K B 720, Rel. on. AIR 1956 Cal 437 (441, 442, 443) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 13, 14, 15).

——Arts. 19 and 31 — Applicability — Act dealing with proprietary right—Test of validity.

As a matter of construction, Art. 31, which deals specifically with proprietary rights must govern legislation directly concerning the right to property. Art. 19 (1) similarly relates to legislation directly concerning personal rights as set forth in the different clauses of Art. 19 (1). If the impugned legislation is not directly in respect of any of the subjects in the several clauses of Art. 19, the clauses have no application although the effect of the legislation may abridge the rights referred to in Art. 19.

In normal cases of acquisition of properties under the W. B. Land Development and Planning Act the preparation of a development scheme precedes a declaration under S. 6. The only variation which the legislature intended to make in case of urgency is to entitle the State Government under S. 7 to take possession although no development scheme has been prepared. The mere fact therefore, that the Government has taken possession in case of an emergency does not mean that the Collector need not frame a development scheme. The Collector is required to prepare a scheme and an opportunity is thus afforded to the dispossessed proprietor to raise objections when the development scheme is in course of preparation. In fact there is the statutory duty as provided by S. 8 to proceed with the acquisition and to make an award as provided in the Land Acquisition Act.

The section therefore does not suffer from any constitutional invalidity under Art. 31 (2). Further the impugned Act cannot be said to impose unreasonable restrictions on the right of a citizen to acquire, hold and dispose of his property and the legislation, even if Art. 19 (1) (f) were applicable, would be saved under Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. (Test of reasonableness indicated.) AIR 1952 S C 196; AIR 1951 Cal 111. Ref. AIR 1954 Cal 248 (250) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 12) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 16.]

——Arts. 19, 31—Scope.

A legislative enactment empowering Government to acquire property of a citizen compulsorily for a public purpose, attracts Art. 31 and not Art. 19. Where it is a composite piece of legislation the Court has to distinguish that part of it which deals with acquisition from the rest. Case law discussed. ILR (1955) 1 Cal 401 : 57 C W N 397 : AIR 1953 Cal 548 (553) (Pt D) (Pr 28).

——Arts. 19, 31 — Legislation falling under Art. 31 —Art. 19 does not apply.

If the legislation is one falling under Art. 31 of the Constitution, there is no scope for the applicability of Art. 19 to such legislation and the question of reasonableness becomes immaterial. Gopalan's case (AIR 1950 S C 27) and Charanjitlal's case (AIR 1951 S C 41), Rel. on; 55 C W N 463, Ref. AIR 1952 Cal 870 (874) (Pt F) (Pr 17).

——Arts. 19, 31 (2) — Applicability to provisions as to compensation — West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 8, Proviso (b).

Where an Article deals specifically, as Art. 31 (2) does, with the compensation to be paid, then the provisions as to compensation contained in a statute must be considered with reference to that specific Article and not with reference to any general provisions such as Art. 19. 55 Cal W N 778 : AIR 1951 Cal 111 (116) (Pt D) (Pr 43) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Statute providing for compulsory acquisition — West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 8.

The term "reasonable restriction" might well cover deprivation of property. A statute empowering a State compulsorily to acquire property can be said to impose a restriction on the right to hold property. A statute dealing with compulsory acquisition would have to comply with Cl. (5) of Art. 19 and if it imposes on the citizen a restriction that was more than necessary in the interest of the general public then such a law would be void. 55 Cal W N 778 : AIR 1951 Cal 111 (116) (Pt E) (Prs 45, 47) (DB).

——Arts. 19 and 31 — Legislation dealing with acquisition of property—It should satisfy requirements of both articles. See Constitution of India, Art. 31. AIR 1951 Cal 97.

——Arts. 19 and 31—Scope.

If the legislation is not directly in respect of any of the subjects mentioned in Art. 19 but as a result of the operation of other legislation any rights guaranteed by the sub-clauses in Art. 19 (1) are abridged the question of the application of Art. 19 does not arise. The contents and subject-matters of Arts. 19 and 31 are not the same and they proceed to deal with the rights covered by their respective words from totally different angles. Art. 19 should be read as a separate complete Article. Hence the contention that a legislation dealing with acquisition or taking possession of property should not only satisfy the requirements of Art. 31 but also Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution cannot be accepted. AIR 1950 S C 27 : AIR 1951 S C 41 and 87 C L J 140, Rel. on. 55 Cal W N 463 : A I R 1951 Cal 97 (99) (Pt F) (Pr 16).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Scope.

Persons have the right to hold the land in exercise of the fundamental right guaranteed to them by Art. 19 (1) (f), unless the right has ceased to exist by reason either of their having been deprived of the property by authority of law under Cl. (1), or of the property having been acquired or taken posssession of under Cl. (2) of Art. 31, of the Constitution. In other words, if there has been expropriation of property under either of the aforesaid provisions of Art. 31, the question of enforcement of the fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f), does not arise.

Where therefore the petitioners continued to be recorded as proprietors of the land in the latest Jamabandi prepared before the institution of the petitions by the revenue officials in the employ of the respondent.

Held, that it was for the respondent State to prove the alleged acquisition by its predecessor-in-interest. That onus not having been discharged by the respondents, the petitioners were not expropriated under Art. 31, and the action of the respondent State in retaining possession of the land without paying any rent since 1938, and on the mere ground that it was needed for a public purpose, without taking any step to acquire it according to law, amounted to a clear infringement of the fundamental right of the petitioners under Art. 19 (1) (f).

(Writ of mandamus issued to direct the State to acquire the property according to law; on failure of this public duty, for restoration of possession to the petitioners); AIR 1950 S C 27; AIR 1952 Cal 65; AIR 1951 Bom 86, Ref. AIR 1953 Him Pra 95 (99, 100, 101) (Pt E) (Prs 18, 19, 24).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Scope.

Article 19 (1) (f) is not restricted to abstract rights and capacity of the citizen to acquire, hold and dispose of property. It applies equally to concrete rights. AIR 1954 S C 282, Foll.

Per Ansari, J.—The guarantees contained in Art. 19 relate to the status of a citizen and the rights of private property are separately dealt with by Art. 31. Observations of Patanjali Sastri, C. J., in AIR 1954 S C 92, Foll. ILR (1955) Hyd 337 : AIR 1955 Hyd 82 (84, 91) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 39).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (1) and 226 — Executive fiat — Unauthorised sale of property by Collector — Deprivation of property — Writ by High Court — (Bombay Land Revenue Code (5 of 1879), S. 187).

Articles 31 (1) and 19 (1) (f) have to be read together. A person is entitled to hold property till he can be deprived of it in due course of law. To put to sale property of a person, the effect of which is to put its purchaser in possession of it, is to deprive that person of it. What Art. 31 (1) aims at is that no person shall be deprived of his property by any executive act or fiat.

When a Collector without any authority of law puts the property of a person to sale for recovery of Government dues, his act amounts to depriving that person of his property which he is entitled to hold. And as such an act of the Collector tends to deprive a person of his property without any authority of law, it is an executive act or fiat. A writ under Art. 226 can be issued against such an unauthorised act which has the effect of depriving a person of his property save by authority of law. AIR 1952 S C 59, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Kutch 11 (13) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Applicability.

If a person is deprived of his rights to property under Art. 19 (1) (f), the proper Article to be considered is Art. 31. Art. 19 (1) (f) applies only so long as a person is not deprived of his property by a law enacted by a competent legislature. 1952 Mad W N 299 : 1952-1 Mad L J 557 : AIR 1952 Mad 613 (633) (Pt I) (Pr 31) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 31—Distinction.

Article 31 of the Constitution covers a ground quite different from that covered by the provisions of Art. 19 of the Constitution and Cl. (1) of Art. 31 has got to be read along with Cl. (2) of the same Article. A I R 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 119, Foll. Ramchandra v. Janardan, ILR (1955) Nag 378 : AIR 1955 Neg 225 (229) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (FB).

——Arts. 19, 31 — Scope of — Rights over property conferred by Art. 19 are subject to Art. 31. AIR 1955 N U C (Nag) 1341.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 — Private recognized High School — Supersession of Managing Committee by appointment of ad hoc Committee under R. 182, Bihar Education Code — Whether infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31.

Where the Board of Secondary Education, Bihar, appointed an ad hoc Committee in supersession of a Managing Committee of a private recognized High School, and it was contended that the members of the Managing Committee had been deprived of their right to hold the property of the School and the action of the Government amounted to an acquisition of the property by the State and thus there was infraction of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31.

Held, that no question of infringement of the fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution was involved.

The property in fact belongs to the public of the locality and the management of the property for the time being vests in the Managing Committee. No individual member can claim any vested right in the property. The Managing Committee is liable to reconstitution from time to time according to the rules in vogue in that school. If, it is the Managing Committee in which vests the property of the school, then there is the ad hoc Committee, in which the property will be deemed to have vested after the supersession of the old Managing Committee. Once it is assumed that this ad hoc committee is a legally constituted body the contention loses all its force. 1956 B L J R 33 : AIR 1956 Pat 81 (87, 88) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 31 — Act transferring A's property to B — Validity.

From the examination of the Arts. 19 (1) (f) read with Cl. (5) thereof and Art. 31 Clauses (1), (2) and (3) it is clear that no property can be acquired or taken possession of, nor any restraint, reasonable or otherwise, imposed on the proprietary right of any person in the interest of any individual or individuals. In other words, the State cannot deprive a person of his proprietary right or impose a restraint (reasonable or not) on his right of enjoyment to benefit an individual or individuals. It follows, therefore, as a necessary corollary, that if by any legislative enactment property of A is transferred to B, such enactment cannot be said to be valid and constitutional and must be ignored as if it did not exist, because the Constitution does not empower the legislature to make such a law. 30 Pat 1085 : A I R 1952 Pat 166 (171) (Pt E) (Pr 26) (D B).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Relative scope—Latter it exception to fundamental rights declared in former — Statute containing general as well as special provisions — Statute with inconsistent provisions — Rule of construction.

Per Sinha, J.—Article 31 of the Constitution cannot be read as an exception to the fundamental rights as declared in Art. 19 (1) (f). But certainly the two articles have to be read together in order to give full effect to the intention of the Constituent Assembly. According to the well-established rule of interpretation, where the same statute makes general provisions in respect of a subject-matter and also makes specific provisions with respect to a special category, the latter must prevail over the former. It is also well-settled that different provisions of the same statute which are apparently inconsistent with each other should be so construed as to give effect to all the provisions so as to avoid a repugnancy. Kameshwar Singh v. Province of Bihar, 29 Pat 790 : A I R 1950 Pat 392 (418, 430, 431) (Pt R) (Prs 39, 81, 84) (S B).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Correlation — Property lawfully acquired in terms of Art. 31 — It cannot be contended that right granted by Art. 19 (1) (f) must all the same remain inviolable. See ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1955 Pepsu 148.

——Arts. 19 and 31—Applicability.

Articles 19 and 31 have no application to a case, where there is no question that any fundamental right of the applicant is taken away, or the applicant is being deprived of any property. 1956 Raj L W 50 : I L R (1955) 5 Raj 324 : A I R 1955 Raj 166 (167) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (D B).

——Art. 19 (5) — Marwar Land Revenue Act (1949), Section 231 — State takes possession of surface of land and there is no question of imposing restrictions — Case falls under Art. 31 of the Constitution and not under Art. 19 (5) — Section does not offend against Art. 31 (2). See Marwar Land Revenue Act (40 of 1949), S. 231. AIR 1953 Raj 173.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Article 19 (1) (f) has no application in a case where Art. 31 is also invoked for challenging a particular law as void. 1951 Raj L W 467 : ILR (1951) 1 Raj 674 : 1952 Cri L J 732 : AIR 1952 Raj 74 (76) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 —Distinction between.

Articles 19 (1) (f) and 31 do not overlap and it is not possible to take shelter under both of them at the same time.

Article 19 (1) (f) read with Cl. (5) postulates the existence of property which can be enjoyed and over which right can be exercised. When there is a substantially total deprivation of property which is already held and enjoyed, one must turn to Art. 31 to see how far that is justified. Substantial deprivation means the sort of deprivation that substantially robs a man of those attributes of enjoyment which normally accompany rights to or an interest in property, leaving behind, if at all, just a 'mere husk' or an 'illustory phantom' of title. It is only in such cases that Art. 31 is attracted. AIR 1955 S C 41, Foll. Jamath Mosque v. Vakhan Joseph, 1955 Ker L T 406 : ILR (1955) Trav-Co 428 : A I R 1955 Trav-Co 227 (229) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (F B).

——Arts. 19, 31 and 226 — Seizure of goods without authority of law—Remedy.

The law is settled that seizure of goods from the possession of any person without the authority of law amounts to an infringement of his fundamental rights both under Art. 19 and Art. 31 of the Constitution and relief must be granted to him under Art. 226 of the Constitution. A I R 1954 S C 415, Rel. on. 1955 Cri L J 747 : A I R 1955 Vin-Pra 17 (18) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

4 (a). Illustrative cases.

● ——Arts. 19, 31, 32 — Khorposh grants to junior members of the family of Rulers of Native States first in the shape of lands but ultimately assuming shape of money allowances payable at regular intervals — States merging in Dominion of India — Before coming into force of the Constitution, Government by their order stopping the grants — Junior members entering into prolonged correspondence with Government insisting upon their rights under the grants by the former Rulers — Only in 1957 such members realising that they had no hopes of any revision by Government of their policy — Held that every periodic deprivation of money allowance would give such members a right to approach the Supreme Court for relief under Art. 32 and it could not be held that rights guaranteed by the Constitution could not be founded upon in respect of cause of action which arose before the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1962 S C 1288.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) —Mysore House Rent and Accommodation Control Order (1948), Cl. 3 (2), (4) and (6) — Allotment order made before Constitution came into force — Applicability of Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2). See Houses and Rents — Mysore House Rent and Accommodation Control Order (1948), Cl. 3 (2), (4) and (6). AIR 1952 S C 339.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (2) — Assam Assessment of Revenue Free Waste Land Grants Act (24 of 1948), S. 3 — Land held free of land revenue — Such land assessed to land revenue — Right to enjoy interest in such land is not acquisition of property. See Ibid, Art. 31 (2). AIR 1956 Assam 33 (SB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Income-tax Act, S. 49-EE —Validity — S. 49-EE does not infringe fundamental rights guaranteed under Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and 31. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 49-EE. AIR 1960 Bom 353 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Applicability to West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act — (West Bengal Land Development Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 1.

The Land Development Act being a legislation which deals with compulsory acquisition of property the application of Art. 19 (1) (f) is excluded and therefore the question of reasonableness of the provisions cannot be gone into in considering the question of the validity of the Act. 56 Cal W N 183 : AIR 1952 Cal 874 (876) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Arts. 19 and 31 — West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948) — Validity — West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948).

If the legislation purports to be a legislation relating to acquisition of property under Art. 31 of the Constitution, then the application of Art. 19 is excluded, and the question of reasonableness of the provisions becomes immaterial. Further the West Bengal Act being an Act passed in furtherance of a public purpose, that is, in the interest of the general public, the objection of unreasonableness must fall to the ground. The settlement of immigrants being a public purpose, Art. 19 (5) must come into play and the restriction must be deemed to have been imposed in the interest of the general public. 55 C W N 463, Rel. on; AIR 1950 S C 27 and AIR 1951 S C 41, Foll. 89 Cal L J 301 : A I R 1952 Cal 679 (681, 682) (Pt F) (Pr 4).

——Arts. 19, 31—West Bengal Premises Requisition and Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (5 of 1947) —Validity.

Article 19 (1) (f) has no application to cases where a State or any person is empowered to deprive another of his property. The relevant Article is Art. 31. If a validly enacted law gives the State or a person a right to deprive another of his property, then such deprivation would be in accordance with Art. 31. Clause (2) of Art. 31 clearly allows legislation of the type of Act 5 of 1947. This statute does comply with the provisions of Cl. (2) as to compensation. I L R (1951) 2 Cal 86 : 87 Cal L J 140 : AIR 1952 Cal 65 (67) (Pt D) (Prs 19, 21, 24) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 31 (2) — Applicability to provisions as to compensation — West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 8, Proviso (b).

Where an Article deals specifically, as Art. 31 (2) does, with the compensation to be paid, then the provisions as to compensation contained in a statute must be considered with reference to that specific Article and not with reference to any general provisions such as Art. 19. 55 Cal W N 778 : A I R 1951 Cal 111 (116) (Pt D) (Pr 43) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Municipalities — Bombay District Municipal Act (3 of 1901), S. 90 (5) — Constitutional validity—If violates—Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 of the Constitution. See Municipalities — Bombay Municipalities Act (3 of 1901), S. 90 (5). A I R 1962 Guj 25 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Grant of land by former Indian Ruler—Revocation of - Legality of. See Ibid, Art. 31 (1). AIR 1954 Him Pra 84.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 13 (2), 14 and 31—(Hyderabad) Wali-ud-Daula Succession (Decision of Disputes) Act (Hyderabad Act 16 of 1950), Ss. 2 (1) and 3 — Act if ultra vires. See (Hyderabad) Wali-ud-Daula Succession (Decision of Disputes) Act (Hyderabad Act 16 of 1950), S. 2 (1). AIR 1951 Hyd 1 (FB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Arms Act (1878), S. 14 does not infringe fundamental rights — (Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (b), (f), 19 (5) and 31). See Arms Act (1878), S. 14. AIR 1953 Madh Bha 236.

——Arts. 19, 31 — Madras Inams (Assessment) Act (40 of 1956) — Inam, its concept and effect indicated — Assessment does not amount to resumption — Act, whether colourable legislation — Act though inconsistent with rights under Art. 14 or 19 or 31, is saved by Art. 31A—Act is not invalid. See Madras Inams (Assessment) Act (40 of 1956). A I R 1964 Mad 90.

——Arts. 19, 31 — Madras Aliasanthana Act (9 of 1949), S. 36—Section 36 does not violate Arts. 19 and 31. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1956 Mad 642.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Settlement of certain tribe in a village under private agreement — Order of S. D. O. asking them to move away under threat of prosecution—Legality — Order held not covered by Ss. 60 to 64 of Hill Peoples Regulation and infringing rights under Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Interference with administrative order — Jurisdiction of High Court — Abolition of right of appeal—Effect—Writ of mandamus issued. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1961 Manipur 21.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Orissa Act, 11 of 1954 — Validity—If contravenes Art. 19 (1) (f) or 31 (2). See Orissa Shri Jagannath Temple (Administration) Act (14 of 1952), S. 2 (1), Expl. A I R 1959 Orissa 17 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands to Raiyats) Act (30 of 1951) — Act does not violate Art. 19 (1) (f).

Article 31 applies to a case where there is a complete and total deprivation of property and Art. 19 (1) (f) does not apply to such a case. A I R 1955 S C 41, Rel. on. Hence Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands to Raiyats) Act (30 of 1951) cannot be said to violate the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India. 1956 B L J R 760 : 1956 Pat L R 540 : I L R 35 Pat 847 : A I R 1957 Pat 44 (51) (Pt I) (Pr 20) (DB).

5. Rights which are not fundamental.

● ——Arts. 19(1) (g), 14—Petitioner holding contracts for supply of milk to Government Hospital — Petitioner's tender for certain year accepted but later on cancelled—Applicability of Articles. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1959 S C 490.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Scope — Fundamental right — Unregistered document granting right to cut trees in forest —Subsequent vesting of forest in State —Grantee stopped from cutting trees — Fundamental right—Whether infringed. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1958 S C 532.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1)—Scope —Contract to grant licences to catch fish in lake in estate—Subsequent vesting of estate in State — State refusing to recognise contract — No question of infringement of fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 (1) arises.

The petitioner had entered into a contract with the ex-proprietor of an estate prior to its vesting in the State of Orissa and obtained from the latter on payment of certain sum, licences to catch and carry away fish from specific portions of the lake lying in the estate in respect of a period subsequent to the vesting of the estate. The State of Orissa refused to recognise these licences and were about to re-auction the rights when the petitioners filed the present petition seeking writs under Art. 32 on the ground that their fundamental rights under Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) were, or were about to be, infringed.

Held, that even assuming that contract is 'property' within the meaning of Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1), no question under Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) could arise because the State by simply refusing to recognise the existence of the contract had not confiscated or acquired or taken possession of the contract as such. Ananda Behera v. State of Orissa, 22 Cut L T 101 : (1955) 2 S C R 919 : 1956 S C J 96 : (1956) 1 M L J (S C) 69 : 1956 S C C 70 : I L R (1956) Cut 425 : 69 Mad L W 872 : AIR 1956 S C 17 (19) (Pt C) (Pr 13).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 32—Printers and Publishers of books including school text books — No right that their books should be approved as text books by Government—Government taking up selection, printing and publishing of text books — Private publisher's fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) not affected.

There is no fundamental right in the publishers of books including school text books that any of the books printed and published by them should be prescribed as text books by the school authorities or if they are once accepted as text books they cannot be stopped or discontinued in future.

The utmost that could be said is that there was merely a chance or prospect of any or some of their books being approved as text books by the Government. On the other hand, the Government had the undisputed right to adopt any method of selection they liked and if they ultimately decided that after approving the text books they would purchase the copyright in them from the authors and others provided the latter were willing to transfer the same to the Government on certain terms, the right of the publishers to carry on their trade or business cannot be said to be affected by it. Nobody is taking away the publisher's right to print and publish any books they like and to offer them for sale but if they have no right that their books should be approved as text books by the Government it is immaterial so far as they are concerned whether the Government approves of text books submitted by other persons who are willing to sell their copyrights in the books to them, or choose to engage authors for the purpose of preparing the text books which they take upon themselves to print and publish.

As the publishers have no fundamental right in the present case which can be said to have been infringed by the action of the Government, their petition under Art. 32 is bound to fail on that ground. Ram Jawaya Kapur v. State of Punjab, 1955 S C J 504 : (1955) 2 M L J (S C) 59 : 57 P L R 444 : 1955 Mad W N 973: 1955 S C A 577 : AIR 1955 S C 549 (557, 558) (Pt B) (Prs 20, 21).

● ——Art. 19— Right to stand as a candidate and contest an election is not a common law right. It is a special right created by a statute and can only be exercised on conditions laid down by statute. State of Uttar Pradesh v. Seth Jagmanda Das, AIR 1954 S C 683 (688) (Pr 5).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31, 132 (1) and 226 — Scope — Right to obtain mining lease whether fundamental right —Substantial question of law as to interpretation of Constitution —U. P. Mining Concession and Mineral Development Rules (1940).

Per M. L. Chaturvedi, J. —A mere right to obtain a mining lease under 1940 Rules does not have the status of a fundamental right and is not one which is sought to be protected under Art. 19 (1) (f) or Art. 31. Further Art. 31 has no application where the State Government is not acquiring the alleged right of the petitioner to obtain the lease. Where, therefore, the petitioner's claim for the issue of a writ of a mandamus to the State Government to grant a mining lease is disallowed, the case cannot be said to involve substantial questions of law as to the interpretation of the Constitution. A I R 1956 S C 17, Foll. ILR (1958) 1 All 318 : AIR 1958 All 621 (624) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 9, 10) (DB).

——Art. 19—Applicability—Right to challenge election, if fundamental right —Infringement of — Effect. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 117. AIR 1958 All 587 (DB).

——Art. 19—Scope —Fundamental right — Right to concessional rates as newspaper under Post Office Act.

The right to concessional rates as arising under the provisions of Post Office Act and the rules made thereunder is not a fundamental right under Art. 19 of the Constitution. 62 Bom LR 832 : 1960 Nag L J 717 : AIR 1961 Bom 105 (110) (Pt B) (Pr 23).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—No fundamental right to carry on business of stevedoring at Docks owned and controlled by Port Commissioners — Bye-laws creating statutory right to carry on such business by grant of licence — No new fundamental right is created thereby when there is no pre-existing fundamental right.

A citizen of India has no fundamental right under Art. 19 of the Constitution to carry on the particular business of stevedoring at the Docks owned and controlled by the Port Commissioners. The general right to carry on business is certainly there. It is also a fundamental right, but the moment the claim is made to carry on a special or particular type of business available only within a particular area which is under the ownership and control of an individual or a statutory corporation such as the Port or the Fort, then such claim cannot be regarded as a claim to assert the fundamental right to carry on the business within the meaning of the Constitution. 1954 S C J 246 : A I R 1954 S C 220, Rel. on ; A I R 1961 Cal 365, Reversed.

A statute or a bye-law may create a statutory right but cannot create for the first time a fundamental right within the meaning of the Constitution. The bye-law may infringe a pre-existing fundamental right and when it does so will be constitutionally invalid. But when there is no fundamental right for a citizen to carry on the business of stevedoring in the Dock owned and controlled by the Calcutta Port Commissioners, a new fundamental right cannot be created because the Bye-law was made by the Port Commissioners to regulate by licence or otherwise people to work in that port as Stevedores. AIR 1962 Cal 530 (533, 534, 535, 536) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11, 13, 17, 24, 25) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 309—Unreasonable restriction—Fundamental right of obtaining employment under Government — If any — Rights and duties of Government servants.

There is no fundamental right of a person to obtain employment under the Government. The moment he enters Government service he becomes bound by the conditions of service and rules which regulate such employment.

The Government servants form a class by themselves with certain rights, privileges and disabilities attached to their service. So if a certain standard of conduct is expected from them and certain rules are framed for the purpose of regulating such conduct or for compelling the Government servants to conform to such standard of conduct, these can hardly be regarded as unreasonable restrictions on the fundamental rights guaranteed to such servants in their capacities as citizens of the Indian Union. 61 Cal W N 459 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 260 : I L R (1958) 1 Cal 40.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Right to be defended by lawyer is not a fundamental right. 95 Cal L J 309: AIR 1956 Cal 476 (478) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 19—Right to office—Not a fundamental right —Held, there was no deprivation of property. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1957 Him Pra 49.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Appointment of Commission to inquire into succession—No breach of fundamental right of claimants. Tahira Begum v. State of Hyderabad. AIR 1953 Hyd 105 (110a 110b) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 13) (FB).

● ——Art. 19—Fundamental right—Lessor and lessee —Breach of condition in lease—Forfeiture of lease—Fundamental right of possession of lessee — Jammu and Kashmir Constitution Application Order, Art. 32 (2-A).

Where it is found that the lessees have committed a breach of the terms of the lease so as to entitle the lessor to re-enter the premises, the right to remain in possession thereafter cannot be termed to be a fundamental right so as to attract the provisions of Art. 32 (2-A) of the Jammu and Kashmir Constitution Application Order. Bhagat Rajinder Kumar Sawhney v. State of J. & K., A I R 1950 J & K 50 (51, 52) (Pt C) (Pr 3) (FB).

——Art. 19 — No violation of Art. 311 — There is no fundamental right to be continued in employment of State. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1965 Ker 19.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on trade — Fundamental right.

Tobacco is almost as deleterious as liquor and there is no fundamental right to carry on a trade in a commodity like tobacco. T. K. Abraham v. State of Trav-Co , 1957 Ker L J 1146 : I L R (1958) Ker 148 : (1957) Mad L J (Cr) 155 : 1957 Ker L T 1184 : 1958 Ker 129 (132, 133) (Pt D) (Prs 15, 17) (F B).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1962 S C 922.]

——Art. 19—Right to carry on a trade or business— No fundamental right of persons to insist upon Government or any other individual for doing business with them. (M. P.) Forest Manual Vol. II, pp. 134 to 140. See Ibid, Art. 14. 1965 M P L J 108.

——Art. 19 – Sales Tax – Mysore Sales Tax Act (25 of 1957), Ss. 5, 6—Rules framed under Act, R. 25—Validity—No abdication of legislative power—Right of appeal is not fundamental right—Persons imposed of sales tax and those imposed of licence fee—Differentiation justified—Rule retrospective. See Sales tax—Mysore Sales Tax Act (25 of 1957), S. 5. (1963) 14 S T C 84 (Mys) (DB).

6. Conflicting rights.

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), (b), (d), 19 (2), (3) and (5)— Rights granted under Art. 19 do not include right to interfere with liberty of another citizen — Criminal Law (Amendment) Act (1932), S. 7 (1)—Prohibitions in, are not ultra vires the Constitution—'Loitering', when made punishable under S. 7 — Restrictions imposed are reasonable.

The whole of S. 7 of the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1932 is intra vires of the Constitution. Even if it is held that portions of sub-clauses (a) and (b) of S. 7 (1) which deal with loitering are ultra vires of the Constitution they are severable from the rest ; AIR 1956 All 56, Foll. AIR 1960 S C 633, Dist. Article 19 does not grant the right to interfere with the liberty of another citizen. On this basic ground alone the prohibitions contained in S. 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, cannot be held to be ultra vires of the Constitution. That the State should prohibit the citizens from creating chaos and anarchy and to that extent limit their liberty must be held to be a reasonable restriction in the interests of the community. Even the alleged peaceful picketing can be danger to public order when it is, resorted to 'en masse'.

Under Cls. (a) and (b) of S. 7 (1) plain and simple loitering has not been made punishable and it is only that loitering which amounts to coercion which has been made an offence. Section 7 ceases to be an encroachment on any rights but really becomes a safeguard for the protection of those very rights. 1961 All W R (H C) 64 : 1961 All L J 15 : 1961 All Cr R 28 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 586 : ILR (1961) 1 All 33: AIR 1961 All 531 (534, 535, 536) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9, 13, 16) (DB).

——Art. 19—Scope of.

Article 19 does not give a carte blanche to a citizen so as to entitle him to exercise any of the rights mentioned therein even though they might encroach upon similar rights of other citizens. AIR 1952 Him Pra & Bilaspur 41 (42) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Scope of — Student circulating handbill containing serious and defamatory allegations against College authorities—Order of Principal rusticating him for one year—If infringes his fundamental right of expression of opinion.

Apart from the qualifications enumerated in Cls. (2) to (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution, the fundamental rights mentioned in Cl. (1) of that article are subject to another qualification, namely, that the exercise of these rights by a citizen should not infringe the rights of others.

The relationship between a pupil and a teacher has always been held to be sacred in India, and it is in the interests of students as well as of the entire body of the citizens that discipline amongst students is insisted upon. If students are allowed to condemn their teachers openly and with impunity, teacher will not be able to discharge the sacred duty with which he is entrusted. It is for this reason that in every civilized State, heads of educational institutions have been given ample and in some cases drastic powers to deal with cases of proved breach of discipline. Where a student publishes and circulates a handbill which condemns the Principal and the heads of departments of the College as not only antinationalists, but selfish, evil-minded, morally degenerate and given to intrigue, subversive and heinous activities and victimization of innocent students, he commits not only a grave breach of discipline but also infringes the ordinary law of the land inasmuch as the handbill is highly defamatory to the Principal and the heads of departments of the College. Truth of the allegations cannot be a defence in a case of this kind, because, if the student believes that he has a genuine grievance the proper course for him is to approach the higher educational authorities and the government rather than to bring out a handbill. In these circumstances an order of the Principal rusticating him for one year is justified and does not violate the fundamental right of expression of opinion guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution, and consequently no writ of any kind can be issued to the Principal. 2 Pepsu L R 506 : 52 Cri L J 403 : A I R 1951 Pepsu 59 (60, 61) (Pr 5).

7. Contracting out of fundamental rights.

See also Ibid, Note 1 (c).

——Art. 19—Fundamental rights may be waived by contract — No service contract by Government servant—He is governed by Government Servants Conduct Rules—But there is no waiver of fundamental rights—He can challenge validity of rules.

The Government Servants Conduct Rules apply to all Government servants whether they have a written contract of service or not. Everybody is presumed to know the law, and as such acknowledgment by the servant that he has read the Rules is really superfluous.

Where there is no contract of service, the applicability of the Rules does not mean that he has waived his fundamental rights, though there may be cases where the servant may waive his rights by entering into a service of contract accordingly. 58 Cal W N 1026 : AIR 1955 Cal 76 (80) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Service agreement — Agreement not to serve any other person during particular period —Not void under Art. 19 (1) (g) — But injunction to restrain servant from serving other person offends Art. 19 (1) (g), and cannot be granted. (1963) 2 Lab L J 522: AIR 1964 Guj 215 (218, 219) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Unreasonable restriction on employee's right to follow occupation of his choice— Contract of personal service — Breach of—Power of Court to issue injunction to prevent breach of contract of personal service.

A remedy in law, which is not challenged on any ground of constitutionality to prevent a breach of a contract of service or its enforcement by a judicial proceeding cannot be considered as contravention of Art 19 (1) (g) or a restriction in violation or excess of Cl. (6) of that Article. (1961) 2 S C J 323: A I R 1961 S C 1016, Foll. In case of a valid contract of personal service containing a positive and a negative covenant, the power of the Court to issue an injunction to prevent breach of the negative covenant contained therein under S. 57, Specific Relief Act cannot be called an unreasonable restriction on the contractor's fundamental right to follow the occupation of his choice when initially he had entered into the contract of his own free will. AIR 1961 S C 1016, Rel. on. (1963) 4 Guj L R 795 : I L R (1963) Guj 891 : A I R 1964 Guj 115 (121, 122) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10).

——Arts. 19 and 13 — Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959). Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d)—Validity—Government servant has no absolute right to retire at a particular date and the Government has the power to continue him in service in the circumstances as given in R. 3.26 (d)—Petitioner entering into service with express condition that he was to be governed by rules of service from time to time—It cannot be held that on attaining the age of 55 years he was to become a free man on retirement with restoration of full freedom to exercise all his fundamental rights under Art. 19 and by retention of him in service beyond that date under R. 3.26 (d) all such rights are curtailed so that the rule is bad as conflicting with fundamental rights and thus void under Art. 13. A I R 1963 Punj 298 (315) (Pt X) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Obligations arising out of contract entered into by party — Party whether can contend that restrictions imposed by contract offend fundamental right.

Where a person's legal status and responsibility as also his obligations arise out of a contract entered into between him and the Government, it is futile for such person to try to avoid the restrictions imposed upon him under the clauses and rules of his contract by saying that they offend the Constitution of India which recognised "fundamental rights" in favour of the citizens of the country. Such restrictions, far from being infringement of a fundamental right, are of a fundamental obligation arising out of a formal contract entered into by the person with the Government. It is not the object of the Constitution of India to enable the citizens of India to break obligations arising under formal contracts entered into by them under the guise of that obligation being something that is repugnant to the recognition of a fundamental right. Such an idea is foreign to the Constitution of India. 1951 Ker L T 329 : A I R 1952 Trav-Co 287 (289) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

8. Infringement of right by private individuals.

——Arts. 19 and 31 (1) — Dispute between two individuals regarding their respective civil rights.

When the dispute is not between an individual on the one hand and the State on the other but is between two persons regarding their respective civil rights there is no question of invasion of the fundamental rights. A I R 1952 S C 59 and A I R 1956 S C 108, Rel. on. 23 Cut L T 403 : I L R (1957) Cut 501 : AIR 1958 Orissa 15 (17) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 — Scope of — Infringement by citizen and by State.

Article 19 is a mixed Article where certain rights are guaranteed to the citizens of India, subject to certain restrictions which may be imposed by the State. This Article does not say that a citizen will have no remedy if the right guaranteed under this Article is infringed by other citizens. It may be that if the rights are infringed by other citizens the remedy would lie in the ordinary law Courts while if the infringement is by the State the remedy may lie both in the ordinary law Courts and in the High Court or the Supreme Court under Arts. 226 and 32 of the Constitution. A I R 1952 S C 59; A I R 1950 S C 27, Disting. Panch Gujar v. Amarsingh, I L R (1954) 4 Raj 84: 1954 Raj L W 204: AIR 1954 Raj 100 (103) (Pt D) (Pr 19) (FB).

9. Construction of laws restricting fundamental rights.

● ——Art. 19 (6) (as amended by Constitution (First Amendment) Act (1951)) — Scope — Provision to be interpreted liberally — State monopoly in respect of any trade or business must be presumed to be reasonable and in the interests of general public so far as Art. 19 (1) (g) is concerned.

In attempting to construe Art. 19 (6), it must be borne in mind that a literal construction may not be quite appropriate. In interpreting such a provision, it is essential to bear in mind the political philosophy underlying the Provisions in question, and that would necessarily involve the adoption of a liberal and not a literal and mechanical approach to the problem. The theory underlying the amendment in so far as it relates to the concept of State monopoly, does not appear to be based on the pragmatic approach, but on the doctrinaire approach which socialism accepts. The amendment clearly indicates that State monopoly in respect of any trade or business must be presumed to be reasonable and in the interests of the general public so far as Art. 19 (1) (g) is concerned. Article 19 (6) (ii) clearly shows that there is no limit placed on the power of the State in respect of the creation of State monopoly. It is not correct to say that the creation of a State monopoly must be justified by showing that the restrictions imposed by it are reasonable and are in the interests of the general public. Akadasi Padhan v. State of Orissa, (1964) 1 S C A 187 : (1964) 2 S C J 37 : (1963) Supp 2 S C R 691 : A I R 1963 S C 1047 (1053, 1054) (Pt A) (Prs 14, 15).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Reasonableness—Courts have to decide the question of the reasonableness of the restriction for themselves and whatever opinion a legislature expresses on the matters is not of much relevance for this purpose. (Per Sarkar, J.). Bhau Ram v. Baij Nath Singh. (1963) 1 S C A 411 : (1962) Supp 3 S C R 724 : 1962 Jab L J 676 : A I R 1962 S C 1476 (1491) (Pt C) (Pr 47).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisements) Act (1954), S. 3 — Prohibition of advertisements under—Article 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution not violated.

The advertisements affected by the Act do not fall within the words freedom of speech in Art. 19 (1) (a). The scope and object of the Act, its true nature and character is not interference with the right of freedom of speech but it deals with trade or business. There is no direct abridgement of the right of free speech and a mere incidental interference with such right would not alter the character of the law. A I R 1951 S C 270 and AIR 1958 S C 578, Ref.

It is not the form or incidental infringement that determines the constitutionality of a statute in reference to the rights guaranteed in Art. 19 (1) but the reality and substance. The Act read as a whole does not merely prohibit advertisements relating to drugs and medicines connected with diseases expressly mentioned in S. 3 of the Act but they cover all advertisements which are objectionable or unethical and are used to promote self-medication or self treatment. This is the content of the Act. Viewed in this way, it does not select any of the elements or attributes of freedom of speech falling within Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution. Hamdard Dawakhana v. Union of India, (1960) 1 S C A 314 : 1960 Cri L J 735 : 1960 S C J 611 : 1960 Mad L J (Cri) 358 : (1960) 2 Mad L J (SC) 1 : (1960) 1 Ker L R 746 : (1960) 2 S C R 671 : (1960) 2 Andh W R (SC) 1 : AIR 1960 S C 554 (564, 565) (Pt D) (Prs 20, 21).

●——Art. 19—Interpretation of.

Per Kania C. J. — Article 19 has to be read without any pre conceived notions So read, it clearly means that the legisla ion to be examined must be directly in respect of one of the rights mentioned in the sub-clauses. If there is a legislation directly attempting to control a citizen's freedom of speech or expression, or his right to assemble peaceably and without arms, etc., the question whether that legislation is saved by the relevant saving clause of Art. 19 will arise. If, however, the legislation is not directly in respect of any of these subjects, but as a result of the operation of other legislation, for instance, for punitive or preventive detention, his right under any of the sub-clauses of Art. 19 is abridged, the question of the application of Art. 19 does not arise. The true approach is only to consider the directness of the legislation and not what will be the result of the detention otherwise valid, on the mode of the detenu's life. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (35) (Pt J) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (2) — Validity of Act — Test — Duty of Court.

Where a section of an Act is impugned as violating Art. 19 of the Constitution, the Court should approach the impugned statute from the point of view that Art. 19 (1) as framed guarantees the right of freedom of speech and expression as a vital necessity for the democratic processes in the Constitution and it is in that spirit that it should approach the question whether the impugned section falls within the limits laid down in clause (2) of Art. 19. A I R 1950 S C 124, Rel. on. 62 Bom L R 206 : 1960 Nag L J 244 : ILR (1960) Bom 305 : 1960 Cri L J 1192 : A I R 1960 Bom 399 (400) (Pt G) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 19—Validity of legislation — Duty of Court. See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1956 Bom 304.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)—Interpretation of statutes — Duty of Court — Restriction upon fundamental right.

If the principle underlying the legislation and its object are constitutional, then it is not for the Court to question the policy underlying that legislation. It is not for the Court to sit in judgment upon what the Legislature has decided and to weigh the pros and cons of the policy which led the Legislature to pass a particular legislation. Further, any restrictions upon the fundamental rights of the subject which are necessary for effectuating the object and purpose of the legislation must be considered to be reasonable restrictions. The function of the Court is to look at the legislation, to look at its purpose and object and then to consider what restrictions are placed upon the citizens and to decide whether in reference to the purpose and object in the light of what the legislation is intended for are those restrictions reasonable or are they excessive and unnecessary and going beyond the purposes for which the legislation has been placed on the statute book. A I R 1951 S C 118, Foll. A I R 1951 Bom 440 (450, 451) (Pt J) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Act valid when enacted does not become invalid when another Act, increasing the burden on public is enacted. See Constitution of India, Art. 13. A I R 1954 Mad 621 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Judicial review of legislation — Principles. See Ibid, Art. 13. 1957 Cri L J 1173 : A I R 1957 Punj 244.

——Art. 19 — Constitutionality of legislation Presumption as to — Possibility of abuse If ground for striking down a provision See Ibid, Art. 13 1957 Cri L J 1173 : A I R 1957 Punj 244.

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) Section 7 (1) of Punjab Trade Employees Act Validity – (Punjab Trade Employees Act (10 of 1940), S. 7) – (Interpretation of statutes – Preamble and title)—(Civil P. C. (1908), Pre.)

The legislative purpose of an enactment should be ascertained from that which the legislature has chosen to enact either in express words or by reasonable or necessary implication, It must be presumed that legislature intends that which is the necessary effect of its enactment and such intention is the purpose and object of the Act. It is true that the title and the preamble of an enactment are indicative of the intention of the legislature and throw light thereon, but these two sources cannot be considered and have never been considered to be conclusive of that intent. Section 7 (1) of the Punjab Trade Employees Act, 1940, cannot be held as violating Art. 19 of the Constitution merely on the ground that it travels beyond the purpose of the Act as indicated in its preamble and title. Section 7 (1) of the Trade Employees Act imposes a reasonable restriction on the traders as it protects and preserves the health of all the traders and businessmen and thereby promotes welfare of the people of this country. 58 Pun L R 528 : ILR (1957) Punj 155.

——Art. 19 — Scope — Restriction or curtailment of fundamental right — Possibility of abuse by officer enforcing same in particular manner — Effect on legality of restriction.

The scheme of Art. 19 of the Constitution is to provide a balance between the security of the State and the interest of the general public on the one hand and the fundamental rights guaranteed to the citizen on the other. The fundamental rights may, in the larger interest of the State and the general public, be curtailed or restricted. If the restriction is imposed in the interest of the general public and is not unreasonable, the Court will not go further and inquire whether the manner in which the restriction is likely to be imposed by the officer charged with its enforcement may act unreasonably or may amount to an abuse of the provision. AIR 1950 S C 21; AIR 1950 Bom 363, Ref. ILR (1951) T C 496 : 1951 K L T 158 : AIR 1951 T C 197 (200, 201, 203) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 9).

10. Citizens.

(a) Corporations and companies.
(b) Foreigners and foreign companies.
(c) Citizenship Act and Rules thereunder.

10. Citizens.

——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) — Protection under, who can claim.

(Per Thadani, C. J.) : — A citizen, who has committed an offence or who is a delinquent in the eye of the law and whose crime or delinquency has rendered him liable to certain penalties or disabilities which can be and have been imposed upon him according to the procedure established by law, cannot claim the protection of rights stated in Arts. 19 (1) (d) & (e) of the Constitution, if, as a result of such penalty or disability he has been deprived wholly or partially of those rights—rights which are given to a citizen, and not to a citizen who has committed a crime or is a delinquent in the eye of law. 52 Cri L J 966 : ILR (1951) 3 Assam 181 : AIR 1951 Assam 106 (120) (Pt N) (Pr 93) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Applicability — Non-citizen if can challenge legislation affecting fundamental rights. See Ibid, Art. 14. 1959 Cr L J 439 : AIR 1959 Cal 237.

——Arts. 19 and 31—Applicability— Deity—Citizen of India.

Article 19 will not apply to the deity as it applies to the citizens of India and the deity cannot be called a citizen of India. But Art. 31 does not refer to the citizen of India, but says that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. Even a Hindu deity is juridical person capable of owning and possessing property and hence the deity will also come within the ambit of Art. 31. AIR 1960 Manipur 20 (25) (Pt B) (Pr 23).

——Art. 19 — Application of Act — Act applies to citizen of India in Pakistan — Petitioner coming to India on temporary permit — Period expiring — Petitioner claiming to be Indian citizen and applying for restraining Government from taking action — Act is not rendered void by Art. 19 (1) to render restraint against Government possible — Petitioner declaring himself to be Pakistani national cannot now contend that statement was false — See Influx from Pakistan Act, S. 1. 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 13.

10 (a). Corporations and companies.

——Art. 19 –Corporations and Companies, not being citizens cannot petition under Art. 32—In such a case the doctrine of lifting the veil of corporation cannot be allowed. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1965 S C 40.

——Art. 19 — Applicability — Citizen — Includes only natural persons and not juristic persons like corporation — Citizen in Art. 19 has same meaning as that in Part II—State Trading Corporation a company registered under Companies Act, 1956 – Not a citizen —Cannot maintain petition under Art. 32 for enforcement of fundamental right under Art. 19 — State Trading Corporation whether a department of Government. AIR 1953 Raj 188; AIR 1961 Cal 258; AIR 1959 Cal 45 and AIR 1953 Assam 177, impliedly Overruled. See Ibid, Art. 5. (1963) 2 S C J 605 : AIR 1963 S C 1811.

——Art. 19—'Citizen'—Includes only natural persons —Companies are not citizens : AIR 1963 S C 1811, Foll. 15 S T C 505 : AIR 1965 All 86 (91) (Pt D) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Citizen — Corporation is not citizen. AIR 1953 Raj 188, Dissent from. See Ibid, Art. 5 (c). AIR 1955 All 595.

——Arts. 19 and 5 to 11—Citizen—Association registered under Societies Registration Act — Andhra Pradesh N. G. Os' Association — Right to benefit of Art. 19 Rule governing its recognition prohibiting agitation through press — Right of association to challenge validity of Rule.

The Andhra Pradesh N. G. Os' Association, registered under the Societies Registration Act, is a juristic personality, which cannot be treated as a citizen under Arts. 5 to 10 or under any enactment passed by Parliament under Art. 11, since no such enactment has yet been passed. Therefore, as the rights guaranteed by Art. 19 can be claimed only by citizens, its challenge to the validity of a rule, subject to which it was recognised by Government, on the ground that the rule offended Art. 19 (1) (a) by prohibiting it from ventilating its grievances through the press will not be entertained by the Court because it is not entitled to the benefit of Art. 19: AIR 1953 Raj 188 and AIR 1951 Bom 1, Dissent. from; AIR 1951 Mad 974, AIR 1951 Mad 979, AIR 1952 Punj 9 and AIR 1951 Cal 397, Rel. on; AIR 1951 S C 41, AIR 1957 S C 699 and AIR 1955 S C 661; AIR 1958 S C 578, Ref. to. (1960) 1 Lab L J 156 : ILR (1959) Andh Pra 1368.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Assam Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (25 of 1948) — Validity — Act does not conflict with Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution — See Assam Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (25 of 1948) Preamble. AIR 1953 Assam 177.

(This was a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution for enforcement of fundamental rights by a corporation. It was assumed by the High Court that Corporation could enforce rights under Art. 19 (1) (f). But it was held in AIR 1963 S C 1811 that a Corporation not being a citizen cannot claim fundamental rights. In this view the Assam H. C. should not have entertained the Corporation's petition—Ed.)

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Applies to citizens as well as to corporations.

The fundamental right guaranteed to every citizen under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) is guaranteed as much to a citizen as to a corporation, where all the share-holders are Indian citizens, and all the directors are Indian citizens. If a case arises where the share-holders are not citizens or the directors are not citizens then the Court may well consider whether the particular corporation is a citizen or not. AIR 1951 S C 41, Rel. on. ILR (1955) Bom 680 : 57 Bom L R 288 : AIR 1956 Bom 1 (19) (Pt Q) (Pr 47) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1957 S C 699.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Company incorporated in India more than five years preceeding 26-1-1950—Rights of, to benefits—Arts. 5 and 367.

Under Art. 5, every person who has his domicile in the territory of India and who has been ordinarily resident in the territory of India for not less than 5 years immediately preceding the commencement of the Constitution, shall be a citizen of India. The word 'person' has not been defined in the Constitution and under Art. 367, the definition in the General Clauses Act, 1897, would apply. Thus, a company incorporated in India would come within the definition of 'person' and as such within the provisions of Art. 5 (c) of the Constitution. A company is said to be domiciled or ordinarily resident at a place where it has its head office or from where it can be said to be controlled. A company which has been ordinarily resident in India for 5 years preceding the commencement of the Constitution, namely, 26-1-1950 would be a citizen, and would continue to be a citizen. Such a company being a citizen, is entitled to all the fundamental rights granted under Art. 19, or at least those which can be reasonably applied to a corporation or a company. Such a company can claim the privileges granted by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. A I R 1951 S C 41, Rel. on.

(Obiter .— Under the Citizenship Act, a company incorporated after the commencement of the Constitution is not a citizen.) (1961) 31 Com Cas 714 : 65 Cal W N 1142 : A I R 1961 Cal 258 (260, 261, 266) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 17).

[Impliedly overruled in AIR 1963 S C 1811].

——Art. 19—Applicability — Corporation's claim to fundamental right—Sustainability.

A corporation is not entitled to the fundamental rights granted under Art. 19, which are only available to a citizen. AIR 1951 Mad 979 and AIR 1952 Punj 9, Rel. on. 63 Cal W N 574 : A I R 1959 Cal 397 (399) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Applicability.

Art. 19 (1) (g) applies only to a citizen, and a corporation cannot be a citizen. (1959) 10 S T C 241 (Cal).

——Arts. 19 and 367—Right of Corporation to claim fundamental rights — Art. 5 — General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (42).

Obiter : A corporation which is a person within the meaning of the Constitution by virtue of S. 3 (42), General Clauses Act read with Art. 367 of the Constitution is a citizen and eligible for the rights like those in Art. 19 (1), in particular those in Cls. (f) and (g) thereof. AIR 1951 S C 41 and AIR 1955 S C 33 and AIR 1957 S C 478 and A I R 1958 S C 328 and AIR 1958 S C 578, Rel. on. 1961 Ker L J 72 : 1961 Ker L T 54 : I L R (1961) 1 Ker 166 : (1961) 31 Com Cas 154 : A I R 1961 Ker 268 (280) (Pt E) (Pr 34).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Applicability to company.

Art. 19 (1) (f) applies only to "citizens" and a company incorporated under the Companies Act does not satisfy the requirements of the definition of citizen in Art. 5 C. M. P. 4652 of 1951, Rel. on. (1951) 21 Com Cas 297 : 1951 Mad W N 677 : 1951-2 Mad L Jour 277 : AIR 1951 Mad 979 (985) (Pt G) (Pr 16) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 251].

——Arts. 19 and 5 — Whether a limited company incorporated under the provisions of the Indian Companies Act can be deemed to be a citizen, under Art. 19 read with Art. 5 (Quaere). See Ibid Art. 5. AIR 1951 Mad 974 (DB).

——Art. 19—Company—It is an artificial person—It cannot raise contention under Art. 19—AIR 1963 S C 1811, Foll. I L R (1964) 2 Punj 681 : AIR 1964 Punj 492 (497) (Pt B) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 19—Corporation, if a citizen within Art. 19—Constitution of India, Arts, 5, 6, 8, 39.

The question whether a corporation is a citizen within the particular statute depends upon the intent to be gathered from the context and general purpose of the statute.

A perusal of Arts. 5, 6, 8, 9 and 39 makes it clear that a corporation is not a citizen within Art. 19, Constitution of India. That being so, the Companies against whom notice under S. 52A of the Insurance Act has been served cannot raise the question that the impugned legislation takes away or abridges the rights conferred by Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g), Constitution of India.

Per Soni, J.—Art. 5 applies to natural born persons and not to artificial persons like a company. 1952-22 Com Cas 33 : ILR (1952) Punj 11 : AIR 1952 Punj 9 (18, 24) (Pt F) (Prs 54, 55, 104) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1)—"Citizens"

Fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution to citizens are available to corporations as well, except where the language of the provision and the nature of the right compels an inference to the contrary. A I R 1951 S C 41, Foll.; A I R 1952 Punj 9, Diss. from. ILR (1953) 3 Raj 363 : 1953-RL W 569 : AIR 1953 Raj 188 (192) (Pt F) (Pr 22) (DB).

[Impliedly Overruled in AIR 1963 S C 1811].

10 (b). Foreigners and foreign companies.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Applicant not a citizen of India—Not entitled to claim fundamental right.

Foreign companies whose vessels have contravened S. 52-A of the Sea Customs Act and in respect of which penalties have been imposed under S. 167 (12-A) read with S. 183, are not entitled to claim the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. The Shipping Corporation of India, Ltd., cannot claim to be a citizen of India, and as such is not entitled to rely upon Art. 19 (1) in support of its case that S. 52-A is ultra vires. A I R 1963 S C 1811, Rel. on. AIR 1964 S C 1140, Foll. British India Steam Navigation Co. Ltd. v. Jasjit Singh, Addl. Collector of Customs, Calcutta. (1964) 1 S C W R 463 : (1964) 34 Com Cas 689 : (1964) 2 S C J 543 : (1965) 1 S C A 424 : A I R 1964 S C 1451 (1453, 1454) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10).

● ——Art. 19 — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 52 A — Validity — Foreign Company whose vessel has been confiscated is not entitled to challenge validity of S. 52-A as being ultra vires Arts. 14, 19 and 31 (1). See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 52-A. AIR 1964 S C 1140.

● ——Art. 19—Applicability — Foreign company — Right under Art. 19—See Ibid, Art. 5. 1958 Cr L J 1355 : AIR 1958 SC 845.

——Art. 19 — Foreigner though he has no fundamental right under Art. 19 has locus standi to claim legal right under Art. 226 — Held, petitioner having not even any legal right under S. 39, Calcutta Police Act, for renewal of licence, petition must be dismissed — Decision of Calcutta High Court in Order No. 24 of 1963, Affirmed. See Ibid. Art. 226. 1965 (1) Cr L J 679 : AIR 1965 Cal 312 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—'All citizens'— Interpretation of —Only citizens of India can claim fundamental rights under Art. 19—Extent of rights of foreigner—Pakistan citizen on his Commonwealth citizenship cannot claim fundamental rights under Art. 19, through doors of Citizenship Act, 1955 —Nor Constitution (Declaration as to Foreign States) Order, 1950, make him Indian citizen for purposes of Art. 19.

Though Article 19 uses only the words 'All citizens' and not 'Citizens of India,' the fundamental right guaranteed by that Article is not open to a person who is not a citizen of India. Article 19 is a fundamental right under the Constitution of India and deals specifically and expressly with the 'right to freedom.' That Constitutional right is open only to Indian citizens and none else. Other persons may have rights in respect of the matters mentioned in Art. 19 of the Constitution; but those rights are not constitutionally guaranteed fundamental rights and for that purpose if such persons were not citizens of India they have to seek them as ordinary legal rights independently of the Constitution. Again, Part III itself of the Constitution dealing with these fundamental rights makes a distinction between the types of fundamental rights open and available only to citizen of India and others open to all persons. A fundamental right to freedom is open only to a citizen of India. But such other fundameatal rights as right to equality under Art. 14 of the Constitution, or right to life or personal property under Art. 21 of the Constitution (which also is one of the fundamental rights under the right to freedom) or fundamental right to freedom of religion as under Art. 25, or fundamental right to property as under Art. 31, are open to a person irrespective of the fact whether he is a citizen of India or not and that is for the obvious reason that all civilized countries recognise and protect certain basic human freedoms. AIR 1955 S C 367 and AIR 1950 S C 27 and AIR 1956 Madh B 211, Rel. on.

No doubt an alien or a Commonwealth citizen is entitled to certain civic rights and protection; but the ordinary legal right of a foreigner in a foreign country or of a person who is not a citizen of that country are vexed questions of law. A foreigner or a Commonwealth citizen or a person not a citizen of India can only come to India on a passport. The passport is the origin of his entry and presence in India. The passport does not make the visitor a citizen of the country which he visits. The actual terms of the request are to allow him to pass freely without let or hindrance and secondly to afford him every assistance and protection to which he may stand in need. This passport does not by itself and by its terms allow a foreigner or a person who is not a citizen of India to carry on trade or business in India.

Article 19 does not include a Commonwealth citizen within the meaning of words 'all citizens' in the Article. The Citizenship Act cannot override the Constitution. The object of the preamble of the Citizenship Act, 1955, is to provide for the acquisition and termination of Indian Citizenship which suggests that a Pakistani citizen as a Commonweath citizen cannot claim to come within Art. 19 of the Constitution through the doors of Citizenship Act, 1955. Again Pakistan may not be a foreign state by virtue of Cl. 2 of the Constitution (Declaration as to Foreign State) Order 1950; that does not mean that a citizen of Pakistan becomes a citizen of India. The Order does not mean that the citizens of a Commonwealth country are Indian citizens even for the purpose of those Articles of the Constitution which contain the words 'foreign state.' The words 'foreign state' occur in Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution but that is only when considering the reasonableness of any restriction on the otherwise available fundamental right under Art. 19 in connection with friendly relations with foreign states. The citizen of a Commonwealth has a status in between a foreigner and a citizen of India. He has more rights than a foreigner but less rights than a citizen of India. A Commonwealth citizen does not by virtue of that alone become a citizen of all the different individual states composing the Commonwealth. The Foreigners Act 1946 itself clearly defines a foreigner by S. 2 (a) as meaning a person who is not a citizen of India. S. 3 (a) of the Foreigners Act, 1946 provides power to exempt the citizens of Commonwealth countries and other persons from application of the Foreigners Act in certain cases. It expressly lays down that the Central Government may by order declare that all or any of the provisions of this Act or of any order made thereunder shall not apply or shall apply only in such circumstances or with such exceptions or modifications or subject to such conditions as may be specified in the order in respect of (a) the citizen of any such Commonwealth country as may be so specified, or (b) any other individual foreigner or class or description of foreigner. But since Foreigners Exemption Order 1959 issued in exercise of powers under S. 3 (a) of the Foreigners Act, 1946, does not include Pakistan in the list of exempted countries a citizen of Pakistan cannot be regarded as a citizen of India. Indian citizen alone is capable of asserting a right under Art. 19 of the Constitution. A I R 1957 Madh B 1 and A I R 1961 Pat 112, Rel. on. 1965 (1) Cr L J 679 : AIR 1965 Cal 312 (319, 320, 321, 328) (Pt F) (Prs 21, 24, 26 to 28, 38, 39).

——Arts. 19 (1), 14—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 52A — Constitutional validity — Law operating against non-citizens only—Not violative of Art. 14 –S. 52-A Sea Customs Act, can be enforced against citizens and non-citizens alike—Does not violate Art. 14. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Cal 303.

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) –Citizen of Pakistan cannot claim rights under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — (Citizenship Act (1955), Ss. 11 and 12).

No doubt under S. 11 of the Citizenship Act, a citizen of Pakistan has the status of a Commonwealth citizen. But as a Commonwealth citizen he can have only those rights which the Central Government may, under S. 12 of the Citizenship Act by order notified in the Gazette, confer In the absence of any such notification he cannot claim the fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e). Article 19 does not apply to foreigners. A I R 1 55 S C 367, Rel. on. 1956 M B L R (Civ) 412 : 1956 M B L J 893 : A I R 1957 Madh B 1 (3) (Pt E) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) Scope — Commonwealth citizen—Rights of (Citizenship Act (1955), S. 12).

In the absence of any notification under S. 12 (1), Citizenship Act, Commonwealth citizens cannot claim that they have the rights under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e). Nor can they claim the fundamental rights conferred by Art. 19 as Pakistan citizens. That Article confers certain fundamental rights on the citizens of India and not on persons who are not citizens of India. All that is guaranteed to non-citizens is protection of life and liberty in accordance with the law of the land. 1956 Madh B L J 870 : Madh B L R 1956 Civ 535 : A I R 1956 Madh B 211 (213, 214) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19—Applicability—Passport Act and Rules thereunder whether repugnant to Art. 19 - Citizen of Pakistan cannot raise such contention (Passport Act (1920), S. 3) –(Passport Rules (1950), Rr. 3 and 5).

A person, who is not an Indian citizen but a citizen of Pakistan, having no fundamental rights under Art 19 cannot contend that the Passport Act and the Rules thereunder in so far as they prohibit the entry into India of a foreigner except under a valid passport are repugnant to Art 19 1956 Madh B L J 870 : Madh B L R 1956 Civ 535 : AIR 1956 Madh B 211 (214) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 19—Person migrated from India to Pakistan after 1 3-1947—Not a citizen of India—Art. 19 has no application—He cannot challenge Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance as being inconsistent with Art. 19. 1951 Mad W N 477 : (1951) 2 Mad L J 1 : AIR 1951 Mad 930 (932) (Pt A) (Pr 12).

10 (c). Citizenship Act and Rules thereunder.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (e) –Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2) —Validity—Citizenship not a fundamental right. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2). AIR 1962 S C 1052.

——Art. 19 - Parliament was competent to enact S. 9 of the Citizenship Act and to make rules of evidence. See Ibid Art. 11. 1962 (2) Cr L J 166 : AIR 1962 All 383 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (e)—Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2)— Citizenship Rules, Rule 30, Sch. III, Cls 3 and 5— Cls. 3 and 5 making the obtaining of Pakistan passport, a conclusive proof of acquisition of Pakistani citizenship are null and void, by virtue of Art 13 (2) read with Art. 19 (1) (e) of the Constitution of India. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2). AIR 1961 All 507.

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Citizenship Rules (1956), Sch. III, Cl. 3 — Validity. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9. AIR 1960 All 637.

[Overruled in AIR 1962 S C 1052].

——Art. 19—Rules under Sch. 3 of Citizenship Act, 1955 — R. 3 — Validity. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 18. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 1047.

[Overruled in AIR 1962 S C 1052.]

——Art. 19 - Rules under—S. 18, Citizenship Act, 1955 —Rule 30 — Constitutionality. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2). AIR 1957 Andh Pra 1047

——Art. 19 (1) (e) Citizenship Act (1955), S. 18 — Rules under—Citizenship Rules (1956), Sch. III, Cl. 3

Kashmir Universal Library
Accession No. 7600

—Whether ultra vires —(Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1)(d)(e))—Cl.3 of Sch III of Citizenship Rules, 1956, is not ultra vires Art. 19 of the Constitution AIR 1957 Andh Pra 1047 Diss. from. See Citizenship Act (1955) S. 18. AIR 1959 Bom 192.

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), (e), (5), 11, Sch. 7, List 1, Entry 17 — Question whether person is citizen of India is outside scope of Art. 19 —Citizenship Rules (1956, Sch. III - Validity —Rules contained in Sch III are valid. ILR (1960) Mad 697 : (1960) 2 Mad L J 290 : AIR 1961 Mad 129 (136) (Pt A) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 9 - Citizenship Act, S. 9 Validity Not violating Arts. 14 and 19. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9. AIR 1960 Pat 98 (Dis).

11. "Rights."

——Arts. 9 and 226 Applicability — Fundamental right—Supply of electrical energy.

There is no fundamental right or any right whatever to get supply of electrical energy even from an electrical concern run by the State. It all depends upon the terms of the contract between the consumer and the electrical concern and in the absence of any definite legal right, it is not possible for the High Court to issue any writ directing the consumer's premises to be reconnected or quashing the claim put forward by the State by virtue of the notices of demand served on the consumer. AIR 1952 S C 115 and AIR 1958 S C 956 Disting. 1959 Raj L W 439 : ILR (1959) 9 Raj 786 : AIR 1959 Raj 275 (277) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) DB).

12. Who can raise question of constitutionality.

● —Art. 19 (1 (f) — Infringement of fundamental right—Who can apply under Art 226—Title to hold property in dispute and subject of adjudication—Complaint about infringement of right to hold property is premature. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1963 S C 516.

● — Art 19—Citizen not possessed of fundamental right He cannot claim relief under Art. 13 (1) See Constitution of India, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1952 S C 339.

——Art 19—Right to challenge validity of Act.

Where a person receives a benefit under an Act and acquiesces in it, it is not open to him to challenge the validity of that Act. AIR 1939 Nag 44, Rel. on. (1959) 2 Andh W R 53 : ILR (1959) Andh Pra 254 : AIR 1959 Andh Pra 471 (475) (Pt E) (Pr 28) (DB)

Art. 19 (1) (f) —Jadavpur University Act — Validity Life member of National Council of Education - Right to challenge Act—(Jadavpur University Act (33 of 1956), S. 1)

Under the rules of the National Council of Education a life member has no right of property in the assets held by the Council. There was no basis for the applicant's claim for any fundamental right under Art 19 (1) (f), of the Constitution, and hence no right of the applicant thereunder was infringed by the Jadavpur University Act. ('59) 63 Cal W N 914 : ILR (1960) 2 Cal 311 : AIR 1960 Cal 120 (122) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

13. Retrospective effect.

●——Art. 19 ( ) (f) — Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (II of 1927) — Scheme framed under Act for a math and executive officer appointed — Courts of law upholding validity of scheme on challenge by Mathadhipathi Property rights of Mathadhipathi are taken away thereby — Court will not examine the validity of the scheme in the light of fundamental rights guranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) merely because implementation of the scheme has been delayed till after Constitution due to litigations and obstruction by Matadhipathi — Fundamental rights are not retrospective in operation. AIR 1955 S C 624, Disting. Jagadguru Kari Basaru Rajendraswami of Govimutt v. Commr. of Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments, Hyderabad, (1965) 1 S C A 429 : 1965 S C D 209 : (1965) 1 S C J 697 : (1965) 1 Andh W R (SC) 128: (1965) 1 Mad L J (SC) 128 : (1965) 1 Andh L T 326 : (1964) 8 S C R 252 : AIR 1965 S C 502 (506, 507) (Pt B) (Pr 13).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) (g) and 246 — Scope and extent of legislative power — Law passed making its provision retrospective — Effect of retrospective operation changing character of legislative competence. Rai Ramkrishna v. State of Bihar, (1963) 50 I T R 171 : AIR 1963 S C 1667 (1673) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

● ——Art. 19 (6) — As amended by the Constitution (First) Amendment Act, 1951—Retrospective effect.

Impugned Act passed prior to Constitution Amendment Act — Validity of impugned Act, is not to be decided by applying new clause introduced by Amendment Act — A statute void for unconstitutionality is dead and cannot be vitalised by a subsequent amendment of the Constitution removing the constitutional objection but must be re-enacted. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C J 819 : (1954) 2 M L J 622 : ILR (1955) 1 All 211 : 1954 S C A 1218: 1955 All W R 23 : 68 Mad L W 8 : 1955 All L J 38 : 1955 S C R 707 : AIR 1954 S C 728 (735, 738) (Pt C) (Prs 15, 23).

——Art. 19 — Scope — Right extinguished before Constitution — If revived. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1959 Andh-Pra 471 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Retrospective operation.

The Constitution has no retrospective effect and the fundamental rights became operative only from the date of the Constitution. Any act done prior to the Constitution, even if it was in violation of the rights guaranteed to a citizen under Chap III, is not affected by it. Though effect is sought to be given to an order after the inauguration of the Constitution, the Constitution cannot be called in aid because that was only in consequence of an act done or an order passed prior to the Constitution coming into being : AIR 1951 S C 128; AIR 1952 S C 339, Rel. on. (1957) 1 Andh W R 228 : AIR 1957 Andh-Pra 373 (374, 375) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

Art. 19 — Sugar (Temporary Excise Duty) Act (9 of 1947), S. 3 — Validity — Article 13 (1) of the Constitution has no retrospective effect — Section is valid for all past transactions and for enforcing all rights and liabilities accrued before the date of the Constitution. 57 Cal W N 216 : AIR 1953 Cal 508 (509) (Pt A (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

——Arts. 19 and 132 (1) — Substantial question of law

Where the decision in question relates to whether the provisions of Art. 19 were retrospective in their application, the matter involves a substantial question of law as to the interpretation of the Constitution. AIR 1953 Him Pra 77 (78) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 (1) — Infringement of fundamental right — Right non esse before Constitution — Acquiescence in infringement — Retrospective operation of Art. 19 — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). AIR 1953 Him Pra 8 (9, 10, 11) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 11, 12, 16).

●——Art. 19—Retrospective effect. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1955 Nag 225 (FB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1), (2) and 13 — Retrospective operation — Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931), S. 19. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1951 Pat 75 (SB).

● ——Art. 19 — Retrospective effect—Order under S. 99-A, Criminal P. C.

When the order of prescription under S. 99A, Criminal P. C., was made long before the Constitution came into force, it cannot be interfered with by virtue of Art. 19 of the Constitution. Premi Khem Raj Sharma v. Chief Secretary, 52 Cri L J 600 : 1951 Raj L W 86: AIR 1951 Raj 113 (116) (Pt G) (Pr 16) (SB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1961 SC 1662].

14. Onus.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6), 13 — Presumption as to constitutionality of legislation—Burden of proof.

There is undoubtedly a presumption in favour of the constitutionality of a legislation. But when an enactment on the face of it is found to violate a fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g), it must be held to be invalid unless those who support the legislation can bring it within the purview of the exception laid down by Cl. (6) of the Article. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C A 1218 : (1954) 2 M L J 622 : 1954 S C J 819 : 1955 All W R 23 : 68 Mad L W 8: 1955 All L J 38 : 1955 S C R 707 : AIR 1954 S C 728 (738) (Pt F) (Pr 23).

——Art. 19 (6) — Reasonableness of restrictions — Burden of proof. See Ibid, Art. 304 (b). AIR 1956 Bom 1.

● ——Art 19 (5) — Reasonable restrictions—Reasonableness — Onus of proof.

Per Meredith C. J.—Where there has been a prima facie infringement of a fundamental right, and prima facie no State law can infringe that right, the burden is on the State to bring that law within the exception contained in Art. 19, cl. (5) which alone can save it. Brajnandan Sharma v. State of Bihar, ILR 29 Pat 461: 52 Cri L J 610: AIR 1950 Pat 322 (325) (Pt E) (Pr 8) (FB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) — Reasonableness of restrictions — Determination of — Onus of proof (Interpretation of Statutes — Constitutional Law) — (C. P. Code (1908), Pre.).

It is for the Courts to decide whether the restrictions are reasonable. AIR 1950 Bom 363 and AIR 1950 Pat 322, Ref.

The presumption is always in favour of the constitutionality of an enactment, and the burden is upon him, who attacks it, to show that there has been a clear transgression of the constitutional principles, AIR 1951 Cal 85 and AIR 1951 S C 41, Rel. on; AIR 1950 Pat 322, Expl.

The statement of objects and reasons accompanying the impugned Act, can be referred to for the purpose of determining the reasonableness of the restriction imposed by it on the fundamental right. Raj Sahiban Shersingh v. State of Rajasthan, ILR (1954) 4 Raj 365 : 1954 Raj L W 296 : AIR 1954 Raj 65 (69, 70) (Pt E) (Prs 21, 22, 27) (FB).

15. Restrictions on the fundamental rights.

(a) Reasonableness of restrictions — Tests.
(b) Article 19 (2).
(c) Article 19 (3).
(d) Article 19 (4).
(e) Article 19 (5).
(f) Article 19 (6).

15. Restrictions on the fundamental rights.

● ——Art. 19 — Legislative power of legislature—Taxing statute — Limitation and restriction imposed on Legislature to enact—Limitation prescribed by Arts. 14 and 19 and reasonableness prescribed by Art. 304 (b) can be considered by Court. See Ibid, Art. 246. AIR 1963 S C 1667.

● ——Art. 19—Reasonableness of restrictions — Procedural provisions of a statute also enter into the verdict as to its reasonableness. AIR 1952 S C 196, Rel. on. Kishan Chand Arora v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, (1961) 2 S C A 150 : (1961) 2 S C J 309 : (1961) Mad L J (Cr) 541 : (1961) 3 S C R 135 : AIR 1961 S C 705 (710) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 19 — Reasonable restrictions — Test of reasonableness.

In order to be reasonable a restriction must have a rational relation to the object which the Legislature seeks to achieve and must not go in excess of that object: AIR 1951 S C 118, Rel. on. The test of reasonableness should be applied to each individual statute impugned, and no abstract standard, or general pattern of reasonableness can be laid down as applicable to all cases. The nature of the right alleged to have been infringed, the underlying purpose of the restrictions imposed, the extent and urgency of the evil sought to be remedied thereby, the disproportion of the imposition, the prevailing conditions at the time, should all enter into the judicial verdict ; AIR 1952 S C 196, Foll. M. C. V. S. Arunachala Nadar v. State of Madras, 1959 S C J 297 : (1959) 1 M L J (S C) 133: (1959) 1 An W R (S C) 133 : (1959) Supp (1) S C R 92 : AIR 1959 S C 300 (303) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 19—'Restrictions'—Meaning of—(Quaere.)

Whether the word 'restrictions' in the various clauses of Art. 19 is used in the sense of limitation or extinction or in other words means and includes total deprivation of the right as well? 1896 A C 88; AIR 1950 S C 27; AIR 1952 Orissa 42 and AIR 1954 S C 220; Ref. to. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C J 819; (1954) 2 M L J 622; ILR (1955) 1 All 211: 1954 S C A 1218 : 1955 All W R 23 : 68 Mad L W 8 : 1955 All L J 38 : 1955 S C R 707 : AIR 1954 S C 728 (737) (Pt D) (Pr 21).

● ——Art. 19—Interpretation of —Rights mentioned in, whether are absolute rights.

Per Das J.—A perusal of Art. 19 makes it abundantly clear that none of the seven rights enumerated in cl. (1) is an absolute right, for each of these rights is liable to be curtailed by laws made or to be made by the State to the extent mentioned in the several cls. (2) to (6) of that Article. Those clauses save the power of the State to make laws imposing certain specified restrictions on the several rights. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Madh W N (Cri)127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (109) (Pt M) (Pr 216).

——Art. 19— Indirect infringement of freedom— Legality.

No law can infringe a freedom guaranteed under Art. 19; this means that no law can infringe it directly or indirectly. Infringement of the freedom is excused on certain grounds mentioned in Art. 19 (2) to (6) and if a law infringing any of the freedoms is to be sustained, it can be sustained on any of the grounds of Art. 19 (2) to (6) and not on the ground that the infringement is not the main object of the law but only an incidental effect of enforcement of its provisions. AIR 1954 Cal 248 Ref. 1957 All L J 509 : 1957 All W R (H C) 573 : AIR 1957 All 561 (573, 574) (Pt M) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Art. 19—Reasonable restrictions — Scope of. See Madras Preservation of Private Forests Act (27 of 1949). AIR 1958 Andh Pra 93 (DB).

——Arts 19, 226, 245—Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), S. 37 (3)—Validity.

The validity of a statute must be judged on the assumption that those who are called upon to exercise those wide powers will exercise them honestly and bona fide. It would be erroneous to suggest that in every case where a fundamental right is sought to be taken away by the administrative order, the provision of the law would be bad because it did not give the citizen the right to make a representation with regard to the deprivation of that right. The order that has got be made under S. 37, Bom. Police Act is clearly an administrative order and it would be erroneous to import into the consideration of an administrative order the principles of natural justice.

Sub-section (3) of S. 37 is a restriction imposed by the Legislature in the interests of public order and in the interest of the general public upon the freedom guaranteed to the citizen under Art. 19 (1) (b) and (d) of the Constitution and that restriction is a reasonable restriction and therefore this provision of the law cannot be said to contravene the provisions of the Constitution so as to render it void. 58 Bom L R 418: ILR (1956) Bom 753 : 1956 Cr L J 598 : AIR 1956 Bom 300 (301, 302, 303) (Pt A).(Prs 4, 5, 12) (DB).

——Art. 19—Restrictions in procedural part—Reasonableness.

Whether a statute imposes restrictions which are reasonable or unreasonable in the interest of the general public must depend not only upon the substantive provisions in the impugned piece of legislation, but also upon the procedure contemplated in the legislation. Reasonable substantive provisions might well be rendered wholly unreasonable by the procedure which an Act prescribes. 1950 S C R (C W N Supplement) 258, Foll. 55 Cal W N 778 : AIR 1951 Cal 111 (116) (Pt F) (Pr 48) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Reasonable restrictions—Test of reasonableness—It must mean that the restriction imposed must not be greater than what is necessary to meet the requirement of the case or the mischief it is intended to prevent. 55 C W N 433 : AIR 1951 Cal 85 (88) (Pt B) (Pr 33) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 92.]

——Arts. 19, 13 — Validity of statutory provision impugned — Court how will proceed —Reasonable restriction.

In considering the validity of an impugned statutory provision, the Court proceeds on the basis that the statutory authority will exercise the power reasonably and that such a power will not normally be abused. All the same to widen by an amending Act the scope of a statutory power already held invalid by the Court does not help to establish the reasonableness of the restriction imposed by the same amending Act. 69 Mad L W 337 : (1956) 1 Mad L J 532 : AIR 1956 Mad 491 (495) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—'Reasonable' meaning of.

The expression "reasonable" is so wide and elastic that a Court should not ordinarily strike down any restrictive provision as void as being not reasonable, unless it appears to the Court that a different view could not be taken with any justification. (1953) 1 M L J 561 : 66 Mad L W 197 : 1953 Mad W N 224 : 1953 Cri L J 1174 : ILR (1953) Mad 937 : AIR 1953 Mad 664 (670, 671) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) – Reasonable restrictions — Meaning of.

Reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right conferred by Art. 19 may contain substantive as well as precedural provisions. The possibility of the favour being abused in the hands of the executive may not be altogether irrelevant. 1950 S C J 328 and 571, Rel. on. 1952 Mad W N 299 : 1952-1 Mad L J 557 : AIR 1952 Mad 613 (636) (Pt K) (Pr 35) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 25, 26 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 28 (2) (s)—Validity.

The possibility that a power may be abused is not a proper test in examining the constitutional validity of a law. As S. 28 (2) (s) of the Bihar Act of 1951, stands, there is no reason to hold that the provision is in any way unreasonable or that there is encroachment on the guarantee of religious freedom under Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution. ILR 33 Pat 682 : AIR 1957 Pat 615 (617) (Pt D) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Fundamental rights — Restrictions on —Reasonableness—Court's power to enquire into.

There is no doubt that the proper Court can scrutinize the restrictions imposed on fundamental rights under Art. 19 in a statute to see whether they are reasonable. ILR 34 Pat 855 : 1957 Cr L J 648 : AIR 1957 Pat 252 (255, 257) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 31—Deprivation of right.

When an enactment deprives a person of a right, it cannot be regarded as the law placing restrictions upon the enjoyment of that right. Case-law rel. on. ILR (1954) Patiala 433 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 161 (167) (Pt B) (Pr 17) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 222.]

——Art. 19—Reasonableness of restrictions—Statutes vesting discretionary powers on executive authority —When can be attacked.

Statutes which confer discretionary powers on executive officers without prescribing rules for guidance can be successfully attacked on the ground that they confer arbitrary and uncontrolled powers which render them invalid; but there are certain cases in which this general rule does not apply. In the first place, the validity of statute cannot be called into question where, for example, it vests arbitrary power in a public servant when it is difficult or impracticable to lay down a definite or comprehensive rule. Secondly statutes conferring discretion on public servants to grant or to deny applications for licences have been upheld where the discretion was to be exercised with respect to the personal fitness of the applicant. Thirdly, the Courts are reluctant to invalidate a statute when the arbitrary or uncontrolled power relates merely to matters involving the exercise of discretion as to details in enforcing valid statutes. Fourthly, arbitrary discretion as to the granting of licences may be delegated to public officials without prescribing definite rules of action where such discretion relates to a business the carrying on of which is harmful to the public and has been given in order to protect the welfare of the public, such as business in the purchase and sale of intoxicating liquors. 58 Punj L R 426 : ILR (1957) Punj 166 : AIR 1957 Punj 20 (22, 23) (Pt C)(Prs 6, 7, 8, 9, 10) (DB).

——Art. 19—Reasonable restrictions.

It is open to the legislative authority of a country to subject both persons and property to restraint in order to secure the general comfort, health, welfare and prosperity of the people of the State. If these restraints are reasonable and are imposed in the public interest, the validity of the law by which they are imposed cannot be called into question. 56 Punj L R 403 : ILR (1955) Punj 331 : AIR 1954 Punj 247 (249) (Pt A) (Pr 7) DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9.]

15 (a). Reasonableness of restrictions—Tests.

——Arts. 19 and 14—Restrictions on fundamental rights under Art. 19—Reasonableness of restrictions —Scope of enquiry—Tests of rational classification adopted for Art 14—If can be called in aid.

When the denial of equality before the law is based on the ground that the power vested, say, in an administrative authority to affect rights guaranteed to a citizen is arbitrary, being unguided or uncanalised the vesting of such a power would also amount to the imposition of an unreasonable restriction on the exercise of the guaranteed right to trade or carry on a business, etc. Where the legislation is challenged on the ground that the law with the definite guidance for which it provides has outstepped the limits of the Constitution by imposing a restraint which is either uncalled for or unreasonable in the circumstances, the scope and content of the enquiry is far removed from the tests of conformity under Art. 19 (5) or (6) to rational classification, adopted for judging whether the law has contravened the requirements of equal protection under Art. 14. Collector of Custom, Madras v. Sampathu Chetty (962) 1 S C J 68 : 1962 Mad L J (Cr) 1 : (1962) 1 Mad L J (S C) 43 : (1962) 1 Andh W R (S C) 43 : 1962 (1) Cr L J 364 : (1962) 3 S C R 786 : AIR 1962 S C 316 (325) (Pt C) (Pr 16).

● —Art. 19 — Restrictions on fundamental right under—Tests of reasonableness —American decisions on 'due process' clause of American Constitution — Use of.

Though the tests of 'reasonableneas' laid down by Cls (2) to (6) of Art. 19 might in great part coincide with that for judging of 'due process' under the American Constitution it must not be assumed that these are identical, for it has to be borne in mind that the Constitution framers deliberately avoided in this context the use of the expression 'due process' with its comprehensiveness, flexibility and attendant vagueness, in favour of a somewhat more definite word 'reasonable', and caution has, therefore to be exercised before the literal application of American decisions AIR 1957 S C 297. Foll. Collector of Customs, Madras v. Sampathu Chetty, (1962) 1 S C J 68 : 1962 Mad L J (Cr) 1 : 1962) 1 Mad L J (SC) 43: (1962) 1 Andh W R (S C) 43 : 1962 (1) Cr L J 364 : (1962) 3 S C R 780 : AIR 1962 S C 316 (328) (Pt D) (Pr 23).

● —Art. 19 (1) (b) Reasonable restrictions — Who is to decide reasonableness. M H. Quareshi v. State of Bihar, 1958 S C A 783 : 1958 S C J 975 : (1958) Mad L J (Cri) 727 : AIR 1958 S C 731 (744) (Pt J) (Pr 21).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (g), 19 (2), 19 (6)—Reasonableness of restrictions — Test of — Validity of Ss. 2 and 3 Punjab Act (38 of 1956) — (Punjab Special Powers (Press) Act (38 of 1956), Ss. 2, 3 (1)).

No abstract standard or general pattern of reasonableness can be laid down as applicable to all cases. The nature of the right alleged to have been infringed, the underlying purpose of the restrictions imposed, the extent and urgency of the evil sought to be remedied thereby etc., should all enter into the judicial verdict. AIR 1952 S C 196, Rel. on.

It is certainly, a serious encroachment on the valuable and cherished right to freedom of speech and expression if a newspaper is prevented from publishing its own views or the views of its correspondents relating to or concerning what may be the burning topic of the day. Our social interests ordinarily demand the free propagation and interchange of views, but circumstances may arise when the social interests in public order may require reasonable subordination of the social interest in free speech and expression to the needs of our social interest in public order. The Constitution recognizes this necessity and has attempted to strike a balance between the two social interests. It permits the imposition of reasonable restrictions on the freedom of speech and expression in the interest of public order and on the freedom of carrying on trade or business in the interest of the general public. Therefore, the crucial question must always be : Are the restrictions imposed on the exercise of the rights under Arts 19 (1) (a) and 19 (1) (g) reasonable in view of all the surrounding circumstances?

The power under S. 2 of the Punjab Act cannot, in view of the attending circumstances, be characterised as unreasonable and outside the protection given by Art. 19 (2) or Art. 19 (6). Section 2 must be held to have imposed reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the rights guaranteed by Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (1) (g) in the interest of public order and of the general public and is protected by Arts 19 (2) and 19 (6). There is provision made for any representation being made to the State Government The absence of the safeguards in S. 3 clearly makes its provisions unreasonable and hence, ultra vires the State Legislature. Virendra v State of Punjab, (1958) S C J 88 : 1958 S C C 1 : 1958 S C A 891 : 1958 S C R 308 : AIR 1957 S C 896 (900, 902) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15, 19).

● —Art. 19—Reasonableness of restrictions—Test.

The test of reasonableness, wherever prescribed, should be applied to each individual statute impugned, and no abstract standard or general pattern of reasonableness can be laid down as applicable to all cases. The nature of the right alleged to have been infringed, the underlying purpose of the restrictions imposed, the extent and urgency of the evil sought to be remedied thereby the disproportion of the imposition, prevailing conditions at the time, should all enter into the judicial verdict. In evaluating such elusive factors and forming their own conception of what is reasonable, in all the circumstances of a given case, it is inevitable that the social philosophy and the scale of values of the judges participating in the decision should play an important part, and the limit to their interference with legislative judgment in such cases can only be dictated by their sense of responsibility and self-restraint and the sobering reflection that the Constitution is meant not only for people of their way of thinking but for all, and that the majority of the elected representatives of the people have, in authorising the imposition of the restrictions, considered them to be reasonable. State of Madras v Row V. G. 1952 Mad W N 397 : 1952 Mad W N Cri 101 : 65 Mad L W 420 : 1952 S C J 253 : 1952 Cri L J 966 : 1952-2 Mad L J 135 : 1952 S C R 597 90 Cal L J 218 : (1952) S C A 399 : AIR 1952 S C 196 (199) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

● —Arts. 19 and 14 — Tests of reasonableness in Art. 14 and Art 19 are not the same. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1961 Cal 578 (SB).

—Art. 19 — Reasonable restrictions—West Bengal Oriental Gas Company Act (15 of 1960)—Validity.

Reasonable restrictions have to be considered from the standpoint of the interest of the public and not from the point of view of persons upon whom restrictions are imposed. Reasonableness has to be judged in an objective manner. The restrictions imposed under the State Act, XV of 1960, show that it was necessary for a public purpose to requisition the company for purposes of management and control and it was necessary to remedy the evil of low supply of gas. It was therefore in the interest of the general public that the State should restrict the management of the company in order to secure and control the supply of gas. It was in public utility and purpose that the restriction on management was reasonable. The Act was not ultra vires Art. 19 of the Constitution. AIR 1958 S C 731 and A I R 1952 S C 196 and AIR 1952 S C 252 Rel. on. 65 Cal W N 545 : AIR 1961 Cal 267 (284) (Pt G) (Pr 40).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1044].

—Art. 19 (5)—Reasonable restriction—Restriction on fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f)—Test of "reasonableness".

"The phrase 'reasonable restriction' connotes that the limitation imposed on a person in enjoyment of the right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature beyond what is required in the interests of the public. The word 'reasonable' implies intelligent care and deliberation, that is, the choice of a course which reason dictates ; AIR 1951 S C 118 (119), Foll The reasonableness of the restrictions which may be placed upon the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) must be adjudged in the light of the character and the extent of that right and general interest of the public which may be served by the restrictions. A close and strict scrutiny into the matter of reasonableness of the restrictions is necessary when the restriction amounts to total deprivation of property. AIR 1960 S C 430, Rel on. 1964 Jab L J 527: 1964 M P L J 874 : AIR 1965 Madh Pra 77 (82, 83) (Pt F) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 19—Test of unreasonableness.

In testing the unreasonableness of restrictions for the purposes of Art. 19, the procedural provisions of the statute should also be looked into along with the substantive provisions. I L R (1957) Cut 71: 23 Cut L T 67: AIR 1957 Orissa 56 (62) (Pt G) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—Test of reasonableness.

The test of reasonableness under Art. 19 (5) cannot be laid down in an abstract or universal manner. The test must depend upon the subject-matter of the statute which is challenged in each particular case. AIR 1952 S C 196, Foll. 1956 B L J R 210 : 1956 Cri L J 640 : ILR 35 Pat 102: A I R 1956 Pat 137 (141) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—Test of reasonableness.

There is no uniform standard, no uniform pattern of reasonableness which can be laid down in the abstract. The test of reasonableness prescribed under Art. 19 (5) must depend upon the scope, the subject-matter and the context of each individual statute which is impugned. AIR 1952 S C 196 and AIR 1950 S C 211, Rel. on. 33 Pat 198 : A I R 1954 Pat 340 (345) (Pt F) (Pr 7) (DB).

● ——Art. 19—Reasonable restrictions — Test of — Duty of Court.

In determining whether a particular thing is reasonable the Court is called upon to consider the question of right and wrong, justice and fairness. What is reasonable is primarily for the decision of the legislature and ultimately for that of the Court. If the Court is satisfied that the restriction is reasonable it should have no difficulty in upholding the validity of the statute. If it is in doubt the Court must resolve the doubt in favour of the validity of the statute If, however, the Court comes to entertain the view that the restriction is unreasonable beyond a reasonable doubt or if it is satisfied that the statute is manifestly in contravention of the Constitution it would plainly be the duty of the Court to interfere. Sardha Ram v. Haji Abdul Majid, 62 Punj L R 201 : A I R 1960 Punj 196 (199) (Pt D) (Prs 10, 11) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1962 S C 1476].

15 (b). Article 19 (2).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) (b), (2) (3)— Reasonable restrictions —Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C.

Some of the objects for securing which an order under S 144 Criminal P. C. can be passed are 'to prevent obstruction, annoyance, injury' etc. No doubt, the prevention of such activities would be in the 'public interest' but it would be no less in the interest of maintenance of 'public order' within the meaning of Art. 19 (2) and (3). Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 SCJ 524 : (1961) 1 Andh (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : 1961 Mad L J (Cr) 297 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 16 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 Andh L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (888) (Pt A) (Pr 16).

● ——Art. 19 (2 to (6)—Scope — Clauses (2) to (6) of Art 19 do not require the making of a law solely for the purpose of placing the restrictions mentioned in them —S 144, Criminal P. C, can serve the purpose. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 An W R (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : 1961 2) Cr L J 16 : 1961 S C D 597 : 1961 M L J (Cr) 297 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 An L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (888) (Pt B) (Pr 17).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) (b), (2) (3)— S. 144, Criminal P. C. —Validity.

Though there is no express mention anywhere in S. 144, Criminal P. C. that the order of the magistrate should be preceded by an enquiry, we must construe the section as a whole. The latter part of sub-S. (1) of S. 144 specifically mentions that the order of the magistrate should set out the material facts of the case which is not possible unless he makes an enquiry. Clearly, therefore the section does not confer an arbitrary power on the magistrate in the matter of making an order. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 SCJ 524 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : 1961 Mad L J (Cr) 297 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 16 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 Andh L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L T 327 : 1961 S C D 597 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (888) (Pt C) (Pr 18).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (2), (3)— S. 144, Criminal P. C. —Validity.

Wide though the power under S 144, Cr P C. appears to be, it can be exercised only in an emergency and for the purpose of preventing obstruction annoyance or injury to any person lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or a disturbance of the public tranquillity or a riot, or affray These factors condition the exercise of the power and it would consequently be wrong to regard that power as being unlimited or untrammelled. Further no one has a right to cause obstruction, annoyance or injury etc. to anyone. Since the judgment has to be of a Magistrate as to whether in the particular circumstances of a case an order in exercise of these powers should be made or not, the Court is entitled to assume that the powers will be exercised legitimately and honestly. The section cannot be struck down on the ground that the Magistrate may possibly abuse his powers. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 An W R (SC) 154 (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : 1961 M L J (Cr) 297 1961 (2) Cr L J 16 (1961) 2 S C A 497 : (1961) Andh L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : 1961 S C D 597 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (889) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

● Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (2), (3)—Reasonable restrictions— S 144 Criminal P. C —Validity.

The satisfaction of the Magistrate as to the necessity of promulgating an order under s 144, Cr P. C., is not made entirely subjective by the section. Even where an ex parte order is made the person or persons affected thereby have a right to challenge the order of the Magistrate. Under sub-sec. (5), where such a challenge is made the Magistrate has to give an early opportunity to the person concerned, of appearing before him and showing cause against the order. The decision of the Magistrate in such a proceeding would undoubtedly be a judicial one and he will have to set aside the order unless he comes to the conclusion that the grounds on which it rests are in law sufficient to warrant it. Since the propriety of the order is open to challenge it cannot be said that by reason of the wide amplitude of the power which S. 144 confers on certain Magistrates it places unreasonable restrictions on certain fundamental rights. Again, though no appeal has been provided in the Code against the Magistrate's order under S. 144, the High Court has power under S. 435 read with S. 439 of the Code to entertain an application for the revision of such an order. The conferral under S. 144 of a power on a Magistrate to place restrictions on the rights to which sub-cls. (a) and (b) of Art. 19 relate is therefore reasonable. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 An W R (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : (1961) Mad L J (Cr) 297 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : (1961) Andh L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 16 : 1961 S C D 597 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (889, 890) (Pt G) (Prs 22, 23).

● —Arts. 19 (2), 19 (6), 19 (1) (a) —Rights under— Difference between total prohibition and restriction— Ss. 2 and 3 of the Punjab Special Powers (Press) Act (38 of 1956) Validity. Virendra v. State of Purjab. 1958 S C J 88 : AIR 1957 S C 896 (899) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

● —Art. 19 (2) — Reasonableness of restrictions — Test of —Validity of Ss. 2 and 3 of the Punjab Act (38 of 1956)—Virendra v. State of Punjab. 1958 S C J 88 : AIR 1957 S C 896 (900 to 903) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15, 19).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (2) — Applicability — S. 295-A, Penal Code, if protected by Art. 19 (2).

Section 295-A, Penal Code falls well within the protection of Cl. (2) of Art. 19, as being a law imposing reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right to freedom of speech and expression guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (a). The language employed in the amended Cl. (2) of Art. 19 is "in the interests of" and not "for the maintenance of" and the expression "in the interests of" makes the ambit of the protection very wide. A law may not have been designed to directly maintain public order and yet it may have been enacted in the interests of public order. The right to freedom of religion assured by Arts. 25 and 26 is expressly made subject to public order, morality and health. Clause (2) of Art. 19 protects a law imposing reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right to freedom of speech "in the interests of public order", which is much wider than "for maintenance of" public order. If, therefore, certain activities have a tendency to cause public disorder, a law penalising such activities as an offence cannot but be held to be a law imposing reasonable restriction "in the interests of public order" although in some cases those activities may not actually lead to a breach of public order.

The language employed in section 295-A is not wide enough to cover restrictions both within and without the limits of constitutionally permissible legislative action affecting the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (a) and consequently the question of severability does not arise. Ramji Lal Modi v. State of U. P., 1957 S C R 860 : 1957 S C J 522 : (1957) 2 Andh W R (S C) 65 : (1957) 2 M L J (S C) 65 : 1957 Cri L J 1006 : 1957 S C C 334 : 1957 All L J 773 : 1957 M P C 653 : 1957 B L J R 723 : 1958 S C A 157 : 1957 M L J (Cr.) 771 : 60 Punj L R 11 : 1957 All W R (H C) 626 : A I R 1957 S C 620 (622, 623) (Prs 7, 8, 9).

● —Art. 19 (2) — Reasonable restriction — When Justifiable.

In order to justify a restriction on freedom of speech imposed under the purported authority of Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution, there must be in the activity a tendency to cause public disorder, if not a calculated tendency. Ram Nandan v. State, 1959 All Cri R 1 : I L R (1958) 2 All 84 : 1958 All L J 793 : 1958 All W R (H C) 796 : 1959 Cri L J 128 : A I R 1959 All 101 (111, 114) (Pt C) (Prs 27, 42) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 922.]

—Art. 19—Reasonable restrictions—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144 — Whether imposes unreasonable restrictions on fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19.

Under S. 144 of the Code a Magistrate can direct a person to abstain from doing any of the acts the right to do which is guaranteed under Art. 19. Therefore, S. 144, through an order passed under it by a Magistrate imposes restrictions upon the rights guaranteed by Art. 19. If the acts are likely to cause obstruction, annoyance etc., they must be prevented. The Magistrate is required to state material facts to justify his passing the order.

The reasonableness of an order passed under S. 144 can be challenged before the same Magistrate or a superior Magistrate or according to one view before the High Court, or in prosecution under S. 188, Penal Code for disobedience of the order. In a prosecution there is a regular trial with a right of appeal and the Court is not merely permitted to test the reasonableness of the order; it is required to be satisfied by the prosecution that the disobedience of the order caused or tended to cause obstruction, annoyance, etc. The law has fixed a maximum period which cannot be said to be unreasonable and the person to whom the order is addressed has been given a right to show cause against it. A Magistrate is given wide powers to pass any order under S. 144. The provisions are meant to be applied in all sorts of emergencies. A large volume of discretion had to be conferred upon the Magistrate. When the section lays down the conditions that immediate prevention or speedy remedy is desirable and that the directions proposed to be issued are likely to prevent obstructions, etc., it cannot be said that the section empowers the Magistrate to pass arbitrary or unrasonable orders or orders of an excessive nature. The constitutionality of an enactment must be tested in the light of the interpretation placed upon it by the High Court. There is nothing unreasonable in the substantive law or in the procedural law in respect of the restrictions imposed by S. 144 on the rights guaranteed under Art. 19. (Tests of reasonableness discussed with reference to case law). 1956 All L J 671 : 1956 Cri L J 1026 : A I R 1956 All 481 (484, 485) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

—Arts. 19 (1), (2) and (3) and 13 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144 - Constitutionality — Restrictions imposed by S. 144 on fundamental right whether within permissible limits in Art. 19 (2) and (3).

The permissible limits of restrictions under Art. 19 (2) and (3) that can be imposed upon the rights guaranteed vary from right to right whereas permissible limits for imposing restrictions under S. 144 do not vary from act to act. Secondly, the permissible limits for imposing restrictions on any act mentioned in Art. 19 (1) under S. 144 are different from those for imposing restrictions under Art 19 (2), (3). Not only are they different but also S. 144, allows a much wider field for imposing restrictions than Art. 19 (2), (3). Restrictions on any of the acts mentioned in Art. 19 (1) (b) can be only in the interests of public order, but S. 144 allows restrictions not only in the interests of preventing a disturbance of the public tranquillity but also in the interests of preventing obstruction, annoyance or injury, to human life, health or safety. The restrictions that can validly be imposed on the freedom of speech and expression are those in the interests of public order, decency or morality or in relation to incitement to an offence. Similar is the case with other acts mentioned in Art. 19 (1). It cannot be doubted that at least to the extent that S. 144 permits restrictions in excess of those permitted by Art. 19 (2), (3) it is void under Art. 13. The provision in S. 144 empowering a Magistrate to direct a person to abstain from a certain act or to take certain order with certain property in his possession or under his management, imposes restrictions permitted by Art. 19 (2) and (3) upon the rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b). 1956 All L J 671 : 1956 Cri L J 1026 : AIR 1956 All 481 (485, 486) (Pt E) (Prs 8, 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) — Freedom of speech and expression—Limitations on.

Whatever limitations exist on the freedom of speech in this country are those mentioned in sub-Cl. (2) of Art. 19 and no other. If there were any doubt on the point it is removed by the latest amendment to sub-Cl. (2) by which the words 'incitement to an offence' have been added. Art. 19 (1) must therefore, be taken as a command of the broadest scope that explicit language, read in the context of sub-Cl. (2) will allow.

The restrictions in Art. 19 (2) being in the nature of exceptions to the general rule of the absoluteness of freedom of speech and expression are to be directly construed. Moreover, since the exceptions to the absolute freedom of speech and thought are specifically and expressly laid down in the Constitution, there can be no other exceptions than those which are so specifically and expressly mentioned. If the liberty of a citizen is curtailed by any law then it must be shown that the law falls within the four corners of these exceptions and it must also be shown that the restrictions are reasonable.

The freedoms, as enumerated in Art. 19 (1), are made subject to the succeeding clauses of the same Article, and when judging the constitutionality of an Act the Courts in India have to judge those Acts according to the provisions of the Constitution itself. 1955 Cri L J 623 : ILR (1955) 1 All 355 : A I R 1955 All 193 (203, 204 214, 217) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 50, 67) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a), (2) (as amended in 1951) — Validity of S. 144, Criminal P. C. See Criminal P. C., S. 144. A I R 1954 All 738.

——Art. 19 (2) (before amendment) — Law relating to—Meaning—(Words aad Phrases).

The expression 'law relating to' contemplates that the relation must be real, reasonable and proximate and not far fetched or problematical. A I R 1950 S C 87 and A I R 1951 S C 118, Rel. on. 1954 All W R (H C) 334 : 1954 Cri L J 1212 : A I R 1954 All 562 (567) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a), (2)—Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C.—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144).

The question whether there was apprehension of the breach of the peace must be left to the Magistrate. Unless the order passed by a Magistrate under S. 144, Criminal P. C., is on the face of it absurd or is mala fide there is no reason for the High Court to interfere. 1953 Cri L J 1358 : 1953 All L J 419 : 1953 All W R (H C) 499 : A I R 1953 All 577 (578) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Reasonable restrictions. See Public Safety—Assam Maintenance of Public Order Act (5 of 1947) S. 2 (1). A I R 1953 Assam 209 (DB).

——Art. 19 (2) — Police (Incitement to Disaffection) Act (1922), S. 3—Validity — Restriction imposed by S. 3 not unlimited and so not unreasonable.

In view of the Explanation to S. 3 and of S. 4, it cannot be held, that the restriction imposed by S. 3 of the Act is unlimited or that it would include in its purview even innocent expressions of disapprobation against Government or its measures or the conditions of service of the constabulary. Hence the restriction is not 'unreasonable'. A I R 1950 S C 124, Expl.; A I R 1959 All 101 (F B), Disting.; A I R 1954 Pat 254, Rel. on. 62 Bom L R 206 : 1960 Nag L J 244 : I L R (1960) Bom 305 : 1960 Cri L J 1192 : A I R 1960 Bom 399 (402) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2)—Scope of Art. 19 (2) after its amendment stated. A I R 1955 N U C (Cal) 4507.

——Art. 19 (2) (As amended in 1951)—Retrospective effect.

The amendment of Art 19 (2) by S. 3 (a) of the Constitution First Amendment Act, 1951, is not retrospective in its effect: 1951 S C J 182, Rel. on. 55 Cal W N 745 : 52 Cri L J 1422 : A I R 1951 Cal 176 (178) (Pt B) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (2), 309 — Government Servants Conduct Rules, 1950 (Trav-Co), Rr. 70 and 72 — Taking part in politics and elections — Prosecution and dismissal of Government servant for violation of these rules — Rules not being framed under Art. 309 of the Constitution are not 'law' and hence not competent to impose restrictions on fundamental rights — Proceedings vitiated. 1963 Ker L J 463 : (1963) 1 Ker L R 455 : 1963 Ker L T 508 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 211 : I L R (1963) 1 Ker 622 : A I R 1964 Ker 227 (232) (Pt A) (Pr 22).

——Art. 19 (1) (b), (c) and (d) — Nature of rights guaranteed by Art. 19—Permissible limits of restriction—Test of reasonableness — Some important considerations in applying test — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144 (6)—Power conferred under sub-s. (6) violates Art. 19 (1) (b), (c) and (d) of the Constitution and is unconstitutional.

The guarantee of fundamental rights under Art. 19 of the Constitution is not absolute. The rights and powers under the Constitution are largely means of protection of important social and individual interests.

The test of reasonableness for determining the permissible limits of restriction in Cls. (2) to (6) should be applied to each individual statute impugned. It is not possible to lay down any abstract standard of reasonableness as applicable to all cases. Some of the important considerations in applying the test of reasonableness are the nature of the right alleged to have been infringed and the underlying purpose of the restrictions imposed. A I R 1952 S C 196, Foll.

Section 144 (6), Criminal P. C., confers wide amplitude of power on the State Government to deprive a citizen of his right of movement and the right of association for an indefinite period of time. The citizen affected has no right to make any representation to the state Government. He has no right of appeal or revision to any higher authority from the order of the State Government. The absence of these important safeguards makes the enactment of S. 144, sub-s. (6), Criminal P. C., unconstitutional, and there is violation of the guarantee conferred by Art. 19 (1) (b), (c) and (d) of the Constitution. A I R 1957 S C 896, Rel. on; A I R 1956 Bom 300, Dissent. from and held not authoritative in view of Supreme Court decision in A I R 1957 S C 896. 1962 B L J R 236 : 1962 (2) Cri L J 203 : I L R 41 Pat 871 : A I R 1962 Pat 292 (295, 296) (Prs 7, 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2) — Reasonable restriction — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144 is not unreasonable.

Section 144 is covered by the provisions of Cl. (2) of Art. 19, for if the impugned restrictive law is examined in its substantive and procedural aspects it would be found to be not wanting in the attribute of reasonableness. It is true that the authority to decide whether a particular order should or should not be passed has been vested in the District Magistrate, but the vesting of authority in a particular officer to take prompt action under emergent circumstances entirely on his own responsibility or personal satisfaction is not necessarily unreasonable. 58 Pun L R 464 : 1957

Cri L J 88 : 1957 All W R (Sup) 21 : I L R (1957) Punj 218 : A I R 1957 Punj 1 (4) (Pt F) (Prs 11, 12) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2)—Test of reasonableness—Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C.—Enquiry into propriety.:

A Court which is required to pronounce upon the propriety of an order passed under S. 144, Criminal P. C., should enquire whether the "words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature" that a reasonable man would anticipate the evil result. This enquiry should be made in the light of the following principles, viz.,

(1) that the Constitution has given an honoured place to the great democratic freedoms secured by Art. 19 ;

(2) that the power of the State to abridge freedom of speech is the exception rather than the rule ;

(3) that the character of the right, not of the limitation, determines the propriety of the restrictions, and

(4) that however complete may be the right of the press to state public things and discuss them, that right, as every other right enjoyed by human society, is subject to the restrictions which separate right from wrong doing. 58 Punj L R 464 : 1957 Cri L J 88 : 1957 All W R (Sup) 21 : I L R (1957) Punj 218 : A I R 1957 Punj 1 5) (Pt H) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a), (c) and (2) — Rajasthan Government Servants' and Pensioners' Conduct Rules. R. 23 —Constitutional validity—Rules prohibiting Government Servants from becoming members of association not recognised by Government—Question of recognition left to arbitrary discretion of Executive — Rules are ultra vires the Constitution as denying fundamental rights of Government servants including members of the police force as a class. See Ibid, Art. 309. 1963 (2) Cri L J 50 : A I R 1963 Raj 136 (DB).

15 (c). Article 19 (3).

——Art. 19 (3) - Right to assemble under Art. 19 (1) (b) — Not an absolute right — Jammu and Kashmir Security Rules R. 50 - Validity of — Rule is not ultra vires the Constitution — Prohibition of public meetings not unreasonable restriction — Rule does not constitute delegated legislation, in view of preamble to Ordinance 1 of Smt 2003 and heading of the rule. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (b). AIR 1964 J & K 23 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (b) and (3) — Criminal Procedure Code, S. 144 Jurisdiction — Section 144 is not ultra vires and imposes reasonable restrictions.

Reading all the words of S. 144, Criminal Procedure Code together it is clear that the section comes within the provisions of clause (3) of Art. 19, Constitution of India and the restrictions imposed by S. 144, Criminal P. C., are reasonable restrictions. 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 117.

——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (1) — Public order — Trying to organise meetings, processions and hartals, is covered by Cls. (b), (c) and (d) of Art. 19 (1) — So long as there is no violence, disturbance of public order or tranquillity does not come in—Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (b) (c) and (d)—See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (1). A I R 1955 Raj 6.

——Art. 19 (3)—Reasonable restrictions, if amount to total prohibition. See Travancore-Cochin Police Act (2 of 1952), S. 26. A I R 1954 Trav Co 47 (DB).

15 (d). Article 19 (4).

——Arts. 19 (4) and 19 (1) (c) — Citizen complaining that his right to form association has been violated or unduly restricted —Court cannot surrender its own judgment in favour of any other organ of State. (1959-60) 17 F J R 290 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 745 : AIR 1960 All 45 (50, 51) (Pt D) (Pr 18).

——Art. 19 (4)—Restriction whether unreasonable—While deciding question Court has to consider "prevailing conditions at the time".

It is the duty of the Court when it is called upon to decide whether a particular statute imposes unreasonable restriction on any fundamental right to take into consideration the prevailing conditions at the time. The words "prevailing conditions" include the state of affairs in the realm in all their aspects, political, social, economic, as well as the urgent needs of the society and the public interest at any given time. (1959-60) 17 F J R 290 : (1960 1 Lab L J 745 : A I R 1960 All 45 (50, 51) (Pt E) (Pr 18).

● ——Art. 19 (4)—"Reasonable restrictions" — How to be determined.

What restrictions are reasonable is for the Court to decide. There can be no absolute standard of reasonableness. In deciding on the reasonableness of the restrictions, it is not possible to think only in the abstract. Several circumstances must be taken into consideration, in particular, the purpose of the Act, the conditions prevailing in the country at the time, the duration of the restriction, its extent and nature. Further, in deciding on the reasonableness or otherwise of the restrictions imposed by law, the substantive as well as the procedural provisions of the law should be examined. Rao, V. G. v. State of Madras, 52 Cri L J 515 : (1951 1 Mad L J 628 : A I R 1951 Mad 147 (179) (Pt F) (Pr 90) (FB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (c) & (4)—Reasonableness—Test.

As for the test of reasonableness it is well settled that the Court is to be the Judge of reasonableness. In deciding on the reasonableness or otherwise of the restrictions imposed by a law the substantive as well as the procedural provisions of the law should be examined. A I R 1950 S C 27, A I R 1950 S C 211, Foll. George Chandagamury v. State 1952 Ker L T 178 : 1952 Cri L J 1066 : I L R (1952) Trav Co 1 : AIR 1952 Trav-Co 217 (223) (Pt E) (Prs 14, 15) (FB).

15 (e). Article 19 (5).

● ——Art. 19 (5) — Law depriving person of his property—Invalid if it infringes Art 19 (1) (f) —State can establish that the law depriving person of his fundamental right amounts to reasonable restriction. See Constitution of India, Art. 31 (1). AIR 1960 SC 1080.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Madras Marumakkathayam (Removal of Doubts) Act (32 of 1955) — Validity.

As between citizens, the individual proprietary rights are ordinarily respected unless a clear case is made out for imposing restrictions thereon. There must, therefore, be harmonious balancing between the fundamental rights declared by Art. 19 (1) and the social control permitted by Art 19 (5). The restrictions sought to be imposed must not be arbitrary but must have reasonable relation to the object sought to be achieved and must be in the interests of the general public. AIR 1952 S C 196; (1869) 14 Law Ed. 510 and (1872) 22 Law Ed. 455, Rel, on is also not in the public interest and the Act is not saved by Art. 19 (5). A I R 1952 Cal 273 (FB), Approved. Kochuni v. States of Madras and Kerala, 1960 Ker L J 1077 : 1960 Ker L T (SC) 31 : (1960) 2 S C A 412 : (1960) 3 S C R 887 : (1961) 2 S C J 443 : A I R 1960 S C 1080 (1097, 1098, 1099, 1104, 1105) (Pt N) (Prs 35, 41, 52, 53, 55).

The tests laid down in S. 2 (a), (b) and (c) of the Madras Marumakkathayam (Removal of Doubts) Act (32 of 1955) are arbitrary. In effect the Act in the guise of applying certain tests seeks to convert certain sthanams into tarwads. The Act is only a legislative device to take the property of one and vest it in another without compensation, and therefore, on its face stamped with unreasonableness. In short, the Act is ex-proprietary in character and is directly hit by Art. 19 (1) (f). The reform introduced by the Act

● —Arts. 19 (5) and 19 (6) — Reasonableness of restrictions—Comparison with corrosponding provision of English Act—Not proper test.

It is not a proper method of judging the reasonableness of the restrictions to compare every section of the Act with the corresponding English Act and then to hold it unreasonable merely because the corresponding section of the two Acts are different. Hamdard Dawakhana v. Union of India, (1960) 1 S C A 314 : 1960 Cri L J 735 : 1960 S C J 611 : (1960) 2 M L J (SC) 1 : (1960) 2 Andh W R (SC) 1 : 1960 M L J (Cri) 358 : (1960) 1 Ker L R 746 : (1960) 2 S C R 671 : AIR 1960 S C 554 (565) (Pt F) (Pr 25).

● —Arts. 19 (5) and 19 (6) — Reasonable restrictions—Test of reasonableness.

The test of reasonableness, wherever prescribed, should be applied to each individual statute impugned, and no abstract standard, or general pattern of reasonableness can be laid down as applicable to all cases. It is the duty of the Court to decide whether a particular statute satisfies the objective test of 'reasonableness'. A I R 1952 S C 196, Rel. on.

Whenever discretionary power is conferred on a State Government or the Union Government by law, the said law does not necessarily operate as a reasonable restriction on a fundamental right. Minera-Development, Ltd. v. State of Bihar, (1960) 1 S C A 297 : (1960) S C J 643 : (1960) 2 Andh W R (SC) 16 : (1960) 2 Mad L J (SC) 16 : 1960 B L J R 460 : (1960) 2 S C R 609 : A I R 1960 S C 468 (470, 471, 472) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 9).

● —Arts. 19 (5), 19 (6)—Reasonable restrictions — If include prohibition.

It is reasonable to think that the makers of the Constitution considered the word 'restriction' to be sufficiently wide to save laws inconsistent with Art. 19 (1), or taking away the rights conferred by the Article, provided this inconsistency or taking away was reasonable in the interests of the different matters mentioned in the clause. There can be no doubt, therefore that they intended the word 'restriction' to include cases of prohibition also. When, the restriction reaches the stage of prohibition, special care has to be taken by the Court to see that the test of reasonableness is satisfied. Narendra Kumar v. Union of India, 1960 S C J 214 : (1960) 2 S C R 375 : AIR 1960 S C 430 (435, 436) (Pt B) (Pr 18).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)—Reasonable restriction—What is. See Imports Control Order (1955), S. 9 (a). AIR 1960 S C 415.

● —Art. 19 (5)—Reasonable restriction—Test of—Examination of other laws—Relevancy.

Majority view, Subba Rao J., dissenting—The Court in judging the reasonableness of a law will necessarily see, not only the surrounding circumstances but all contemporaneous legislation passed as part of a single scheme. The reasonableness of the restriction and not of the law has to be found out, and if restriction is under one law but advantages are created by another law passed as part of the same legislative plan, the Court should not refuse to take that other law into account. (1953) A C 514, Rel. on.

The existence of such other law is not difficult to establish. The Courts can take judicial notice of it. AIR 1939 P. C. 53, Rel. on.

Subba Rao, I.—The validity of an Act shall not be made to depend upon another Act unconnected with the impugned Act or power conferred thereunder, which might, if properly exercised, offset the evil tendency or the vice of the impugned Act. To unravel a plan of fraud on powers, it would be necessary to scrutinize all the documents, which help to ascertain the truth. It may also be necessary to look into another Act to ascertain the pith and substance of an impugned Act. But the same principle cannot be invoked for ascertaining the reasonableness of legislative restrictions on fundamental rights. Lord Krishna Sugar Mills, Ltd. v. Union of India, (1960) 1 S C R 39: (1960) 1 S C A 549 : 1960 S C J 1119 : A I R 1959 S C 1124 (1132, 1133, 1136, 1137, 1138) (Pt B) (Prs 26, 27, 42).

● —Art. 19—Reasonableness of restrictions.

The determination of the question as to whether the restrictions imposed by a legislative enactment upon the fundamental rights of a citizen enuniciated in Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution are reasonable or not within the meaning of Cl (5) of the Article would depend as much upon procedural part of the law as upon its substantive part. A I R 1952 S C 221, Foll. Hari Khemu Gawab v. Deputy Commissioner of Police, Bombay, 58 Bom L R 995 : 1956 S C R 506 : 1956 Cri L J 1104 : 1956 S C J 399 : 1956 S C A 1046 : 1956 Pat L R (S C) 203 : AIR 1956 S C 559 (565, 566) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● —Art. 19(5)—Reasonable restriction.

When a law deprives a person of possession of his property for an indefinite period of time merely on subjective determination of an executive officer, such a law can on no construction of the word "reasonable" be described as coming within that expression, because it completely negatives the fundamental right by making its enjoyment depend on the mere pleasure and discretion of the executive, the citizen affected having no right to have recourse for establishing the contrary in a Civil Court. Raghubir Singh v. Court of Wards, Ajmer, 1953 S C R 1049 : 1953 S C J 505 : 1954 Mad W N 433 : 1953 S C A 629 : A I R 1953 S C 373 (375) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

● —Art. 19 (5)—Reasonableness of restrictions upon right of free movement.

The determination of the question as to whether the restrictions imposed by a legislative enactment upon the fundamental rights of a citizen enunciated in Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution are reasonable or not within the meaning of Cl. 5 of the Article, would depend as much upon the procedural part of the law as upon the substantive part, and the Court has got to look in each case to the circumstances under which and the manner in which the restrictions have been imposed. Gurbachansing v. State of Bombay, 1952 Cri L J 1147 : 1952 S C J 321 : 1952 S C R 737 : 54 Bom L R 849 : (1952) S C A 452 : AIR 1952 S C 221 (224) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

● —Art. 19 (5)—Reasonable restrictions—Meaning—Power of Court.

Per Kania C. J.—Clause (5) of Art. 19 must be given its full meaning. The question which the Court has to consider is whether the restrictions put by the impugned legislation on the exercise of the right are reasonable or not. The question whether the provisions of Act provide reasonable safeguards against the abuse of the power given to the executive authority to administer the law is not relevant for the true interpretation of the clause. The Court, on either interpretation, will be entitled to consider whether the restrictions on the right to move throughout India, i. e., both as regards the territory and the duration, are reasonable or not. The law providing reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right conferred by Art. 19 may contain substantive provisions as well as procedural provisions. While the reasonableness of the restrictions has to be considered with regard to the exercise of the right, it does not necessarily exclude from the consideration of the Court the question of reasonableness of the procedural part of the law. It is obvious that if the law prescribes five years externment or ten years externment, the question whether such period of externment is reasonable, being the substantive part, is necessarily for the consideration of the Court under Cl. (5). Similarly, if the law provides the procedure under which the exercise of the right may be restricted, the same is also for the consideration of the Court, as it has to determine if the exercise of the right has been reasonably restricted. By this interpretation the scope and ambit of the word "reasonable" as applied to restrictions on the exercise of the right, is not in any way unjustifiably enlarged. It seems that the narrow construction sought to be put on the expression, to restrict the Court's power to consider only the substantive law on the point, is not correct.

Per B. K. Mukherjea J.—Though in cl. (5) the adjective 'reasonable' is predicated of the restrictions that are imposed by law and not of the law itself, that does not mean that in deciding the reasonableness or otherwise of the restrictions, the Courts have to confine themselves to an examination of the restrictions in the abstract with reference merely to their duration or territorial extent, and that it is beyond their province to look up to the circumstances under which or the manner in which the restrictions have been imposed. It is not possible to formulate an effective test which would enable the Courts to pronounce any particular restriction to be reasonable or unreasonable per se. All the attendant circumstances must be taken into consideration and one cannot dissociate the actual contents of the restrictions from the manner of their imposition or the mode of putting them into practice. The question of reasonableness of the restrictions imposed by a law may arise as much from the substantive part of the law as from its procedural portion. Dr. N. B. Khare v. State of Delhi, 1950 Mad W N 440 : 86 Cal L J 83: 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 120 : 1950 Raj L W 398 : 52 Cri L J 550: 1950 All L J 506 : 1950 S C J 328 : 1950 All W R 514 : 1950 S C R 519 : AIR 1950 S C 211 (213, 214, 217) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 24).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)—Sanction for construction of building accorded with certain conditions and restriction — Fundamental rights not infringed — Restrictions held reasonable in public interest — Municipalities —Hyderabad Municipal Corporations Act, 1955 (2 of 1956), Ss. 397, 399.

The right to acquire, hold and dispose of property enshrined in Art. 19 (1) (f) is not by any means an absolute right. It is subject to restrictions which the State may impose in exercise of its police power in the interests of the public generally, under Cl. (5) of Art. 19. By design the Hyderabad Municipal Corporations Act vests in the Commissioner the power to sanction or withhold sanction or give sanction subject to conditions with respect to buildings in the municipal area. Any regulation on hygenic grounds is a regulation in the interests of the public and therefore would constitute a reasonable restriction on the right of property enshrined in Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1961 Andh Pra 489 (491) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — Reasonable restrictions — Principles and tests of.

All citizens of India have a fundamental right to acquire, hold and dispose of property. But this right is subject to control permitted by Cl. 5 of Art. 19 of the Constitution. The reasonableness of a restriction depends upon the nature of the right claimed, the object to be achieved by the Act, the means employed and the limitations imposed. Their validity should be tested by the yard-stick whether they were conceived and enacted in the interests of the general public. The machinery provided by the restrictions should not confer an unregulated and arbitrary discretion on a single individual and the power conferred should not be far in excess of what is required in the interests of the public and for achieving the object for which the particular legislation was enacted. Even if a statute does not in terms enjoin on the officer to give reasons for his order, it is implicit in the exercise of judicial or quasi-judicial power that the person or tribunal exercising that power should give reasons that is, should act judicially, particularly when his order is subject to an appeal. (1957) 2 Andh W R 272 : 1957 Andh L T 735 : ILR (1957) Andh Pra 580 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 93 (97) (Pt A) (Pr 11) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1687.]

——Art. 19 (5) — Reasonable restrictions—What are — Restriction imposed by S. 20 of Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act are reasonable.

'Reasonable' is an objective expression and its objective is to be determined judicially by the Court of law. There is no limit placed upon the power of the Court to consider the nature of the restrictions. The Court must look upon the restrictions from every point of view. It being the duty of the Court to safeguard fundamental rights the greater is the obligation upon the Court to scrutinise the restrictions placed by the legislature as carefully as possible. In order to decide whether a restriction is reasonable or not the Court must look at the nature of the restriction, the manner in which it is imposed, its extent both territorial and temporal, and if after considering all this the Court comes to the conclusion that the restriction is unreasonable, then the resrtiction is not justified and the Court will not uphold that restriction. AIR 1950 Bom 363 (FB), Foll.; AIR 1951 S C 118 and AIR 1952 S C 196, Rel. on.

Provisions of the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act show that though total prohibition of prostitution is not intended, it is intended to be discouraged. Mereover, the purpose is to prevent any one acting in such a way as to influence others and tempt them into falling in the vocation. There being necessity for controlling and even preventing prostitution it cannot be said that the restrictions imposed by S. 20 are unreasonable. 64 Bom L R 526 : 1962 Nag L J 639 : 1963 (1) Cri L J 148 : AIR 1963 Bom 17 (19, 20) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 S C 416].

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (j) — Sea Customs Act (7 of 1878), S. 178 A—Restrictions imposed are reasonable and hence intra vires the Constitution. ILR (1959) Bom 1771.

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1559].

——Art. 19 (5)—Reasonable restrictions.

In considering whether the restrictions are or are not reasonable, it is now well settled that the procedure prescribed for imposing such restrictions may also be taken into account and the procedure must also be reasonable 56 Bom L R 966 : AIR 1955 Bom 271 (272) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

●——Art. 19 (5)—Proviso—Rights conferred under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — Restrictions on — Power of Court to scrutinize restrictions — Reasonableness — Test.

Per Chagla C. J.—The Legislature has been given the power under the Proviso to sub-cl. (5) of Art. 19 to impose restrictions on the exercise of the rights conferred under Art. 19 (1), sub-cls. (d) and (e) but those restrictions have to be reasonable restrictions. It is not for the Legislature to determine whether the restrictions are reasonable or not. It is for the Court of law to consider the reasonableness of the restrictions imposed upon the rights. "Reasonable" is an objective expression and its objectivity is to be determined judicially by the Court of law. There is no limit placed upon the power of the Court to consider the nature of restrictions. The Court must look upon the restrictions from every point of view. It being the duty of the Court to safeguard fundamental rights, the greater is the obligation upon the Court to scrutinize the restrictions placed by the Legislature as carefully as possible.

In order to decide whether a restriction is reasonable or not, the Court must look at the nature of the restriction, the manner in which it is imposed, its extent both territorial and temporal, and if after considering all this the Court comes to the conclusion that the restriction is unreasonable, then the restriction is not justified and the Court will not uphold that restriction. The Court must lean in favour of fundamental rights and must place the restrictions imposed upon the Legislature in as narrow an ambit as possible.

"Interest of general public" is a very wide expression, much wider indeed than any of the expressions used in sub-cls. (2), (3) and (4). "Interests of general public" embraces public security, public order and and public morality, and therefore much wider power is given to the Legislature under sub-cl. (5) to restrict the right given under the Constitution under Art. 19 (1), sub-cls. (d) and (e).

Per Shah J.—The question whether the restrictions contemplated to be imposed by an impugned statute are "reasonable" within the meaning of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution of India will have to be judged with reference not to any individual cases which may arise or any hardship which may be caused by reason of of the application of the provision of the statute, but by reference solely to two considerations : (1) whether the restriction is a restriction on the exercise of the right which has been conferred by Art. 19 and (2) whether the restriction itself is reasonable having regard to the interests of the general public.

The scheme of Art. 19 is to provide a balance between the security of the State and the interest of general public on the one hand and the fundamental rights guaranteed to the citizens on the other. That article provides for the enunciation of the fundamental rights which would normally be exercised by the citizens but which in the larger interest of the State and the general public may be curtailed or restricted. If the Court is satisfied that the restriction is imposed in the interest of the general public and the restriction is not unreasonable, the Court has no jurisdiction to enquire whether the manner in which the restriction is likely to be imposed by the officer charged with the duty of enforcing it may possibly act unreasonably. The possibility of an abuse of provision enacted in the interest of the security of the State or in the interests of the general public cannot be a ground for holding the provision as void. The remedy lies with the Legislature to remove the lacuna, if any, which permits that abuse. Jeshingbhai Ishwarlal v. Emperor, 52 Bom L R 544 : ILR (1950) Bom 539 : 52 Cri L J 120 : AIR 1950 Bom 363 (366, 367, 372) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 21) (FB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Reasonableness of statute — Power of Court to determine — West Bengal Act (21 of 1948), S. 7 — Validity—(West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 7.

Ordinarily it is not open to a Court of law to go into the question of reasonableness of the provisions of a statute or to declare a statute as ultra vires on the ground of hardship or unreasonableness. In other words the Court has no power to question the wisdom or the policy of the legislature. But in view of Art. 19 of the Constitution the Court can go into the question of reasonableness to the extent it is permitted by that Article.

W. B. L. D. Act, purports to make acquisition for a public purpose that is, in the interest of and for the benefit of the public, viz., the settlement of immigrants and as the rehabilitation of refugees is an urgent matter and demands speedy acquisition of lands, the restriction put by S. 7 of the Act at once becomes a reasonable restriction and the provision becomes a valid provision under Art. 19 (5). AIR 1952 Cal 870 (874) (Pt G) (Prs 17, 18).

——Art. 19 (5)—"Reasonable restrictions"—Courts must take broad view of circumstances existing when legislation was passed.

Whether a piece of legislation imposes reasonable or unreasonable restrictions on a fundamental right in the interests of the general public might be a matter of very great difficulty and the courts must take a broad view of the circumstances existing when such legislation was passed. Legislation which appears to have been arbitrary and based on no reason would clearly be ultra vires the Constitution. The phrase 'reasonable restriction' connotes that the limitation imposed on a person in enjoyment of the right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature beyond what is required in the interests of the public. The word 'reasonable' implies intelligent care and deliberation, that is, the choice of course which reason dictates. Legislation which arbitrarily or excessively invades the right cannot be said to contain the quality of reasonableness and unless it strikes a proper balance between the freedom guaranteed in Article 19 (1) (g) and the social control permitted by Cl (6) of Art. 19, it must be held to be wanting in that quality. Iswari Prosad v. Sen, N. R., 55 Cal W N 719 : A I R 1952 Cal 273 (279) (Pt F) (Pr 34) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 148.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Reasonable restriction — West Bengal Bargadars Act (2 of 1950), S. 5 (1).

The unreasonableness of the restriction to hold property has to be judged in relation to the social, economic and the political context in which the restriction is imposed. The whole idea of the Act 2 of 1950 is to preserve the lands already under cultivation and not to permit them to be withdrawn from agriculture and to be used for any other purpose for a certain time to meet a situation of great economic gravity. Though the provision in S. 5 which requires an order of the Board for termination does infringe the constitutional right to hold property because right to hold property must include in its amplitude the right to hold it in any manner that the owner chooses freed from the right of Bargadars or other interests, the restriction on the right to hold imposed by S. 5 (1) is a reasonable restriction within the Constitution and permissible. 89 Cal L J 15 : 56 Cal W N 325 : A I R 1952 Cal 184 (185, 186) (Pt A) (Prs 7a, 10, 10a, 12) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), 19 (5) — Reasonable restrictions — Court's power.

Whether a particular restriction imposed by the Legislature is reasonable or not in the interests of the general public has to be considered by the Court

The Court is not precluded from considering the reasonableness of the substantive as well as the procedural part of the law imposing the restrictions. 55 C W N 94 52 Cri L J 327 : AIR 1951 Cal 322 (323) (Pt A) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Applicability — Statute empowering compulsory acquisition of property.

A statute empowering a State compulsorily to acquire property can be said to impose a restriction on the right to hold property. If that be so, a statute dealing with compulsory acquisition would have to comply with Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution and if it imposed on the citizen a restriction that was more than necessary in the interest of the general public then such a law would be void. Whether a statute imposes restrictions which are reasonable or unreasonable in the interest of the general public must depend not only upon the substantive provisions in the impugned piece of legislation but also upon the procedure contemplated in the legislation. Reasonable substantive provisions might well be rendered wholly unreasonable by the procedure which an Act prescribes. 55 C W N 778 : A I R 1951 Cal 111 (116, 117) (Pt F) (Pr 48) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Restriction under S. 45, Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act on trustee, is not unreasonable.

A trustee under the Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act, cannot complain of unreasonable restrictions on his rights, because the rule is well established that persons committing breaches of trust should be removed from the office. The exercise of the power is not without any control, for there is the right of appeal against the actions under S. 45 (4). There is the further safeguard by the issuance of certiorari, against the action being vitiated by excess of jurisdiction, or want of jurisdiction, or by disregard of the fundamental principle of natural justice, or by error apparent on the face of the record. The general superintendence over Tribunals exercising quasi-judicial powers, which is vested in the High Court under Art. 227, affords sufficient scrutiny by courts and makes the actions authorised by S. 45, reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public for the purposes of Art. 19 (5). Therefore the challenge to the constitutionality of S. 45 is not justified. AIR 1954 S C 119 and AIR 1956 S C 432 and AIR 1959 S C 942 and AIR 1951 S C 118 and A I R 1952 S C 196 and A I R 1959 S C 300, Rel. on. 1960 Ker L T 1007 : ILR (1960) Ker 1259 : 1960 Ker L J 1445 : AIR 1961 Ker 87 (90, 91) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 19—Finance Act (1951), S. 7 (2) (b)—Section if unreasonable — Section 7 (2) (b) does not come within the mischief sought to be guarded against in Art. 19 (5). See Finance Act (1951), S. 7 (2) (b). A I R 1952 Nag 139 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Houses and Rents — C. P and Berar Accommodation (Requisition) Act 63 of 1948, S. 3 — Reasonability of provision — Court, whether can question. See Houses and Rents — C. P. and Berar Accommodation Requisition Act (63 of 1948), S. 3. AIR 1951 Nag 33.

——Art. 19 (5) — Orissa Court of Wards Act (26 of 1947)—Validity.

Though in so far as the management passes from the hands of the proprietor to the Court of Wards it amounts to a serious restriction on the absolute power of the proprietor to manage the estate in any way he chooses it is a reasonable restriction when public interests warrant it. ILR (1952) Cut 529 : AIR 1953 Orissa 121 (149) (Pt S) (Pr 57) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — "Reasonable restrictions"—Test to decide. See Ibid, Arts. 13 (2), 19 (1) (d) and (e) and 21. AIR 1951 Orissa 86.

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Reasonable restriction — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act, S 9 (2)—Validity — Section 9 (2) of Bihar Act 3 of 1950 does not impose unreasonable restriction. See Public Safety—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), S. 9 (2). 1959 Cr L J 1100 : AIR 1959 Pat 425 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) & (e) & (5) - Reasonable restrictions in the interests of general public—(Public Safety — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act 1949 (3 of 1950), S. 2—Validity).

The test under Art. 19 (5) is a twofold test : firstly, the restrictions imposed must be reasonable; secondly, they must be in the interests of the general public. The reasonableness of the restrictions has to be considered both with regard to substantive and procedural provisions. In the Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act, there are provisions for communicating the grounds of the order to the externee. The externee has a right to make a representation, and the representation has to be considered by an Advisory Board. There are all safeguards which fulfil the test of reasonableness. The existence of a provision which prevents externment of a person from his usual place of residence is not an essential criterion for fulfilling the test of reasonableness. There may be good and valid grounds for keeping a person out from his usual place of residence as he may be doing greater mischief at that place than elsewhere The expression "in the interests of the general public' is wide enough to cover serious and aggravated forms of public disorder which are calculated to endanger the security of the State as also other breaches of the peace of a purely local significance which endanger the public order. Public order is not excluded from the purview of cl. (5) of Art. 19. Thus the provisions of the Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act, so far as they permit the passing of an order of externment, impose reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public on the exercise of the rights conferred by cls. (d) and (e) of Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution. AIR 1950 S C 211, Foll. 55 C W N 94, Rel. on. AIR 1950 S C 124, Disting. 1952 Cri L J 1361 : AIR 1952 Pat 376 (377, 378) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—Principle of.

The underlying principle of cl. (5) of Art. 19 is that the individual right of full enjoyment of proprietary interest may be restricted in the larger interests of the general public or for the protection of the interests of any Scheduled Tribe, provided the restrictions imposed are reasonable. If therefore, a law imposes any restriction which is not in the interests of the general public or for the protection of the interests of any Scheduled Tribe, such a law must be held to be unconstitutional even if reasonable. 30 Pat 1085 : AIR 1952 Pat 166 (171) (Pt D) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Bihar State Management of Estates and Tenures Act (21 of 1949) - Reasonableness.

The Bihar State Management of Estates and Tenures Act imposes restrictions of the most far-reaching and drastic kind on the power of proprietors and tenure-holders to deal with their property and it cannot fairly be said that these restrictions are either "reasonable" or "imposed in the interests of the general public" Kameshwar Singh -v. Province of Bihar, ILR 29 Pat 790 : AIR 1950 Pat 392 (401, 419, 430) (Pt F) (Prs 7, 40, 80) (SB).

——Art. 19 (5) - Public Safety—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), S. 2 (1) (b)—Reasonable restrictions — Courts excluded from applying objective test of reasonableness—S. 2 (1) (b) is not reasonable. See Public Safety—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), S. 2 (1) (b). 52 Cri L J 610 : AIR 1950 Pat 322 (FB).

● ——Art. 19 (5)—'Reasonable restrictions'—Expression refers to law and not to order passed under it—Order cannot be considered on merits.

The wording of Art. 19 (5) makes it quite clear that the words "reasonable restrictions" refer to the law itself, and not to orders passed under the law. The clause speaks of any existing law in so far as it imposes reasonable restrictions, and the making of a law imposing reasonable restrictions. The Courts, of course, on general principles, can always upset an order on the ground of mala fides. But when Art. 19 (5) prevents the Courts from going into the merits of the order it is for all practical purposes impossible to consider whether the order is in fact bona fide or mala fide. On the other hand, if the restrictive provisions in the Act are void, quite obviously the order made thereunder is void. Brajnandan Sharma v. State of Bihar, ILR 29 Pat 461 : 52 Cri L J 610 : AIR 1950 Pat 322 (324) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (FB).

● ——Art. 19 (5) — Reasonableness of restriction—Power of Court to decide.

(Per Meredith C. J., Shearer J. Contra.)— When the Constitution says that the restrictions must be reasonable, obviously it is for the Court to decide whether restrictive provisions are reasonable or not. The argument that the legislature itself is the sole judge of reasonableness and that if it makes a provision the Courts must accept it as reasonable, if accepted, renders the word 'reasonable' in cl. (5) completely nugatory.

Shearer J.—The criterion to be adopted by Courts to decide the validity of a legislation is whether the restrictions are reasonably necessary in the interests of the general public or in other words, "Is the extent to which the rights of individuals are, or are liable to be, interfered with no more than is reasonably necessary for the protection of the public?" If that is the criterion to be adopted, then it is immaterial that there may be ancillary provisions in the statute which may lead to hardship in individual cases. Whether such provisions are reasonable or not is a matter for the legislature to determine and the judiciary cannot now sit in review over what the legislature has done. Brajnandan Sharma v. State of Bihar, ILR 29 Pat 461 : 52 Cri L J 610 : AIR 1950 Pat 322 (327) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (FB).

● ——Art. 19 (5)—'Reasonable restrictions'—Tests of reasonableness — Subjective and objective tests explained.

The Courts do not apply any subjective test. There can be an objective test of reasonableness, and that is what the Courts apply. They do not ask themselves, whether they as individuals, feel satisfied that the restrictions are reasonable. But, would that fictitious individual, "the reasonable man," that is to say, the normal average man, regard them as reasonable? That is a well-recognised legal means of examining the question of reasonableness, and it is essentially an objective test : AIR 1946 P C 123, Rel. on Brajnandan Sharma v. State of Bihar, ILR 29 Pat 461 : 52 Cri L J 610 : AIR 1950 Pat 322 (324) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (FB).

—— Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Biswedari Ordinance (23 of 2006), S. 10 — Restriction under, was reasonable—AIR 1951 S C 118, Foll.; A I R 1952 Cal 273 (FB), Rel. on. ILR (1954) Patiala 433 : A I R 1953 Pepsu 161 (173) (Pt G) (Pr 33) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 222.]

[Vol. 4.] Fn. D. 3.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g), (5) and (6)—Restrictions—Reasonableness—Test of — Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (c) and (f) and (3)—Validity.

The restrictions on the fundamental rights enumerated in Art. 19 (1), Cls. (f) and (g) of the Constitution have to be imposed, if at all, with care and deliberation and in the interest of the public. The test of reasonableness is that there is no lack of due care and attention and that it strikes a balance between the fundamental right of the individual and the control necessitated by the demand of the community. A statute under the guise of protecting public interest cannot arbitrarily interfere with private business and impose harsh and restrictive regulations upon lawful use of property or freedom of trade and commerce and there should be a reasonable nexus or correlation between the purpose which the Act has in view and the restriction which is sought to be imposed.

Section 3 (2) (c) and (f) and (3) of the Essential Commodities Act cannot be held to offend against Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution and is definitely saved under clauses (5) and (6) of that Article. A I R 1951 S C 119 and AIR 1954 S C 465 and AIR 1954 S C 634 and AIR 1957 Madh Pra 179 (FB), Foll. I L R (1959) 9 Raj 740 : 1959 Raj L W 702 : AIR 1959 Raj 206 (208, 209) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (5) — Law giving authority to executive to encroach on fundamental right — Test of reasonableness—Procedural part of law.

It cannot be laid down as an inflexible rule that every law which gives authority to the executive to encroach on a fundamental right must necessarily give an opportunity to the person concerned to be heard before any order is made to his prejudice. The question will depend on the nature of the legislation and the extent to which the fundamental right is contravened. A legislation providing for an emergency like a sudden outburst of an epidemic or a natural calamity like an earthquake or a flood may defeat its purpose if it lays down an elaborate enquiry with opportunity of being heard as a prerequisite to taking action in the interests of the general public. On the others hand where there is no compelling necessity to act urgently, the legislation should ordinarily prescribe a procedure observing the principles of natural justice which require that a person should not be condemned or deprived of his rights without an opportunity of being heard. A I R 1950 S C 222; AIR 1951 Mad 419, A I R 1951 Orissa 86 and 53 Bom L R 142 Ref. Jayantilal Laxmishankar v. State of Saurashtra, AIR 1952 Sau 59 (64) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (SB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — "Reasonable restriction"—Meaning—Restrictions imposed by Ss. 1 and 2 of Cochin Proclamation No. 6 of 1124 whether reasonable—(Cochin Proclamation (6 of 1124), Ss. 1 and 2).

The phrase "reasonable restrictions" in respect of right to acquire, hold and dispose of property conferred by Art. 19 (1) (f) connotes that the limitation on a person in enjoyment of the right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature beyond what is required in the interests of the public. The word 'reasonable' implies intelligent care and deliberation, that is, the choice of a course which reason dictates.

What we have to ask ourselves is not whether we, as individuals feel satisfied that the restrictions are reasonable but whether the normal, average reasonable man would regard them as reasonable or not.

The burden of proving the reasonableness of any restriction on fundamental rights will be on those who seek to support the restriction.

The question of reasonableness alone is justiciable.

In the light of the Preamble to the Cochin Proclamation No. 6 of 1124 the restrictions embodied in Ss. 1 and 2 of the Proclamation are not only reasonable but necessary to safeguard the interests of the tenants until the proposals contemplated are passed into law.

The restrictions cannot be said to acquire an unreasonable character for lack of a specified and definite period of operation. Jamath Mosque v. Vakhan Joseph, 1955 Ker L T 406 : I L R (1955) T.-C. 428 : A I R 1955 Trav-Co 227 (229, 230) (Pt E) (Prs 12 to 16) (FB).

15 (f). Article 19 (6).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), (6), 226—Restrictions on right to carry on trade — Reasonableness—S. 39, Calcutta Police Act—Validity—Order of Commissioner under S. 39 is administrative and not judicial or quasi-judicial — Absence of provision for hearing person applying for licence and for reasons for refusal to grant licence does not make section unconstitutional.

(Per majority; Sinha C. J., and Subba Rao, J., Contra). The exercise of the discretion under S. 39 of the Calcutta Police Act depends upon the subjective satisfaction of the Commissioner as to whether the person applying for a licence satisfies the three conditions mentioned in it. Though the Commissioner is expected to act reasonably there is no duty cast on him to act judicially. The fact that no hearing is required to be given by the Commissioner before he decides to grant or refuse a licence would not make the provisions as to licensing in S. 39 unreasonable restrictions on the fundamental right of carrying on a trade. For the same reasons, though the reasons for refusal are not communicated to the person applying, that would not make the licensing provision unconstitutional. If the Commissioner has acted unreasonably in rejecting his application the aggrieved party can apply to the High Court under Art. 226. AIR 1958 S C 398 and 1951 A C 66 and AIR 1958 S C 578, Rel. on. Kishan Chand Arora v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, (1961) 2 S C A 150 : (1961) 2 S C J 309 : (1961) 3 S C R 135 : (1961) M L J (Cr) 541 : AIR 1961 S C 705 (709, 710) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

●——Art. 19 (6) — Reasonableness of statute—How determined—Principles—Duty of Court.

The test of reasonableness should be applied to each individual statute impugned and no abstract standard, or general pattern, of reasonableness can be laid down as applicable to all cases. The nature of the right alleged to have been infringed, the underlying purpose of the restrictions imposed, the extent and urgency of the evil sought to be remedied thereby, the disproportion of the imposition, the prevailing conditions at the time, should all enter into the judicial verdict : A I R 1958 S C 731 and AIR 1952 S C 196, Rel. on. Legislation which arbitrarily or excessively invades the right cannot be said to contain the quality of reasonableness and unless it strikes a proper balance between the freedom guaranteed in Art. 19 (1) (g) and the social control permitted by clause (6) of Art. 19, it must be held to be wanting in that quality ; A I R 1951 S C 118 Rel. on. Acts innocent in themselves may be prohibited and the restrictions in that regard would be reasonable, if the same were necessary to secure efficient enforcement of valid provisions. Abdul Hakim Quraishi v. State of Bihar. (1961) 1 S C A 73 : 1961 (1) Cr L J 573 : 1961 All W R (HC) 216 : 1961 All Cri R 95 : (1961) 2 S C R 610 : (1962) 2 S C J 523 : AIR 1961 S C 448 (454, 455, 459) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9, 27).

●——Art. 19 (1) (g), 19 (6) — Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisements) Act (1954), S. 3 — Prohibition of advertisement under — Not unreasonable restriction — Tests of reasonableness—Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution not violated.

The test of reasonableness of restriction is to decide whether the statute under the guise of protecting public interests arbitrarily interferes with private business and imposes unreasonable and unnecessarily restrictive regulations upon lawful occupation. AIR 1951 S C 118, Rel. on.

The prohibition of certain kinds of advertisements under S. 3 of the Act does not, under the guise of protecting public interest arbitrarily interfere with private business or impose unreasonable restrictions. As the true intention of the Act is, to stop objectionable and unethical advertisements for the purpose of discouraging self-medication no question of unreasonable restrictions arises.

Further, the provisions in the Constitution touching fundamental rights must be construed, broadly and liberally in favour of those on whom the rights have been conferred. The interpretation should be such as to subserve the protection of the fundamental rights of the citizen but that is subject to limitations set out in Art. 19 itself which are for the general welfare of all citizens taken as a whole and are therefore for the interest of the general public. So interpreted, it cannot be said that the restrictions imposed by S. 3 of the Act are either excessive or disproportionate or are not in the interest of the general public. AIR 1954 S C 119, Rel. on. Hamdard Dawakhana v. Union of India, (1960) 1 S C A 314 : (1960) 2 Andh W R (S C) 1 : (1960) 2 Mad L J (S C) 1 : 1960 S C J 611 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 358 : (1960) 2 S C R 671 : 1960 Cri L J 735 : AIR 1960 S C 554 (566) (Pt G) (Pr 28).

● ——Art. 19 (6) — Reasonableness of restriction — Test.

In applying the test of reasonableness, the Court has to consider the question in the background of the fact and circumstances under which, the order was made taking into account the nature of the evil that was sought to be remedied by such law, and the ratio of the harm caused to individual citizens, by the proposed remedy, to the beneficial effect reasonably expected to result to the general public. It will also be necessary to consider in that connection whether the restraint caused by the law is more than was necessary in the interests of the general public. Narendra Kumar v. Union of India, 1960 S C J 214 : (1960) 2 S C R 375 : AIR 1960 S C 430 (436) (Pt C) (Pr 19).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Reasonable restrictions —Power to decide reasonableness.

Clause (6) of Art. 19 protects a law which imposes in the interest of the general public reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right conferred by sub-cl. (g) of Cl. (1) of Art. 19. Quite obviously it is left to the Court, in case of dispute, to determine the reasonableness of the restrictions imposed by the law. The Court cannot proceed on a general notion of what is reasonable in the abstract or even on a consideration of what is reasonable from the point of view of the person or persons on whom the restrictions are imposed. What the Court has to do is to consider whether the restrictions imposed are reasonable in the interest of the general public. That the legislature is the best Judge of what is good for the community, by whose suffrage it comes into existence should be the proper approach for the Court but the ultimate responsibility for determining the validity of the law must rest with the Court. AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 229 and AIR 1952 S C 252, Foll. Mahomed Hanif Quareshi v. State of Bihar, 1958 S C A 783 : 1958 S C J 975 : (1958) Mad L J (Cr) 727 : 1959 S C R 629 : AIR 1958 S C 731 (744) (Pt J) (Pr 21).

● —Arts. 19 (6) and 19 (1) (g) — Freedom to carry on business—Reasonable restrictions—Test.

The phrase "reasonable restriction" connotes that the limitation imposed on a person in enjoyment of the right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature, beyond what is required in the interests of the public. Legislation which arbitrarily or excessively invades the right cannot be said to contain the quality of reasonableness and unless it strikes a proper balance between the freedom guaranteed in Art. 19 (1) (g), and the social control permitted by clause (6) of Art. 19, it must be held to be wanting in that quality. AIR 1951 S C 118, Foll.

The Court should consider not only factors such as the duration and the extent of the restrictions but also the circumstances under which and the manner in which their imposition has been authorised. The nature of the right alleged to have been infringed, the underlying purpose of the restrictions imposed, the extent and urgency of the evil sought to be remedied thereby, the disproportion of the imposition, the prevailing conditions at the time, should all enter into the judicial verdict. AIR 1952 S C 196, Foll. The fact of the statute being given retrospective operation may also be properly taken into consideration in determining the reasonableness of the restriction imposed in the interest of the general public. Express Newspapers (Private) Ltd. v. Union of India, (1958-59) 14 F J R 211 : (1958) S C J 1113 : 1958 S C A 952 : 1959 S C R 12 : (1961) 1 Lab L J 339 : AIR 1958 S C 578 (621) (Pt J) (Prs 168, 169, 170).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Reasonable restriction.

The phrase "reasonable restriction" connotes that the limitation imposed upon a person in enjoyment of a right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature beyond what is required in the interest of the public. Legislation, which arbitrarily or excessively invades the right, cannot be said to contain the quality of reasonableness, and unless, it strikes a proper balance between the freedom guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) and the social control permitted by Cl. (6) of Art 19, it must be held to be wanting in reasonableness. A law or order, therefore, which confers arbitrary and uncontrolled power upon the executive in the matter of regulating trade or business in normally available commodities cannot but be held to be unreasonable. Dwarka Prasad Laxmi Narain v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1954 S C J 238 : 1954 All L J 203 : 1954 S C A 204 : 1954 S C R 803 : AIR 1954 S C 224 (227) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

● —Art. 19 (6) — Reasonableness of restriction, how determined.

In order to determine the reasonableness of the restriction regard must be had to the nature of the business and the conditions prevailing in the trade. It is obvious that these factors must differ from trade to trade and no hard and fast rules concerning all trades can be laid down. The right of every citizen to pursue any lawful trade or business is obviously subject to such reasonable conditions as may be deemed by the governing authority of the country essential to the safety, health, peace, order and morals of the community. Cooverjee B. Bharucha v. Excise Commissioner, 1954 S C J 246 : 1954 S C A 256 : 1954 S C R 873 : AIR 1954 S C 220 (223) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● —Art. 19 (6) — 'Reasonable restrictions'—Meaning of—Determination of, by Legislature — If final.

The phrase "reasonable restriction" in Art. 19 (6) connotes that the limitation imposed on a person in enjoyment of the right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature, beyond what is required in the interests of the public. The word "reasonable" implies intelligent care and deliberation, that is, the choice of a course which reason dictates. Legislation which arbitrarily or excessively invades the right cannot be said to contain the quality of reasonableness and unless it strikes a proper balance between the freedom guaranteed in Art 19 (1) (g) and the social control permitted by cl. (6) of Art. 19, it must be held to be wanting in that quality.

The determination by the Legislature of what constitutes a reasonable restriction is not final or conclusive: it is subject to the supervision by the Supreme Court. In the matter of fundamental rights, the S. C. watches and guards the rights guaranteed by the Constitution and in exercising its functions it has the power to set aside an Act of the Legislature if it is in violation of the freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution. Chintamanrao v. The State of Madhya Pradesh, 1950 S C J 571 : 1950 S C R 759 : 64 Mad L W 370 : 1951 All L J (S C) 82 : I L R (1951) Hyd 221 : AIR 1951 S C 118 (119, 120) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9).

——Arts. 19 (6), 19 (1) (g) — Restrictions on the trade or profession of prostitutes — Validity of Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956)—Entire Act is valid except, Ss. 20 and 4 (2). 1959 All W R (HC) 509 : 1959 All Cri R 427 : AIR 1959 All 57 (59, 61, 66) (Pt B) (Prs 2, 3, 4, 20).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 S C 416].

● —Art. 19 (6) — Reasonable restrictions—Test.

The decision of the question as to what is a reasonable restriction in public interest will have to depend upon the nature of the business, the place and time where it is intended to be carried on, its effect on others, the stage of social development and on many other factors which might change with the passing of time and with the development of society. The Judges on whom lies the duty of deciding this question will have to consider it divorced as far as they can, from their own personal political or economic views. The decision might also well differ not only with the type of legislation which comes under review but also with the nature of the activity that the legislation was intended to regulate or to stop, due regard being given to the view expressed by the citizens through their Legislatures.

It cannot be said that the expression "reasonable restrictions" in Art. 19 (6) can never in any circumstance exclude complete prohibition. Reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public may in certain circumstances mean complete prohibition; and it will be for the Courts to judge whether in a particular case complete prohibition amounts to more than a reasonable restriction in the interests of the general public. That is a responsibility which, under the Constitution, the Courts cannot escape. In exercising its power the Courts will however, exercise the greatest care. Moti Lal v. State of Uttar Pradesh, ILR (1951) All 269 : AIR 1951 All 257 (269, 270, 271) (Pt G) (Prs 57, 61, 65, 66, 67) (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and 14 — Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), S. 33 (1) (w) — Rules under — Rule 13-A (4)—Validity—If unreasonable restriction.

Where the question is one of policy underlying the law as to how the law is to be enforced and as to how the provisions of an Act are to be carried out, then a discretion conferred upon an authority, be it unfettered, uncontrolled and absolute, is not bad. AIR 1954 S C 465 and 58 Bom L R 221 and AIR 1959 Bom 26, Foll.

The term 'suitable' as used in R. 13-A (4) of the Rules framed under S. 33 (1) (w) of the Bombay Police Act, 1951, means suitable for the purpose of keeping a place of public entertainment. The suitability of a person means his suitability for holding or continuing to hold a licence for keeping a place of public entertainment. It is not suitability dependent upon the arbitrary will or fancy of the authority. There is a clear policy laid down in the Act and R. 13-A is intended to subserve that policy. The discretion is conferred upon the Commissioner of Police by the said Act to carry out and effectuate that policy. It has to be exercised according to rules of reason and justice, according to law. The rule imposes reasonable restrictions in the interest of the general public within the meaning of Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. 60 Bom L R 1314 : AIR 1959 Bom 346 (352, 353) (Pt B) (Prs 15, 18).

——Art. 19 (6) — Municipalities — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (1922), Section 179 — Bye-laws under — Bye-laws Nos. 1 and 14 (i) and (ii) — Validity —Do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g) — Test of reasonableness of restrictions — See Municipalities — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 179. AIR 1959 Bom 112.

——Arts. 19 (6) and 19 (1) (f) — Right to carry on business — Reasonable restrictions — Section 376, Bombay Provincial Municipal Corporations Act does not constitute an unreasonable restriction on the fundamental right of the timber merchant to carry on his business which has been granted to him under Art. 19. 59 Bom L R 129 : ILR (1957) Bom 147 : AIR 1959 Bom 26 (30) (Pt D) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Whether restriction is reasonable or not must not be judged in abstract.

It is true that when a restriction is imposed upon the right of the citizen guaranteed to him under Art. 19, it is for the State to justify that restriction. But whether a restriction is reasonable or not must be judged not in abstract but in the context of the times and in the context of social needs and social urges. ILR (1955) Bom 870 : 57 Bom L R 892 : AIR 1956 Bom 21 (24, 25) (Pt A) (Fr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) — Section 61-A of Calcutta Police Act and S. 38-A of Calcutta Suburban Police Act and notification of Police Commissioner banning use of cycle-carts—Validity.

Section 61-A of the Calcutta Police Act and S. 38-A of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act and the notifications thereunder of the Police Commissioner with the previous consent of the State Government banning the use of cycle-carts within the area of Calcutta and its suburbs were challenged on the ground that they were procedurally unreasonable, and that the whole matter was left to the subjective satisfaction of the Police Commissioner.

Held, that the impugned actions were not judicial or quasi-judicial but were executive and administrative. Whether on the particular facts of each case restriction imposed was reasonable or not, was to be judged on the individual merits of the particular restriction. A representative and responsible State Government might be assumed to act reasonably before giving its sanction. (AIR 1957 S C 896 (900-901), Rel. on.). The notification banning the use of cycle-carts was a reasonable restriction within the meaning of cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. AIR 1951 Cal 90 and AIR 1951 Cal 3 and AIR 1954 S C 119 and AIR 1952 S C 221 and AIR 1953 S C 373 and AIR 1954 S C 229, Disting. Paschim Banga Malbahi Cycle Mazdoor Union v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, 65 Cal W N 213 : AIR 1961 Cal 125 (135, 138, 143) (Pt D) (Prs 37, 52, 73) (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Unreasonable restriction — Test — Calcutta Municipal Act (1951), S. 437 (1) (b) — If ultra vires.

Clause (b) of sub-s. (1) of S. 437, Calcutta Municipal Act, constitutes an unreasonble restriction upon the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) and is, accordingly, ultra vires the Constitution.

In order to determine the reasonableness of any such restrictions the Court can and should examine both the substantive and the procedural aspects of any impugned restrictive legislation. AIR 1950 S C 211 and AIR 1952 S C 196 and AIR 1951 S C 118, Applied.

The impugned provision makes the opinion of the Corporation as to any purpose being dangerous to life, health or property, etc., conclusive. It also makes that opinion non-justiciable, notwithstanding the requirement of the Constitution that the restriction must be reasonable.

The whole of the provision contained in cl (b) must be struck down as void. It is not the business of the Court to hold a part of a single scheme void, leaving the other part intact. To do so would amount to effecting an amendment of the provisions, which is the business of the legislature. 65 Cal W N 346 : 1961 (1) Cr L J 248 : ILR (1961) 1 Cal 537 : AIR 1961 Cal 121 (122, 123) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — West Bengal Soft Coke Distribution Order (1955), Para. 3 (b) and (c)—Validity.

The definition of the words 'Director' and the 'District Magistrate' as given in Cls. (b) and (c) of para. 3 of the Order, in so far as they include persons other than the Director, Consumer Goods. Department of Food, Relief and Supplies, West Bengal or the District Magistrate of a District, is bad as being an unreasonable restriction on the fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g), but the order in so far as it confers power upon the Director or the District Magistrate respectively, does not offend the test of constitutionality.

Held, that the order of delegation passed by the District Magistrate, 24 Parganas, in purported exercise of his powers under para. 3 (c) of the Order by which he authorised all Sub-divisional Controllers of Food and Supply Department in 24 Parganas to perform the functions of the District Magistrate under the said order in their respective sub-divisions was bad and therefore the order of the Sub-divisional Controller of Food and Supply, Barrackpore, must be struck down as being made by a person without authority. ('60) 64 Cal W N 521.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Bengal Smoke Nuisance Act—Validity— Restrictions placed on fundamental right—Reasonableness. See Bengal Smoke Nuisance Act (3 of 1905). AIR 1959 Cal 397.

——Art. 19 (6) — Law laying restrictions — Right of private citizen to violate—(Calcutta Police Act (4 of 1866), S. 39).

Where a law such as S. 39, Calcutta Police Act lays down restrictions calculated to ensure public safety, peace and tranquillity, a private citizen cannot openly violate the restrictions merely because he questions the propriety of the executive order. It is true that the executive cannot be allowed to be a law unto themselves, but the required corrective must come from the Court, which alone can decide whether the limits of law have been transgressed or not, and not from a private citizen 62 Cal W N 799: 1959 Cri L J 180 : AIR 1959 Cal 123 (128) (Pt H) (Pr 19).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Right to ply rickshaws —Restrictions on—Reasonableness—(Calcutta Hackney Carriage Act (I of 1919), Ss. 8, 9 and 71 — Bye-law 13-A framed under S. 71)

The Rickshaw as a vehicle of locomotion is a barbarous mode of travel. It is strange to talk of the fundamental right to exploit a few hapless human beings, and transform them into beasts of burden, transporting heavy loads on superheated asphalt roads, in tropical sun and shower, for a miserable pittance. The police authorities and the Corporation have onerous responsibilities to discharge. Therefore it is by no means unreasonable to confer a degree of control in their hands, so that the number ot vehicles of a particular description, using the roads, can be limited.

It must be left to the discretion, good sense and administrative experience of the executive authorities, or a public body like the Corporation of Calcutta, to arrive at a figure which constitutes the outer margin of safety. Provided it is done honestly and bona fide, the High Court cannot substitute its own views for it.

In this view, Ss. 8 and 9, Calcutta Hackney Carriage Act, 1919, and bye law 13-A framed under S. 71 of the Act, under which power is granted to the Registering Authority to limit the number of licenses if there happens to be too large a number of such vehicles on the road, are intra vires and valid.

The rickshaw owners cannot be said to be prevented from carrying on their business of rickshaw plying totally and for all times to come. The bye-law is a reasonable restriction upon the fundamental right of the rickshsw owners to carry on the business of their choice. AIR 1951 S C 118; AIR 1950 S C 163 ; AIR 1953 S C 79, Disting. 59 Cal W N 215 : AIR 1955 Cal 417 (418, 419) (Prs 12, 15).

——Art. 19—Gujarat Denatured Spirituous Preparations Rules (1962), Rr. 22, 32 (9), (10), 37— Validity Rules are covered by Art. 19 (6).

The question as to the reasonableness of a statute or a rule is always a justiciable question. But no abstract proposition can be laid down as a conclusive test of reasonableness and therefore, whenever a statute or a rule is being challenged on the ground of its being unreasonable or excessive, it becomes the duty of the Court to look into the nature of the restriction and come to its conclusion from the circumstances of each case. While dealing with such a question, the Court has to take into consideration (1) the nature of the right claimed, (2) whether the impugned restriction is necessary in relation to the object sought to be achieved, and (3) even when such a restriction is necessary, whether it is excessive and disproportionate and whether it unduly interferes with the rights of the subject. While considering the question of reasonableness or otherwise of a restriction either under a statute or a rule, the Court has to consider not only the nature of the right restricted, but also the circumstances necessitating the restriction. The mere fact that the Bombay Prohibition Act contained Ss. 21 and 21A cannot by itself be a ground to hold that further measures to prevent the mischief are unreasonable. Reports received from the Prohibition Officers of the State indicated large scale use of French Polish and Varnish for potable purposes and it was to prevent such misuse of denatured spirituous preparations, like French Polish and Varnish, that Chapter IV-B of the Act containing provisions for control and regulation of trade in such preparations had to be enacted. It was in these circumstances that the Government of Gujarat framed Gujarat Denatured Spirituous Preparations Rules The State Government had already taken steps to ensure that bona fide users of such preparations did not suffer and it was for that purpose that exemptions were granted for possession and use of French Polish and Varnish in certain quantities to carpenters and artisans actively engaged in the profession of polishing wooden articles and making furniture. French Polish and Varnish are apparently not meant for human consumption, but there was evidence with the State Government of a large scale misuse of French Polish and Varnish for potable purposes, particularly amongst illiterate and ignorant people, that the preparations which were being imported on a large scale in the name of French Polish and Varnish were neither genuine French Polish nor Varnish but intoxicating liquors capable of being used for potable purposes containing negligible proportions of other solid ingredients which could be removed by precipitation. It was to prevent this mischief that the import of French Polish and Varnish had to be regulated by the issue of licences. The rules framed by the State Government did not envisage prohibition of import, sale, possession, use, etc. of French Polish or Varnish for genuine purposes. The object in making these rules was to prevent abuse of denatured spirituous preparations namely, French Polish and Varnish, and thereby to effectuate the policy of prohibition as directed by Art. 47 of the Constitution and adapted by the State Legislature while enacting the Bombay Prohibition Act. Since the rules were made to meet the situation which had arisen owing to the unregulated import and sale of these two commodities which made the abuse of these articles possible, the object of providing for these restrictions cannot be said to prevent the legitimate use of genuine French Polish and Varnish, but to so regulate its use, possession, sale, import etc., as to render its abuse and mischief impossible. Rules 22, 32 and 37, except for the proviso to R. 22 and the provision for the vend fee in R. 37 are reasonable restrictions covered by cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. (1964) 4 Guj L R 1033 : ILR (1964) Guj 96 : AIR 1964 Guj 59 (76, 77) (Pt G) (Prs 31, 32, 33) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Power of Court to decide reasonableness of legislation. 1952 Mad W N 913 : (1952) 2 Mad L J 894 : 66 Mad L W 85 : ILR (1953) Mad 304 : AIR 1953 Mad 279 (294 to 296) (Pt M) (Prs 44, 46, 51, 53) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — "Reasonable."

What is reasonable within the meaning of Cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution of India has to be decided by a Court of law and in doing so the Court has got to see both the substantive as well as the procedural aspects of the question. Case-Law Ref. 1953 R L W 311 : 1953 Cri L J 1283 : ILR (1952) 2 Raj 993 : AIR 1953 Raj 162 (166) (Pt A) (Pr 17) (DB).

16. "Interests of the general public".

See also Ibid, Note 15.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and Cls. (5) and (6) — Reasonable restrictions on fundamental rights under Art. 19 — Test of reasonableness — "Interests of the general public' — What amounts to — Rule of evidence casting burden of proof upon person from whom specified goods have been seized, to establish that they are not smuggled — Whether violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and is not saved by Cls. (5) and (6) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178A—Not constitutionally invalid — AIR 1959 Mad 142, Reversed; Decision of K. T. Desai J. in 62 Bom L R 1043, Overruled. Collector of Customs v. Sampathu Chetty, (1962) 1 S C J 68 : 1962 Mad L J (Cri) 1 : (1962) 1 Mad L J (S C) 43 : (1962) 1 An W R (S C) 43 : 1962 (1) Cri L J 364 : AIR 1962 S C 316 (332, 333, 334) (Pt A) (Prs 35, 36).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g), 31 and 14 — Imports and Exports (Control) Act (1947), S. 3 — Imports (Control) Order (1955), Para. 6 (h) — Validity — Canalization of imports through special or specialized agencies or channels — Refusal of import licences to applicants outside agencies or channels whether contravention of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) or Art. 31—Restriction on right to carry on trade if can be attacked as not in the interests of general public. Glass C. I. and U. Assocn. v. Union of India, AIR 1961 S C 1514 (1516, 1517) (Prs 5, 6, 7).

● — Arts. 19, 14 and 21 — Supreme Court Rules — O. 4A, R. 24—Rule 24 is not discriminatory so far as the precincts of Supreme Court are concerned and does not infringe Art. 14 of Constitution — So also it does not infringe Arts. 19 and 21 — It is in interest of general public to exclude touts from precincts of Supreme Court — Word 'Life' in Art. 21 does not include livelihood. See Supreme Court Rules, O. 4-A, R. 24. AIR 1960 S C 932.

● —Art. 19 — Reasonable restrictions — Coir Industry Act (1953), S. 26 — Rules under, Rr. 18, 19, 20 (1) (a), 21 and 22 (a)—Validity.

As the regulation of the coir industry is in the public interest, it would be for the rule-making authority to decide which test would meet the requirements of public interest and what method would be most expedient in controlling the industry for the national good. Control and regulation of any trade though reasonable within the meaning of Art. 19, sub-art. (6), may in some cases lead to hardship to some persons carrying on the said trade or business if they are unable to satisfy the requirements of the regulatory rules or provisions validly introduced; but once it is conceded that regulation of the trade and its control are justified in the public interest it would not be open to a person who fails to satisfy the rules or regulations to invoke his fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) and challenge the validity of the regulation or rule in question. Hence the challenge to the validity of the rules on the ground of Art. 19 of the Constitution must fail. P. V. Shivarajan v. Union of India, 1959 S C J 481 : 1959 Supp 1 S C R 779 : 1959 Cal L J 214 : AIR 1959 S C 556 (559) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (a), 19 (2) — Validity of U. P. Special Powers Act (14 of 1932), S. 3 —If Offends Art. 19 (1) (a) and is saved by Art. 19 (2) — See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1955 All 193.

——Art. 19 (3), (4) and (5)—"In the interests of public order" and "in the interests of the general public."

The words "in the interests of the general public" used in Cl. 5 are of much wider import than the words "in the interests of public order," used in Cls. 3 and 4. The restriction, therefore, on the right to move freely throughout the territory of India may be not merely for the purpose of maintaining public order but may be in the interests of the general public. The words "in the interests of the general public" used in Cl. 5 of Art. 19 have been advisedly used and in contradistinction with the words "in the interests of public order" used in the earlier clauses. It is probable that the Constitution used these particular words in order to enable the State to adjust the rights given by the Constitution and to reconcile them in the interest of the general public whether the interests of the public order were immediately affected or not by such restrictions. 53 Bom L R 739 : AIR 1951 Bom 459 (464) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

— Art. 19 (6) (ii) — 'Interest of public generally' — Construction — Nationalisation and congestion — Recognition of. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1) (a). AIR 1958 Cal 652.

● ——Art. 19 (5) — "In the interests of general public"—Interpretation.

It cannot possibly be said that the words "in the interests of the general public" in Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution mean "in the interests of the public of the whole of the Republic of India". They mean nothing more than "in the public interest", and it may well be that legislation affecting a limited class of persons or a limited area might well be legislation in the public interest, though the public of other parts of India might not be directly affected by such legislation. Iswari Prosad Goenka v. N. R. Sen, 55 C W N 719: AIR 1952 Cal 273 (278, 279) (Pt E) (Pr 33) (FB).

——Art. 19 (5)—"In the interests of general public'; —West Bengal Bargadars Act (2 of 1950), S. 5.

The subsequent words "the interests of any Scheduled Tribe" do not act as qualifying adverbs on the previous expression "in the interests of the general public." The words in the interests of the general public" must be given their plain meaning. That plain meaning is that it includes even sections of general public. General public will include a fairly substantial section of people who constitute the class of Bargadars in West Bengal. They are just as much a part of the general public as anybody else. But in considering whether Act 2 of 1950 is in the interests of the general public the cause of the Bargadars is not the only criterion. The legislation is also in the larger interest of the owners of the lands. Then again there is the interest of the agricultural lands in the country which is also an interest for the general public. The historic considerations and the present situation alike stamp this legislation with overwhelming public interest. The Bargadar Act 2 of 1950 is thus "in the interests of the general public" within the meaning of the Constitution. 89 Cal L J 15 : 56 Cal W N 325: AIR 1952 Cal 184 (186) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 13a, 13c) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6)—Reasonable restrictions in the interest of general public — Test.

The expression 'reasonable restrictions in the interest of the general public' in Art. 19 (6) is of wide import. All legislation directed to the preservation and protection of safety, health, morals and general welfare of the people would thus be in the 'interest of the general public'. Similarly, preserving its people from imposition, fraud and deceipt would also be a legitimate object of its policy, as it would undoubtedly be in the interest of the general public. The test of reasonableness is in the fact that the means adopted by the legislature have a fairly appropriate connection with the end to be achieved. 1960 Jab L J 698 : 1960 M P C 549 : 1960 Cr L J 1614 : 1960 M P L J 972 : AIR 1960 Madh Pra 389 (391) (Pt A) (Prs 15, 16).

——Art. 19 (6)—"Interests of the general public" — Meaning of.

It is not correct to assume or postulate that a restriction or regulation imposed must flow from the inherent nature of the trade intrinsic to the commodities dealt with or the articles manufactured, and could not be found on public interest orginating in factors extrinsic to the trade. The restrictions permitted by sub-Cls. (2) to (6) follow a pattern, viz., that they are imposed by the legislature for reasons of public policy. Public policy may spring by reason of the principles of common law, like decency, morals or public order which are the very foundation of society. Public policy, however, might equally have its origin in the statute law of the country. A statute might therefore itself be the foundation for the creation and emergence of a public interest to preserve its principles. To the extent that that law or other law enables this purpose to be achieved, its enforcement must be held to be in the public interest. 70 Mad L W 770 : (1957) 8 S T C 690: (1957) 2 Mad L J 469 : ILR (1958) Mad 35 : AIR 1958 Mad 158 (165, 166) (Pt A) (Prs 28, 29, 30) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Interests of general public — Berar Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act is in interests of general public.

The Berar Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act is in the interest of general public even though its object is to ameliorate the conditions of only a class of persons. For one thing it is part of a scheme for land reforms. Then again the class which the Legislature had in view is a large one and the interests of the general public are necessarily bound up with the interest of this class. A law enacted for the benefit of a class must in this context, be regarded as a law made in the public interest. 1953 Nag L J 199 : ILR (1952) Nag 736 : AIR 1953 Nag 40 (50) (Pt K) (Pr 46) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — "Reasonable restrictions" — "In the interest of the general public"—Meaning and significance in Act — Restrictions on right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g)—Reasonableness—Test of — Orissa Act 36 of 1947—If void or is saved by Art. 19 (6) — See Orissa Motor Vehicles (Regulation of Stage Carriage and Public Carrier's Services) Act. AIR 1952 Orissa 42.

——Art. 19 (6)—"Reasonable" and "interests of the general public."

Per Narasimham J. — The expressions 'reasonable' and 'the interests of the general public' are both elastic terms and a discussion about the full import of these expressions necessarily involves a discussion of the political, social, and economic problems of the present day not only in this country but all over the world. AIR 1952 Orissa 42 (46) (Pt H) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—'In the interest of the general public' —Meaning of — (Cantonments Act (2 of 1924), S. 238— Section, if in the interests of general public).

The expression 'general public' is wide enough to include a section of the public. It is in the interests of the general public that the armed forces and those connected with them should be protected from the evil influences of disorderly persons who are liable to be externed under the provisions of S. 238 of the Act. Interests of the general public cannot be deemed to be synoymous with interests of the public of the whole of the country. A legislation meant for the benefit of a well defined class will be deemed to be in the interest of general public regardless of the smallness of the number of persons primarily benefited by the legislation. 59 Pun L R 289 : 1957 Cr L J 1173 : I L R (1957) Punj 1388 : A I R 1957 Punj 244 (248) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2)— Cr. P. Code, S. 144 falls within ambit of Art. 19 (2).

Section 144 Cr. P. Code, has been designed to impose restrictions on the exercise of the right of freedom of speech and expression in the interests of public order. 58 Pun L R 464 : 1957 Cri L J 88 : 1957 All W R (Sup) 21 : I L R (1957) Punj 218 : AIR 1957 Punj 1 (4) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a)— S. 144 Cr. P. C., whether ultra vires. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144. ILR (1957) Punj 386.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A—Rule of evidence contained in S. 178-A — Rule is not unreasonable.

The rule of evidence contained in S. 178-A of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, is in the interest of general public. It is not correct to say that the rule travelled beyond the due bounds of reasonableness because it cannot be said that the social good to be achieved by this kind of legislation is disproportionate to the importance of the object to be achieved by it, namely. the prevention and eradication of smuggling. A I R 1962 S C 316, Foll.; A I R 1959 Mad 142, held no longer good law. 1962 Raj L W 492 : I L R (1962) 12 Raj 469 : 1962 (2) Cr L J 584 (587) (Pt A) (Pr 12) (DB) (Raj).

●——Art. 19 (5) and (6)—"Interests of general public".

The expression "general public" is wide enough to include a section of the public and provisions for the safeguarding of the religious institutions of a particular faith and the avoidance of friction and mismanagement will have to be considered as "reasonable restrictions' in the interests of the general public. P.M. Bramadathan Nambooripad v. Cochin Devaswom Board, 1955 Ker L T 516 : ILR (1955) T C 741 : AIR 1956 Trav.Co 19 (22) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (FB).

●——Art. 19 (5)— 'General public"—Scope.

The expression 'general public' in Art. 19 (5) is wide enough to include a section of the public and the removal of the grievances of a particular section is very often in the interests of the public generally. Jamath Mosque v. Vakhan Joseph, 1955 Ker L T 406 : ILR (1955) T-C 423 : A I R 1955 Trav-Co 227 (229) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (FB).

17. "Public order".

●——Arts. 19 (1) (c), (4), 309— 'In the interests of public order' — Connection of restriction with public order must be shown to be rationally proximate or direct — Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4-B— Validity — Restriction imposed by rule is not reasonable —Rule is ultra vires.

The words 'public order' must have the same meaning in both Cls. (2) and (4) of Art. 19. In Cl. (2), public order is virtually synonymous with public peace, safety and tranquillity. The denotation of the said words cannot be any wider in Cl. (4). A restriction can be said to be in the interests of public order only if the connection between the restriction and the public order is proximate and direct. This interpretation is strengthened by the other requirement of Cl. (4), that, by itself, the restriction ought to be reasonable. A restriction which does not directly relate to public order cannot be said to be reasonable on the ground that its connection with public order is remote or far-fetched. Therefore, reading the two requirements of Cl. (4), it follows that the impugned restriction can be said to satisfy the test of Cl. (4) only if its connection with public order is shown to be rationally proximate and direct. A I R 1960 S C 633 and A I R 1950 F C 87, Rel. on.

The fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19 can be claimed by Government servants. The validity of R. 4-B of the Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955) has to be judged on the basis that the Government servant and his co-emplovees are entitled to form association or unions. R. 4 B imposes a restriction on this right. It virtually compels a Government servant to withdraw his membership of the Service Association of Government servants as soon as recognition accorded to the said association is withdrawn or if, after the association is formed, no recognition is accorded to it within six months.

It is quite possible that recognition may be refused or withdrawn on grounds which are wholly unconnected with public order and it is in such a set up that the right to form association guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (c) is made subject to the rigorous restriction that the association in question must secure and continue to enjoy recognition from the Government. Therefore the restriction thus imposed would make the guaranteed right under Art. 19 (1) (c) ineffective and even illusory. The impugned R. 4-B is therefore invalid. O. K. Ghosh v. Ex. Joseph, (1962) 2 Lab L J 615 : (1963-64) 24 F J R 115 : (1962) 5 Fac L R 511 : (1963) 2 S C A 117 : (1963) Supp 1 S C R 789 : (1963) 1 S C W R 168 : 66 Bom L R 93 : 599 : 1964 Mah L J 509 : 1964 M P L J 599 : A I R 1963 S C 812 (814, 815, 816) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 12).

●——Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (2) — Pepsu Police (Incitement to Disaffection) Act (I of 1953), S. 3— Provision is not violative of Art. 19 (1) (a), as it is in the interest of securing public order it is saved by Art. 19 (2). See Pepsu Police (Incitement to Disaffection)

Act (1 of 1953), S. 3. 1962 (2) Cr L J 247 : AIR 1962 S C 1106.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (2) and (3) — Anticipatory restrictions—Validity.

Both in Cl. (2) (as amended in 1951) and in Cl. (3) of Art. 19 power is given to the legislature to make laws placing reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the rights conferred by these clauses in the interest, among other things, of public order. Public order has to be maintained in advance in order to ensure it and, therefore, it is competent to a legislature to pass a law permitting an appropriate authority to take anticipatory action or place anticipatory restrictions upon particular kinds of acts in an emergency for the purpose of maintaining public order. Anticipatory action of the kind permissible under S. 144, Cr P. Code is not impermissible under cls. (2) and (3) of Art. 19. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 An W R (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : 1961 M L J (Cr) 297 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 16 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : (1961) Andh L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : 1961 S C D 597 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (891) (Pt F) (Pr 28).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (2), (3) — Order under S. 144, Cr. P. Code—Validity—Dispute between two Textile Unions Order under S. 144 restricting activities of general public in particular area.

It would be extremely difficult for Magistrate to differentiate between members of public and members of the two textile unions. If any members of public unconnected with the two textile unions wanted to exercise rights restricted it was open to them to move the District Magistrate and apply for modification of the order by granting them exemption from the restrictions placed by the order. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 An W R (S C) 154 : 1961 M L J (Cr) 297 : (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 16 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 An LT 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : 1961 S C D 597 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (891) (Pt H) (Prs 30, 31).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (2), (3) — Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C. —Order only excepting funeral processions and religious processions from its operation — If anyone wanted to take out a procession for some other purpose which was lawful, it was open to him under S. 144, sub-s. (4) to apply for an alteration of the order and obtain a special exemption — Mere omission of the District Magistrate to make the exemption clause of the order more comprehensive would not vitiate the order on the ground that it places unreasonable restrictions on certain fundamental rights of citizens. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 Andh W R (SC) 154 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 Mad L J (Cri) 297 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 16 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 S C J 524 : 1961 Andh L J 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (891) (Pt I) (Pr 32).

● ——Art. 19 (1), (a), (b), (2), (3) — Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C., prohibiting shouting of "provocative slogans"—The expression "provocative slogans" has necessarily to be understood in the context in which it has been used in the order and, therefore, it cannot be regarded as vague—Order cannot be held to place unreasonable restriction on the rights of the free speech of citizens. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 Andh W R (SC) 154 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 Mad L J (Cri) 297 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 16 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (SC) 154 : (1961) 1 S C J 524 : 1961 Andh L J 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (891, 892) (Pt J) (Pr 33).

● ——Arts. 19 (2) and 13 (1)—Restriction in 'interest of public order' — Validity of — Essentials—S. 3 of U. P. Special Powers Act, 1932—If void — Doctrine of severability.

By the amendment of Art. 19 (2) by the Constitution (First Amendment) Act, 1951, the wide concept of 'public order' is split up under different heads. All the grounds mentioned in Cl. (2) can be brought under the general head 'public order' in its most comprehensive sense. It can be postulated that 'public order' is synonymous with public peace, safety and tranquillity.

The distinction between the phrases 'in the interest of public order' and 'for the maintenance of public order' does not ignore the necessity for intimate connection between the Act and the public order sought to be maintained by the Act.

The limitation that the restrictions shall be reasonable brings about the same result. In order to be reasonable the limitation must have a proximate connection with 'public order' and not one far-fetched, hypothetical, problematical or too remote. AIR 1950 F C 67, Applied.

By S. 3 of the U. P. Special Powers Act, 1932, any instigation not to pay or defer payment of any exaction or even contractual dues to Government authority or a land-owner is made an offence. It was held that there is no proximate or even foreseeable connection between such instigation and the public order sought to be protected under this section and that it is void. Under Art. 13 (1), laws in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of Part 3, are void only to the extent of such inconsistency. But this implies that consistent and inconsistent parts of a law are severable.

The provisions of S. 3 of the Act are so inextricably mixed up that it is not possible to apply the doctrine of severability so as to enable the court to affirm the validity of a part of it and reject the rest. The entire section therefore must be struck down as invalid. Superintendent Central Prison, Fatehgarh v. Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia, 1960 All L J 320 : ILR (1960) 1 All 407 : 1960 S C J 567 : 1960 M L J (Cr) 340 : 1960 Cr L J 1002 : 1962 All W R (H C) 247 : 1960 All Cr R 166 : (1960) 2 S C R 821 : A I R 1960 S C 633 (637 to 640, 641, 642) (Prs 9, 10, 11 to 14, 18, 20).

● ——Arts. 19 (2) and 19 (6)—In the interest of public order—Meaning of.

The words 'in the interests of' are words of great amplitude and are much wider than the words "for maintenance of". The expression 'in the interest of" makes the ambit of the protection very wide for a law may not have been designed to directly maintain the public order or to directly protect the general public against any particular evil and yet it may have been enacted "in the interests of" the public order or the general public as the case may be. AIR 1957 S C 620, Rel. on. Virendra v. State of Punjab, (1958) S C J 88 : 1958 S C C 1 : 1958 S C A 891 : 1958 S C R 308 : AIR 1957 S C 896 (899) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

● ——Art. 19 (2) — 'In the interests of public order' —Interpretation of.

Per Desai, J.—Article 19 (2) uses the words 'in the interests of public order' and not the words 'for maintenance of public order'. The words 'in the interest of' are wider than 'for maintenance of' only in this sense that they include anything that even indirectly helps the maintenance of public order.

Per Gurtu, J. — No doubt the words in Art. 19 (2) are 'interest of public order' and it may be taken that the amendment made in Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution intended to give ample powers. This is also evident by the fact that the words 'maintenance of public order' are not used. But even so what is in the interest of public order necessarily tends to the maintenance of it and although the words 'maintenance of public order' are not there, there must still be some real likelihood of public disorder taking place either immediately or in the remote future. If there is no such possibility, surely the interest of public order cannot be said to be affected. The restriction must not be given more prominence than the fundamental liberty assured. Further, the words 'interest of public order' should not be so amplified as to enable the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (a) to be swallowed up by the application of Art. 19 (2). Ram Nandan v. State, 1958 All L J 793 : 1958 All W R (HC) 796 : 1959 Cr L J 128 : 1959 All Cr R 1 : ILR (1958) 2 All 84 : A I R 1959 All 101 (104, 105, 114, 115) (Pt D) (Prs 7, 50) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1962 S C 955.]

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a), (2) – S. 99A, Criminal P. C. does not contravene Art 19 (1) (a) and comes under Art, 19 (2)—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 99A).

(Per Special Bench) — Section 99A, Criminal P. C., does not take away the right to write and publish books. People are at liberty to write books without offending deliberately the religious sentiments of the other citizens who are as much entitled to certain freedoms as the petitioner himself. Section 99-A does not place a total prohibition on the exercise of the fundamental right guaranteed to a citizen. It only empowers the Executive to take action in the interest of public order etc., in the eventualities mentioned in the section. The provision is conceived in the interests of public order, decency or morality etc. Hence the restriction placed by this statutory provision on the freedom of expression is a reasonable one and as such it falls within the reservation under Cl. 2 of the Article. Consequently, it is not open to any objection based on the Constitution.

The expression 'in the interests of' used in Art. 19 (2) is of wide connotation. So any law penalising activities which have a tendency to cause public disorder is within the scope of authorised limits. The impugned section, therefore, comes within the range of Cl. 2 of the Article. The restriction imposed by S. 99-A, Criminal P. C., is not disproportionate to the evil sought to be remedied. Section 99-A, Criminal P. C. is not hit at by Art. 19 of the Constitution and its validity cannot be impeached. N. Veerabrahmam v. State of Andh Pra, 1959 Andh L T 575 : (1959) 2 Andh W R 269 : 1959 Mad L J (Cri) 703 : 1959 Cri L J 1280 : AIR 1959 Andh Pra 572 (575, 576) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 10, 13) (SB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1662.]

——Art. 19 (2) — 'In the interests of public order'—Interpretation of.

Article 19 (2) uses the words 'in the interests' of public order and not 'maintenance of public order.' The words 'in the interests of public order' are wider in scope than the words 'maintenance of public order'. The words 'in the interests of public order' mean and include any measure or direction or order which assists in or is conducive to the maintenance and preservation of public order. Disaffection caused in a police force or inducement given to a member or members thereof to withhold his or their services or to commit breach of discipline must be held to have connection with public order. Any restriction on such activity must therefore be regarded as being in the interests of public order. AIR 1957 S C 620 and 1958 S C J 88 : A I R 1957 S C 896, Rel. on. 62 Bom L R 206 : 1960 Nag L J 244 : ILR (1960) Bom 305 : 1960 Cr L J 1192 : A I R 1960 Bom 399 (403) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 (3), (4) and (5) — "In the interests of public order", and "in the interests of the general public."

The words "in the interests of the general public" used in Cl. (5) are of much wider import than the words "in the interests of public order" used in Cls. (3) and (4). The restriction, therefore, on the right to move freely throughout the territory of India may be not merely for the purpose of maintaining public order but may be in the interests of the general public. The words "in the interests of the general public" used in Cl. (5) of Art. 19 have been advisedly used and in contradistinction with the words "in the interests of public order" used in the earlier clauses. It is probable that the Constitution used these particular words in order to enable the State to adjust the rights given by the Constitution and to reconcile them in the interests of the general public, whether the interests of the public order were immediately affected or not by such restrictions. 53 Bom L R 739 : 1952 Cri L J 37 : 21 Bom Cr C 232 : A I R 1951 Bom 459 (464) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Mysore Police Act (5 of 1908), S. 40—Notification under — Validity—If can be challenged on ground that proceedings under S. 144, Criminal P. C. would have been more appropriate so as to protect rights of petitioners in respect of management of religious institution — Duty of State to protect civil rights—Extent of, in cases of emergency arising out of breach of public peace. See Mysore Police Act (5 of 1908), S 40. 1962 Mys L J (Supp) 411.

● ——Art. 19—Interpretation—Act if emergency legislation - - Interpretation of statutes—Emergency legislation. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S 1. ('50) ILR 29 Pat 502 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Public tranquillity—Pleading of cause by lawful means. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (1). A I R 1955 Raj 6 (DB).

18. "Restriction"—Meaning of.

See also Ibid, Note 15.

——Art. 19 (5)—'Restriction'—Meaning of — Provincial Insolvency Act (1920), S. 28 (2) — Vesting of insolvent's property in the Court or the receiver——Amounts to reasonable restriction as contemplated in clause (5) of Art. 19. A I R 1960 S C 480, Rel. on. ILR (1962) 1 All 200 : A I R 1962 All 256 (260, 261) (Pt D) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (6) and 25 — "Restriction" and "Regulation"—Meaning and interpretation of — Distinction.

The word "restriction" in Arts. 19 (6) and 25 cannot be held to be synonymous with 'regulation" in Art. 25. They are intended to convey two different meanings. Restriction may be complete or partial, and where it is complete it would imply absolute prohibition — Restriction includes prohibition also. A I R 1952 Orissa 42 (45, 46) (Pt G) (Pr 9) (DB).

19. "Existing law".

See also Ibid, Art. 254.

● ——Art. 19—Scope—Clauses (2) to (6)—U. P. Police Regulations, Chap. 20, Reg. 236 — Regulations contained in Chap. 20 have no statutory basis—They are not 'a law' which the State is entitled to make under Cls. (2) to (6) of Art. 19. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cri L J 329 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : A I R 1963 S C 1295 (1299) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 19 (2) — Law — Meaning of—Distinction between agreement and law—Agreement entered into on 17-4 41 by Ruler of Jodhpur State with a Company exempting excise duty and income tax in respect of goods produced by the Company — Held, agreement could not be considered law within Art 372 — Agreement not affirmed by United State of Rajasthan — Company had no enforceable right against Union Government—Parliament not prohibited under Art. 295 from altering terms of contract under which liability of Government arose — Liability of Government of India was subject to agreement entered into by Government of India and Government of the State—Such agreement entered into on 25-2-1950 — Company could not invoke Art. 19 or Art. 31 to its aid having no enforceable rights on 20-1-1950. See Ibid, Art. 372. A I R 1963 S C 953.

● —Art. 19 (2) — Existing law.

The alteration made in the language of the amended cl. (2) of Art. 19 does not mean that the words 'any existing law' are not to be governed by the words 'in so far as such law imposes'. According to the construction of the sentence and the punctuations, the words 'in so far as such law imposes' govern not only the immediately preceding words 'prevent the State from making any law' but also the earlier words 'any existing law'. The object behind the amendment was to enlarge the field of reasonable restrictions and not to differentiate between existing law and future law. Ram Nandan v. State, 1958 All L J 793 : 1958 All W R (H C) 796 : 1959 All Cr R 1 : 1959 Cri L J 128 : ILR (1958) 2 All 84 : A I R 1959 All 101 (103, 104) (Pt I) (Pr 5) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1962 S C 955.]

——Arts. 19, 13 — 'Laws', 'law in force' and 'existing law'—Criminal P. C., S. 144—Order under—Constitutionality. See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1956 All 481.

——Art. 19 — Expression "Existing law" in Art 19 —Connotation of.

Article 19, sub-clauses (2), (3), (4), (5) and (6), where the expression "existing law" is used indicates that the restriction on fundamental right is not only with regard to the saving of existing law, but also with regard to any future law that the State might make. Therefore, it would not be true as far as Art. 19 is concerned that the intention of the Constituent Assembly was to save only laws actually in operation and to declare void laws only potentially in force and laws to be made in future. 53 Bom L R 837 : A I R 1952 Bom 16 (24) (Pt G) (Pr 19) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1955 S C 41].

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Government, in exercise of powers conferred under S. 3 of Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Ordinance, 2003, imposing ban on movement of vegetables from one province to another, in public interest—Held, order did not infringe fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) and was not hit by Art. 301 – Order had no existence apart from Ordinance which was saved as existing law under Art. 305. See Ibid, Art. 301. A I R 1965 J & K 93 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Law — 'Authority of law'—Law and executive order — Gwalior Darbar Order, dated 27th July, 1946, whether law. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1954 Madh B 196 (DB).

——Arts. 19, 13, 366 (10):— Scope — Existing law—Criminal P. C., is not existing law of Manipur State within meaning of Art. 19 (2) (3) — No provision in Code can curtail fundamental rights of citizens in Manipur State — Order on the analogy of S. 144, Criminal P. C., is void as being inconsistent with Part 3 of Constitution — Validity — (Criminal P. C (1898), Ss. 1 (2) and 144)—(Merged States (Laws) Act (1949), S. 3) — (Part States (Laws) Act, (1950), S. 3). See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1955 Manipur 41.

——Arts. 19 (2), 366 (10) and 215 — "Existing law" — Existing law relating to contempt of court saved by Art. 19 (2) must include not only statutory law but entire case law.

Per Narasimham J. — The definition of 'existing law' in clause (10) of Art. 366 should not be applied in construing that expression occurring in cl. (2) of Art. 19 in so far as it relates to the law of contempt of Court because 'the context otherwise requires'. The existing law in so far as it relates to contempt of Court saved by cl. (2) of Art. 19 must include not only statutory law but the entire law of contempt as was recognised in India prior to the advent of the Constitution, based on the English common law and the case law as laid down by the High Court and Privy Council. The Constitution has not in any way enlarged the freedom of the press in this respect. A I R 1950 S C 27, Disting.

If the definition of the expression 'existing law' as given in cl. (10) of Art. 366 is applied in construing that expression occurring in Art. 19 (2) the result would be that the power of the High Court as a Court of Record under Art. 215 would become nugatory and the Contempt of Courts Act would become unworkable. ILR (1952) Cut 1 : 52 Cri L J 1605 : AIR 1952 Orissa 318 (342) (Pt J) (Pr 66) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—'Existing law'.

The expression 'general public' in Article 19 (5) includes not only the law made by a statute but also any personal law, custom or usage having the force of law. ILR (1955) 5 Raj 650 : 1956 Raj L W 336 : AIR 1955 Raj 140 (140, 141) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5), 366 and 372—Laws continuing in force under Art. 372 — Effect on custom contrary to Art. 19.

The restrictions, subject to which the fundamental rights are to be enjoyed, are contained in Part 3 itself. Therefore, the fact that Customary law continues to remain in force by virtue of Art. 372 will not save it from being declared void if it is hit by Art. 13 of the Constitution.

Secondly, as the opening words of Art. 366 of the Constitution say, the words defined in that article are to be assigned the particular meaning unless the context otherwise requires. The context in Art. 19 (5) requires that the words 'existing law' should be understood in their broad sense as including any kind of law and there is no doubt that the restrictions imposed by any customary law cannot be more sacrosanct than the restrictions imposed by Statute law and if they are unreasonable they would be void under Art. 13 of the Constitution. Panch Gujar v. Amarsingh, ILR (1954) 4 Raj 84 : 1954 Raj L W 204: A I R 1954 Raj 100 (103) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (FB).

20. Clause (1) (a)—(General).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Art. 194 (1) confers on legislatures freedom of speech independently of Art. 19 (1) (a). See Ibid, Art. 194 (1). AIR 1965 S C 745.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b)—Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960), Ss. 3, 4, 5—Validity—Provisions do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b).

Sections 3, 4 and 5 of the Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960) do not violate the fundamental rights enshrined in Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b). A perusal of Art. 19(1) shows that there is no fundamental right to strike, and all that the Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance provides is with respect to an illegal strike as provided in the Ordinance. There is no provision in the Ordinance which in any way restricts freedom of speech and expression nor is there any provision therein which restricts any one from assembling peaceably and without arms. The Ordinance thus has nothing to do with restricting the fundamental rights enshrined in sub cls. (a) and (b) of Art. 19 (1). Parliament had the competence to make a law in the terms of the Ordinance and therefore the President had also the power to promulgate such an Ordinance.

The charge against the petitioner was that he had acted in furtherance of the illegal strike which was to commence on the midnight of July 11, 1960 and was therefore guilty of gross misconduct. It was this charge of gross misconduct which had been found to be proved against the petitioner and which had led to the punishment inflicted on him.

Held, that the punishment given to the petitioner could not be set aside on the ground that the charge was in violation of the fundamental rights guaranteed under sub-cls. (a) and (b) of Art. 19 (1). Whether the acting in furtherance of the strike took the form of speeches or demonstration would make no difference. In neither case could it be said that there was a violation of Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1962 S C 171, Rel. on; AIR 1962 S C 1166 and AIR 1963 S C 812, Disting. Radhey Shyam v. Postmaster-General, Central, Nagpur, (1964) 1 S C W R 820 : (1965) 2 S C J 581 : (1965) Mad L J (Cri) 793 : (1964) 7 S C R 403 : AIR 1965 S C 311 (313, 314) (Prs 5, 7).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (g) — Advertisement—When form of speech—Commercial advertisement—Nature of—Prohibition of Advertisements by S. 3 of Act 21 of 1954—Art. 19 (1) (a) not violated.

An advertisement is no doubt a form of speech but its true character is reflected by the object for the promotion of which it is employed. It assumes the attributes and elements of the activity under Art. 19 (1) (a) which it seeks to aid by bringing it to the notice of the public. When it takes the form of a commercial advertisement which has an element of trade or commerce, it no longer falls within the concept of freedom of speech, for the object is not propagation of ideas, social, political or economic, or furtherance of literature or human thought, but the commendation of the efficacy, value and importance of certain goods.

It cannot be said, therefore, that every advertisement is a matter dealing with freedom of speech nor can it be said that it is an expression of ideas. In every case one has to see what is the nature of the advertisement and what activity falling under Art. 19 (1) it seeks to further. The advertisements prohibited by S. 3 of Act 21 of 1954 relate to commerce or trade and not to propagating of ideas ; and advertising of prohibited drugs or commodities of which the sale is not in the interest of the general public cannot be speech within the meaning of freedom of speech and would not fall within Art. 19 (1) (a). As the main purpose and true intent and aim, object and scope of the Act is to prevent self-medication or self-treatment and for that purpose advertisements commending certain drugs and medicines have been prohibited it cannot be said that this is an abridgement of the petitioner's right of free speech. (1937) 82 Law Ed. 949 and AIR 1958 S C 578, Distinguished; (1941) 86 Law Ed. 1262 and AIR 1957 S C 628, Rel. on.

Freedom of speech goes to the heart of the natural right of an organised freedom loving society to "impart and acquire information about that common interest." If any limitation is placed which results in the society being deprived of such right then no doubt it would fall within the guaranteed freedom under Art. 19 (1) (a). But if all it does is that it deprives a trader from commending his wares it would not fall within that term. Hamdard Dawakhana v. Union of India, (1960) 1 S C A 314 : (1960) 2 Andh W R (SC) 1 : (1960) 2 Mad L J (S C) 1 : 1960 Cri L J 735 : 1960 Mad L J (Cri) 358 : 1960 S C J 611 : (1960) 2 S C R 671 : AIR 1960 S C 554 (563, 564) (Pt C) (Prs 17, 18).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Working Journalists Act (1955)—Constitutional validity—Whether violates Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (g), 14 and 32 of the Constitution. See Working Journalists (Conditions of Service and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act (1955). AIR 1958 S C 578.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) and Part 3 (General)—Interpretation—Reference to American decisions.

The fundamental right to the freedom of speech and expression enshrined in Art. 19 (1) (a) of our Constitution is based on the provisions contained in Amendment I of the Constitution of the United States of America and it would be therefore legitimate and proper to refer to those decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States of America in order to appreciate the true nature, scope and exent of this right in spite of the warning administered by the Supreme Court against the use of American and other cases. Express Newspapers (Private) Ltd. v. Union of India, (1958-59) 14 F J R 211 : (1958) S C J 1113 : 1958 S C A 952 : 1959 S C R 12 : AIR 1958 S C 578 (615) (Pt E) (Pr 133).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Freedom of speech and expression.

Freedom of speech and expression includes freedom of propagation of ideas, and that freedom is ensured by the freedom of circulation. Romesh Thappar v. State of Madras, 1950 All L J 485 : 1950 S C J 418 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 390 : 63 Mad L W 929 : 51 Cri L J 1514 : 1950 S C R 594 : 1950 Mad W N 435 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 115 : 1950 Raj L W 389 : AIR 1950 S C 124 (127) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Curtailment of rights to freedom of speech and expression, when justified.

The Constitution, in formulating the varying criteria for permissible legislation imposing restrictions on the fundamental rights enumerated in Art. 19 (1), has placed in a distinct category those offences against public order which aim at undermining the security of the State or overthrowing it, and made their prevention the sole justification for legislative abridgement of freedom of speech and expression. Thus, nothing less than endangering the foundations of the State or threatening its overthrow could justify curtailment of the rights to freedom of speech and expression, while the right of peaceable assembly (sub-cl. (b)) and the right of association (sub-cl. (c)) may be restricted under cls (3) and (4) of Art. 19 in the interest of "public order", which in those clauses includes the security of the State. Romesh Thappar v. State of Madras, 1950 All L J 485 : 1950 S C J 418 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 390 : 63 Mad L W 929 : 51 Cri L J 1514 : 1950 S C R 594 : 1950 Mad W N 435 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 115 : 1950 Raj L W 389 : AIR 1950 S C 124 (128) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), 14, 21 and 22—Scope and applicability — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3—Validity.

A law which deprives a person of his personal liberty falls exclusively under Arts. 21 and 22 of the Constitution, and the reasonableness of such a law cannot be questioned with reference to Art. 19 of the Constitution. AIR 1950 S C 27 and AIR 1951 S C 270, Rel. on.

The purpose and policy of the Preventive Detention Act is to prevent anti-social and subversive elements from imperilling the welfare of the Republic. The classification of persons under S. 3 of the Act has been made keeping in view the said purpose and policy, and it is obvious therefore that the classification in question has a reasonable relation to the object of the Legislature in passing this enactment. That being so, the enactment in question cannot be said to infringe the provisions of Art. 24 of the Constitution. Moreover equal protection is not violated if the exception which is made is required to be made by some other provision of the Constitution. Preventive detention has been recognised by Art. 22 of the Constitution itself. That being so, the classification made under S. 3 of the Act is a classification required to be made by a provision of the Constitution. It follows, therefore, that the equal protection contemplated by Art. 14 of the Constitution cannot be said to have been violated by the Act. 1956 Cr L J 1152 : AIR 1956 All 589 (593, 594) (Pt E) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) and (2) — Freedom of speech and expression — Limitations on, are expressed in Art. 19 (2) — Law must fall within four corners of these exceptions. I L R (1955) 1 All 355 : 1955 Cri L J 623 : A I R 1955 All 193 (203, 204, 214, 217) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 50, 67).

●——Art. 19 (1) (a), (2) — S. 99A, Criminal P. C., cannot be attacked on ground of not providing for personal service thereby making right of application under S. 99-B illusory, such defect rendering encroachment on right under Art. 19 (1) (a) unreasonable—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 99-A).

Notification, in the Official Gazette, of the forfeiture under S. 99-A, Criminal P. C., is a sufficient publication. Hence, the section cannot be attacked on the ground that it makes no provision for personal service and that it makes the right of application under S. 99-B illusory, such defect rendering the encroachment upon the right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (a) unreasonable and taking it out of the operation of the saving clause. Further, before the order under S. 99-A is put into effect, the order should be communicated to the person concerned, be it the author, the printer or the publisher and that would enable him to move the High Court under S. 99-B.

Bhimasankaram, J.—The provision in S. 99-B limiting the right to question the order under S. 99-A to two months cannot prevent the exercise of the power vested in the High Court under Art. 226, and in the Supreme Court under Art. 32 of the Constitution. The limitation as to time, therefore, should be construed as affecting the availability of the special mode of relief provided by S. 99 B. That provision by itself does not operate to render the power vested in the Government under S. 99 A of the Criminal P. C. unconstitutional as the nature of the power itself is otherwise within constitutionally permissible limits. N. Veerabrahmam v. State of Andhra Pradesh, 1959 Andh L T 575 : (1959) 2 Andh W R 269 : 1959 Mad L J (Cri) 703 : 1959 Cri L J 1280 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 572 (576, 583) (Pt C) (Prs 16, 17, 54, 55) (SB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1962 S C 1662].

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (d) — Freedom of speech and freedom of movement—Nature and extent—Power of State to impose restrictions—"Reasonable" restriction —Criminal Law Amendment Act, S. 7—If inconsistent with fundamental rights. See Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932, S. 7. A I R 1951 Bom 459.

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Freedom of speech — American Constitution—Law under.

The law in America as regards the freedom of speech as also on many other points is different from the law laid down by our Constitution. The First and the Fourteenth Amendments of the American Constitution do not impose any restriction on the freedom of speech and the Courts therefore had to make their own rules as regards the reasonableness or the existence of that freedom, and as regards limitation which could be imposed by the State in the exercise of its "police powers". A I R 1955 All 193, Foll. 61 Cal W N 459 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 260 : I L R (1958) 1 Cal 40.

——Art. 19—Criticism of Government — Freedom of speech and of press lies at the foundation of all democracy—Disapprobation and criticism of any policy or administrative action of the Government with a view to obtaining redress by lawful means cannot be regarded as an act likely to disturb maintenance of public order. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1956), S. 3. A I R 1953 Hyd 295 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), 13 — Freedom of speech and expression—Scope of — T. C Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 31 (5) — Constitutional validity—Not ultra vires Art. 19 (1) (a).

The freedom guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (a) is the right to express one's convictions and opinions freely by word of mouth, writing, printing, picture or in any other manner. It would thus include not only the freedom of press, but the expression of one's ideas by any visible representation, such as by gesture and the like : 'Expression' naturally presupposes a second party to whom the ideas are expressed or communicated. In short freedom of expression includes the freedom of the propagation of ideas, their publication and circulation.

Though S. 31 (5) of the T. C. Public Safety Measures Act imposes restrictions on the fundamental right of freedom of speech and expression, those restrictions are in the interests of public order and within the ambit of permissible legislative interference with that fundamental right and clause (2) of Art. 19 of the Constitution clearly saves the section from the vice of unconstitutionality : A I R 1953 Trav-Co 540, Rel. on. Chapter 3 of T. C. Public Safety Measures Act deals with public safety and it is in this chapter that S. 31 occurs. What is made punishable is doing of prejudicial act or publishing of prejudicial report. Thus, it is clear that what is made punishable is only publishing a false rumour or report or information. But even assuming that it could be argued that the section can refer to a true report also the entire section cannot be declared to be unconstitutional. Article 13 (1) of the Constitution says that all laws in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of Part 3 of the Constitution are void only to the extent of such inconsistency and so the law to the extent that it can impose reasonable restriction cannot be held to be void. A I R 1957 S C 628 and A I R 1962 S C 955, Rel. on. 1963 Ker L J 718 : 1963 Ker L T 838 : I L R (1963) 2 Ker 456 : 1964 (1) Cri L J 400 : A I R 1964 Ker 104 (105, 107) (Prs 5, 10, 11, 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (c) — Scope — Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1950, R. 63—Validity.

Rule 63 is neither vague nor indefinite, but clear and specific and must be considered as forming part of the contract of service under which the petitioner continued to work since the promulgation of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1950, on the 22nd February 1950. The said rules were not issued under any statutory or constitutional provision and they are the terms on which the petitioner continued in the employment of the State subsequent to their promulgation. The petitioner is bound to obey them as they are the basis of his employment until such time as he chooses to leave the State service or the rules are modified by the State. In R. 63 there is no violation of the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (a), (b) or (c) of the Constituiion and a reasonable restriction on the freedom of an employee like the one embodied in R. 63 and which forms part of his contract of service a restriction which is in his power to avoid by severing the relationship of master and servant—is not hit by Art 19 of the Constitution. 1957 Ker L T 13 : 1957 Ker L J 6 : I L R (1957) Ker 1020 : A I R 1957 Ker 7 (8, 9) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (c)—Labour and trade unions — Rights of individual worker to conduct his own case before Industrial Court — Bombay Industrial Relations Act (11 of 1949) (as adopted in M. B.),

Ss. 27-A, 32, 33 — Validity — Not in conflict with fundamental rights and so are not void.

The provisions of Ss. 27-A, 32, 33, Proviso of Bom. Ind. Rel. Act are not void as being repugnant to Art. 19 of the Constitution.

The impugned provisions of the Bombay Industrial Relations Act are not directly in conflict with Art. 19 (1) (c) as the Act does not aim at abolition of the unions, nor does it refuse to recognise them. There is also no conflict between the Act and Art. 19 (1) (a). The law which seeks to obtain industrial peace by prohibiting strike and lockouts cannot be said to be arbitrary or discriminatory or imposing an unreasonable restriction on the right to go on strike even if such a right was guaranteed by the Constitution. What the Legislature had rendered illegal is to go on strike during a limited period and without first availing of the machinery of conciliation and arbitration. This is not an abridgement of any of the fundamental rights. It is also difficult to contend that the Act is in conflict with the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (a) because it does not permit an individual employee to conduct his own case. No such right is guaranteed by Art. 19.

Formation of unions is expressly recognized and there is provision in the Act for their registration. Whenever such a union appears in a proceeding as a representative of the employees, the individual employees are excluded from appearing and conducting their own cases. AIR 1951 Bom 105, Rel. on. There is neither a denial of justice nor is there any encroachment on any of the fundamental rights.

The right to form a union does not carry with it a right to represent, when there is an industrial dispute, before a conciliator or the Court or voluntary or compulsory arbitration. AIR 1951 Bom 105, Rel. on. An order passed in a proceeding in which the union had in fact participated and appeared on behalf of the employees cannot be held to be void and against the principles of natural justice. 1956 Madh B L J 826 : Madh B L R 1956 Civil 271 : ILR (1956) Madh Bha 353 : A I R 1956 Madh Bha 199 (202, 203, 206) (Pt A) (Prs 26, 31, 32, 33, 34, 59) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (1) (g) — Election to Central Council of Institute of Chartered Accountants of India — Prohibition imposed by Notification against canvassing of votes by visiting places of business or residence of voters or in any other manner — No unreasonable restriction on any fundamental right.

The prohibition imposed by the President of the Chartered Accountants Institute of India, by a notification issued by him under the powers conferred on him by Cl. (ii) of part II of the Second Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, against canvassing votes by visiting places of business or residence of the voters or in any other manner, in connection with an election to the Council of the Institute cannot be said to operate as unreasonable restriction on the fundamental right of the freedom of speech and expression guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (a) and on the fundamental right of the petitioner to carry on his profession as guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India.

Any right to canvass for votes in connection with election to the Council, could only be incidental to the said statutory rights; therefore, such incidental rights also can be regulated by the provisions of the Act. Failure to conform to the Statutory requirements may lead to disciplinary action being taken against the concerned member and that may result in interference with his right to carry on as a Chartered Accountant; but, this result is merely incidental to his being a member of the Institute. (1964) 2 Comp L J 289 : (1964) 1 Mys L J 386 : A I R 1965 Mys 112 (116, 117) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) (b) — Freedom of speech and expression and freedom to assemble peacefully.

It would be no answer to a proper charge that the accused behaved riotously at a private or even a public meeting violently or in an indecorous manner or disorderly way by insisting on the same being held in a particular language or in a particular way. 1954 Cri L J 144 : ILR (1953) Mys 338 : 33 Mys L J 68 : AIR 1954 Mys 12 (14) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Art. 19 (1) — Freedom of expression — Nature and extent of. See Penal Code (1860), S. 505 (c). 1960 Cri L J 497 : AIR 1960 Orissa 65.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Freedom of speech — Meaning.

Freedom of speech does not mean that a person is at liberty to say what he pleases at all times and under all circumstances. This right may sometimes become a wrong if for example, a person were to indulge in the use of language which is so defamatory, insulting, inciting or provocative as to be reasonably likely to cause disorder and violence. 58 Punj L R 464 : 1957 Cri L J 88 : 1957 All W R (Sup) 21 : I L R (1957) Punj 218 : A I R 1957 Punj 1 (4) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) — Freedom of expression — It is liberty and not licence. A I R 1955 N U C (Punj) 4999.

——Art. 19—Scope — Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C. — Order does not affect legitimate activities of citizen.

An order under S. 144, Criminal P. C. does not in any way affect the peaceful life or legitimate activities of the citizen in the area in which it is proclaimed. Though freedom of speech or peaceable assembly or printing or publishing of leaflets and pamphlets or the carrying of persons in buses are prohibited in general terms in the impugned order under S. 144, the violation of any part of the order by itself will not amount to an offence. It is only when an order under S. 144, Criminal P. C is taken along with S. 188, I. P. C. that the violation will become an offence. A I R 1956 All 431, Rel on. 1961 (1) Cri L J 676 : AIR 1961 Manipur 12 (18) (Pt G) (Pr 23).

——Art. 19 – Freedom of speech and expression.

Freedom of speech and expression includes freedom of propagation of ideas and that freedom is ensured by the freedom of circulation. Writing on the black board set up in a public place in the town criticisms of Government and their officers including Ministers would be protected by the right of freedom of speech and expression. AIR 1950 S C 124, Foll. 1952 Cri L J 506 : AIR 1952 Sau 25 (26) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

21. Freedom of the press.

See also Ibid, Notes 22, 26, 27 & 28.

——Art. 19 (1) (a), (2), (6)—Newspaper (Price and Page) Act (1956) and Daily Newspaper (Price and Page) Order (1960) — Validity — Provisions offend Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution and are unconstitutional.

Neither the (Price and Page) Act of 1956 nor the Order of 1960 made thereunder can be justified by any of the circumstances set out in Art. 19 (2). After the commencement of the Act and the coming into force of the Order a newspaper which has a right to publish any number of pages for carrying its news and views will be restrained from doing so except upon the condition that it raises the selling price as provided in the schedule to the Order. This would be violative of the right of newspapers guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (a). Again, S. 3 (1) of the Act in so far as it permits the allocation of space to advertisements also directly affects freedom of circulation. The object of the Act in regulating the space for advertisements is stated to be to prevent 'unfair' competition. It is thus directed against circulation of a newspaper. When a law is intended to bring about this result there would be a direct interference with the right of freedom of speech and expression guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (a). One of the objects of the Act is to give some kind of protection to small or newly started newspapers, but for attaining it the State cannot make inroads on the right of other newspapers which Art. 19 (1) (a) guarantees to them. It would follow that S. 3 (1) of the Act, which is its pivotal provision, is unconstitutional and, therefore, the Daily Newspaper (Price and Page) Order, 1960 made thereunder is also unconstitutional. If S. 3 (1) is struck down as bad, nothing remains in the Act itself. AIR 1950 S C 129; A I R 1958 S C 578 ; AIR 1950 S C 124 ; AIR 1952 S C 196 ; AIR 1954 S C 119 and AIR 1957 S C 896, Rel. on., A I R 1960 S C 554, Disting., Sakal Papers (P.), Ltd. v. Union of India, (1962) 2 S C J 400 : (1962) 3 S C R 842: A I R 1962 S C 305 (310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315) (Prs 25, 29, 31, 32, 33, 34, 37, 38, 39, 46, 49).

● —— Art. 19 (1) (a) — Freedom of press — Right of non-citizen.

Article 19 guarantees to all citizens freedom of speech and expression but does not specifically or separately provide for liberty of the press. It has, however, been held that the liberty of the press is implicit in the freedom of speech and expression which is conferred on a citizen. A non-citizen running a newspaper is not entitled to the fundamental right to freedom of speech and expression and, therefore, cannot claim, as his fundamental right the benefit of the liberty of the Press. AIR 1914 P C 116, Rel. on. M.S.M. Sharma v. Krishna Sinha, 1959 S C J 925 : (1959) 2 M L J (S C) 125 : (1959) 2 Andh W R (S C) 125 : 1959 M L J (Cr) 660 : (1959) Supp (1) S C R 806 : A I R 1959 S C 395 (401, 402) (Pt A) (Pr.13).

● —— Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (2) — Freedom of speech —Scope of—Freedom of press.

The freedom of speech comprehends the freedom of press and the freedom of speech and press are fundamental personal rights of the citizens. The purpose of guarantee is to prevent public authorities from assuming the guardianship of the public mind. Freedom of press involves freedom of employment or non-employment of the necessary means of exercising this right or in other words, freedom from restriction in respect of employment in the editorial force. The necessary corollary thereof is that no measure can be enacted which would have the effect of imposing a precensorship, curtailing the circulation, or restricting the choice of employment or unemployment in the editorial force. Such a measure would certainly tend to infringe the freedom of speech and expression and would therefore be liable to be struck down as unconstitutional. The press is however, not immune from the ordinary forms of taxation for support of the Government nor from the application of the general laws relating to industrial relations. Laws imposing precensorship, etc., would not be saved by Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution. Express Newspapers (Private) Ltd. v. Union of India, (1958-59) 14 F J R 211 : (1961) 1 Lab L J 339; (1958) S C J 1113 : 1958 S C A 952 : 1959 S C R 12 : A I R 1958 S C 578 (616, 617) (Pt F) (Prs 142, 143, 150, 151).

● —— Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (g) — Rights under — Difference between total prohibition and restriction —Ss. 2 and 3 of the Punjab Special Powers (Press) Act (38 of 1956)—Validity.

There is and can be no dispute that the right to freedom of speech and expression carries with it the right to propagate and circulate one's views and opinions subject to reasonable restrictions and that the several rights of freedom guaranteed to the citizens by Art. 19 (1) are exercisable by them throughout and in all parts of the territory of India. The restrictions, so far as they extend, may be certainly complete but whether they amount to a total prohibition of the exercise of the fundamental rights must be judged by reference to the ambit of the rights.

Thus where it was contended that Ss. 2 and 3 of the Punjab Special Powers (Press) Act, 1956 were ultra vires the State Legislatures as the notification issued under S. 2 (1) (a) prohibiting the printing and publishing of any article, report, news item, letter or any other material of any character whatsoever relating to or connected with "save Hindi agitation" and that under S. 3 (1) imposing a ban against the entry and the circulation of the said papers published from New Delhi in the State of Punjab, imposed not merely restrictions on but total prohibition against, the exercise of the said fundamental rights ;

Held, that, judged by the above test, the entire rights under Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (1) (g) had not been completely taken away by the notifications but restrictions had been imposed upon the exercise of those rights, with reference to the publication of only articles etc., relating to a particular topic and with reference to the circulation of the papers, only in a particular territory and, therefore, it was not right to say that these sections had imposed a total prohibition upon the exercise of those fundamental rights. Virendra v. State of Punjab, (1958) S C J 88 : 1958 S C C 1 : 1958 S C A 891 : 1958 S C R 308 : A I R 1957 S C 896 (899) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

● —— Art. 19 (2) — Amendment made by the Constitution (First Amendment) Act is not repugnant to Art. 20.

The contention that the amendment made in Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution by the Constitution (First Amendment) Act with retrospective operation is repugnant to Art. 20 of the Constitution inasmuch as it declares a certain act an offence which was not an offence at the time when the act was committed, is untenable. Thus to the case of a person who is alleged to have violated the provisions of S. 4 (1) (a), Press (Emergency Powers) Act, which was a law in force in the year 1949 when the offending pamphlet was published and who has not been convicted of any offence so far and is not being again convicted for the same by reason of the amendment in Art. 19 (2), Article 20 has no application. State of Bihar v. Shailabala Devi, (1952) 2 Mad L J 323 : 1952 Mad W N (Cri) 169 : 1952 S C R 654 : I L R 31 Pat 544 : 1953 S C A 152 : 1952 Mad W N 545 : 1952 S C J 465 : 1952 Cri L J 137 : A I R 1952 S C 329 (331) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

—— Art. 19—Freedom of press—Limits of.

The freedom of press under our Constitution is not higher than that of citizen, there is no privilege attaching to the profession of the press as distinguished from the members of the public. To whatever height the subject in general may go, so also may the journalist, and if an ordinary citizen may not transgress the law so must not the press. That the exercise of expression is subject to the reasonable restriction of the law of contempt, is borne out by Cl. (2) of Art. 19 of the Constitution.

It should be well to remember that the Judges by reasons of their office are precluded from entering into any controversy in the columns of the public press nor can enter the arena and do battle upon equal terms in newspapers as can be done by ordinary citizens. I L R (1954) Hyd 270 : 1954 Cr L J 1281 : AIR 1954 Hyd 175 (178) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Freedom of press — Meaning of —S. 3 of Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867 —If invalid.

Liberty of the press, means only the liberty of publication without the previous permission of the Government, i. e., neither Courts of Justice, nor any other judges whatever are authorised to take notice of writings intended for the press, but are confined to those which are actually printed. The same idea is incorporated in the American Bill of Rights. Thus the freedom of speech and expression in substance is freedom from any provision which even indirectly amounts to censorship. Courts have in general construed freedom of press so as to preserve the fundamental values intended to be protected by the constitutional provisions protecting them.

The impugned S. 3 of the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, does not in any way restrict the freedom of expression. On the other hand, to maintain unimpaired that freedom of expression but at the same time to prevent that freedom from degenerating into licence without remedy both for the State as well as individual citizen in regard to defamatory, seditious, blasphemous, obscene and contempts of Courts, the State in the exercise of its police powers, insists upon the furnishing of the information set out in the section. The section is not, therefore, inconsistent with the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution. (1957) Mad L J (Cri) 53 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 136 : A I R 1957 Mad 427 (430, 431) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 15, 16).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Freedom of press, if included.

The term "freedom of speech and expression" would include the liberty to propagate not only one's own views but also the right to print matters which are not one's own but have either been borrowed from someone else, or are printed under the direction of that person.

The freedom of the press is a guaranteed right, under Art. 19 (1) (a), of a citizen who keeps a printing press, or is an editor, or a publisher. Shrinivasa Bhat v. State of Madras, 64 Mad L W 82 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 115 : A I R 1951 Mad 70 (73, 74) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 9) (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Scope.

Article 19 (1) (a) guarantees the right of freedom of speech, which: expression includes the freedom of the press also. 1955 Cri L J 547 : I L R (1955) Cut 204 : A I R 1955 Orissa 36 (39) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Freedom of press — Scope of— Duty to maintain dignity of Courts—See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 3. 1959 Cri L J 81 : A I R 1959 Punj 41.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Freedom of press — Extent of. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 3. 1958 Cri L J 1225 : AIR 1958 Punj 377.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) – Freedom of press—Meaning.

Freedom of the press means principally the right to publish without any previous licence or censorship. 1957 Cri L J 88 : (1957) All W R (Sup) 21 : I L R (1957) Punj 218 : 58 Punj L R 464 : A I R 1957 Punj 1 (3) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (2) — Scope. See Press (Emergency Powers) Act (23 of 1931), S. 4 (1) (a). AIR 1952 S C 329.

——Art. 19—Possession of unauthorised news sheets on 11-6-1950 — Conviction under S. 18 of Press Act, 1931 on 23-2-1951—Validity. See Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931), S. 15. AIR 1954 All 562 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (5)—Validity of Ss. 15 and 18 of Act (23 of 1931). See Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931), S. 15. AIR 1954 All 562 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Press Emergency Powers Act (1931), S. 3 (1)—Validity. See Press Emergency Powers Act (1931), S. 3 (1). AIR 1951 Mad 950 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1)—Scope — Press (Emergency Powers) Act, 1931, S. 4 (1) and (b) — Validity of. See Press (Emergency Powers) Act, 1931, S. 4 (1) (a) and (b). 52 Cri L J 309 : AIR 1951 Pat 12.

● ——Art. 19 — Section 7 (1), Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931), if void under Art. 13 (1) of Constitution — The section has become void under Art. 13 (1) after coming into force of the Constitution. See Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931), S. 7 (1). AIR 1952 Sau 57 (FB).

——Art. 19 — Press Emergency Powers Act (1931), S. 4 (1) (d) — Clause is inconsistent with right of freedom of speech and expression — Clauses (f) and (d) of S. 4 (1) have ceased to be operative in view of present Constitution. See Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931), S. 4 (1) (d) (f). AIR 1952 Sau 25 (DB).

Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951).

——Art. 19—Article not offended by S. 3 (v) of Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951). A I R 1954 Ajmer 19.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (2) — Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951), Ss. 11 and 24 — Order under S. 11 by Assam Government on certificate by Legal Remembrancer — Validity — Validity of S. 11. See Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951), S. 11. A.I R 1954 Assam 193.

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951), S. 11 — Validity. See Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951), S. 11. AIR 1954 Bom 508.

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Legality of the Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951). See Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951), S. 3. AIR 1954 Sau 28 (DB).

22. Pre-censorship.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Imposition of pre-censorship on a Journal—Legality.

The imposition of pre-censorship on a journal is undoubtedly a restriction on the liberty of the press which is essential part of the right to freedom of speech and expression declared by Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution and as such is altogether without jurisdiction. A I R 1950 S C 124 and AIR 1950 S C 129, Foll. 52 Cri L J 1530 : A I R 1951 Ajmer 100 (101) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Freedom of expression — Publication of pamphlet or newspaper containing information regarding horse races—Restriction on, by way of precensorship — Validity of S. 49 A, Madras City Police Act, 1888. See Madras City Police Act (3 of 1888) (as Amended by Madras Act (7 of 1949), S. 49-A. AIR 1954 Mad 901.

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Pre-censorship — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144—Provisions empowering imposition of pre-censorship are not inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (a).

After the enactment of the Constitution First Amendment Act, 1951, a law imposing restrictions on the liberty of speech or expression cannot be said to be ultra vires the Constitution if the restrictions have been imposed in the interest of public order. Hence the provisions of S. 144, Criminal P. C., which empower the District Magistrate to impose pre-censorship on newsapers are not inconsistent with the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution. 58 Punj L R 464 : 1957 Cri L J 88 : (1957) All W R (Sup) 21 : ILR (1957) Punj 218 : A I R 1957 Punj 1 (4) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

23. Security of the State.

See also Ibid, Note 25.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) — East Punjab Public Safety Act (5 of 1949), S. 7 (1) (c) — Validity. See Public Safety — East Punjab Public Safety Act (5 of 1949), S. 7 (1) (c). AIR 1950 S C 129.

● ——Art. 19 (2)—Danger to public security — Restriction on freedom of speech and expression — Invalidity of Madras Maintenance of Public Order Act, 1949 (23 of 1949), S. 9 (1 A).

Unless a law restricting freedom of speech and expression is directed solely against the undermining of the security of the State or the overthrow of it, such law cannot fall within the reservation under cl. (2) of Art. 19, although the restrictions which it seeks to impose may have been conceived generally in the interests of public order. Clause (2) of Art. 19 having allowed the imposition of restrictions on the freedom of speech and expression only in cases where danger to public security is involved, an enactment, which is capable of being applied to cases where no such danger could arise, cannot be held to be constitutional and valid to any extent. It follows that S. 9 (1-A), Madras Maintenance of Public Order Act, 1949, which authorises imposition of restrictions for the wider purpose of securing public safety or the maintenance of public order falls outside the scope of authorised restrictions under cl. (2), and is therefore void and unconstitutional. Romesh Thappar v. State of Madras, 1950 All L J 485 : 1950 S C J 418 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 390 : 63 Mad L W 929 : 51 Cri L J 1514 : 1950 S C R 594 : 1950 Mad W N 435 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 115 : 1950 Raj L W 389 : A I R 1950 S C 124 (129) (Pt E) (Prs 12, 13).

● ——Arts. 19 (2) and 352 — Security of State — Meaning of.

Security of the State is threatened by an invasion or by a rebellion or insurrection but not by mere public disorders. Art. 352 suggest that the security of the State may be threatened not only by an external aggression but by an internal disturbance, but what is meant by 'internal disturbance' is a rebellion or insurrection and not an ordinary breach of the public peace. Ram Nandan v. State, 1958 All W R (H C) 796 : 1958 All L J 793 : 1959 All Cri R 1 : 1959 Cri L J 128 : I L R (1958) 2 All 84 : A I R 1959 All 101 (111) (Pt F) (Pr 25) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 955.]

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) — Police (Incitement to Disaffection) Act, 1922, S. 3—Validity.

Section 3 of the Police (Incitement to Disaffection) Act, 1922 is intra vires and falls within the protection of Cl. (2) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. 62 Bom L R 206 : 1960 Nag L J 244 : ILR (1960) Bom 305 : 1960 Cri L J 1192 : AIR 1960 Bom 399 (404) (Pt A) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2)—'Security of the State'—Meaning of.

The expression 'security of the State' in Art. 19 (2) does not mean merely danger to the security of the entire country, nor can it be restricted to an upheaval or a rebellion endangering the security of the entire country. The security of the State can be undermined by danger both from within and without the State. In that light, along with the armed forces, the constabulary also consists of persons specifically engaged to avert danger arising from within the State although they may be expected to avert such danger in limited fields and on limited occasions. 62 Bom L R 206 : 1960 Nag L J 244 : I L R (1960) Bom 305 : 1960 Cri L J 1192 : A I R 1960 Bom 399 (402, 403) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Right of person to dissuade customers from purchasing goods from a shop — Interpretation of statutes — Criminal Law Amendment Act (1932), S. 7.

A shop keeper, who is a citizen of India, has a fundamental right to carry on his trade in any part of the Indian Union subject to the controls, licenses and restrictions orders legitimately imposed by the State. A citizen has therefore a right to expect from the State protection in the exercise of his business from persons, who assemble outside his shop and seek to dissuade customers from purchasing goods from him on the ground that he is a North Indian. Under Art. 19 (2) the right to freedom of speech and expression would not affect the operation of any existing law so far as it relates to libel, slander, defamation, contempt of Court or any matter which offends against decency or morality or which undermines the security or tends to overthrow the State. The conduct of such persons would if carried to logical and extreme conclusions come within the category of something, which would tend to undermine the security of the State, the objective being to create disaffection which may ultimately lead to hatred and strife in the South between South Indians and North Indians residing in and doing business in the South. This is also a case in which one fundamental right claimed of freedom of speech and expression comes into conflict with other fundamental rights of all citizens viz., to reside and settle in any part of the Indian Union and to carry on their occupation, trade or business. When two fundamental rights come into conflict and one is sought to be extended to extreme and logical conclusions at the expense of the other, a Court will be slow to recognise and uphold such an extension of a fundamental right which infringes and violates another fundamental right. The conduct of such persons therefore cannot be justified under Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution nor can S. 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act in such context be declared ultra vires. 1951 Mad W N 697 : 1951 Mad W N (Cr) 201 : 1951-2 Mad L Jour 241 : ILR (1952) Mad 553 : AIR 1952 Mad 95 (95, 96, 97) (Prs 5, 6, 8, 10).

24. Sedition.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (2)—Constitutionality—List of the offences — Freedom of speech and expression — Restrictions on, imposed by impugned provisions come within permissible limits under Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution. AIR 1959 All 101 (FB), Reversed See Penal Code (1860), S. 124-A. 1962 (2) Cri L J 103 : AIR 1962 S C 955.

● ——Art. 19 (2) — Absence of word 'sedition' from —Significance of.

Deletion of the word 'sedition' from the draft Art. 13 (2), before the article was finally passed as Art. 19 (2), shows that criticism of Government exciting disaffection or bad feelings towards it is not to be regarded as a justifying ground for restricting the freedom of expression and of the press, unless it is such as to undermine the security or tend to overthrow the State. Romesh Thappar v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N 435 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 115 : 1950 Raj L W 389 : 1950 All L J 485 : 1950 S C J 418 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 390 : 63 Mad L W 929 : 51

Cri L J 1514 : 1950 S C R 594 : A I R 1950 S C 124 (128) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

● —Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2)— Freedom of speech— S. 124-A, Penal Code—Validity — Restriction not in interest of public order—S. 124-A is void.

Even the mildest form of disaffection could be caught by S. 124-A of the Penal Code; the restrictions which that section imposes are far too wide and cannot be justified as being solely in the interest of public order within the meaning of Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution Section 124-A, Penal Code, is ultra vires of Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution, both because it is not in the interests of public order as well as because the restrictions imposed thereby are not reasonable restrictions. This section is therefore, not saved by the reservations contained in Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution. Hence it is void : AIR 1950 S C 124; A I R 1950 S C 129 and AIR 1951 Punj 27, Rel. on; AIR 1957 S C 620, Disting.; AIR 1954 Pat 254, Diss. from. Ram Nandan v. State, ILR (1958) 2 All 84 : 1959 All Cr R 1 : 1959 Cr L J 128 : 1958 All W R (H C) 796: 1958 All L J 793 : AIR 1959 All 101 (111, 114, 129) (Pt A) (Prs 28, 43, 94, 95) (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1962 S C 955.]

● —Art. 19 (2)—Penal Code (1860), S. 124-A—Validity—Restriction imposed on freedom of expression not in interest of public order.

If any form of bad feeling to the Government is expressed then S. 124-A, Penal Code, would be attracted. No publicity is required and even an intimate conversation or a conversation with a person who is not at all likely to disturb public order, is punishable. A tendency to disorder cannot be said to be inherent in 'disaffection'; there may be 'disaffection' which has a tendency to disorder and there may, at the same time, be 'disaffection' within the meaning of S. 124-A of the Penal Code which has not that tendency. Therefore, it is apparent that S. 124-A also penalises the making of speeches which are not against the interest of public order. Therefore, S. 124-A could not be said to be a reasonable restriction in the interest of public order The same holds good for the words 'hatred' and 'contempt' which are covered by the word disaffection'. AIR 1947 P C 82 and ILR 22 Bom 112 and ILR 20 All 55 (FB), Rel. on; AIR 1951 All 459 Diss. from. Ram Nandan v. State, 1959 All Cr R 1 : ILR (1958) 2 All 84 : 1958 All L J 793: 1958 All W R (HC) 796: 1959 Cr L J 128 : AIR 1959 All 101 (107, 108, 109, 113) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 17, 40) (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1962 S C 955.]

● —Arts. 19 (2) and 12—'State' —Meaning of 'Government" —Security of State—Offence under S. 124-A, Penal Code.

Article 12 provides that unless the context otherwise requires, 'the State' includes the Government and Parliament of India and the Government and the Legislature of each of the States and all local or other authorities within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India. The word 'Government' is not defined anywhere in the Constitution of India, what is stated in S. 3 (23) of the General Clauses Act is simply this that 'Government' includes both the Central Government and the State Government. It is the system of Government or the institution consisting of the President and the Governors acting with the advice of their Councils of Ministers and not the actual persons holding the Offices of the President and Governors and the Ministers advising them. AIR 1918 Mad 1210 (SB) and ILR 30 Bom 421 and AIR 1919 All 91 (FB) and (1949) 79 CLR 101, Rel on.

Exciting a feeling of hatred, contempt, or disaffection towards a person holding the office of the President or a Governor or a Minister is not exciting such a feeling towards the Government and is not punishable under S. 124-A. A threat of changing the Government after previously altering the Constitution in such a manner as to permit the new system of Government cannot amount to a threat to the security of the State. The security of the State cannot be threatened by anything done in exercise of the powers conferred by the Constitution itself. A speech advocating a change in the system of Government cannot be said to involve a threat to the security of the State so long as the change advocated is not unconstitutional Ram Nandan v. State, 1958 All W R (H C) 796 : 1959 All Cr R 1 : 1958 All L J 793: ILR (1958) 2 All 84 : 1959 Cri L J 128 : AIR 1959 All 101 (109, 110, 111, 116) (Pt E) (Prs 23, 24, 58) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 955.]

——Art. 19 (1) (a) -Section 108 Criminal P. C., if contravenes Art. 19 (1) (a)—Reference to S 124-A, Penal Code, if affects constitutionality of S. 108. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1956 All 270.

——Art. 19 (2)— Validity of S. 124-A, Penal Code—(Penal Code (1860), S. 124-A).

In the former Cl. (2) of Art. 19 the State could make any law relating to any matter which undermines the security or tends to overthrow the State. Section 124-A, Penal Code, was not saved by Art. 19 (2), because the offence under the section consists in exciting or attempting to excite in others certain bad feelings towards the Government and as in some instances at least the unsuccessful attempt to excite, will not undermine or attempt to overthrow the State. After the amendment of the Article it will have to be seen whether S. 124-A, Penal Code, would be operative and binding in view of the amendment the words in which are wider in scope and it is for the State to show how the provisions of S. 124 A, Penal Code, are reasonable and otherwise satisfy the conditions which would make it valid under Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution.

Under the amended clause reasonable restriction may be imposed by law in the interest of the security of the State, friendly relations with foreign States, public order, decency or morality or in relation to contempt of Court, defamation or incitement to an offence. The restriction of the right of freedom and expression of speech in so far as a speech merely tends to excite disaffection towards the Government would not be reasonable and to this extent. S. 124-A, Penal Code, must be held ultra vires and inoperative as being repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) of the Constitution. The entire S. 124-A however cannot be deemed to be ultra vires. The portion of the section which contains the restriction of freedom of speech or expression, on a person who brings or tends to bring into hatred or contempt the Government established by law in India, is for one of the purposes mentioned in the amended Cl. (2) of Art. 19 of the Constitution and it is reasonable and cannot therefore be held to be ultra vires. Case law referred to. 1955 Cr L J 184 : AIR 1955 Manipur 9 (14, 15) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 15, 16, 17, 18).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Ss. 124-A and 153-A, Penal Code Validity — [Penal Code (1860), Ss. 124-A, 153-A].

The provisions of Ss. 124-A and 153-A of the Penal Code are not rendered void on the ground that they are inconsistent with the fundamental right of freedom of speech and expression guaranteed to all citizens of India under Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution of India. In construing the provisions of Ss. 124-A and 153-A of the Penal Code, it should be the effort of the Court to give that interpretation of those provisions which would make them consistent with the Constitution of India unless the language of the provisions precludes such an interpretation. Sections 124 A and 153 A of the Penal Code impose reasonable restrictions in the interests of public order, giving that expression a fair and reasonably wide meaning. Clause (2) of Art. 19, as it now stands, saves the provisions of Ss. 124-A and 153-A of the Indian Penal Code. Case law discussed. 1954 B L J R 99: 1954 Cr L J 758 : 32 Pat 1104 : AIR 1954 Pat 254 (257, 259, 260) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 19—Scope of — S. 124-A, Penal Code — Validity.

Section 124-A, Penal Code, has become void as contravening the right of freedom of speech and expression :guaranteed by Art. 19 (1). The section is not saved by Art. 19 (2) as the limitations placed by Art. 19 (2) upon interference with freedom of speech are real and substantial. The offence under S. 124-A consists in exciting or attempting to excite in others certain bad feelings towards the Government. In some instances at least the unsuccessful attempt to excite will not undermine or tend to overthrow the State. 52 Cri L J 449 : ILR (1951) Punj 193 : AIR 1951 Punj 27 (29, 30) (Pt C) (Prs 13, 15) (DB).

25. Promoting enmity between classes.

—— Art. 19 (1) (a), (2)—Reasonable restriction on exercise of right of speech and expression — Restrictions in relation to incitement of an offence—Promotion of enmity between classes is in substance incitement to offence — Restriction imposed on freedom of speech and expression by S. 153-A is reasonable restriction. See Penal Code (1860), S. 153-A. 1964 All L J 545.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2)—Penal Code (1860), S. 153-A —Constitutional validity—Not ultra vires Art. 19 (1) (a). See Penal Code (1860), S. 153-A. 1963 (2) Cri L J 4 : AIR 1963 All 335 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Penal Code (1860), S. 295-A — Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (a), (2), 25 — Section 295-A is valid — Applicability and scope of S. 295-A explained—Intention of writer found clearly to outrage religious feelings of Muslims deliberately and maliciously—Offence under S. 295-A held made out. See Penal Code (1860), S. 295-A. AIR 1964 Mad 258.

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Freedom of speech—Reasonable restrictions — S. 295-A, Penal Code, is a reasonable restriction which is in public interest.

Although freedom of speech is one of the basic rights guaranteed under the Constitution, the limits of freedom end where the religion and religious beliefs are insulted and outraged — Section 295-A, Penal Code, is a reasonable restriction which is in public interest. 1962 (2) Cri L J 146 : 1962 Mad L J (Cr) 465 : (1962) 2 Mad L J 210 : 1962 Mad W N 74.

——Art. 19 (2) —Validity of S. 153-A, Penal Code— (Penal Code (1860), s. 153-A).

A reasonable restriction has been imposed in S. 153-A, Penal Code, for whosoever, promotes or attempts to promote the feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes of citizens of India to the extent of endangering public order cannot be protected by Cl. (2) of Art. 19 and so the section can be deemed not to be wholly ultra vires in view of the amended Cl. (2) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. 1955 Cri L J 184 : AIR 1955 Manipur 9 (15) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

——Art. 19—Scope of—S. 153-A, Penal Code—Validity.

The gist of the offence under S. 153-A is the promotion or attempt to promote feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes of citizens of India. Though many acts falling under S. 153-A will be acts undermining or tending to overthrow the State, there can equally be many acts made punishable by S. 153-A which will not in any way undermine the security of or tend to overthrow the State. Section 153-A has become void as providing an unwarranted restriction on the freedom of speech and expression. 52 Cri L J 449 : 53 Pun L R 22 : I L R (1951) Punj 193 : A I R 1951 Punj 27 (30) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

26. Decency or morality.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2)—Section 292, Penal Code is not invalid in view of Art. 19 (2) of Constitution. See Penal Code (1860), S. 292. AIR 1965 S C 881.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (5)—Test of obscenity in a book — It must square with freedom of speech and expression guaranteed by Constitution — Test laid down. See Penal Code (1860), S. 292. A I R 1965 S C 881.

——Art. 19 — S. 292-A (Madras) — Penal Code does not offend Article.

No citizen is entitled to publish grossly indecent and scurrilous publications. Hence the restriction imposed by S. 292-A, Penal Code, against publication of such matter is a reasonable one which cannot be questioned. 1964 Mad L J 604 : (1964) 2 Mad L J 440 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 285 (286) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (g), (2) and (6)—Provisions of Press (Objectionable Matter) Act — Provisions are in interests of decency and morality—Provisions are reasonable restriction in interests of general public—(Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951), S. 1). 68 Mad L W 426 : (1955) 2 Mad L J 106 : 1955 Mad W N 469 : I L R (1956) Mad 161 : A I R 1955 Mad 498 (501) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) (g) — Validity of S. 49-A of the Madras City Police Act — Restriction on ground of morality—Restriction on profession—See Madras City Police Act, (3 of 1888) (As Amended by Madras Act (7 of 1949), S. 49-A. AIR 1954 Mad 901.

27. Contempt of Court.

——Art. 19 (3)—Contempt of Court and Legislature —Power to punish for contempt to be exercised cautiously. See Ibid, Art. 129. AIR 1965 S C 745.

——Art. 19 (2)—Scope of law of contempt—Nature of proceedings—See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 3. AIR 1957 All 37.

——Art. 19 (2) (as amended in 1951) — Reasonable restrictions.

The language of the Constitution after the amendment of Art. 19 requires the High Court to see whether the restrictions are "reasonable." The law of contempt as laid down by British and Indian Courts imposes nothing but reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right of freedom of speech and expression and, therefore, the previous law continues in force even after the amendment of Art. 19. American Case-law Ref. 1953 All W R (HC) 170 : 1953 Cri L J 733 : 1953 All L J 376 : I L R (1953) 1 All 796 : AIR 1953 All 342 (344, 345) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 16) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Contempt of Court.

The right to freedom of speech and expression does not embrace the freedom to commit contempt of Court. 1959 Cri L J 567 : 60 Bom L R 873 : AIR 1959 Bom 182 (189) (Pt B) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Contempt proceedings—Defences in — Defence of 'freedom of press' — Scope. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 1. 1965 M P L J 844 : 1966 Cri L J 214.

——Arts. 19 (2) and 215—Contempt of Court—Existing law relating to, if satisfies test of reasonableness.

Quaere : Whether the words "in so far as such law imposes reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right conferred by the said sub-clause" in Art. 19 (2) do not relate to any existing law, or do not prevent the State from making any law in relation to contempt of court, defamation or incitement to an offence?

Even assuming that the Constitution makes the existing law relating to contempt of court, subject to reasonable restrictions of the exercise of the right of freedom of speech the whole of law of contempt of Court, as it stood on the date of the coming into force of the Constitution, answers the test of reasonableness. (1941) 314 U S 252, Discussed and minority view of Frankfurter, J., approved. A I R 1952 S C 196, Applied; AIR 1953 All 342, Foll.

The power to punish for contempt of court is inherent in a Court of Record and this has been recognized from the earliest times in England. The High Courts in India were created Courts of Record by several Letters Patents. By the Government of India Act, 1935, as well as by Art. 215 of the Constitution, the Supreme Court of India and the High Courts are the Courts of Record and it is essential for the administration of justice and protection of individuals that the Courts should be able to punish summarily acts of contempt, because in the words of Blackstone "this power is an inseparable attendant upon every superior Tribunal." A I R 1953 Orissa 249, Rel. on. 1955 Cr L J 547 : I L R (1955) Cut 204 : AIR 1955 Orissa 36 (39, 41) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 11, 12) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2)—Reasonable restriction on freedom of speech—Publication in respect of proceedings which writer knows to be imminent — Power of Court to punish for contempt if reasonable restriction.

The right of the Court to punish for contempt when a publication calculated to obstruct or interfere with due course of justice, is made in respect of a proceeding which the writer knows to be imminent, is a reasonable restriction upon the right of freedom of speech. If we have the interest of fair administration of justice in view, such a limitation on the right of freedom of speech or freedom of the press cannot but be held to be reasonable. If immediately after an occurrence takes place and before the police complete the investigation and submit the charge-sheet, publications are made in newspapers concerning the truth or falsity of one version or the other, such publication is bound to react on the minds of the witnesses and jurors. If such publications emanate from persons exercising high influence in public life, they may, in certain circumstances, also overawe the Magistracy. Therefore, the publications by a person with the knowledge that a proceeding is imminent, regarding the truth or falsity of rival versions in respect of any occurrence, have the clear and substantially reasonable tendency to interfere with the fair course of justice and as such should be held to constitute contempt 1955 Cr L J 547 : I L R (1955) Cut 204 : A I R 1955 Orissa 36 (41) (Pt D) (Pr 10)(DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Action for defamation by politician—Articles in newspapers during its pendency — Considerations involved. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 3. AIR 1954 Orissa 149 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), (2), 215 — Power to deal with contempt of Court.

Art. 19 of the Constitution does not curtail the right of the High Court to deal with contempt of Courts. ILR (1953) Cut 283: 1953 Cri L J 1491 : AIR 1953 Orissa 249 (252) (Pt A) (Pr 12) (DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (2) and 13 — Contempt of Courts Act, 1952—Validity.

In view of Art. 19 (2), the law of contempt as embodied in the Contempt of Courts Act, 1952, which has taken the place of the law of contempt embodied in the Contempt of Courts Act, 1926, according to which punishment is limited, is not hit by Art. 19 (1) (a). There is no inconsistency of any kind between the Contempt of Courts Act and Art. 13, inasmuch as Art. 19 (2) forms part of Part III of the Constitution itself. Basanta Chandra Ghosh In the matter of, ILR 39 Pat 415 : 1960 Cr L J 1254 : 1960 B L J R 622 : AIR 1960 Pat 430 (440) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (FB).

——Art. 19 (2) — Contempt of Courts Act—Validity. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), Preamble. AIR 1954 Pat 203 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (2), 215—Contempt of Courts Act (1952), Ss. 3, 4—Pending case — Publication in respect of — When amounts to contempt — Case about to come to trial — Publication in newspaper in respect of such case—Rights of newspaper — Freedom of press—Extent. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 3. AIR 1958 Punj 273.

28. Defamation.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) — Right under Art. 19 (1) (a) is not absolute—S. 499, Penal Code, does not contravene Art. 19. AIR 1961 Andh Pra 190 (199) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Applicability — Defamation — Special privilege does not attach to publication of a news item by a newspaper. See Tort—Defamation. AIR 1957 Nag 19 (Bom. at Nagpur).

——Art. 19 (2)—Penal Code (1860), Ss. 499, 500—Validity after commencement of Constitution.

Under Art. 19 (2) as it stood before its amendment in 1951, the existing law as to defamation prevailed and Ss. 499 and 500 I. P. C., were part of the existing law on the date of the commencement of the Constitution. 55 Cal W N 745 : 52 Cri L J 1422 : AIR 1951 Cal 176 (178) (Pt C) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a)—Defamation—Freedom of press—Extent of. See Penal Code (1860), S. 499. 1962 (2) Cr L J 617 : AIR 1962 Orissa 197.

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1198.]

——Art. 19 (2) — Freedom of speech—Limitation on —Freedom of press is not higher than that of citizen — Use of this freedom so as to constitute infraction of law relating to defamation is not allowed.

The freedom of the press is not higher than the freedom of an ordinary citizen and is subject to the same limitations as are imposed by Art. 19 (2). The limitations, inter alia are to the effect that the freedom of speech and expression is not to be exercised in such a way as to constitute an infraction of the law relating to defamation. Just as every individual possesses the freedom of speech and expression, every person also possesses a right to his reputation which is regarded as property. Hence, nobody can so use his freedom of speech or expression as to injure another's reputation or to indulge in what may be called character assassination. 64 Punj L R 1074 : 1963 (1) Cr L J 609 : AIR 1963 Punj 201 (205) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

29. Incitement to offence.

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), 22 — Freedom of expression — Reasonable restriction — Preventive detention for inciting violence — Legality.

Advocacy of violence or incitement to use violence or resort to other illegitimate courses would be considered good grounds for inferring that the public order would not be maintained. Similarly the expression of views which would normally tend to disturb public order, peace and tranquillity would also be considered good grounds for that purpose. What has to be seen in all such cases is the effect which the expression of such views, judged from ordinary standards, would have on the people for whose consumption those views are being expressed. The freedom of speech and expression guaranteed by the Constitution is subject to the restrictions which have been validly placed upon it by the Preventive Detention Act in the interest of public order, peace and tranquillity. It would thus be a question of fact in each case whether the views expressed are of one kind or the other. The test in all such cases would be whether there is any 'real' and 'genuine,' or as it has been sometimes described 'proximate' and 'rational' connection between the acts complained of and the apprehension of the disturbance of public peace, order and tranquillity likely to result therefrom. ILR (1957) 2 All 42 : 1957 Cr L J 1361 : AIR 1957 All 782 (791, 792) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2) — 'Incitement to offence' and 'incitement to break law.'

Article 19 (2) does not in so many words save a law in relation to incitement to break a law. 'Incitement to break a law' is not same as 'Incitement to an offence,' because every breach of law does not amount to an offence.

Our Constitution safeguards to every citizen of India the freedom to preach non-violent disobedience to civil laws, not being laws mentioned in Cl. (2) of Art. 19. If the contention that an incitement to breach of every kind of laws is likely to lead to a breach of public order were true, it would hardly have been necessary for the fathers of the Constitution to single out in Cl. (2) of Art. 19, laws relating to seven matters only including 'incitement of offences.' Indeed the reference to 'incitement to an offence' clearly shows that an incitement to a breach of every civil law is not necessarily contemplated in Cl. (2). 1955 Cr L J 623 : ILR (1955) 1 All 355 : AIR 1955 All 193 (204, 205, 220) (Pt H) (Prs 14, 79, 80) (DB).

——Art. 19 (2) — Police (Incitement to Disaffection) Act (1922), S. 3 — Police Officer withholding his services or committing breach of discipline is punishable under S. 145 of the Bombay Police Act, 1951 — To induce Police Officer to do so would amount to incitement to an offence — Hence restriction imposed by S. 3 of the Police (Incitement to Disaffection) Act is covered by Art. 19 (2) and is valid. 62 Bom L R 206 : 1960 Nag L J 244 : ILR (1960) Bom 305 : 1960 Cr L J 1192 : AIR 1960 Bom 399 (404) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (2) — Penal Code (1860), S. 505 (c) — Incitement to commit offence — Grievances against local authorities expressed through publication of pamphlet — Proceeding started under S. 505 quashed in light of freedom of expression guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) of Constitution. See Penal Code (1860), S. 505. AIR 1960 Orissa 65.

30. The film as a medium of expression.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Prohibition from or direction for exhibiting certain films — Cinematograph Act (1918), S. 8 — Notifications dated 20-3-1948, 15-9 1948.

It cannot be said that a licensee of a cinema theatre who exhibits films is exercising a right of freedom of speech and expression in exhibiting films which he desired to exhibit. He is not exhibiting them either as the expression of his thoughts and ideas or of those borrowed from some one else and adopted by him. He is doing nothing but carrying on a business. His right to freedom and expression is no more infringed by his being prohibited from exhibiting certain films or by being directed to exhibit certain films than in the case of a book-seller who is prohibited from selling certain books or is directed to sell certain other books. AIR 1951 Mad 70 (SB), Ref. ILR (1953) Mad 636 : 64 Mad L W 1066 : 1951-2 Mad L J 517 : AIR 1952 Mad 120 (123) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1954 S C 747].

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Provision in licence for exhibition of films of educative and cultural value — Cinematograph Act (1918), S. 8 — Notifications dated 20-3-1948, 15-9-1948.

The provision for exhibition of films of educative and cultural value is in the interests of the general public. The advantage of visual methods of instruction combined with a certain amount of entertainment cannot be sufficiently emphasised in a country like India where the masses are practically illiterate. If at the most, the time taken for exhibiting the approved films does not exceed about 15 or 20 minutes, there is no unreasonable restriction on the exercise of the licensee's right to carry on his business. The fact that the licensee has to pay rent for the use of such films is immaterial. ILR (1953) Mad 636 : 64 Mad L W 1066 : 1951-2 Mad L J 517 : AIR 1952 Mad 120 (124) (Pt D) (Prs 15, 16) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1954 S C 747].

31. Loudspeakers, ban of.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Freedom of speech and expression — Extent of — Use of loudspeakers.

Use of mechanical instruments like loud-speakers and amplifiers is not covered by the guarantee of freedom of speech and expression. Therefore a bye-law of a municipality which requires permission of the Executive Officer for using a loud-speaker does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (a). 1958 All L J 56 : 1958 All W R (HC) 131 : 1958 All (Cri) R 113 : AIR 1958 All 360 (361) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Use of loud-speaker — Taking out of licence — Provision is reasonable restriction of right of freedom of speech, in interest of public order — Power is not arbitrary — Provision cannot be attacked on grounds of delegation. See Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), S. 33 (1) (r) (iii). (1963) 2 Cr L J 502: AIR 1963 Guj 259 (DB).

32. Picketing, prohibition of.

——Art. 19 — Peaceful picketing in mill area — Restriction placed by S. 7 (1) of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932 — Section, whether void under Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1). See Criminal Law Amendment Act (1932), S. 7 (1). AIR 1951 Bom 459 (DB).

33. Right to make demonstrations.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (a), (b), 309 — Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4-A — Validity — Is invalid in so far as it prohibits any form of demonstration but cannot be struck down in so far as it prohibits strikes. O. K. Ghosh v. E. K. Joseph, (1962) 2 Lab L J 615 : (1962) 5 Fac L R 511 : 1963 Supp (1) S C R 789: (1963-64) 24 F J R 115: (1963) 1 S C W R 168 : 1964 Mah L J 509 : 1964 M P L J 599 : (1963) 2 S C A 117 : 66 Bom L R 93 : AIR 1963 S C 812 (814, 816) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 13).

● —— Art. 19 (3) — Bihar Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1956), R. 4A — Constitutional validity — Rule in so far as it prohibits any form of demonstration violates Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b) — Prohibition against resorting to strike is valid — Provisions of rule not being separable, entire rule is invalid — AIR 1959 Pat 187, Reversed. See Bihar Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1956), R. 4-A. AIR 1962 S C 1166.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b) — Right to make demonstrations if covered by fundamental right under Cls. (a) and (b) — Demonstration — Meaning of.

Broadly stated a demonstration is a visible manifestation of the feelings or sentiments of an individual or a group. It is a communication of one's ideas to others to whom it is intended. It is in effect therefore a form of speech. There are forms of demonstration which would fall within the freedoms guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (1) (b) A violent and disorderly demonstration would not obviously be within Art. 19 (1) (a) or (b). But peaceful and orderly demonstration would fall within the freedoms guaranteed under these clauses. Kameshwar Prasad v. State of Bihar, (1962) 2 S C A 240 : (1962) 1 Lab L J 294 : (1961-62) 22 F J R 50 : 1962 B L J R 499 : I L R 42 Pat 259 : (1962) Sup 3 S C R 369 : AIR 1962 S C 1166 (1170, 1171) (Pt C) (Pr 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) — Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4 (A) — Constitutional validity — Prohibition against resorting to strike and participating in any demonstration — Whether violative of Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (c) or (g) of the Constitution. See Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4 (A). AIR 1962 Bom 53.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Freedom of speech — Government Servants' Conduct Rules — Rule prohibiting demonstrations and strikes — Validity of (Bihar Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1956), R. 4-A).

Rule 4-A of the rules which prohibits the Government Servants from participating in any demonstrations or resorting to any strike in connection with any matter pertaining to their conditions of service does not violate any of the guarantees under Art. 19.

The freedom guaranteed under Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (1) (c) may include the right to strike and the right to demonstrate in a lawful manner with respect to the employees in an industrial undertaking but so far as Government servants are concerned the right guaranteed by those provisions does not include the right to strike and the right to demonstrate.

Rule 4-A of the Bihar Government Servants' Conduct Rules is reasonable and in the interest of the public order within the meaning of Arts. 19 (2) and 19 (4). The promulgation of R. 4-A has not resulted in a total prohibition of freedom of speech. (1959) 1 Lab L J 401 : 1958 B L J R 600 : I L R 37 Pat 1199 : AIR 1959 Pat 187 (189, 190, 191) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 7).

[Partly Reversed in AIR 1962 S C 1166.]

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) — Right to make "demonstration" — Restrictions on — Civil Service Rule banning every type of demonstration is ultra vires and unconstitutional — Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules, R. 4-A — Rule invalid.

Rule 4-A of the Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules, in so far as it lays a bar on every type of demonstration, be the same however innocent and however incapable of causing a breach of public tranquillity, and not confining itself to those forms of demonstrations which might lead to that result, is ultra vires and unconstitutional. AIR 1962 S C 1166, Foll. 1963 Cur L J 449 : 65 Punj L R 997 : (1965) 2 Lab L J 696: AIR 1964 Punj 143 (144, 145) (Pr 6).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b) — Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules, 1955, R. 4-A — Validity — Rule violates Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b) — Petitioner held could not be punished for participating in any demonstration. See Ibid, Art. 309. AIR 1963 Punj 390.

34. Restrictions on freedom of speech and expression — Miscellaneous examples.

● ——Art. 19 (6) — Newspaper (Price and Page) Act (1959) and Daily Newspaper (Price and Page) Order (1960) — Validity — Provisions offend Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution and are unconstitutional. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (a). (1962) 2 S C J 400: AIR 1962 S C 305.

● Art. 19 (2) — Bombay Civil Services (Conduct, Discipline and Appeal) Rules (1932), R. 26 (a) — Speech by Educational Inspector with general permission of Government that in Karnatak Kannada language should precede and Hindi should follow — Held speech did not attract R. 26 (a) and also fell outside Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution — See Bombay Civil Services (Conduct, Discipline and Appeal) Rules (1932), R. 26 (a). (1962) 1 Lab L J 134 (S C).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Sections 123 (5) and 124 (5), Representation of the People Act, are not ultra vires Art. 19 (1) (a). See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 123 (5). AIR 1954 S C 686.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) — Restrictions on fundamental rights — Tests of reasonableness — Both substantive and procedural aspects to be considered — Dramatic Performances Act (1876), Ss. 3, 10 — Validity — Substantive provisions not invalid — Distinction between written word and spoken word.

A reading of Cl. (2) of Art. 19 makes it clear that the restrictions imposed must be reasonable. This reasonableness is necessary not only in the substantive provisions of the impugned law, but also in the procedural provisions. Restrictions imposed by a law may be reasonable in their substantive provisions but the operation of the law may amount to an unreasonable restriction because no adequate provision has been made in the procedural part of the law to safeguard the rights guaranteed under the Constitution. AIR 1950 S C 211, Rel. on.

The Dramatic Performances Act, 1876, is ultra vires of the Constitution of India, because its procedural part imposes such restrictions on the right of freedom of speech and expression which cannot be covered by the saving clause in Art. 19 (2). AIR 1951 Cal 322 and AIR 1952 S C 196 and AIR 1954 All 562 and AIR 1953 Raj 162, Rel. on.

The written word can be confiscated before it has done much damage, but the spoken word achieves its objects as soon as it is uttered. The spoken word is also far inflammable and can engender heat and excite passions in a quicker manner and become a greater danger to the security of the community. These and other differences make it necessary that in the interests of public order and security, the State should have some power to deal in an emergent manner with the spoken word. The Dramatic Performances Act, 1876, is such a preventive measure. The substantive provisions of the Dramatic Performances Act do not infringe Art. 19, Constitution of India, as the restrictions imposed are reasonable within the meaning of sub-cl. 2) of the said Article. Where the restriction imposed by means of a prohibitory order passed as a measure of emergency is amenable to objective determination by a Court of law or some other body, but no such provision is made in the procedural part of the impugned law, it cannot be held to be a reasonable restriction. The final order cannot be left to the mere subjective determination of an executive officer whose decision is not open to review or reconsideration. 1956 A L J 939 : I L R (1957) 1 All 399 : 1956 Cr L J 1143 : AIR 1956 All 571 (573, 574, 575) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 12, 13, 15, 16, 19, 23) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (2) — Rule 20 (1) of Government Servants Conduct Rules 1926, constitutes unreasonable restriction on fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (a) and is not saved by Art. 19 (2) — Reasonable restriction under Art. 19 (2) should not be vague. See Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1926), R. 20 (1). AIR 1955 Cal 76.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Public Safety — M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (a) — Imposing of restrictions without notice of hearing — Unreasonability of procedure does not affect validity of S. 3 (1). See Public Safety — M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (a). AIR 1964 Madh Pra 175 (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (a) — Restriction under, is reasonable both from substantive and procedural aspects. See Public Safety — M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (a). AIR 1964 Madh Pra 175 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Validity of S. 3 (2), M. P. Official Languages Act (1950) — Does not offend Art. 19 (1) (a). See M. P. Official Languages Act (1950), S. 3 (2). AIR 1959 Madh Pra 208 (DB).

——Arts. 19 and 14 — Madras City Police Act (3 of 1888) as amended by Madras Act (7 of 1949), S. 49A — Validity of — Differentiation, distinction and discrimination — Classification is in derogation of right secured under Art. 19 (1) (a)—See Madras City Police Act (3 of 1888) as amended by Madras Act (7 of 1949), S. 49A. AIR 1954 Mad 901.

——Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (2) — Bihar Essential Services Maintenance Act (1948), Ss. 5, 3 — Validity — Does not go beyond reasonable restrictions in Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution (Words and Phrases — 'Causing disaffection') —See Bihar Essential Services Maintenance Act (1 of 1948), S. 5. AIR 1956 Pat 188.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (2) — Dramatic Performances Act (1876), S. 3 (a) and (c) — Provisions are unreasonable restriction on fundamental right of freedom of speech. See Dramatic Performaces Act (1876), S. 3 (a). 1961 (1) Cr L J 851 : AIR 1961 Punj 272 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) — Order under S. 7 — Dramatic Performances Act — Violates Art. 19 (1). See Dramatic Performances Act (1876), S. 3 (b). AIR 1958 Punj 243.

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144— Validity — Section does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 144. ILR (1957) Punj 386.

——Art. 19 (2) — Public Safety — Trav-Co. Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 31—Restriction under— Validity — The restriction imposed by the section is of the nature permitted by Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution and is not ultra vires of the Constitution. See Public Safety — T. C. Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 31. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 540.

35. Clause (1) (b)—(General).

——Art. 19 (1) (b)— Scope — U. P. Opium Act, 1934, S. 14 — Amounts to reasonable restriction in the interest of public on exercise of right of assembly and is not ultra vires — See U. P. Opium Smoking Act (3 of 1934), S. 14. 1957 Cr L J 1199 : AIR 1957 All 753.

——Art. 19 (1) (b) — Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1950, R. 63—Validity —See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1957 Ker 7.

——Art. 19 (1) (b) and (d) — M. B. Maintenance of Public Order Act (7 of 1949), S. 11—Validity—Contravention of fundamental rights under Art 19.

Section 11 of the Madhya Bharat Maintenance of Public Order Act (7 of 1949), as it stood at the material time (viz., 22-10-1952), was contrary to the fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (b) and (d) of the Constitution as it imposed unreasonable restrictions upon those rights by reason of the wide amplitude of possible delegation by Government of its powers under S. 7 (1) of that Act. The contravention of an order made under S. 7 in pursuance of such delegation cannot therefore be illegal. AIR 1951 Cal 3; (1953) M B L J 607, Foll.; AIR 1952 S C 196, Disting. 1957 M P C 220 : 1957 Jab L J 74: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 179 : AIR 1957 Madh Pra 54 (58) (Pt C) (Pr 23) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (a) and (b) and 14 — Madras City Police Act (3 of 1888), S. 41—Validity.

Section 41 of the Madras City Police Act cannot be held to be ultra vires and cannot be struck down as going against the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b) of the Constitution.

The restrictions imposed under S. 41 are not unreasonable as conferring unlimited and absolute powers on a Police Officer.

Section 41 has laid down certain conditions to be observed by the Commissioner before passing an order under that section prohibiting public meetings and one of conditions is that he should consider such prohibition to be necessary for the preservation of the public peace or public safety.

Though there is no express provision in S. 41 for approaching the government against commissioner's orders pass under that section everybody knows that the Government under whom the Commissioner is directly working, can be approached for rescinding or modifying such orders, though what orders the Government would pass would depend on the merits of the case.

Although no time limit is fixed for an order under S. 41 in the section itself, as a matter of convention, the time limit of 14 days has been observed in the orders under S. 41 and any order under S. 41 extending over 15 days at a time will be held invalid by the Court (Desirability of incorporating provison for time limit in S. 41 stressed).

The powers under S. 41 are no doubt wider than those given under S. 30 (2) of the Police Act or under S. 144, Criminal P. C., but that is because the presidency police administration has been considered to be different from the district police administration and so there is a reasonable classification and no discrimination.

The section cannot be attacked on the ground that orders under it differ from those under S. 144, Criminal P. C. in not being justiciable or subject to judicial scrutiny. The orders under S. 41 cannot in their very nature be justiciable or subject to judicial scrutiny. The Court is wholly unsuited to guage the seriousness of the situation, for it cannot be in possession of materials which are available only to the Executive Government. AIR 1957 S C 896, Rel. on.

Section 41 does not allow a total prohibition of the right to the public meeting. It gives the Commissioner a wide discretion according to the exigencies of the situation to allow some public meetings as for marriages and funerals without licence, some others with a licence, and to prohibit some others either in the particular areas or for particular days or occasions.

There is no presumption that High Police Officer will act unscrupulously and in order to please the political bosses. Where the commissioner's orders are vitiated by the mala fides, they could always be challenged on that ground either by writ to the High Court, before the prosecution or in the criminal case after the prosecution is launched, and the mere possibility that a power may be abused is no reason for denying the power itself, or to strike down the section of the Act conferring that power. 71 Mad L W 655 : (1958) 2 Mad L J 363 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 302 : ILR (1958) Mad 865 : 1959 Cri L J 204 : 1958 Mad W N 809 : AIR 1959 Mad 63 (65, 66, 67) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 7, 8, 9, 10) (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (b) —Mysore Police Act not ultra vires Arts. 19 (1) (b) and (d). See Mysore Police Act (5 of 1908), S. 45. 1960 Cri L J 379 : AIR 1960 Mys 57 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b)—Freedom of speech and expression and freedom to assemble peacefully — It would be no answer to a proper charge that the accused behaved riotously at a private or even a public meeting violently by insisting on the same being held in a particular language. AIR 1954 Mys 12 (14) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Art. 19 (1) (b) — Public Safety — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (1950), S. 9 (2)—Act originating from Ordinance promulgated during emergency —Act whether permanent measure imposing restrictions — Art. 19 (1) (b), (d) of Constitution, if violated — (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (b) and (d))— See Public Safety — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), S. 9 (2). AIR 1959 Pat 425.

——Art. 19 (3)—Representation of the People Act (43 of 1951), S. 126—Validity—Restrictions imposed on holding of public meetings how far reasonable. See ——Art. 19 (1) (b)—Regulation of Public meetings—Validity of law.

Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 126. AIR 1957 Pat 252.

The law relating to regulation of public meetings is a law passed in the interests of public order. ILR 34 Pat 855 : 1957 Cri L J 648 : AIR 1957 Pat 252 (254) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19—Scope —Instructions prohibiting railway servants to hold meetings in places of work — No contravention of Art. 19. AIR 1962 Punj 482, Reversed.

The instructions issued by the railway authorities absolutely forbidding the holding of meetings in actual places of work such as workshops, stores, depots and office compounds without their permission do not contravene Art. 19. Any employer of labour can prohibit Union meetings on his own premises, and this applies just as much to Government in its capacity as an employer as to any private individual. To prohibit meetings or demonstrations in factory premises is not an infringement of any fundamental right since nobody has a fundamental right to hold meetings of any kind on private property. AIR 1962 Punj 482, Reversed, (1963) 7 Fac L R 58 : 65 Punj L R 571 : ILR (1963) 1 Punj 862 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 321 : AIR 1963 Punj 336 (337, 338) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (b), (2) and (3)—Right to hold meetings—Restrictions on, must be reasonable—Railway authorities prohibiting meetings of workers on premises controlled by Railway without permission — Order held contravened Art. 19.

The right to hold meetings cannot be restricted absolutely without any indication how the public order would be threatened thereby. A restriction in order to be reasonable must have a reasonable relation to the object the Legislation has in view and must not go beyond it. Restrictions meant to be in the interest of public order which have no proximate relationship or nexus with it but can be only remotely or hypothetically connected with it, cannot, therefore, be reasonable within the meaning of Art. 19 (2). Civil Appeal No. 413 of 1959, dated 22-2-1962 (Punj) and AIR 1960 S C 633, Relied on.

The Railway Administration issued a circular letter warning all its staff that if any one of them was found organising or attending a meeting inside Railway premises or at places of work, he would render himself liable to severe disciplinary action as such action on his part would amount to misconduct arising out of violation of administrative instructions; that meeting could be held on open grounds away from the places of work with the permission of the Railway authorities if such open ground fell within Railway boundary :

Held, that the intent of the instructions was to prohibit all meetings without the prior sanction of the Administration and the vice of the instructions was that every kind of demonstration in a public meeting was forbidden. The restriction was not reasonable. The Railway authority might own or control the premises over which meetings had been prohibited without permission but that did not entitle it to curb or curtail the fundamental right accorded by the Constitution of India, unless the restriction came strictly within the ambit of Art. 19 (3). The instructions were, therefore unconstitutional and void. (1944) 323 U S 516 and (1945) 326 U S 501 and (1945) 326 U S 517, Relied on. 64 Punj L R 620 : (1962) 1 Lab L J 588 : AIR 1962 Punj 482 (484) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9, 12).

[Reversed in AIR 1963 Punj 336].

36. Right to take out procession along highway.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (2), (3) — Order under S. 144, Cr. P. Code — Order only excepting funeral processions and religious processions from its operation—If anyone wanted to take out a procession for some other purpose which was lawful it was open to him under S. 144, sub-s. (4) to apply for an alteration of the order and obtain a special exemption — Mere omission of the District Magistrate to make the exemption clause of the order more comprehensive would not vitiate the order on the ground that it places unreasonable restrictions on certain fundamental rights of citizens. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 An W R (SC) 154 : (1961) 1 M L J (SC) 154 : 1961 M L J (Cr) 297 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 16 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 An L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : 1961 S C D 597 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (891) (Pt I) (Pr 32).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (a), (b), (2), (3) — Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C. prohibiting shouting of "provocative slogans" — The expression "provocative slogans" has necessarily to be understood in the context in which it has been used in the order and, therefore, it cannot be regarded as vague—Order cannot be held to place unreasonable restrictions on the rights of free speech of citizens. Babulal Parate v. State of Maharashtra, (1961) 1 S C J 524 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (S C) 154 : (1961) 1 M L J (S C) 154 : 1961 M L J (Cr) 297 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 16 : (1961) 2 S C A 497 : 1961 Andh L T 610 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 327 : 1961 S C D 597 : AIR 1961 S C 884 (891, 892) (Pt J) (Pr 33).

——Art. 19—Penal Code (1860), Ss. 141 (fifthly), 142, 143, 148—Hindu Muslim factions — Agreement as to right to take procession with music in front of mosque on public highway—Effect.

The very fact that a particular path or a road is a public highway means that every member of the public has a right to use it. Such a right does not originate either in agreement or in custom. The right is subject only to similar rights of other members of the public to use the public highway and to the power of the State to regulate traffic and to prevent disturbances or breaches of public peace. Although the right to use public highways in this manner is not expressly described as a fundamental right in the Constitution, it can reasonably be stated to partake of the fundamental right to assemble throughout the territory of India guaranteed under Art. 19 of the Constitution.

An agreement reached between the Hindus and Muslims of a place whereby the Muslims agreed not to object to processions being taken out with music in front of a mosque on a highway on occasions of national festivals cannot have the effect of a decree of Court or an award of arbitrators defining and declaring the rights of the parties. 38 Mys L J 203 and AIR 1925 P C 38 and AIR 1944 P C 33, Rel. on.

Such an agreement will not give any right to the members of the Muslim Community to prevent the processionists to proceed along the mosque on the public highway with music. By such obstruction the persons would constitute themselves an unlawful assembly within the meaning of S. 141 (fifthly), of Penal Code. 1961 (1) Cri L J 291 : 1962 M L J (Cri) 55 : 38 Mys L J 1039 : ILR (1960) Mys 1238 : AIR 1961 Mys 57 (57) (Pt A) (Prs 21, 22) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (b) — Right to take out procession accompanied with music on public highway — Representative suit for declaration of right is maintainable—Hindus have unrestricted right to take out such processions at all hours subject to restrictions, put by authorities to prevent breach of peace — Previous compromise, effect of. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. AIR 1964 Orissa 18.

——Art. 19 (1) (b), (d) — Highway — Right to lead procession on — Nature and scope of — It is neither easementary nor customary but fundamental.

Any section of the public have got right to lead a religious procession with its appropriate observances along a highway, subject to particular limitations, viz., that they do not interfere with the other fundamental rights of the public; this right is subject also to the control by the appropriate authorities to regulate the traffic, and is not based upon an easementary right or a customary right. This is a fundamental right as the ordinary user by an individual of the public street. AIR 1925 P C 36 and AIR 1944 P C 33, Rel. on. (1960) 3 O J D 22 : AIR 1961 Orissa 167 (168) (Pr 2).

37. Clause (1) (c) - (General).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Forward Contracts (Regulation) Act (1952), Chap. III, Ss. 5, 6 and 10—Recognition of associations — Provisions as to, do not violate Art. 19 (1) (c) and are valid. Raghubar Dayal Jai Parkash v. Union of India, (1962) 2 S C J 445 : (1962) 3 S C R 547 : AIR 1962 S C 263 (270) (Pt A) (Pr 14).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Freedom to form association—Forward Contracts (Regulation) Act (1952), S. 6—Recognition of association — These do not affect freedom to form association. Raghubar Dayal Jai Parkash v. Union of India, (1962) 2 S C J 445: (1962) 3 S C R 547 : AIR 1962 S C 263 (270) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Scope — Right not to form association.

Assuming that the right to form an association implies a right not to form an association, it does not follow that the negative right must also be regarded as a fundamental right. The citizens of India have many rights which have not been given the sanctity of fundamental rights and there is nothing absurd or uncommon if the positive right alone is made a fundamental right. Tika Ramji v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1956 S C A 979 : 1956 S C J 625 : 1956 All W R (HC) 657 : 1956 S C R 393 : AIR 1956 S C 676 (709) (Pt G) (Pr 48).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (c) and (4)—Criminal Law Amendment Act (1908), S. 15 (2) (b) (as amended by Madras Act 11 of 1950)—Validity—See Criminal Law Amendment Act (1908), S. 15 (2) (b) (as amended in Madras by Madras Act (11 of 1950)). AIR 1952 S C 196.

——Art. 19 (1) (c) — University Union Ordinance empowering realisation of fee compulsorily from students — Ordinance is not ultra vires — (Allahabad University Act (3 of 1921), S. 33). AIR 1955 N U C (All) 2034.

● ——Art. 19 (1)(c)—If contravened by S. 114 of the U. P Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (1951).

Section 114 of the U. P. Act 1 of 1951 does not contravene the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution as the membership of the Gaon Sabha is voluntary and not compulsory. Suryapal Singh v. Government of Uttar Pradesh, 1951 A W R (H C) 317 : ILR (1952) 2 All 46 : 1951 All L J 365 : AIR 1951 All 674 (699) (Pt X) (Pr 132) (FB).

— Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (c), 19 (2)—Andhra Civil Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1954), R. 3 — Validity — Amounts to reasonable restriction. See Andhra Civil Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1954), R. 3. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 288 (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (c) and (4) — Scope — G. O. Ms. No, 418, Education and Public Health, dated 24th February, 1939, Rr. 3 and 4—Validity.

The right to form an association or union necessarily implies that a person is free to refuse to be a member of an association or union, if he so desires. AIR 1951 All 674 (FB), Rel. on.

Rules 3 and 4 in G. O. Ms. No. 418, Education and Public Health, dated the 24th February, 1939, in so far as they empower the authorities to make it obligatory on the part of a every teacher in an elementary school to become a member of the Association sponsored by the Government must be declared to be void as constituting an abridgment of the rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (c). AIR 1958 Andh Pra 78 (79) (Prs 6, 12).

——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Criminal Law Amendment Act (1908), S. 15 — Provisions of, do not offend Art. 19 (1) (c) of Constitution. See Criminal Law Amendment Act (1908), S. 15. AIR 1952 Assam 167 (DB).

——Art. 19 (4) and 19 (1) (c) — Right to strike not included in right to form associations or unions — Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960), Ss. 3 (1) and 7 — Restrictions imposed by Ordinance are within limits provided by Cl. (4). 63 Bom L R 774 : 1961 Nag L J 695 : (1961-62) 21 F J R 441 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 264 : AIR 1962 Bom 53 (65, 66, 67) (Pt D) (Prs 40, 49, 55) (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (c) — Fight of Association — Jadavpur Univesity Act—If violates right and if invalid — (Jadavpur University Act (33 of 1955), S. 2 (c) and (4)).

Where the Jadavpur University Act was challenged by a life member of the National Council of Education on the ground that it violated the applicant's right of association, namely to form National Council of Education, under Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution:

Held, that there was explicit and implicit recognition in the Jadavpur University Act, that the nucleus was the National Council of Education. There was, therefore, no infringement of the applicant's right to form association under Art 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution. ('59) 63 Cal W N 914 : ILR (1960) 2 Cal 311 : AIR 1960 Cal 120 (122) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) — Restriction on teachers of primary schools from getting mixed up with political institutions—If justified.

A citizen has freedom under Art. 19 of the Constitution to form associations or unions, to practise any occupation and to have freedom of speech and expression. A teacher in service in the primary school is not merely a citizen but he has also got to be under certain terms and discipline of employment. To prevent teachers from getting mixed up with political institutions is a reasonable restriction. To prevent them from entering into rivalries in respect of the Union Board, Panchayat and the District Board is a reasonable restriction. Teachers are all the better by being and remaining non-partisan and non-factious. Village libraries and village clubs have been centres of many activities other than library or purely social life. A provision that the Board's permission should be taken by the teachers of the primary school to engage in those activities is a reasonable restriction. AIR 1958 Cal 401 (402) (Pr 2).

——Arts. 19 (1) (c), 19 (4)—Grounds—Membership of Communist party which was declared unlawful under S. 16 of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1908 which was declared as void — Declaration also void — Being members of communist party, one of grounds of detention — Detention — Validity See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 9. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 1009.

——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Defence of Hyderabad Regulation — Rules under—R. 66-A — Validity. See Defence of Hyderabad Regulation (1352-F), Rules under. AIR 1954 Hyd 121 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Resolution by General Body of Co-operative Society — Communication by Registrar that resolutions were ultra vires — Communication held departmental—Art. 19 (1) (c) could not be invoked as there was no infringement of the right of persons to form an association. 66 Mad L W 905 : (1953) 2 M L J 584 : AIR 1954 Mad 348 (349, 350) (Prs 4, 5).

● ——Art. 19—If contravened by the Criminal Law Amendment Act as amended by the Indian Criminal Law Amendment (Mad.) Act of 1950 – Provisions inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (c). See Criminal Law Amendment Act (14 of 1908) as Amended by the Criminal Law Amendment (Mad.) Act (11 of 1950). AIR 1951 Mad 147 (FB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (c)—"Form" — Meaning of.

The word "form" in Art. 19 (1) (c) refers not only to the initial commencement of the association but also to the continuation of the association as such. Row V G v. State of Madras, 52 Cri L J 515:(1951) 1 Mad L J 628 : AIR 1951 Mad 147 (179) (Pt E) (Pr 88) (FB).

——Art 19 (c) – Society against capitalism and private ownership and for establishment of socialist state—No use of force or violence – Does not amount to subverting Government by force and violence. See Penal Code (1860), S. 121. AIR 1955 Trav-Co 33 (DB).

——Art. 19 (4) — Section 23, Tra-Co. Public Safety Measures Act, 1950 and notification issued under same declaring Cochin Communist Party unlawful are ultra vires the Constitution. See Public Safety — Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 23. AIR 1953 Trav Co 174 (DB).

● ——Art 19 (1) (c) & (4)—Public Safety — Cochin Criminal Law Amendment Act:(27 of 1124), S. 3 and notification under —Validity.

Section 3 of the impugned Act enacts a provision directly affecting one of the seven fundamental rights guaranteed by Art 19 (1) viz. that recognised by Art. 19 (1) (c) to form associations or unions. Legislation seeking to prevent activities of associations falling within the category of those mentioned in the impugned section is certainly legislation in the interests of public order or morality. S. 3 however oversteps the bounds of permissible legislation and it has, therefore, to be declared to have become void when the Constitution came into force. When a law became void obviously a notification issued under that law would also become void. Once a prosecution is launched against an association declared to be unlawful, the criminal Court cannot question the validity of the notification and it cannot therefore be said that the law gives persons hit by it an opportunity for a fair trial. Serious inroads are made regarding the right to property also. There is no time limit prescribed for the duration of a notification issued under S. 3. Government alone have authority to decide how long an association declared to be unlawful should continue to remain under the ban imposed by them. The cumulative effect of the absence of a provision for proper notice or sufficient publicity and the imposition of a time limit to seek a review of the Government order by the High Court is to make the law overstep the bounds of permissible legislation in such a manner that sub-clause (4) of Art. 19 could not save it. In other words it offends Cl (4) of Art. 19 as an unreasonable restriction on the exercise of the right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (c). AIR 1951 Mad 147, Rel. on; A I R 1951 S C 467, Foll. George Chandayammury v. State, I L R (1952) Trav-Co 1 : 1952 Ker L T 178 : 1952 Cri L J 1066 : AIR 1952 Trav-Co 217 (223, 224) (Pt D) (Prs 13, 17, 18, 19) (FB).

38. Labour and trade unions.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (c), 14— Freedom of association — Right to form Union — Scope of — Labour Union — Right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (c) does not extend to concomitant right to effective collective bargaining or to strike—Banking company—Provision exempting it from disclosing secret reserves or provision made for bad and doubtful debts in proceedings under Industrial Disputes Act No cantravention of Arts. 19 (1) (c) and 14— Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 34-A — Not unconstitutional. All India Bank Employees Association v. National Industrial Tribunal (Bank Disputes), Bombay, (1962) 32 Com Cas 414 : (1962) 1 S C A 604 : (1961) 3 F L R 307 : (1961-62) 21 F J R 63 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 385 : (1962) 3 S C R 269 : AIR 1962 S C 171 (179, 180, 181, 182, 184, 185) (Prs 18, 19, 20, 22, 28, 33, 36, 37).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (c) and 311— Notice to appellant under R. 3, Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules — Reference to appellant being member of Communist Party and to his activities in trade union – Order terminating service — If contravenes Art. 19 (1) (c)—Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), R. 3).

Where the notice issued to the appellant under R. 3 of the Security Rules referred to the appellant being a member of the Communist Party and to his activities in the trade union and his services were terminated under that Rule :

Held, that the order terminating the services of the appellant was not void as being in contravention of Art. 19 (1) (c). Though he had a fundamental right to form associations under Art. 19 (1) (c), he had no fundamental right to be continued in the employment of the State and when his services were terminated by the State he could not complain of the infringement of any of his constitutional rights, when no question of violation of Art. 311 arose. P. Balakotaiah v. Union of India, (1958) S C J 451 : 1958 S C R 1052 : 1958 S C A 209 : (1958) 1 Mad L J (S C) 162 : (1958) 1 An W R (S C) 162 : A I R 1958 S C 232 (238) (Pt E) (Pr 17).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) (g), (6)—Right to form association—Para 97 of Manual of Government Orders —Validity —Reasonable restriction.

Para 97 of the Manual of Government Orders does not restrict right of association of the Government servant and even otherwise it does not expose such right of Government servant to the risk of Art. 19 (1) (c). The true effect of para. 97 is that unless the association has been formed with the prior sanction of the Government the association will not have the right to speak or to be heard on behalf of the members of the service. One view about para. 97 can be that since, it requires Government servants to act in a certain manner in relation to their employment namely, that a representative approach by them to higher authorities shall be made through a recognised association only, it is a matter which directly concerned Cl (6) of Art. 19 which authorised the imposing of reasonable restrictions in the interest of general public on the right guaranteed to citizens under sub-Cl. (g) of Cl. (1) of that Article, namely to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business. ILR (1959) 1 All 787 : AIR 1960 All 353 (356, 357) (Pt D) (Prs 15, 17) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (c)— Rules under S. 23, U. P. Industrial Disputes Act, R. 40 — Validity. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 6-I. 1959 All L J 745.

——Art. 19 (1) (c) — Proviso to R. 40 (3) of U. P. Industrial Disputes Rules is ultra vires of Article. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Rules (1947), R. 40 (3). AIR 1960 All 45.

——Art. 19 (1) (c)— Sub-r. (4) of R. 40 of U. P. Industrial Disputes Rules is hit by Art. 14 of Constitution —Sub-rule is unreasonable restriction on right to form association. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Rules (1947), R. 40 (4). AIR 1960 All 45.

——Art. 19 (1) (c) and (4) — Right to form trade unions comes within article— State cannot circumvent article by placing restrictions on objects or purposes of association — Rejection of application of federation of trade unions to represent its members —This would be restriction within Art. 19 (4)—(U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 6-I)—(Trade Unions Act (1926), Preamble).

The right to form associations or unions guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution includes the right of workmen to form trade unions for a lawful purpose. The purpose of an association is an integral part of the right, and if the purpose is restricted, the right is inevitably restricted. The enjoyment and fulfilment of the right begins with the fulfilment of the purpose for which the association is formed. If the State tries to circumvent Art. 19 (1) (c) by placing restrictions on the objects or purposes or the normal functioning of an association, this would amount to an indirect restriction on the right itself. A I R 1958 S C 956, Foll.

The effect of the rejection of the application under S. 6-I, U. P. Industrial Disputes Act of the federation of trade unions for permission to represent its members or the rejection of its application for approval by the Labour Commissioner for purposes of such representation would amount to restriction within the meaning of clause 4 of Art. 19 of the Constitution. (1959-60) 17 FJR 290 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 745 : AIR 1960 All 45 (49) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) — Law or order whether restricts unreasonably right of association — Court must take notice of existence of conditions of labour.

The High Court must, in deciding whether any particular law or order of Government restricts unreasonably the right of association guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (c), take notice of the existence of conditions relating to organised industrial labour in India. A I R 1952 S C 196, Foll.

The purpose of industrial legislation is to strive for the settlement of the disputes by methods of conciliation and negotiation. But the existence of rival Trade Unions in the same industry which owe allegiance to different political parties is more likely to hinder than advance the process of conciliation. This is a phenomenon which is all too familiar in this country and of which the Court must take notice in any proceedings in which the reasonableness of a particular piece of industrial legislation is called in question. (1959-60) 17 F J R 290 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 745 : A I R 1960 All 45 (50) (Pt C) (Prs 16, 17).

——Arts. 19 (1) (c) and (4), 13 and 14—Citizen complaining that his right to form association has been violated or unduly restricted—Court cannot surrender its own judgment in favour of any other organ of State.

When a citizen comes to the High Court with a complaint that his fundamental right to form an association guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (c) has been violated or unduly restricted the Court cannot surrender its own judgment in favour of any other organ of the State in deciding whether the impugned restrictions are reasonable or not.

Indeed, the High Court is under a duty imposed by Arts. 13 and 14 of the Constitution, to act as a sort of constitutional censor of all legislation and to scrutinise at the instance of any aggrieved citizen, any law or executive act and to examine its legality and thus ensure that no unconstitutional legislation or illegal State action slips through its vigilant scrutiny. Only by performing this duty can this Court effectively protect the fundamental rights of the citizens. The High Court is the sole arbiter, subject to the ultimate authority of the Supreme Court in appeal or otherwise of the question whether any particular law or order of Government imposes an unreasonable restriction on the rights of the citizen. (1959-60) 17 F J R 290 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 745 : A I R 1960 All 45 (50, 51) (Pt D) (Pr 18).

——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Scope of—Illegal action by Association—Stopping of, when amounts to interference.

Freedom to form an association necessarily carries with it the freedom to continue such association. But that does not mean that if an illegal action taken in obedience to any resolution passed in Association is stopped, it will amount to interference with the formation or even continuance of the association. Stopping of work by an individual by itself may be due to many reasons, but when such an action is taken as a protest and as an organised action it may be regarded as a breach of the discipline and violation of the conditions of service. In such a case any act on the part of the officials to stop giving effect to a resolution of an association will not amount to interference with the fundamental right to form an association. 1957 All L J 480 : 1957 All W R (HC) 445 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 231 : AIR 1959 All 614 (617, 618) (Pt D) (Pr 8).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) — Proceedings requiring sanction to become member or secretary of Union—Rights of employee—If infringed.

The proceedings, dated 13th February, 1952, of the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, which require an employee of a Local Board to obtain its previous sanction to become a member or a secretary of the Union does not in any way infringe the rights of the employee of that authority guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution. (1959) 2 Lab L J 561 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 342 (343) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Bombay Industrial Relations Act, if ultra vires.

There is nothing in the Act which renders the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (c) to form associations or Unions illusory. The right to form Union does not carry with it the right to represent, when there is an industrial dispute before a conciliator or the Court of voluntary or compulsory arbitration, those persons or members of the Trade Union. There is consequently no abridgment of the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1), Cl. (c) by Ss. 27A &:30 of the Industrial Relations Act. 53 Bom L R 333 : 52 Cri L J 779 : ILR (1951) Bom 318 : A I R 1951 Bom 105 (114, 115, 116) (Pt G) (Prs 21, 22) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (c), 19 (4) — Railway Establishment Code (1951), App. XIII, Pt. B, R. 1 — Right of State servants to form Unions — Constitutes fundamental right subject to Art. 19 (4) — Recognition or withdrawal of recognition to Unions — Nature of the right— Conditions for recognition or withdrawal — Test of validity — Limitations imposed by R. 1 — Essential conditions for validity. A I R 1965 Cal 389 (392, 393) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 11, 19, 20).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) and (a) — Labour and trade unions —Right of individual worker to conduct his own case before Industrial Court—Bombay Industrial Relations Act (11 of 1949) (as adapted in M. B.), Ss. 27A, 32, 33 — Validity — Not in coflict with fundamental rights and so are not void. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (a). A I R 1956 Madh Bha 199.

——Art. 19 (1) (c) — Right of freedom of association guaranteed—If infringed by Madras G. O. No. 416, Education, dated 24th February, 1939, empowering the Director of Public Instruction to forbid existence of, and dissolve, any Teachers' Union not conforming to the rules and compelling teachers in Local Boards or Municipal service to obtain permission of the Board or Council concerned before forming unions and prohibiting membership of teachers' unions not constituted in accordance with the orders of Government.

The rules contained in (Madras) G. O. No 416 Education, dated 24th February, 1939, in so far as they empower the Director of Public Instruction to forbid the existence of, and dissolve any Teachers' Union not conforming to the rules and compelling teachers in Local Board or Municipal service to obtain the permission of the Board or Council concerned before forming unions and in so far they prohibit teachers in recognised elementary schools from becoming members of teachers' unions or other teachers' organisations not constituted in accordance with the orders of the Government should be declared to be void as constituting an abridgement of the right of freedom of association guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution.

The exercise of any of the fundamental rights like the right of free speech, right of freedom of religion or the right of freedom of association cannot be made subject to the discretionary control of administrative or executive authority which can grant or withhold permission to exercise such right at its discretion. There cannot be any restriction on the exercise of such a right which consists in a previous restraint on such exercise and which is in the nature of administrative censorship. The guaranteed freedoms cannot be abridged or abrogated by the exercise of official discretion. ILR (1953) Mad 57 : 1952 Mad W N 16 : 65 L W 140 : (1952) 1 M L J 38 : A I R 1952 Mad 253 (254, 255) (Pr 7) (DB).

Government Servants' Conduct Rules.

——Art. 19 (1) (c), (g), (6) — Right to form association — Para. 97 of Manual of Government Orders does not restrict right of Government servants to form association — It does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (c) — It may be considered as reasonable restriction under Art. 19 (6). I L R (1959) 1 All 787 : A I R 1960 All 353 (356, 357) (Pt D) (Prs 15, 17) (DB).

——Arts. 19 and 309 — Government servants conduct Rules — Rule 22 prohibiting membership in unrecognised Service Association is not violative of fundamental right to form association guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (c). See Ibid, Art. 309. (1960) 1 Lab L J 156 (Andh-Pra).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) —Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4-A — Validity — Rule cannot be held to be invalid on the ground of its prohibiting Government servant from going on strike — Rule applies even to individual worker — There is no question of association being prohibited from going on strike.

Rule 4-A of the Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules is not liable to be struck down as violating Art. 19 (1) (c). Though a servant of the Government has a right to form an association and may also have a right of peaceful demonstration within limits it cannot be argued on the basis of these rights that there is any right of strike for using it as a means of redressal of its grievance.

Further the very concept of strike postulates a joint action, that is, more than one person withdrawing from work in spite of there being a contract or an obligation to work. Rule 4-A, as it is cast, would seem to apply even to an individual worker. Therefore, it does not contemplate a case of joint action. Rule 4-A is a rule of conduct for each single employee. The association never works under the Government as such and no question can possibly arise of the association going on strike. Therefore, there is no question of association being prohibited from going on strike. It is in that aspect that rules regarding recognition of association of employees have to be read and there is nothing wrong if an employee is prohibited from going on strike. A I R 1962 S C 171, Rel. on. 65 Bom L R 65 : I L R (1962) Bom 664 : 1963 Mah L J 205 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 428 : A I R 1963 Bom 121 (136, 137) (Pt F) (Prs 54, 55, 60) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) to (c) — Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4-A — Constitutional validity — Prohibition against resorting to strike and participating in any demonstration — Whether violative of Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (c) or (g) of the Constitution. See Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955) R 4-A. AIR 1962 Bom 53 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (c)—Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rule (1955), R. 4-B — Constitutional validity — Rule contravenes Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution and does not come within permissible limits of Cl. (4). See Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4-B. AIR 1962 Bom 53 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 3 — Validity. See Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 3. AIR 1964 Cal 415.

——Art. 19 — Government Servants' Conduct Rules, Rr. 20, 23 —Validity—Rules do not contravene Art. 19 of the Constitution — Restrictions imposed by Rules are not void on ground of vagueness or uncertainty —Capable of embarrassing — Meaning. See Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1926), R. 20 (1). ('57) 61 Cal W N 459.

——Arts. 19 (1) (c), (4), 13 (2) — Right of association — Reasonable restrictions — Rr. 80 (a), 81 and 82 of Government Servants' Conduct Rules—Validity of.

There is no doubt that the Government Servants' Conduct Rules restrict the activities of one segment of the population while permitting them to the remainder. So long as such restrictions and regulations are not arbitrary and bear a reasonable relation to legitimate ends to be attained no question as to their constitutionality can arise. So considered the Rr. 80 (a), 81 and 82 restricting the membership to Government Servants' Association to Government Servants only and prohibiting Government servant from becoming member of association which is not recognised by Government cannot be complained against.

The Government servants forming members of the Service Associations, have no constitutional right to any appointment under the Government. The appointments are, subject only to the Government Servants' Conduct Rules.

The imposition by Government of the conditions as herein restricting the choice of the personnel for the office of President in a Service Association of their employees to Government Servant only cannot be said to be unconstitutional in any sense. 1957 Ker L T 891 : 1957 Ker L J 914 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 77 : A I R 1958 Ker 283 (285, 286) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 10, 11) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (c) and 19 (4) — Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1950), Rr. 30 (a) and 81 — Validity.

Restrictions on the fundamental rights guaranteed to a citizen can be imposed in a contract of Government service provided such restrictions satisfy the test of reasonableness and do not make a nullity of the rights conferred. A reasonable restriction on the fundamental rights imposed by a contract of Government service will not be ultra vires of the Constitution. Judged by that standard Rr. 80 (a) and 81 of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1950) appear to be eminently reasonable and must be upheld as valid. I L R (1958) Ker 92 : 1957 Ker L T 169 : 1957 Ker L J 186 : (1957) 1 Lab L J 634 : AIR 1957 Ker 43 (45) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 12).

——Art. 19 (1) (a), (b) and (c) — Governments Servants' Conduct Rules, 1950. R. 63—R 63 does not violate provisions of Art. 19 (1) (a), (b) or (c) and reasonable restriction on the freedom of employee is not hit by Art. 19. 1957 Ker L T 13 : 1957 Ker L J 6 : I L R (1957) Ker 1020 : A I R 1957 Ker 7 (8, 9) (Prs. 4, 5).

——Arts. 19 (1) (c) and 226 — Right to form association—Extent of disciplinary action for contravention of R. 6 of Madras Government Servants Conduct Rules — Fundamental right of association does not include right to solicit monies by sale of tickets to members of public unconnected with an association to join which a person has the fundamental right, even if the object of such sale was to raise funds for the association and such sale was not by itself unlawful — Such right is not protected — Disciplinary action against servant for selling tickets in contravention of R. 6 — Order cannot be challenged under Art. 226. (1955) 1 Mad L J 538 : (1955) 2 Lab L J 473 : 1955 Mad W N 1037 : A I R 1955 Mad 468 (469) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 (4) — Madras Government Service Conduct Rules, R 6—R. 6 is not unconstitutional. (1955) 1 Mad L J 538 : (1955) 2 Lab L J 473 : 1955 Mad W N 1037 : A I R 1955 Mad 468 (470, 471) (Pt E) (Prs 10, 11).

39. Right of businessmen to form combinations.

●——Art. 19 (1) (c) — U. P. Sugar-cane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act (24 of 1953)—Notification under, dated 27th September 1954— Act and notification—If void.

There is no compulsion at all on any cane-grower to become a member of the Cane growers' Co-operative Society. Similarly no cane-grower is prevented from resigning his membership of a Cane-grower Co-operative Society. These are voluntary organisations which a cane-grower is entitled to join or not at his choice.

The cane-grower is at perfect liberty not to become a member of a Cane-growers' Co-operative Society if he chooses not to do so. Just as he is not bound to become a member of a Cane-growers' Co-operative Society, he is equally not bound to offer his sugarcane for sale to the occupier of a factory even if he happens to be a cane grower within the area reserved for that factory. His freedom in that behalf is absolutely unrestricted and hence it cannot be urged that the provisions of the U. P. Sugar-cane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act and the notification, dated 27th September 1954, are violative of his fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution Tika Ramji v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1956 S C A 979 : 1956 S C J 625 : 1956 All W R (H C) 657 : 1956 S C R 393 : A I R 1956 S C 676 (709, 710, 711) (Pt H) Prs 48, 49, 50).

——Arts. 19 (1), Cls. (c), (f) and (g) and 14 — (Iron and Steel Companies Amalgamation Ordinance (8 of 1952)—Iron and Steel Companies Amalgamation Act (89 of 1953).

The legislation relating to the Amalgamation of the Bengal Steel Corporation with the Iron and Steel Company does not interfere with the rights and privileges which the shareholders of the latter company have and does not fetter their rights to deal with their shares as they liked. It does not also affect the shareholders since it is the company which as a separate legal entity that carries on the business and not the share-holders and further the business of the company has not been stopped or restricted by the legislation. It does not also interfere with the right of share-holders to form association for they could if they did not like to continue as members of the company, after the amalgamation, sell their shares and go out of the company. Thus it does not offend either sub-clause (c), (f) or (g) of Art. 19 (1).

Even if the legislation infringes the rights under sub-cls. (c), (f) and (g) of Cl (1) it is saved by Cls. (5) and (6) of the article as a reasonable piece of legislation where the combination of the two companies is for the general good of the country and no material has been placed before the Court to show that it is not bona fide or that is a colourable piece of legislation introduced to benefit private enterprise.

This reasonableness of the legislation which saves it under Cls. (5) and (6) of Art. 19 also protects it from being challenged under Art. 14. A I R 1953 Cal 695 (700, 701) (Pt E) (Prs 29, 30, 31, 33, 35, 36).

40. Supersession of local board, municipality, etc.

——Art. 19 (1) (c) and (4) — Right of Members of District Board — Order of supersession under S. 131 of Bengal Local Self-Government Act (3 of 1885).

Article 19 (1) (c) which speaks of the right of a citizen to form associations or unions refers to the ordinary right which is enjoyed by all citizens. It has no reference to a right which is conferred by a particular statute to act as members of a body which is the creation of the statute itself. But even assuming that the members of a District Board have the fundamental right to form an association and to become members of the Board unhampered by the terms of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act (1885) which created that body, the right referred to in Art. 19 (1) (c) is subject to the provisions contained in Art. 19 (4). The order of supersession of the Board on the terms set forth in S. 131 of the Bengal Local Self Government Act, 1885, cannot be regarded as an unreasonable restriction on the right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution. The supersession is in the interest of the public order in order that the affairs of the District might not be managed by an incompetent Board. A I R 1952 Cal 901 (905) (Pt D) (Pr 26).

——Art. 19 (1) (c) and (g) — Order of supersession under S. 131 of Bengal Local Self-Government Act (3 of 1885).

Assuming that their franchise would be lost by the order of supersession under S. 131 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act, (1885) and the right to vote in the electoral college envisaged in the Act 43 of 1950 would be taken away by the order of supersession, it cannot be said that thereby the Members of the Board are deprived of any of the fundamental rights referred to either in Art. 19 (1) (c) or Art. 19 (1) (g). A I R 1952 Cal 901 (905) (Pt E) (Pr 27).

41. Clause (1) (d)—(General).

See also Ibid, Notes 3 and 45.

●——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Freedom of movement—Police keeping watch on movement of suspect—Impairment of 'free' movement guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d).

Per Majority.—The freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d) has reference to something tangible and not to the imponderable effect on the mind of a person which might guide his action in the matter of his movement or locomotion.

Per Subba Rao and Shah, JJ.—The argument that the fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (d) means only that a person can move physically from one point to another without any restraint ignores the adverb 'freely' in Cl. (d). Mere movement unobstructed by physical restrictions cannot in itself be the object of a person's travel. A person travels ordinarily n quest of some objective. He goes to a place to enjoy, to do business, to meet friends, to have secret and intimate consultations with others and to do many other such things. If a man is shadowed, his movements are obviously constricted. He can move physically, but it can only be a movement of an automaton.

Assuming that Art. 19 (1)(d) of the Constitution must be confined only to physical movements, its combination with the freedom of speech and expression leads to the above conclusion. The act of surveillance is certainly a restriction on the said freedom. It cannot be suggested that the said freedom is also bereft of its subjective or psychological content, but will sustain only the mechanics of speech and expression. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 329 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : AIR 1963 S C 1295 (1300, 1301, 1306) (Pt F) (Prs 14, 32, 33).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (d) and (e), Art. 19 (5)—Legislation contemplating preventive action against goondas—Absence of guidance or assistance in statute in deciding who can be put in category of goonda—Constitutional validity — Legislation whether saved by Art. 19 (5)—C. P. and Berar Goondas Act (10 of 1946) as amended by Act (49 of 1950), Ss. 4 and 4-A—Sections contravene Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and whole Act is invalid.

Though the object of the C. P. & Berar Goondas Act and its purpose would prima facie attract the provisions of Art. 19 (5), Ss. 4 and 4-A, which contain the operative provisions of the Act, impose unreasonable restrictions on the fundamental rights of a citizen guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e), not saved by Art. 19 (5). As the operative sections are invalid, the whole Act must fail. State of Madhya Pradesh v. Baldeo Prasad, (1961) 1 S C R 970 : 1961 Mad L J (Cr) 603 : (1961) 2 S C J 484 : 1961 (1) Cr L J 442 : AIR 1961 S C 293 (297, 298) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 11).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (5) — Right of free movement throughout India—Extent of—Right, whether means absence of inter-State restrictions — Act restricting the right—Validity — Public Safety—East Punjab Public Safety Act (5 of 1949), S. 4 (1) (c).

Per Mukherjea J. — The contention that the right of free movement throughout the Indian territory as enunciated in Art. 19 (1) (d) of Constitution contemplates nothing else but absence of inter-State restrictions, which might prevent citizens of the Indian Union from moving from one State to another and that a law which does not impose barriers of this kind cannot be said to be inconsistent with the fundamental right secured by this clause, is not tenable, as such restricted interpretation is not at all warranted by the language of the sub-clause. What Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution guarantees is the free right of all citizens to go wherever they like in the Indian territory without any kind of restriction whatsoever. They can move not merely from one State to another but from one place to another within the same State and what the Constitution lays stress upon is that the entire Indian territory is one unit so far as the citizens are concerned. Clause (c) of S. 4 (1), East Punjab Public Safety Act, 1949, authorises the Provincial Government or the District Magistrate to direct any person to remove himself from any area and prohibit him from entering the same. On the face of it such provision represents an interference with fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution. N. B. Khare v. State of Delhi, 1950 Mad W N 440 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 120 : 1950 Raj L W 398 : 52 Cri L J 550 : 1950 All L J 506 : 1950 S C J 328 : 1950 All W R 514 : 1950 S C R 519 : AIR 1950 S C 211 (216) (Pt F) (Pr 22).

——Art. 19 (2)—Order under S. 144, Criminal P. C.

An order under S. 144, Criminal P. C., which only requires the persons against whom it is directed not to do certain things when frequenting or visiting any place within a certain municipal limits does not restrict their free movement. And when so far as the restrictions on freedom of speech or freedom of assembly imposed by the order are reasonable restrictions permitted by the Constitution it cannot be said that the order contravenes Art. 19 (1). 1954 Cr L J 1014 : AIR 1954 Ajmer 40 (41) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — Protection under, who can claim.

(Per Thadani C. J.)—A citizen, who has committed an offence or who is a delinquent in the eye of the law and whose crime or delinquency has rendered him liable to certain penalties or disabilities which can be and have been imposed upon him according to the procedure established by law, cannot claim the protection of rights stated in Arts. 19 (1) (d) and (e) of the Constitution if, as a result of such penalty or disability, he has been deprived wholly or partially of those rights—rights which are given to a citizen, and not to a citizen who has commited a crime or is a delinquent in the eye of law. 52 Cri L J 966 : ILR (1951) 3 Assam 181 : AIR 1951 Assam 105 (120) (Pt N) (Pr 93) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Extradition Act (15 of 1903), Ss. 7, 9, 19 - Extradition relations between India and Ceylon after independence—Indian subject committing extraditable offence in Ceylon and escaping to India - Extradition of subject to Ceylon under Chap. III is in accordance with law—No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (c) and (d) of Constitution. See Extradition Act (1903), S. 7. AIR 1960 Mad 548 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Right to move freely on railway platform — Regulation of entry into Railway platform — Restriction on sale of platform tickets for particular period in the interest of pilgrims visiting the place—Restrictions do not violate, Art. 19 (1) (d) —Railway authorities empowered to impose such restrictions—Railways Act (1890), S. 47 (g).

Where the railway authorities in the interest of general public especially the pilgrims visiting the place during a particular period regulate the entry into railway platform by imposing restriction on the sale of platform tickets during the particular period for specific reasons, the order imposing restriction does not violate the fundamental right of a person under Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution.

Though a general order forbidding persons to enter railway for bona fide purposes of travelling may be open to objection an order made for definite and specific reasons and in the interest of the general public visiting the place during a particular period for regulating the entry into the railway platform is competent under the provisions of the Railways Act or the rules made thereunder.

A railway platform, though a public place, is not a public property. It is the property of the railway and consequently the Union of India. In view of S. 47 (g) and Rr. 127 and 128 of the Coaching Tariff, the Railway authorities have got a right to restrict the issue of platform tickets and regulate the entry into station platform. AIR 1952 Cal 496 and (1897) A C 479 and AIR 1951 Cal 501, Foll. AIR 1964 Pat 98 (101, 102) (Prs 9, 10, 11, 12) (DB).

——Arts 19 and 21 — Detention under S. 4 of Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949) —(Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949) S. 4).

The provisions of Article 19 are subject to the provisions of Art 21; the provisions of Art 19 (1) (d), (e) and (f) are subject also to the provisions of Art. 19 (5) and the provision of Art. 19 (1) (g) are subject also to the provisions of Art 19 (6). In other words the right conferred by sub-clauses (d) (e) (f) and (g) can be interfered with partially if the appropriate legislature decides to impose "reasonable restrictions" in the interest of the general public and totally it the person on whom the right is conferred is arrested and put in confinement according to procedure established by law. AIR 1950 S C 27, Foll.

It was within the competence of the Central Legislature in the year 1949 to enact the Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration Act, and a measure of this kind can doubtless be enacted by Parliament today. This Act does not deal with punitive or preventive detention, but with a new kind of detention which may be called 'protective detention.' The Courts are at liberty to examine the various provisions of this "existing law" with the object of determining whether any of the provisions have encroached on the elementary rights guaranteed by Chapter III of the Constitution. A citizen of India who is detained in a camp under S. 4 cannot complain that he has been deprived of the rights guaranteed by Art. 19. Ajaib Singh v. State of Punjab, 54 Pun L R 260: 1952 Cri L J 1313; ILR (1952) Punj 381 : A I R 1952 Punj 309 (316) (Pt A) (Prs 20, 21) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 10].

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e), (f), (g) and (6)—Section 7 of Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949)—Validity—(Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949) S. 7)—Constitution of India, Arts. 51, 245, 253 and Sch. VII List I Entries 18 and 19).

(Per Bhandari J.)—As sub-clauses (d) and (e) of Art. 19 were enacted solely with the object of preventing provincialism and as sub-clause (f) was also presumably enacted for achieving the same object, it is obvious that the provisions of the Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act of 1949 cannot be said to be in conflict with the provisions of any of these sub-clauses, for tne Act of 1949 does not promote or have the effect of promoting provincialism is any shape or form.

It is a fundamental right of a citizen of India to stay within the territory of India, for clause (g) of Art. 19 (1) declares in express terms that he has a right to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business. This right would be meaningless if it does not include a right to stay in the country, for a person cannot exercise this right in a country where he cannot live. If the Constitution has stated expressly or by necessary implication that a citizen shall not be expelled from India it would not be open to Parliament to frame a statute so as entirely to defeat the object of the Constitution by directing that he shall be expelled under escort of the police. Nor is it open to Government to state that the taking away of a citizen from India to Pakistan is no worse than taking a prisoner from one prison to another. It is a well known legal maxim that whatever is prohibited by law to be done directly cannot legally be effected by an indirect and circuitous contrivance. For all practical purposes a person who is "conveyed out" of India under the provisions of section 7 is deprived of the rights guaranteed to him by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. It is true that Entries 18 and 19 of the Union Legislative List empowers Parliament to make laws in regard to "extradition" and "admission into and emigration and expulsion from India", but these laws must be made in conformity with the provisions of Part III and must not be inconsistent with or repugnant to the fundamental rights guaranteed by the said Part. It is not open to a Legislature to authorise expulsion of a person on the ground only that power to expel has been conferred by one or other of the three Legislative Lists. The Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act of 1949 cannot be deemed to be valid on the ground that it was enacted in pursuance of an agreement between the Government of India and Pakistan. There is no provision in the Constitution of India which declares that all treaties to which the Government of India is a party shall be vested with statutory authority. Neither of Arts. 51 and 253 empowers Parliament to make a law which can deprive a citizen of India of the fundamental rights conferred upon him. In so far as the Act of 1949 authorises the deportation of abducted persons to Pakistan it cannot be said to impose "reasonable restrictions" on the rights conferred by Art. 19. Even extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge constitutional powers and cannot justify governmental action outside the sphere of constitutional authority. Deportation of a citizen to a place outside the territory of India temporarily or permanently is tantamount to deprivation of the rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g). As the provisions of section 7 authorise the deportation of a citizen from India, these provisions must be be deemed to be inconsistent with the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. Case law discussed. Ajaib Singh v. State of Punjab, 54 Pun L R 260 : 1952 Cri L J 1313 : I L R (1952) Punj 381 : A I R 1952 Punj 309 (318, 319) (Pt B) (Prs 34, 36, 37, 38, 39, 41) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1953 S C 10.]

● ——Arts. 19, 21 and Sch. VII, List I, Items 19 and 14—Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949)—Validity.

(Per Khosla and Harnam Singh JJ.)—The right conferred by Sub-clauses (a), (d) and (e) of Art. 19 (1) of the Constitutioa is a very limited right and the question of personal liberty is dealt with in Art. 21. The right under sub-clause (e) is also a restricted one and this right will not be affected by depriving a citizen of his total liberty. Therefore, imprisonment, detention or confinement will not be treated as having taken away any of the seven rights enumerated in Cl. (1) of Art. 19. All that the (Abducted Persons Recovery and Restoration) Act does is to deprive the abducted person of his personal liberty from the moment he is taken into custody and taken to the camp up to the time when he is allowed to go away or is conveyed outside India. The law, therefore, does not directly take away any of the fundamental rights but even if it were conceded that the abducted person is deprived of the right of free residence the Act will not be declared invalid because the right of residence conferred by sub-cl. (e) is a very narrow right. Since the Act does not come within the ambit of Art. 19 (1) the question whether the restrictions imposed are reasonable or if they are in the interests of general public does not arise. There is no provision in the Constitution against a citizen being sent out of India. Indeed, item 19 read with item 14 of List I of the Seventh Schedule would appear to indicate that the Union Parliament is competent to pass laws whereby the citizens of India may be expelled from the country in accordance with treaties and agreements with foreign countries. There is nothing in the Constitution whereby a citizen cannot be deprived of his rights as a citizen or be deported from India. There is nothing in the Constitution which forbids an abducted person from being conveyed out of India in accordance with the provisions of the Act. AIR 1950 S C 27, Foll. Ajaib Singh v. State of Punjab, 54 Pun L R 260 : 1952 Cri L J 1313 : I L R (1952) Punj 381 : AIR 1952 Punj 309 (333, 334) (Pt F) (Prs 148, 149, 150) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1953 S C 10].

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Scope.

In our Constitution rights of individuals in matters covered by Art. 301 are provided in Art. 19 (1) (d) and (g). Every enactment therefore which apparently restricts trade commerce and intercourse has to be viewed so far as the angle concerning individual rights is concerned according to Art. 19 and so far as the angle relating to trade, commerce and intercourse generally is concerned according to the provisions of Part 13 of the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 301. AIR 1958 Raj 114 (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (d); 19 (1) (e); 19 (5) — Rights under — Restrictions imposed by Act (23 of 1949) and permit rules — Legality — (Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 1) — Influx from Pakistan (Control) Ordinance (34 of 1948), S. 1) — (Permit System Rules (1948), S. 16) — (Permit System Rules (1950), R. 10.)

Article 19 itself, which confers certain rights, provides for certain restrictions to be imposed in the interest of the general public. The interest of the general public would be greatly jeopardized if there were no restrictions on the entry of persons from the neighbouring Dominion. The restrictions imposed by the Influx from West Pakistan (Control) Ordinance or Act and the Rules thereunder are therefore, reasonable and do not involve any inroad upon the fundamental rights.

Held, further that R. 16 of the Rules dated 7-9-1948 or the corresponding R. 10 of Rules of 20-5-1950, which provides for grant of permit for permanent residence after a personal scrutiny of the application and after securing agreement of the State or Province where the applicant intends to resettle, is a very reasonable one. 1958 Cri L J 418 (2) : A I R 1958 Raj 65 (70) (Pt E) (Pr 31) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Orders to close a public road by Municipal authority—If infringes fundamental right — Final orders passed before the coming into force of Constitution — It could be questioned after — Petitioner's right to question—If individual right.

Under S. 207 (1) (c) of the Trivandrum City Municipal Act (4 of 1116), the Commissioner of the Corporation may subject always to sanction as may be required under Ch. 4, turn, divert or with the special sanction of the council and the Government permanently close any public street or part thereof. It cannot be contended that this provision is 'ultra vires' for at the time this Act was passed, His Highness the Maharaja of Travancore had sovereign powers, to lay down restrictions regarding the use of public ways. It could be void after the Constitution was passed only if this provision was inconsistent with any of the provisions in the Constitution.

Where proceedings had been terminated even long before the Constitution of India came into force the provisions of the Constitution could not be relied upon to attack the act which was done before it came into force.

The fundamental right that had been guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d) of the Constitution was one to move freely throughout the territory of India. That does not mean the use of any particular road for that purpose. The right contemplated there has for its object the removal of all internal barriers in the country and to make India as a whole the abode of the citizens of India. This provision is thus complementary to Art. 5 which provides a single citizenship. Sub-cl. (5) of Art. 19 of the Constitution provides that nothing in the sub-cl. (1) (d) shall affect the operation of any existing law in so far as it imposes, or prevent the State from making any law imposing reasonable restrictions on the exercise of any of the rights conferred by the said sub-clauses, either in the interests of the general public or for the protection of the interests of any scheduled Tribes. The restrictions could therefore be imposed provided they are reasonable. Any act providing for such reasonable restrictions could not therefore be 'ultra vires' of the Constitution.

It is obvious that the use of a public way can be regulated by the State and for that purpose reasonable restrictions can be imposed. Reasonable restrictions may in some cases amount to complete prohibition or stoppage of the use. The Court has only to see whether that was in the interests of the general public. In this case, the State acquired certain lands adjoining the Women's College at Trivandrum for the purpose of opening a hostel for the students there. The Women's College is a public institution opened in the interests of the general public. To accommodate the students there, a college hostel had to be opened and for the efficient and safe use of the hostel the authorities found it necessary to close this pathway between the hostel and the College. That is the discretion exercised by the State and it is not a matter that can be called in question by the petitioner.

The petitioner also cannot file a petition on behalf of the general public. He can only agitate his right when it is infringed. ILR (1952) Trav-Co 347 : A I R 1952 Trav-Co 274 (275, 276, 277) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 10).

42. "Throughout the territory of India."

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — "Throughout the territory of India" — Free movement of Indian citizen throughout Indian Union—Discrimination against — Constitution of India, Sch. 7, List 1, Entry 81.

Per Kania C. J.; B. K. Mukherjea and Das JJ. — The words "throughout the territory of India" in Art. 19 (1) (d) indicate that free movement from one State to another within the Union is protected so that Parliament may not by a law made under Entry 81 in List 1 of Sch. 7 curtail it beyond the limits prescribed by Cl. (5) of Art. 19. Its purpose is not to provide protection for the general right of free movement but to secure a specific and special right of the Indian citizen to move freely throughout the territories of India regarded as an independent additional right apart from the general right of locomotion emanating from the freedom of the person. It is a guarantee against unfair discrimination in the matter of free movement of the Indian citizen throughout the Indian Union In short, it is a protection against provincialism. It has nothing to do with the freedom of the person as such.

Per Fazl Ali J. Contra. — 'Throughout" is an amplifying and not a limiting expression The expression "throughout the territory of India" is used to give the widest possible scope to the freedom of movement. These words, having regard to the context in which they have been used here, have the same force and meaning as the expression "to whatsoever place one's own inclination may direct" or the expression "freedom to be able to go whithersoever one pleases." The juristic conception that personal liberty and freedom of movement connote the same thing is the correct and true conception, and the words used in Art. 19 (1) (d) must be construed according to this universally accepted legal conception. Article 19 (1) (d) guarantees the right of freedom of movement in its widest sense ; the freedom of movement being the essence of personal liberty the right guaranteed under the article is really a right to personal liberty and the preventive detention is a deprivation of the right. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (35, 36, 49, 53, 54, 56, 95, 112) (Pt S) (Prs 8, 46, 59, 65, 174, 222).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Words "throughout the territory of India"—Meaning.

The words "throughout the territory of India" in Art. 19 (1) (d) were used because the Constitution is not guaranteeing to the citizen any right of free movement outside its territories; in fact it could not give any citizen such right because that would result in infringing the sovereignty of a foreign State. This phrase was used also to indicate that the Constitution was not giving the citizen any absolute right to move from the republic of India into some foreign State; in other words, it was saving passport restrictions. Further, those words were used to indicate that the Act was not giving a citizen any absolute right to enter the territory of India from outside. These are the reasons why the words "throughout the territory of India" have been used. Sunil Kumar Bose v. West Bengal Government, 54 Cal W N 394 : 51 Cri L J 1110 : AIR 1950 Cal 274 (277) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (SB).

43. Externment and internment orders.

● —Art. 19 (1) (d) — Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), S. 56—Constitutionality.

Section 56 is not unconstitutional : A I R 1952 S C 221, Foll.

Per Jagannadhadas J. — "If the matter were 'res integra' I should have felt difficulty in upholding the validity of S. 56 (b) Bombay Police Act, 1951 (Bombay Act 22 of 1951) in so far as it did not demarcate the application thereof to the more serious classes of offences falling within the specified Chapters. I should also have felt difficulty in holding a provision to be reasonable which clothes the executive officers with an authority to extern a person for so long a period as two years." Bhabubhai v. Dist. Magistrate, Thana, 1956 S C A 912 : 1956 S C J 565 : 1956 Cr L J 1126 : 1957 B L J R 264 : 58 Bom L R 1007 : 1956 S C R 533 : A I R 1956 S C 585 (592) (Pt C) (Pr 17).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and (5)—S. 57, Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951)—Validity.

Per Majority, Jagannadhadas J., contra : — The provisions of S. 57 can be applied either by the Commissioner of Police for Greater Bombay and other areas for which a Commissioner may be appointed under S. 57 or by the District Magistrate or a Sub-Divisional Magistrate specially empowered by the State Government in that behalf. Any one of the aforesaid authorities has power to direct an individual dealt with under S. 57 to remove himself outside the area within the local limits of his jurisdiction. Hence none of those authorities has the power to direct that person to remove himself outside the entire State of Bombay, Hari Khemu Gawali v. Dy. Commr. of Police, Bombay. 1956 Cr L J 1104 : 1956 S C J 599 : 1956 S C A 1046 : 1956 Pat L R (S C) 203 : 58 Bom L R 995 : 1956 S C R 506 : A I R 1956 S C 559 (565, 566) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

● —Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and (5)— S. 57, Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951).

Per Majority, Jagannadhadas J., contra. — S. 57, Bombay Police Act, cannot be held to be ultra vires on the ground that unlike Preventive Detention laws there was no provision in the impugned law for an Advisory Board which could scrutinise the material on which the officers or authorities contemplated by S. 57 had taken action against a person. It cannot be and has not been laid down, as a universal rule that unless there is a provision for such an Advisory Board such a legislation would necessarily be condemned as unconstitutional. The very fact that the Constitution in Art. 22 (4) has made specific provision for an Advisory Board consisting of persons of stated qualifications with reference to the law for Preventive Detention, but has no such specific provision in Art. 19 would answer this contention. The existence of an Advisory Board is not a sine qua non of the constitutionality of such a legislation. Hari Khemu Gawali v. Dy. Commr. of Police Bombay, 1956 Cr L J 1104 : 1956 S C J 599 : 1956 S C A 1046 : 1956 Pat L R (S C) 203 : 58 Bom L R 995 : 1956 S C R 506 : AIR 1956 S C 559 (566) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (d), (e), (5), 226 — S. 59, Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951)—Validity.

In order to take preventive action under S. 57, Bombay Police Act the Legislature has entrusted police officers or Magistrates of the higher ranks to examine the facts and circumstances of each case. But the legislature has provided certain safeguards against tyrannical or wholly unfounded orders being passed by the higher ranks of the p lice or the magistracy. The order of externment can be passed only by a Commissioner of Police or a District Magistrate or a Sub Divisional Magistrate specially empowered by the State Government in that behalf. The proceedings contemplated by S. 57 or for the matter of that, the other two Ss. 55 or 56 are not prosecutions for offences or judicial proceedings though the officer or authority charged with the duty aforesaid has to examine the information laid before him by the police. It cannot be contended that the proceedings are initiated by the police and it is the police which is the judge in the case and that therefore the provisions of the Bombay Police Act militate against one of the accepted principles of natural justice that the prosecutor should not also be the judge. Hari Khemu Gawali v. Dy. Commr. of Police Bombay, 1956 Cr L J 1104 : 1956 S C J 599 : 1956 S C A 1046 : 1956 Pat L R (S C) 203 : 58 Bom L R 995 : 1956 S C R 506 : AIR 1956 S C 559 (566, 567) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

● —Art. 19 (1) (d), (e), (5)— Bombay Police Act— Validity — (Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), Ss. 60, 61).

Section 61 has provided a safeguard to a person dealt with under S. 57. Though S. 59 only required the general nature of the material allegations against the person externed to be disclosed and it did not further provide for particulars to be supplied to such a person and therefore it would be very difficult for him to avail of at least the second ground on which S. 61 permits him to get the matter judicially examined still in the very nature of things it could not have been otherwise. The grounds available to an externee had necessarily to be very limited in their scope. Hari Khemu Gawali v. Dy Commr. of Police, Bombay, 1956 Cr L J 1104 : 1956 S C J 599 : 1956 S C A 1046 : 1956 Pat L R (S C) 203 : 58 Bom L R 995 : 1956 S C R 506 : A I R 1956 S C 559 (567) (Pt E) (Pr 10).

● —Art. 19 (1) (d), (e), and (5)—S. 57, Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951)—Validity.

Per Jagannadhadas J., in dissenting judgment— Though the procedural portion of the law as provided in Ss. 59 and 61, Bombay Police Act may not be open to serious criticism, the substantive portion of the law relating to content of the power as provided under S. 57 of the Act cannot be held to be in the nature of reasonable restriction of the fundamental right for three reasons :—

1. Clause (a) of S. 57 of the Act not being confined to offences serious in their nature or with reference to the attendant circumstances within the chapters specified therein, prevention of the repetition thereof cannot be considered a reasonable restriction. It is in excess of what may be considered justifiable.

2. The previous commission of an offence of the category specified, without any reference to the time environment and other factors has no rational relation to the criterion of "reasonableness in the interest of public."

3. The exercise of the power not being limited by the consideration of non-availability of witnesses is also not rationally related to the criterion of "reasonableness in the interest of the public." S. 57 of the Act is constitutionally invalid. Hari Khemu Gawali

v. Dy. Commr. of Police, Bombay, 1956 Cr L J 1104: 1956 S C J 599 : 1956 S C A 1046 : 1956 Pat L R (S C) 203 : 58 Bom L R 995 : 1956 S C R 506 : A I R 1956 S C 559 (571) (Pt H) (Prs 15, 16).

●——Art. 19 (5)—East Punjab Public Safety Act (5 of 1949), S. 4 (1) (c)— Power to order externment given to District Magistrate —Delegation, whether amounts to unreasonable restriction within Article 19 (5).

Per Kania C. J.—The contention that S. 4, East Punjab Public Safety Act, 1949, which gives the power to make an order of externment to the District Magistrate whose satisfaction is final and not open to review by the Court, contained an unreasonable restriction on the exercise of the citizens' right within the meaning of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution and is therefore invalid, is not sound, as it is not legislative delegation. The desirability of passing an individual order of externment against a citizen has to be left to an officer. In the Act such a provision cannot be made. The satisfaction of the officer thus does not impose an unreasonable restriction on the exercise of the citizens' right.

Per B. K. Mukherjea J.—Under Cl. (5) of Art. 19 the reasonableness of a challenged legislaiion has to be determined by a Court and the Court decides such matters by applying some objective standard which is said to be the standard of an average prudent man. Judged by such standard which is sometimes described as an external yard-stick, the vesting of authority in particular officers to take prompt action under emergent circumstances, entirely on their own responsibility or personal satistaction, is not necessarily unreasonable. One has to take into account the whole scheme of the legislation and the circumstances under which the restrictive orders could be made. Preventive orders by their very nature cannot be made after any judicial enquiry or trial. The provision of S. 4 (1) (c), East Punjab Public Safety Act, cannot therefore be pronounced to be unreasonable, simply because the order could be passed by the Provincial Government or the District Magistrate on their own personal satisfaction and not on materials which satisfy certain objective tests. N. B. Khare v. State of Delhi, 1950 Mad W N 440 : 86 Cal L J 83 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 120: 1950 Raj LW 398: 52 Cri L J 550: 1950 All L J 506 : 1950 S C J 328 : 1950 All W R 514 : 1950 SCR 519 : AIR 1950 S C 211 (214, 217) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 26).

●——Article 19 (5)—East Punjab Public Safety Act (5 of 1949), S. 4 (3)—Order of externment for three months – Period whether unreasonable—Possibility of abuse of power—Whether ground for impugning an Act.

Majority view; Mukherjea and Mahajan JJ. dissenting — The period of three months for which an order of externment may be passed by a District Magistrate under S. 4 (3), East Punjab Public Safety Act, 1949, is not prima facie unreasonable, even though the externee has no remedy during that time. The further extension of the externment order beyond three months may be for an indefinite period, but in that connection the fact that the whole Act is to remain in force only upto 14th August 1951 cannot be overlooked. Moreover, this whole argument is based on the assumption that the Provincial Government when making the order will not perform its duty and may abuse the provisions of the section. It is improper to start with such an assumption and decide the legality of an Act on that basis. Abuse of the power given by a law sometimes occurs; but the validity of the law cannot be contested because of such an apprehension.

Per Mukherjea J.—There is absolutely no limit under S. 4 (3) as to the period of time during which an externment order would remain in force if the order is made by the Provincial Government. The Provincial Government has been given unlimited authority in this respect and they can keep the order in force as long as they choose to do so. As regards orders made by a District Magistrate, the period indeed has been fixed at 3 months, but even here the Provincial Government is competent to extend it to any length of time by means of a special order. The law does not fix any maximum period beyond which the order cannot continue, and the fact that the Act itself would expire in August 1951 is not a relevant matter for consideration in this connection at all. The provision of sub-s. (3) of S. 4 is therefore manifestly unreasonable and cannot be supported on any just ground. N. B. Khare v. State of Delhi, 1950 Mad W N 440 : 86 Cal L J 83 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 120: 1950 Raj L W 398 : 52 Cri L J 550 : 1950 All L J 506 : 1950 S C J 328 : 1950 All W R 514 : 1950 S C R 519 : AIR 1950 S C 211 (214, 217, 218) (Pt C) (Prs 6, 27).

——Art. 19 (1) (d)— Assam Opium Prohibition Act (1947), S. 16—Period of duration of externment — Unreasonableness. See Assam Opium Prohibition Act (23 of 1947), S. 16. AIR 1951 Assam 106 (DB).

——Arts. 19, 21 — Externment order — Validity — Assam Opium Prohibition Act (23 of 1947), S. 17,

Even if externment may be regarded as amounting to deprivation of personal liberty inasmuch as it prevents the individual externed to move freely throughout the territory of India, the individual concerned, if he happens to be the citizen of India, has got an additional right where his freedom to move freely throughout the territory of India is taken away. Assuming then that the case of externment under S. 17 of the Assam Opium Prohibition Act can be brought within the scope of Art. 21, it would be open to a citizen to claim that the impugned legislation should be examined in the light of tests laid down by Cl. (5) of Art. 19. AIR 1950 Bom 363, A I R 1950 Bom 374, AIR 1950 Pat 322, AIR 1950 S C 211, Rel. on. 52 Cri L J 966 : ILR (1951) 3 Assam 181 : AIR 1951 Assam 106 (117) (Pt J) (Pr 68) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Bombay Police Act (1951), S. 57 —Externment order under, when should be passed, See Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), S. 57. AIR 1956 Bom 719.

●——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and (5)—Bombay Public Security Measures Act (6 of 1947), S. 2 (1) (b) - Externment order under — Validity of. See Public Safety — Bombay Public Security Measures Act (6 of 1947), S. 2 (1) (b). 52 Cri L J 120 : AIR 1950 Bom 363 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (5) — Externment order under Cantonments Act—Validity of —Cantonments Act (2 of 1924), S. 238 — If violates fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (d) (e).

The provisions of S. 238 of the Cantonments Act are not violative of the constitutional liberties declared by Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e); S. 238 of the Cantonments Act is therefore intra vires the Constitution. Section 238 provides elaborate procedural safeguards, to enable the person whose liberty of locomotion is about to be curtailed, to examine and then, meet and, rebut the allegations before the Magistrate. Thus, from the procedural point of view the law gives to such a person adequate opportunity not only to present his case before the Magistrate but also to contest the validity of his order in appeal. This section is obviously not violative of the principle of natural justice and it does not exclude judicial inquiry. The mere possibility of an abuse of provision cannot be a ground for holding the provision void. ILR (1957) Punj 1388 : 59 Punj L R 289 : 1957 Cr L J 1173 : AIR 1957 Punj 244 (253, 254) (Pt E) (Prs 36, 37, 38, 43) (DB).

44. Restrictions on entry into India.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) (e), (5)—Passport Act (1920), S. 3 and Passport Rules (1950), R. 3—Not ultra vires.

To require an Indian citizen to produce a passport before he can be allowed to enter India may be regarded as a proper restriction upon entering India. Hence S. 3 of the Passport Act (1920) and Rule 3 of the Passport Rules (1950) do not offend Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e). AIR 1954 S C 229, Foll. Abdul Rahim Ismail C. Rahimtoola v. State of Bombay, 61 Bom L R 1547 : (1960) S C J 50 : 1960 Cr L J 124 : (1960) 1 An W R (SC) 11 : (1960) 1 Mad L J (S C) 11 : (1960) 1 S C R 285 : AIR 1959 S C 1315 (1316) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (5)—Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (23 of 1949), S. 7 — Validity—Infringes fundamental right under Cls. (d) and (e). See Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (23 of 1949), S. 7. AIR 1954 S C 229.

——Arts. 19 (1) (d) and 19 (5)—Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (23 of 1949), S. 3—Validity—Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (d). See Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 3. AIR 1959 All 19.

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and (5) and Influx from West Pakistan (Control) Act (23 of 1949) — Restrictions in regard to permit to visit India and stay—Legality.

A law allowing the removal from the territory of India of any citizen would be in contravention of Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) of the Constitution and will therefore be void in view of Art. 13 (1) of the Constitution. A provision of law requiring a person entering the territory of India from Pakistan to have a proper permit with him is a reasonable restriction on such rights within the meaning of Art. 19 (5). But the condition that after entering the territory of India he has to move in a certain manner and should leave the country after the period mentioned in the permit cannot be said to be a reasonable restriction on the exercise of the aforesaid rights of the citizen. These conditions amount to an infringement of the rights given to a citizen in Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) as his free movement is controlled and he is deprived of his right to settle anywhere. So such provisions of the Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949 and the rules made thereunder as lead to the infringement of these rights would be void in view of Art. 13 of the Constitution in their application to the citizens of India.

Rule 19 of the Permit System Rules, 1949, and S. 7 of the Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act in so far as they are applicable to citizens of India and are inconsistent with the fundamental rights guaranteed to them under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) of the Constitution have, after the commencement of the Constitution become void in view of the provisions contained in Art. 13 (1). 1952 Cri L J 553 : I L R (1952) 1 All 513 : AIR 1952 All 257 (263, 264, 269, 270) (Pt C) (Prs 34a, 35, 35a, 77, 85) (DB).

——Art. 19—Validity of S. 7 of Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949. See Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 7. AIR 1954 Bhopal 9.

——Art. 19—Scope—Rules under Passport Act, Rr. 3 and 6—Validity—Art. 19 of Constitution—If violated. See Passport Act (1920), S. 2. 1958 Cri L J 360 : AIR 1958 Bom 115 (DB).

——Art. 19—Applicability—Business of travel agency—Government not dealing with agent — (Contract Act (1872), S. 182).

The third party is not bound by the private arrangement made between the agent and his principal. The law will not compel a third party to accept the agent. He is always free to say that he will deal direct with the principal. Further the Government's method of directly dealing with the travellers in matters of passport and visa in respect of Indo-Pakistan travelling and not to accept applications from intermediaries does not at all affect the essential business of travel agency of the applicant-company. The only effect of the Government not dealing with the intermediaries but dealing with travellers direct in Indo-Pakistan travelling is that the Government does not recognise the agent of the travellers. A I R 1952 S C 12, Foll. 62 Cal W N 682 : AIR 1958 Cal 634 (635) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 19 — Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 4 (a)—Conditions in permit — Reasonableness—They are reasonable in the interest of the State generally. 1952 Cri L J 1683: AIR 1952 Cal 837 (838) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — When infringed. See Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 1. AIR 1954 Hyd 77 (FB).

——Art. 19—Influx from West Pakistan Control Act (1949), S. 4—Section is not ultra vires and unconstitutional. 1952 Cri L J 1759 : AIR 1952 Kutch 91 (92) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Freedom of movement, if affected by the Influx from West Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949. See Influx from West Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949. AIR 1951 Kutch 38.

——Arts. 19 and 13 (1)—Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 7—Validity. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1956 Madh Bha 250.

45. Clause (1) (d)—Illustrative examples.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e), (5)—Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20—Validity — Provisions of S. 20 are reasonable restrictions imposed in public interest within Art. 19 (5).

Under Art. 19 (1) (d) a prostitute has a fundamental right to move freely throughout the territory of India, and under sub-cl. (e) thereof to reside and settle in any part of territory of India. Under S. 20 of the Act of 1956 the Magistrate can compel her to remove herself from the place where she is residing or which she is frequenting to places within or without the local limits of his jurisdiction by such route or routes and within such time as may be specified in the order and prohibit her from re-entering the place without his permission in writing. This is certainly a restriction on a citizen's fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) of the Constitution. Whether a restriction is reasonable in the interests of the general public depends upon the peculiar circumstances of each case. If in a particular locality the vice of prostitution is endemic degrading those who live by prostitution and demoralising others who come into contact with them, the Legislature may have to impose severe restrictions on the right of the prostitute to move about and to live in a house of her choice. If the evil is rampant, it may also be necessary to provide for deporting the worst of them from the area of their operation. One of the objects of the Act is to control the growing evil of prostitution in public places. Under S. 20 of the Act the freedom of movement and residence are regulated, but an effective and safe judicial machinery is provided to carry out the objects of the Act. The restrictions placed upon the prostitutes are certainly in the interests of the general public and as the imposition of the restrictions is done through a judicial process on the basis of a clearly disclosed policy, the said restrictions are clearly reasonable. Once it is held that the activities of a prostitute in a particular area, having regard to the conditions obtaining therein, are so subversive of public morals and so destructive of public health that it is necessary in public interest to deport her from that place the restrictions should be held to be reasonable.

Whether deportation out of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate is necessary or not depends upon the facts of each case and the degree of the demoralising influence a particular prostitute is exercising in a particular locality. If in a particular case a Magistrate goes out of the way, and makes an order which is clearly disproportionate to the evil influence exercised by a particular prostitute, she has a remedy by way of revision to an appropriate Court. The provisions of S. 20 of the Act are reasonable restrictions imposed in public interest within the meaning of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution and, therefore do not infringe the fundamental rights of the prostitute under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) thereof. A I R 1951 S C 188 and A I R 1952 S C 196, Rel. on; A I R 1963 All 71, Reversed; AIR 1963 Bom 17, Overruled. State of Uttar Pradesh v. Kaushailiya, 1964 All L J 1 : 1964 (1) Cri L J 304: 1964 S C D 167: (1964) 1 S C W R 276: I L R (1964) 1 All 528 : (1965) 1 S C A 53 : A I R 1964 S C 416 (422, 423) (Pt C) (Prs 11, 12, 14).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (d) and 21 — U. P. Police Regulations. Reg. 236, Cl. (b)—Reg. 236, Cl. (b) is violative of Art. 21—It is invalid.

Per Court. — Clause (b) of Reg. 236 of the U. P. Police Regulations which authorises 'domiciliary visits' is violative of Art. 21 of the Constitution. There is no law on which it can be justified. It is, therefore, unconstitutional.

Per Subba Rao and Shah, JJ. — Not only Cl. (b) of Reg. 236 is unconstitutional but the entire Reg. 236, consisting of Cls. (a) to (f), is unconstitutional on the ground that it infringes both Art. 19 (1) and Art. 21 of the Constitution. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 329 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : AIR 1963 S C 1295 (1303, 1306) (Pt A) (Prs 19, 21, 22, 32, 36).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) and Art. 21 — U. P. Police Regulations, Reg. 236, Cls. (c), (d) and (e) — These clauses do not infringe Arts. 19 (1) (d) and 21.

Per Majority. — So far as Cls. (c), (d) and (e) of Reg. 236 of the U. P. Police Regulations are concerned, the freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d) is not infringed by a watch being kept over the movements of the suspect. Nor has Art. 21 any relevance in the context. For, the right of privacy is not a guaranteed right under the Constitution and therefore the attempt to ascertain the movements of an individual which is merely a manner in which privacy is invaded is not an infringement of a fundamental right guaranteed by Part III. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 329 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : AIR 1963 SC 1295 (1302) (Pt J) (Pr 20).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Infringement of — See Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (4 of 1939), S. 38. AIR 1954 S C 400.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), not inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (d), (e), (g) and Art. 21 of the Constitution—See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (65 of 1949), Preamble. AIR 1953 S C 10.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (5) — City of Bombay Police Act (1902), S. 27 (1) — Validity — Restrictions by S. 27 (1) upon fundamental right of free movement are reasonable—See City of Bombay Police Act (4 of 1902), S. 27 (1). AIR 1952 S C 221.

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20—Constitutional validity — Provision abridges fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and infringes Art. 14—It does not however violate Art. 19 (1) (g) — See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. AIR 1963 All 71.

[Reversed in AIR 1964 S C 416.]

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Public Safety — U. P. Prevention of Crimes (Special Powers) (Temporary) Act (5 of 1949), S. 3 (2) — Provision, if imposes unreasonable restriction on right of free movement in India — See Public Safety — U. P Prevention of Crimes (Special Powers) (Temporary) Act (5 of 1949), S. 3 (2). AIR 1951 All 718 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20 — Constitutional validity — S. 20 does not offend Art. 14 or Art. 19 (1) (d) (e) and (g) read with Art. 19 (5) and (6) of the Constitution of India — Constitution of India, Arts. 14, 19 (1) (d), (e) and (5), (6) — See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 400.

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), 19 (5) and 22 (4) — Assam Maintenance of Public Order Act (5 of 1947), (as amended by Assam Act 21 of 1950), S. 2—Validity—See Public Safety — Assam Maintenance of Public Order Act (5 of 1947) as amended by Assam Act (21 of 1950), S. 2. AIR 1953 Assam 77.

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and Art. 19 (5)—Power of Magistrate to remove prostitute to place outside his jurisdiction offends Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — Rest of section valid — See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. 1963 (1) Cr L J 148 : AIR 1963 Bom 17 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1964 S C 416.]

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — City of Bombay Police Act (4 of 1902), S. 27 (7) — Validity — See City of Bombay Police Act (4 of 1902), S. 27 (7). AIR 1951 Bom 432 (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (5)—Bombay District Police Act (4 of 1890), S. 46 (3)— Validity — S. 46 (3) is not rendered void by Art. 13 of the Constitution on the ground that it contravenes fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e). Abdul Rahiman v. Emperor, 52 Bom L R 558 : ILR (1950) Bom 564 : 52 Cr L J 1059 : AIR 1950 Bom 374 (374, 375) (Pt A) (Prs 1 & 5) (FB).

——Art. 19—Validity of S. 3, Criminal Law (Industrial Areas) Amendment Act (4 of 1942) — Does not offend Art. 14 or any other Article—See Ibid, Art. 14. 1963 (2) Cr L J 498 : AIR 1963 Cal 562 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1)(d), 19 (1) (g), 19 (5) and 19 (6)—Police Act (1861), S. 17—Appointment as police officer under —Validity—Does not contravene Articles—See Police Act (1861), S. 17. AIR 1958 Cal 365.

——Art. 19 (1) (d), 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g), 19 (5) — West Bengal Foodgrains (Movement Control) Order (1951), Para. 3 — Validity—Amounts to reasonable restriction under Art. 19 (5) — See West Bengal Foodgrains (Movement Control) Order, 1951, Para. 3. AIR 1952 Cal 61.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (d), 19 (5), 22 (4)—Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (as amended by Amending Ordinance of 1949), Preamble, S. 2 (1) — Validity — Not valid after passing of the Constitution — See Public Safety — Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930 as amended by Criminal Law Amendment (Amending) Ordinance, 1949), Preamble. AIR 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Order under S. 26, Hyderabad City Police Act — Allegation of mala fide. See Hyderabad City Police Act (9 of 1348 F), S. 26. A I R 1954 Hyd 221 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (5)—Public Safety—United States of Gwalior, Indore and Malwa (Madhya Bharat) Maintenance of Public Order Act (7 of 1949), Ss. 3, 5 and 11—Validity—The restrictions which it is permissible to impose under these sections must be held to be ultra vires of the State Legislature. ILR

(1952) M B 364 : 1952 Cri L J 1058 : A I R 1952 Madh Bha 114 (117, 118, 119) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 18, 19).

——Art. 19 (5) — Order restricting person not to remain in any area or place in the State — Not unreasonable on ground that it is not in the interest of general public and for maintenance of public order. See Public Safety — M. P Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (a). AIR 1964 Madh Pra 175 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (d) and 19 (5) — Asking a person to remain at particular place — Restriction is unreasonable. See Public Safety — M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (b). A I R 1964 Madh Pra 175 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Restriction requiring person to notify his movements — Held, permissible and therefore not unconstitutional. See Public Safety — M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (c). A I R 1964 Madh Pra 175 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Order under S. 3 (1) (b) of M. P. Public Security Act after declaration of emergency — Clause (b) held invalid—Order held not immune from attack. See Public Safety — M. P. Public Security Act 25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (b). A I R 1964 Madh Pra 175 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Obstruction by members of Hindu Community to Harijans in taking a corpse along public road — Constitutes an offence under S. 341 — Exception to S. 339 does not apply. See Penal Code (1860), S. 341. (1963) 2 Mad L J 80.

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), (e), (5), 14, 226, 244, 342—Laccadive Islands and Minicoy Regulation (1 of 1912), S. 33 —S 33 is not unreasonable and is valid—See Laccadive Islands and Minicoy Regulation (1 of 1912), S. 33. AIR 1957 Mad 433.

—Art. 19 (1) (d), (5) — Madras Restriction of Habitual Offenders Act (6 of 1948), S. 5 — Validity. See Madras Restriction of Habitual Offenders Act (1948), S. 5. A I R 1953 Mad 664 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Mysore Police Act not ultra vires, Art. 19 (1) (b), (d). See Mysore Police Act (5 of 1908), S. 45. 1960 Cri L J 379 : A I R 1960 Mys 57 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Right to claim rights guaranteed by emigrants to Pakistan staying in India after cancellation of their permit for permanent return before Art. 19 coming into force. See Ibid, Art. 7, Proviso. A I R 1951 Nag 38.

——Art. 19 (1) (d)—Public Safety—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (1950), S. 9 (2) — Act originating from Ordinance promulgated during emergency — Act whether permanent measure imposing restrictions—Article 19 (1) (b), (d) of Constitution, if violated. See Public Safety—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), S. 9 (2). A I R 1959 Pat 425.

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Punjab Police Rules, R. 24 (4) — Surveillance Register No. 10 kept under — Maintenance of the Register not unconstitutional — It cannot, however, be publicly displayed — A I R 1959 Punjab 323, Foll. 67 Punj L R 528 : A I R 1966 Punj 268 (269) (Pr 1).

——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e), (g) and (5) — Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20 —Constitutional validity — Provisions do not offend Art. 14 or 19 (1) (d), (e), (g) and (5) of the Constitution. See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. 1963 (1) Cri L J 59 : A I R 1963 Punj 36.

——Art. 19 (1) (d) — Surveillance Register No. 10 — Keeping of — If constitutional. See Punjab Police Rules, R. 23.4. 1959 Cri L J 900 : AIR 1959 Punj 323 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (g)—Validity of Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act, 1949 — Does not infringe Art. 22 (1) and (2) nor is it inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (g). See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), S. 1. A I R 1954 Punj 145 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (5) — U. P. Goondas Act (1 of 1932). (as modified and extended to the State of Delhi) — Validity. See Public Safety— U. P. Goondas Act (1 of 1932) (as modified and extended to the State of Delhi). A I R 1953 Punj 52.

46. Clause (1) (e).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (e) and Art. 19 (1) (d)—Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20 — Validity — Provisions of S. 20 are reasonable restrictions imposed in public interest within Art. 19 (5). A I R 1963 All 71, Reversed. A I R 1963 Bom 17, Overruled. State of Uttar Pradesh v. Kaushailiya, 1964 All L J 1 : 1964 S C D 167 : (1964) 1 S C W R 276 : I L R (1964) 1 All 528 : 1964 (1) Cri L J 304 : AIR 1964 S C 416 (422, 423) (Pt C) (Prs 11, 12, 13).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (e) and (d) — Legislation contemplating preventive action against goondas—Absence of guidance or assistance in statute in deciding who can be put in category of goonda—Constitutional validity —Legislation whether saved by Art. 19 (5)—C. P. and Berar Goondas Act (10 of 1946) (as amended by Act 49 of 1950), Ss. 4 and 4-A — Sections contravene Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and whole Act is invalid. State of M. P. v. Baldeo Prasad, (1961) 1 S C R 970 : 1961 Mad L J (Cr) 603 : (1961) 2 S C J 484 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 442 : A I R 1961 S C 293 (297, 298) (Prs 9, 10 and 11).

——Art. 19 (1) (e) — Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act is not inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (g) of Constitution. 1953 All L J 273 : 1953 All W R (H C) 257 : 1953 Cri L J 1384 : ILR (1953) 2 All 735 : AIR 1953 All 613 (616) (Pt E) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (e) — Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20 — Constitutional validity — S. 20 does not offend Art. 14 or Art. 19 (1) (d) (e) and (g) read with Art. 19 (5) and (6) of the Constitution of India. See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. AIR 1964 Andh-Pra 400.

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), 19 (5) and 226 — Long standing custom in Garo Hills that it is in interest of people there that no Nepali or foreign should be allowed to live in Garo village without Deputy Commissioner's permission — Deputy Commissioner after due inquiry coming to conclusion that petitioner's living in such village was not in interest of people of the village — Expulsion order passed against petitioner — Order held reasonable and covered by Cl. (5) of Art. 19. 1953 Cri L J 495 : ILR (1952) 4 Assam 320 : AIR 1953 Assam 61 (62) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 (1) (e) and (d)—Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20 — Validity — Power of Magistrate to remove prostitute to place outside his jurisdiction offends Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — Rest of section valid. See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. AIR 1963 Bom 17.

[Overruled in AIR 1964 S C 416.]

——Art. 19 (1) (d), (e)—Revenue Recovery Act (1890), Ss. 3 (2), 5 — Constitutional validity — Power of Revenue Authorities to determine arrears due and issue certificate — Power to send defaulter to civil prison —No violation of Arts. 14, 19, 20 and 21. See Ibid, Art. 14. (1962) 3 Guj L R 666.

——Arts. 19 and 19 (1) (d) — Validity of S. 46-B, Bombay District Police Act — Contravenes fundamental rights mentioned in Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) by imposing unreasonable restrictions. See Bombay District Police Act (4 of 1890), S. 49-B. 1954 Cri L J 770 : AIR 1954 Kutch 15 (17, 18) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 10).

——Art. 19 (1) (e) and (d)—Citizen of Pakistan cannot claim rights under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e). 1956 M B L R (Civil) 442 : 1956 M B L J 893 : AIR 1957 Madh Bha 1 (3) (Pt E) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (e) and (d) – Commonwealth citizen cannot claim fundamental rights under Article — (Citizenship Act (1955), S. 12). 1956 M B L J 870 : Madh B L R 1956 (Civil) 535 : AIR 1956 Madh Bha 211 (213) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 19(1) (d) and (e), (5)—Madhya Bharat Police Act (76 of 1950), S. 49 (2) – Section is not repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and as such is not void. AIR 1955 N UC (Madh B) 5943.

——Art. 19 (1) (e) — S. 33, Laccadive Islands and Minicoy Regulation (1912) is not unreasonable and is valid. See Laccadive Islands and Minicoy Regulation (1 of 1912), S. 33. AIR 1957 Mad 433.

——Arts. 19 (1) (e), 10 and 226 – Married women — Order for deportation — Right to relief – Bihar Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (3 of 1949), S. 11.

Where an order for deportation is served on a person that person, if he can make out a prima facie case that he is a citizen and not an alien is entitled to a writ of certiorari and on the return to that writ being made, to a judicial determination of the question of his status.

A woman-born in India and married to a citizen in India taking up temporary residence in Pakistan for medical treatment would neither fall under Cl. (f) of the definition of "evacuee" contained in Cl. (c) of S. 2, Bihar Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance, 1949, nor under Cl. (ii) as the word "resident" occurring there must be construed as meaning a person who has taken up his or her residence in Pakistan permanently.

Even if that person comes within the definition of "evacuee" in the Ordinance, nevertheless, she is also a citizen of India and as such is entitled to remain in India. If, while in Pakistan, her conduct was such as to create suspicions as to her loyalty to the Indian Union, she may, on her return to India be subjected to such restrictions on her movements as Parliament may consider advisable and not be deported.

Per Sarjoo Prasad J.– A woman acknowledged by her husband as his wife can claim her husband's domicile though it is not clear in what form that marriage was solemnised. ILR 30 Pat 21 : AIR 1951 Pat 434 (435, 436) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4, 8) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1955 S C 282]

——Art. 19 (1) (e), (d) and (5) — Externment order under Cantonments Act — Validity — (Cantonments Act (2 of 1924), S. 238 — If violates fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) — Validity). 59 Pun L R 289 : 1957 Cri L J 1173 : AIR 1957 Punj 244 (253, 254) (Pt E) (Prs 36 37, 38, 43) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (e) and (d) — Rights under Clauses (d) and (e) — Restrictions imposed by Act 23 of 1949 and permit rules — Reasonableness — (Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 1) — (Influx from Pakistan (Control) Ordinance (34 of 1948), S. 1)—(Permit System Rules (1948), R. 16) — (Permit System Rules (1950), R. 10). 1958 Cri L J 418 (2):AIR 1958 Raj 65 (70) (Pt E) (Pr 31) (DB).

47. Clause (1) (f).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 87-B — Section does not contravene Art. 14 or Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and is not invalid. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 87-B. AIR 1964 S C 1590.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g) and Art. 246— Scope and extent of legislative power — Law passed making its provision retrospective – Effect of retrospective operation changing character of legislative competence.

Though the Legislature can pass a law and make its provisions retrospective, it would be relevant to consider the effect of the said retroactive operation of the law both in respect of the legislative competence of the Legislature and the reasonableness of the restrictions imposed by it. It may be open to a party to contend that the restrictions imposed by the Act are so unreasonable that they should be struck down on the ground that they contravene his fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). Rai Ramkrishna v. State of Bihar, (1963) 50 I T R 171 : (1964) 1 S C A 413 : I L R 41 Pat 796 : (1964) 1 S C R 897 : (1964) 2 S C J 749 : A I R 1963 S C 1667 (1673) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Suspension of Government servant—Effect of—Dismissal order set aside by Supreme Court – Order for further enquiry and consequential suspension under R. 12 (4)—Validity—Does not contravene Arts. 142, 144, 19 (1) (f) and 14 of the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 309. AIR 1963 S C 687.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 38 (1) and (3) (b) (iii)– Banking Companies—Special law dealing with winding up — Validity—Whether discriminatory—Provision making Reserve Bank sole judge to decide whether affairs of banking company were being conducted prejudicially to interests of depositors and making it mandatory for High Court to order winding up when application was made by Reserve Bank—No violation of Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 301. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 SC 1371.

● ——Art. 19 — Deprivation of property – Sugar Export Promotion Act, S. 5—Validity— If infringes Art. 19 or 31. See Sugar Export Promotion Act (1958), S. 5. AIR 1959 SC 1124.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 363 — Acquisition of territory — Relationship between citizens of acquired territory and sovereign of acquiring territory — Covenant between East Punjab States to form Patiala Union — Obligations of covenanting States to devolve on Union of Patiala States — Union formed and Rajpramukh taking over administration of Union — Covenant is act of State—Ordinance by Rajpramukh repealing all laws and notifications of covenanting States and applying laws of Patiala State — Agreement between covenanting State (Jind) and Public Limited Company in that State whereby Company given concession in rates of income-tax—Agreement held not binding on Rajpramukh — Rates of income-tax held applicable according to Patiala Income-tax Act for period subsequent to formation of Union — Union subsequently acceding to Union of India—After accession Indian Income-tax Act applied—Agreement being abrogated before accession, question of whether there was breach of rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) did not arise — (Patiala Income-tax Act (7 of 2001), S. 1) — (Pepsu Administration Ordinance (1 of 2005), S. 3)—(Pepsu General Provisions (Administration) Ordinance (16 of 2005), S. 3) — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). Dalmia Dadri Cement Co. Ltd. v. I. T. Commr., (1958) 34 I T R 514 : ILR (1958) Punj 1966 : 1958 S C J 1041 : 1959 S C R 729 : A I R 1958 S C 816 (822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827) Prs 9, 11, 13, 14, 17, 22, 23, 25, 27).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31-A – Bihar Land Reforms Act (30 of 1950), S. 4 (h)—Validity—Tenancy Laws.

Section 4 (h) of the Bihar Land Reforms Act does direct the Collector to give reasonable notice to the parties concerned and to hear them. Such annulment or dispossession which he may order, must be with the previous sanction of the State Government and he is compelled to do so on terms which may appear to him fair and equitable. The power is, therefore, not quite absolute or arbitrary. The Act being a law for acquisition of estates the question of it or S. 4 (h) of it imposing any unreasonable restriction on the fundamental rights of a party to realise does not arise. In any event the Act including S. 4 (h) is protected by Art. 31-A of the Constitution. Kamakshya Narain Singh v. Collector and Deputy Commissioner of Hazaribagh, 1956 S C J 118 : 1956 All L J 158 : 1956 Pat L R (SC) 69 : 1956 B L J R 135 : 1956 S C A 495 : (1955) 2 S C R 988 : A I R 1956 S C 63 (66) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) —Marwar Land Revenue Act (40 of 1949), S. 82—Legislation fixing fair and equitable rent —It does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (f).

The fundamental right which a citizen has, to hold and enjoy property, imports only a right to recover reasonable rent when the lands are cultivated by a tenant, and therefore a legislation whose object is to fix fair and equitable rent cannot be said to invade that right. The contention that the provision in S. 82 (1) (a), Marwar Land Revenue Act, 1949, that abnormal years as notified in the Gazette should be excluded in determining average collections is calculated to reduce the rent, and is, therefore, unreasonable is unfounded, because a declaration that a year is abnormal is made not only when there are bumper crops but also when the yield is very low, and the provision is intended equally for the benefit of the tenant and of the landlord. A provision of this kind is usual in all tenancy legislation, and there is nothing unreasonable or unfair about it. Kishan Singh v. Rajasthan State, 1956 S C A 402 : (1956) SCJ 14 : (1955) 2 S C R 531 : AIR 1955 S C 795 (798) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

● ——Art. 19 (5)—Applicability—Art. 19 (5) presupposes violation of Art. 19 (1) (f).

The question whether a law is valid under Art. 19 (5) can arise only when there is a violation of the fundamental right declared in Art. 19 (1) (f), and if the right to hold property imports, as it does, only a right to recover reasonable rent from cultivating tenants, that right cannot be held to have been invaded by S. 86, Marwar Land Revenue Act, 1949, fixing reasonable rent, even when it is retrospective in operation. If the rent fixed is reasonable with reference to a period subsequent to the settlement, it must be reasonable for the period prior to it as well, and if the settlement is not an encroachment on the rights of the holder as regards the future it cannot be an encroachment as regards the past. Kishan Singh v. Rajasthan State, 1956 SCA 402 : 1956 SCJ 14 : (1955) 2 S C R 531 : A I R 1955 S C 795 (798) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) —Marwar Land Revenue Act (40 of 1949), S. 86—Discretion under S. 86 though wide is still not arbitrary—S. 86 is not invalid.

Section 86, Marwar Land Revenue Act expressly lays down that if a Settlement Officer decides to bring rates into operation from a date earlier than the following 1st of July, it must be for reasons. There is no force in the contention that S. 86 does not lay down under what circumstances such an order could be passed, because the very nature of the things requires that a large discretion should be left to the authority. Discretion which is wide is not necessarily arbitrary.

And the power conferred on the Settlement Officer to fix an earlier date for giving operation to the rent rate is reasonable and valid and it invades no fundamental rights of the landlord. AIR 1953 S C 373, Disting. Kishan Singh v. Rajasthan State, 1956 SCA 402 : (1956) SCJ 14 : (1955) 2 S C R 531 : AIR 1955 S C 795 (799) (Pt F) (Pr 9).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g)—Right to hold fair on one's land — Nature of — (Aimer Laws Regulations (3 of 1877), S. 40 —Rules under R. 1).

A right to hold fair on one's own land is a fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f) which can only be restricted in the manner permitted by sub-clause (5). The holding of an annual fair is also an occupation of business within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (g), therefore, the person also has a fundamental right to engage in that occupation on his land provided it does not infringe any law imposing "reasonable restrictions on that right in the interests of the general public." Ganpati Singhji v. State of Ajmer, 1955 S C J 119 : 1955 S C A 252 : 1955 SCR 1065 : A I R 1955 S C 188 (189) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) and 31 — Applicability — Person deprived of all rights in property—Article has no application.

Articles 19 (1) (f) and 31 deal with different subjects and cover different fields. There is no overlapping. Article 19 (1) (f) read with Cl. (5) postulates the existence of property which can be enjoyed and over which rights can be exercised because otherwise the reasonable restrictions contemplated by Cl. (5) could not be brought into play. If there is no property which can be acquired, held or disposed of, no restriction can be placed on the exercise of the right to acquire, hold and dispose of it, and as Cl. (5) contemplates the placing of reasonable restrictions on the exercise of those rights it must follow that the Article postulates the existence of property over which these rights can be exercised. The freedoms relating to the person of a citizen guaranteed by Art. 19 assume the existence of a free citizen and can no longer be enjoyed if a citizen is deprived of his liberty by the law of preventive or punitive detention. In the same way, when there is a substantially total deprivation of property which is already held and enjoyed, one must turn to Art. 31 to see how far that is justified.

These Articles deal with substantial and substantive rights and not with illusory phantoms of title. When every form of enjoyment which normally accompanies an interest in this kind of property is taken away leaving the mere husk of title, Art. 19 (1) (f) is not attracted. Where the right to occupy the premises has gone as also the right to transfer, assign, let or sub-let and what is left is but the mere husk of title in the leasehold interest, Article 19 (1) (f) read with Cl. (5) has no application. AIR 1954 S C 92; AIR 1954 S C 119 and AIR 1950 S C 27, Ref. State of Bombay v. Bhanji Munji, 1955 S C J 10 : 1954 S C A 1286 : 1955 S C R 777 : 57 Bom L R 575 : AIR 1955 S C 41 (43, 44) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Illegal seizure of goods in possession of petitioner in India, under no authority of law, at instance of Jammu and Kashmir Police — Amounts to infringement of fundamental rights both under Art. 19 and Art. 31 — Writ under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1954 S C 415.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Issue of search warrant if infringes fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f). See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 98 (1). 1954 Cr L J 865: AIR 1954 S C 300.

● ——Arts. 19 and 31 — Scope of.

Article 31 deals with private property of persons residing in the Union of India while Art. 19 only deals with citizens defined in Art. 5 of the Constitution. The scope of these two articles cannot be the same as they cover different fields. It cannot be seriously argued that so far as citizens are concerned, freedoms regarding enjoyment of property have been granted in two articles of the Constitution, while the protection to property qua all other persons has been dealt with in Art. 31 alone. If both articles covered the same grounds, it was unnecessary to have two articles on the same subject. The true approach to this question is that these two articles really deal with two different subjects and one has no direct relation with the other, namely, Art. 31 deals with the field of eminent domain and the whole boundary of that field is demarcated by this article. In other words, the State's power to take the property of a person is comprehensively delimited by the article.

"My view about the correlation between Art. 19 (1) (f) read with Art. 19 (5) and Art. 31 and the true meaning and the respective scope and effect of Cls. (1) and (2) of Art. 31 have been set forth in detail in my judgment in AIR 1951 S C 41 and have been more fully explained in my judgment in Appeal No. 107 of 1952 and no reiteration of them is called for."

Per Bose, J. – Article 19 (1) (f) confers a certain fundamental freedom on all citizens of India, namely, the freedom to acquire, hold and dispose of property. Article 31 (1) is a sort of corollary, namely that after the property has been acquired, it cannot be taken away save by authority of law. Article 31 is wider than Art. 19 because it applies to everyone and is not restricted to citizens. But what Art. 19 (1) (f) means is that whereas a law can be passed to prevent persons who are not citizens of India from acquiring and holding property in this country no such restrictions can be placed on citizens. But in the absence of such a law non-citizens can also acquire property in India and if they do then they cannot be deprived of it any more than citizens, save by authority of law.

Article 31 is wider than Art. 19 (1) (f) which confers upon a citizen only the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property and is different in scope and content. Article 31 is self contained and Cl. (1) refers to deprivation of property in general. Acquisition or taking possession in Cl. (2) are different modes of deprivation and are comprehensive enough to include all forms of taking away rights of property. Dwarkadas Shrinivas v. Sholapur Spinning & Weaving Co. Ltd., 1954 S C J 175 : (1954) 1 M L J 355 : 67 Mad L W 176 : (1954) 24 Com Cas 103 : 1954 S C A 132 : 56 Bom L R 681 : 1954 S C R 674 : AIR 1954 S C 119 (126, 133, 137, 138, 139) (Pt C) (Prs 16, 43, 55, 78).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Right to acquire, hold and dispose of property — If infringed by the Sholapur Spinning and Weaving Co. (Emergency Provisions Act (28 of 1950)). See Ibid, Arts. 14. AIR 1951 S C 41.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Court-fees Act (1870), S. 37 — U. P. Court-fees (U. P. Amendment) Ordinance (2 of 1960), S. 2 — Retrospective legislation affecting right to file appeal on payment of court-fees — Constitutional validity — Appeal filed on payment of proper court-fee pending on date of promulgation of Ordinance — Demand for additional court-fee according to Ordinance, whether contravenes Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. See Court-fees Act (1870), S. 37. 1962 All L J 480.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 226 — Confiscation of property under R. 151 (c) of Central Excise Rules — Legality — Writ petition—Competency—Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 151 (c) — Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), S. 36

Where the property of the petitioner has been confiscated under R. 151 (c) of the Central Excise Rules and such confiscation is unlawful, there would be a restriction in the exercise of the fundamental right given to the citizens of India under Art. 19 of the Constitution to hold property and to carry on any trade or business. Consequently High Courts can take cognizance of a petition under Art. 226 even though all the remedies available to the petitioner have not been availed of. Further, while exercising the power of revision under S. 36, it is doubtful whether the Central Government would hear the petitioner on the facts of the case because revisions are invariably disposed of on questions of law and a finding of fact unless perverse is not interfered with. 1960 Cr L J 867 : AIR 1960 All 402 (403) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — U. P. Municipalities Act (1916), S. 221 — Validity — Declaration of street as public street — Nature of proceedings — Objection to declaration — Duty of administrator. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 221. AIR 1958 All 209.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — If infringed by S. 7 of Finance Act (1951). See Finance Act (1951), S. 7. AIR 1957 All 84.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Sections 3 and 4 of the High Denomination Bank Notes (Demonetization) Ordinance (1946)—Provisions not in conflict with Art. 19 (1) (f) and hence not void under Art. 13 of the Constitution. See High Denomination Bank Notes (Demonetization) Ordinance (1946), S. 3. AIR 1954 All 753.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 517—Section does not contravene Art. 19 of Constitution—Confiscation or forfeiture of property does not amount to any disturbance of right to acquire, hold or dispose of property. See Criminal P. C. (5 of 1898), S. 517. AIR 1954 All 758.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — U. P. Private Forests Protection Act (1949), Ss 12 and 13 - Article 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution is not infringed. See U. P. Private Forests Protection Act (6 of 1949), S. 12. AIR 1954 All 753.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Court has power to determine whether amount of fee fixed by bye-law of District Board is reasonable or not See U. P. District Boards Act (10 of 1922), S. 109. AIR 1954 All 675.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Hindu Widows' Remarriage Act is not invalid See Hindu Widows' Remarriage Act (1856), S. 1. AIR 1954 All 538 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 226—Person's right to acquire property by raising building upon his land—Interference with right under colour of statutory authority.

A person is entitled to acquire property by raising a building upon his own land and no restrictions not statutorily authorised can be imposed upon the exercise of that right. Any person attempting to interfere with that right under colour of statutory authority must be prevented from doing so under Art. 226. (1960) 1 Andh W R 113 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 603 (604, 605) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Expropriation — Andhra Inam (Assessment) Act, 1955—Validity —There is no deprivation of property — Nor is there resumption of inam. See Andhra Inams (Assessment) Act (17 of 1955), S. 3. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 461 (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Madras Act, 29 of 1949—Constitutional validity—If violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Madras Essential Articles Control and Requisitioning (Temporary Powers) Act (29 of 1949) (as amended by Andhra Act 1 of 1955). AIR 1959 Andh Pra 538 (DB).

——Art. 19—Madras Preservation of Private Forests Act (27 of 1949), Preamble and S. 3 (2)—Scope and object of the Act — Constitutionality of S. 3 (2). See Madras Preservation of Private Forests Act (27 of 1949), Pre. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 93.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Arms Act (1878), S. 18 (b)—Whether contravenes Arts. 14 and 19 (1) and (8) of the Constitution (Quaere). See Arms Act (1878), S. 18 (b). AIR 1955 Assam 183.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 36—Eminent domain—Act of State Legislature in exercise of power of—Act is not subject to Art. 19 (1) (f)—(Government of India Act (1935), Sch. 7, List 2, Item 9).

When an Act of the State Legislature is covered by Item 9, List 2 of Sch. 7 in the Government of India Act, it is an Act passed by the State in the exercise of its power of eminent domain, and is, therefore, not subject to the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f), Constitution of India, in precisely the same way as when an Act passed by the State Legislature in the exercise of its police power depriving a person of his property by reason of his personal incapacity or disability or in the interests of public order, is not subject to the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1953 Assam 84 (88) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178 A — Validity — If contravenes fundamental rights 61 Bom L R 1230, Foll. 62 Bom L R 634 : 1961 (1) Cr L J 229 : AIR 1961 Bom 48 (55, 56) (Pt E) (Pr 23).

——Art. 19—Where the Legislature had evinced an intention to encroach upon private right, the Court must insist on strict and rigid adherence to formalities. (1956) 2 All E R 669, Rel. on. 68 Cal WN 383 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 477 : AIR 1965 Cal 507 (515) (Prs 34, 37) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Scope—Legislation dealing with acquisition or requisition as contemplated by Art. 31 (2) read with (2A) has the effect of excluding the operation of Art. 19 (1) (f). See West Bengal Land Requisition and Acquisition Act (2 of 1948). AIR 1962 Cal 269.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Electricity Act, S. 51—Validity—Restriction upon fundamental right to acquire, hold and dispose of property. See Electricity Act (1910), S. 51. AIR 1960 Cal 311.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Scope—Declaration under S. 5 (42) (b) of Calcutta Municipal Act affects rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Municipalities—Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 5 (42) (b). AIR 1960 Cal 172.

——Art. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) and (6)—Direction to sell to Government—Question of compensation—Justiciability. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f). AIR 1958 Cal 257.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f)—Order mentioning purchasers—Power of Court to go behind order and determine the real purchaser. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f). AIR 1958 Cal 257.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Bengal Municipal Act (1932), S. 129 — Validity—Resolution to split up holding for purposes of municipal tax — Notice to owner — Necessity. See Municipalities—Bengal Municipal Act (15 of 1932), S. 129. AIR 1958 Cal 151.

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Priority of State dues over private debts. See Constitution of India, Art. 372. AIR 1955 Cal 423.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Objection under. See West Bengal Food Grains (Intensive Procurement) Order (1952). AIR 1954 Cal 97.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Right to hold property — If includes right to enjoy it.

Article 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution gives a citizen a right to hold property which includes the right to enjoy the same. Interference with the right of enjoyment is, therefore, clearly an interference with the right to hold property. Iswari Prasad Goenka v. N. R. Sen, 55 C W N 719 : A I R 1952 Cal 273 (279) (Pt G) (Pr 36) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 148.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) and 13 (1) — Bengal Land Revenue Sales (West Bengal Amendment) Act (7 of 1950), S. 7 — Section is ultra vires. See Bengal Land Revenue Sales (West Bengal Amendment) Act (7 of 1950), S. 7. AIR 1951 Cal 85 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1954 S C 92.]

——Art. 19 (5)—Hindu widow—Restriction on power of disposal of property — The restrictions on the widow's power of disposal of property do not amount to the infringement of any of the fundamental rights or are not void under Art. 13 (1). See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1952 Him Pra and B 42.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Travancore Education Code (1909) M. E., R. 146 (a) — Madras Grant-in-aid Code, R. 2 — Madras Elementary Schools Rules, Part II, Chap. 1, R. 14—Grant-in-aid—Legal right to — Right under Art. 19 (1) (f), if infringed — Discrimination. See Travancore Education Code (1909), R. 146 (a). AIR 1958 Ker 290.

——Art. 19—Ss. 523, 524, Criminal P. C.—Validity.

It cannot be said that the provisions contained in Ss. 523 and 524, Criminal P. C. deny to any person equality before the law or the equal protection of law, or infringe the fundamental right of citizens to acquire, hold and dispose of property, or are inconsistent with Art. 31. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1951 Madh B 159.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Law infringing Art. 19 (1) (f) and not saved by Art. 19 (5) is not valid law — M. P. Abolition of Cash Grants Act (16 of 1963) — Validity — See Ibid, Art. 31 (1). AIR 1965 Madh Pra 77.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Tank cannot vest in the State unless enquiry contemplated in S. 251 of the M. P. Land Revenue Code is made — S. 251 is not violative of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. See M. P. Land Revenue Code (1959), S. 251. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 133.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Custom giving exclusive right to some Chamars to take carcasses of animals dying in village — Custom violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) - Custom is void and unenforceable. 1962 Jab L J 58 : 1962 M P L J (Notes) 115 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 275 (276) (Prs 12, 13).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Delegation of powers—Validity of Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3. See Ibid, Art. 245. A I R 1957 Madh Pra 179 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Madras Prevention of Insults to National Honour Act (14 of 1957), S. 5 — Constitutional validity — Section is competent for State Legislature to enact under Entry 1 of Lists 2 and 3 — Phrases "Public Order" and "Criminal Law"—Meaning—Section does not violate Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution. See Madras Prevention of Insults to National Honour Act (14 of 1957), S. 5. A I R 1965 Mad 11 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 265 — Madras Agricultural Income-tax Act, S. 65 (4) — Validity — Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution.

The State's power to tax under S. 65 of the Madras Agricultural Income-tax Act does not violate the fundamental right guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution. Article 265 of the Constitution provides that no tax shall be levied or collected except by authority of law. Tax on property cannot be said to impinge on the right to hold property under Art. 19 (1) (f). The State, however, cannot deprive a citizen of his fundamental right under the guise of taxation. A legislation to that effect would be a colourable exercise of taxing power and should be struck down as unconstitutional. An oppressive and arbitrary levy of property tax, under a seeming exercise of taxing power may be questioned, if in substance and in effect, the tax measure is of a 'confiscatory' character. The levy of tax on holding or disposing of property is not per se unconstitutional. Article 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution only declares a fundamental right to acquire, hold and dispose of property and does not grant an immunity from taxation. Section 65 (4) of the Madras Agricultural Income-tax Act is not unconstitutional, on the alleged ground that it is repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. A I R 1952 Mad 395 and A I R 1954 S C 92 and A I R 1961 S C 552 and A I R 1958 S C 578, Rel. on. I L R (1964) 2 Mad 312 : 77 Mad L W 422 : 1964 Mad W N 351 : AIR 1964 Mad 556 (559, 560) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—The provisions of S. 16(3) (a) (i) and (ii), Income-tax Act do not offend clauses (f) and (g) of Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a) (i). A I R 1963 Mad 348 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (b), (g), (5), (6) — Right to acquire hold and dispose of property — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178 A (1)—Validity.

Section 178-A is a restriction on the right to acquire, hold and dispose of gold as property and on the right to carry on business in gold. The restriction was imposed in the interests of the general public. There is no reasonable or rational connection between the fact to be proved and the presumption to follow under S. 178-A (1). Hence S. 178-A (1) of the Sea Customs Act constitutes an unconstitutional infringement of the fundamental right of the petitioners secured by Arts 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) and is therefore void under Art. 13 of the Constitution. 72 Mad L W 104 : I L R (1959) Mad 222 : (1959) 2 M L J 35 : A I R 1959 Mad 142 (146, 148, 149) (Pt A) (Prs 17, 18, 23, 26) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1962 S C 316.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Companies Act (1913), S. 34 (7)—Validity of—Application for registration—Company's discretion to accept or reject application—If arbitrary or invalid. See Companies Act (1913), S. 34 (7). AIR 1957 Mad 702.

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6)—Validity of S. 92, Madras Village Panchayats Act. See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1956 Mad 289.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Madras Shariat (Amendment) Act (18 of 1949), S. 2 — Object and scope — Act is not repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution—(Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) Application Act (1937), Ss. 2, 3, 6) — (Madras Civil Courts Act (3 of 1873), S. 16)—(Marumakkathayam Law). See Madras Shariat Amendment Act (18 of 1949), S. 2. AIR 1956 Mad 244.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Right to use property and carry on business.

The use of premises for running a brothel is not a use of property guaranteed by the Constitution, nor is it a business the right to which is one of those guaranteed by Part III. 1956 Mad W N 70 : (1956) 1 M L J 220 : 1957 Cri L J 141 (142) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 19 (5) — Panchayats — Madras Village Panchayats Act (1950), S 81 (1)— Validity of sub-section and notification issued thereunder - (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)). See Panchayats—Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950), S. 81 (1). A I R 1954 Mad 754.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Sales Tax — Mysore Sales Tax Act (25 of 1957), Ss 13 (3) (b), 32, 35 and 20 — Application under S. 13 (3) (b) to Magistrate to recover sales tax due from assessee — S. 32 precludes Magistrate from going into question of validity of assessment. Even assuming that Magistrate functions as Civil Court and not as Criminal Court and S. 32 is not attracted, S. 35 acts as a bar and precludes Court from going into question of validity of assessment — When assessee has not availed of remedies of appeal and revision under Act to question validity of assessment, he cannot contend that prohibition under S. 32 causes him hardship — Question whether S. 32 infringes fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution of India — Question when not raised in grounds of revision and when has no bearing to case must be left as purely academic question. See Sales Tax — Mysore Sales Tax Act (25 of 1957), S. 13 (3) (b). (1965) 4 Law Rep 444 : (1965) 2 Mys L J 712 : (1966) 18 S T C 94 (Mys).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Bombay Saranjams, Jahagirs and other Inams of Political Nature Resumption Rules, 1952—Rules are not ultra vires — Constitution of India, Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f), 31, Sch. VII, List II Entries 18, 45. See Bombay Saranjams, Jahagirs and other Inams of Political Nature Resumption Rules, 1952. (1963) 2 Mys L J 164 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Bihar Mica Act, 1947 (10 of 1948), S. 6 (6) — Validity. See Bihar Mica Act, 1947 (10 of 1948), S. 6 (6). AIR 1958 Pat 496 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Article deals with both abstract and concrete rights.

It cannot be said that Art. 19 (1) (f) merely deals with abstract rights and capacity of citizens to acquire, hold and dispose of property. No distinction can be drawn between abstract and concrete rights in relation to that article. I L R (1954) Patiala 545 : AIR 1954 Pepsu 180 (181, 182) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g) — Chief Settlement Commissioner forbidding persons to bid for properties forming part of compensation pool—There is no infringement of fundamental right — There is also compliance with provisions of Rr. 87 and 88 of Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Rules (1955).

The Chief Settlement Commissioner has the power to determine the manner in which any property forming part of the compensation pool may be sold. Where certain persons have been forbidden to bid for the properties forming part of the compensation pool, it must be held that the Chief Settlement Commissioner has laid down the manner in which the properties in question have to be sold, and that he has taken action under rule 88. The provisions of Rr. 87 and 88 have been substantially complied with. Apart from this, the Government which has to sell its own properties, has a power to say that the said properties would not be sold to any particular person unless of course there are any definite rules which stand in the way of the Government from taking such an action. The persons have no doubt, right to carry on their business, but they have no right to insist that their bids must be received at every auction sale. Any person or the Government may very well refuse to deal with any particular person and this would not in any way amount to infringement of that person's right to carry on his business. AIR 1958 Kerala 333 and AIR 1955 Mad 365 and (1939) 84 Law Ed. 1108, Rel. on. AIR 1961 Punj 553 (554, 555) (Prs 3, 4, 6).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Duty of Court.

Article 19 (1) (f) imposes a constitutional obligation on the Court to enquire whether there has been an arbitrary interference with the protected rights of property. Sardha Ram v. Haji Abdul Majid, 62 Punj L R 201: AIR 1960 Punj 196 (197) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1476.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Patiala Act 4 of 2002 B. K. — Validity — It offends Art. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g). See Patiala Recovery of State Dues Act (4 of 2002 B. K.), S. 1. AIR 1959 Punj 440 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1963 S C 222.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Mineral Concession Rules, 1949, Rr 32 57 and 59—Validity — Review application — Decision of Central Government is not judicial or quasi-judicial but merely administrative — Does not infringe any rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g). See Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 5 I L R (1957) Punj 39.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Rights to property — Right recognised by judicial decision—Legislation seeking to deprive party of rights—Validity.

A judicial decision no doubt does not create any new right, but it places on a firm foundation the rights upheld by the decision, and establishes for all times to come the rights so recognised as against the contesting parties or their successors in title, and if such rights are rights to property, the legislation, which seeks to deprive the successful parties to the litigation of such rights is hit by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution, unless it can be shown that the deprivation is reasonable and in the public interest. I L R (1959) 9 Raj 424 : 1959 Raj L W 496 : AIR 1959 Raj 177 (184) (Pt A) (Pr 33) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 1402.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Unauthorised construction of latrine by wife as owner of house — Notice to dismantle on husband and his prosecution for failure to do so — Not legal. See Municipalities — Tripura Municipal Act (2 of 1349, T. E.), S. 100. 1961 (2) Cri L J 804 : AIR 1961 Tripura 49.

48. "Property."

See also Ibid, Note 4.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Property — Tenant's interests in demised premises is property within Art. 19 (1) (f), subject to provisions of cl. (5)—Restrictions on tenants' right to hold property enacted in Ss. 354R and 354RA. Bombay Municipal Corporation Act, 1888, are not unreasonable—These sections are valid. Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay v. Lala Pancham, 67 Bom L R 782 : AIR 1965 S C 1008 (1014, 1016) (Pt D) (Prs 18, 23).

● ——Arts. 19(1) (f), 31 and 31-A—East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948) (as amended by Act (27 of 1960), Ss. 18 and 23-A—Punjab Gram Panchayat Act (4 of 1953), S. 19—Punjab Village Commom Lands (Regulation) Act (1 of 1954), S. 3—Shamilat deh and abadi deh in village — Transfer of shamilat deh to village panchayat—Conferment of proprietary rights on non-proprietors in respect of lands in abadi deh—Validity of such transfer and conferment — Expressions "any estate or of any rights therein" and "the extinguishment or modification of such rights" in Art. 31A—Wide connotation of—Punjab Acts mentioned above are valid and protected by Art. 31-A. AIR 1960 S C 1080, Disting. Ranjit Singh v. State of Punjab, 1965 Cur L J 371 : (1965) 2 S C A 385 : AIR 1965 S C 632 (636, 637, 638, 639) (Prs 8, 10, 12, 13, 14).

● ——Art. 19 (5) — Property of Math — Right of Mahant over such property is 'property'—Reasonable restriction which may be placed upon that right — Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (Mad. 19 of 1951), (as amended by Mad. Act 27 of 1954), S. 52 (1) (f) (as in force in Madras area of the State of Mysore) — Power of Mahant over income of Math — Waste of Math property — Restriction on Mahant's power placed by S. 52 (1) (f) is reasonable. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1963 S C 986.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Right to purchase property — Madras City Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1922), S. 9 — Right to purchase land given under S 9 taken away by amending Madras Act 13 of 1960—Right to purchase land is not right of property — Amending Madras Act has not affected fundamental right of tenant of non-residential building.

The Madras Act 19 of 1955 by amending the Madras City Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1922) conferred two rights on a tenant of non-residential building, of which one was that such a tenant against whom a suit in ejectment has been instituted has an option to apply to the Court for an order directing the landlord to sell the land to him for a price to be fixed by the Court. This right conferred by the Act is a right to purchase land. Such a right when conferred under a contract is not a right of property. The fact that such a right stems from a statute cannot expand its content or make it any the less a non-proprietary right. It is settled law that a contract to purchase a property does not create an interest in immovable property.

Section 9 of the principal Act, extended by the 1955 Act, only confers a right in respect of the land and not of the superstructure. This right to purchase land conferred by the amending Madras Act of 1955 is taken away by a subsequent amending Madras Act (13 of 1960) in respect of tenants of non-residential buildings living in certain towns. If the main Act held the field such tenants could have purchased the land, but by reason of the 1960 Act they could no longer do so. Neither the 1955 Act conferred any right as to the superstructure under S. 9 of the principal Act nor did the 1960 Act take right away. The 1960 Act does not in any way affect such tenants' fundamental right. The prayer, therefore, of such tenants that the lower Court should be directed to proceed with the disposal of the applications filed by them under S. 9 of the principal Act cannot be granted. Swami Motor Transports, Ltd. v. Sri Sankaraswamigal Mutt, (1964) 1 S C J 530 : (1964) 1 Mad L J (SC) 146 : (1964) 1 Andh W R (SC) 146 : (1963) Supp 1 S C R 282: AIR 1963 S C 864 (873, 874) (Pt C) (Pr 30).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 32—Right to acquire and hold property — Jagirdar giving contracts to cut forests in Jagir—Unauthorised extension of period of contracts by forest officers—Confiscation of forest goods by Government — Petitions under Art. 32 — Maintainability — (Easements Act (1882), S. 52) — (Madhya Bharat Forests Act (73 of 1950), Ss. 26 (2) (a) and 34).

Held, on facts (1) that the petitioners could not claim that the property in the trees in the areas worked by them passed to them legally through any sale made in their favour by the State or by any officer duly authorised to make the sale.

(2) That when the licence permits any person to do something on immovable property and also includes permission to take away movable property the licence may operate not only as a licence but also as a grant for movable property. In this case, there was merely a licence by the forest authorities in favour of the petitioners. The licence cannot in the circumstances of this case, pass property in the trees to the petitioners.

(3) That Ss. 26 (2) (a) and 34 of the Forests Act could not help the petitioners to claim property in the trees inasmuch as the former section merely saves a person from certain penalties.

(4) That no property having passed to the petitioners they had no right to maintain the petitions on the ground that they had fundamental right to hold and dispose of their property. Rameshwar Proshad Khandewal v. Commissioners, Land Reforms & Jagirs, Madhya Bharat (Now M. P.), (1959) 2 S C A 236 : 1959 S C J 621 : AIR 1959 S C 498 (502, 503, 504) (Prs 10, 11, 12, 15).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)—Ss. 3 (1), 3 (2) (b) of Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act, 1953—Validity—'Property' in Art. 19 (1) (f) includes money—Ss. 3 (1), and 3 (2) (b) contravene Art. 19 (1) (f). See Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act (40 of 1953), S. 3 (1). AIR 1958 S C 328.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), (g) and 31—Highways—Nature and extent of right of public over highway—Right to carry on business of transporting passengers on public highway—Nature of — Not in the nature of easement and as such cannot be reckoned as property. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C J 819 : (1954) 2 M L J 622 : AIR 1954 S C 728 (733) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Connotation of 'property' — Right of Mahant to enjoy property—Nature of right —(Hindu Law—Religious Endowment).

The word 'property' as used in Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution, should be given a liberal and wide connotation and so interpreted, should be extended to those well recognised types of interest, which have the insignia or characteristics of proprietary right. Thus, Art. 19 (1) (f) applies equally to concrete as well as abstract rights of property. The ingredients of both office and property, of duties and personal interest are blended together in the rights of a Mahant. The Mahant has the right to enjoy this property or beneficial interest so long as he is entitled to hold his office. To take away this beneficial interest and leave him merely to the discharge of his duties will be to destroy his character as a Mahant altogether.

Opinion of Patanjali Sastri, C. J., in AIR 1954 S C 92, Criticised. Commr. of H. R. E', Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 1954 Mad W N 363 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (288, 289) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Property—Meaning—Rights of share-holder to elect directors of company, give direction by passing resolution and to present petition for winding up—If property.

Articles 19 (1) (f) and 31 only regard that as "property" which can by itself be acquired, disposed of or taken possession of. The right to vote for the election of directors, the right to pass resolutions and the right to present a petition for winding up are personal rights flowing from the ownership of the share and cannot by themselves and apart from the share be acquired or disposed of or taken possession of as contemplated by those Articles. Charanjit Lal Chowdhury v. Union of India, 64 Mad L W 47 : 1951 S C J 29: 1951 Mad W N 111 : (1951) 21 Comp Cas 33 : 1950 S C R 869 : 53 Bom L R 499 : I L R (1951) Hyd 461 : AIR 1951 S C 41 (57, 62, 63) (Pt K) (Prs 60, 78, 79).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 21 — 'Property' — Right of management of property—If 'property'. See Charitable Endowments Act, Ss. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 773.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2)—Right to enjoy land held free of land revenue whether is 'property". See ibid, Art. 31 (2). AIR 1956 Assam 33 (SB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Property — Rights of Watandari Patels and Patwaris — (Berar Patels and Patwaris Law (1900), S. 9) — (Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code (2 of 1955), S. 214).

Per Kotwal, J.—Though something may be said for the view that the mere office of a patwari or patel is not 'property' the rights which the petitioners held as watandari patels and patwaris were not rights merely to an office or to a mere dignity. Under the provisions of the Patels and Patwaris Law, there were attached to each office valuable monetary rights in the shape of emoluments and with the abolition of the offices, those rights to remuneration were also taken away. In so far as every office of patwari or patel necessarily imported the right to certain emoluments, the rights which the petitioners held were 'property' within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art 31. AIR 1954 S C 119 and AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 282, Rel. on. 1958 Nag L J 63 : 60 Bom L R 597 : I L R (1958) Bom 645 : AIR 1958 Bom 300 (303) (Pt A) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2)—"Property" — Meaning, interpretation and essential characteristics of — Power of State to acquire or take possession of.

In order to give a correct interpretation of the word "property" in the Constitution Arts. 19 and 31 have both to be looked at; the word is not used in different senses in these two articles. 'Property" may not be necessarily tangible property but may also be intangible property and may include incorporeal rights. Property in Art. 19(1)(f) can only mean all the attributes and indicia which result in the legal conception of property. The right of dominion, the right of possession, the right of control would all be included in the expression "property". The same meaning and intendment must also be given to the term in Art. 31 (2) also. It is only when the State is acquiring from a subject or taking possession of from a subject property in this sense of the term that there is an obligation upon it to pay compensation. The further essential requirement is that the acquisition or taking possession must be for public purposes. It is implicit in the power conferred upon the Legislature to legislate for the purposes of acquisition or taking possession of property. The property referred to in Art. 31 (2) must also be capable of being acquired or taken possession of. It therefore follows that if the property is capable of being acquired or taken possession of, it is also property the loss of which can be compensated for. 53 Bom L R 218 : I L R (1951) Bom 473 : AIR 1951 Bom 86 (90) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 119.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—"Property"—Right of hereditary trustee to manage endowment is "property" and is covered by Art. 19 (1) (f).

The trustee of a secular trust would be entitled to all the rights of the owner against the rest of the world, and the position of the trustee for the religious purpose is not different. The rights of both would be covered by the word 'property'. Hence the right to manage endowed property which is one of the hereditary and cherished rights in this country is covered by the word 'property' as used in Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1958 Andh Pra 319 and AIR 1959 Orissa 5, Diss. from; AIR 1954 S C 282 and AIR 1954 S C 119, Rel. on. 1960 Ker L T 1107 : I L R (1960) Ker 1259 : 1960 Ker L J 1445 : AIR 1961 Ker 87 (89) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — 'Property' — Hereditary trustees —Right to manage institution—If property.

Undoubtedly there exists a fundamental right of property in the hereditary trustees by way of their right to administer and manage their institution and due regard must be paid thereto in framing a scheme of management for such institution. AIR 1954 Mad 385 and AIR 1955 Mad 120, Rel. on. I L R (1953) Ker 351 : 1957 Ker L T 1117 : 1957 Ker L J 1056 : AIR 1958 Ker 57 (57, 58) (Pr 4) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Scope and applicability—Right to property.

Per Dixit, J — Article 19 (1) (f) applies equally to concrete as well as abstract rights of property. AIR 1954 S C 282, Rel. on. Babulal v. Govardhandas, Madh B L R 1956 Civ 1 : Madh B L J 1955 H C R 1905 : AIR 1956 Madh B 1 (5) (Pt H) (Pr 7) (FB).

● ——Art. 19 — "Property" — Payments made to irregular forces (Shiledars, etc.) by Scindia are not property — Nature of payment — Government of Madhya Bharat can stop these payments—No infringement of fundamental right — No writ can issue. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1953 Madh B 257 (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 298.]

——Arts. 19 and 31 — 'Property' — Right to vote — M. P. Act, 14 of 1958 — It ultra vires — Municipalities—C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922 as amended by Act 14 of 1958), S. 18.

The word property must have the same meaning in both Arts. 19 and 31. The test of property lies in its being capable of being acquired, held or disposed of. Though property includes incorporeal rights, these rights must be over something which is capable of being acquired or disposed of. The right of voting, granted by a statute, has no relation with anything which is considered property in the ordinary sense. It is not capable of being acquired or disposed of. Such a right cannot be property with the meaning of Art. 19 or Art. 31 of the Constitution.

The State Legislature is at liberty to prescribe the constitution of local bodies No one can insist that the right of vote which was granted to him earlier should not be taken away. Consequently the amendment of S. 18 of the C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act, 1922, whereby the election of the President was to be by the elected members of the Municipal Committee does not affect the fundamental right of the citizen under Arts. 19 and 31 and is not ultra vires. 1959 M P L J 710 : 1959 Jab L J 453 : 1959 M P C 458 : I L R (1959) Madh Pra 343 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 353 (355) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9, 10) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Renewal of old notification — Effect—Hereditary trusteeship is property — Expression 'deemed'—Meaning. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 64 (4). (1962) 2 Mad L J 67.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (1), 226—Right to property—Infringement—Managing agency rights—Nature of —Issue of writ of mandamus.

There is no analogy or comparison between hereditary trusteeship and managing agency. The managing agency, though it may be hereditary, is a right arising out of contractual relationship—a contract of personal service. It cannot possibly be contended that the office of agency can be called property within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. A I R 1954 Mad 385 and A I R 1954 S C 282, Disting.

Held, on facts that the right of hereditary managing agency conferred under the memorandum and the articles of the company could not be said to be property within Art. 19 (1) (f).

Held further, that no writ could be issued against a company or its director for its violation, as Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) which were great constitutional safeguards against State aggression on private property, could not be directed against infringement by private individuals for which remedies should be sought in the ordinary law. (1956) 26 Com Cas 431 : 70 Mad L W 28 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 254 : I L R (1957) Mad 383 : A I R 1957 Mad 309 (319) (Pt I) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 19—'Property'—Aliyasanthana family—Partition of Kutumba property — Ejaman's right — S. 35, Madras Aliyasanthana Act, 1949 does not violate Art. 31 — Right to manage kutumba property is not 'property' within meaning of Art. 19 or 31. See Ibid, Art. 31. A I R 1956 Mad 642 (DB).

——Art. 19—Validity of S. 87, Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act—Whether unreasonable restriction on the right of trustee to hold property. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 87. A I R 1954 Mad 500 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Property—Hereditary trusteeship. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951). A I R 1954 Mad 385 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — "Property" includes "gun" — What constitutes "property" explained. (1953) 1 Mad L J 418 : 1953 Cri L J 917 : 1953 Mad W N 168 : A I R 1953 Mad 476 (477) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—"Property"—Interest of the head of a Mutt or Dharmakartha in the property of the Mutt and its income. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 20, 21, etc. A I R 1952 Mad 613.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Property, meaning of.

'Property' as used in Art. 19 (1) (f) includes even incorporeal rights. The addition of the right to dispose of property in Art. 19 (1) (f) along with the right to acquire and hold is not intended to give a definition of property so as to limit it to disposable property. Property may be inalienable but yet a person may be entitled to hold it as in the case of inalienable service inams. A I R 1951 Bom 86, Rel. on.

The head of a mutt is not a bare trustee but occupies a peculiar position and has beneficial interest in the mutt property and its income. The head-ship of a mutt can therefore be considered as property within Art. 19 (1) (f).

An idol is a juristic person capable of taking and holding property. The right to possession and management, however, of the property endowed to the idol is in a manager or Dharmakartha or shebait and the manager represents the idol in all transactions and suits. Usually, the dharmakartha has no beneficial interest and the property is not vested in him. The authority of the manager is analogous to that of a guardian of an infant heir and his liability in respect of his management is analogous to that of a trustee. But if the dharmakartha or the head of a mutt has a beneficial interest in the property and its income, such rights are "property" within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. 1952 Mad W N 299 : 1952-1 Mad L J 557 : A I R 1952 Mad 613 (633, 646) (Pt C) (Prs 32, 77) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—"Property" — Karnam's office—Madras Restoration of Village Officers (Validating) Act (18 of 1939), whether infringes Art. 19 (1) (f).

The property which is contemplated by Art. 19 (1) (f) is obviously property which can be acquired, held and disposed of. The Karnam's office cannot be acquired and it cannot be disposed of, and so far as holding is concerned, the incumbent holds it so long as he is not lawfully removed from that office. An office held in such circumstances on a precarious tenure cannot be deemed to be "property" as contemplated by Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1922 P C 96, Rel. on.

Madras Restoration of Village Officers (Validating) Act (18 of 1939), does not in any way infringe Art. 19 (1) (f). 64 Mad L W 1029 : 1951-2 Mad L J 561 : A I R 1952 Mad 150 (151) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Right of pasturage — Infringement of—Relief under Article—Right to.

The right of pasturage is a tangible right in immovable property and so an infringement of such right would justify the petitioners coming to the High Court for relief regarding the alleged infringement of their fundamental rights secured to them by Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1955 Manipur 49, Foll. A I R 1957 Manipur 18 (21) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (1) and 226 (1) — Lease for carrying on teak operation in forest—Termination of lease — Deprivation of property without compensation—Infringement of fundamental rights—Issue of writ of mandamus—No other remedy open.

By a lease, dated 24th February 1955, the Forest Officer, Manipur, on behalf of the Government of Manipur, allowed the petitioner to carry on teak operation in contracted forest on certain specific conditions. But without giving him any opportunity of hearing and without any fault of his being pointed out to him the contract was virtually terminated by the Government by a letter, dated 26th March 1955, with the result that the petitioner suffered financial loss.

The petitioner also incurred the risk of failure to keep up his contracts with the big timber merchants of other places which meant possible future financial losses in the form of damages. The petitioner applied for the issue of a writ of mandamus calling the Forest Officer and the Government of Manipur to re-call and cancel the letter, dated 26th March 1955, and to allow him to carry on teak operation.

Held (1) that the rights acquired by the petitioner in the deed, dated 24th February 1955, would constitute property in the legal sense as a completed contract in favour of the petitioner which gave him specified legal rights would by itself constitute property.

(2) that for the deed, dated 24th February 1955, to amount to a completed contract it was not necessary that it should have been ratified by a Secretary to the Government of Manipur.

(3) that since the petitioner was not allowed to work in the contracted forest and was completely ousted from the forest, there was 'deprivation' of property without any compensation, and, therefore, the petitioner's fundamental rights under Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) were infringed.

(4) that a writ of mandamus should be issued as prayed as the petitioner had no equally efficacious and adequate alternative remedy and if urgent steps were not taken he would be put to irretrievable loss simply because the respondents chose not to abide by terms of the lease and as he should not be deprived of possession. Case law discussed. A I R 1955 Manipur 49 (54, 55, 56) (Pt A) (Prs 18, 19, 20, 26, 27).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Abolished village offices are not property within meaning of Art. 19 (1) (f). See Mysore Village Offices Abolition Act (14 of 1961), S. 2 (1) (n). A I R 1964 Mys 84 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Rustication of students by University Authorities for resorting to malpractice at University Examination — No infringement of fundamental right of student under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). 1963 Mys L J 408.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—C. P. and Berar Prohibition Act (7 of 1938), S. 1—Validity—Whether infringes Art 19 (1) (f)—Property — Meaning. See Prohibition—C. P. and Berar Prohibition Act (7 of 1938), S. 1. A I R 1951 Nag 58 (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—'Property' — Orissa Act, XI of 1955—Validity—Rights of Raja of Puri—Right as Adya Sebak and of superintendence — Orissa Act, 11 of 1955—Validity — If offends Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2). See Sri Jagannath Temple Act (11 of 1955), S. 1. AIR 1959 Orissa 5 (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Property—Right to possession.

The contention that even right to possession is protected under Art. 19 (1) (f) is sound to this extent that if there is a property which belongs to nobody and is taken possession of then certainly Art. 19 (1) (f) will be applicable. There may be a graveyard which was not the property of anybody, until it was taken possession of by somebody, and the person taking possession of it can claim a possessory right. Brij Bhukan v. S. D. O. Siwan, 1954 B L J R 513 : 33 Pat 690 : AIR 1955 Pat 1 (33, 34) (Pt Z) (Pr 26) (SB).

——Arts. 19, 31, 366 (22), 363—Property and right to property—Meaning of—Right to recognition as a Ruler under Art. 366 (22) and the rights that accrue by virtue of such recognition—Not rights to property within Art. 19 (1) (f)—Rights guaranteed by the Covenant of the United States of Rajasthan are merely political rights—Not justiciable—Recognition as Ruler under Art 366 (22) of a person who is not a legal heir to his predecessor — No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1951 S C 41 and AIR 1956 S C 15, Rel. on. A I R 1963 Punj 461 (467, 468, 469) (Pt B) (Prs 22, 23, 24, 26).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 31 (1) — 'Property'—Cancellation of lease to work mine, by Government under due process of law—If infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g) or Art. 31 (1) — (Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act, 1948) —(Mineral Concession Rules (1949), Rr. 32, 59).

Where the Central Government in review proceedings under Mineral Concession Rules, 1949, from an order by the State Government granting a mining lease to the appellant, held that the question of priorities under R. 32 had been wrongly decided by the State Government and therefore cancelled the lease in favour of the appellants and granted the same to the respondents in accordance with R. 32, there is no infringement of the rights guaranteed to the appellant by Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g) or by Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution. The right granted to the appellant cannot be said to constitute property. Moreover, he has not been deprived of that property without due process of law.

The right to work a mine upon another's land is, in no way, analogous to the fundamental right of a citizen to trade and buy and sell in the open market. The fundamental rights as contemplated by the Constitution are rights which already exist and not rights which are created by a contract Neither the Mines and Mineral (Regulation and Development) Act, 1948, nor the mining rules framed under the Act can, therefore, be said to interfere with the fundamental rights of a citizen AIR 1956 S C 17, Rel. on. 61 Punj L R 489 : I L R 1959 Punj 1332 : A I R 1959 Punj 510 (512, 513) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1960 S C 606.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—To acquire, hold or dispose arms is a right and not privilege. See Arms Act (1878), S. 14. AIR 1954 Raj 264 (DB).

——Arts. 19, 31, 226—Right to salary already earned.

The salary already earned by a Government servant is his property, and a deduction not made in accordance with statutory rules infringes his fundamental right to property both under Art. 19 and Art 31 and relief must be granted under Art. 226. AIR 1954 S C 245; AIR 1954 S C 415, Foll. AIR 1955 Vin Pra 21 (24) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

49. "Acquire."

See also Ibid, Note 4.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) — Shri Jagannath Temple Act, 1954 (Orissa Act II of 1955), S. 6—Act is not unconstitutional on the ground that it takes away the sole management of the temple which was vested in the Raja of Puri and his ancestors — There is no acquisition of extinguished office. See Shri Jagannath Temple Act, 1954 (Orissa Act 2 of 1955), S. 6. A I R 1964 S C 1501.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — "To acquire, hold and dispose" —Meaning of.

In dealing with relationship of landlord and tenant, admitting that tenancy itself is a species of property, yet the landlord does not 'acquire' that species of property when he sues to obtain recovery of possession from the tenant. Similarly, the property though let remains disposable by the landlord. The right 'to hold' property includes the right to recover possession of the property. In one sense the landlord holds the property even when he lets it out to the tenant but that is only in the sense of holding the reversion which is also property. Holding the reversion is only a portion of the total right to hold. The word "to hold" thus means not only to hold the reversion but also to hold the property in praesenti and that to the exclusion of others. ILR (1953) 2 Cal 15 : 88 Cal L J 233 : AIR 1951 Cal 539 (545) (Pt D) (Pr 34).

50. "Hold."

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—"To acquire, hold and dispose" —Meaning of.

In dealing with relationship of landlord and tenant, admitting that tenancy itself is a species of property, yet the landlord does not 'acquire' that species of property when he sues to obtain recovery of possession from the tenant. Similarly, the property though let remains disposable by the landlord. The right 'to hold' property includes the right to recover possession of the property. In one sense the landlord holds the property even when he lets it out to the tenant but that is only in the sense of holding the reversion which is also property. Holding the reversion is only a portion of the total right to hold. The word "to hold" thus means not only to hold the reversion but also to hold the property in praesenti and that to the exclusion of others. I L R (1953) 2 Cal 15 : AIR 1951 Cal 539 (545) (Pt D) (Pr 34).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Right to hold property—Infringement of—Right to office of hereditary trustee is property — Order under R. 9 (1) framed under S. 100 (2) (m), Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act, 1951 directing trustee to lease out lands by public auction —Rule is eminently a reasonable restriction in public interest — Does not amount to infraction of trustee's right under Art. 19 (1) (f). 1963 Mad W N 275 : 76 Mad L W 36 : (1963) 1 Mad L J 225 : AIR 1963 Mad 205 (207) (Pt D) (Pr 8).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Right to hold property—Right of re-entry or right to take direct possession.

The right to hold property means the right of ownership to property. Neither the right of re-entry nor the right to take direct possession of the property is equivalent to this right and therefore deprivation by any law of the right of re-entry or of the right to take direct possession does not amount to deprivation or confiscation of the ownership of the property itself. ILR (1952) Nag 736 : 1953 Nag L J 199 : A I R 1953 Nag 40 (50) (Pt L) (Pr 47) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Requisitioning of property — If amounts to violation of article.

Article 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution guarantees to a citizen the right to "acquire, hold and dispose of property". Taken in the context of the preceding word "acquire" and that of the following words "dispose of", the word "hold" can have no other meaning than "own" or "be the owner of". By the act of requisitioning the ownership of the owner would not be affected. For despite requisitioning, the owner would continue to have the power to deal with his property in any manner he likes, except letting it out or be in possession thereof. Such an abridgement of his rights would not, however, amount to a violation of Art. 19 (1) (f). ILR (1951) Nag 791 : 1951 N L J 346 : A I R 1951 Nag 33 (36) (Pt E) (Pr 11) (DB).

51. Taking away right of management of property, etc.

(a) Religious Endowments and Charitable Trusts Act.

(b) Court of Wards Act.

51. Taking away right of management of property, etc.

●——Art. 19 (1) (f) and Sch. 7, List 3, Entries 28 and 47—Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (Mad. Act 19 of 1951) (as amended by Mad. Act 27 of 1954), Ss. 52 (1) (f), 55, 76 (1) and (2); 80, 81 and 82 as in force in Madras area of the State of Mysore and in their application to Maths are intra vires.

Note.—The newly enacted sub-s. (5) of S. 76 was declared ultra vires by the Madras High Court; this part of the decision was not challenged before the Supreme Court. Sudhindra Thirtha Swamiar v. Commr. for Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments, Mysore, (1963) 2 S C A 340 : (1963) Supp (2) S C R 302 : AIR 1963 S C 966 (969, 973, 974, 976) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 17, 21).

●——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Property of Math— Right of Mahant over such property is 'property'— Reasonable restriction which may be placed upon that right — Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (Mad. Act 19 of 1951) (as amended by Mad. Act 27 of 1954), S. 52 (1) (f) (as in force in Madras area of the State of Mysore)—Power of Mahant over income of Math — Waste of Math property—Restriction on Mahant's power placed by S. 52 (1) (f) is reasonable.

The right of a Mahant over the property of the Math is undoubtedly 'property' and unreasonable restrictions placed upon the right of the Mahant which is not in the interest of the general public would, by virtue of Art. 19 (1) (f) read with Cl. (5) of the Constitution of India, be void. Reasonableness of the restrictions which may be placed upon that right must be adjudged in the light of the character and the extent of that right, and the general interest of the public which may be served by the restrictions.

The power of the Mahant over the income does not differ in quality from the power he has over the property of the Math. By S. 52 (1) (f) application of funds or properties for purposes unconnected with the institution, i. e., purposes for which the custom of the institution does not warrant application, is a ground for removal of the Mahant. The provision does not in effect seek to cut down the authority of the Mahant which is traditionally recognised. It merely implies that by virtue of his position and the limited character of his powers he may waste the property of the Math or utilise the property for personal enjoyment or luxury or for objects incongruous with his position or for purposes wholly unconnected with the Math; if he does so, he may by order of the Court be liable to be removed. Such a restriction on the power is in the interest of the general public, and cannot be said to be unreasonable. AIR 1919 P C 62, Rel. on.

The Mahant has to discharge the duties of a trustee qua the institution and is answerable as such. Having regard to the large powers which the Mahant has over the application of the funds, application of the funds for personal enjoyment or luxury by the Mathadhipathi or for purposes wholly unconnected with the institution, would alone be covered by the second part of S. 52 (1) (f). A I R 1956 Mad 491, Criticised. Sudhindra Thirtha Swamiar v. Commr. for Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments, Mysore, (1963) 2 S C A 340 : (1963) Supp 2 S C R 302 : A I R 1963 S C 966 (971, 972) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 11, 12).

●——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Disposal of property — Reasonable restrictions on—Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (Mad. Act 19 of 1951) (as amended by Mad. Act 27 of 1954), Ss. 52 (1) (g) and 55 (as in force in Madras area of the State of Mysore) — 'Pathakanika' — Meaning of—Different meaning of term as used in S. 52 (1) (g) and S. 55—Provision in S. 55 requiring Mahant to maintain accounts is not unreasonable.

In the context of S. 52 (1) (g), Pathakanika would mean personal gifts to the Mahant. If the Mahant resorts to devices to convert the income of the institution or of the funds or properties thereof into personal gifts made to him that would be improper conduct for which he would be liable to be removed in a suit under S. 52. But under S. 55 the Legislature has expressly restricted the meaning of the expression 'pathakanika' by using the words, that is to say, 'any gift of property made to him as the head of the math.'

Obligations imposed upon the Mahant to maintain regular accounts of the receipts of Pathakanikas of the character defined in S. 55 and to utilise the same in accordance with the customs and usages of the institution cannot be regarded as an unreasonable restriction upon the fundamental right of the Mahant. A Mahant being bound to discharge the duties of a trustee and being answerable as such, provision requiring him to maintain accounts of such pathakanikas would conduce to the effective exercise of the control over him and imposing an obligation to spend the same in accordance with the customs and usages of the institution is not inconsistent with his position as a Mahant even though he has a beneficial interest therein. Section 55 as amended will not apply to pathakanikas which are proved to be gifts personal to the Mahant. Sudhindra Thirtha Swamiar v. Commr. for Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments, Mysore, (1963) 2 S C A 340 : (1963) Supp (2) S C R 302 : A I R 1963 S C 966 (972, 973) (Pt D) (Prs 14, 15).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Ss. 2 (d) (v) and 14, Durgah Khawaja Saheb Act (1955)—Validity. AIR 1959 Raj 177, Reversed.

The effect of Ss. 2 (d) (v) and 14 of Act, 36 of 1955, is that when offerings are made earmarked generally for the Durgah they belong to the Durgah and such offerings can be received only by the Nazim or his agent and by nobody else. These offerings never belonged to the Khadims and they can therefore have no grievance against either S. 2 (d) (v) or S. 14. That is a matter concerning the property of the Durgah and it is open to the Legislature to regulate by providing that the said offerings can be solicited by the Nazim or his agent and by no one else. Even after the Act came into force pilgrims might and would make offerings to the Khadims and there is no provision in the Act which prevents them from accepting such offerings when made. Hence Ss. 2 (d) (v) and 14 do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and are valid. AIR 1959 Raj 177, Reversed. Durgah Committee, Ajmer v. Syed Hussain Ali, (1962) 1 S C R 383 : (1961) 2 S C A 171 : AIR 1961 S C 1402 (1417, 1419) (Pt E) (Prs 38, 45).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), Ss. 28 and 32—Validity.

Having regard to the position of a trustee as respects the trust property which he holds and the object or purpose of the Act, the restrictions imposed by Ss. 28 and 32 are really for the purpose of carrying out the objects of the trust and for better administration, protection and preservation of the trust properties; they are, therefore, reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public within the meaning of Cl. (5) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. Moti Das v. S. P. Sahi, (1959) 2 S C A 432 : ILR 38 Pat 639 : (1959) Supp (2) S C R 563 : 1959 S C J 1144 : AIR 1959 S C 942 (948, 949) (Pt E) (Pr 11).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—Bihar Waqfs Act (8 of 1948), S. 58—Validity of — Whether imposes unreasonable restriction on exercise of duties by Mutwalli. See Bihar Waqfs Act, 1947 (8 of 1948), S. 58. 1957 Cr L J 1023 : AIR 1957 S C 645.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 25 and 26 - Mutwalli can neither claim personal interest in waqf property nor claim to fall within definition of religious denomination or section thereof — Mutwalli cannot complain about violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) and neither Art. 25 nor Art. 26 can help him—U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (16 of 1960), Ss. 49, 50. A I R 1965 All 333 (343, 344) (Pt I) (Pr 49).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Right to hold property — Infringement of — S. 8 (1) (b) of U. P. Court of Wards Act, 1922 abridges the right of a ward under Art. 19 (1) (f) and as such is invalid. See U. P. Court of Wards Act (4 of 1912), S. 8 (1) (b). AIR 1954 All 608 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—U. P. Court of Wards Act (1912), S. 8 (1) (b)— Discrimination on ground of sex only—Provision infringes Arts. 14, 15 and 19 (1) (f), Constitution of India, and is void. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1952 All 746.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) – Custom binding villagers to allow plaintiff to take carcasses of dead animals runs counter to villagers' fundamental right of disposing of the carcasses as their property.

A custom of the village having the force of law and binding the villagers to allow the plaintiff to take the carcasses of animals dying in the village runs counter to the fundamental right of the villagers whose cattle die to dispose of the carcasses as their property to anybody. It also runs counter to the right of Chamars to carry on profession of taking carcasses of the cattle and utilise them for the purpose of any trade. The plaintiff's right to take the carcasses becomes unenforceable and void after the Constitution. A I R 1953 Hyd 1 (FB), Rel. on. 1962 M P L J (Notes) 115.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Restriction imposed by S. 87 of Madras Act (19 of 1951) — Validity – If reasonable.

The history of S. 87 of Madras Act (19 of 1951) shows that the restriction has been imposed in the general interests of the public and of the Hindu Religious Endowments which form such a large part of the economic and social life of the public in particular. Hence that section does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) read with Cl. (5) of that article. 1958 Cr L J 523 : (1957) M L J (Crl) 864 : 70 Mad L W 957 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 617 : A I R 1958 Mad 147 (148) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Arts. 19, 25, 26 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951)—Validity.

There is no violation of the guarantee under Arts. 19, 25 and 26 of the Constitution of India and Bihar Act, I of 1951, is a valid piece of legislation. AIR 1954 Pat 266, Foll. I L R 33 Pat 682 : AIR 1957 Pat 615 (616) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 25, 26—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 28 (2) (j)— Validity.

Section 28 (2) (j) of the Bihar Act (1 of 1951) has no bearing on the doctrine of cypres. It merely enacts in a statutory form the rule of English Chancery Courts that a trustee may with the sanction of the Court convert any property of the trust into another property if such conversion is for the benefit of the trust. The power conferred by S. 28 (2) (j) is also surrounded by ample safeguards. There is nothing unreasonable in the provision of S. 28 (2) (j) either from the substantive or procedural aspect. I L R 33 Pat 682 : A I R 1957 Pat 615 (616) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—Provisions of Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951) do not violate Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5). See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 59. AIR 1955 N U C (Pat) 5963.

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5)—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951)—Validity.

The Bihar Religious Trusts Act may be capable of improvement on certain points but if the provisions of the Act are examined as a whole the restrictions imposed upon the trustees are not unreasonable from procedural or substantive aspect, and there is no violation of the guarantee provided under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. 32 Pat 1148 : A I R 1954 Pat 266 (272) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Person in occupation of land and his name entered in revenue papers — Sub-divisional Officer cannot restrain person from cultivating or transferring same—He must take legal proceedings if he considers such person's title or possession illegal. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1964 Raj 75 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)—Provisions for State taking over management of collection of revenue are not void. See (Rajasthan) Ordinances (10 and 11 of 1949). 1952 Raj L W 81 : I L R (1951) 1 Raj 888 : AIR 1953 Raj 22 (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Right to free management of property — Restriction reasonable and in public interest.

The applicants were either grantees or lessees of immovable properties including patches of forests. On 27-6-1949 the Government passed an order whereby it was ordered that thereafter auction of Tendu leaf contracts would be unconditional and would cover not only Government forests but other areas. Proportionate compensation to private landholders was also provided for by the order. Thereupon the applicants applied for issue of a writ of mandamus restraining the Government and the Chief Conservator of Forests from interfering with their right to the free management of the property.

Held that the right of the applicants to the free management of the property was restricted only in a reasonable manner and that in the interests of the public and the restrictions imposed by the order were within the exception contained in Art. 19 (5). AIR 1952 Vin Pra 13 (16) (Pt E) (Prs 11, 12)

51 (a). Religious Endowments and Charitable Trusts Act.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)— Legislature taking over secular affairs of religious institution—Validity of Nathdwara Temple Act—Act does not contravene Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f), 31 (2), 25 or 26—Provisions of the Act except first part of S. 20 (2) (a) are valid. See Rajasthan Nathdwara Temple Act (13 of 1959), S. 2 (viii). A.I R 1963 S C 1638.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — Hindu religious endowments—Provisions as to registration—Hyderabad Endowments Regulations (1940), Ss. 3 to 11 — Provisions contained in Ss. 3 to 11 (except S. 4 (b)) and Rules framed for carrying out those provisions (except R. 25) not violative of Art. 19 (1) (f).

Provisions in the Hyderabad Endowments Regulations, 1940, as to the compilation of book of endowments contained in Ss. 3 to 11 (except S. 4 (b)) provide for registration of endowed property and for carrying out the objects of the Act, namely, that the intention of endower may be carried out and the duties of the trustee may be discharged conveniently and efficiently for the benefit of humanity. These Regulations are clearly reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public within the meaning of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution and are conceived with the purpose of having correct information as to the endowments existing in the State, so that their management may be carried out efficiently and for the benefit of humanity according to the terms of the endowments. These provisions therefore (except S. 4 (b)) as to the registration of endowments are not in any way ultra vires the fundamental right enshrined in Art. 19 (1) (f).

The validity of the Rules framed under the Regulations (except R. 25 and the rules consequential thereon on which also no opinion was expressed by the Supreme Court) to carry out the provisions of the Regulations relating to registration must also be upheld. Anant Prasad Lakshminiwas Ganeriwal v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (1964) 1 S C J 615 : (1964) 2 Mad L J (S C) 1 : (1964) 2 Andh W R (S C) 1 : (1963) Supp 1 S C R 844 : A I R 1963 S C 853 (870) (Pt D) (Prs 17, 18).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Interference with right of bare management of educational institution — No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g).

Interference by State Government by an executive order with the right of bare management of an educational institution does not amount to infringement of the right to property under Art. 19 (1) (f).

The word 'property' in Art. 19 (1) (f) must doubtless be extended to all those recognised types of interest which have the insignia or characteristics of proprietary rights, but it cannot be said that the Society maintaining the educational institution has any such rights vested in it.

Nor is the right of the society guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) infringed by the executive action. A I R 1954 S C 282 and AIR 1959 S C 249, Disting. Rev. Sidhrajbhai Sabbaj v. State of Gujarat, (1963) 2 S C A 394 : 1962 Ker L T (S C) 135 : (1963) 3 S C R 837 : AIR 1963 S C 540 (544) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (2 of 1952) (as amended in 1954), Ss. 42 (1) (b), (7), 44 (2), 74 (3) — Validity.

The effect of Ss. 42 (1) (b), (7) and 44 (2) is (1) that a scheme can be framed by the Commissioner alone on a report of the Assistant Commissioner on such enquiry as he thinks fit, (2) that there is no right of suit for challenging the validity or the correctness of the scheme framed by the Commissioner, but there is only an appeal to the High Court direct. The enquiry under the present Act is by itself in the nature of a judicial enquiry by judicial officers followed up by a right of regular appeal to the High Court. A scheme framed with reference to such a procedure cannot ipso facto be pronounced to be in the nature of an unreasonable restriction on the rights of the Mahant. The right of appeal is given in very wide and general terms. The present provisions cannot therefore be struck down as being in the nature of unreasonable restriction on the rights of the Mahant. The incidental provisions regarding limitation in S. 44 (2) and stay in S. 74 (3) do not in any way detract from the reasonableness of the main provisions. Therefore, the provisions in the present Act of 1952, as amended in 1954, relating to the framing of schemes are not open to any of the constitutional objections, and are valid. Sadasiv Prakash Brahmachari, Trustee of Mahiparakash Math v. State of Orissa, 1956 S C C 478 : 1956 S C R 43 : 1956 S C A 794 : 22 Cut L T 235 : 1956 S C J 397 : A I R 1956 S C 432 (437, 438, 439) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6, 7).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (2 of 1952) as amended in 1954, S. 79-A — Validity.

It is true that in the present Act the procedure relating to the scheme has four steps which are as follows :— (1) The scheme is to be framed by a Commissioner, who is, by appointment, a judicial officer. (2) The procedure is, as far as may be, the same as that in the trial of suits. (3) There is a preliminary enquiry by the Assistant Commissioner. (4) There is an appeal to the High Court. Out of these four, the substantial item is the last one and that has been specifically provided for under S. 79-A and a period of sixty days from the date of the commencement of the Act has been provided for the right of appeal. The deeming provision under S. 79-A which treats the previous schemes as framed under the present Act does not result in bringing about any substantial disadvantages to the detriment of the Mahants. Section 79-A of the present Act is not open to any constitutional objection. Sadasiva Prakash Brahmachari, Trustee of Mahiparakash Math v. State of Orissa, 1956 S C J 397 : 22 Cut L T 235 : 1956 S C C 478 : 1956 S C A 794 : 1956 S C R 43 : AIR 1956 S C 432 (440) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 10).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Mahant of Math — His rights and duties — Restrictions on Mahant — (Hindu Law Religious Endowment).

The beneficial interest which a Mahant enjoys is appurtenant to his duties and as he is in charge of a public institution, reasonable restrictions can always be placed upon his rights in the interest of the public. But the restrictions would cease to be reasonable if they are calculated to make him unfit to discharge the duties which he is called upon to discharge. A Mahant's duty is not simply to manage the temporalities of a Math. He is the head and superior of spiritual fraternity and the purpose of Math is to encourage and foster spiritual training by maintenance of a competent line of teachers who could impart religious instructions, to the disciples and followers of the Math and try to strengthen the doctrines of the particular school or order, of which they profess to be adherents. This purpose cannot be served if the restrictions are such as would bring the mathadhipathi down to the level of a servant under a State department. It is from this standpoint that the reasonableness of the restrictions should be judged. Commr. of H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 1954 Mad W N 363 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (288, 289) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 25 and 26 — U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (1960), S. 55 — Validity—Duties of Mutwalli are purely secular in character and not comparable with rights of Mahant — Validity cannot be challenged under Arts. 19 (1) (f), 25 or 26 — Muslim Law -Waqf — Rights of Mutwalli - U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (16 of 1960), S. 55 –AIR 1954 S C 282, AIR 1954 S C 388, Disting.; A I R 1963 S C 985 and A I R 1963 S C 1638, Foll. A I R 1965 All 333 (342) (Pt F) (Prs 41, 42, 43).

——Art. 19 —Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 5 — Mahant of religious institution — Appointment under sanad—Claim of Mahant to hereditary trusteeship unenable — Scheme under S. 92, Civil P. C. — Its liability to be changed—Extinction of Mahant's right under Madras Act 19 of 1933 and before coming into force of Constitution — Effect — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 92). See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act, 1951 (Madras Act 19 of 1951), S. 5. A I R 1959 Andh Pra 471.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Scope of—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 45 and 46 — If unreasonable restriction on hereditary trustee holding properties — Distinction between trustees of a Temple and a Muth.

A temple trustee has only duties while the trustee of a math has both duties and rights. Although a Mahant of a Math enjoys a beneficial interest in the properties belonging to the institution being a trustee in charge of a public institution, a Mathadhipathi can be subjected to restrictions placed upon his rights in the public interest. Thus the Legislature would be right in dealing with persons falling in each of these categories on a different footing. As such what may be considered unreasonable in the case of a Mathadhipathi may well be considered reasonable in the case of a mere trustee.

The power vested in the Commissioner under Ss. 45 and 46 of the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act, is a reasonable restriction within the meaning of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. (1954) S C J 329 ; (1954) 1 M L J 591, Disting. (1958) 1 Andh W R 470 : 1958 Andh L T 143 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 319 (321, 322) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Scope — Appointment of executive officer to religious endowment — Whether abridgement of right of hereditary trustee.

It is an invariable rule that any provision for the appointment of an Executive Officer of a Religious Endowment is inconsistent with or repugnant to the principles enshrined in Art. 19 (1) (f). But it is only when in effect the hereditary trustee is reduced to a non-entity that it would amount to such an abridgement Where the affairs of the temple were utterly neglected by the trustee and he had even supported the claim of the archakas to be in exclusive enjoyment of the properties of the institution, and the trustee lived far away from the institution and rarely visited the temple, it cannot be said that the appointment of an Executive Officer was not warranted by the circumstances of the case and the condition in which the temple was at the relevant date. (1957) 1 Andh W R 228 : A I R 1957 Andh Pra 373 (375) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 25, 26 — Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 52 — Validity.

Section 52 of the Madras Act, when interpreted in the context of the rights guaranteed to Mathadhipati, is not unreasonable and unconstitutional. A I R 1956 Mad 491, Foll. The provisions of S. 52 of the Act are analogous to those contained in S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In giving his consent under S. 52, the Commissioner is not expected to decide the rights of the contending parties. What he has to see before giving his sanction for the filing of a suit is merely whether there is a prima facie case that should be allowed to go to a Court of law.

The provisions of S. 52 of the Act are really made for safeguarding the interests of the trustee. They impose a restriction on the ordinary right of a litigant to institute a suit in a Civil Court by making the sanction of the Commissioner a pre-condition for filing a suit. For this reason it must be held that the provision does not amount to a restriction on the rights of Mathadhipatis. A I R 1954 S C 321, Rel. on. 1957 Andh L T 34 : (1957) 1 Andh W R 350 : A I R 1957 Andh Pra 283 (284, 285) (Pt A) (Prs 15, 18).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scheme under Madras Act 19 of 1951 — Abridgement of rights of hereditary trustees —Validity—Provision for appointment of manager — Effect of. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 52 (2) (b). 1958 Ker L T 1095.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 64 (4) and 103 (c) — Pre-Constitution notification invading fundamental rights to properties—Agreement for its continuance till Act in force — Effect — Renewal of old notification by Notification G. O. No. 3069 (Rev.), dated 4-8-1956, under S. 64 (4) — Protection under Constitution—When open—Notification G. O. No. 3069 held valid.

A pre-Constitution notification invading the fundamental rights was the subject-matter of a subsequent agreement entered into between the Government and the Manager of an endowment on the basis that it should subsist so long as Act was in force; the effect of it was that the Manager on his part voluntarily surrendered some of rights. On the date when the Constitution came into force these rights were not subsisting with the Manager so as to enable him to claim protection therefor. The Constitution protects rights of property that existed at the time when it came into being, but it does not have the effect of resurrecting lost rights.

Where, therefore, a notification was continued under S. 103 (c) of the Act (19 of 1951) and it was renewed under S. 64 (4) of the Act :

Held, that the notification was made prior to the Constitution at a time when it was competent for the authority to do so; the G. O. No. 3069 (Rev.), dated 4-8-1956 could not be invalidated on the ground of its infringing rights of property owned by the trustee on the date of the Constitution. ILR (1962) Mad 449: (1962) 2 Mad L J 67 : 75 Mad L W 546 : 1961 Mad W N 775.

[Reversed in A I R 1965 S C 1578.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 41 — Constitutional validity. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1958 Mad 275.

——Arts. 19, 13, 25 and 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 31 (as amended by Act 27 of 1954) — Unreasonable restrictions on rights of Mathadhipathi in respect of disposal of income — Section 31 is invalid. See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1956 Mad 491.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 226 — Property — Hereditary trusteeship is property — Scheme taking away right to management of temple and its properties—There is infringement of right under Art. 19 (1) (f)—Scheme forming one integrated whole — Whole scheme set aside. See Ibid Art. 226. A I R 1955 Mad 120.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Jagannath Temple Act (11 of 1954), S. 21 (2) — Validity of — Powers conferred on Administrator — If contravene Art 19 (1) (f). No infraction from right of property. See Shri Jagannath Temple Act (11 of 1954), S. 21 (2) (e). A I R 1959 Orissa 17 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (5) and 19 (1) (f) — (Orissa) Puri Shri Jagannatha Temple (Administration) Act (14 of 1952), S. 2 (a), Expl.—Private religious endowments to sevaks or Pandas — Control of, by S. 15 (5) of Orissa Act 11 of 1954 Validity — Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) or 31 (2). See (Orissa) Puri Shri Jagannath Temple (Administration) Act (14 of 1952), S. 2 (9), Expl. A I R 1959 Orissa 17.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act, 1950 (I of 1951), S. 48—Validity.

The authority empowered under section 48 of the Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act for removing the trustee or for appointing a new trustee of a religious trust is an officer of high judicial rank, i. e., District Judge and the mere fact that no right of appeal is provided against his decision to any higher judicial authority is not a circumstance for holding that there is an unreasonable restriction on the right of the trustee of a religious trust guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. The power of removing a trustee conferred by S. 48 (1) is not an unrestricted and unfettered, power. The provisions of S. 48 do not impose unreasonable restrictions on the fundamental right of property guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and the provisions are constitutionally valid and operative. AIR 1954 S C 400 and A I R 1958 Pat 442, Dist. 1959 Pat L R 277 : 1959 B L J R 749 : I L R 39 Pat 221 : AIR 1960 Pat 148 (149, 150) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Arts. 19, 25, 26 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 60 (2)—Validity.

The power granted to the Board under S. 60 (2) of the Bihar Act of 1951, is not an uncontrolled or arbitrary power but it is subject to the overriding condition that the power must be exercised in accordance with the wishes of the founder or in accordance with the provisions of the Act. ILR 33 Pat 682 : AIR 1957 Pat 615 (617) (Pt E) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (f) — Provisions of Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951) do not violate Articles 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5). See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 59. AIR 1955 N U C (Pat) 5963.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Validity of Bihar Act 1 of 1951 —Does not violate Art. 19 (1) (f). See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951). A I R 1954 Pat 279 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Constitutional guarantee under—Not violated by Bihar Act 1 of 1951. See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951). A I R 1954 Pat 278 (DB).

——Arts. 19, 13—Bihar Wakf (Amendment) Act (33 of 1950), S. 2—The Amending Act is not a law which directly affects the fundamental rights of the mutawalli. See Bihar Wakf (Amendment) Act (33 of 1950), S. 2. AIR 1953 Pat 32 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Legislation taking over administration of secular affairs of religious institution—Validity—Nathdwara Temple Act (13 of 1959), Ss. 2 (viii), 16, 28 (2) and (3) 30 (2) (a), 36 and 37—Provisions ultra vires the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Raj 196 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)- Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act (1955), S. 2 (d)—Validity.

Section 2 (d) (v) Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act is hit by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution so far as it includes in the definition of Durgah endowment nazars or offerings made at the tomb which the Khadims are entitled to share by custom and usage. 1959 Raj L W 496 : ILR (1959) 9 Raj 424 : AIR 1959 Raj 177 (189, 191) (Pt D) (Prs 61, 76) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1402.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act (1955), S. 14—Validity.

Section 14 of the Act is hit by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution so far as it empowers the Nazim to solicit and receive offerings at the tomb or in dome, to which the Khadims are entitled by custom and usage, notwithstanding anything contained in any rule of law or decision to the contrary. I L R (1959) 9 Raj 424: 1959 Raj L W 496: AIR 1959 Raj 177 (191) (Pt J) (Pr 76) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1402.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), (g), 14, 15 (1) and 26—Travancore Cochin Hindu Religious Institutions Act (15 of 1950), Ss. 63 and 64—Restrictions imposed by Ss. 63 and 64 in choosing members of Cochin Devaswom Board—Cochin Devaswam Board do not violate the provisions of any of the Articles 14, 15 (1), 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 26. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1956 Trav-Co 19.

● —Art. 19 (1) (f)—Hereditary trustee of a temple—His rights as Ooralan constitute property.

Where the plaintiff is a hereditary trustee of a temple his rights as an Ooralan constitute property within the meaning of Art. 19(1)(f) of the Constitution. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 515 (FB) and AIR 1954 Mad 385, Foll. P. M. Bramadathan Nambooripad v. Cochin Devaswom Board, 1955 Ker L T 516 : ILR (1955) T C 741 : A I R 1956 Trav-Co 19 (21) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (FB).

● —Arts. 19, 26 and 254 — Scope—Travancore-Cochin Hindu Religious Institutions Act (15 of 1950), S. 66 (vi)—Section 66 of the Act does not offend Arts. 19, 26 and 254 of the Constitution. P. M. Bramadathan Nambooripad v. Cochin Devaswom Board, 1955 Ker L T 516: ILR (1955) T·C 741: AIR 1956 Trav-Co 19 (23) (Pt I) (Pr 18) (FB).

● - Art 19 (1) (f) - Travancore-Cochin Hindu Religious Institutions Act (15 of 1950), ss. 79, 81, 83, 84 and 86—Provisions contained in these sections are intra vires.

No large inroads into the proprietary rights of a hereditary trustee as to violate Article 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution have been made by Ss 70, 81 83, 84 and 86 of the Travancore-Cochin Hindu Religious Institutions Act, 1950 The provisions contained in these sections are only regulatory in character. Hence these sections are intra vires of the Constitution. P. M. Bramadathan Nambooripad v. Cochin Devaswom Board, 1955 Ker L T 516 : I L R (1955) T C 741 : AIR 1956 Trav-Co 19 (25) (Pt K) (Pr 23) (FB).

● —Art. 19 (1) (f)—Property—Hereditary trusteeship.

The hereditary trusteeship of the Malabar temple constitutes a right in property and is within the protection afforded by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. AIR 954 Mad 385, Rel. on. Kumaran Nambudiri v. Cochin Devaswom Board 1954 Ker L T 551 : A I R 1954 Trav-Co 515 (517) (Pt B) (Pr 4) FB).

51 (b). Court of Wards Acts.

● —Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) and 31-A—Applicability.

Taking over by Court of Wards of estate of person "disqualified to manage his estate" under Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act (42 of 1950), S. 112. See Tenancy Laws — Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act (42 of 1950), S. 112. AIR 1953 S C 373.

—Arts. 19 (1) (f), 291, 362, 363, Sch. 7, List I, Entry 34, List 2, Entry 22 — C. P. Court of Wards Act (24 of 1899) (as modified by Adaptation of Laws Order, 1950), S. 41 — Estates of Rulers of Indian States — Act in so far as it provides for assuming superintendence of such estates does not contravene Arts. 291, 362 and 363. See Ibid, Art. 291. AIR 1961 Madh Pra 197.

—Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31, 31-A—Taking away right of management of property — Pepsu Court of Wards Act (1 of 2008-B. K.), Ss. 5 (2) (d), 16 — Constitutionality.

The law enacted in S. 5 (2) (d), Pepsu Court of Wards Act, 2008 B K., is not saved by Art 19 (5) or by Art. 31-A of the Constitution. It manifestly infringes the fundamental rights of the landholders guaranteed by Art 19 (1) (f) and therefore is void to that extent. AIR 1954 Punj 247 and AIR 1953 Punj 30, Dissent. from. The impugned legislation enables the Government to deprive a landholder of his property for an indefinite period of time merely on the subjective determination and as such takes away his fundamental rights without leaving any remedy to him. The impugned provision also offends against the provisions of Art 31 (1) and is therefore unconstitutional on that ground also. Taking possession of the property of an individual for indefinite period is manifestly unreasonable and undoubtedly overstep the limits of police power.

Section 16 of the Act is also unconstitutional as it imposes unreasonable restrictions on the rights of the landholders to dispose of their property. Even after the disqualification of the landholder is removed he still remains incompetent to dispose of his property as contemplated by Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1957 Pepsu 5 (8, 11, 13) (Pt A) Prs 13, 21, 22, 26, 27) (DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 15—Legislation for taking over management of estate on sole subjective satisfaction of Government or its officer — Discrimination against female on ground of sex — Validity - Pepsu Court of Wards Act (1 of 2008 B. K.), S. 5 (2) — Ultra vires Arts. 15 and 19 (1) (f) of Constitution AIR 1953 Punj 30 and AIR 1954 Punj 247, Overruled. See Ibid, Art 15. AIR 1963 Punj 9 (FB).

——Art. 19 –Punjab Court of Wards Act (2 of 1903), S. 5 (2) (d) - Reasonable restrictions—S. 5 (2) (d) is not invalid — (Punjab Court of Wards Act (2 of 1903), S. 5 (2) (d)).

The restrictions imposed by S. 5 (2) (d) of the Punjab Court of Wards Act are neither arbitrary nor capricious. In so far as they are designed to secure that well-to-do landholders should not be allowed to dissipate their property by entering upon a course of wasteful extravagance, the restrictions must be deemed to be in the public interest. AIR 1940 P C 82; (1940) 2 Mad L J 205: AIR 1953 Punj 30, Rel. on. 56 Punj L R 403 : ILR (1955) Punj 331 : AIR 1954 Punj 247 (250) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9.]

——Art. 19 — Punjab Court of Wards Act (2 of 1903), S. 5 (2) (d) — Reasonable restriction—Subjective consideration—Validity of provision.

The contention that S. 5 (2) (d) of the Punjab Court of Wards Act, 1903 is void and of no effect as it empowers the Government to assume superintendence of the property of a landholder in its own discretion and on its own subjective determination, cannot bear any scrutiny. The Punjab Act of 1903 has provided an adequate machinery for ascertaining whether the requirements of S. 5 (2) have or have not been complied with by imposing certain obligations on the Deputy Commissioner under S. 11. And if the Deputy Commissioner makes the appropriate enquiry and if Government makes an order on the basis of this enquiry it cannot be said that the Court of Wards has assumed superintendence of the estate of a landholder in its own discretion and on its own subjective determination. AIR 1953 S C 373, Disting.

Further, the restrictions imposed by S. 5 (2) (d) on the landlord whose property is brought under the superintendence of the Court of Wards cannot be regarded as penal ILR (1955) Punj 331 : 56 Punj L R 403 : AIR 1954 Punj 247 (250) (Pt D) (Prs 11, 12) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (6) — Reasonable restrictions — Punjab Court of Wards Act (2 of 1903), Ss. 13, 15, 17 and 25.

If for the purposes of protection of the revenues of the State and for seeing that there is no discontentment amongst the tenants, laws of the kind such as Punjab Court of Wards Act are passed by the Government, it cannot be said that they are unreasonable interference with the fundamental rights of persons. (1950) S C R 869, Foll. 55 Punj L R 279 : ILR (1953) Punj 279 : AIR 1953 Punj 30 (38) (Pt F) (Pr 50)(DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1963 Punj 9.]

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Restrictions on fundamental rights — Reasonableness. See Rajasthan Court of

Wards Act (1951), S. 8 (1) (c) (ii), (iii) and (iv). AIR 1954 Raj 131 (FB).

●——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Rajasthan Court of Wards Act (1951), S. 9 (1) — Validity. See Rajasthan Court of Wards Act (28 of 1951), S. 9 (1). AIR 1954 Raj 131 (FB).

52. Control of accommodation and rents.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)— Requisition of house — Application under Art. 226 may lie on ground of infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f). See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1952 All 836 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (5), 31 — Landlord served with notice under municipal law to pull down building - Tenants challenging validity of municipal law under Art. 19 (1) (f) — Applicability of Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 — (Bombay Municipal Corporation Act (3 of 1888), Ss. 354, 66 (1) (c) — Constitutional validity of S. 354) — Section not open to challenge in view of Art. 19 (5). 60 Bom L R 515 : I L R (1958) Bom 824 : AIR 1959 Bom 332 (337, 338, 341, 342) (Pt B) (Prs 16, 17, 18, 30) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Requisitioning of premises for Government servant — No choice of accommodation — Public purpose — Necessity of — Doctrine of Eminent domain. See Houses and Rents—West Bengal Premises Requisition and Control (Temporary provisions) Act (5 of 1947), S. 3 (1). ('61) 65 Cal W N 794.

●——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) —Correlation public purpose, meaning of — Requisition of godown for storing Government foodgrains collected for distribution in deficit areas — No profit motive requisition is for public purpose — Proper approach by Courts in such cases. See Ibid, Art. 31 (2). AIR 1962 Madh Pra 146 (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) and Sch. VII, List II, Item 36—Public purpose — Requisition of house for housing Government servant — Taking possession—Possession taken under S. 3 (3) of Madras Act (25 of 1949)—Exclusion of Art. 19 by Art. 31.

The difficulty to place a right infringed under one or other of Art. 19 or 31 is often a difficult one. The following three principles may be borne in mind in approaching the question. The general provision must give place to the specific provision, the pith and substance or the directness of the legislation, and whether the right sought to be protected under Article 19 has been taken away by legislation under another appropriate article.

The requisition of a house for housing a Government servant is a public purpose, for the interests of the Government and that of the public would necessarily suffer if their officers are not properly housed.

It is not correct to say that Art. 31 deals only with total deprivation of property. Article 31 (2) deals with acquisition and taking possession. Acquisition means actual transference of property whereas taking possession of property need not imply a total deprivation of the ownership of property. The title to the property may continue in the owner but he may be dispossessed for a public purpose. Item 36 of List II provides both for acquisition and requisition of property. Therefore requisition of property, which does not involve a total deprivation of the property from the owner, does come within the meaning of Art. 31. Therefore it cannot be contended that the Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (1949) does not deal with the subject-matter covered by Art. 31 of the Constitution of India. Section 3 (3) specifically enables the Government or the authorised officer to require any building for the purpose of the State. They can take possession of the same subject to the terms prescribed thereunder. The taking of possession under S. 3 (3) is certainly covered by the words "taken possession of" in Art. 31 (2). The subject-matter directly comes under Art. 31 which being a special article, excludes the operation of the general article, Art. 19. Hence, where a building is taken possession of under the Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act, the landlord is not protected by the provisions of Art. 19, for Art. 19 (1) (f) can be invoked only if he is legally entitled to use his property. (1952) 2 M L J 761 : 65 Mad L W 1138 : 1952 Mad W N 650 : AIR 1953 Mad 252 (255, 256) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 9, 10, 11, 12).

Bengal Government Premises (Eviction) Act (27 of 1950).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Reasonable restrictions —Act 27 of 1950 — Act is ultra vires. See Houses and Rents —Bengal Government Premises (Eviction) Act (27 of 1950). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 4499.

Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5)— Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947)—Validity —(Houses and Rents— Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947), Ss. 11, 16, 18, 18-B).

There is no violation of the guarantee under Article 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution so far as the tenants are concerned, and the object of the impugned Act is the protection of tenants by regulating the rent of the building and preventing unreasonable eviction. Assuming, however, that the Act violates the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (f) the restrictions imposed are reasonable. Section 11 (2) of the Act must be interpreted to mean that the Controller should be reasonably satisfied that the tenant is liable to be evicted under the provisions of sub-s. (1) before he makes the actual order of eviction, and the satisfaction contemplated in S. 11 (2) is not a subjective but an objective satisfaction liable to be tested by the appellate authority under S. 18 and by the Commissioner in revision under S. 18-B. The procedure prescribed is not unreasonable within the meaning of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. The considerations that the jurisdiction of the civil Court is barred, and the decision of the House Controller is not justiciable in a regular Court of law are not decisive on the question whether the restriction, from the procedural point of view, is reasonable within the meaning of Art. 19 (5). Case-law, discussed. 1953 B L J R 593 : AIR 1954 Pat 211 (212, 213, 215) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 9) (DB).

Bombay Rents, Hotel and Lodging House Rates Control Act (57 of 1947).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), (6), 13—Bombay Rents, Hotel and Lodging House Rates Control Act (57 of 1947), S. 13 (1) (g), Explanation (a) is valid. See Houses and Rents — Bombay Rents, Hotel and Lodging House Rates Control Act (57 of 1947), S. 13 (1) (g). AIR 1953 Bom 174.

Government Premises Eviction Act (27 of 1950).

——Art. 19 (5)—Scope—Government Premises Eviction Act (1950)—Validity of — Act held unreasonable. See Houses and Rents—Government Premises Eviction Act (1950), S. 2 (a). AIR 1958 Punj 1 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Government Premises Eviction Act—Validity—Act held ultra vires. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1959 Tripura 21.

Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (16 of 1959).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Validity of Act — Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 of Constitution are not offended. See Houses and Rents—Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (16 of 1959), S. 4 (3). 1960 Ker L T 456.

Madhya Bharat Accommodation Control Act (3 of 1955).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Scope — S. 4 (h) of M. B Accommodation Act — If invalid. See Houses and Rents -M. B. Accommodation Control Act (3 of 1955), S. 4 (h). 1957 M P L J (Notes) 179.

Madhya Bharat Public Premises Eviction and Recovery of Rent Act (27 of 1951).

——Art. 19—Madhya Bharat Public Premises Eviction and Recovery of Rent Act (27 of 1951), S. 3—Validity—Section does not contravene, Art. 19.

The legislature has, on the whole, provided suitable precautions against the possibility of mistake or abuse of power in the very vast majority of cases that might arise. Theoretical considerations do show that there is a risk of injustice in a rare case; but this being a matter of urgency, the legislature has chosen to put up with the risk in the interest of prompt disposal and the best utilization of the premises in charge of Government. It is not for the Courts to impose standards of unrealizable perfection in ignorance of the time element and thereby defeat the purpose of the legislation. Section 3 cannot be held to be unreasonable. The Act as a whole, and S. 3 in particular, is not repugnant to Article 19 (1) (f) and (5) of the Constitution. 1961 M P L J 1228 : 1961 Jab L J 256 : ILR (1962) Madh-Pra 57.

Madhya Pradesh Accommodation Control Act (23 of 1951).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — M. P. Act 23 of 1915 — Reasonability, of restriction—Right of tenant is not fundamental but statutory — No unreasonability in tenants paying rent — Term reasonable with reference to Art. 19—Explained -Duty of legislature. See Houses and Rents—M. P. Accommodation Control Act (23 of 1951), S. 5 (1). 1961 Jab L J 744.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Houses and Rents—M. P. Accommodation Control Act (1955), S. 5 (2) and Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f)—S. 5 (2) is not ultra vires. See Houses and Rents — M. P. Accommodation Control Act (23 of 1955), S. 5 (2). (1961) M P L J (Notes) 293.

Madhya Pradesh Accommodation (Requisition) Act (63 of 1948).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Madhya Pradesh Accommodation (Requisition) Act (63 of 1948), S. 3 (1)—Non-mention of reasons in order for requisitioning accommodation does not make order invalid on ground that it infringes Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution — Requisitioned accommodation need not necessarily be occupied by officer for whom it is requisitioned—Holding of enquiry as to public purpose before accommodation is requisitioned, not contemplated by section. See Madhya Pradesh Accommodation (Requisition) Act (63 of 1948), S. 3 (1). 1964 Jab L J 652.

Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (15 of 1946).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Control of accommodation and rents — Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (15 of 1946)—Validity.

The Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act is 'intra vires' of the Constitution of India.

The various Acts, etc., relating to the control of accommodation in urban areas which are in force in different States in India are all instances of legislation affecting more or less the right to hold and dispose of property under Cl. (1) (f) of Art. 19 of the Constitution of India. But such provisions are obviously necessary in public interest in times of shortage of houses. Hence, in so far as such restrictions are not unreasonable they will be upheld by the Court as being valid. AIR 1955 Mad 350 (359) (Pt E) (Pr 31).

Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Scope—Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 3 (3)—Validity of—Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f). (1957) 1 M L J 161.

——Arts. 19, 14—Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 13—House in occupation of tenant—Government exempting house from operation of Act under S. 13 — No fundamental right of lessee is violated—It cannot be said that S. 13 of the Act imposes unreasonable restrictions on the right of the lessee to use the premises as a lessee. See Houses and Rents—Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 13. AIR 1953 Mad 351.

——Arts. 19 (1) (b) and 31 (2)—Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (1949), S. 3 (8) (as amended by Madras Act, 8 of 1951)—Section does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution. See Houses and Rents—Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 3 (8). AIR 1953 Mad 257.

——Art. 19 — Fundamental rights—Not offended by requisitioning of house under Madras Act 25 of 1949. See Houses and Rents — Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949). AIR 1953 Mad 252.

Mysore House Rent and Accommodation Control Act (30 of 1951).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5)—S. 3 (3) (a) of Mysore House Rent and Accommodation Control Act, 1951—Validity—Does not impose unreasonable restriction on fundamental right to property—Does not violate Art. 14 of Constitution. See Houses and Rents—Mysore House Rent and Accommodation Control Act (30 of 1951), S. 3 (3) (a). AIR 1961 S C 1523.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Mysore House Rent and Accommodation Control Act (1951), S. 20 — Government Notification No. 797, D/- 2-11-1951—Constitutionality —Section and the Notification do not offend Art. 19 (1) (f) — Valid restrictions. See Houses and Rents—Mysore House Rent and Accommodation Control Act (30 of 1951), S. 20. AIR 1955 Mys 121.

Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act (32 of 1958).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act — Validity — Does not violate Art. 19 (1) (f). See Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act (32 of 1958), S. 4. AIR 1961 Punj 98 (DB).

Punjab Public Premises and Land (Eviction and Rent Recovery) Act (31 of 1959).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 14 —Punjab Public Premises and Land (Eviction and Rent Recovery) Act (31 of 1959)—Validity—Does not contravene Art. 14 or 19 (1) (f)—Provisions of Act are not violative of principles of natural justice. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1963 Punj 290 (FB).

Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act, S. 3—Validity.

Section 3 of the Urban Rent Restriction Act confers powers to make an exemption on the State Government which is very different from conferring powers on an executive official. The State Government does not consist of one individual and whatever decisions are taken by the Government they cannot be regarded as exercise of discretion in the same manner as it can be exercised by the District Magistrate or a competent Officer under the Government Premises (Eviction) Act. The provisions contained in S. 3 of the Urban

Rent Restriction Act are perfectly valid. AIR 1958 Punj 1 and AIR 1956 All 507, Dist. AIR 1960 Punj 172 (173, 174) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

Rajasthan Premises (Requisition and Eviction) Ordinance (11 of 1949).

——Art. 19 — Rajasthan Premises (Requisition and Eviction) Ordinance (11 of 1949), S. 1 — Validity of ordinance—Contravention of Art 19 (1) (f) of Constitution — The ordinance is valid, because it only places reasonable restrictions on the right to acquire, hold or dispose of property in the interests of the general public. 1952 Raj L W 71: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 853 : AIR 1952 Raj 137 (138) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), S. 3—Validity—Provisions do not violate Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 of the Constitution. See Houses and Rents — U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), S. 3. AIR 1963 All 592 (DB).

U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947).

——Art. 19 — Tenant of shop, karta of joint Hindu family carrying on business in shop, dying leaving no relations except brothers (one being plaintiff)—Landlord (defendant) obtaining release order under R. 6 of Rent Control and Eviction Rules and getting plaintiff summarily ejected — Suit by plaintiff for recovery of possession held maintainable under S. 9, Specific Relief Act—Release order held illegal—Order of release —Nature of—Exercise of power under S. 7-A—Scope —Words 'any person' in S. 7—Meaning of—Interpretation of S. 7—Direction to landlord not to let accommodation to anyone is hit by Art. 19 of the Constitution. See Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7. (1963) All W R (H C) 415.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — U. P. Act 3 of 1947, S. 3 (1) — Permission need not necessarily be given in every case of genuine requirement. See Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 3 (1). 1961 All L J 32.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Proviso to S. 7-B (7), U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act, S. 78 (7)—If inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (f)—Sub-ss. (3) and (7) of S. 7-B are not unreasonable. See Houses and Rents — U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7-B (7), Proviso. AIR 1957 All 305.

——Arts. 19, 14—Rent Control laws—Section 7-B (7), Proviso, U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947) Validity. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1956 All 100.

——Art. 19 (1)(f)—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947)—Validity—Not inconsistent with provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f). See Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 1. AIR 1953 All 543 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7 (1) (a) — Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f). See Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7 (1) (a). AIR 1953 All 51.

●——Art. 19 (1) (f)—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7—Order under, allotting premises to third person instead of landlord —Order does not impose any unreasonable restriction on rights of landlord under Art. 19 (1) (f). See U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S 7. AIR 1952 All 703 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947) (as amended in 1948), S. 3 - Validity—Unfettered discretion given to District Magistrate to grant permission for eviction suit does not render S. 3 bad. See Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947) (as amended in 1948), S. 3. AIR 1952 All 699 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 13—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 1—Validity of Act. See Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 1. AIR 1952 All 697 (DB).

U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Rules (1949).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Rules (1949), Rr. 6, 7 -Object of —Operate as reasonable restrictions on wide powers conferred by S. 7—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7 (2). See Houses and Rents — U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Rules (1949), R. 6. AIR 1959 All 675 (DB).

West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (17 of 1950).

●——Art. 19 (5) — "In the interests of the general public" does not mean public of whole of Republic of India — It means nothing more than "in the public interest" — Legislation affecting a limited class of persons or limited area might well be legislation in public interest — S. 18 (1) of West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act, are not unreasonable in the interest of the general public, though the provisions apply to comparatively small class of persons. Iswari Prosad v. N. R. Sen, 55 Cal W N 719: AIR 1952 Cal 273 (278) (Pt E) (Pr 33) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 148.]

53. Tenancy laws.

Ajmer Land and Revenue Regulation (2 of 1877).

——Art 19 (1) (f)—Repeal of Ajmer Land and Revenue Regulation by Rajasthan Revenue Laws (Extension) Act, 1957 (2 of 1958) — Right under S. 29 acquired before repeal — Right held was saved under S. 9 (4) of Rajasthan Act — Provision under S 29 becoming void after coming into force of the Constitution—Effect—C. P. Code (1908), Ss 50, 52 -Constitution of India, Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (f). See Tenancy Laws—Ajmer Land and Revenue Regulation (1877), S. 29. 1963 Raj L W 466.

Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act (42 of 1950).

●——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act (42 of 1950), S. 112 -Validity. See Tenancy Laws — Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act (42 of 1950), S. 112. AIR 1953 SC 373.

Andhra Inams (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act (37 of 1956).

——Arts. 19, 14 and 245 — Andhra Inams (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act (37 of 1956), S. 17 —Rules under. R. 18—Validity—Rule granting power to issue injunctions to prevent eviction of tenants entitled to protection — Rule whether made beyond rule-making power of Government—Rule whether hit by Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution or void as illegal delegation of legislative power. See Tenancy Laws—Andhra Inams (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act (37 of 1956), S. 17. A I R 1962 Andh Pra 220.

Assam Fixation of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act (1 of 1957).

● —Art. 19 — Assam Fixation of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act (1 of 1957) — Act falls within the protection of Art. 31-A of the Constitution – It is also not a colourable piece of legislation — Hence it is constitutionally valid. See Tenancy Laws—Assam Fixation of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act (1 of 1957). AIR 1962 S C 137.

Barahiya Tal Land (Declaration of Possession) Act (26 of 1950).

——Art. 19 — Barahiya Tal Land (Declaration of Possession) Act (26 of 1950), Ss. 2, 3 — Validity of — sections are "ultra vires" — Barahiya Tal Land (Declaration of Possession) Act which is not in conformity with Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) of the Constitution must therefore be held to be 'ultra vires' the State Legislature. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1952 Pat 166.

Bengal Land Revenue Sales (West Begal Amendment) Act.

● —Art. 19 (5) — Considerations — Bengal Land Revenue Sales (West Bengal Amendment) Act (7 of 1950), S. 7.

(Per S. R. Das and Jagannadhadas JJ.) — Though the fact that a statute is expressly or by necessary implication made retrospective, does not, by itself, furnish any cogent reason for saying that the statute is prima facie unfair and, therefore, unreasonable the fact of the statute being given retrospective effect may be properly taken into consideration in determining the reasonableness of the restriction imposed in the interest of the general public. The loss occasioned to the purchaser by reducing, without any abatement of the purchase price, an estate in possession into one in reversion may also be taken into account in determining the reasonableness of the restrictions permissible under Art. 19 (5). The conditions prevailing at the time which actuated the sponsor of the Bill to introduce the same and the extent and urgency of the evil which he sought to remedy are all matters which must enter into the judicial verdict as to the reasonableness of the restrictions which Art. 19 (5) permits to be imposed on the exercise of the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (6).

Held, that in the circumstances the infliction of the loss of the right of the purchaser to eject undertenants under S. 7 of the Amending Act (7 of 1950) could only be regarded as a reasonable restriction permitted by Art. 19 (5) to be imposed on the exercise of the right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1952 S C 193, Rel on. State of West Bengal v. Subodh Gopal Bose. 1954 S C J 127 : 67 L W 206 : (1954) 1 M L J 314 : 1954 S C A 65 : 1954 S C R 587 : A I R 1954 S C 92 (104, 105, 117, 119) (Pt G) (Prs 36, 58, 59, 62, 70).

Berar Land Revenue Code (1928).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), Ss. 73-C and 73-D (enacted by Berar Tenancy Law Amendment Act (19 of 1950)) — Validity. See Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), S. 73-C. A I R 1953 Nag 40.

——Art. 19 (5) — Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), S. 73-A (1) and (3) (enacted by Berar Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act (10 of 1948)) and S. 73-C (enacted by Berar Tenancy Law Amendment Act (19 of 1950)) — Restrictions placed by sections—Reasonableness. See Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), S. 73-A (1) and (3). AIR 1953 Nag 40.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (5) and 31 (2) — Reasonable restrictions — Extent — Restrictions placed on landlord's rights in sub-ss. (1) and (3) of S. 73-A of Berar Land Revenue Code—Reasonableness.

Restrictions should not be greater than the mischief it is intended to prevent and it should be in the interest of the general public to place them. It is for the Legislature to scrutinize the need for restrictions and also, in the first instance, to decide upon their reasonableness. As to the need for restrictions, the judgment of the Legislature must be regarded as final. The question of their reasonableness is justiciable and a Court has undoubtedly the power to go into that question when reasonableness of the restriction is challenged before it. The question whether the restrictions placed on a landlord's rights are justified must be determined by having regard to the circumstances which would inevitably arise if the landlord were free to exercise his rights without let or hindrance.

The provisions of sub-ss. (1) and (3) of S. 73-A do not take away completely the landlord's right to hold and dispose of the property. Indeed, they do not go beyond placing certain restrictions on the right of the landlord to hold or dispose of the property. Such restrictions could be placed under Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. The mere fact that by reason of these restrictions a landlord is precluded from exercising certain rights to property would not attract Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution either. AIR 1952 Pat 166, Dissented from ILR (1952) Nag 736 : 1953 Nag L J 199 : AIR 1953 Nag 40 (49) (Pt H) (Prs 39, 40, 41) (DB).

Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act (24 of 1951).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Hold property — Tenancy Law — Abridgement of landlord's right — Reasonable restriction—Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act (24 of 1951), S. 3).

The right to hold property includes the right to enjoy it in any manner the holder likes, and there is no doubt that the Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act abridges the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f). But as the provisions of the Act impose a reasonable restriction on the exercise of the right to hold and dispose of property in the interests of the general public, the provisions of the Act are not 'ultra vires' the State Legislature. A I R 1953 Nag 40, Rel. on. Bhaurao v. S. D. O., Chandur-Morsi, 1954 Nag L J 667 : I L R (1954) Nag 816 : AIR 1955 Nag 1 (5, 6) (Pt D) (Prs 14, 16) (FB).

Bihar Tenancy Act (8 of 1885).

——Art. 19—Scope—Legislation—Validity — Determination of — Test — Bihar Tenancy Act (1885), S. 49-M.

It is only that legislation which deals directly with the rights protected by Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution which is protected by that Article. The correct test is whether the impugned legislation is a direct legislation on the subject and not what is the effect or the result of the legislation. The article clearly means that the legislation to be examined must be directly in respect of one of the rights mentioned in the sub-clauses. A I R 1958 S C

578; A I R 1951 S C 270 and A I R 1950 S C 27, Rel. on

Section 49-M of the Bihar Tenancy Act, is not a legislation which directly deals with the rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution, and cannot be said to be unconstitutional as being in violation of the right guaranteed by that clause of the Article. The section does not curtail the right of a member of the backward class to sell his property by a sale inter vivos. 1962 B L J R 845 : ILR 42 Pat 525.

Bombay Land Tenure Abolition Laws (Amendment) Act (57 of 1958).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (5), 31-A, Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 18 — Tenancy Laws — Bombay Land Tenure Abolition Laws (Amendment) Act, 1958 (Bombay Act 57 of 1958), Ss. 3, 4 and 6 — Taluqdari tenure —Effect of provisions contained in Ss. 3, 4 and 6 on such tenure—Right to receive purchase price by tenure-holders affected — Ss. 3, 4 and 6 are unconstitutional and void — Provisions are not saved by Art. 19 (5) or by Art. 31-A.

Held, (Per Sinha C. J. and S. K. Das and Ayyangar JJ.) that in so far as Ss. 3, 4 and 6 of the Bombay Land Tenure Abolition Laws (Amendment) Act, 1948 deem some tenants as permanent tenants in possession of the taluqdari land the sections are unconstitutional and void.

Per Ayyangar J.—The entire object and purpose of the impugned enactment which is given effect to by its operative provisions to define, create and as it were, add a new class of 'permanent tenants' i.e., those who satisfy the requirements of S. 4.

Per Sinha C. J. and S. K. Das J.—The right of the petitioners to the purchase price under S. 32-H of the Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act, 1948, from those of their tenants who were non-permanent on 1st April 1957 was a right of property in respect of which the petitioner has a guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (f). The provisions in Ss. 3, 4 and 6 of the impugned Act, 1958, in so far as they laid down that in certain circumstances a tenant shall be deemed to be a permanent tenant from the date of the Taluqdari Abolition Act, 1949, adversely affected the right of the petitioner with retrospective effect; it wiped off a large part of the purchase price which the petitioner was entitled to get. If s. 6 of the impugned Act, the Bombay Land Tenure Abolition Laws (Amendment) Act, 1958, is to be tested on the touchstone of reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public as laid down in Cl. (5) of Art. 19 of the Constitution, it must be held that it does not impose a reasonable restriction.

Article 31-A of the Constitution has no application to the present case, and cannot save the impugned Act, 1958. The true scope and effect of the provisions in Ss. 3, 4 and 6 of the impugned Act, is to considerably reduce the purchase price payable to the petitioner. In that view of the matter, the impugned Act, 1958, does not fall within any entry of List II or List III of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution and is a piece of colourable legislation. A I R 1953 S C 375, Rel. on.

Held, (Per A. K. Sarkar and Mudholkar, JJ. contra).—S. 4 of the impugned Act by merely enacting the presumption does not take away any property of tenure-holder.

The impugned Act is plainly applicable only to matters arising out of a relationship between landlord and tenant. Its provisions are not intended to apply where such relationship does not subsist. Therefore, the law must be held to be within the competence of the Legislature by virtue of Entry 18 of List II of the Constitution. There can be no question of regarding the impugned Act as colourable because it directly falls under Entry 18 and deals with matters which have a bearing upon the relationship of landlord and tenant. The law being thus within the competence of the Bombay Legislature, Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution cannot be said to have been infringed. Maharana v. State of Gujarat, 1962 Supp (2) S C R 411 : A I R 1962 S C 821 (829 to 833, 842, 846, 847) (Prs 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 48, 49, 60, 61, 62).

Bombay Land Tenures Abolition (Recovery of Records) Act (50 of 1953).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Tenancy Laws — Bombay Land Tenures Abolition (Recovery of Records) Act (50 of 1953), Ss. 3 and 4 — Not violative of Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 31 of the Constitution—Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 31—Possession and acquisition in Art. 31 (2) — Meaning of. See Tenancy Laws — Bombay Land Tenures Abolition (Recovery of Records) Act (50 of 1953), S. 3. AIR 1962 Guj 18.

Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (67 of 1948).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Tenancy laws— Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (67 of 1948), S. 34 (2-A) —Validity of. See Tenancy Laws—Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (67 of 1948), S. 34 (2-A), AIR 1958 Bom 94 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope—Whether S. 7 of Bombay Act (67 of 1948) is inconsistent with Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and amounts to delegated legislation. See Tenancy Laws — Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (67 of 1948), S. 7. AIR 1957 Bom 252.

[The observation that the power to issue notification may be exercised in favour of a single individual under the authority reserved under S. 7 and may lay the State Government open to a charge of favouritism Overruled in AIR 1959 S C 459.]

Cochin Proclamation (16 of 1122 ME).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Tenancy Laws — Cochin Proclamation (16 of 1122 ME) — Proclamation does not offend Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f)—See Tenancy Laws—Cochin Proclamation (16 of 1122). A I R 1956 Trav-Co 42.

Cochin Proclamation (6 of 1124 ME).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Tenancy Laws — Cochin Proclamation (6 of 1124 ME) — Validity. See Cochin Proclamation (6 of 1124), AIR 1956 Trav-Co 43.

East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act.

——Art. 19 — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 14 (1) — Validity — Does not contravene Arts. 19 and 31 of the Constitution. See Tenancy Laws—East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 14 (1). AIR 1964 Punj 90 (DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 14 and 31—East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 36 — Amendment of S. 36 by Punjab Act 20 of 1953 — Amending Act not reserved for assent of President but subsequent amending Acts reserved for and assented to by President — Effect of such assent on validity of S. 36 — Art. 31-A (1) is attracted — S. 36 of the Punjab Act is not void on ground that it is inconsistent with or takes away or abridges any of the rights conferred by Arts. 14, 19 or 31. See Ibid, Art. 31-A. AIR 1963 Punj 255 (FB).

——Art. 19(1) (f)— East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 36 — Validity. See Tenancy Laws — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 36. ('61) 63 Punj L R 666.

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 255.]

Himachal Pradesh Abolition of Big Landed Estates and Land Reforms Act (15 of 1954).

●——Arts. 19, 31 and 31-A—Himachal Pradesh Abolition of Big Landed Estates and Land Reforms Act (15 of 1954), Ss. 11, 27 — Validity — Scope.

The Abolition Act falls within the class of statutes contemplated by Art. 31-A (a) of the Constitution and is protected from the attack that any of its provisions violates the fundamental rights enshrined in Arts. 19 and 31 of the Constitution. The validity of S. 11, therefore, cannot, in view of Art. 31-A, be challenged. The validity of the provisions for acquisition by the State of the lands of the land-owners for compensation determinable in accordance with the provisions of Sch. II is also not liable to be challenged under Art. 31 read with Art. 31-A. AIR 1959 S C 459, Foll. Jadab Singh v. Himachal Pradesh Administration, (1962) 1 S C A 210 : (1961) 3 S C R 755 : (1961) 1 S C J 185 : AIR 1960 S C 1008 (1011, 1012) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

Hyderabad Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (21 of 1950).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Validity of S. 47 of Hyderabad Tenancy Act — Does not offend against Art. 19 (1) (f). See Tenancy Laws — Hyderabad Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (21 of 1950), S. 47. AIR 1955 Hyd 97 (DB).

J. and K. Tenancy Act (2 of 1980 Samvat).

●——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 14, 31, 31-A, 31-B—Tenancy Laws — J. and K. Tenancy Act (2 of 1980 Samvat) — Sections 15-A, 16 (1), 1 (a), 19-B, 45, 47 and 49 (as amended by Act 12 of 1955)—Constitutional validity — Provisions, whether contravene Arts. 14, 19 and 31, Constitution of India—Protection under Arts. 31-A and 31-B, whether available. See Tenancy Laws — J. and K. Tenancy Act (2 of 1980) (as amended by Act 12 of 1955), S. 15-A. AIR 1959 J and K 35 (FB).

Kerala Agrarian Relations Act (4 of 1961).

●——Art. 19 — Tenancy Laws — Kerala Agrarian Relations Act, 1960 (4 of 1961) — Constitutionally invalid in relation to ryotwari lands situated in Malabar area forming part of Kerala State — Constitution of India, Arts. 31-A (1) (a) and (2) (a), 14, 19 and 31 — Malabar Land Registration Act (Mad. Act 3 of 1896) — Whether 'existing law' within Art. 31-A, for lands in Malabar area Ryotwari lands, whether 'estate' within Art. 31-A (2) (a) — 'Jenmam right' in Art. 31-A — Connotation of. See Tenancy Laws — Kerala Agrarian Relations Act, 1960 (4 of 1961). AIR 1963 Ker 101 (FB).

Kerala Kanam Tenancy Act (24 of 1955).

●——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Kerala — Kanam Tenancy Act (24 of 1955)—Validity. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1961 Ker 210 (FB).

Madhya Bharat Zamindari Abolition Act (13 of 1951).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Tenancy Laws — Madhya Bharat Zamindari Abolition Act (13 of 1951), S. 38 (2) — Does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (f).

Before the enactment of the Madhya Bharat Zamindari Abolition Act, 1951 the petitioner was a Maurusi tenant of certain lands and had sublet the holding to the non-applicants Nos. 1 and 2. On the coming into force of the Act the petitioner's rights as a maurusi tenant from the proprietor terminated under S. 4 (1) (b) of the Act, and thereafter by virtue of S. 41 of the Act, he was deemed to be a tenant of the Government. The petitioner did not have the status of a pacca tenant before the Act came into force. He got that status under S. 38 (1) only when the Act came into force and subject to the provisions of S. 38: Held, that it could not be maintained that S. 38 (2) affects or takes away any pre-existing rights of pacca tenancy of the petitioner. Even if it is taken that the combined effect of Ss. 38 (1) and 41 is to preserve the tenancy rights, which the petitioner possessed before the Act came into force, Cl. (2) of S. 38 does not involve any abridgement of the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f). What S. 38 (2) aims at is to take away the rights of a tenant who has sublet his holding and if a man is deprived of his property no question of his holding and disposing of that property can possibly arise under Art. 19 (1) (f), Madh B L J (1955) H C R 954 : ILR (1955) Madh-B 441 : AIR 1955 Madh Bha 146 (147) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act (1 of 1951).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Validity of M. P. Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act. See Tenancy Laws — Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act (1 of 1951). AIR 1955 N U C (Nag) 1341.

Madras City Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1922).

●——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) — Madras City Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1922), S. 9 — Section does not infringe Articles and hence is not invalid.

Section 9 (1) of the Madras City Tenants' Protection Act which enables a tenant to purchase the property leased to him on determination of the lease does not impose an unreasonable restriction upon the right of the landlord to hold and dispose of property within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution.

Section 9 was enacted with a view to give protection to the tenants who had, notwithstanding the usual covenants relating to determination of tenancies, obtained lands on lease in the hope that so long as they paid and continued to pay fair rent, they would not be evicted but because of changed conditions as a result of the war, appreciation in land values and consequent increase in the level of rents, were faced with actions in ejectment involving dismantling of properties constructed by them and eviction. The protection becomes effective only when the landlord seeks to obtain in breach of the mutual understanding benefit of the unearned increment in the land values by instituting a suit in ejectment. It was manifestly in the interest of the general public to effectuate the mutual understanding between the landlord and the tenant as to the duration of tenancies and to conserve building materials by maintaining existing buildings, for purposes for which the leases were granted. Therefore restriction imposed upon the right of the landlord to obtain possession of the premises demised according to the terms of the lease would not be regarded as imposing an unreasonable restriction in the exercise of the right conferred upon the landlord by Art. 19 (1) (f). Since S. 9 is not invalid as offending Art. 19 (1) (f) no independent intringement of Art. 31 (1) may also be set up. N. Vajrapani Naidu v. New Theatres Carnatic Talkies, Ltd., (1965) 1 Mad L J (SC) 47 : (1965) 1

Andh W R (SC) 47 : (1965) 1 S C J 368 : (1964) 6 S C R 1015 : AIR 1964 S C 1440 (1444) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) (5)—Tenancy Laws—Madras City Tenants' Protection Act, 1921 (3 of 1922), S. 9 (as re-enacted by Act (13 of 1960)) — Validity—Provision is reasonable and cannot be held to contravene Art. 19.

Section 9 of the Madras City Tenants' Protection Act has been re-enacted by Madras Act 13 of 1960 under which the price is to be fixed on the average market value of the property during the three years immediately preceding the date of the order. Even if the compelled sale is regarded as a restriction on the owner's right, it should be considered as a reasonable one intended to achieve the object which the legislature had in view, namely, of doing justice to the tenant who had put up a superstructure on the land leased out to him in the hope that he would not be evicted. As the provision for fixation of price at three years' average is reasonable, S. 9 cannot be held to contravene Art. 19 of the Constitution. ILR (1963) Mad 1054 : 76 Mad L W 381 : A I R 1963 Mad 369 (375) (Pt F) (Pr 28) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 —Tenancy Laws— Madras City Tenants' Protection (Amendments) Act (13 of 1960), S. 9 Validity — Does not violate Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—See Tenancy Laws—Madras City Tenants' Protection (Amendment) Act (13 of 1960), S. 9. I L R (1961) Mad 976 : 74 Mad L W 638 : 1961 Mad W N 386 : (1961) 2 Mad L J 435.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) — Deprivation of property — Madras City Tenants' Protection Act, Ss. 3, 9 and 12 - Validity. See Tenancy Laws — Madras City Tenants' Protection Act, Ss. 3, 9 and 12. A I R 1960 Mad 108 (DB)

Madras Cultivating Tenants' Protection Act (25 of 1955).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Freedom to hold property — Reasonable restrictions — S. 4 (1), Madras Cultivating Tenants' Protection Act, if repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (f).

The freedom to 'hold property' means a right to enjoy property and if there is any interference with the enjoyment of property, it is tantamount to interference with the right 'to hold property'. The right to enjoy property involves a right to enjoy it in such manner as the owner chooses including a right (a) of choosing his tenants and (b) of resuming personal cultivation. In considering whether the provisions of S. 4 are or are not reasonable restriction on the right to hold property the Court has necessarily to take into account the economic background of the legislation as well as the fact that on the terms of S. 4 (3) the Act would remain in force for a period of one year. The impugned Act is temporary and the statement of objects and reasons shows that it has been passed to maintain the status quo pending permanent legislation. This would be a sufficient emergency to justify a legislation of this type. The retrospectivity of the impugned Act has not gone beyond the limits of reasonableness. The restriction imposed on the right to hold property enacted by the impugned Act is in the interests of the general public and therefore S. 4 is not invalid by reason of its repugnancy to Art. 19 (1) (f) 70 Mad L W 221 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 307 : I L R (1957) Mad 571 : A I R 1957 Mad 333 (335, 336, 337) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 13, 14, 18) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Scope of —Madras Cultivating Tenants' Protection Act — If repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (g).

The freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) is not one to carry on an occupation or business in any particular place, but the clause is designed to ensure that no unreasonable fetters shall be imposed if one were minded to engage oneself in it. The right of an owner personally to cultivate his land is not a right to carry on an occupation but only a right to hold or enjoy the property. This apart, there is no restriction on his right to carry on business as an agriculturist, because he can still carry it on provided he can acquire land on which to do so.

The impugned Act is not, therefore, repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (g). 70 Mad L W 221 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 307 : ILR (1957) Mad 571 : AIR 1957 Mad 333 (337) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Andhra Pradesh Amendment Act (17 of 1957).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Andhra Pradesh Amendment Act (17 of 1957) — Amendment Act introducing right of appeal to Government and reopening settled issues regarding 'estates' — Validity—Right of citizen — Power of Legislature to confer right of appeal retropectively — Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act (26 of 1948), as amended by Andhra Pradesh Act (17 of 1957), S. 9 (4) (a) (i)—Scope of.

Section 9 (4) (a) (i) of the Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act as amended by Andhra Pradesh Act (17 of 1957) has merely vested a right of appeal in Government with retrospective effect, the consequences of which is that the finality which attached to the decision of the Settlement Officer is nullified. As a result of this amendment, the question whether a particular village was an inam within any of the clauses of S. 3 of the Madras Estates Land Act was left open. There is no fundamental right in the Chapter guaranteed to a citizen that any adjudication in his favour should have an attribute of finality. It is, therefore, competent for the Legislature to give a right of appeal to any party, be it Government or a private individual. Therefore the Amendment Act is not in any way repugnant to Art. 19 of the Constitution. (1961) 2 Andh W R 258 : 1961-2 Andh L T 711 : I L R (1962) Andh-Pra 1149 : A I R 1962 Andh-Pra 157 (159, 160) (Pts A, B) (Prs, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15) (DB).

Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1947).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 18 — Government of India Act (1935), S. 299 and Sch. 7, List 2, Item 21 - Land tenures and collection of rents —Power of Provincial Legislature to make law — Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (Mad 30 of 1947) (as amended), S. 3 — Power given to State Government to reduce rents payable by ryots in estates — Notification issued by State Government reducing rents in estates Madras Act and notification issued thereunder are valid A I R 1958 Andh-Pra 173 (FB in Part and DB). Reversed.

The Madras Estates Land Reduction of Rent) Act, 1947, is enacted under the powers conferred on the Provincial Legislature under Item 21 of List 2 of Sch. 7 to the Government of India Act 1935 dealing with land. It provides for reduction of rent to the level at which the rents prevailed in the neighbouring area where there is ryotwari settlement. It cannot be said that the reduction of the prevailing rents to the ryotwari level is an unreasonable restriction on the right of the landholder of an estate to hold property under Art. 19 (1) (f). The Act is constitutional and lays down reasonable restrictions on the right of the landholder to hold his estate.

Under S. 3 of the Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act, 1947, the State Government is empowered by order published in the gazette to fix the rates of rent in respect of each class of ryoti land in each village in the estate Accordingly, the Government provided by a notification for the reduction of rents payable by ryots in estates governed by the Madras Estates Land Act, 1908, approximately to the level of the assessments levied on lands in ryotwari areas in the neighbourhood and for the collection of such rents exclusively by the State Government. The notification does not amount to an unreasonable restriction on the right of the estate holder to hold property under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. It cannot, therefore, be said that simply because in a particular case the net income after reduction falls below 25 per centum of the net income before reduction the notification which results in such a position is an unreasonable restriction on the right of the landholder to hold his estate AIR 1958 Andh Pra 173 (FB in part and DB), Reversed.

The attack based on reading the term 'acquisition' in S. 299 of the Government of India Act, 1935 in the wide sense of any interference with property even when the title thereto does not pass to the State is no longer a live issue since the matter is concluded by the decision of the Supreme Court in A I R 1961 S C 1684. State of Madras v. Kannepalli Chalamaya Sastri, (1963) 1 S C R 155 : A I R 1962 S C 1687 (1690, 1691) (Prs 7, 8, 9).

● ——Arts. 19 and 31 — Government of India Act (1935), S. 299 (2) — 'Acquisition' - Meaning—Tenancy Laws Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1947), S. 3—Validity of.

Per Full Bench. — Though the limited meaning given to the word 'acquisition' in AIR 1952 Mad 203, is no longer good law in view of the later decisions of the Supreme Court in AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 119 the conclusion arrived at in AIR 1952 Mad 203 still holds the field as the provisions of the Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act only regulate the relationship of the landlord and tenant and are not hit at by S. 299 of the Government of India Act Further, the view expressed in the said case that if in a particular case the result of the reduced rate of rent had the effect of totally or substantially depriving the landlord of his net income it would offend Art. 19 of the Constitution, is also sound Venkata Chalammayya v. The State of Madras, (1958) 1 Andh W R 88 : ILR (1956) Andh Pra 888 : (1958) Andh L T 211 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 173 (184, 192, 193, 194) (Pt A) (Prs 25, 43, 46, 47) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1687.]

● —Art 19 (1) (f) and (5) —Scope—Tenancy Laws —Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1947), S. 3—Reduction of rent.

Per Division Bench —Prima facie reduction of the prevailing rents to the ryotwari level cannot be said to be unreasonable. Where in a particular case the actual reduction effected is so drastic and there are other circumstances which lead to the inference that the landholder is practically deprived of all enjoyment of his property, then it may be in that case there has been an unreasonable restriction AIR 1952 Mad 203, Foll

Having regard to the object of the Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act, 1947, if the income of the landholder after reduction of the rent does not fall below 25 per cent. of his previous income, it can be held that the reduction is not an unreasonable restriction within the meaning of Art 19 (1) of the Constitution of India. Venkata Chalammayya v The State of Madras, (1958) 1 Andh W R 88 : ILR (1956) Andh Pra 888 : 1958 Andh L T 211 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 173 (194, 195) (Pt G) (Pr 50) (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1962 S C 1687.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 13, 14 and 31 (2)—Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1947)—Validity —(Govt. of India Act 1935), S. 299 (2), Sch. VII, List II, Entries 9 and 21)—(Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Amendment Act (7 of 1951)). See Tenancy Laws — Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1947). AIR 1952 Mad 203 (DB).

Malabar Tenancy Act (14 of 1953).

——Art. 19—Landlord's rights extinguished for agrarian reforms — Section protected by Art. 31-A—Impeachment under Arts. 14, 19 or 31 not permitted. See Tenancy Laws — Malabar Tenancy Act (14 of 1953), S. 53. 1960 Ker L T 1224

Malabar Tenancy (Amendment) Act (33 of 1951).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Malabar Tenancy (Amendment) Act (33 of 1951), S. 52—Validity. See Tenancy Laws —Malabar Tenancy (Amendment) Act (33 of 1951), S. 52. AIR 1956 Mad 604.

Marwar Tenancy Act (29 of 1949).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Enjoyment of property by landlord — What is—Validity of laws fixing rent—Marwar Acts 29 and 40 of 1949—Validity - [Marwar Land Revenue Act (40 of 1949), S. 1] - [Tenancy laws -Marwar Tenancy Act (29 of 1949), S. 1].

It is open to the State to pass a law fixing principles on which rents should be fixed and determining the rights of tenants and landlord with respect to the nature of tenure, ejectment and so on. Such laws are a feature of all progressive States, and it is too late in the day to say that they are hit by Art. 19 (1) (f), unless it is shown that the restriction is unreasonable and goes beyond the necessities of the case.

Enjoyment of property in the case of landholders does not mean an absolute right to charge from the tenants whatever they like or to eject old tenants whenever they like and to keep new tenants on whatever terms they like. It only means enjoyment of the land in accordance with the laws that may regulate the relationship between landholders and tenants. Collection of such rents as would be lawful would be full enjoyment of the property, and similarly, occupation by tenants according to law, even against the will of the landholder, or taking of new tenants on terms and conditions permissible by law but not in excess thereof would also be full enjoyment of the property. AIR 1952 Mad 203, Rel. on.

Held, that the two impugned Marwar Acts were valid as the restrictions provided were reasonable and not more than the necessities of the case require. 1954 Raj L W 268 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 274 : AIR 1954 Raj 117 (124, 125) (Pt II) (Prs 28, 29) (DB).

Mysore Tenancy Act (1 of 1952).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) - Tenancy Laws—Mysore Tenancy Act (13 of 1952), S. 6—Section is valid—Constitution of India Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f), 26, 31, 31-A—See Tenancy Laws—Mysore Tenancy Act (13 of 1952), S. 6. (1963) 2 S C J 246 (SC).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Reasonable restrictions — Mysore Tenancy Act (1952), Ss. 5 and 17 — Validity—Provisions do not infringe Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution—Ss. 5 and 17 impose only reasonable restrictions on the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f). See Tenancy Laws—Mysore Tenancy Act (1952), Ss. 5, 17. AIR 1960 Mys 236 (DB).

Mysore Tenants (Temporary Protection from Eviction) Act (37 of 1961).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)— Validity of S. 3, Mysore Tenants (Temporary Protection from Eviction) Act, 1961. See Tenancy Laws—Mysore Tenants (Temporary Protection from Eviction) Act (37 of 1961), S. 3. AIR 1964 Mys 43 (DB).

Orissa Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1948).

● ——Art. 19 (5) — Scope — Orissa Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1948), S. 3—Validity—Applicability to private lands of ex-Ruler of merged Orissa State — Dispute between ex-Ruler and tenants in occupation of private lands — Jurisdiction of Courts to entertain dispute — Arts. 362 and 363, Constitution of India—Applicability—See Orissa Merged States (Laws) Act (4 of 1950), S. 4. AIR 1958 S C 239.

——Arts. 19 (5), 43—Tenancy Laws—Orissa Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1948), Ss. 4, 6 — Restrictions are reasonable and are in conformity with Art. 43. See Tenancy Laws—Orissa Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1948), S. 4. AIR 1953 Orissa 171.

Orissa Tenants Relief Act (5 of 1955).

——Art. 19—Scope—Orissa Tenants Relief Act (5 of 1955), S. 3 — Restrictions on fundamental rights—Presumption of reasonableness.

Any legislation dealing with tenancy reform must necessarily diminish the rights of the landlord (1) by giving protection from eviction (subject to certain restrictions) to the actual cultivators and (2) by reducing the rent payable by him to the landlord.

If the portion left to the landlord is palpably so negligible as to give him practically no income from his land there may be unreasonable restriction. 23 Cut L T 67 : I L R (1957) Cut 71 : A I R 1957 Orissa 56 (62) (Pt F) (Pr 18) (DB).

Orissa Tenants Relief Rules (1955).

——Art. 19 — Restrictions on fundamental rights—Orissa Tenants Relief Rules, 1955, R. 22—Validity.

Merely because in a summary enquiry under the Orissa Tenants Relief Act the Revenue Officer is given discretion not to record the depositions of witnesses in full such a provision cannot be held to be unreasonable.

Ordinarily, where summary local enquiries are made at the spot to decide disputes the necessity to hear a legal practitioner may not arise though in respect of certain matters involving difficult questions of law the help of a legal practitioner may be very valuable. In such cases some discretion should be left with the Court concerned. Hence, the provision in the Rules framed under the Orissa Tenants Relief Act conferring discretionary power on the enquiring officer to allow either party to be represented by a legal practitioner cannot be held to be unreasonable. 23 Cut L T 67 : I L R (1957) Cut 71 : A I R 1957 Orissa 56 (63) (Pt H) (Pr 20) (DB).

Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Biswedari Ordinance (23 of 2006 Bk).

——Art 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Reasonable restrictions—Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Biswedari Ordinance (23 of 2006), S. 10.

Restriction in S. 10 of the Ordinance 23 of 2006 was reasonable. A I R 1951 S C 118, Foll.; A I R 1952 Cal 273, Rel. on. I L R (1954) Patiala 433 : A I R 1953 Pepsu 161 (173) (Pt G) (Pr 38) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1963 S C 222.]

Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (13 of 1955).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 14 and 31-A—Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (13 of 1955) — Constitutional validity. See Tenancy Laws — Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (13 of 1955). A I R 1962 Punj 523.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 14 and 31 — Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (13 of 1955), S. 32-KK—Section does not contravene Arts. 14, 19 and 31 of the Constitution. See Tenancy Laws—Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 19-E. A I R 1963 Punj 319 (DB).

Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953).

——Arts. 19, 14 and 31 — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 19-E added by Punjab Act 14 of 1962 — Section is a measure of agrarian reform within Art. 31 and is saved from attack for violation of Arts. 14, 19 and 31. See Tenancy Laws—Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 19-E. A I R 1963 Punj 319 (DB).

● ——Art. 19—Tenancy Laws — Validity of Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 18.

There is no doubt that certain restrictions upon the enjoyment of property are imposed by the Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act, but a careful examination of the various provisions shows that those restrictions are not arbitrary or capricious and are nothing more than reasonable restrictions having regard to the aims of the Act. The object of this legislation is to give security to the tenants and to safeguard them against unreasonable or capricious ejectment by their landlords. It is intended to prevent the exploitation of the poorer peasantry and these are aims which are laid down by the Constitution in Art. 39.

The Act does not seek to acquire the land of the big holders. It is only intended to limit large holdings and makes ample provision for compensation to the landlords. The landlords can sell the excess holdings to any one they like and the tenants are given the right to pre-empt. The tenants' right to purchase under S. 18 is subject to the payment of a fair price. Therefore it is clear that the restriction imposed by this Act upon the right given to the individual under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution is a reasonable restriction and it is a restriction in the interests of the general public. The number of persons who will be benefited by this legislation far exceeds the number who will be adversely affected. Bhagirath Ram Chand v. State of Punjab, 56 Punj L R 1 : A I R 1954 Punj 167 (169, 170) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (FB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (5) and 31-A — Validity of S. 11, Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953).

In the Act the rights of the landlord are not suspended, nor is there any penalty imposed upon him, as a result of a subjective or arbitrary determination. Under S. 11 of the Act the landlord has to be tried by a Court of law and he can be punished if he does not supply his tenant water in the same quantity as was enjoyed by him before the commencement of the Act. The fact is to be determined by a criminal Court not below the rank of a second class Magistrate and therefore the provision contained in S. 11 is not invalid. A I R 1953 S C 373, Distinguished. Bhagirath Ram Chand v. State of Punjab, 56 Punj L R 1 : A I R 1954 Punj 167 (170) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (FB).

Rajasthan Produce Rents Regulating Act (15 of 1951).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) and 19 (5)—Reasonable restriction on right to hold property — Validity of Rajasthan Act (15 of 1951) Act cannot be impugned on the ground that it imposed any unreasonable restriction on the right to hold property. Raj Sahiban Shersing v. State of Rajasthan, 1954 Raj L W 296 : I L R (1954) 4 Raj 365 : A I R 1954 Raj 65 (69) (Pt D) (Pr 20) (FB).

Rajasthan Produce Rents Regulating (Amendment) Act (14 of 1952).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5)—Restrictions imposed by Rajasthan Act (14 of 1952)—Validity—(Tenancy Laws—Rajasthan Produce Rents Regulating (Amendment) Act (14 of 1952), S. 1).

Fixation of one-sixth of the gross produce excluding Bhusa, etc., as rent is a fair and reasonable restriction in the interests of the tenantry which forms the vast majority of the population in the State of Rajasthan and legislation ameliorating its condition must be held to be in the interest of the general public. The mere fact that for years together the rate was one-third or one-fourth in many parts of Rajasthan does not necessarily mean that the rate of one-sixth is unreasonable and considering the fact that the proportion of one-sixth practically prevails in many parts of India, it cannot be said that the fixing of this proportion was an unreasonable restriction within the meaning of Art. 19 (5), and that the Rajasthan Act 14 of 1952, contravened Art. 19 of the Constitution on that ground.

It cannot be held that the Amendment Act imposed unreasonable restrictions simply because there might be some problematic case where the land revenue is heavy and the return to the landlord after payment of that land revenue on the basis of the reduced rent would be illusory, as each case must depend upon its special facts and the decision of the question would ultimately depend upon the circumstances of each estate. A I R 1952 Mad 203, Rel. on.

Further, if the restriction is in itself reasonable the fact that it will have certain repercussions on another law (for instance, on the compensation to be paid under the Jagirdari Resumption laws) cannot be a ground for holding the Amendment Act unconstitutional.

'An enjoyment of the property' in the case of landholders does not mean an absolute right to charge from the tenants whatever they like or to eject old tenants whenever they like and to keep new tenants on whatever terms they like. It only means enjoyment of the land in accordance with the laws that may regulate the relationship between landholders and tenants.

Thus collection of such rents as would be lawful would be full enjoyment of the property, and similarly, occupation by tenants according to law, even against the will of the landholders or taking of new tenants on terms and conditions permissible by law. but not in excess thereof would also be full enjoyment of the property. A I R 1952 Mad 203, Relied on. Raj Sahiban Shersingh v. State of Rajasthan, 1954 Raj L W 296 : I L R (1954) 4 Raj 365 : A I R 1954 Raj 65 (70, 72, 73, 74, 77) (Pt F) (Prs 26, 35, 40, 41, 43, 55, 81) (FB).

Rajasthan (Protection of Tenants) Ordinance (9 of 1949).

● —— Art. 19 (1)(f) — Rajasthan (Protection of Tenants) Ordinance (9 of 1949) —Validity.

It cannot be said that the provisions of the Ordinance 9 of 1949 are repugnant to Art. 19 (1)(f) in that they oblige the land-owners to keep tenants on their lands, thereby preventing them from themselves cultivating the same. The object of the Ordinance, is clearly not to put a restriction on the right of an owner to himself cultivate the lands, but to prevent him when he had inducted a tenant on the land from getting rid of him without sufficient cause. Such a law cannot be said to be unreasonable. The impugned Ordinance is an emergency legislation of a temporary character, and, that is a factor to be taken into account in judging of its reasonableness. (1920) 65 Law Ed 965 and A I R 1950 S C 211; 1950 S C J 528, Rel. on. Inder Singh v. The State of Rajasthan, 1957 S C J 376 : 1957 S C A 735 : 1957 S C R 605 : A I R 1957 S C 510 (517) (Pt F) (Pr 15).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 226 — Mala fide order of Government under colour of law—Order cancelling pre-partition tenancy rights without inquiry and reallotting them to another—Legality. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1956 Raj 139.

——Art. 19—Rajasthan Tenants' Protection Ordinance, S. 7—Validity — The restriction was reasonable and it was in the interest of general public. See Ibid, Art. 14. 1952 Raj L W 163 : I L R (1951) 1 Raj 770 : AIR 1953 Raj 53 (DB).

Rajasthan Tenancy (Second Amendment) Act (28 of 1956).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Rajasthan Tenancy (Second Amendment) Act (28 of 1956), S. 4 — Validity — S. 4 violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and is not saved by Art. 19 (1) (f)—Section not validated by S. 3 of Rajasthan Tenancy (Amendment) Act (12 of 1964). A I R 1963 Raj 72; A I R 1954 S C 282, Rel. on. 1964 Raj L W 512 : I L R (1964) 14 Raj 935 : A I R 1965 Raj 54 (56, 57, 58) (Prs 5, 10, 11, 14, 15, 18) (DB).

Saurashtra Barkhali Abolition Act (26 of 1951).

——Art. 19 (1)(f)—Cash annuity to Barkhalidar under S. 18, Saurashtra Barkhali Abolition Act (26 of 1951) —Reduction of annuity without hearing Barkhalidar —No right to property is affected by reduction—R. 17 must be presumed to have received President's assent See Tenancy Laws — Saurashtra Barkhali Abolition Act (26 of 1951), S. 18. I L R (1965) Guj 1039 : A I R 1966 Guj 200.

Saurashtra Gharkhed, Tenancy Settlement and Agricultural Lands Ordinance (41 of 1949).

● —— Art. 19 — Tenancy Laws — Saurashtra Gharkhed, Tenancy Settlement and Agricultural Lands Ordinance (41 of 1949), S. 35 is unconstitutional and void. See Tenancy Laws — Saurashtra Gharkhed, Tenancy Settlement and Agricultural Lands Ordinance (41 of 1949), S. 35. AIR 1952 Sau 59 (SB).

Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal (Protection) Act (14 of 1952).

● ——Art. 19 (1)(f)—Tenancy Laws—Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal (Protection) Act (14 of 1952), Ss. 7 and 8 — Extension of term of tenant of land beyond period fixed by contract—Validity. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1958 Mad 608 (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5)—Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal (Protection) Act (14 of 1952), Ss. 6 and 12 —No Contravention Art. 19 (1) (f)—Provisions can be upheld under Art 19(5). See Tenancy Laws—Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal (Protection) Act (14 of 1952), S. 6. AIR 1954 Mad 51 (DB).

Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960).

——Art. 19—Tenancy Laws—Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960), Chap. 11 and S. 134 (1)—Violation of Arts. 14, 19 and 31 of Constitution cannot be urged in view of Art. 31-A. See Tenancy Laws—Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960), Chap. 11. AIR 1963 Tripura 1.

U. P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act (31 of 1952).

● ——Art. 19—State's granting adhivasi rights to trespasser—Arts. 19 and 31 of Constitution not infringed. See Tenancy Laws—U. P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act (31 of 1952), S. 3. AIR 1964 All 213 (FB).

——Art. 19—Deprivation of property under Constitution by authority of law — U P. Land Tenures (Regulation of Transfers) Act (15 of 1952), S. 1 — (Tenancy Laws — U. P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act (31 of 1952), S. 1)—Validity.

Citizens of India can be deprived of property under the Constitution by authority of law and if the enactment which deprives the person of a property is not unconstitutional, it cannot be argued that the law militates against the fundamental rights of citizens guaranteed to them under Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution. Hence U. P. Act 15 of 1952 and U. P. Act 31 of 1952 are perfectly good and valid. 1957 All L J 698 : 1957 All W R (HC) 703 : I L R (1957) 2 All 320 : AIR 1957 All 549 (552) (Pt D) (Prs 11, 12) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1449.]

U. P. Tenancy (Amendment) Act (10 of 1947).

——Arts. 19, 31, 366 — Government of India Act (1935), S. 299 — U. P. Tenancy Amendment) Act (10 of 1947), S 27 — Provisions of S. 27 of U P. Act are not void — Re-instatement of ejected tenant under S. 27, is not "acquisition" within meaning of S. 299, Government of India Act and Art. 31 of the Constitution - U. P. Act is existing law and is saved — Rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) of new tenant are not infringed. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1961 All 191.

West Bengal Bargadars Act (2 of 1950).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Unreasonable procedure — West Bengal Bargadars Act (2 of 1950), S. 5 (1) (a), Proviso.

The proviso requiring the Board's order for termination of Bargadar's cultivation on the ground of owner's desire under S. 5 (1)(a) of the Act 2 of 1950 is not an unreasonable procedure which comes within the prohibition of Art. 19 (1)(f) read with sub-Art. (5) thereof under the Constitution. 89 Cal L J 15 : 56 Cal W N 325 : A I R 1952 Cal 184 (187) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act (1 of 1954).

——Art. 19 — Tenancy Laws — West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act (1 of 1954), S. 52 — Constitutional validity—Expression 'modification'—Meaning of. See Tenancy Laws—West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act (1 of 1954), S. 52. ('63) 67 Cal W N 129.

54. Pre-emption.

Customary law.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5), 13 — Pre-emption on ground of vicinage by custom — It is unreasonable restriction - "Law" in Art. 13 (3) (a) and 'law in force' in Art. 13 (3) (e). AIR 1962 All 199, Reversed.

In so far as statute law is concerned A I R 1962 S C 1470 decides that a law of pre-emption based on vicinage is void. The reasons given by the Supreme Court to hold statute law void apply equally to a custom. Custom as such is affected by Part III of the Constitution dealing with fundamental rights and particularly Art. 19 (1) (f). The definition of the phrase "laws in force" in Art. 13 (3) (b) is an inclusive definition and is intended to include laws passed or made by a Legislature or other competent authority before the commencement of the Constitution irrespective of the fact that the law or any part thereof was not in operation in particular areas or at all. In other words, laws, which were not in operation, though on the statute book were included in the phrase "law in force". But the definition does not in any way restrict the ambit of the word "law" in the first clause as extended by the definition of that word in Art. 13 (3) (b). It merely seeks to amplify it by including something which, but for the second definition, would not be included by the first definition. Custom and usage having in the territory of India the force of the law must be held to be contemplated by the expression 'all laws in force.' The customary law of pre-emption on the ground of vicinage imposes unreasonable restrictions on the right to acquire, hold and to dispose of property guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and is void. AIR 1962 S C 1476, Foll. AIR 1962 All 199, Reversed. Sant Ram v. Labh Singh, 1964 All L J 852 : (1964) 1 S C W R 805 : (1965) 2 S C J 6 : (1964) 7 S C R 756 : AIR 1965 SC 314 (315, 316) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 — Custom of pre-emption — Validity. See Ibid, Art. 13. 1965 All L J 1178 : A I R 1966 All 271.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Pre-emption - Suit for — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f) — Custom of pre-emption based on vicinage violates fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution - Suit based on such custom is not maintainable.

Even though the claim in a suit is based on a custom, if the custom itself is inconsistent with the fundamental rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution that custom would have to be held void and cannot be enforced. The custom of pre-emption based on vicinage imposes an unreasonable restriction on the rights guaranteed under Art. 9 (1) (f) of the Constitution of and a suit for pre-emption, when based on such a custom, is not maintainable. A I R 1962 S C 1476. Rel. on. 1963 All L J 1016 : 1964 All W R (H C) 51 : AIR 1964 All 372 (373) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) — Right of pre-emption based on vicinage amounts to reasonable restriction on right to hold property — Not void on coming into force of the Constitution — Mahomedan Law. 1961 All L J 916 : 1961 All W R (H C) 707 : I L R (1962) 1 All 87 : AIR 1962 All 199 (207) (Prs 45, 47 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1965 S C 314.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Suit for pre-emption pending at time of coming into force of Constitution — Right to obtain decree for pre-emption not affected by Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1958 All 419 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Custom of pre-emption — Validity. See Pre-emption—Custom—Wajib-ul-arz. A I R 1955 N U C (All) 2748.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Law of pre-emption — Validity—Right of pre-emption resting upon custom and acquiring force of lex loci — Not rendered void by Art. 13 read with Art. 19 (1) (f).

Extensive though the right of pre-emption conferred by the Mohammadan Law and by the customary law may be, it does not violate the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution.

Article 19 (1) (f) does not give a citizen a larger right to hold or dispose of property than what the citizen possessed in that property before the Constitution came into force. Thus, where prior to the commencement of the Constitution, a person holding certain property had restricted rights to the enjoyment thereof because of the personal law governing the person or because the property was inalienable by custom he would not get the property freed from those restrictions merely as a consequence of the coming into operation of the Constitution. What Art. 19 (1) (f) guarantees is a right to hold the property in the right to which that property was acquired or owned by the individual and to dispose of that property. The right to dispose of property has not been taken away by the custom of pre-emption. This custom has merely placed restrictions on the right to sell property and certain person or persons have been given a preferential right to purchase the property from the owner thereof.

Where the right of pre-emption rests upon custom, it becomes the lex loci or the law of the place and the right of pre-emption attaches to the properties situated in that place. Wherever the custom of pre-emption prevails, the properties were subject to the burden of pre-emption before the commencement of the Constitution. This burden was not in any way removed or taken away by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. I L R (1960) Bom 862 : 62 Bom L R 574 : 1960 Nag ——Arts. 19 (1) (f), (5) and 13 — Law of pre emption — Right of pre-emption on ground of vicinage — Validity — Infri ges Art 19 (1) (f) and is not saved by Art. 19 (5) — Muhammadan law — Pre-emption — Nature of right). See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1956 Hyd 120.

L J 493 : AIR 1960 Bom 552 (554) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Violation of—Law of pre-emption in Hyderabad — Validity. See Constitution of India, Art. 13 AIR 1954 Hyd 161 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Pre-emption ground of contiguity is not an enforceable right as it violates fundamental rights given by Constitution. 1965 Kash L J 190 : AIR 1966 J & K 89 (92) (Pt A) (Pr 13).

● ——Art 19 (1) (f) and Cl. 7 (as added in J. and K.) and Art. 13 (1).

Right of pre-emption based on vicinage — Right imposes unreasonable restriction on power of alienation and is not saved by Cl. 7 also. A I R 1955 J. and K. 25 (FB) held Overruled in view of AIR 1962 S C 1476; AIR 1963 J and K 27, Approved; AIR 1962 SC 1476 Foll. Master Sewanath v. Faqir Chand, 1965 Kash L J 105 : A I R 1965 J & K 62 (68) (Pt E) (Prs 37 to 40) (F B).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 372—Right of pre-emption under Muhammadan Law — Legality of.

The fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) are subject to reasonable restrictions and it is not an absolute right. All customary law including the personal law is preserved by Art. 372 of the Constitution. Hence, Art. 19 (1) (f) is no bar to the customary right of pre-emption exercisable under the Mohammadan law. AIR 1954 S C 417 and observation of Patanjali Shastri, C. J 1958 M P C 288 : 1958 M P L J 409 : 1958 Jab L J 554 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 423 (424, 425) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Law of pre-emption on ground of vicinage is unconstitutional.

Whatever may be the basis of the law of pre-emption, in any part of the country, whether customary or statutory the law, so far as the right of pre-emption on the ground of vicinage is concerned is unconstitutional, because the restriction that it seeks to impose upon the free power of disposal cannot be regarded as reasonable. AIR 1962 Pat 125 (FB) held overruled by AIR 1962 S C 1476. 1963 B L J R 67 : AIR 1963 Pat 144 (145) (Pr 4) (DB).

● Art. 19 (1) (f)—Pre-emption, right of, is not hit by guarantee conferred by Art 19 (1) (f) and is constitutional. AIR 1962 Pat 125 (FB), Foll. Nathuni Ram v. Gopinath, 1962 B L J R 253 : ILR 41 Pat 144 : AIR 1962 Pat 226 (227) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (FB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5), 13 (1) — Customary law of pre-emption is not void — Right of pre-emption is attached to land—Vendee takes subject to this right. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1962 Pat 125 (F B).

——Art. 19 — Law of pre-emption — Constitutional validity.

The part of the law of pre-emption which gives preference to a partner in the house over a partner in the mansion and to a partner in the house over a partner in the party wall even when they are both co sharers belonging to the same class is an eminently reasonable one. It is not hit by Art. 14 or 19 of the Constitution See Ibid, Art. 14. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 75.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Pre-emption on grounds of vicinity only — Right of — Reasonable restriction. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1957 Raj 182.

— Art. 19 — Pre-emption — Custom — Prior to Constitution custom of pre-emption was not unreasonable. ILR (1956) 6 Raj 197.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Right of pre emption conferred by custom upon 'Shafi-i-sharik' is a valid right.

The claim of pre-emption, whether permitted by law or custom, is a restriction on the right to acquire and hold property guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f). But the operation of the existing law of pre-emption (which, is the present case, is by custom) conferring a right upon 'Shafi-i-sharik' to claim the house sold in preference to a stranger, is a reasonable restriction on the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property, and is valid even after the commencement of the Constitution of India. Case law, Ref ILR (1955) 5 Raj 650 : 1956 Raj L W 336 : AIR 1955 Raj 140 (140, 141) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 6) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Pre-emption — Customary right of—Validity (Pre-emption Validity of right).

The custom of pre-emption which allows an owner of adjoining property to claim possession of a property sold only on the ground of being the owner of the adjoining property is invalid as being contrary to the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. Case-law referred. Panch Gujar v. Amarsingh, ILR (1954) 4 Raj 84 : 1954 Raj L W 204 : AIR 1954 Raj 100 (104) (Pt E) (Pr 22) (FB).

Agra Pre-emption Act (11 of 1922).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 13 (1) — Agra Pre-emption Act (11 of 1922) — Validity — Act held not invalid after Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1951 All 247

Ajmer Laws Regulation (3 of 1877).

—Art. 19 (1) (f) Cl. '3rdly' of S. 9 of Ajmer Laws Regulation (1877) read with provision of drawing lots is not valid under Constitution — Suit based on Cl. '3rdly' cannot succeed — Right of pre-emption—Nature of. AIR 1964 Raj 55 (57, 58) (Pt B) (Prs 10 11, 12, 13) (DB).

Alwar State Pre-emption Act.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Rights to acquire, hold and dispose of property — Alwar State Pre-emption Act —Validity.

The position in law obtaining at present is that Art 19 (1) (f) can be invoked even in cases where the capacity of a citizen to acquire, hold and dispose of the property is not involved but his rights to acquire, hold and dispose of the property in question are only involved on the ground that the restrictions imposed by the Legislature invade his concrete rights in the property. Therefore the rights of a citizen to acquire hold and dispose of the the property as guaranteed under Art 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution are infringed by the Alwar Act. Nathuram v. Patram, 1960 Raj L W 162 : I L R (1960) 10 Raj 443 : AIR 1960 Raj 125 (131) (Pt A) (Prs 17, 18) (SB).

● ——Art. 19 (1)(f)—Ownership of some land in patti — Ownership does not furnish any ground of pre-emption — Alwar State Pre-emption Act (7 of 1946), S. 15 (c). Nathuram v. Patram 1960 Raj L W 162 : ILR (1960) 10 Raj 443 : AIR 1960 Raj 125 (131, 132) (Pt B) (Pr 20) (SB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Reasonable restriction- Pre-emption on basis of vicinage or contiguity—Validity — (Alwar State Pre-emption Act (7 of 1946), S. 16).

Section 16, Alwar State Pre-emption Act should be upheld as valid under Art. 19 (1) (f) except the last which provides that the persons who own immovable property contiguous to the property sold should enjoy the right of pre-emption. The right of pre-emption on the vicinage or contiguity is void as infringing Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. Nathuram v. Patram, 1960 Raj L W 162 : ILR (1960) 10 Raj 443 : AIR 1960 Raj 125 (132, 133) (Pt C) (Prs 24, 26) (SB).

● -Art. 19 (1) (f) — Sale taking place before coming into force of Constitution — Right of pre-emptor to enforce his right to pre-empt — (Alwar State Pre-emption Act (7 of 1946), Ss. 15 and 16) — AIR 1954 Raj 231, Overruled. Nathuram v. Patram, ILR (1960) 10 Raj 443 : 1960 Raj L W 162 : AIR 1960 Raj 125 (134) (Pt D) (Pr 29) (SB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Custom relating to pre-emption prevalent in Jaipur City — Validity of —(Alwar State Pre-emption Act (7 of 1946), Ss. 15 and 16).

Under the custom relating to pre-emption prevalent in the Jaipur City, a co-sharer is not entitled to share equally with the vendee in case the vendee is a co-sharer and the pre-emptor has no preferential right. Such custom is void after the coming into force of the Constitution. Nathuram v. Patram, 1960 Raj L W 162 : ILR (1960) 10 Raj 443 : AIR 1960 Raj 125 (135) (Pt E) (Pr 36) (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Right of pre-emption under Alwar State Pre-emption Act — Whether hit. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1959 Raj 78.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 14 — Law of Pre-emption— Alwar State Pre-emption Act (7 of 1946), S. 15— Validity.

The right of pre-emption is a weak right, and must subsist not only on the date of the suit, but also on the date of the decree. The preferential right to purchase allowed by the Alwar State Pre-emption Act to callaterals based merely on relationship with the vendor is obviously a personal right and not a right which may run with the lands. It is not a reasonable restriction on the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property granted by Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1954 Raj 100 (FB), Rel. on. It is also hit by Art. 14 of the Constitution. AIR 1954 Raj 195, Rel. on. 1957 Raj L W 219 : AIR 1957 Raj 203 (203, 204) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19—Validity of S. 16, Alwar State Pre-emption Act, 1946. See Alwar State Pre-emption Act (7 of 1946), S. 16. AIR 1954 Raj 285.

Alwar Revenue Code.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Alwar Revenue Code, S. 129— Right of pre-emption — Preference given to collaterals—Right is void.

The preferential right to purchase allowed to collatarals by S. 129 of the Alwar Revenue Code on account of relationship as against strangers is not a reasonable restriction on the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property granted by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and as such is void. AIR 1954 Raj 195, Foll. 1956 Raj L W 528 : AIR 1955 Raj 144 (144) (Pr 4).

Berar Land Revenue Code.

● —Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Law of pre-emption contained in Ch. 14 of Berar Land Revenue Code (1928) —Validity.

Chapter 14, Berar Land Revenue Code has engrafted the rules of pre-emption on the land tenures in Berar covered by that chapter. Hence, the property covered by that legislation is a peculiar kind of land tenure which has been created by the State. Such a tenure with its peculiar limitations is property, capable of being held and disposed of like any other property with its own limitations. Such a property does not infringe the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution.

Assuming for the sake of argument that the provisions of Art. 19 of the Constitution are attracted to the law impugned, the provisions of Ss. 179 and 184 in Ch. 14 clearly indicate that the rules of pre-emption laid down in that chapter are mainly and primarily intended for the benefit of the occupants or co-occupants, with a view to consolidation of holdings. Thus, there are unmistakable indications in the law itself that it was intended for the benefits of the class of persons coming within the category of 'occupants' and for ensuring that the land held by them did not by divisions and sub-divisions become uneconomic holdings to the detriment of the interest of the community as a whole. Hence, those provisions viewed even as restrictions on the exercise of the right to acquire, hold, and dispose of property must be adjudged to be reasonable. AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 119, Foll. Ramchandra v. Janardan, ILR (1955) Nag 378: AIR 1955 Nag 225 (229, 230) (Pt C) (Prs 17, 18, 29) (FB).

Bhopal Pre-emption Act (3 of 1934).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Pre-emption law — Bhopal Pre-emption Act (3 of 1934), S. 11 Sixthly—Right of pre-emption on ground of vicinage within limits of urban area —S. 11 Sixthly offends Art. 19 (1) (f) and is void from commencement of Constitution. AIR 1960 Punj 196 (FB) and AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB), Not foll. 1961 Jab L J 368 : 1961 M P C 319 : 1961 M P L J 779 : ILR (1961) M P 718 : AIR 1961 Madh Pra 311 (311, 312) (Prs 2, 4) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (i) and 19 (1) (f)—Bhopal Pre-emption Act (1934), S. 11 (6)—Section 11 (6) of Bhopal Act giving right of pre-emption by vicinage is void : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 423, Dissented from. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1960 Madh Pra 191.

Gwalior Pre-emption Act.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Gwalior Pre-emption Act (1992 Sm.), S. 12 (1), (5) and (6) — Infringement of fundamental right by exercise of right of pre-emption —Restriction, whether reasonable.

Per Full Bench — Sub-sections (1) (pre-emption by co-sharers), (5) (pre-emption by persons holding a dominant or servient tenement) and (6) (pre-emption by vicinage) of S. 12, Gwalior Pre-emption Act, Samvat 1992, infringe the fundamental rights of the vendor and the vendee under Art. 19 (1) (f).

Per Dixit and Chaturvedi, JJ. — The restrictions imposed by sub-s. (6) (pre-emption by vicinage) of S. 12, Gwalior Pre emption Act, 1992 Sm. are not reasonable; but the restrictions imposed by sub-ss. (1) (pre-emption by co-sharer), and (5) (pre-emption by persons holding a dominant or servient tenement) of that section are reasonable and saved by Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution.

Per Nevaskar, J.—Restrictions imposed by the law of pre-emption in the case of right of pre-emption by co-ownership are reasonable and the law does not therefore, run contrary to Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. But the restriction imposed on the right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) by reason of right of pre-emption based on the ground of easement and vicinage cannot be said to be reasonable. Babulal v. Gowardhandas, Madh B L R 1956 Civ 1 : Madh BLJ 1955 H C R 1905 : AIR 1956 Madh Bha 1 (9, 11) (Pt B) (Prs 20, 37, 38, 39) (FB).

J. and K. Rights of Prior Purchase Act (2 of 1993 Samvat.)

——Arts. 19, Cl. (7) and 19 (1) (f) (as added in Jammu and Kashmir).

Clause (7) is not retrospective—J. & K. Rights of Prior Purchase Act (2 of 1993), S. 15, Sixthly— Right of pre-emption in respect of urban immovable property and house property—Right based on vicinage—

Clause Sixthly of S. 15 is void. AIR 1963 J & K 27 (28. 29) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) — Right of Prior Purchase Act (2 of 1993 Smt.), S. 14 (c) firstly - Validity — Restriction imposed under is reasonable and hence valid.

Section 14, Clause (c), firstly, of the Right of Prior Purchase Act, conferring right of prior purchase on an owner in the Mahal is intended to preserve integrity of the village and the village community. It cannot be held to be unreasonable restriction on the right to dispose of property. The provision is valid. 1962 Kash L J 123 : AIR 1963 J & K 14 (14, 15) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

Marwar Pre-emption Act (1922).

——Art 19 (1) (f) —Section 3, third clause of law of pre-emption in Marwar — Validity — Pre-emption based on vicinage has become invalid from 26-1-50. 1954 Raj L W 292 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 310: AIR 1954 Raj 231 (232) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 19—Law of Pre-emption in Marwar — S. 3, third clause—Decree for pre-emption, after coming into force of Constitution cannot be given. 1954 Raj L W 292 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 310 : AIR 1954 Raj 231 (232, 233) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 5, 6, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)——Law of pre emption – Validity. See Marwar Pre-emption Act (1922), S. 3 (2). AIR 1954 Raj 195 (DB).

Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913).

● —Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 19 (5) — Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) (before its amendment in 1960), S. 15 (c), Thirdly — Restriction placed on right of vendor in regard to disposal of his agricultural land — Restriction is reasonable—S. 15 (c), Thirdly, is valid.

The expression 'estate' which is used in cl. (c), Thirdly, of S. 15 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1913 is not defined by the Act but by reason of its S. 3 (6), the definition in S. 3 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act 1887, is attracted to it. Reading the definition of the term 'estate' as given in S. 3 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act with S. 61 of that Act, it will be seen that an 'estate' is a unit of assessment and there is a joint and several liability on persons owning land within the 'estate' to pay the entire assessment due on the estate unless a holding or its owner is exempted by a notification issued under S. 61 (1), Proviso (a) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act from his liability for any part of the Land Revenue for the time being as assessed on the estate except that part which is payable in respect of the holding. Thus though it is not really the case of a co-sharer, it is somewhat akin to that of a cosharer because of the joint liability for payment of land revenue. The provision, therefore contained in S. 15 (c), Thirdly, of the Punjab Pre-emption Act (as it stood before its amendment in 1960) vesting the right of pre-emption in respect of agricultural land in the owners of the estate, though restricts the right of the vendor in respect of the disposal of his property, yet the restriction is a reasonable one and not repugnant to Art. 19 of the Constitution of India. Ram Sarup v Munshi, 65 Punj L R 531 : 1963 S C D 728 : (1963) 3 S C R 858 : AIR 1963 S C 553 (559, 560, 561) (Pt D) (Prs 17, 18, 19, 22).

● —Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 19 (5) — Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913 (before its amendment by Punj Act 10 of 1960), S. 15 (a) (and after amendment), S. 15 (1) (a) — Pre-emption restricts right given by Art. 19 (1) (f) — However provisions in S. 15 (a), whether before or after its amendment, do not transgress limits of reasonableness required by Art. 19 (5) — Punjab Pre-emption Act is valid.

The right of pre-emption granted by S. 6 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1913, is a restriction on the right 'to hold and dispose of property' on the part of the vendor—the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. The grounds for upholding S. 15 (a) as reasonable and in the interest of the general public, after eliminating the others enumerated in AIR 1954 Punjab 55 (FB), resolve into two, namely, (1) to preserve the integrity of the village and the village community; and (2) to implement the agnatic rule of succession. The objective underlying the first ground is prima facie reasonable. The other ground, namely, that the next in succession should have the chance of retaining the property in he family will suffice to render the restriction reasonable and in the interest of the general public within Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution.

The provisions contained in S. 15 (a) of the Punjab Act as it originally stood, as well as in the modified form in which it has been re enacted as S. 15 (1) (a) do not transgress the limits of reasonableness required by Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution AIR 1954 Raj 195, Dissting Ram Sarup v. Munshi, 65 Pun L R 531: 1963 S C D 728 : (1963) 3 S C R 858 : AIR 1963 S C 553 (561, 562, 563) (Pt E) (Prs 23, 25, 26, 27, 28 29).

● ——Arts. 19 (5), 19 (1) (f)—Pre-emption—Law of—Validity Whether reasonable restriction on fundamental right to hold property — Rewa State Pre-emption Act (1946), S 10 — Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) S 16 - Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), Chapter XV. S. 174 — Constitution of India, Arts 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) and 15; F A No. 16 of 1952 (Vindh Pra.) Reversed. AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB) and AIR 1960 Punj 196 (FB) Overruled. See Pre-emption —Law of — Validity. AIR 1962 S C 1476.

——Art. 19 (5) and 19 (1) (f) — Reasonable restrictions — Law of Pre-emption — See Punjab Pre emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 1. AIR 1955 N U C (Him Pra) 3680.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Ss. 15 and 16, Punjab Pre emption Act — Sections are not ultra vires See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15. AIR 1954 Pepsu 180 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Right of pre-emption — Is an aggressive right — No equity in favour of pre-emptor —Right must be strictly construed See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 4. I L R (1961 2 Punj 614.

● —Art 19 (1) f) – Reasonable restriction — Pre-emption law Validity — (Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 16 sixthly).

The provisions contained in clause 'sixthly' of S. 16 the Punjab Pre emption Act are not ultra vires the provisions of Art. 19 of the Constitution inasmuch as the restrictions imposed by the law of pre-emption are not unreasonable. AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB), Approved. Sardha Ram v. Haji Abdul Majid, 62 Pun L R 201 : AIR 1960 Punj 196 (197, 201, 202) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 20. 22) (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1962 S C 1476].

——Art. 19 (5) — Scope — Punjab Pre emption Act (1913), S. 16 – Validity — Distinction between right of pre-emption based in joint use and ownership— If reasonable restriction. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 16 AIR 1958 Punj 44 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) S 15 not ultra vires See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15. AIR 1953 Punj 20.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Validity of Punjab Pre emption Act, Ss. 15 and 16 – Restrictions imposed by these Sections are in the interest of general public. Hence these Sections are not ultra vires. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) S 15. AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1962 SC 1476].

Rewa State Pre-emption Act (1946).

——Art. 19 (5) — Rewa State Pre-emption Act (1946), S. 10 — Validity. See Rewa State Pre-emption Act (1946), S. 10. AIR 1956 Vin-Pra 9.

Zabtai Shikmidaran.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)— Law of pre-emption — Zabtai Shikmidaran, Ss. 12 and 14 — They do not infringe right under Art. 19 (1) (f).

To limit the liberty of the purchase and sale of land of any particular class, with a definite object of welfare of such class may be permissible and considered reasonble restriction whereas subjecting every citizen to the restriction may not be deemed so. Hence Ss. 12 and 14 of Zabtai Shikmidaran do not infringe the right conferred under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution: AIR 1954 Hyd 161 (FB), Disting. ILR (1956) Hyd 19 : AIR 1956 Hyd 47 (48) (Prs 3, 6) (DB).

55. Acquisition of lands.

See also Ibid, Note 4.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Land Acquisition Act (1894) as amended by Act 31 of 1962 — Validity — See Ibid, Art. 31 (2). AIR 1964 S C 1230.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6—Constitutionality — See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6. AIR 1963 S C 151.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Notification under S. 4 of Land Acquisition Act (1894) - Validity — Notification does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1955 S C 41 and AIR 1957 S C 521, Foll. Babu Barkya Thakur v. State of Bombay, (1961) 1 S C R 128 : (1961) 2 S C J 392 : (1961) 2 S C A 425 : AIR 1960 S C 1203 (1208) (Pt E) (Pr 13).

——Art. 19 (5) — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 17 (1) — Section is not violative of Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution—See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 17 (1). AIR 1965 All 433.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6 (1) and (2)—Validity — Provisions do not violate Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5). See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6 (1). AIR 1958 All 872.

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 764.]

——Art. 19 (6) — 'Interest of general public' — Acquisition for company—(Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6 (1).)

The fact that the acquisition is for a company does not necessarily imply that the purpose for which it is acquired is not one for the benefit of the entire public. AIR 1958 All 126 (132) (Pt H) (Pr 16).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Ss. 6 (3) and 17 (4), Land Acquisition Act, if ultra vires.

Sections 6 (3) and 17 (4) of the Land Acquisition Act are not ultra vires as offending against Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5). A I R 1952 Cal 554, Disting. A I R 1958 All 126 (134) (Pt K) (Pr 24).

——Art. 19—Scope — Assam Acquisition of Land for Flood Control and Prevention of Erosion (Validation) Act, 1959 (21 of 1960), Ss. 2, 3—Scope — Act, if provides for acquisition—Provisions relating to payment of compensation—Intention of Legislature - Validity of Assam Act 6 of 1955 — Acquisition of land prior to Act of 1955 — Validation by Act of 1960 — Effect. See Assam Acquisition of Land For Flood Control and Prevention of Erosion (Validation) Act, 1959 (21 of 1960), S. 2. AIR 1963 Assam 141 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — United Khasi Jaintia Hills Autonomous Districts (Management and Control of Markets) Act (5 of 1953) — Villagers holding market on land belonging to Government—Permissive user — District Council taking over management of market and right to collect tolls under Act — No infringement of fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (g), or Art. 19 (1) (f). I L R (1960) 12 Assam 26.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g), 358 — Land Acquisition Act (1894) (as amended by Bombay Act 8 of 1958), Ss. 4, 6, 3 (f) (2) — Validity of — Sections as amended by Bombay Act not ultra vires.

Sections 4 and 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 read with S. 3 (f) (2) as amended by the Bombay Commissioners of Divisions Act, 1958 do not infringe the provisions of Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. A I R 1963 S C 151 and Civil Appeal No. 322 of 1961, dated 1-12-1961 (SC), Rel. on. Further, Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g) is no longer available to the petitioner having regard to the provisions of Art. 358 of the Constitution and the proclamation of emergency recently made by the President in October, 1962. Neither S. 4 nor S. 6 of the Land Acquisition Act can, therefore, be held to infringe Art. 19 of the Constitution. 67 Bom L R 101 : 1965 Mah L J 290 : I L R (1965) Bom 394 : AIR 1965 Bom 224 (238) (Pt C) (Pr 34) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (3) and 31 (2) — Eminent domain—Requisition—Applicability of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) to requisition under Bombay Land Acquisition Act — (Bombay Land Requisition Act (33 of 1948), S. 6 (4) (a)).

Where a case is of the exercise of the power of eminent domain, Art. 31 applies and the requirements thereof have to be satisfied. Article 19 (1) (f) does not apply to such a case. Article 19 (1) (f) applies to cases where the person entitled to a right to property is in enjoyment of that right and restrictions are sought to be placed on such enjoyment. Requisition is included within the term "acquisition" in Art 31 (2) and the power that is exercised under the Bombay Land Requisition Act is under the sphere of eminent domain and the Act does not provide for the exercise of this power without fulfilling the conditions of Art. 31 (2). No question, therefore, arises of considering whether any restrictions placed on the enjoyment of property are reasonable restrictions as Art. 19 (5) does not come into play and Art. 19 (1) (f) does not apply to a case under Act. 56 Bom L R 966 : A I R 1955 Bom 271 (272) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 19 — West Bengal Closing of Canals Act (2 of 1959) — Validity — Art. 31 (1) does not afford protection against legislative expropriation — Substantial abridgement of right of ownership—No compensation payable under Art. 31 — Closing of canals for considerations of health and growth of city of Calcutta — Action of Government is saved under Art. 19 (5) (6) — West Bengal Closing of Canals Act is valid. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1964 Cal 45.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Validity of West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act. See West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (2 of 1948). AIR 1963 Cal 373.

——Art. 19 — West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act (1 of 1954), S. 5-A — Applies to Khasmahal lands — Constitutional validity — No excessive or unguided delegation — Word 'may' meaning of — West Bengal Estates Acquisition (1954), Rule 3-A — Rule for procedure of enquiry and not for forming opinion. See Tenancy Laws — West Bengal Estates' Acquisition Act (1 of 1954), S. 52. ('63) 67 Cal W N 129.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Validity of S. 7, W. B. Act (21 of 1948). See West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 7. A I R 1954 Cal 248 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 16].

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Section 4, West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act, even if offends Art. 19 (1) (f) is saved by Art. 19 (5). See West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 4. AIR 1953 Cal 704 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Land Acquisition Act (1894) (as amended by Act 31 of 1962), S 40 (1) (aa)—Effect of amendment — Amendments are not ultra vires — Constitution of India, Arts 14, 19 (1) (f), 31 (2). See Land Acquisition Act (1894) (as amended by Act 31 of 1962), S. 40 (1) (aa). AIR 1964 Guj 82.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Travancore Land Acqusition Act — Procedure for acquisition – Not discriminatory—Act not invalid — Act is an "existing law" within protection of Art. 31 (5) (a) of Constitution. See Travancore Land Acquisition Act 11 of 1914, S. 4. 1964 Ker L J 85.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) — Scope and effect. See Land Acquisition Act, S. 6. AIR 1952 Mad 756.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (2) — Valid acquisition under Art. 31 (2)—Effect on Art. 19 (1) (f).

Article 19 (1) (f) must be read subject to Art. 31 (2) and where there is a valid acquisition under that Article there is no property in respect of which the rights conferred under Art. 19 (1) (f) could be claimed. 1950 F L J 174; 1951 F L J 29; A I R 1951 All 674 (FB) : A I R 1951 Bom 86, Rel. on. 65 Mad L W 747: 1952-2 Mad L J 298 : 1952 Mad W N 677 : I L R (1952) Mad 982 : A I R 1952 Mad 756 (757) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Madras Electricity Supply Undertakings (Acquisition) Act (1949) -Validity — Government of India Act (1935), Sch. VII, List, I Item 33, List III Item 31. See Madras Electricity Supply Undertakings (Acquisition) Act 43 of 1949. AIR 1951 Mad 979 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1954 S C 251]

——Art. 19—Khasmahal lease — Determination of lease by Government as per terms of lease — Clause providing for compulsory acquisition without compensation for leasehold interest held not unconstitutional—Government acting as a private lessor and not in exercise of powers of eminent domain—Fundamental rights not contravened. See Ibid, Art. 31. ILR (1962) Cut 27

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—S. 48 Bihar Town Planning and Improvement Trust Act—Validity—Provision does not contravene Art. 19.

The law is not unconstitutional or invalid merely because it has not provided for service of notice on all the occupiers of the premises sought to be acquired, whether such occupiers are entered in the municipal assessment list or not. It would be throwing an unreasonable burden on the Improvement Trust to to make a roving enquiry about all the occupiers of the premises and to serve notice on them. It is always open to, rather it is the duty of, the occupier to get his name entered as such in the municipal assessment list at the time of its preparation and publication or even thereafter, but, if he does not do so either due to negligence or to avoid his liability to pay the latrine or the drainage tax, he cannot complain that his property right has been affected without giving him any notice and opportunity of being heard and that such procedural defect in the law will make it unconstitutional and invalid. 1963 B L J R 254 : AIR 1963 Pat 201 (205, 206) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Land Acquisition Act (1894), Ss. 4 and 6 – Validity —Do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f). See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 4. AIR 1958 Pat 183 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Invasion of fundamental rights—Other remedy open—Deprivation of property without notification under S. 4, Land Acquisition Act (1894)—Alternative remedy by way of Civil suit available—High Court can still exercise its power where alternative remedy is not equally effectual and the petitioner is likely to suffer irretrievable loss and damage. See Ibid, Art. 226. ('65) 67 Punj L R 616.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 226—Land Acquisition—Petitioners dissatisfied by amount of compensation offered by the Land Acquistion Officer, and therefore, applying under Art. 226 –Motive of petitioners will not and should not debar them from enforcing their fundamental right by applying under Art. 226, if it is in fact infringed. 61 Pun L R 609 : AIR 1959 Punj 544 (547) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

—— Art. 19—Question regarding urgency—Not open for judicial review. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), S. 17. AIR 1964 Raj 270 (DB).

56. Restraint on alienation.

See also Ibid, Note 54.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Hindu widow—Restrictions on power of disposal of property—Validity—Hindu Law—Widow's estate. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1952 Him Pra 42.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Right of easement is not unreasonable restriction on power of alienation. See J. & K. Right of Prior Purchase Act (2 of 1996), S. 15. A I R 1965 J & K 62 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—S. 69, T. P. Act—Validity—Does not offend Art 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 69. AIR 1955 Mad 135.

57. Evacuee property legislation.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Decision of Custodian-General that property is evacuee property and that petitioner's husband who transferred the same to petioner was evacuee, becoming final — Petitioner cannot complain of any infringement of his fundamental right—Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), Ss. 2 (d), 28.

Where the alleged fundamental right of the petitioner is really dependent on whether her husband who had transferred his property in favour of the petitioner was an evacuee and whether his property is evacuee property if the decision of the appropriate authorities of competent jurisdiction on these questions has become final, the petitioner not having moved the appropriate High Court against the decision of the Custodian-general or not having moved the Supreme Court by way of Special leave, and cannot be treated as a nullity or cannot be otherwise got rid of, the petitioner cannot complain of any infringement of her fundamental right under Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 of the Constitution. AIR 1960 S C 768 Applied. Aniyoth Kunhamina Umma v. Ministry of Rehabilatation, Government of India, New Delhi, (1961) 2 S C J 621 : (1962) 1 S C R 505 : AIR 1962 S C 1616 (1618, 1619) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 6).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act (1951), S. 10, Cl. (a)—Composite property comprising sugar mill — Order of sale of property—Validity.

The composite property comprised of a sugar mill, which in the very nature of things could not be partitioned. The money value of the share of the non-evacuees represented a large sum of money. The non-evacuees had not claimed the payment of that sum from the Custodian. Nor were the non evacuee co-sharers prepared to pay to the Custodian the money value of the shares of the evacuees ;

Held, that in the circumstances, the sale of the property and division of the sale proceeds was the only mode of separation available and the order of the Competent Officer for sale could not be termed unreasonable or violative of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution nor did it violate Art. 31 because it could not be said to be deprivation of the non-evacuees of their property without the authority of law. Azimunnissa v. Deputy Custodian, Evacuee Properties District Deoria, (1961) 2 S C R 91 : (1962) 1 S C J 324 : AIR 1961 S C 365 (371, 372) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 (1) and 31 (2) — 'Property'—Rights of quasi-permanent allottee under East Punjab Act 14 of 1947—If property — (E P. Evacuees (Administration of Property) Act (14 of 1947), Ss. 9-A and 2 (2) and (ff) — (Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), Ss. 12 and 55) — (Administration of Evacuee Property (Central Rules (1950), R. 14) (Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), Ss. 10, 12 and 19) — (Displaced Persons Compensation and Rehabilitation Rules (1957), Rr. 72 (2) and 102).

Rule (6), as it originally stood until 6th February, 1950, must be read with S. 9-A of the East Punjab Act (14 of 1947) as amended in 1948, in so far as it relates to allotment. Similarly, Central Rules of 1950, and the delegated State Rules of 1950 and 1951 must be read to harmonise with S. 12 of the Central Act (31 of 1950). Reading these powers of cancellation under the Act and the Rules together, it will be found that the power of cancellation of such allotments is wide and varied and depends to a substantial extent on administrative orders and considerations. As to the position of a displaced landholder to whom evacuee agricultural land has been allotted, there can be no doubt that he is in a definitely better legal position than the allottee of other kinds of property under the Central Act (31 of 1950), and the Central Rules, 1950. But even so, it is still far short of what can be considered as being in itself 'property'.

Section 19 of the Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act and R 109 framed under the Act are in terms wide enough to include quasi-permanent allotments. The position of a quasi-permanent allottee is that his rights are subject to powers of cancellation exercisable by the appropriate authorities in accordance with the changing requirements of the evacuee property law and its administration.

It cannot be held that the interest of a quasi-permanent allottee is 'property' within the concept of that word so as to attract the protection of fundamental rights. 59 Punj L R 103, Disapproved.

Property to fall within the scope of Art 19 (1) (f) must be capable of being the subject matter of 'acquisition and disposal'. Art. 31 (2) as recently amended, taken with Art. 31 (2 A) contemplates acquisition or requisitioning (and taking possession) as a result to transfer of the ownership or of the right to possession.

In order that Art. 31 (1) may apply, it is not enough that there is deprivation but it must also be deprivation without the authority of law. The allottees whose quasi permanent allotment has been cancelled in order to work out re adjustment consequent upon the order of the higher authority cannot invoke the protection of Art. 31 (1), as it is not an illegal usurpation of jurisdiction by the authority so as to constitute negation of authority of law. Though quasi-permanent allotment does not carry with it a fundamental right to property under the Constitution, the rights of the allottee as recognised in the statutory rules are important and constitute the essential basis of a satisfactory rehabilitation and settlement of displaced landholders. Until such time as the landholders obtain sanads to the lands, these rights are entitled to zealous protection of the constituted authorities. Amar Singh v. Custodian Evacuee Property, Punjab, 1957 S C J 574 : 1958 S C A 171 : 1957 S C R 801 : AIR 1957 S C 599 (607, 612) (Prs 17, 18, 19, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29).

● —Arts. 19 (5) and 31 — East Punjab Evacuees (Administration of Property) Act (14 of 1947 as amended by Act 26 of 1948), S. 5-A — Validity. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1956 S C 43.

—Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) - Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 43 - Validity — Restrictions on rights of evacuee's heirs — Reasonable in public interest—No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution.

Section 43 of the Act does not unreasonably restrict the rights of an evacuee's heirs to hold property, so as to be void for infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f). The restrictions which the Act imposes are reasonable from the point of view of the interests of the general public AIR 1963 All 101 (104, 105) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

—Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)—Scope and applicability—Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act (1951) S. 10 (a) (iii) —Constitutionality — Section is not unconstitutional having regard to Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. See Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act (64 of 1951), S. 10 (a) (iii). AIR 1957 All 561.

● —Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 — Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950)—Validity.

The words "a citizen shall have the right to" must be interpreted as equal to "a citizen shall not suffer any disability from exercising his free choice to acquire, hold or dispose of property." Article 19 does not rule out reasonable restrictions in the general interest, to control the rights. Undoubtedly, the provisions of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act are of a very drastic nature. They enable the Custodian to hold and manage the property of the evacuee and also of his co-sharers. But this control or regulation cannot, under all the circumstances which existed in India by reason of the fact that this country which was at one time one had been partitioned and that that partition had given rise to a number of problems between the two countries, be said to be opposed to public interest. The enactment can be justified as satisfying the requirements of Art. 19 (5). The Act is not void under Art. 19 (1) (f) or under Art. 31 of the Constitution. AIR 1951 All 257, Referred. Asiatic Engineering v. Achhru Ram, 1951 R D (H C) 241 : 1951 All L J 576 : ILR (1952) 2 All 838 : AIR 1951 All 746 (773) (Pt N) (Prs 86, 88, 89) (FB).

—Art. 19 — Fundamental rights—Not violated by either Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (1949) or Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950) 53 Bom L R 621 : AIR 1951 Bom 440 (454) (Pt L) (Pr 24) (DB).

—Art. 19 (1) (f) — Reasonable restriction on the right of a citizen to acquire property. See Administration of Evacuee Property Act (31 of 1950), S. 40. AIR 1953 Hyd 157 (DB).

● —Art. 19 (1) (f)—'Property'—Interest of allottee under J. & K. State Evacuees' (Administration of Property) Act (2006) is not property.

An allottee under J & K State Evacuees' (Administration of Property) Act (2006) has no insignia or characteristics of proprietary rights vested in him in respect of land allotted to him. Whatever may be the interest of an allottee in the land, it does not constitute 'property' as used in Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution of India. Hence ejectment of an allottee from the land allotted to him would not amount to infringement of his fundamental rights vested in him under Art. 19 (1) (f). Gain Kour v Provincial Rehabilitation Officer. AIR 1956 J & K 33 (34) (Pt C) (Prs 5, 6) (FB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 —Deprivation of property under S. 40 of Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950)—Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 40.

The right to hold, acquire and dispose of property is not absolute. It is subject to the limitations specified in Art. 19 (5) and to the provisions contained in Art. 31. The question of the right of a citizen to hold, acquire or dispose of the property can arise only so long as his property has not been taken away under Art. 31. If he has been deprived of his property under Art. 31 (1) or if his property has been acquired or taken possession of under Art. 31 (2) no question of his acquiring, holding or disposing of that property could possibly arise under Art. 19 (1) (f). If the petitioner has been deprived of his property under S. 40 of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1950 then Art. 19 (1) (f). of the Constitution has no application to his case. The applicant must then show that quite apart from Art 19 (1)(f) the Act in question is otherwise invalid. AIR 1950 S C 27, A I R 1951 S C 41 Foll. AIR 1951 Bom 440 Rel. on. A I R 1952 Madh.Bha 181 (185) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950) — Validity.

(Obiter):—The restrictions imposed by the Administration of Evacuee Property Act are reasonable and in the interests of the general public. Having regard to the events which happened soon after the partition in 1947 and also taking into consideration the entire scheme of the Act which is to make a provision for the custody, management and the administration of evacuee property until a satisfactory and final settlement takes place between India and the Dominion of Pakistan, it cannot be said that the Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1950 does not satisfy the requirements of Art. 19 (5) Case law Rel. on. A I R 1952 Madh Bha 181 (186) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (1949), S. 19 — Fundamental rights of a person declared to be an intending evacuee — Not affected. 1951 Mad W N 477: 1951-2 Mad L J 1 : AIR 1951 Mad 930 (934) (Pt G) (Prs 18, 19) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (1949), S. 21. Validity.

None of the restrictions contained in S. 21 of the Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (1949) can be said to be not reasonably imposed. 1951 Mad W N 477 : 1951-2 Mad L J 1 : AIR 1951 Mad 930 (935) (Pt I) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (1949), S 20— Validity.

The restriction on the power of disposal of immovable property contained in S. 20 of the Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance, as it stands, is an unreasonable restriction on the exercise of the intending evacuee's right as a citizen under Art 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. 1951 Mad W N 477: 1951-2 Mad L J 1 : A I R 1951 Mad 930 (935) (Pt J) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 19 - Evacuee Property Legislation—Administration of Evacuee Property Act (31 of 1950), S. 1 — Provisions of Act are mandatory— Violation would mean abridgement of fundamental rights. A I R 1957 Orissa 194 DB).

—— Art. 19 (1) (f), (5)—Unreasonable restriction.

Administration of Evacuee Property Act, although in certain cases, may work some hardship cannot be said to be an unreasonable legislation placing undue fetters upon the right to manage and hold property. 32 Pat 181 : 1953 B L J R 185 : AIR 1953 Pat 112 (115) (Pt C) (Pr 4A) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31— Scope and applicability — Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 17 (2).

Article 19 (1) (f) can have no application to the provisions of S. 17 (2) of the impugned Act, for in a case of total deprivation of property it is Art. 31 that is attracted. While Art. 19 (1) (f) speaks of general rights of a citizen to acquire, hold and dispose of property, Art 31 deals with the specific rights of a person (whether a citizen or not) in the property that he owns, Art. 31 prescribes the conditions under which a person may be deprived of his property by the State or under which the property may be acquired or taken possession of by the State for puhlic purpose. Where a person is deprived of his property, or where his property has been acquired or taken possession of by the State, validity of the proceedings can be tested only with reference to Art. 31 and not with reference to Art. 19 (1) (f). Such a case falls within the specific provisions contained in Art. 31 and therefore will not be covered by the general provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1956 Pepsu 58 (63) (Pt F) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 19 — 'General public' includes part of public —Restriction prescribed by Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act (1951), S 9 - Reasonableness of.

The term 'general public' is comprehensive enough to include a part of the public. On this interpretation the restriction, if any created by S 9, Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act which operates in lawful and proper aid of or protects a section of the general public is in public interest.

The restriction prescribed by S. 9 of the Act with regard to the rate of interest on the principal advanced against evacuee property or on the rights of the mortgagees that they can hold in usufructuary mortgage for a maximum period of 20 years whereafter the mortgages would be extinguished, are valid restrictions falling within the purview of Cl. (5) of Art 19 of the Constitution. ILR (1956) Patiala 205 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 148 (152) (Pt F) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act (1951), S. 9— Validity.

All property is subject to reasonable regulation by the state. It has always been in the interest of the public that the rate of interest charged by a creditor should not be excessive Even if Art. 19 applies to S 9, Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act, the restrictions imposed by the Legislatuture are reasonable and in the interest of the public. I L R (1955) Punj 509 : 56 Punj L R 443 : AIR 1954 Punj 261 (263, 264) (Pt E) (Pr 11) (DB).

—— Arts. 19, 31 & 14 — Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), Ss. 8 to 12 — Validity.

Ss. 8 to 12 of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act cannot be held to be ultra vires as being inconsistent with the fundamental rights guaranteed under Arts. 19 and 31 of the Constitution of India. The Administration of Evacuee Property Act does not also contravene Art. 14 of the Constitution. 53 Bom L R 821 and Misc. Application 198 of 1950 (Bom) Rel. on. 4 Sau L R 268 : AIR 1953 Sau 73 (74) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

58. Debt laws.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — U. P. Zamindars' Debt Reduction Act (15 of 1953), Ss. 3, 4, 7, 8 and 9 — Restrictions on right of creditor to realise full amount of compensation and rehabilitation grant —Right of creditor under Art. 19 (1) (f) not violated. AIR 1962 All 521 (534, 537, 541) (Pt D) (Prs 46, 62, 63, 65, 68, 80) (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (f) — U. P. Encumbered Estates Act (25 of 1934), S. 7 (2) — Validity — Not ultra vires

Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. See Debt Laws —U. P. Encumbered Estates Act (25 of 1934), S. 7 (2). 1962 All L J 573.

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5) — Restrictions in the interest of general public—Hyderabad Jagirdars Debt Settlement Act (12 of 1952)—Validity.

Where the constitutionality of the Act is challenged under Art. 19 (1) (f), in order to succeed, it must be shown that the alleged infringement does not amount to reasonable restriction in the interest of the general public; for such restriction on freedom to hold property has been permitted by Cl (5) of Art. 19. A few hard cases do not make the provisions of a legislation, which is otherwise reasonable and in public interest, void on the ground of the guarantee contained in Art. 19 (1) (f) having been infringed thereby.

To justify the complaint, the limitations under the impugned enactment must be arbitrary, excessive and without any reasonable relation to the object it seeks to attain. If the limitations be found to have reasonable relation to the purpose in view, they are saved by Art. 19 (5).

Of course, however reasonably related the provisions of an Act may be to the object, it is obvious that it alone would not save them from being void unless the object be also in the 'interest of general public'. Though the object of affording relief to the class of former Jagirdars or their co sharers may not directly benefit the public, yet it indirectly served a public purpose. The Jagir Abolition Regulation, the Jagir Commutation Regulation and the impugned Act should be taken together and in considering the public interest the enactment should not be divorced from the earlier legislations.

For the chronic incapacity to pay the debt which the impugned Act sets out to relieve was in a large number of cases due to the passing of the two earlier Regulations, which could not but be held to have been in the interest of the general public. The inability having so arisen all the three Acts should be considered as inter-related. Their central object was land reform and the prevention of injurious consequences and hardships to which the reform might give rise.

It could not therefore be said that the impugned Act violated guarantee of freedom of properties on the ground that the various limitations in the Act had no reasonable relation to the object of the Act. Case law discussed. ILR (1955) Hyd 510 : AIR 1955 Hyd 194 (196, 198, 199) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 15, 17, 18, 21, 22) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 — S. 11A, Kerala Agriculturists Debt Relief Act (31 of 1958) is valid and does not infringe Art. 19—See Debt Laws — Kerala Agriculturists Debt Relief Act (31 of 1958), S. 11A. AIR 1965 Ker 39 (FB).

——Art. 19 – Debt Laws — Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act (4 of 1938) — Validity — See Debt Laws — Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act (4 of 1938). AIR 1952 Mad 11 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 13 (1), 14, 15—Debt Laws – Bihar Money Lenders (Regulation of Transaction) Act (1939), S. 4 — Validity — See Debt Laws — Bihar Money Lenders (Regulation of Transaction) Act (7 of 1939), S. 4. AIR 1953 Pat 259.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Rajasthan Jagirdars' Debt Reduction Act (9 of 1957), Ss. 3, 4, 6, 7, 8 – Validity — [Rajasthan Jagirdars' Debt Reduction Act (9 of 1957), Ss. 3, 4, 6, 7, 8].

So far as the reduction of the secured debt apportioned on the jagir land by 1/5th is concerned, it is a reasonable restriction imposed on the exercise of property rights by the creditors in public interest to save the Jagirdars from being ruined as a result of resumption of jagirs, which is saved under Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. Similarly the provisions contained in S. 7 (1) and S. 8 appear to be reasonable restrictions imposed in public interest. But the provision contained in S. 7 (2) appears to be an excessive invasion on the rights of the creditors. A jagirdar may have considerable non Jagir property which can be taken in execution by an unsecured creditor in spite of the impugned Act without any restriction. It is wholly unfair to prevent a secured creditor from laying hands on this property in execution. Hence S. 7 (2) of the impugned Act is void in view of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. 1959 Raj L W 466: ILR (1959) 9 Raj 547.

——Art. 19(1)(f), (5)—Debt Laws—Travancore-Cochin Holdings (Stay of Execution Proceedings) Act (1950) —Preamble — Restrictions coming within Art. 19 (5) —Clause (1) (f) of Articles is not offended — See Debt Laws—Travancore-Cochin Holdings (Stay of Execution Proceedings) Act (8 of 1950), Preamble. AIR 1953 T C 327.

59. Clause (1) (f)—Illustrative examples—Valid restrictions.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 548 (2) — Levy of Licence fee in 1948 on cinema house—Increase of fee from Rs. 400 to 6,000 per year in 1958 — Does not amount to expropriation —Levy not invalid as violating Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of Constitution—See Municipalities — Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 548 (2). AIR 1965 S C 1107.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g) — Madras Essential Articles Control and Requisitioning (Temporary Powers) Act (29 of 1949), S. 3 (1)—Order under, by State Government increasing agreed tariff rate for supply of electricity to its consumers— Validity — Orders are reasonable and in the interests of general public.

The orders of the State Government increasing the agreed rate of tariff for the supply of electricity to its consumers have been notified by virtue of powers conferred on the State by S. 3 (1) of the Madras Essential Articles Control and Requisitioning (Temporary Powers) Act, 1949 and may therefore be treated as law for purposes of Art. 19 and assuming that the right to receive supply of electricity at the rates agreed is a right of the consumers which falls within Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g), the orders are reasonable and in the interest of the public and cannot be challenged as contravening Article 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution. V. S. Rice and Oil Mills v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (1965) 1 S C J 318 : (1965) 1 Andh W R (S C) 31 : (1965) 1 Mad L J (SC) 31 : (1965) 2 S C W R 157 : (1964) 7 S C R 456:AIR 1964 S C 1781 (1787, 1788) (Pt E) (Pr 21).

● ——Arts. 19, 23 — Rule 3.26 (d), Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959) — Validity — Does not contravene Art. 19 or Art. 23.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ. — Rule 3.26 (d) of the Punjab Civil Services Rules does not infringe the fundamental rights of the Government servant as a citizen of India under Art. 19 and Art. 23 of the Constitution. Rule 3.26 (d) simply provides that the service which the Government servant took up voluntarily and on conditions laid down by the relevant rules would continue in certain circumstances even though the Goverment servant has attained the age of superannuation. Further, any restriction the rule imposes on any alleged fundamental right under Cls. (f) and (g) of Art. 19 is a reasonable restriction in the interest of the general public. The Government servant is not forced to do any work. Even if it be assumed that the retention in service of the Government servant, in view of the provisions of R. 3.26 (d), can come within the expression 'forced labour' this rule would be valid in view of Art. 23 (2) which provides that nothing in that article shall prevent the State from imposing compulsory service for public purposes. S. Partap Singh v. State of Punjab. (1965) 1 S C A 259 : AIR 1964 S C 72 (100) (Pt R) (Pr 70).

● ——Art. 19 (5) — Finance Act (1951) S. 7 (2) — Constitutionality — Levy of excise duty with retrospective effect — Not unconstitutional on ground of violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) read with Art. 19 (5) of Constitution — Not an unreasonable restraint on right to hold property—See Finance Act (1951), S. 7 (2). AIR 1962 S C 1006.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Hyderabad Atiyat Enquiries Act (10 of 1952), S. 13 (2) — In view of special character of property dealt with, validity of S. 13 (2) cannot be challenged on the ground that it contravenes Art. 19 (1) (f). Sikander Jehan Begum v. Andhra-Pradesh State Government, 1962 (2) S C R 226 : (1964) 1 S C J 222 : AIR 1962 S C 996 (1002) (Pt B) (Pr 21).

● ——Art 19 (1) (f)—Tibbia College Act (5 of 1952), S. 9 (1)—Validity — Dissolution of old society and vesting of its property in new society created by Act —Right of old Board to property of society — Nature of — Not a right to dispose of property within Art. 19 (1) (f)—Section does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution — See Tibbia College Act (5 of 1952), S. 9 (1). AIR 1962 S C 458.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) Cls. (5) and (6)—Reasonable restrictions on fundamental rights under Art. 19 —Test of reasonableness—'Interests of the general public'—What amounts to—Rule of evidence casting burden of proof upon person from whom specified goods have been seized, to establish that they are not smuggled—Whether violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and is not saved by Cls. (5) and (6)—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A — Not constitutionally invalid. AIR 1959 Mad 142, Reversed; AIR 1961 Bom 227, Overruled.

The test for ascertaining the 'reasonableness' postulated of the restrictions in Cls. (2) to (6) of Art. 19, should be applied to each individual statute impugned, the nature of the right alleged to have been infringed, the underlying purpose of the restrictions imposed and the extent and urgency of the evil sought to be remedied thereby should all enter into the judicial verdict. The reasonableness of the restraint would have to be judged by the magnitude of the evil which it is the purpose of the restraint to curb or eliminate.

Adopting the test to S. 178-A, Sea Customs Act, which operates to cast the burden of proof on the person from whose possession gold is seized to establish that the goods are not smuggled, the impugned legislation (S. 178-A) cannot be said to have overstepped the limits of reasonableness in imposing restraint on the freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and the provision is not constitutionally invalid on that ground. AIR 1952 S C 196, AIR 1961 S C 418 and AIR 1961 S C 1559, Applied. AIR 1959 Mad 142, Reversed. A I R 1960 Punj 664 and ILR (1959) Bom 1771, Affirmed; Decision of K. T. Desai, J., in AIR 1961 Bom 227, Overruled; (1948) 1 All E R 769, Rel. on. Collector of Customs, Madras v. Nathella Sampathu, (1962) 1 S C J 68 : (1962) Mad L J (Cr) 1 : (1962) 1 Mad L J (S C) 43 : (1962) 1 Andh W R (SC) 43 : 1962 (1) Cr L J 364 : (1962) 3 S C R 786 : AIR 1962 S C 316 (332, 333, 334) (Pt A) (Prs 35, 36).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g), (5) and (6)—Notification issued under S. 15 of Forward Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1952—Rights under subsisting contract affected by—Power given under S. 15 is valid — Restrictions imposed by S. 15 are reasonable and pass the tests for a valid law. AIR 1952 S C 196 Rel. on. Raghubar Dayal Jai Parkash v. Union of India, (1962) 3 S C R 547, (1962) 2 S C J 445 : AIR 1962 S C 263 (273, 274) (Pt E) (Prs 25, 26).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Income tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a) (i) and (ii) — Validity — Test of reasonableness of restriction—S. 16 (3) amounts to reasonable restriction on rights under Art 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g). See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a) (i). AIR 1962 S C 123.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Slum Areas (Improvement and Clearance) Act (1956), S. 19—Not unconstitutional as being violative of Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in interest of general public — Constitution of India, Art 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Tests of reasonableness indicated. See Slum Areas (Improvement and Clearance) Act (1956), S 19. AIR 1961 S C 1602.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Iron and Steel Control of Production and Distribution) Order (1941), Cl. 11B—Notification under D/- 10-12-1949—Not invalid on ground of violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution—See Iron and Steel (Control of Production and Distribution) Order (1941), Cl. 11B. A I R 1960 S C 475.

● ——Art. 19 (5)—Bihar Mica Act (10 of 1948), S. 25 (1) (c) — Validity of— Amounts to reasonable restriction within Arts. 19 (5) and 19 (6). See Bihar Mica Act (10 of 1948), S. 25 (1) (c). AIR 1960 S C 468.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and (5)—Electricity Act, S. 28 (1)—Validity— Electricty Act (1910), S 28 (1) (as it stood prior to its amendment by Act 32 of 1959).

The limitations imposed by S. 28 (1) quite clearly are reasonable restrictions and have been imposed in the interest of the general public within the meaning of Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution — Such limitations are generally imposed on the business of supplying energy and their reasonableness cannot be seriously challenged. Therefore the vires of S. 28 cannot be successfully challenged on the ground that it offends Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g). Okara Electric Supply Co. Ltd. v. State of Punjab, 1960 S C J 502 : (1960) 2 S C R 239 : AIR 1960 S C 284 (289) (Pt B) (Pr 18).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Sugar Export Promotion Act (1958), S. 1—Validity of the Act — Does not infringe Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g) and 31 of Constitution — Amounts to reasonable restriction. See Sugar Export Promotion Act (1958), S. 1. AIR 1959 S C 1124.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Validity of Cl. 3 of the Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948 —Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order (1948) Cl. 3. AIR 1954 S C 465.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — U. P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act (1 of 1961) — Act imposes reasonable restrictions in interest of public and is valid. See U. P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act (1 of 1961). AIR 1965 All 175 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Electricity Act (1910), S. 6 not created any option; it merely regulates procedure and manner of exercise of option—S. 6 merely empowered the State Electricity Board to exercise already existing option and not placed any burden or restriction on right of licensee — Held, S. 6 did not violate Arts. 14 or 19 (1) (f) or 31, and was not invalid. 1965 All L J 187.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 48 — U. P. Kans Eradication Act (22 of 1951), Ss. 3, 4, 6 and 7 — Act is valid — It does not abridge rights of cultivators— Provisions are not arbitrary — Person who has taken benefit cannot refuse payment of costs. 1961 All W R (H C) 254 : 1961 All L J 370.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 226 — Intermediate Education Act (U P. Act 2 of 1921) Ss 13, 14 and 15 — Regulations under S 15, Chap 6, Para 1 (1) - Students using unfair means at examination — Cancellation of results by Examination Committee in ex parte proceedings - Failure to provide opportunity of being heard — Effect on order of cancellation — Penalty imposed held within power of committee — Infringement of student's rights under Art 19 (1 (f) — See U P Intermediate Education Act (2 of 1921), S. 13. AIR 1956 All 539.

——Art. 19 (1 (f) — Applicability — Order refusing to allow certain construction in contravention of a scheme — Validity — Order held valid being reasonable limitation on right under Art. 19 (1 (f) See Municipalities — U. P. Town Improvement Act (8 of 1919) S. 29 (1) (b). AIR 1954 All 520.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g), (5) and (6) — Andhra Pradesh Notification, G. O. M. S. No 1576, Revenue, dated 5th September 1962 — Restrictions imposed by Notification in respect of Chloral Hydrate are reasonable and in the interest of general public — Notification cannot be challenged as violative of rights under Art 19 (1) (f) and (g) (1964) (1) Andh L T 285 : ILR (1964) Andh Pra 1092 : A I R 1964 Andh Pra 430 (433) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1 (f) and 19 (5)—Sanction for construction of building accorded with certain conditions and restriction —Fundamental rights not infringed— Restrictions held reasonable in public interest. A I R 1961 Andh Pra 489 (491) (Pt ( ) (Pr 5).

●——Art. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)— S. 99A, Criminal P. C., has no impact on Art 19 (1) f)—Assuming it has such effect it is protected by Art. 19 (5) — (Per Special Bench). N. Veerabrahman v. State of Andh-Pra, 1959 Andh L T 575 : (1959) 2 Andh W R 269 : 1959 Mad L J (Cri) 703 : 1959 Cri L J 1280 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 572 (576, 583) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 52) (SB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1662.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g) — Cotton Textiles (Control) Order (1948), Cl. 21 (3) (c)— Restrictions imposed by are not unreasonable. See Cotton Textiles (Control) Order (1948), Cl. 21 (3) (c). AIR 1960 Bom 453 (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3 (1) — Validity - Restrictions imposed by S 3 (1) on rights conferred by Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g) are reasonable restrictions in public interest. See Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946) S. 3 (1). AIR 1953 Cal 548.

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g), (5) (6) — (West Bengal Food Grains (Intensive Procurement) Order (1952).)

The provisions of the West Bengal Food Grains (Intensive Procurement) Order are reasonable and in the public interest. A I R 1952 Pat 220 Rel. on 57 Cal W N 397 : I L R (1955) 1 Cal 401 : A I R 1953 Cal 548 (556, 557) (Pt G) (Pr 37).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Essential Supplies Act (24 of 1946), S 3 (f) (i) and (j) and S. 4 — Validity — Do not impose unreasonable restrictions on rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution and are not ultra vires. 55 Cal W N 686 : AIR 1952 Cal 502 (505) (Pt A) (Pr 33).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Conditions in S. 18 (a) of Arms Act (1878) are reasonable restrictions on rights of citizen. See Arms Act (1878), S. 18 (a). I L R (1965) Guj 571.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) — Constitutional validity of R. 9 (2) of Central Excise Rules 1944 — Provision for confiscaring goods without providing machinery and procedure — Restriction still not unreasonable as right to hold goods is affected only when demand is made under R. 9 (2) and right to object has been provided under R. 33. See Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), S. 33. AIR 1965 Guj 215 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) —Customary right of pasturage Villagers claiming right to graze their cattle on landlord's land during kharif season without their permission— User for period of 30 years—Acquisition of right—Reasonableness of right — Such right has not become void after coming into force of Constitution - Restrictions imposed on landlord's fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f) are reasonable and in interest of general public. See Easements Act (1882), S. 18. AIR 1962 Him Pra 28.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (7) (added by the Constitution (Application to Jammu and Kashmir) Order, 1954) — Jammu and Kashmir Right to Prior Purchase Act (1993), Ss. 14 and 15 — Reasonableness of restrictions is not justiciable — Ss. 14 and 15 are not ultra vires.

In the State of Jammu and Kashmir, Cl. (7) added to Art. 19 of the Constitution under Para. 4 (d) (iii) of the Constitution (Application to Jammu and Kashmir) Order, 1954, specially lays down that the words "reasonable restrictions" occurring in Cl. (5) of Art. 19 shall be construed as meaning such restrictions as the appropriate Legislature deems reasonable. Hence, if the Legislature has considered the restrictions to be reasonable keeping in view the fact that they are for the benefit of the public in general it is not open to the Courts in the State of Jammu and Kashmir to examine those restrictions in order to find out whether they are reasonable or not. The Constitution under Cl. (7) has itself ousted the jurisdiction of the Courts to examine the reasonableness of the restrictions which have been imposed by appropriate Legislature The provisions, therefore, of Ss 14 and 15 of the Right of Prior Purchase Act, 1993, do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) read with the new Cl (7) added to the Article under paragraph 4 (d) (iii) of the Constitution (Application to Jammu and Kashmir) Order, 1954. AIR 1954 Hyd 161; AIR 1953 Punj 20; AIR 1954 Punj 55, Ref. Galodhu v. Nanak Chand, AIR 1955 J & K 25 (26) (Prs 4, 5) (FB).

[This case was held Overruled by AIR 1982 S C 1476 as interpreted in AIR 1965 J & K 62 (FB)].

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 38 (3) (b) (iii)—Provisions of, though affect fundamental rights granted under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution are saved by Cls. (5) and (6) of the Article. See Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 38 (3) (b) (iii). AIR 1961 Ker 268.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — Scope—Kerala Land Utilisation Order (1958), Cl. 3—Validity—Not an unreasonable restriction on fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f). See Kerala Land Utilisation Order 1958, Cl. 4A. 1960 Ker L T 1335.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g) — Forest Act (1927), S. 41—Rules under, published on 23-6-1961—Rr. 3, 4 —Validity—Rules requiring permit for transit of timber — When valid — Rules held not contravening Art. 19 (1) (f) or 19 (1) (g) due to amplitude of discretionary powers vested in Government officers. AIR 1954 S C 465 and AIR 1961 S C 1602, Rel. on 1965 M P L J 541 : 1965 Jab L J 1017 : AIR 1965 Madh Pra 211 (213, 214, 216) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 21 to 23) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — Opium Act (1878), S. 11 (d) (Madhya Pradesh)—Section though it is hit by Cl. (f) of the Article is saved by Cl. (5) and is constitutionally valid.

Clause (d) of S. 11, Opium Act, as it stands amended in the State of M. P. is no doubt directly hit by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution inasmuch as it leaves no option in the matter of confiscation of any conveyance not necessarily of an accused but also belonging to an innocent person but it is saved by Cl. (5) of Art. 19 as it imposes reasonable restriction on a person's fundamental right to property in the interests of the general public. AIR 960 S C 1080 and AIR 1951 S C 118 and AIR 1952 S C 196 and AIR 1962 S C 316, Rel. on. The object of the Opium Act is clearly to regulate the cultivation of the poppy, the manufacture of opium, and the sale and distribution of opium in the interest of public health and public morals. The fact that Cl. (d) of S. 11 covers the confiscation of conveyance even of an innocent person will not make it constitutionally invalid. If the cases of confiscation of vehicles belonging to a person other than the accused person were to be excluded from the operation of S. 11 (d), its effectiveness would be greatly reduced, and a door would open out for easy evasion of confiscation of vehicles and other property belonging to the accused persons by just setting up third persons to claim title to the property. The provision providing for confiscation of property belonging to innocent persons will not be unconstitutional or unreasonable where confiscation is necessary to ensure the effective enforcement of the law. 1964 M P L J 845 : 1964 Jab L J 546 : 1965 (1) Cri L J 182 : AIR 1965 Madh Pra 36 (37, 38) (Prs 4 to 7) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) – M. P. Minimum Wages Fixation Act (16 of 1962), Ss. 3, 4 — Validity — Do not impose unreasonable restrictions. See M. P. Minimum Wages Fixation Act (16 of 1962), S. 3. AIR 1964 Madh Pra 45 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — M. P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchases) Act, S. 21—State is competent to impose fee under S. 21 – Section does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) — Delegation of power to frame rules under the Act is not bad on the ground of being excessive. See M. P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchases) Act (1959), S. 21. 1964 M P L J (Notes) 1.

——Art 19 (1) (f) – M B Municipalities Act, S. 112 (2)—Validity — If reasonable restriction. See Municipalities – M. B. Municipalities Act (1 of 1954), S. 112 (2). 1960 M P L J 949.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Printing and Publishing of School text books by Government – Right of Private Publishers under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) not affected. 1958 MP L J (Notes) 132 : 1959 M P L J 525 : 1959 M P C 485 : 1959 Jab L J 498 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 183 (186) (Pt B) (Pr 14) (DB).

● ——Art 19 (1) (f) and (g) – Iron and Steel (Control of Production and Distribution) Order (1941) Cl. 11-B – Validity – Cl. 11 B of the Order is ultra vires as it amounts to unreasonable restriction on fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). State v. Haidarali, 1957 Jab L J 658 : 1957 M P C 473 : 1957 M P L J 549 : 1957 Cr L J 1266 : AIR 1957 Madh Pra 179 (191) (Pt I) (Prs 45, 46) (FB).

——Art. 19 (5), (1) (f)—Scope—Restriction imposed by S. 87 of Madras Act 19 of 1951 — Is reasonable. (1957) 2 Mad L J 617 : (1957) Mad L J (Cr) 864 : 1958 Cr L J 523 : AIR 1958 Mad 147 (148) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 19 (5)—S. 33, Laccadive Island and Minicoy Regulation (1912) is saved by Art. 19 (5), Constitution of India. See Laccadive Island and Minicoy Regulation (1 of 1912), S. 33. AIR 1957 Mad 433.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—S. 153-B, Companies Act (1913)—Validity—(Companies Act (1913), Ss. 2 (16), 153-B) – (Companies Act (1956), S. 395).

No person can claim a right created by a statute and at the same time insist that he should be able to exercise that right free from and untrammelled by the limitations and conditions imposed by the statute. What S. 153-B of the Companies Act does is only to impose a limitation on the untrammelled power of transfer of shares. It may be that the persons who are in a minority are farsighted, but, if they cannot convert the majority to their point of view and the deadlock persists, a way out must be provided and that is what S. 153-B of the Act seeks to do.

Obiter — The limitation imposed by S. 153 B of the Act is a reasonable one and also in the public interest. S. 153-B is not ultra vires the Constitution. 70 Mad L W 157 : (1957) 27 Com Cas 175 : I L R (1957) Mad 614 : AIR 1957 Mad 341 (342, 343, 344, 345) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 9, 13, 14).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Customary law prohibiting individuals from holding land in excess of fixed extent – Validity—Government resolution based on such law—Validity—(Obiter.)

A customary law of the Manipur State that one could not hold more than ten parts of land is not ultra vires. AIR 1957 Manipur 25 (29) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — C. P and States Land Tenure Order (1949), Cls. 22 and 23 (1) – Cl. 23 (1) has not become void. See C. P. and States Land Tenure Order (1949), Cl. 22. A I R 1953 Nag 51.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), Ss. 73 (1), Proviso and 73-A (4) enacted by Berar Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act (10 of 1948) — Latter read with former is not ultra vires. See Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), S. 73 (1), Proviso A I R 1953 Nag 40 (DB).

——Art 19 (5), (1) (f) – Nayagarh Land Transfer Rules, R. 3 — Validity of the Rule — Restriction imposed on transfer by the rule is for the good of general public and also reasonable — Rule therefore does not offend Art. 19 (1)(f). ILR (1963) Cut 714 : A I R 1964 Orissa 49 (50) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

—Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 301 and 305—Orissa Timber and Forest Produce Transit Rules (1958), Rr. 4 and 6 – Constitutionality—Rules do not offend Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) or Art 301. ILR (1963) Cut 59 : 29 Cut L T 150 : AIR 1963 Orissa 24 (26, 27) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (f), (6) — Notification No 41668 S. T. dated 15th November, 1950 of the Government of Orissa in the Department of Supply and Transport is not invalid A I R 1952 S C 196, Foll. 1953 Cr L J 544 : AIR 1953 Orissa 53 (55) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

—— Arts. 19, 245 — Orissa Essential Articles Control and Requisitioning (Temporary Powers) Act (1 of 1947), Ss 2 (a), 3 and 8 Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control and Distribution) Order 1949, Cl. 7 – Provisions are not unconstitutional — The restrictions imposed by the order are reasonable and in public interests and are saved by Art. 19 (5) and (6) — Government of India Act (1935), Ss. 107 (2), 297; Schedule 7 List II, items 27 and 29. 18 Cut L T 234 : 1952 Cri L J 1354 : A I R 1952 Orissa 260 (262, 263 264, 266) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 17, 19, 20, 21) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5) — Sonthal Parganas Settlement Regulation (3 of 1872), S. 27 — Section is not ultra vires. See Sonthal Parganas Settlement Regulation (3 of 1872), S. 27. A I R 1961 Pat 276.

——Art. 19 (5) — Cantonments Act, if violates Art. 19 (5)—Section 126 of the Cantonments Act does nothing beyond imposing reasonable restrictions upon the fundamental right of the petitioner to hold his property. ILR 36 Pat 1264 : A I R 1958 Pat 71 (74) (Pt E) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Reasonable restrictions—Bihar Public Irrigation and Drainage Works Act (10 of 1947), S. 5 A — Absence of provisions for service of notice and hearing objections—Validity of section.

The provisions of S. 5-A are to be applied only in cases of emergency and it is not unreasonable for the Legislature to provide that the State Government may dispense with the service of the notice or hearing objections in cases of emergency. Moreover, the publication of the proposed scheme of work by the State Government in the prescribed manner is itself tantamount to a notice to the parties affected. Section 5-A therefore does not violate the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (f), nor is the restriction imposed under the section on the right of property unreasonable. 1956 Pat L R 402 : 1957 B L J R 348 : A I R 1956 Pat 493 (495) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 5—Rules under—Mineral Concession Rules, Rr. 6, 7, 41, 47, 49, 52 and 54 — Validity — Rules not unconstitutional as restrictions imposed by them are not unreasonable within Art. 19 (5). See Mines and Mineral (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 5. AIR 1954 Pat 340 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) & (g) & (5) — Bihar Agriculturists Levy Order (1950)—Validity.

The substantive provision in the Bihar Agriculturists Levy Order, 1950, which imposes on a person a restriction in the exercise of his fundamental right to acquire, hold and dispose of property is contained in clause (5) of the order, which requires him to deliver, on demand, such quantity of food-grains as may be specified in the order making the demand. It cannot, however, be said that that was an unreasonable restriction, or a restriction which was not imposed in the interests of the general public. It cannot be said that if under this order arbitrary and unreasonable action may conceivably be taken, the order must, on that ground, be held to be an invalid order. There is some risk of abuse when wide power is committed to a large body of men, but the constitutional validity of a law cannot be contested on the ground of such apprehension. It is, therefore, impossible to hold that either the substantive or procedural part of the Bihar Agriculturists levy order is unreasonable, that is, not necessary or appropriate for the accomplishment of the object aimed at. A I R 1950 S C 211, A I R 1950 Bom 363, Disting. Mohammad Anzar v. State of Bihar, 1952 Cri L J 710 : 31 Pat 203 : A I R 1952 Pat 220 (223, 229) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 23) (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 8—Validity—No excessive delegation of power—Does not contravene Art. 14 or 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. See Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), S. 37 (2) (xvii). A I R 1964 Punj 192 (DB).

——Art. 19—Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 5—S. 5 is not ultra vires. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1964 Punj 85 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Reasonable restriction — Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 6 — Restriction imposed by Employees' Provident Funds Act on employer is not unreasonable.

The Employees' Provident Funds Act has been enacted in the public interest, and the restriction placed by it is in no manner unreasonable :for all it demands is that a certain contribution, the maximum limit of which is contained in the Act, should be made by the employers for the benefit of the employees. The legislation is essentially calculated to harmonise the relations between the employer and the employee in certain industries, and in the modern context this can in no sense be called unreasonable. (1962) 2 Lab L J 604 : 64 Punj L R 524 : (1962-63) 22 F J R 278 : ILR (1962) 2 Punj 456 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 604 : 1962 Cur L J 256 : A I R 1962 Punj 507 (510) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A—Validity.

The right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) is in respect of property which has been lawfully acquired. Where the Legislature imposes a certain kind of restriction upon smuggled goods which obviously could not have been acquired lawfully, no fundamental right can be said to have been infringed. Hence S. 178-A of the Sea Customs Act by placing the burden of proving his innocence on the accused in respect of goods believed to be smuggled cannot be said to have contravened Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). A I R 1961 Bom 227, Diss. from., 1957 S C J 828 : (1957) M L J (Cr) 765; A I R 1957 S C 877, Foll. 61 Punj L R 937 : 1960 Cri L J 1659 : A I R 1960 Punj 664 (665, 666) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g) and (5) and (6) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A (1)—Validity.

Section 178-A (1) of the Sea Customs Act is not violative of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution. The impugned provisions are by no means too drastic or unnecessarily harsh and they do not :override the object to achieve which the legislative measure in question has been enacted. A I R 1960 Punj 664 and Criminal Revn. No. 1566 of 1958 (Punj) Foll.; A I R 1959 Mad 142, Diss. from. 62 Punj L R 549 : 1960 Cri L J 1236 : A I R 1960 Punj 488 (490) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), (g), 31 (2)—Insurance Act (1938), Ss. 52A to 52G—Validity—Do not abridge the rights under Art. 19 and are not void — See Insurance Act (1938), S. 52A. AIR 1952 Punj 9 (DB).

——Arts. 19 and 15 — Ancestral property in possession of male proprietor in Punjab—Power to dispose by alienation — Restrictions on, whether infringe Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 15—Custom (Punjab).

The rights of a male proprietor in the Punjab governed by custom in ancestral land are that he holds the land as a full owner but in regard to his powers of alienation there is in his male descendants or in the collaterals connected with him from the common ancestor from whom the land has descended, the right to object to the alienation if it is not with their consent or is not for necessity. The reversioners have a residuary power vested in them of controlling the alienations made by a proprietor. Such being the right of a male proprietor it cannot be said that he has not the right to dispose of his property and if the alienation is challenged by one who has the right to challenge, it is an interference with the right guaranteed by Art.19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. 107 P R 1887; 73 P R 1895 (FB), Ref.

The owner of ancestral land, which has come into the hands of a male proprietor, has not the whole and sole interest in the property or power to dispose of it as this is the nature of ownership in custom and is attached to ancestral land, and it cannot be said that this is an unreasonable restriction on the exercise of any rights even if it were held that the matter falls within Art 19 (1) (f), as is clear from Art. 19 (5).

Dicta : "It was also submitted that the true rule is that the limitation is not on the man but on the ancestral property. Whichever way we may look at it, whether it is the nature of ownership under custom or view it as a limitation which attaches to the land itself it is not an infringement of any fundamental right."

Further, whoever lives in the Punjab whether he is a Jat or Rajput or anybody and whatever be his race, he has these limitations imposed upon his power of alienation. The estate which he has is of a limited nature. By the very nature of the estate that he inherits from his ancestors the power of alienation is a limited one and there is no infringement of Article 15 either. A I R 1951 Punj 445 (446) (Prs 5, 6, 7, 8).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) – Scope – Sea Customs Act, S. 178A – Validity—Section is not hit by Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) so far as gold is concerned. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178A. 1961 (2) Cr L J 406 (Raj).

60. Clause (1) (f)—Illustrative examples — Invalid restrictions.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Bhopal Reclamation and Development of Lands (Eradication of Kans) Act (13 of 1954), Ss. 4 (1) and (4)—Validity—Provisions violate Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and are invalid. See Bhopal Reclamation and Development of Lands (Eradication of Kans) Act (13 of 1954), S. 4 (1). AIR 1965 S C 124.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Travancore-Cochin Land Tax Act (1955) as amended by Act (10 of 1957), Ss. 4, 5A and 7—Constitutionality — Act is confiscatory, discriminatory and imposes unreasonable restrictions on holding property — Ss. 4 and 7 offend Art. 14 and Ss. 4, 5A and 7 offend Art. 19 (1) (f)—Whole Act is invalid as its main provisions are unconstitutional. See Travancore-Cochin Land Tax Act (15 of 1955) as amended by Act (10 of 1957), S. 4. AIR 1961 S C 552.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Madras Marumakkathayam (Removal of Doubts) Act (32 of 1955) — Validity—Act infringes Art. 19 (1) (f) and is not saved by Art. 19 (5). Kochuni v. States of Madras & Kerala, A I R 1960 S C 1080 (1104) (Pt N) (Pr 53).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Forest Act (1927), S. 38-B — Notification, dated 11-3-61 prohibiting all acts mentioned in Cls (a) to (e) — No time limit for prohibition fixed — Notification held ultra vires, Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution of India. See Forest Act (1927), S. 38-B as amended by Forest (U. P. Amendment) Act (1956). AIR 1963 All 480 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Scope—Refusal of permission by District Magistrate to hold cattle market on petitioner's own land — Legality—Quashing of—Certiorari—Police Regulations, Para. 183.

The District Magistrate possesses no power to grant or refuse permission to hold a market. An order passed by the District Magistrate refusing permission to the petitioner to hold a cattle market on a portion of his plot amounts to an unwarranted interference with his right to use his own land and can be quashed by a writ of certiorari. 1960 All W R (H C) 563 : 1960 All Cr R 358 : 1960 All L J 761.

—— Art. 19 (1) (f) — Andhra Pradesh Land Revenue (Assessment and Cess Revision) Act (22 of 1962), Ss. 3 to 5—As amended by Andhra Act (23 of 1962), Ss. 3 to 5 are unconstitutional as offending Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. See Andhra Pradesh Land Revenue (Assessment and Cess Revision) Act (22 of 1962), S 3. (1965) 2 Andh L T 297.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (1) (g)—Search of premises of person and seizure of documents, books, etc., or property belonging to him — Constitute invasions of fundamental rights—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 37 (2)—Validity—Section is unconstitutional being violative of Art. 19 (1) (g)—Section does not amount to reasonable restriction within Art. 19 (6)—Per Majority.

Search of the premises of a person and seizure of documents, books, etc., or any property belonging to that person constitute invasions of his fundamental rights not only under Art 19 (1) (g) but also under Art 19 (1) (f), although temporary seizure of property as the result of a search in execution of a warrant issued by a Magistrate in exercise of his judicial power vested in him under law, may be regarded in the particular circumstances of the case as amounting to a reasonable restriction on the fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (f). Such search of the premises and seizure of various account books, documents, etc., necessary and useful for carrying on the trade or business of a person, undoubtedly constitute invasions of the fundamental right to practise any profession, or to carry on any occupation, trade or business, guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution particularly when any such invasion is not the result of or effected during the enforcement of a judicial process or warrant issued by a Magistrate under the Cr. P. Code.

Majority view : S. 37 (2), Income-tax Act (1892), is unconstitutional and invalid by reason of its being violative of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and it cannot be saved on the ground that it could be regarded as amounting to a reasonable restriction falling under Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. A I R 1961 Cal 578, Diss.

Per Mehrotra, C. J., Contra :

Having regard to the scheme of the Act and the internal evidence in S 37 (2) itself, it cannot be said that the power conferred on the Income-tax authorities is uncanalised and there is no guidance and is thus arbitrary. It cannot be said that the restriction on the assessee is in its very nature unreasonable, and not in the public interest. Hence, S. 37 (2) cannot be struck down as being unreasonable restriction : Senairam Doongarmal Agency (P.) Ltd. v. K. E. Johnson, (1964) 52 I T R 637 : AIR 1964 Assam 1 (19, 27, 38, 39, 40, 47, 50, 51) (Pt B) (Prs 72, 107, 170, 176, 197, 204, 205) (FB).

——Arr. 19—Section 167 (8) Sea Customs Act (1878), would offend against Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution if it were held that the burden of showing lawful importation was upon the person whose goods were sought to be conflscated even though the special statutory exception in S. 178A, Sea Customs Act 1878 was not attracted. A I R 1962 S C 316, Rel. on. 68 Cal W N 383 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 477 : A I R 1965 Cal 507 (516) (Pr 44) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Validity—S. 6, Gift Tax Act (1958)—Provisions put unreasonable restriction on donee's right to acquire and hold property — Violates Art. 19 (1) (f). See Gift Tax Act (1958), S. 6. A I R 1963 Cal 127.

——Art. 19—Bengal Land Revenue Sales (West Bengal Amendment) Act, (7 of 1950), S. 7 — Section is ultra vires—Constitution of India, Arts. 13 (1), 19 (1) (f) and (5). See Bengal Land Revenue Sales (West Bengal Amendment) Act (7 of 1950), S. 7. AIR 1951 Cal 85.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Surety or partner of a contractor is not a contractor within the meaning of sub-cl. (3) of S 34, J & K. Town Areas Act (17 of 2011) — Proceedings taken against them under sub-cl. (1) of S. 34 of the Act (17 of 2011 Smt.) to recover arrears of contract money due from contractor amounts to direct interference with their fundamental rights to hold property and is without jurisdiction. See J & K Town Area Act (17 of 2011 Smt.) (1954 A. D.), S. 54 (3). AIR 1964 J & K 86.

——Arts. 19, 13, 31—Sections 48 to 51, Kerala Forest Act 1961 (4 of 1962)—Validity—Provisions contravene Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 31 — Entire group of the sections has to be struck down as unconstitutional—Provisions are void so far as private forests and their owners in the Malabar area of Kerala State are concerned. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1964 Ker 287.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Madras District Boards (Amendment) Act, 1957 (Kerala Act IV of 1958) — Validity—Act infringes Arts. 14 and (19) (1) (f) and is ultra vires. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1963 Ker 31.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Public safety — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act, 1949 (3 of 1950), S. 8 (1)—S. 8 (1) is indefinite, vague and unreasonable both from aspects of substantive and procedural law.

The language of a statute must be precise and must be sufficiently objective so as to guard against an arbitrary or 'ad hominem' result on the part of the persons who are called upon to administer the statute. If this important requirement is not satisfied, the statute will be an unreasonable restriction on the constitutional guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (f) and will not fall within the language of the exception contained in Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution.

The restriction imposed by S. 8 (1) of the Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act is unreasonable from the substantive aspect because the statute is indefinite and vague. If vicarious liability is intended to be imposed, the section is unreasonable on the ground that such punishment violates the juristic principle that all criminal responsibility is personal. Section 8 (1) authorises the State Government to impose a collective fine merely on its subjective satisfaction. The factual existence of the grounds mentioned in S. 8 (1) is not a justiciable issue. The vesting of such an absolute unfettered authority in the State Government is an unreasonable restriction and there is an infringement of the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution.

Section 8 (1), Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act is therefore invalid. 1956 B L J R 210 : 1956 Cr L J 640 : ILR 35 Pat 102 : A I R 1956 Pat 137 (139, 140, 141, 142) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 20) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Public safety—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act, 1949 (3 of 1950), S. 8 (2)—S. 8 (2) of the Act violates guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution.

Section 8 (2), Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act confers an arbitrary power on the State Government to grant exemption to any person or body of persons from payment of the collective fine, and so it violates the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. Section 8 (2) is, therefore, invalid. ILR 35 Pat 102 : 1956 B L J R 210 : 1956 Cr L J 640 : AIR 1956 Pat 137 (141) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5)—Bihar Land Encroachment Act (31 of 1950), S. 2 (ii) (d) - Validity (Bihar Land Encroachment Act (31 of 1950), S. 2 (ii) (d)).

Article 19 (1) (f) protects possessory titles as well as titles made perfect by the lapses of the statutory period. Whether Cl. (d) of S. 2 (ii) of Bihar Act (31 of 1950) is considered along with the amendment or separately from the amendment, it does violate fundamental rights as guaranteed by the Constitution. Any law which takes away or abridges the rights conferred by Art. 19 (1) (f), is void to the extent of the contravention.

There is no justification for interfering with the rights of those who on the different kinds of lands specified in Cl. (d) of S. 2 (ii) have acquired title by adverse possession. Article 19 (5) cannot be invoked, because the restrictions imposed under the statute can by no means be regarded as reasonable. This is certainly a case in which the law deprives a person of possession of his property on the subjective determination of an executive officer. The fundamental right is thus put in jeopardy. Brij Bhukan v. S. D. O. Siwan, 1954 B L J R 513 : 33 Pat 690 : AIR 1955 Pat 1 (16, 17, 18) (Pt J) (Prs 12, 13) (SB).

——Art 19 (5 —Bihar Cotton Cloth and Yarn (Control) Order (1948) Cl. 4 (3) — Validity—The restrictions imposed transgress the limit contemplated in Art. 19 (5) and, are therefore constitutionally invalid. Bihar Cotton and Yarn Control Order, 1948, cannot operate in an effective manner unless the provisions in question are so amended as to conform to the constitutional requirements. 1954 B L J R 276 : 33 Pat 219 : AIR 1954 Pat 325 (326) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f ,(5) — Bihar Private Forests Act (19 of 1948) — Validity—Act imposed unreasonable restrictions upon the right of an owner of the forest to hold it as guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution of India. AIR 1953 Pat 65 (72, 74, 75) (Pt F) (Prs 12, 28, 30) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Applicability — Custom against gift to persons outside circle of collaterals and caste-man - Is unreasonable restriction. See Custom — Wajib-Ul-Arz. AIR 1958 Raj 199 (DB).

61. Prohibition law.

●——Arts. 19 (6) and 47 — Basis of restriction on trade of intoxicating liquor.

That when the liquors are taken in excess the injuries are confined to the party offending is a fact which does not exist. The injury, it is true, first falls upon him in his health, which the habit undermines; in his morals, which it weakens; and in the self-abasement which it creates. But as it leads to neglect of business and waste of property and general demoralisation, it affects those who are immediately connected with and dependent upon him. By the general concurrence of opinion of every civilized community, there are few sources of crime and misery to society equal to the dram shop, where intoxicating liquors, in small quantities, to be drunk at the time, are sold indiscriminately to all parties applying. The sale of such liquors in this way has therefore been, at all times, by the Courts of every State, considered as the proper subject of legislative regulation. (1890) 34 Law Ed 620 (623), Foll. Cooverjee B. Bharucha v. Excise Commissioner. 1954 S C J 246 : 1954 S C A 256 : 1954 S C R 873 : AIR 1954 S C 220 (223) (Pt F) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Assam Liquor Prohibition Act (1 of 1953), Ss. 2 (3), 3 — Validity.

In the definition of 'liquor' in S. 2 (3) of the Assam Liquor Prohibition Act, it has been made clear hat it does not apply to any toilet preparation or medicine containing alcohol. The substances, restriction on which would have been considered unreasonable so far as the rights of the citizens to carry on any profession or trade were concerned, have been expressly omitted from the definition of 'intoxicating liquor.' The Act, therefore, cannot be struck down on that ground. ILR (1960) 12 Assam 396: AIR 1961 Assam 16 (18) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5), 14, 47 and 245 — Eastern Bengal and Assam Excise Act (1 of 1910), S. 17 (3) — Restrictions on use of intoxicants as beverage—Constitutional validity — Section 17 (3) whether contravenes Arts. 19 and 14 — Whether is piece of excessive delegation of legislative power. See East Bengal and Assam Excise Act (1 of 1910), S. 17 (3). AIR 1958 Assam 173.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129 A — Validity. See Prohibition - Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949) S. 129-A. 1964 (2) Cr L J 523 : AIR 1964 Bom 253 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129-A (as amended by Act (12 of 1959) — Validity — Consumption of prohibited intoxicant — Medical Examination — Section 129-A applicable to persons 'accused of an offence' — Accused merely required to submit to evidence being collected from him — Compulsion only in case of active resistance — Section held not violating protection against testimonial compulsion guaranteed by Art. 20 (3) — Does not relate to any right guaranteed under Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 20 (3). ILR (1961) Bom 360.

——Art. 19 — Scope — Bombay Prohibition Act, 1949, as amended by Act (26 of 1952) — Validity — Bombay Spirituous Medicinal Preparations (Sales) Rules, 1954, Rr. 2, 3 — Scope of. See Prohibition — Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949 as amended by Act 26 of 1952), S. 24-A. 1958 Cr L J 607 : AIR 1958 Bom 181 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Bombay Spirituous Medicinal Preparations (Sale) Rules (1954), R. 7 — Rule 7 is reasonable. See Bombay Spirtuous Medicinal Preparations (Sale) Rules (1954), R. 7. AIR 1956 Bom 304.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Prohibition law — Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949) (as amended by Act (26 of 1952), Ss. 12 (c) and (d) and 13 (b) — Validity.

The scheme of regulation introduced by the amended Prohibition Act, in so far as it relates to medicinal and toilet preparations which are fit for the use as intoxicating liquor is reasonable and it is reasonable in regard to preparations which are unfit for such use, with the result that the whole of that scheme is reasonable; and since it is reasonable it leads to the further consequence that Ss. 12 (c) and (d), 13 (b) which are declared to be void in the unamended Act by the Supreme Court in AIR 1951 S C 318 are valid qua such preparations in the amended Act. The challenge therefore to the legislative competence on the ground that it contravenes fundamental rights must fail AIR 1956 Bom 304 (318, 319) (Pt N) (Pr 25).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Bombay Prohibition Act — If void —See Prohibition — Bombay Prohibition Act. AIR 1951 Bom 210 (FB).

——Art. 19 — Gujarat Denatured Spirituous Preparation Rules (1962), R. 37 — Validity — Rule 37 is invalid under Arts. 301, 304 and 19. See Ibid, Art. 301. AIR 1964 Guj 59 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Gujarat Denatured Spirituous Preparations Rules (1962), R. 22, Proviso, R. 24 — Validity —Provisions are unreasonable restrictions.

Prevention of a subject to conduct his business both as a wholesaler as well as a retailer is not a check required for the enforcement of the policy and the objective of the Bombay Prohibition Act. The proviso to R. 22, therefore, is an unreasonable restriction in so far as it prevents a person who holds a licence for retail sale from being granted a wholesaler's licence. Rule 24 likewise also would be invalid in so far as it prevents a wholesaler from obtaining a retailer's licence. (1963) 4 Guj L R 1033 : (ILR 1964) Guj 96: AIR 1964 Guj 59 (78) (Pt H) (Pr 35) (DB).

—— Art. 19 (6) — Restrictions on trade or business — Reasonableness of — Business of selling liquor — Law prohibiting or restricting sale — Validity.

There is a well marked and well recognised distinction between an ordinary lawful trade or business which every citizen is entitled to pursue and a trade or business which is of a dangerous character, or which is illegal immoral or injurious to the health, morality and welfare of the public The business of selling intoxicating liquors undoubtedly falls within the latter category. Therefore a law which restricts or even prohibits this trade or business will obviously be saved by Cl. (6) of Art. 19. AIR 1954 S C 220, Rel. on.

Where the Excise Act gives discretion to authorities to grant licences to sell liquor the authorities in whom the discretion vests must necessarily look to the reputation and personal fitness of the applicant. It is not possible or practicable in such cases to lay down definite or comprehensive rules to guide or control the exercise of discretion. AIR 1959 J and K 83 (83, 84) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 5, 6).

——Arts. 19 and 14 — Right to sell liquor by retail is not inherent right — Bidding for individual shops changed to collective bidding — Equal opportunity given to all bidders — There is no discrimination — (M. B. Excise Act Smt. 2009), S. 68 — Rules under — Rules for Distribution of Shops and Grant of Licenses (Smt. 2009), Rr. 25 and 27). See Ibid, S. 14. AIR 1955 Madh Bha 161.

——Art. 19 (5) — Madras Prohibition Act (1937), S. 4 — Rules under Act — Rules 6 and 10 — Validity — Restrictions held not unreasonable. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 5946.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Madras Prohibition Act (10 of 1937), Sections 28 to 32—Article 19 (1) (f) of Constitution is not infringed. See Madras Prohibition Act (10 of 1937), S. 28. AIR 1954 Mad 993.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Prohibition law — Contravention of. See Madras Prohibition Act (10 of 1937), S. 3 (9). AIR 1954 Mad 643 (DB).

——Art 19—C. P. and Berar Prohibition Act (1938) —Madhya Pradesh Prohibition (Amendment) Act (30 of 1953) C. P. and Berar Rectified Spirit Rules, 1942 —Seizure of rectified Spirit imported on valid permit —Validity. See C. P. and Berar Prohibition Act (7 of 1938) AIR 1956 Nag 1.

——Art. 19 C. P. and Berar Prohibition Act (1938), S. 28-II — Manufacture of medicinal preparation is outside operation of S 6 —See C. P. and Berar Prohibition Act (7 of 1938), S. 28-II. AIR 1956 Nag 1.

——Art. 19 — State when is not person — Licence to vend liquor — Disparity between State and citizen — Discrimination not unreasonable — C. P. and Berar Excise Act (2 of 1915) is not repugnant to Art. 14. See Ibid, Art 14. AIR 1953 Nag 177 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Punjab Opium (Restriction on Oral Consumption) Rules (1957) — Validity — Rules are not inconsistent with s. 5 Opium Act, 1875 — Regulation — Meaning — Whether includes total prohibition — (Words and Phrases—Regulation). See Punjab Opium (Restriction on Oral Consumption) Rules (1957). AIR 1958 Punj 400.

——Art 19 (1) (f) and (g) and (5) and (6) — Scope — Right to possess and sell liquor — Restrictions — Notifications under Punjab Excise Act introducing prohibition in social clubs — Validity — (Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), Ss. 24 (4) and 54.)

It may be that in the absence of a restraining enactment, a citizen of this country has a right to carry on business in the purchase and sale of intoxicating liquor, but it is within the power of the Legislature, in view of the provisions of Art. 19 (6) to impose such reasonable restrictions on the exercise of this right as it may consider fit or proper.

The notification issued by the Government under the Punjab Excise Act, prohibiting a club from distributing liquor to its members and a notification issued under S 24 (4) prohibiting members from keeping their own intoxicating liquor in an unlicensed club do not constitute a direct interference with the liberty of the subject or violate the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art 19 of the Constitution. 58 Pun L R 426 : I L R (1957) Punj 166 : A I R 1957 Punj 20 (22) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (6) and 14 — Restriction on sale of liquor — Discretion to execute authority under Punjab Excise Act to grant or refuse licence — Discrimination in issuing licences — (Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 35).

It may be that a discretion has been vested in the Excise Commissioner under the Punjab Excise Act to grant or withhold licences at his own will and pleasure, but that discretion must be used impartially and without unjust discrimination and after a careful consideration of all the relevant facts and circumstances.

Where in pursuance of Government's decision to prohibit licensed drinking of liquor in civilian clubs the Excise Commissioner had banned the sale of liquor to the members of the Lumsden club but he had not issued a similar direction in respect of the other civilian clubs, although their rules were similar in many ways to the rules framed by the Lumsden Club:

Held, that there was no warrant for unjust discrimination between these two sets of associations, and the order refusing to grant a licence to the Lumsden Club contravened Art. 14 and must therefore be deemed to be void and of no effect. 58 Punj L R 426 : I L R (1957) Punj 166 : A I R 1957 Punj 20 (23, 24) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (5)—Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations, Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) — Validity. See Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations Import, Export, Transport Possession and Sale Rules (1952). AIR 1953 Punj 77 (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) — Notifications by Rajasthan State withdrawing privileges granted by Ruler of Udaipur to Zamindars, to manufacture liquor for private consumption — Privilege held not right to property—No infringement of fundamental right. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1954 Raj 85 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Rules framed under Travancore Abkari Act, 1073 on 17-1-1953 — Rules dealing with licence fee, gallonage fee, etc.—Validity. See Travancore Abkari Act (4 of 1073), S. 26. A I R 1954 Trav-Co 504 (DB)

——Art. 19—Abkari Rules under Travancore Abkari Act (4 of 1073, M. E.) — Selection of site for liquor shop — Restriction on — Validity of. See Travancore Abkari Act (4 of 1073) as amended by Act (6 of 1125, M. E.). AIR 1951 Trav.Co 197.

62. Clause (1) (g)—(General).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), (6) and 301 to 305 — Scope—Freedom of trade, commerce and intercourse — Extent of.

Articles 19(1)(g) and 301 are two facets of the same thing the freedom of trade. Article 19(1)(g) looks at the matter from the point of the view of the individual citizens and protects their individual right to carry on their trade or business. Article 301 looks at the matter from the point of view of the country's trade and commerce as a whole, as distinct from the individual interests of the citizens and it relates to trade, commerce or intercourse both with and within the States.

The guaranteed right under Art. 19(1)(g) is, subject to Art. 19 (6) which protects a law which imposes, in the interest of the general public, reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19(1)(g). Our Constitution also proclaims by Art. 301 the freedom of trade, commerce and intercourse throughout the territory of India subject to the provisions of Arts. 302-305, State of Bombay v. R. M. D. Chamarbaugwala, 1957 Mad W N (SC) 64 : 1957 S C R 874 : 35 Mys L J 283 : (1957) 2 Mad L J (SC) 87 : (1957) 2 Andh W R (SC) 87 : 1957 S C J 607 : 58 Bom L R 945 : 1957 S C A 867 : (1957) Mad L J (Cr) 558 (SC) : A I R 1957 S C 699 (713, 718) (Pt F) (Prs 27, 36).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—If abrogates law of Torts relating to private nuisance — Suit for injunction to prevent defendant from running flour mill—If barred under Art. 19 (1)(g). See Ibid, Part III (General). AIR 1960 All 632.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 301—Articles do not overlap—Their respective scope indicated. Motilal v. Government of Uttar Pradesh, I L R (1951) 1 All 269 : A I R 1951 All 257(270, 313) (Pt H) (Prs 63, 284) (FB).

● ——Arts 19 (1) (g), 301 — Distinction between — Nature of rights under.

While Art. 19 (1) (g) guarantees to the citizens freedom in the matter of trade, profession or business, Art. 301 provides for freedom of trade, commerce and intercourse within the territory of India. While the one provides freedom for the individual in the matter of the choice of his trade, profession or business, the other provides for freedom of trade and commerce not in a particular State but in the whole of the territory of India. Free flow of traffic subject to the provisions contained in Part 13 is secured by Art. 301, for traffic is surely within the scope of the expression 'commerce'. It follows that if the freedom of individuals to carry on trade or business is restricted, the case falls under Art 19 (1) (g), but if the restriction embraces within its scope a particular trade or business with reference to movement from one place to another, the case would fall within the ambit of Art. 301. A I R 1951 All 257 (FB), Rel. on. Barua v. State of Assam, A I R 1955 Assam 249 (268) (Pt O) (Pr 56) (SB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 232.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 301 and 304 (b) — Scope — Complaint regarding right of individual to carry on business unrelated to question of passage of goods—Proper Article to be invoked is Art. 19 (1) (g) and not Art. 301 read with Art. 304 (b).

Looking to the language used in Part 13 "trade, commerce and intercourse within the territory of India" it is clear that that Part essentially deals with the free passage of persons and goods throughout the territory of India. What is emphasised is the freedom of trade and not the freedom of the individual to carry on his business. If an individual is prevented from sending his goods across the State or even if he is prevented from sending his goods from one part of the State to another, he may come to Court and complain of an infringement of Art. 301 read with Art. 304 (b). But when the complaint is with regard to the right of an individual to carry on business unrelated to the question of passage of goods or irrespective of the question of the passage of goods, then the proper article which he can invoke is Art. 19 (1) (g) and not the provisions of Art. 301 read with Art. 304 (b). ILR (1955) Bom 870 : 57 Bom L R 892 : AIR 1956 Bom 21 (26) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Applies to citizens as well as to corporations. ILR (1955) Bom 680 : 57 Bom L R 288 : AIR 1956 Bom 1 (19) (Pt Q) (Pr 47):(DB).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19(6), 31 (2), 31(2-A) and 374(2) —Government of India Act (1935), S. 299—Calcutta Police Act (1866), S. 61-A—Calcutta Suburban Police Act (1866), S. 33 A—Notifications in 1959 by Police Commissioner prohibiting use of cycle-carts in Calcutta and suburbs—Validity.

• Under Art. 374 (2) of the Constitution, the decision of the Federal Court in AIR 1944 F C 62 will have as much binding force and effect as a decision of the Supreme Court and as the impugned sections of the Calcutta Police Act (S. 61 A) and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act (S. 38-A) were enacted in 1948 when S. 299 of the Government of India Act, 1935 was in force, they cannot possibly be declared void on the ground that the sections deal with acquisition of property in the wide sense given to that expression in AIR 1954 S C 728 or AIR 1954 S C 92. There can be no question, therefore, that the two impugned sections which empowered the Commissioner of Police to prohibit certain types of vehicles plying on the streets and public places in the town of Calcutta and its suburbs were validily enacted and 'were existing laws' within the meaning of that expression as defined in Art. 366 (10) of the Constitution, till the Constitution came into force. If it be assumed that the two Sections were rendered invalid by Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution then these laws must be held to have remained dormant till the Constitution was amended in 1955 and Cl. (2 A) was inserted in Art. 31 by S. 2 of the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, applying the eclipse theory as propounded by the Supreme Court in AIR 1955 S C 781 which was approved of in 1956 S C J 293 : AIR 1956 S C 298 and in AIR 1959 S C 648 and revived again after the insertion of Cl. (2 A) in Art. 31 in 1955 and Cl. (6) in Art. 19. The notifications of 1959 prohibiting use of cycle-carts in town of Calcutta and its suburbs issued under the two sections were therefore quite valid. Paschim Banga Malbahi Cycle Mazdoor Union v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, 65 Cal W N 213 : AIR 1961 Cal 125 (131, 132, 137, 138) (Pt H) (Prs 21, 45, 47, 49) (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f) — Order mentioning purchasers — Power of Court to go behind order and determine the real purchaser. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f). AIR 1958 Cal 257.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226—Right to carry on business — There is no right to carry it in particular fashion — Existence of rival business cannot be termed as an invasion of fundamental right—Mandamus against order shifting a liquor shop nearer to petitioner's will not be issued. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 4290.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Negative stipulation not to serve another employer, in contract of service during currency of contract — Injunction can be granted to restrain breach of negative stipulation — Granting or refusal to grant injunction to limited extent does not affect freedom of contract or trade. See Specific Relief Act (1963), S. 38 (2). (1965) 2 Lab L J 284 : AIR 1966 Guj 189.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Service agreement — Agreement not to serve any other person during particular period —Not void under Art. 19 (1) (g) — But injunction to restrain servant from serving other person offends Art. 19 (1) (g) and cannot be granted. (1963) 2 Lab L J 522 : A I R 1964 Guj 215 (218, 219) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Unreasonable restriction on employee's right to follow occupation of his choice—Contract of personal service — Breach of Power of Court to issues injunction to prevent breach of contract of personal service. (1963) 4 Guj L R 795 : ILR (1963) Guj 891 : AIR 1964 Guj 115 (121, 122), (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19 (6) and 226—Person entitled to exemption from duty — Denial of benefit — Remedy — Interference under Art. 226 — Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), S. 37 (2) — Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 1.

Notification under R. 8 of Central Excise Rules, 1944 granting exemption from payment of duty — Denial of benefit of exemption is to impose larger levy on manufacture — If constitutes violation of petitioners' fundamental right to carry on trade which is guaranteed to him under Art. 19 (1) (g)—In such cases, rule against interference under Art. 226 when alternative remedies exist, is not to be applied rigorously — That the notification is not impugned as violative of fundamental right and that notices issued under it are alone the subject of challenges, is immaterial — If in sending notices, the authorities act outside the scope of the notification, the action is not deemed to be in pursuance of a law, which is saved by Art. 19 (6). A restriction which is not founded upon a law within the exception in Art. 19 (6) must per se constitute an infringement of fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) — High Court will interfere notwithstanding alternative remedy under Central Excises and Salt Act. 1960 Ker L J 1205 : 1960 Ker L T 1087.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope—Refusal of Government to deal with black-listed contractor—If infringement of fundamental right or rule of law — Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 13, AIR 1958 Ker 333 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope—Irregularity in auction-sale under Excise Act.

Mere irregularity committed in conducting any auction sale held under the provisions of the Excise Act cannot be said to have abridged or infringed licence-holder's fundamental rights. AIR 1954 S C 220, Rel. on. Madh B L R 1956 Civ 688:Madh B L J 1955 H C R 1253 : AIR 1956 Madh B 21 (22) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Right to close down one's business.

The carrying on of any business being a right and not an obligation, any industrial concern ought to have as much liberty to carry it on as to close it down particularly when it does not yield a profit. 1960 M P L J 841 : 1960 M P C 510 : (1960-61) 19 F J R 77 : (1960) 1 Lab L R 326 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 543 : 1960 Jab L J 543 : AIR 1960 Madh Pra 307 (308) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Reasonable restriction—Principles—C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 99 (2)—If violates fundamental rights.

The phrase 'reasonable restriction' connotes that the limitation imposed on a person in enjoyment of the right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature beyond what is required in the interests of the public. The word 'reasonable' implies intelligent care and deliberation, that is, the choice of a course which reason dictates. A I R 1951 S C 118, Rel. on.

The restriction must be reasonable from the substantive as well as procedural standpoints. It is not possible to formulate an effective test which would enable the Court to pronounce any particular restriction to be reasonable or unreasonable per se. All the attendant circumstances must be taken into consideration and one cannot dissociate the actual contents of the restrictions from the manner of their imposition or the mode of putting them into practice. A I R 1950 S C 211 and A I R 1952 S C 211, Rel on. 1957 Jab L J 86 : 1957 M P C 32 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 50 (51, 52) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on business—Restriction on—Contract with Government — Insistence by Government for production of income-tax clearance certificate.

The Government, as well as any individual, has got a right to enter or not into a contract with a particular person, and has also the right to decide on the terms of the contract. For instance, a private body can say that it will entrust its work only to a solvent person who should file a statement of his immovable properties and produce a nil encumbrance certificate. It cannot be said that an insistence on such a term being fulfilled in any way infringes the fundamental right of the person with whom the contract is being entered into. Similarly, an insistence by the Government on the production by a party of proof of solvency or an income-tax clearance certificate would not amount to a restriction on the right to carry on a business. 67 Mad L W 216 : (1955) 27 I T R 494 : (1955) 1 Mad L J 234 : A I R 1955 Mad 365 (366) (Pr 2) (DB).

—— Art. 19 (1) (f) (g) and (6) —Explosives Act (1884) not ultra vires.

Explosives should not be manufactured and explosive sub tances should not be stocked except under conditions which would not be detrimental to the public safety, health and convenience Therefore the restrictions imposed on the acquisition, holding and disposal of property, that is to say, explosives and explosive substances and the right to practice one's profession, trade, etc., in manufacturing explosives are restrictions permissible under clause (6) of Art 19 of the Constitution. Consequently, the Explosives Act is not ultra vires of the Constitution and can be justified under the proviso in Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. The Explosives Act does not constitute a violation of the freedom guaranteed under clauses (f) and (g) of Art 19 (1) of the Constitution. (1952) 2 Mad L J 748 : 1953 Cri L J 333 : 1952 Mad W N 906 : 1952 Mad W N (Cri) 262 : A I R 1953 Mad 142 (143) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Manipur Foodgrains (Movement) Control Order—If void – Test of reasonableness—(Manipur Foodgrains (Movement) Control Order (1955), Para. 3).

Legislation which arbitrarily or excessively invades a right cannot be said to contain the quality of reasonableness and unless it strikes a proper balance between the freedom guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) and the social control permitted by Cl. 6 of Art. 19, it must be held to be wanting in reasonableness.

Paragraph 3 of Manipur Foodgrains (Movement) Control Order, 1955, infringes the fundamental rights of the petitioners under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and so the provisions of this paragraph are void. 1956 Cri L J 1008 : A I R 1956 Manipur 25 (29, 30, 31) (Pt B) (Prs 22, 31).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) — Reasonable restrictions—Power of Executive to impose.

There can be no doubt that the freedom guaranteed under Art 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution is a qualified freedom. It is subject to reasonable restriction including complete prohibition if the interests of the general public demand it But the best Judge of the matter in the first instance is the Legislature and the power in clause (6) to impose such restrictions is conferred on the Legislature. It is not conferred on the Executives.

The Legislature in its turn can confer it on the Executive An exercise of the power by the Executive must have the authority of the Legislature. Even where there is such delegation, the Courts must see that the limits are well defined and not exceeded. I L R (1956) Nag 157 : A I R 1956 Nag 1 (6) (Pt D) (Pr 34) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — C P. States Land Tenure Order (1949), Cl. 23 (1) — Government notification — Purchases of tendu leaves from particular class of persons—Infringement of fundamental right to carry on trade or business — (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g)) See C. P. States Land Tenure Order (1949), Cl. 23 (1). A I R 1953 Nag 51.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) —Statute, when and when cannot be struck down as unconstitutional — Principles S 5 (3), Orissa Cinema (Regulation) Act (2 of 1954)—Validity.

A statute cannot be struck down as unconstitutional merely because it confers wide discretion on an authority to regulate certain classes of trade or business, by issuing permits or licenses. No one has a fundamental right to carry on any business at a particular place chosen by him and a local authority should have discretion to change the place in the interests of public convenience or safety. One of the important tests to determine whether restrictions are reasonable or not, is whether there is a provision for a superior authority to examine the propriety of the order of the lower authority and revise or review its decision. (1959) 1 O J D 655 : I L R (1959) Cut 667: A I R 1960 Orissa 88 (92, 93) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 17) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Reasonable restrictions — Duty of Court.

It is primarily the function of the Legislature to decide what type of control in the field of business is reasonable in public interests. But the Court has to see that under the guise of imposing reasonable restrictions as permitted by clause 6) of Art. 19, the freedom guaranteed by sub-clause (g) of clause (1) of Art. 19 is not taken away. A I R 1952 Orissa 42 (46) (Pt I) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (6) and 265 — Scope — Punjab Tobacco Vend Fees Act (12 of 1954), S. 4 — Punjab Tobacco Vend Rules (1955), R. 4—Validity of.

The provisions of the Punjab Tobacco Vend Fees Act, 1954, indicate that the Act has been enacted principally with the object of regulating and restraining the sale of tobacco and not with the object of providing revenue for State. Neither the Act nor the rules which have been framed in exercise of the powers conferred by the said Act can be invalidated on the ground that the imposition yields a revenue in excess of that required for the purpose of regulation. 58 Punj L R 480 : I L R (1957) Punj 184 : A I R 1957 Punj 45 (48) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

63. Practise any profession.

● ——Art. 19 — Suit for declaration of plaintiff's exclusive right to purohitgiri does not lie — Infringement of right to practice freely any profession to be protective. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. I L R (1952) Hyd 481 : A I R 1953 Hyd 1 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Kerala Civil Service (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 25—If ultra vires —Rule 25 which enables Government to enhance punishment does not operate as unreasonable restriction on right to carry on profession under the article. See Kerala Civil Service (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 13. A I R 1960 Ker 224.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—'Profession' and 'trade or business' – Distinction — Words and Phrases — 'Profession', 'trade or business'.

Article 19 (6) of the Constitution which enables the State to make laws imposing reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (g) clearly makes a distinction between the carrying on of a profession on the one hand and the carrying on of a trade or business on the other. It cannot therefore be said that the carrying on of a profession is the same thing as the carrying on of a trade or business. A fundamental difference between a profession and a trade or business seems to be implicit in the reference to 'profession, occupation, trade or business' in Art. 19. It is normally understood that trade or business is carried on with a profit motive But though a 'profession' or an 'occupation' are carried on for the purpose of earning a livelihood, it cannot be said that a profit motive underlies the carrying on of these activities. (1963) 2 Lab L J 747 (Mad) : 77 Mad L W 90 : (1964) 1 Mad L J 379 : (1964-65) 26 F J R 113 : I L R (1964) 2 Mad 167 : A I R 1964 Mad 131 (133) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on a profession conferred by — S. 61 (3) of the Income-tax Act if unreasonable restraint on—See I. T. Act (11 of 1922), S. 61 (3). AIR 1951 Mad 897.

64. Carry on any occupation, etc.

● —Art. 19 (1) (g)—A person cannot assert any fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) to carry on business in adulterated food stuffs. State of U. P. v. Kartar Singh, 1964 (2) Cr L J 229 : (1964) 1 S C W R 435 : 1964 All L J 732 : (1964) 2 S C J 666 : 1964 Mad L J (Cr) 633 : 1964 S C D 939 : (1965) 1 Andh L T 1 : 1965 Mad W N 97 : AIR 1964 S C 1135 (1138) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

● —Art 19 (6)—Carries on business — Application to Government—Running of Railways — Is a business even in hands of Government — Profit motive not necessary — Principal place of railway administration is place of business for S. 20, Civil P. C. — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 20 (a). AIR 1963 S C 1681.

● —Arts. 19 (1) (g), (6), 301 and 304 — 'Trade, business or commerce', meaning of—Gambling prize competitions — If trade or commerce — Bombay Lotteries and Prize Competitions Control and Tax Act (54 of 1948) — Validity of. AIR 1956 Bom 1, Reversed.

The words 'trade' or 'business' or 'commerce' should not be read in their widest amplitude as meaning any activity which is undertaken or carried on with a view to earning profit. Gambling activities from their very nature and in essence are extra-commercium although the external forms, formalities and instruments of trade may be employed and they are not protected either by Art 19 (1) (g) or Art. 301 of the Constitution. The fact that regulatory provisions have been enacted to control gambling by issuing licences and by imposing taxes does not in any way alter the nature of gambling which is inherently vicious and pernicious.

Held, that in point of fact the prize competitions run by the petitioners under the name of 'R. M. D. C. Cross Words' partake of a gambling nature and, therefore, fall within the definition and are to be governed by the regulatory and taxing provisions of the Act. When Art. 19 (1) (g) guarantees or Art. 301 declares the freedom of trade they describe human activities in a specific aspect. The freedom secured by the two Articles implies that no unreasonable restraint or burden shall be placed upon an act falling under that description because it is trade or commerce or intercourse. AIR 1956 Bom 1, Reversed. State of Bombay v. R. M. D. Chamarbaugwala, (1957) 2 M L J (S C) 87 : (1957) 2 An W R (S C) 87 ; 1957 S C J 607 : 1957 S C R 874 : 35 Mys L J 283 : 1957 Mad W N (S C) 64 : 1957 S C A 867 : 59 Bom L R 945 : (1957) M L J (Cr) 558 : A I R 1957 S C 699 (718 to 722) (Pt H) (Prs 36, 42, 43, 44, 46, 47).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Right to carry on business or cease to carry on business.

The right to carry on a business under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and therefore to cease to carry it on is not an absolute right as Cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution confers powers on the State to impose reasonable restrictions on this right. AIR 1954 Bhopal 17 (20) (Pt D) (Pr 23).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on trade or business.

The right to carry on cloth business is a fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution though subject to the limitations contained in Cl. (6) of that Article. The mere fact that cloth is a controlled commodity and that a person is carrying on the business only by virtue of licence cannot affect the fundamental character of the right. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 260 Criticised. AIR 1953 Him Pra 41 (45) (Pt B) (Pr 19).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on business — Right to ply motor vehicles on public routes.

Within the limits imposed by State regulations any member of the public can ply motor vehicles on a public road. To that extent he can also carry on the business of transporting passengers with the aid of the vehicles. It is to this carrying on of the trade or business that the guarantee in Art. 19 (1) (g) is attracted and a citizen can legitimately complain if any legislation takes away or curtails that right any more than is permissible under Cl. (6) of that Article. AIR 1954 S C 728, Foll C. Balakrishna Panicker v. State Transport Appellate Tribunal, Ernakulam, 1962 Ker L J 775 : ILR (1962) 2 Ker 223 : 1962 Ker L T 441 : AIR 1963 Ker 1 (3) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (FB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on business — Scope of.

Under the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution, a man has a right to relinquish his business, to close down without being coerced to continue or to recommence, a right to transfer his business elsewhere, to self or to split up his business into several subsidiary units. These rights are not unqualified. (1960) 1 Lab L J 351 : AIR 1961 Mad 331 (336) (Pt B) (Pr 18) (DB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Fundamental right to carry on business — Violation of — Banking Companies Act (10 of 1949), S. 22 — Validity — If opposed to Art. 19 (1) (g)—If unconstitutional.

Section 22 of the Banking Companies Act, 1949 which introduces a complete system of licensing of Banks by the Reserve Bank is not unconstitutional and is not opposed to the fundamental right of a citizen to carry on banking business. Nor could it be said that the delegation of the power to the Reserve Bank is in any way invalid. 72 Mad L W 790 : (1960) 30 Comp Cas 146: 1960 Mad W N 207 : (1959) 2 Mad L J 455 : A I R 1961 Mad 8 (12, 13) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 13).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Carry on any occupation—Reasonable restrictions -Landholder's right to till—(Tenancy Laws — Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act (24 of 1951), S. 3).

The provisions of the Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act, 1951, do not abridge the freedom of the landlord to carry on his occupation as a tiller of the soil. Since provision is made in the Act to secure the landholders a holding of 50 acres, there is really no unreasonable abridgment of this fundamental right. At any rate, the restriction is reasonable and is necessary for efficient agriculture. Bhaurao v. S. D. O., Chandur-Morsi, 1954 Nag L J 667 : I L R (1954) Nag 816 : A I R 1955 Nag 1 (6) (Pt E) (Pr 19) (FB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g)—Business—Market.

When the owner of the market is also the owner of the land he cannot be said to be carrying on a business by collecting fees from people who come to the market to expose their goods for sale. Such collecting is only a mode of enjoyment of his ownership of the land. AIR 1954 Mad 754, Rel. on. 23 Cut L T 265 : ILR (1957) Cut 13.

—Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and 13 — Occupation — Service is not occupation — Removal of servant in accordance with terms of contract — Art. 19 (1) (g) not violated.

A person's service in pursuance of a contract is not an occupation of the kind contemplated in Cl. (g) of Art 19 (1). Assuming that it is an occupation, Art. 19 (1) (g) does not mean that a person who has been employed under the terms of a contract cannot be removed in accordance with those terms. To give such a meaning to Art. 19 (1) (g) will lead to a manifest absurdity.

Held, that assuming that the bye-laws of the staff regulations of the Bank under which the petitioner was removed from service came within the meaning of 'law' in Art. 13 (3) they were not unreasonable restrictions and therefore were saved by Art. 19 (6). AIR 1955 Pat 223 (225) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bye-laws under S. 28, Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act — Bye-law 9 A of Tarn Taran Market Committee — Whether invalid as imposing unreasonable restriction on a person's liberty to carry on trade—Quaere. See Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (5 of 1939), S. 28. ('57) 59 Punj L R 628.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Provision of S. 29 of Ajmer Land and Revenue Regulation (2 of 1877) is violative of Art. 19 (1)(g)—Hence S. 29 of the Regulation must be struck down. See Tenancy Laws—Ajmer Land and Revenue Regulation (2 of 1877), S. 29. A I R 1965 Raj 188 (DB).

——Art. 19 (5) (g)—Scope— S. 7 does not give power to the Government to control mining leases in land in protected areas — Notification No. F, 6 (123)/Rev./B/58, dated 21-2-1959 issued under the section in that respect is ultra vires—No restriction on the right to carry on business for which valid leases have already been granted under relevant provisions, can be imposed under the section. See Rajasthan Colonisation Act (27 of 1954), S. 7 (1). 1963 Raj L W 423.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Right to carry on business of bus operator.

A person has the fundamental right to carry on the business of a bus operator under Art 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution subject to such reasonable restrictions as may be placed on that right under Art. 19 (6). ILR (1953) 3 Raj 931 : 1954 R L W 649 : AIR 1955 Raj 19 (27) (Pt G) (Pr 22) (DB).

65. Legal profession—Restrictions as to.
See also Ibid, Note 73

●——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Legal Practitioners Act (1879) Ss. 9, 11—Scope—General Rules and Circular Orders of High Court of Judicature at Patna (Civil) (1922), Part 7, Chap 3, R. 2—Validity—Rule is not in excess of rule-making power under S. 11. See Legal Practitioners Act (1879), S. 9. AIR 1962 S C 201.

●——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Validity of Bar Councils Act, S. 9 (1), Proviso—Contravention of Art. 19 (1) (g). See Bar Councils Act (1926), S. 9 (1), Proviso. AIR 1954 S C 524.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Right under—Art. 19 (6) — Restrictions — Legal Practitioners Act — Touts and Revenue agents—Prohibitions against—Validity.

Article 19 (1) (g) does not grant an unfettered right to practise any profession a citizen may choose. It is subject to Art. 19 (6) providing for the imposition of reasonable restrictions upon the very right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (g) in the interest of the general public and not in the exercise of a particular profession adopted by a citizen.

The provisions in the Legal Practitioners Act in respect of touts, involving total prohibition (Sections 36, 13-e and 22-d) are very reasonable restrictions in the interest of the public and for the proper administration of justice; and they are saved by Art. 19, sub-cl. (6). 1952 Cr L J 910 : ILR (1953) 1 All 930 : A I R 1952 All 491 (493, 494) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 14, 16, 17) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Advocates Act (1961), S. 50 (2)—Provision does not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and is covered by Art. 19 (6). See Advocates Act (1961), S. 50 (2). A I R 1963 Cal 614 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 6 and 22 — Scope — Right to be defended by lawyer.

Right to be represented by a lawyer is not expressly recognised by the Indian Constitution with perhaps one exception. It is not a fundamental right under the Constitution of India except under Art 22 of the Constitution in the case of preventive detention where a personal liberty is involved. Refusal to permit lawyers representing parties in a civil dispute over a contract before the Arbitrators cannot, therefore be regarded as an infraction of any constitutional provision. The right recognised in Art. 19 (1) (g) is confined to the right of a citizen to practise a profession (which in this case was profession of law). It is not necessarily the same thing for an applicant to claim a right to be defended by a lawyer in a civil dispute over a contract. It is not the applicant's but the lawyer's right. Where the arbitration agreement expressly incorporates the Rules of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce specifically recognising the right to exclude lawyers except with the permission of the Arbitrators it is not a denial of the citizen's right to practise the profession of law Even were it a denial, it would be justified as a reasonable restriction imposed by the existing law under sub-cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. 60 Cal W N 810 : A I R 1956 Cal 476 (478) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Whether an accused lawyer can be permitted to appear as lawyer for co-accused in the same case—Rights of the lawyer to carry profession. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 561A. (1965) 6 Guj L R 531.

——Art 19—Right to appear by advocate, nature of—Civil P.C. (1908), O. 3, R. 11—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 340.

The right to appear by an Advocate is, if at all, a procedural right conferred by Statute and not a substantive right and, therefore there can be no question of infringement of any fundamental right whatsoever if a Statute leaves it to the sweet will and pleasure of the tribunal to allow a party to appear by pleader. I L R (1953) Hyd 648 : A I R 1954 Hyd 28 (31, 32) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Right to practise as a lawyer.

There is no absolute right to be an advocate. The privilege to practise is conditioned by limitations circumscribed by the provisions of any Special Law. Hence a provision in a Statute that a lawyer could appear only when permitted by the Tribunal does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution ILR (1953) Hyd 648 : A I R 1954 Hyd 28 (31, 32) (Pt E) (Pr 6) (DB).

●——Art. 19—Hyderabad Legal Practitioners Act (6 of 13 8F), S. 3—Unreasonable restriction on the right of citizen to practise his profession. See Hyderabad Legal Practitioners Act (6 of 1318F), S. 3. AIR 1951 Hyd 140 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S 36 (4) (as amended by Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950)) — Lawyer's right to practise before Tribunal— (Bar Council's Act (1926) Ss 9 (1) and 14 (1)). See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 36 (4). AIR 1953 Mad 447.

——Art 19 (1) (g) and Stamp Act (2 of 1899) as amended by Madras Stamp Amendment Act (6 of 1922), Sch I-A, Art. 25 Fundamental rights to practise advocate's profession —Powes of State to tax —Reconciliation.

The stamp duty levied under Art. 30 of Sch. I of the Indian Stamp Act or Art. 25 of Sch. I-A of the Act as amended in Madras is not of the same nature as the licence-tax or privilege-tax, examples of which are to be found in some American cases. It is not a periodical or recurring levy depending on the practice of the profession or on which the practice of the profession depends. Besides acting and pleading in Courts there are many ways in which a lawyer can pursue his profession. If any one wants the additional privilege of being entitled as of right to act and plead in the High Court he has got to be enrolled on the rolls of that Court Enrolment consists in making an entry on the roll and the Legislature says that the particular entry should bear stamp duty. This entry is an instrument as defined in the Indian Stamp Act. There is no evidence that the purpose of the stamp duty is to destroy the practice of the profession of law or that it was prompted by improper motives. Even assuming a tax otherwise lawfully levied can be held to be an unreasonable restriction on the exercise of any of the freedoms guaranteed by Art. 19, it cannot be said in this case that the imposition of the stamp duty is not a reasonable restriction and not in the interests of the general public. So long as the monetary exaction is, in the opinion of the Court, reasonable, it cannot be said that it is invalid as being unconstitutional.

Though any system of permits which eventually depends upon the discretion of executive authority would be bad when the system curtails any fundamental right, it cannot be said that in this case, it is in anybody's discretion to enrol or not to enrol a person otherwise qualified for being enrolled. There being thus neither discrimination nor any possibility of the exercise of naked arbitrary power, the practice of the profession is not dependent on the will and pleasure of any individual.

The right to plead and act on behalf of suitors in Court is not a right flowing from citizenship. It is not only a citizen who is entitled to be enrolled as an Advocate. Even a foreigner if he fulfils the prescribed qualifications and requirements can be enrolled as such. The exclusive right to represent suitors in a Court which an Advocate possesses is really in the nature of a privilege though the fact that it is a privilege does not imply that on the conferment of the privilege there can be discrimination. Art. 14 is a sufficient safeguard against any unequal treatment. The charge of a fee by way of levy of stamp duty for such privilege cannot be invalid as unconstitutional.

Even if the right to act and plead is deemed to be a right comprised in the right to practice the profession guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g), there is nothing in the Constitution to exempt such right wholly from the taxing power of the State. Art. 265 which says 'no tax shall be levied except by authority of law' does not provide for any exemptions. A number of entries in the Legislative Lists clearly indicate the scope of the taxing power as extending even to rights covered by Art. 19 (1). The right to levy stamp duty in respect of documents is specifically enumerated in both Lists I and II. The proper way to reconcile the fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 and the power to tax contained in the several provisions of the Constitution is that if the taxation is only for legitimate revenue purpose that it is not invalid merely because it may adversely affect any of the fundamental rights. This way of reconciling would tend to give room for judicial review in exceptional cases and a power in the Court to declare a particular instance of taxation as unconstitutional.

As the enrolment fee is not with the object of deliberately abridging or destroying the right to carry on the legal profession nor is it so excessive and oppressive as to virtually abridge or destroy such right it must be held proper and constitutional.

There is abundant authority for the proposition that fundamental rights are not immune from taxation. The Stamp Act is a measure of taxation. The power to tax is an attribute of sovereignty; it carries with it the power to determine when and how the tax shall be levied and it is no objection to its validity that it is levied before the commencement of the trade and not after. Hence the theory of previous restraint on the exercise of the fundamental right being void in the sense that the imposition of the tax as a condition precedent to the exercise of the profession is illegal and opposed to Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution has no application. While the levy of income tax cannot be questioned in Courts the levy of profession-tax might be challenged on the ground that it is unreasonable and excessive as to be prohibitive of the right to carry on trade. Any question whether a tax in a particular case is so unreasonable as to amount to a destruction of the right will, of course, be a matter for determination by Courts in the same manner as questions of reasonableness under Art. 19 Cls. (3) to (5) 65 L W 114 : 1952 Mad W N 72 : I L R (1952) Mad 933 : (1952) I M L J 208 : A I R 1952 Mad 395 (403, 404, 407, 408, 409) (Pt A) (Prs 30, 33, 44, 52, 54) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) —Orissa Co-operative Societies Act (11 of 1952), S. 133—Validity.

Section 133 is not unconstitutional on the ground that it imposes an unreasonable restriction on the right of a legal practitioner to carry on his profession guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. It cannot also be said that it imposes an unreasonable restriction on the right of a litigant to engage a legal practitioner. A I R 1957 Orissa 56 and A I R 1957 Orissa 281, Rel. on. ILR (1958) Cut 286 : A I R 1958 Orissa 217 (218) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Restriction on right of lawyer to carry on profession—Validity. See Panchayats—Orissa Gram Panchayats Act (15 of 1948), S. 94. 1957 Cr L J 1437 : AIR 1957 Orissa 281.

——Art. 19 — Validity—Section does not restrict the right of the legal practitioner to carry on his profession. See Municipalities—Orissa Municipal Act (23 of 1950), S. 16 (1) (ix). AIR 1952 Orissa 11 (DB).

66. Licence, requirement of.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 548 (2) — Levy of Licence fee in 1948 on cinema house - Increase of fee from Rs. 400 to 6 000 per year in 1958 —Does not amount to expropriation —Levy not invalid as violating. Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of Constitution. See Municipalities — Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 548 (2). AIR 1963 SC 1107.

● ——Art. 19 (6)—Export promotion policy regarding art silk yarn and fabrics — Power of Controller of Imports to grant licences up to certain percentage of value of exported goods — Nature of — No right in exporter to obtain licence for full value — Malpractices of exporters Reduction in percentage of import value on scrutiny of each application — Does not amount to unreasonable restriction on right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. See Import Trade Control Policy (for Oct 58 to March, 59), Appl. 42, Cl. 2. A I R 1963 S C 563.

● ——Art 19 (1) (g) —Assam Food Grains (Licensing and Control) Order (1961); Clause 5 (e) - Petitioner's application for license refused and license granted to co-operative society, on footing of creating monopolies in favour of co-operative societies —Order is discriminatory and violates rights guaranteed under Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution. See Assam Food Grains (Licensing and Control) Order (1961), Cl. 5 (e). A I R 1962 S C 386

● ——Art. 19—Sea Customs Act (1878) (as amended in 1955), Ss. 202 (2), 9— Rules under, Custom House

Agents Licensing Rules (1960) —Validity — Whether offend against Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution or go beyond rule-making power under S. 202 (2). See Sea Customs Act (1878) (As amended in 1955), S. 202 (2). AIR 1962 S C 204.

● ——Arts. 19, 31 and Part 3—Bihar Private Forests Act (3 of 1946), S. 22 — Termination of licence to cut forest trees under S. 22 long prior to Constitution—Protection of Part 3 of Constitution cannot be invoked.

Where the lease or licence which the appellant had obtained by contract from the landholder was put an end to once and for all, long before the Constitution came into force by virtue of the provisions contained in S. 22 of the Bihar Private Forests Act, 1946 which was a valid law and which made provision for compensation for the extinguishment of those rights the appellant could have no rights which could survive the Constitution so as to enable him to invoke the protection of Part 3 thereof. AIR 1955 S C 624, Disting. Guru Datta Sharma v. State of Bihar, ILR 41 Pat 47 : (1962) 2 S C R 292 : (1962) 1 S C J 382 : AIR 1961 S C 1684 (1697, 1698) (Pt E) (Pr 32).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Restrictions on the right to carry on trade—Reasonableness—Provision requiring licence for conducting eating house — S. 39 of Calcutta Police Act — Validity — S. 39 is not unreasonable restriction on the right to carry on trade and is not unconstitutional.

(Per Majority, Sinha, C. J. and Subba Rao, J. Contra) :—

When the Court is judging S. 39 of the Calcutta Police Act passed in 1866 to decide whether it satisfies the test of constitutionality based on Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 19 (6) it should take the section as a whole and see whether on a fair reading of the section it can be said that there is no guidance for the Commissioner in the matter of granting or refusing licences. Section 39 clearly provides that the Commissioner will use his discretion in deciding whether the person applying for a licence is in actual and effective control and possession of the place where the eating house is to be kept and is thus the keeper thereof. He will also satisfy himself that the keeper is a person of good behaviour and further that he is able to prevent drunkenness and disorder in the eating house. If he is satisfied on these three matters, the section contemplates that the discretion will be exercised in favour of the grant of a licence. Thus it cannot be held that S. 39 confers an arbitrary and uncanalised power without any criteria for guiding the discretion of the licensing authority and the section cannot be held to be an unreasonable restriction on the right to carry on trade on this ground. Kishan Chand Arora v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, (1961) 2 S C A 150 : (1961) 2 S C J 309 : (1961) M L J (Cr) 541 : (1961) 3 S C R 135 : AIR 1961 S C 705 (708, 709) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Imports Control Order (1955), Cl. 9 (a)—Cancellation of licence on ground that it has been obtained by fraud—It is reasonable restriction—No infringement of fundamental right. See Imports Control Order (1955), Cl. 9 (a). AIR 1960 S C 415.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Cinematograph Act (2 of 1918).

Section 8—G. O. Mis. 1054 Home, D/- 28-3-1948 and G. O. Mis. 3422, D/- 15-9-1945 issued by Madras State under S. 8—Condition (4) (a) and special condition 3 imposed in licence in pursuance of notifications—Validity—AIR 1952 Mad 120, Reversed. See Cinematograph Act (1918), S. 8. AIR 1954 S C 747.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) - U. P. Cinemas Regulation Act, 1955 (U. P. 3 of 1956), S. 5 (2) — Reasonable restriction—Order passed laying restrictions on cinema house proprietors in respect of daily shows —Order impugned as infringing Art. 19 (1) (g)— Reasonability of order to be tested with reference to object of Act — Held, the impugned order was reasonable and valid.

There is a limitation placed on the power exercisable, whether by the State Government or the licensing authority, in respect of the issue of a licence under S. 5 (2) of the Act. No absolute power to impose any and whatever condition they should desire is vested thereby. For judging the reasonableness of the restrictions, the purpose and object of the Act will be a very relevant consideration. If the Act is not limited in its scope to the making of provision for licensing of places alone where exhibition by cinematograph can be given but travels beyond, provision can also be made under it for other matters such as education and health conditions and restrictions which concern those matters can also be included in the licence.

Purporting to act under S. 5 (2) of the U. P. Cinemas Regulation Act, 1955, the Additional District Magistrate, Lucknow, passed an order ordering thereby to include certain additional conditions in the licences for cinematograph exhibitions. Four restrictions were contemplated in the order made. The petitioners claimed that the restrictions contained in the above conditions were per se unreasonable; that they were not in the interest of the general public and that they infringed the fundamental right guaranteed by sub-cl. (g) of Cl. (1) of Art. 19 of the Constitution.

Held, that as reasons of health, safety and public morality demand that such a limit should be placed, these conditions and restrictions required in the order were reasonable restrictions and that the impugned order was valid. (1915) 2 K B 49, Disting. AIR 1961 All 600 (603, 604, 606) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 11, 25).

——Arts. 19, 14, 226 — Revocation of licence to carry on cinema house under S. 9-A of the U. P. Entertainment and Betting Tax Act—Opportunity of being heard must be given to proprietor—Rule of natural justice applies— U. P. Entertainment and Betting Tax Act (8 of 1937), S. 9-A—Natural Justice.

An order cancelling or suspending a licence under S. 9-A of the U. P. Entertainment and Betting Tax Act is an order which affects the fundamental right of the person entitled to carry on the business. In order that the restriction under Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution should satisfy the requirements of reasonableness, it is necessary that the person affected is afforded an opportunity before the cancellation or suspension is ordered. The obligation exists under the Constitution itself which is the basic law and if the opportunity is not given, the order is liable to be quashed. 1960 All W R (HC) 685 : 1960 All L J 894.

——Art 19 (1) (g)—Scope — Conditions in permit of motor bicycle—Reasonableness of. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 52. AIR 1959 All 373.

——Art 19 (1) (g)—Bye-laws imposing restrictions on number of rickshaws and issue of licences and detention of unlicensed rickshaws—Validity of. See Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 111. AIR 1958 All 853 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Right to carry on business of plying rickshaw—Restriction on—Validity.

The right of a citizen to carry on the business of plying rickshaws is within the protection afforded by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution; it is a right guaranteed and the validity of any restriction or any refusal to let a person exercise that guaranteed right of his can only be upheld if it could be justified on the ground of its being a reasonable restriction placed on that right as provided for by the Constitution. 1958 All L J 643 : AIR 1958 All 853 (858) (Pt C) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (g)— U. P. Municipalities Act (1916), S. 298 (2)—Bye-laws under, for regulation and control of rickshaws—Validity of. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298 (2). 1958 All L J 539.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—U. P. Butter, Ghee and Fat Licensing Rules, Rr. 3 and 11—Validity.

Rules 3 and 11 are discretionary and so long as the discretion is not exercised arbitrarily, unjustly or oppressively it is not open to challenge. The Rules, if correctly interpreted do not impose any obligation upon the Municipal Board or the local authority to issue a license when in the interest of public health they do not consider it proper to do so. The restriction which may by implication be imported into the matter would be a reasonable restriction protected by Cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. AIR 1956 All 562, Distinguished. 1957 Cr L J 915 :AIR 1957 All 548 (549) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 — Scope — License to carry on profession.

A petition writer has no legal right, let alone a fundamental right, to carry on his profession or business in the Collectorate compound. His case is wholly distinguishable from that of a person who is required by law to obtain a licence as a condition of carrying on his business or profession at all. Where the law lays down that a particular occupation cannot be carried on save under a licence, then the withdrawal of a licence has the obvious consequences of wholly preventing the person concerned from carrying on that business, and the question may arise whether there has been contravention of the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. The petition writer has no right to carry on his business in the Collectorate compound save with the permission of the Collector, and if that permission is withdrawn it would still be open to him to carry on his occupation anywhere other than the Collectorate compound. He may have a grievance by the withdrawal of the permission but no legal remedy unless it can be founded on breach of contract. The remedy for breach of contract is by way of suit, and not a petition under Art. 226.

A provision in the order withdrawing the permission that 'No application or papers written by him should be entertained in any Court' is however in excess of the powers of the officer making the order. 1954 All L J 12 : 1954 All W R (H C) 63 : I L R (1954) 2 All 300 : 1954 Cri L J 726 : AIR 1954 All 317 (318, 319) (Prs 3, 4, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Power to interfere with administrative orders—Refusal to renew license in Form B 1, under U. P. Controlled Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealer's Licensing Order 1948, on grounds irrelevant to the consideration of application for renewal — Order of refusal quashed and direction to consider application on merits issued. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1954 All 144 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), Ss. 249 (3), 321 (4) and 322 (c) — S. 249 (3) is not ultra vires on the ground that it is opposed to the fundamental rights guaranteed to a citizen. It is not repugnant to fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (g) — Power in Municipality to grant or refuse licence for the reasons given in the order passed by it is not arbitrary — Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), Ss. 249, 321, 322. A I R 1956 Mad 181; 1959 M L J (Cri) 923, Diss. from; A I R 1958 T C 249; AIR 1959 Bom 26; A I R 1954 S C 465, Rel. on. (1962) 1 Andh W R 112 : 1962 Andh L T 42 : (1962) 1 Andh L T 113 : 1962 Mad L J (Cr) 135 : 1962 (2) Cri L J 461 : AIR 1962 Andh-Pra 379 (381) (Prs 8, 10).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 225 — Validity — Casting vicarious liability on licensee — If violative of fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g). See Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 225. AIR 1961 Andh-Pra 350.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Condition in license to cinema house, that it should exhibit approved films of certain length — Approved films of educational value—It is a reasonable restriction on trade in interest of general public — Hyderabad Cinemas (Regulation) Act (49 of 1952)—Hyderabad Cinematograph Rules (1953)—Hyderabad Cinematograph Act (1 of 1952).

Conditions 3 (a) and (b) in the license granted under Hyderabad Cinematograph Rules, 1953 to a Cinema house, requiring the licensee to exhibit films of length not exceeding 2000 ft. approved and certified by the Central Government and the Films Advisory Board, depicting educational, cultural and other current events and also documentaries, are reasonable restrictions in the interest of the general public, within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (g) read with Art. 19 (6). AIR 1961 Andh-Pra 126 (128) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Central Excise Rules (1945) Rr. 15, 18, 21, 22, 23, 34 and 36—Validity. See Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 15. A I R 1960 Andh-Pra 498 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Cancellation of Licence to hold arms under S. 18, Arms Act, without assigning any reason—Order will be quashed. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1960 Andh-Pra 420.

——Art. 19 (5) — Arms Rules (1951), R. 26 — Validity — Licencing machinery for sale of arms — Reasonable restriction — Art. 19 (1) (g) not contravened. See Arms Rules (1951), R. 26. A I R 1960 Andh-Pra 384.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 — Assam Cement Control Act (7 of 1953), S. 3 and Assam Cement Control Order, Cl. 14 — Right to carry on business in cement — Reasonable restriction — Cancellation of licence under Cl. 14 and the petitioner's distributing agency in respect of Government stock — Reasonable opportunity against cancellation of licence held necessary — Bias.

Held on facts that under the Assam Cement Control Act it was open to Government to appoint any dealers they choose as their distributing agents and as such the petitioner was not entitled to any relief so far as the cancellation of his distributing agency for Government stock was concerned. But cl. 14 of the Assam Cement Control Order imposing a complete prohibition to carry on business in cement without obtaining a licence was a restriction on the fundamental right of the petitioner to carry on business and before a licence could be cancelled the licensee ought to be given a reasonable opportunity to show cause against the cancellation. Held, further that the petitioner could rightly allege bias and say that he was not given any reasonable opportunity to disprove the charges against him. The order cancelling his licence should therefore be quashed. A I R 1962 Assam 80 (81, 82) (Prs 3, 5, 6, 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Assam Drug Rules, R. 62-A — Validity—Discretion of licensing authority arbitrary and unregulated —Rule hit by Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution. See Assam Drug Rules (1945), R. 62-A. AIR 1960 Assam 94 (DB).

Agents Licensing Rules (1960) —Validity — Whether offend against Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution or go beyond rule-making power under S. 202 (2). See Sea Customs Act (1878) (As amended in 1955), S. 202 (2). AIR 1962 S C 204.

● ——Arts. 19, 31 and Part 3—Bihar Private Forests Act (3 of 1946), S. 22 — Termination of licence to cut forest trees under S. 22 long prior to Constitution—Protection of Part 3 of Constitution cannot be invoked.

Where the lease or licence which the appellant had obtained by contract from the landholder was put an end to once and for all, long before the Constitution came into force by virtue of the provisions contained in S. 22 of the Bihar Private Forests Act, 1946 which was a valid law and which made provision for compensation for the extinguishment of those rights the appellant could have no rights which could survive the Constitution so as to enable him to invoke the protection of Part 3 thereof. AIR 1955 S C 624, Disting. Guru Datta Sharma v. State of Bihar, ILR 41 Pat 47 : (1962) 2 S C R 292 : (1962) 1 S C J 382 : AIR 1961 S C 1684 (1697, 1698) (Pt E) (Pr 32).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Restrictions on the right to carry on trade—Reasonableness—Provision requiring licence for conducting eating house — S. 39 of Calcutta Police Act — Validity — S. 39 is not unreasonable restriction on the right to carry on trade and is not unconstitutional.

(Per Majority, Sinha, C. J. and Subba Rao, J. Contra) :—

When the Court is judging S. 39 of the Calcutta Police Act passed in 1866 to decide whether it satisfies the test of constitutionality based on Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 19 (6) it should take the section as a whole and see whether on a fair reading of the section it can be said that there is no guidance for the Commissioner in the matter of granting or refusing licences. Section 39 clearly provides that the Commissioner will use his discretion in deciding whether the person applying for a licence is in actual and effective control and possession of the place where the eating house is to be kept and is thus the keeper thereof. He will also satisfy himself that the keeper is a person of good behaviour and further that he is able to prevent drunkenness and disorder in the eating house. If he is satisfied on these three matters, the section contemplates that the discretion will be exercised in favour of the grant of a licence. Thus it cannot be held that S. 39 confers an arbitrary and uncanalised power without any criteria for guiding the discretion of the licensing authority and the section cannot be held to be an unreasonable restriction on the right to carry on trade on this ground. Kishan Chand Arora v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, (1961) 2 S C A 150 : (1961) 2 S C J 309 : (1961) M L J (Cr) 541 : (1961) 3 S C R 135 : AIR 1961 S C 705 (708, 709) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Imports Control Order (1955), Cl. 9 (a)—Cancellation of licence on ground that it has been obtained by fraud—It is reasonable restriction—No infringement of fundamental right. See Imports Control Order (1955), Cl. 9 (a). AIR 1960 S C 415.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Cinematograph Act (2 of 1918).

Section 8—G. O. Mis. 1054 Home, D/- 28-3-1948 and G. O. Mis. 3422, D/- 15-9-1945 issued by Madras State under S. 8—Condition (4) (a) and special condition 3 imposed in licence in pursuance of notifications—Validity—AIR 1952 Mad 120, Reversed. See Cinematograph Act (1918), S. 8. AIR 1954 S C 747.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) - U. P. Cinemas Regulation Act, 1955 (U. P. 3 of 1956), S. 5 (2) — Reasonable restriction—Order passed laying restrictions on cinema house proprietors in respect of daily shows —Order impugned as infringing Art. 19 (1) (g)—Reasonability of order to be tested with reference to object of Act — Held, the impugned order was reasonable and valid.

There is a limitation placed on the power exercisable, whether by the State Government or the licensing authority, in respect of the issue of a licence under S. 5 (2) of the Act. No absolute power to impose any and whatever condition they should desire is vested thereby. For judging the reasonableness of the restrictions, the purpose and object of the Act will be a very relevant consideration. If the Act is not limited in its scope to the making of provision for licensing of places alone where exhibition by cinematograph can be given but travels beyond, provision can also be made under it for other matters such as education and health conditions and restrictions which concern those matters can also be included in the licence.

Purporting to act under S. 5 (2) of the U. P. Cinemas Regulation Act, 1955, the Additional District Magistrate, Lucknow, passed an order ordering thereby to include certain additional conditions in the licences for cinematograph exhibitions. Four restrictions were contemplated in the order made. The petitioners claimed that the restrictions contained in the above conditions were per se unreasonable; that they were not in the interest of the general public and that they infringed the fundamental right guaranteed by sub-cl. (g) of Cl. (1) of Art. 19 of the Constitution.

Held, that as reasons of health, safety and public morality demand that such a limit should be placed, these conditions and restrictions required in the order were reasonable restrictions and that the impugned order was valid. (1915) 2 K B 49, Disting. AIR 1961 All 600 (603, 604, 606) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 11, 25).

——Arts. 19, 14, 226 — Revocation of licence to carry on cinema house under S. 9-A of the U. P. Entertainment and Betting Tax Act—Opportunity of being heard must be given to proprietor—Rule of natural justice applies— U. P. Entertainment and Betting Tax Act (8 of 1937), S. 9-A—Natural Justice.

An order cancelling or suspending a licence under S. 9-A of the U. P. Entertainment and Betting Tax Act is an order which affects the fundamental right of the person entitled to carry on the business. In order that the restriction under Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution should satisfy the requirements of reasonableness, it is necessary that the person affected is afforded an opportunity before the cancellation or suspension is ordered. The obligation exists under the Constitution itself which is the basic law and if the opportunity is not given, the order is liable to be quashed. 1960 All W R (HC) 685 : 1960 All L J 894.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope — Conditions in permit of motor bicycle—Reasonableness of. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 52. AIR 1959 All 373.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Bye-laws imposing restrictions on number of rickshaws and issue of licences and detention of unlicensed rickshaws—Validity of. See Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 111. AIR 1958 All 853 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Right to carry on business of plying rickshaw—Restriction on—Validity.

The right of a citizen to carry on the business of plying rickshaws is within the protection afforded by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution; it is a right guaranteed and the validity of any restriction or any refusal to let a person exercise that guaranteed right of his can only be upheld if it could be justified on the ground of its being a reasonable restriction placed on that right as provided for by the Constitution. 1958 All L J 643 : AIR 1958 All 853 (858) (Pt C) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (d) and (g)— U. P. Municipalities Act (1916), S. 298 (2)—Bye-laws under, for regulation and control of rickshaws—Validity of. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298 (2). 1958 All L J 539.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—U. P. Butter, Ghee and Fat Licensing Rules, Rr. 3 and 11—Validity.

Rules 3 and 11 are discretionary and so long as the discretion is not exercised arbitrarily, unjustly or oppressively it is not open to challenge. The Rules, if correctly interpreted do not impose any obligation upon the Municipal Board or the local authority to issue a license when in the interest of public health they do not consider it proper to do so. The restriction which may by implication be imported into the matter would be a reasonable restriction protected by Cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. AIR 1956 All 562, Distinguished. 1957 Cr L J 915 : AIR 1957 All 548 (549) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 — Scope — License to carry on profession.

A petition writer has no legal right, let alone a fundamental right, to carry on his profession or business in the Collectorate compound. His case is wholly distinguishable from that of a person who is required by law to obtain a licence as a condition of carrying on his business or profession at all. Where the law lays down that a particular occupation cannot be carried on save under a licence, then the withdrawal of a licence has the obvious consequences of wholly preventing the person concerned from carrying on that business, and the question may arise whether there has been contravention of the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. The petition writer has no right to carry on his business in the Collectorate compound save with the permission of the Collector, and if that permission is withdrawn it would still be open to him to carry on his occupation anywhere other than the Collectorate compound. He may have a grievance by the withdrawal of the permission but no legal remedy unless it can be founded on breach of contract. The remedy for breach of contract is by way of suit, and not a petition under Art. 226.

A provision in the order withdrawing the permission that 'No application or papers written by him should be entertained in any Court' is however in excess of the powers of the officer making the order. 1954 All L J 12 : 1954 All W R (H C) 63 : I L R (1954) 2 All 300 : 1954 Cri L J 726 : AIR 1954 All 317 (318, 319) (Prs 3, 4, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Power to interfere with administrative orders—Refusal to renew license in Form B 1, under U. P. Controlled Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealer's Licensing Order 1948, on grounds irrelevant to the consideration of application for renewal — Order of refusal quashed and direction to consider application on merits issued. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1954 All 144 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), Ss. 249 (3), 321 (4) and 322 (c) — S. 249 (3) is not ultra vires on the ground that it is opposed to the fundamental rights guaranteed to a citizen. It is not repugnant to fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (g) — Power in Municipality to grant or refuse licence for the reasons given in the order passed by it is not arbitrary — Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), Ss. 249, 321, 322. A I R 1958 Mad 181; 1959 M L J (Cri) 923, Diss. from; A I R 1958 T C 249; AIR 1959 Bom 26; A I R 1954 S C 465, Rel. on. (1962) 1 Andh W R 112 : 1962 Andh L T 42 : (1962) 1 Andh L T 113 : 1962 Mad L J (Cr) 135 : 1962 (2) Cri L J 461 : AIR 1962 Andh-Pra 379 (381) (Prs 8, 10).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 225 — Validity — Casting vicarious liability on licensee — If violative of fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g). See Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 225. AIR 1961 Andh-Pra 350.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Condition in license to cinema house, that it should exhibit approved films of certain length — Approved films of educational value—It is a reasonable restriction on trade in interest of general public — Hyderabad Cinemas (Regulation) Act (49 of 1952)—Hyderabad Cinematograph Rules (1953)—Hyderabad Cinematograph Act (1 of 1952).

Conditions 3 (a) and (b) in the license granted under Hyderabad Cinematograph Rules, 1953 to a Cinema house, requiring the licensee to exhibit films of length not exceeding 2000 ft. approved and certified by the Central Government and the Films Advisory Board, depicting educational, cultural and other current events and also documentaries, are reasonable restrictions in the interest of the general public, within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (g) read with Art. 19 (6). AIR 1961 Andh-Pra 126 (128) (Pr 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Central Excise Rules (1945) Rr. 15, 18, 21, 22, 23, 34 and 36—Validity. See Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 15. A I R 1960 Andh-Pra 498 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Cancellation of Licence to hold arms under S. 18, Arms Act, without assigning any reason—Order will be quashed. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1960 Andh-Pra 420.

——Art. 19 (5) — Arms Rules (1951), R. 26 — Validity — Licencing machinery for sale of arms — Reasonable restriction — Art. 19 (1) (g) not contravened. See Arms Rules (1951), R. 26. A I R 1960 Andh-Pra 384.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 — Assam Cement Control Act (7 of 1953), S. 3 and Assam Cement Control Order, Cl. 14 — Right to carry on business in cement — Reasonable restriction — Cancellation of licence under Cl. 14 and the petitioner's distributing agency in respect of Government stock — Reasonable opportunity against cancellation of licence held necessary—Bias.

Held on facts that under the Assam Cement Control Act it was open to Government to appoint any dealers they choose as their distributing agents and as such the petitioner was not entitled to any relief so far as the cancellation of his distributing agency for Government stock was concerned. But cl. 14 of the Assam Cement Control Order imposing a complete prohibition to carry on business in cement without obtaining a licence was a restriction on the fundamental right of the petitioner to carry on business and before a licence could be cancelled the licensee ought to be given a reasonable opportunity to show cause against the cancellation. Held, further that the petitioner could rightly allege bias and say that he was not given any reasonable opportunity to disprove the charges against him. The order cancelling his licence should therefore be quashed. A I R 1962 Assam 80 (81, 82) (Prs 3, 5, 6, 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Assam Drug Rules, R. 62-A — Validity—Discretion of licensing authority arbitrary and unregulated —Rule hit by Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution. See Assam Drug Rules (1945), R. 62-A. AIR 1960 Assam 94 (DB).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Assam Act (25 of 1953) Validity - Use of land as market — Requiremen of taking out a license on payment of certain fee—Not an unreasonable restriction on fundamental right — Does not contravene Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution. See Assam Local Self-Government Act (25 of 1953), S. 62. AIR 1959 Assam 221 (SB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g)—To hold licence or trade under it.

To hold a license for the collection of tolls in a Municipal Market is not a citizen's fundamental right, it being limited by the rules that exist and is subject to the approval of the Municipal Board. To hold a license or to trade under a license therefor, is not a fundamental right — Nor is it one of the seven freedoms enjoined under the Indian Constitution. I L R (1953) 5 Assam 263 : A I R 1953 Assam 145 (146) (Pt 3) Pr 8) (DB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bhopal Cotton Cloth Dealers' Licensing Order (18 of 1949), Cl. 20 — Validity — Clause if infringes Art. 19 (1) (g), Constitution of India —Applicant not challenging parent Act under which Order was issued — Right to challenge Order how far affected — See Bhopal Cotton Cloth Dealers Licening Order, 1949, Cl. 20. AIR 1951 Bhopal 5.

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Object and purpose of export control Licence for export of ferrous scrap—Mandatory direction against exporter directing him to purchase melting scrap in local market for delivery thereof to nominated furnace owner locally in India —Condition is not consistent with Act or Order and hence illegal—Iron and Steel (Control) Order (1956) —Powers under Cannot be resorted to for imposing conditions in export licence. See Imports and Exports (Control) Act (1947), Pre. AIR 1963 Bom 50.

—Art. 19 — Municipalities — Bombay Provincial Municipal Corporations Act (1949), S. 376 (5) — Power of Commissioner to revoke licence — Discretionary power — Exercise of. See Municipalities — Bombay Provincial Municipal Corporations Act (59 of 1949), S. 376 (5). AIR 1959 Bom 26.

—Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Right to carry on business — Reasonable restriction on — Condition to obtain licence — (Municipalities) — (Bombay Provincial Municipal Corporations Act (59 of 1949), S. 376) — Validity.

Section 376, Bombay Provincial Municipal Corporations Act, does not constitute an unreasonable restriction upon the fundamental right of the timber merchant to carry on his business which has been granted to him under Art. 19 of the Constitution. 59 Bom L R 129 : ILR (1957) Bom 147 : AIR 1959 Bom 26 (30) (Pt D) (Pr 15) (DB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — R. 62A does not offend Art. 19 of the Constitution on ground that it grants unfettered discretion to the authority to grant or refuse license. See Bombay Drugs Rules (1946), R. 62A. ILR (1956) Bom 349.

—Art. 19 — Incumbrance — Meaning of —Right to ply private ferries recognised in India - Person can carry on business of ferry on tidal navigable river — Ferry not an incumbrance within S. 5—Person applying for licence under Bengal Ferries Act to ply ferry on tidal navigable river — Application to be considered on merits. See Tenancy Laws — West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act, 1963 (1 of 1964), S. 5. AIR 1963 Cal 74.

—Arts. 19 and 14 — Calcutta Police Act (1860), S. 39 — Section does not confer arbitrary power on Commissioner of Police in granting license for running eating houses. See Calcutta Police Act (1860), S. 39. AIR 1962 Cal 556 — Art 19 (1) (g) — Iron and Steel (Control) Order (1956), Cls. 7 and 8—Validity of.

The power of revocation of permit or written order given by Controller under Cl. 4 has not been expressly granted anywhere in the Control Order. Assuming that there is an implied power to revoke or cancel the authorisation under Cl 8, the power is absolute and unfettered and without any direction given by the Central Government under Cl 17, is naked and arbitrary. In the absence of such direction, no restriction is put upon the absolute power of the Controller to cancel an authorisation. Once the revocation is made, there is no appeal provided and no recourse is given to the Courts. The power constitutes an unreasonable restriction on the fundamental right of a citizen to carry on its business under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and is therefore void. AIR 1954 S C 224 Rel. on; AIR 1954 S C 465, Disting. (1961) 31 Comp Cas 714 : 65 Cal W N 1142 : AIR 1961 Cal 258 (266, 267) (Pt B) (Prs 22, 24, 25).

[Impliedly overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1811.]

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Issue of notice before rejecting prayer for license — Communication of reasons for refusal — Necessity — Discretion — Interference. See Calcutta Police Act (4 of 1866), S. 39. 1959 Cri L J 180 : AIR 1959 Cal 123.

—Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Fundamental right to carry on trade or business - Reasonable restriction — S. 39, Calcutta Police Act (4 of 1866)—Validity.

A citizen of India has the fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution to carry on a trade or business of his choice. But the law may impose a reasonable restriction thereon, in the interests of the general public. The phrase 'reasonable restriction' in Art. 19 (6) connotes that the limitation imposed on a person in enjoyment of the right should not be arbitrary or of an excessive nature beyond what is required in the interests of the public. A naked or arbitrary power granted to executive authority, without limit, is not a reasonable restriction and will be struck down. An arbitrary exercise of such power will also be declared void.

The provision contained in S. 39 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, whereby a citizen, in order to carry on the business of an eating house, is required to take out a licence from the Commissioner of Police is a reasonable restriction within the meaning of the phrase as used in Cl. (6) of Art. 19, imposed in the interests of the public. It is, however, a reasonable restriction only because the power is not naked and arbitrary. The exercise of the power is restricted by the underlying object of the Act, which is to create a police force and invest it with sufficient powers to protect public safety, peace, and tranquillity, within the town of Calcutta. 62 Cal W N 799 : 1959 Cri L J 180 : AIR 1959 Cal 123 (127, 128) (Pt A) (Pr 18).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Unreasonable restrictions — Validity of Paras. 3, 4 (c), 13 (2) and 17 of W. B. Food Grains Control Order — (W B. Food Grains Control Order (1951), Paras. 3, 4 (c), 13 (2) and 17).

The powers conferred on the State Government by paras. 4, 13 (2) and 17 of the Order are arbitrary and uncontrolled, because under the Order the State Government is authorised to cancel revoke or modify any licence granted under that Order without assigning any reason and without even issuing any notice to the licensee and the power of delegation is also unrestricted. Paras. 3, 4, 13 (2) and 17 of the Order are therefore invalid. 60 Cal W N 202 : 1955 Cr L J 1249 : AIR 1955 Cal 478 (482) (Pt F) (Pr 19).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Calcutta Police Act, 1886, S. 39 —Discretion under.

Under the Constitution, Art. 19 (1) (g), all citizens have the right to carry on any occupation, trade or business. To refuse licence to the citizen except for valid reasons will be to interfere with this fundamental right as guaranteed by the Constitution. The discretionary power which has been conferred on the Commissioner of Police under S. 39, is to be exercised in a reasonable manner and unless proper grounds are forthcoming to justify an act of refusal of the licence the act of the respondent is an arbitrary exercise of the power vested in him under S. 39 of the Act 5 A C 214; (1946) 51 C W N 833, Ref. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 403.

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — West Bengal Rice Mills Control Order (1949), Para. 11 –Validity—Issuing of licences under Not unreasonable restriction on fundamental right to carry on trade or business. See West Bengal Rice Mills Control Order, 1949, Para. 11. AIR 1952 Cal 72.

—Arts. 19 (1) (f), (g), (5), (6), 32, 226 — Ss. 4 and 5 of Electricity Act (1910) — Validity — Provisions do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and further are reasonable restrictions under Art. 19 (5) and (6) —Electricity Act (1910), Ss. 4 and 5.

There are several statutes whereunder special jurisdiction has been given to authorities functioning thereunder and the jurisdiction of Courts has been taken away in respect of such matters; and nevertheless those statutes have not been held to be unreasonable. In any event even if the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts has been specifically barred by such statutes, that does not affect the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 or of the Supreme Court under Art. 32 to interfere in proper cases. AIR 1963 S C 222, Rel. on.

There is no exclusion of jurisdiction of the Civil Courts in the Electricity Act (1910) either expressly or impliedly. Section 4 (1) of the Electricity Act provides the conditions under which alone the State Government can take action by way of revoking the license. Under S. 4 (1) the State Government must form an opinion that the public interest requires the revocation of the license. It has also to form an opinion under S 4 (1) (a) that the licensee has made wilful and reasonably prolonged default in doing anything required of him by or under the Act. There is a further check provided in S. 4 (1) of the Act imposing an obligation on the part of the State Government to consult the State Electricity Board before revoking a license. There is also another mandatory provision in sub s. (3) of S. 4 casting a duty on the State Government to issue a notice to the licensee in a manner provided thereunder, and an opportunity given to the licensee to show cause. In view of these restrictions and limitations imposed by S. 4 (1) (a), it cannot be held that an arbitrary and uncontrolled power has been vested in the State Government in the matter of revoking licenses. The power given under S. 4 is to the State Government which can ordinarily be relied on to discharge its duties honestly, impartially and in the interest of the public. Therefore Ss. 4 and 5 of the Act are not violative of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution. Even if there are any restrictions the restrictions imposed are reasonable restrictions in the interest of the general public and are amply protected by cls. (5) and (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. AIR 1959 S C 926 and AIR 1962 S C 1371 and AIR 1963 S C 222 and AIR 1964 S C 1279, Disting. I L R (1965) 1 Ker 578 : 1965 Ker L T 531 : 1965 Ker L J 548 : AIR 1965 Ker 253 (264, 265, 266) (Pt B) (Prs 43, 47, 48, 50) (DB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Notification prohibiting storing of certain items without licence — Does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution. See Municipalities — Travancore District Municipalities Act (23 of 1116), S. 261. 1963 Ker L J 23.

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — S. 261 (3) of Travancore District Municipalities Act (1116)—Validity—Provision is not ultra vires Art. 19 (1) (g).

The power of granting or refusing licence under S. 261 (3) of the Travancore District Municipalities Act has to be exercised, so as to promote the object of the Act and consistently with its policy and provisions, and if it is exercised arbitrarily, the remedy by way of appeal is open. Section 261 (3) is valid and cannot be struck down on the ground of its imposing an unreasonable restriction on the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g). A I R 1958 Mad 181 Not foll.; A I R 1957 Trav-Co 249, Rel. on. (1960) 2 Ker L R 342 : I L R (1960) Ker 1159 : 1961 Ker L J 40 : 1961 Ker L T 475 : A I R 1962 Ker 30 (33) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

—Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Order under S. 261 (3), Travancore District Municipalities Act, refusing licence to carry on certain trade in particular premises and not in whole of Municipality—Order does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g). (1960) 2 Ker L R 342 : I L R (1960) Ker 1159 : 1961 Ker L J 40 : 1961 Ker L T 475 : AIR 1962 Ker 30 (32) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 202 (as it stood after its amendment by Act 21 of 1955) — Rules under S. 202 (2) prohibiting carrying on of business as Custom House Broker without licence, framed but notification contemplated under S. 202 (1) not issued — Fundamental right to carry on business as Custom House Broker without licence not affected. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 202 (Act 21 of 1955). AIR 1960 Ker 356.

—Art. 19 — Travancore Tobacco Act (1 of 1087 M. E.), S. 31 and Rules framed under — Rules 14 and 18 — Levy of licence fee under — Does not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) because it is no more than a reasonable impost for legitimate revenue purposes. A I R 1952 Mad 895 and A I R 1958 Mad 158, Rel. on. T. K. Abraham v. State of Trav.-Co., 1957 Ker L J 1146 : I L R (1958) Ker 148 : (1957) 1 Mad L J (Cri) 855 : AIR 1958 Ker 129 (132) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 922.]

—Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Scope—Excise Commissioner forbidding licence-holder to bid at auction of excise shops — There is no violation of Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6).

There is no inherent or fundamental right in a citizen to sell intoxicating liquors. As it is a business attended with danger to the community it can be permitted only under such conditions as will limit to the utmost its evils. The manner and extent of regulation rest in the discretion of the governing authority. Hence where an Excise Commissioner forbids a licence holder to bid at an auction of excise shops there is no question of the violation of Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6). Madh B L R 1956 Civ 688 : Madh B L J 1955 H C R 1253 : A I R 1956 Madh B 21 (22) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g)—Forest Act (1927), S. 41 — Rules under, published on 23-6-1961—Rules 3, 4 —Validity — Rules requiring permit for transit of timber — When valid—Rules held not contravening Art. 19 (1) (f) or 19 (1) (g) due to amplitude of discretionary powers vested in Government Officers. 1965 M P L J 541 : 1965 Jab L J 1017 : A I R 1965 M P 211 (214, 216) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 21, 22, 23) (DB).

—Art. 19 (1) (g) — Cantonments Act, S. 210 does not impose unreasonable restriction to carry on trade and is not invalid — Refusal to grant licence to carry on trade in charcoal — Absence of provision to give reasons or for appeal or for opportunity to be heard does not make provisions invalid — Natural justice requires hearing of applicant — No such opportunity given—Order quashed. See Cantonments Act (1924), S. 210. AIR 1961 Madh Pra 361 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Validity — Grant of licence — Refusal confined to specified categories only — Decision on application for licence—Principles of natural justice to be followed—Opportunity to hear applicant to be given even though no provision in the Act. See Cantonments Act (1924), S. 210. 1960 M P L J (Notes) 24.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Requirement of licence — Validity of.

Requiring a person, who is not liable to tax, to obtain licence and registration certificate as required by the Sales Tax Act and imposing a penalty for failure amounts to unreasonable restriction on his fundamental right to carry on trade. A I R 1952 S C 115 and A I R 1955 S C 661, Rel. on. 1957 M P C 214 : 1957 Jab L J 373 : (1957) 8 S T C 429 : 1957 M P L J 317 : I L R (1957) Madh Pra 236 : AIR 1957 Madh Pra 109 (111) (Pt A) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19 (6) and 245 — Permit and license—Distinction—Power under S. 22 (1), Banking Companies Act, is mere licence — Section not unconstitutional — (Banking Companies Act (1949), S 22 (1)). (1959) 2 Mad L J 455 : 72 Mad L W 790 : (1960) 30 Com Cas 146 : A I R 1961 Mad 8 (12, 13) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (g), Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 54 - Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), Ss. 5, 8, 6-A, 8-A, 19 and Rules—Validity of.

The provisions of the Madras General Sales Tax Act, 1939, requiring dealers of certain classes of goods, which were subject to tax at a single point under S. 5, to take out licences and pay the fees prescribed therefor by the rules framed under the Act are not an unreasonable restriction on the freedom of trade guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. A I R 1954 S C 465 ; AIR 1955 S C 33 and AIR 1951 S C 118, Rel on.

Non-selective licensing or registration was a feature of modern systems of taxation, while selective licensing was adopted for the control or regulation of industry. It is not therefore correct to regard licensing as confined to selective licensing. 1934 A C 45 ; 1943 A C 550 and 52 C L R 85, Rel. on. The system of licensing becomes, so to speak, an integral and inseparable part of the tax measures. In such a situation the tests which such licensing ought to satisfy are not those set out in Art. 19 (6) but would rather be ancillary to an exercise of the taxing power of the State.

The licensing introduced by the Sales Tax Rules was within the power of the State as incidental to the power to levy taxes on the sale of goods and is not unconstitutional even if the licensing did not satisfy the tests of reasonableness laid down by Art. 19 (6). 70 Mad L W 770 : (1957) 8 S T C 690 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 469 : I L R (1958) Mad 35 : A I R 1958 Mad 158 (166, 167, 168, 169) (Pt B) (Prs 33, 36, 42) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Licence for carrying on trade — Validity.

There is no ground for confining the permissible restrictions on freedom of trade under Art. 19 (6) to those which operate to regulate a business in existence as contrasted with a restriction which prevented a business from being started unless its conditions were fulfilled. There can, therefore, be no constitutional objection to the licensing being made a prerequisite for carrying on a particular trade. 70 Mad L W 770 : (1957) 8 S T C 690 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 469 : I L R (1958) Mad 35 : AIR 1958 Mad 158 (167) (Pt C) (Pr 35) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawnbrokers Act (23 of 1943), Ss. 3, 4 — Validity.

The liability to take out a licence, though it constitutes a restriction on the right to carry on business, by itself does not constitute an unreasonable restriction on that right. S. 4 (2) of the Madras Pawnbrokers Act which provides for refusal of the licence in the contingencies specified therein does not constitute an unreasonable restriction. S. 4 (2) (b) is even more precise in its scope than S. 4 (2) (a) of the Act. Apart from the easily understood and applied tests prescribed by Ss. 4 (2) (a) and 4 (2) (b), S. 4 (3) provides for a right of appeal against the refusal of a licence. This is another factor to establish the reasonableness of the restriction imposed by S. 4 (2) of the Act. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : ILR (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : 1957 Cr L J 962 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (518, 519) (Pt B) (Prs 20, 22, 23, 24).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — License fee for Cotton Yarn — If unreasonable restriction. See Sales Tax — Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 6 (4) (a). (1957) Mad L J (Cri) 721 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 533.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of (1920), S. 249 (2) — Validity — Application for licence for storing and selling fireworks—Rejection on ground that place was not within 150 feet away from residential building—Relevancy of ground.

Where an application for a licence for storing and selling fireworks in certain premises was rejected by the Municipal Health Officer for the reason that the premises were not 150 feet at least away from any residential building :

Held (1) that under sub-s. (3) of S. 249, Madras District Municipalities Act, the executive authority is given an absolute power of refusing to grant the licence as also the power of imposing such restrictions and conditions as he might think fit, without any guidance by the Legislature as to the relevant conditions and restrictions. The sub-section in its present form is in contravention of Art. 19 (6) and has to be struck down as violating the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g).

(2) But even apart from this the Municipal Health Officer, who was the executive authority, had exercised his discretion to refuse the application on irrelevant ground because the ground was applicable under the Indian Explosives Rules only in the case of manufacture of explosives His order was therefore, liable to be quashed. (1955) 2 M L J 684 : 68 Mad L W 823 : 1955 Mad W N 874 : AIR 1956 Mad 181 (183) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Trade restrictions — Import trade control — Rules and Procedure — Import license - Condition to produce Income-tax verification certificate — Validity — Imports and Exports (Control) Act (1947), S. 3 (1).

The condition requiring the production of an Income-tax verification certificate along with an application for the grant of an import licence is not an unreasonable restriction on the fundamental right to carry on business. The contention that the condition was really intended to enable the Government to collect the income-tax due from the defaulters and was, therefore, not in the bona fide exercise of the power of the Government to impose conditions for the grant of an import licence has no substance. It may be that in some cases the insistence on the condition might cause hardship; but that is a matter to be taken into account by the Import and Export Controller, and that would not by itself render the condition unconstitutional or invalid. AIR 1953 Mad 84; (1952) 2 M L J 544, Disting. (1955) 28 ITR 553: 69 Mad L W 1026 : 1955 Mad W N 870 : IL R (1956) Mad 196 : (1955) 2 M L J 564 : AIR 1955 Mad 699 (700, 701, 702) (Prs 4, 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 (5)—Restrictions created by Rule 43, Arms Act Rules, on fundamental right to hold a gun are reasonable restrictions and in interest of public —Refusal to grant license should not be arbitrary—Discretion should be judicial—Order refusing license held arbitrary—(Arms Act (1878), S. 17—Rules under, R. 43). 1953 Mad W N 168 : (1953) 1 M L J 418 : 1953 Cri L J 917 : A I R 1953 Mad 476 (478) (Pt C) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Is not infringed by requirement of license for manufacture of explosives, fireworks, etc., in a residential locality under Explosives Act (4 of 1884). See Explosives Act (4 of 1884). AIR 1953 Mad 142.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 304 (b) and 14 — Right to carry on business — Business to be carried on under licence—Imposition of licence-fees—Reasonableness — Tests for determination — Enhancement of licence-fees leviable under Madras Manure Dealers' Licensing Order, 1949 — Discrimination between Oil-millers and other manure dealers—Validity of enhancement —(Madras Manure Dealers Licensing Order (1949).)

There is a fundamental difference between a tax and a licence fee. For the grant of a licence a fee may be charged to cover probable expenses which may have to be incurred for the regulation of the particular trade or business or calling in respect of which the licence is required. The licence fee is not intended to raise revenues for the general purpose of the authority levying the fee For such purposes levy should be in the shape of a tax. The licence fee must be reasonable, whereas a tax need not be.

Though, ultimately the decision in each case must depend upon the particular facts of that case, certain general tests have been formulated by the Courts in various decisions to decide whether a particular fee is reasonable in the circumstances. They are : (1) the licence fee may reasonably cover the cost of all special services necessitated by the duties and liabilities imposed on the authority in respect of the supervision and regulation of the particular trade or calling in respect of which the licence is issued. 9 Rang 440 (PC), Foll.

(2) there must be some relation between the expenses incurred in the issue of licences and in regulating the licensed trade and other occupation and the amount of fees leviable. When the licencing authority issues a number of licences to persons engaged in different trades and occupations it would be unreasonable if they so fix the fees that the whole cost incurred by them in connection with all the licences or a grossly disproportionate part of it was imposed on the particular trade or a few particular traders. AIR 1930 Mad 55, Foll.

Tested on the above principles, the enhancement of the licence-fee in so far as it related to the Oil Mills in the State brought about by G. O. Ms. No. 2435 (Food and Agriculture) dated 29th December 1950 which amended the Madras Manure Dealers' Licencing Order, 1949 is unreasonable as the total fees that would be collected from all the mills in the State would be disproportionately high in comparison with the expenditure which according to Government's own statement it would incur.

Further the G. O. in fixing a higher rate of fee for the oil-millers while making all other manure dealers pay at flat rate of Rs. 20 irrespective of the fact that they might stock and sell more than the oil millers could even produce is discriminatory and offends Art. 14 of the Constitution.

Therefore the enhanced fee imposed by the G. O. is unconstitutional and invalid both as imposing an unreasonable restriction upon the right to carry on business guaranteed by the Constitution as well as being discriminatory and as contravening Art. 14 of the Constitution. (1952)-2 Mad L J 410 : 1952 Mad W N 712 : 65 Mad L W 845 : I L R (1953) Mad 217 : A I R 1952 Mad 764 (765, 767) (Prs 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (6)—Refusal by licensing authority of licence to a touring cinema on ground of instructions from State Government in the shape of orders—If violation of fundamental rights under the Constitution.

Where a touring cinematograph company was refused a licence on the basis of certain instructions issued by the Provincial Government in certain orders, to ensure public health and safety, on a contention that the refusal of the licence was based on instructions which were beyond the scope of the Cinematograph Act and that the fundamental right of the party to carry on a business was violated by such a refusal : Held (i) that these instructions could not be said to be Rules under S. 8 of Cinematograph Act (1918) and therefore the question whether they went beyond the rule-making power did not arise (ii) that the instructions did not contravene Art. 19. Art. 19 (6) contemplated imposition of restrictions on exercise of right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (g) and that these instructions were in the interest of the safety and the health of the general public and designed to prevent unhealthy competition which itself indirectly would have deleterious influence on the general public. 65 LW 71 : (1952) 1 M L J 279 : AIR 1952 Mad 528 (529) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 249 (3) — Constitutiunal validity of section—Section 249 (3) held void for contravening Article.

Sub-section (3) of S. 249 of the Madras District Municipalities Act, which confers absolute and arbitrary discretion on the executive authority, namely, the Municipal Health Officer to grant or refuse a licence at his own sweet will and pleasure, violates the fundamental right guaranteed under Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and should be struck down as invalid. AIR 1956 Mad 181, Foll. A I R 1952 Mad 565 and A I R 1954 S C 224 Rel. on.

Under S. 249 (3) the executive authority who refuses to grant a licence is not bound to assign reasons for doing so. Further no provision is also made for an appeal under the Act against an order of the executive authority. I L R (1959) Mys 304 : 1959 Mad L J (Cri) 923.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226—Suspension of licence during prosecution—It is possible but not without finding as to contravention — D. M. suspending licence without the finding — There is interference with fundamental right — (Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act, S. 3). See C. P. and Berar Rice Mills Licensing Order, Cl. 5. 1952 Nag L J (Note) 4.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—Tax on trade, profession etc.—Requirements as to taking out license—Validity. See Municipalities—Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act 7 of 1922, as amended by Amending Act (32 of 1955), S. 82. AIR 1957 Pat 386.

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (5)—Bihar Cotton Cloth and Yarn (Control) Order (1948) — Validity — Restrictions as to renewal of licence are unreasonable. See Bihar Cotton Cloth and Yarn (Control) Order (1948), Cls. 5 (1), (2). AIR 1954 Pat 325 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226 — License to carry on trade in cement — Restrictions—Legality and reasonableness of.

The Indian Constitution in Art. 19(1) (g) guarantees to all the citizens the right to practice any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business, but this right is subject to reasonable restrictions imposed in the interests of the general public.

It is in the interests of the public that the distribution of cement and its price should be controlled. One of the essential elements of such a control is that the selected distributors should be amenable to the instructions issued from time to time by the authorities and the only way to control the distributors effectively is that licences should be issued which are liable to be cancelled if the distributors do not carry out the instructions given from time to time. The conditions in a particular trade are liable to quick changes and the causes of changed conditions may be so varied that it is not possible to lay down any satisfactory test for cancelling a licence once granted. Ordinarily the High Court would not interfere with an order of cancellation of licence to sell cement, but when it becomes clear that the order has been made by the authority concerned under a misapprehension of the licencee's conduct that the High Court has ample power to interfere with it under Art. 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1958) Punj 36.

——Arts. 19 (6) and 226—Laches - Fundamental right —Infringement of—Continuing wrong—Order refusing renewal of licence. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1957 Punj 220.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Scope—Punjab Tobacco Vend Fees Act (12 of 1954)—Validity.

The Punjab Tobacco Vend Fees Act of 1954 is not obnoxious to the provisions of Art. 19 for although every citizen of India is at liberty to pursue a lawful calling of his own choosing, this right is subject to the paramount right of the State to impose such reasonable restrictions as the protection of the public may require. The Legislature has decided that no person shall carry on any business in tobacco unless he has obtained a licence in this behalf and it cannot be said that this requirement is unreasonable, or not in the public interest. 58 Pun L R 480 : ILR (1957) Punj 184 : AIR 1957 Punj 45 (49) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Excise law — Liquor—Issue of licence to sell liquor is a matter of grace—(Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 26). ILR 1956 Punj 390 : AIR 1956 Punj 97 (98, 99) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Right to carry on business of motor transport—Imposition of condition as to lower rate in permit—Unreasonable restriction.

No one has an inherent right to a permit and a permit may not be granted even if the applicant satisfied all the prescribed conditions. It is wrong to insist that the petitioner is entitled to a renewal of a permit at the old rates and even if the petitioner was the sole applicant the Regional Transport Authority could have validly required the petitioner to offer more facilities to the travelling public (in the shape of lower fares) and could have even refused to renew the permit at the old rate. The granting of a permit at a lower rate does not constitute an unreasonable restriction and it does not violate the petitioner's right to carry on business in motor transport on public street. 8 Sau L R 90 : AIR 1955 Sau 57 (62) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art 19 Refusal to issue licence in individual case. See Municipalities—Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 121. AIR 1954 Punj 143.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Panchayats — T. C Panchayats ct (1950), S. 44—Scope—Absence of rules under—Effect—Refusal to grant licence to a vendor of meat—Exclusive right granted to another Legality—Breach of fundamental right. See Panchayats—Travancore-Cochin Panchayats Act (2 of 1950), S 44. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 2.

● ——Art 19 (1) (f) and (g) and (5) and (6)—Reasonable restrictions—Issue of license to regulate making holding or dealing with things (Municipalities—Trivandrum City Municipal Act (4 of 1116), S. 295 and Sch. 4).

Clauses (v) and (vi) of Art. 19 authorise the imposition of reasonable restrictions in the public interest on the fundamental rights referred to in Cls (f) and (g). To regulate the making, holding or dealing with things within the Municipal area by the issue of a license is a reasonable restriction upon the rights of a person under Cls. (f) and (g). Parameswaram Pillai, In re, 1955 Ker L T 454 : ILR (1955) T C 541 : 1955 Cr L J 1536 : AIR 1955 T C 268 (269) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scheme of distribution of yarn through licensed private yarn dealers and co-operative societies—Change in scheme envisaging distribution only through co-operative societies—No infringement of fundamental right of private yarn dealers—Travancore Cotton Yarn Dealers Licensing Order (1124), Cl. 6.

Till 1-10-1950, the distribution of yarn to the weavers had been effected both through the licensed private yarn dealers and Co-operative Societies. Since 1-10-1950 the policy of distribution entirely through the Co-operative Societies was adopted as a step towards the development of the handloom industry so that the new scheme would provide better opportunities for marketing finished products and the needed finance for indigent weavers. Due notice of this change in the policy was given by the Textile Commissioner to the former private yarn dealers, who were informed that with effect from 1-10-1950 no allotment of yarn would be given to them. The petitioner who was a private yarn dealer contended that the order discontinuing allotment was illegal and beyond the powers of the Government of the State of Travancore-Cochin and their Textile Commissioner for it offended Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India.

Held, that under Cl. 6 of the Travancore Cotton Yarn Dealers' Licensing Order, 1124, the Textile Commissioner was given absolute discretion to grant or refuse license to any applicant without assigning any reason. Such powers were necessary, for if all persons apply for licenses to distribute yarn it would be impossible to oblige every one and to carry on the spirit with which the Control Order was made. Reasonable restrictions will have therefore to be made in such matters. The petitioner got the freedom to deal in yarn which was a legally controlled commodity only by virtue of a license obtained from the officer appointed for the purpose. It was not a fundamental right but a right obtained by leave or permission from the Textile Commissioner who was only acting under the Control Order. He cannot therefore call in question a scheme of distribution adopted by the officer with the approval of the State Government; AIR 1950 S C 163, AIR 1951 S C 118 and AIR 1951 Cal 90. Disting. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 260 (261, 262) (Prs 4, 6).

67. Trade restrictions.

(a) By Shops and Establishments Acts. See Ibid, Note 70.
(b) By Municipal and Local Boards Acts.
(c) By Control Orders.
(d) By Agricultural Produce Markets Acts.
(e) By Police Acts.
(f) By other Statutes.

67. Trade restrictions.

● —Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 32 — Scope of right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (g).

Under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution, the citizen has the right to carry on any occupation, trade or business which right under that clause is apparently to be unfettered. The only restriction to this unfettered right is the authority of the State to make a law relating to the carrying on of such occupation, trade or business as mentioned in Cl (6) of that Article as amended by the Constitution (First Amendment) Act, 1951. If therefore a licence fee to carry on a trade, etc., cannot be justified on the basis of any valid law, no question of its reasonableness can arise, for an illegal impost must at all times be an unreasonable restriction and will necessarily infringe the right of the citizen to carry on his occupation, trade or business under Art. 19 (1) (g) and such infringement can properly be made the subject-matter of a challenge under Art. 32 of the Constitution. Mohammed Yasin v. Town Area Committee, (1952) S C R 572 : 1952 All L J 313 : 1952 Mad W N 492 : (1952) S C J 162 : 1952 S C A 237 : A I R 1952 S C 115 (117) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

67 (a). By Shops and Establishments Acts.

See Ibid, Note 70.

67 (b). By Municipal and Local Boards Acts.

● —Arts. 19 (1) (g), (6), 13, 245 and Preamble — Restriction on trade — Licence — Imposition of — Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 487 (1) (b) — Validity — Parenthetical clause consisting of words 'which opinion shall be conclusive and shall not be challenged in any Court' constitutes unreasonable restriction on right to carry on trade and is void — Such clause is however, severable so that rest of the section is valid. AIR 1961 Cal 121, Partialy Reversed.

Provisions of the parenthetical clause in S. 487 (1) (b) of the Calcutta Municipal Act consisting of the words 'which opinion shall be conclusive and shall not be challenged in any Court' which make the opinion of the corporation conclusive and non-justiciable in any Court amount to an unreasonable restriction on the right to carry on trade etc., enshrined in Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. AIR 1961 Cal 121, Affirmed. Such clause is, however, distinct and separate and severable from the rest of the S. 487 (1) (b) and only the provisions of this clause are void. Rest of the section is valid. A I R 1961 Cal 121, Partially reversed. AIR 1957 S C 628, Applied.

The parenthetical clause which makes the opinion of the Corporation conclusive and non justiciable is in the nature of a procedural provision. The vice in the provision is that it makes the opinion of the corporation, howsoever capricious or arbitrary it may be or howsoever unreasonable on the face of it may be, conclusive and non-justiciable. The conferment of such a power on a municipal body which has the effect of imposing restrictions on carrying on trade etc. cannot be said to be a reasonable restriction within the meaning of Art 19 (6) Such a provision puts carrying on trade by those residing within the limits of the municipal Corporation entirely at its mercy, if it chooses to exercise that power capriciously, arbitrarily or unreasonably, though not mala fide. Corporation of Calcutta v Calcutta Tramway Co. Ltd Calcutta. 1964 (2) Cri L J 354 : (1965) 1 S C A 124 : (1964) 5 S C R 25 : AIR 1964 S C 1279 (1281, 1282) (Pr 6).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bye-law under sub-s. (2) (l) of S. 174 U. P. District Boards Act, 1922, prohibiting holding of market — Validity See U. P. District Boards Act (10 of 1922), S. 174. AIR 1954 S C 630.

● —Art 19 (1) (g) —Town Area Committee, Jalalabad - Bye-laws 1 and 4 (b)—Validity.

The bye laws do not, in terms, prohibit anybody from dealing in vegetables and fruits. But although, in form, there is no prohibition against carrying on any wholesale business by anybody, in effect and in substance the bye-laws have brought about a total stoppage of the wholesale dealers' business in a commercial sense. (1950) S C R 566, Disting. Mohammad Yasin v. Town Area Committee, Jalalabad. 1952 S C J 162 : 1952 Mad W N 492 : 1952 S C R 572 : 1952 All L J 313 (1952) S C A 237 : AIR 1952 SC 115 (116) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 32—Licence fee levied on whole-sale sale of vegetables by a Town Area Committee under bye-laws framed under powers conferred by the U. P. Municipalities Act—Legality.

The bye-laws made by a Town Area Committee provided by Cl. (1) that no person shall sell or purchase any vegetable or fruit within the prescribed limits of the Town Area Committee, by wholesale or auction, without paying the fee fixed under these bye laws to the licensee appointed by the Town Magistrate Bye-law (4) (b) expressly provided that any person can sell in wholesale at any place in the Town Areas provided he pays the prescribed fees to the licensee On a contention that the effect of the bye-laws was to bring about a total prohibition of the business of wholesale dealers in vegetables and fruits and thereby infringe their fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and further that the levy is an unauthorised impost constituting an illegal restraint on their fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g):

Held, the bye-laws do not in terms prohibit anybody from dealing in vegetables and fruits as contended. But the contention that though in form there is no prohibition, in effect, the bye-laws have brought about a total prohibition of the business of the wholesale dealers in a commercial sense and from a practical point of view, cannot be said to be unsound or untenable.

The bye-laws do not purport to fix a fee for the use or occupation of an immovable property vested in or entrusted to the management of the Town Area Committee including any public street or place of which it allows the use or occupation. Sections 293 (1) and 298 (j) and (d) of the U. P. Municipalities Act as amended at the time they were extended to the town areas in the Uttar Pradesh do not empower the Town Area Committee to make any bye-law authorising it to charge any fee otherwise than for the use or occupation of any property vested in or entrusted to the management of the Town Area Committee including any public street. Therefore the bye-laws which impose a charge on the wholesale dealer in the shape of a prescribed fee, irrespective of any use or occupation by him of immovable property vested in or entrusted, to the management of the Town Area Committee including any public street are obviously ultra vires the powers of the Committee and therefore the bye-laws cannot be said to constitute a valid law which alone may under Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution impose a restriction on the right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (g). Such illegal imposition must undoubtedly operate as an illegal restraint and must infringe the unfettered right of the wholesale dealer to carry on his occupation, trade or business which is guaranteed to him by Art. 19 (1) (g). Mohammad Yasin v Town Area Committee, Jalalabad, (1952) S C R 572 : 1952 A L J 313 : 1952 Mad WLN 492 : (1952) S C J 162 : 1952 S C A 237 : AIR 1952 S C 115 (117, 118) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Kairana Municipality — Bye-laws 2 and 4 — Validity of — Order of Municipality prohibiting person from carrying on trade within Municipal limits — Application under Art. 32 for enforcement of fundamental right of trade — Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), Ss. 298 and 318. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). A I R 1950 S C 163.

——Art. 19 — Bye-law 12 (a) of Lucknow Municipal Board — Validity — Bye-law does not violate Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution—Not ultra vires the Board. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (1916), S. 298 (2). AIR 1964 All 46 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298 (1) — Bye-laws under, for Regulation and Control of Power — Driven Kolhus—Bye law No. 6—'Premises' — Meaning of — Test to determine validity of bye-laws — Installation of oil crusher — Bye-law necessitating consent of owners and occupiers of adjoining residential premises—Held void—Person not liable for infringing it. See Municipalities - U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298 (1). 1961 All L J 563.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Restriction on number of rickshaws plying for hire—Bye-law 9 and orders Nos. 828 and 829 dated 11th January, 1958 of Lucknow Municipality—Validity. See Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298 (1). A I R 1959 All 186 (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) Limitation on number of rickshaws plying for hire—Validity of—(Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298 (1)).

Where the consideration which guided certain municipal board to limit the number of rickshaws plying for hire within its limits was in the general interest of the public, including the gradual elimination of the use of human labour for transporting human beings and avoiding congestion on the roads; the restriction is imposed in the interest of the general public within the meaning of Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. The determination of the actual number of rickshaws which shall be entitled to ply for hire is a matter for the Boards and unless it is clear that in fixing the number it has taken into account matters with which it has no concern or has acted in bad faith, its decision cannot be questioned. ILR (1958) 2 All 13 : A I R 1959 All 186 (190) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 247 - Validity.

Section 247 of the Act neither seeks to abolish any particular profession, occupation, trade or business nor to prohibit its practice. It merely seeks to regulate its practice by imposing certain restrictions of a most reasonable character in the manner of carrying on of the particular profession, business or occupation. It cannot also be said that the qualification of respectability is a vague one and the law therefore, is bad on that ground. 1958 All L J 398 ; 1958 All W R (HC) 505 ; AIR 1958 All 603 (606) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——Art 19 (1) (d) and (5)—Reasonable restriction — Question of fact — Burden of proof — Tax imposed under Ss. 108 and 114, U. P District Boards Act — If infringement of Art. 19 (1) (d) — (U. P. District Boards Act (10 of 1922), Ss. 108 and 114)—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104).

Whether the imposition of a tax constitutes an unreasonable restriction would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case, and the burden of making out the case that the restriction was an unreasonable one lies on the tax-payer. In view of the restriction imposed on the District Board on the levy of a tax on circumstances and property upto the maximum amount of Rs. 2,000 under Ss. 108 and 114 of the District Boards Act, the taxation cannot be said to be unreasonable and there is no infringement of Art. 19 (1) (d). The imposition of the tax itself does not impose any direct restriction on the trade. The restriction, if any, is an indirect one. It comes into operation only after a trade is carried on, and is as a result of it. A I R 1957 All 527 (534, 535) (Pt H) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Reasonable restriction—Restriction on carrying on trade of public prostitution.

The restriction on carrying on trade of public prostitution within a specified area of the Municipality is eminently a reasonable one, and a Municipal Board has power to frame a bye-law imposing such restriction. 1956 All L J 591 : 1956 All W R (HC) 614 ; A I R 1956 All 736 (736) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19 (6) — Bye-laws framed by Municipal Board of Mirzapur, for regulation and control of rolling mills within municipal limits—Bye-laws Nos. 7 (a) and (b), 8 (b) and (c) and 9—Do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g) or Art. 14. See Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 2274.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — U. P. District Boards Act (10 of 1922), S. 174—Bye laws under — Bye-law No. 1 of District Board, Rai Bareli—Validity — Not ultra vires —Art. 19 (1) (g) does not apply. See U. P. District Boards Act (10 of 1922), S. 174. A I R 1953 All 95.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298—Bye-law 1 (3) (Allahabad Municipality)—Bye law prohibiting slaughter of cows is not unreasonable and is not hit by Art. 19 (1) (g). See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 298. A I R 1952 All 753 (FB).

——Art. 19 — Madras District Municipalities Act, (1920), S. 270 — Tax on persons vending articles on road margins is a fee and not tax — Fee held unreasonable and void. See Municipalities—Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 270. AIR 1957 Andh.Pra 103.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—S. 140, Assam Municipal Act — Validity of — Section conferring power to impose tolls and fees — Does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g). See Municipalities—Assam Municipal Act (1 of 1923), S. 140. A I R 1958 Assam 156 (DB).

67 (c). By Control Orders.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Restrictions imposed by Fruit Products Order, 1955, are reasonable and in interest of public—Order is valid. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (1). A I R 1965 S C 1167.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 19 (6) — Imports and Exports Control Act (1947), S. 3 — Exports Control Order (1958), Cl. 6 (h) — Constitutional validity — Power under Cl. 6 (h) to canalise exports through special or specialised agencies or channels is intra vires of Central Government under S. 3 — Central Government Notification, dated 26-5-1958—If imposes unreasonable restriction on fundamental right of trade under Art. 19 (1) (g). See Imports and Exports Control Act (1947), S. 3. A I R 1962 S C 1796.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g), 31 and 14 — Imports and Exports (Control) Act (1947), S. 3 — Imports (Control) Order (1955), Para. 6 (h)—Validity—Canalization of imports through special or specialized agencies or channels — Refusal of import licences to applicants outside agencies or channels whether contravention of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) or Art. 31 — Restriction on right to carry on trade, if can be attacked as not in the interests of general public.

It may be difficult for any Court to have adequate materials to come to a proper decision whether a particular policy as regards imports is in the general interests of the public. When the Government decides under para. 6 (h) in respect of any particular commodity that its import should be by a selected channel or through selected agencies, the Court would proceed on the assumption that that decision is in the interests of the general public unless the contrary is clearly shown. Consequently, a decision that imports shall be canalised, is per se a reasonable restriction in the interests of the general public. The selection of the particular channel or agency decided upon in implementing the decision of canalisation may well be challenged on the ground that it infringes Art. 14 of the Constitution or some other fundamental rights. If a canalization of imports is in the interests of the general public, the refusal of import licences to applicants outside the agencies must necessarily be held in the interests of the general public. Article 31 has no application. Glass Chatons Importers and Users Association v. Union of India, 1961 S C D 871 : (1962) 1 S C R 862 : (1962) 2 S C J 213 : A I R 1961 S C 1514 (1516, 1517) (Prs 5, 6, 7).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Iron and Steel Control, etc., Act — If ultra vires—See Iron and Steel Control of Production and Distribution Order (1941), Cl. 11-B. 1961 (2) Cri L J 24 : A I R 1961 S C 928.

● ——Art. 19 (5)—Non-ferrous Metal Control Order (1958), Cls. 3 and 8 — Validity — Clauses amount to reasonable restrictions within Arts. 19 (5) and 19 (6) of the Constitution — Principles not discriminatory but not complying with S. 3 (5) or 3 (6) of Act 10 of 1955 — Held invalid. See Non-ferrous Metals Control Order (1958), Cl. 3. AIR 1960 S C 430.

● ——Arts. 19 (5) and 19 (1)(g)—Cotton Control Order (1950), Cl. 4—Validity—Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g) — (Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 2 (a)). See Cotton Control Order (1950), Cl. 4. AIR 1954 S C 634.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Validity of Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order, 1949. See Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order (1949), Cl. 25. AIR 1954 S C 307.

● Art 19 (1) (g) and (6)—U. P. Coal Control Order (1953), Cl. 4 (3) — Validity — Reasonable restrictions. See U. P. Coal Control Order (1953), Cl. 4 (3). AIR 1954 S C 224.

——Art. 19—U. P. Bricks Control Order (1956), Cl. 3 (2) — Clause not hit by Article. 1964 All L J 451: I L R (1964) 1 All 748 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 326 : A I R 1965 All 412 (414) (Pt B) (Pr 19).

——Art 19 (1) (g)—U. P. Wheat (Restriction on Movement) Order, 1949, Cl. (3)—Essential Commodities Act (10 of 1955), Ss. 1 and 3—Validity of Cl. (3)—Nor for regulation of permits provided in Preamble to U. P. Act (10 of 1955)—Clause does not violate Art. 19(1)(g) of Constitution See U. P. Wheat (Restriction of Movement) Order (1949), Cl. (3). 1962 (2) Cri L J 161 : AIR 1962 All 359 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Delegation under Ss. 3 and 4 of Act 24 of 1946—Effect—Order not unconstitutional. See Iron and Steel (Control of Production and Distribution) Order (1941), Cl. 11-B. 1959 Cri L J 663 : AIR 1959 All 332.

——Art 19 (1) (g), (6)—Unreasonable retriction upon freedom of trade — Cotton Textiles (Control) Order (1948), Cl. 6 (a), 11 — Validity — (U. P. Controlled Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers' Licensing Order (1948), Cls. 4, 11)—Validity.

The provisions of Cl. 6 (a) of the Cotton Textiles (Control) Order, 1948 are so interwoven with Cl. 11 of that Order, and likewise the provisions of Cl. 4, U. P. Controlled Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers' Licensing Order, 1948, are so interwoven with Cl. 11 of that Order that the ultra vires character of Cl. 11 of both the Orders would make the operation of Cl. 6 (a), Cotton Textiles (Control) Order, 1948 and Cl. 4, U. P Controlled Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers' Licensing Order, 1948, practically nugatory. The provisions form an integral part of the entire structure of the two Control Orders and Cl. 6 (a) of the one and Cl. 4 of the other cannot operate properly unless the provisions of Cl. 11 of the two Control Orders are brought in conformity with the constitutional provisions. The provisions of Cl. 6 (a), Cotton Textiles (Control) Order, 1948 read with Cl. 11 of that Order and Cl. 4, U. P. Controlled Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers' Licensing Order, 1948 read with Cl. 11 of that Order must be held to be void as imposing an unreasonable restriction upon freedom of trade and business guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and not coming within the protection afforded by Cl. 6 of the Article. 1956 All W R (HC) 539: 1956 Cri L J 1141: 1956 All L J 836: AIR 1956 All 562 (564) (Pr 3).

——Arts. 19 (1)(g) and 19(6)—U. P. Foodgrains Movement Control Order, 1949, Cl. 3 (vii) — Constitutionality — Amounts to reasonable restriction within Art. 19 (6) and is valid. See U. P. Foodgrains Movement Control Order (1949), Cl. 3 (vii). AIR 1953 All 545 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Cotton Textiles (Control) Order (1948), Cl. 21 (3) (c) — Validity See Cotton Textiles (Control) Order (1948), Cl. 21(3)(c). 1960 Cri L J 1321: AIR 1960 Bom 453 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g)—Controller has implied power of termination of appointment of registered stockist, or of cancellation of declaration of controlled source — But in passing such order he must observe rules of natural justice. See Iron and Steel (Control) Order (1956), Cl. 4. ('63) 67 Cal W N 36.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) — Powers of Controller are not arbitrary. See Iron and Steel (Control) Order (1956), Cl. 3. ('63) 67 Cal W N 36.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Freedom of trade — Restrictions on — Vegetable Oil Products Control Order (1947), Cl. 5 (1) — Notification under — Notification No. S. R. O. 1090, dated 23-12-1950 is not ultra vires the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 1800.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Unreasonable restriction.

The fact that the imposition of a control renders the running of the applicant's rice mills uneconomical cannot be said to be an unreasonable restriction of the appellant's fundamental rights within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (g). A I R 1951 S C 118, Disting. 57 Cal W N 194: I L R (1954) 2 Cal 281 : AIR 1953 Cal 187 (188) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (5) (6) — Cotton Textiles (Control) Order (1948), Cls. 12 (4) and 33—Provisions of Cl. 12 (4) are not valid—They are not reasonable restrictions within Art. 19 (5) and (6) — If read with Cl. 33, it gives absolute and unfettered discretion to Textile Commissioner—Rules for use of discretion should be framed. See Cotton Textiles (Control) Order (1948), Cl. 12 (4). AIR 1952 Mad 565 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), (g) and 19 (5), (6) — Cotton Textile (Control) Order (1948) Cl. 30 — Power of Textile Commissioner to use his discretion arbitrarily in issuing directions under the clause — Petitioner alleging discrimination in the matter of allotment and citing instances — Cl. 30 though restrictive of free trade is not unconstitutional, so long as restrictions are necessary in interest of general public and are reasonable — In the absence of any justification for discriminating against the petitioner in the matter, it was held that there was a breach of guarantee of equal protection of laws vouchsafed by Art. 14 and of fundamental rights declared by Art. 19 (1) — Clause 30 could not be declared totally void—Textile Commissioner asked to evolve a proper scheme for proper distribution which does not offend either against Art. 14 or Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) read with Art. 19 (5) and (6). See Cotton Textile (Control) Order (1948), Cl. 30. AIR 1952 Mad 565 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g), (5) and (6) — Notifications under Cls. 18 and 6 respectively of the Cotton Control Order, 1950, prohibiting export of cotton outside an area without permission of Government and sale or purchase of cotton unless it is sold to any of the specified "nominees' — Validity of.

As the object of the notification, S. R. O. No. 379, dated 19th March, 1951 issued under Cl. 18 of the Cotton Control Order, 1950, which prohibits the export of cotton in any area to any place outside that area except with the permission of the Government, is clearly to regulate the supply and demand of cotton and to control the price, it cannot be doubted that it is in the interests of the public and is reasonable, and must be held to fall within Art. 19(5) of the Constitution.

Notification S. R. O. No. 388, dated 19th March, 1951, issued under Cl. (6) of the Cotton Control Order which provides that there should be no sale or purchase of cotton to any person in any area unless such cotton is sold to any of the "nominees' specified therein, has the effect of eliminating a large class of merchants and substituting in their place a close oligarchy of middlemen and all this for no demonstrable advantage to the public and is not a reasonable restriction on the fundamental rights mentioned in Art. 19(1)(g); that notification is therefore unconstitutional and void (1951) 2 M L J 658: ILR (1953) Mad 51 : AIR 1952 Mad 409 (409, 410) (Pts A, B) (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Reasonable restrictions. See Manipur Food Grains Movement Control Order (1956), S. 3 (1). 1959 Cr L J 1448: AIR 1959 Manipur 43.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Sugar (Movement Control) Order, 1959 of 27th July, 1959 — Order does not contravene Art. 301 — Restrictions are in public interest and reasonable. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3. 1963 (1) Cr L J 372 (Mys).

——Art. 19 — C. P. and Berar Cotton Cloth Trade Regulation Order (1948), Cl. 3 — Clause is within ambit of saving Cl (6) of Art. 19, Constitution of India. See C. P. and Berar Cotton Cloth Trade Regulation Order (1948), Cl. 3. AIR 1953 Nag 141.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Punjab Khandsari and Gur Dealers Licensing Order (1963) — Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 — Rights under Art. 19 of Constitution are suspended during emergency — Order cannot be challenged as being violative of Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 358. AIR 1965 Punj 74 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Reasonableness of order — Duty of Court during emergency—Essential Commodities Act (1955) S. 3 — Order under — Punjab Khandsari and Gur Dealers Licensing Order (1963) — Validity of Order can be challenged on score of being outside scope of S. 3 — Restrictions imposed by order found reasonable under Art 19 of Constitution — Order is within scope of S. 3. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3. AIR 1965 Punj 74 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) Order issued under Cl. 10 of Punjab Coal Control Order (1955) being illegal and ultra vires and affecting fundamental right of a person to carry on his trade or business under Art 19 (1) (g) — Held, writ under Art. 226 should issue. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1962 Punj 32 (DB).

——Art 19 — Rajasthan Gram and Barley (Regulation of Distribution) Order (1964) — Validity — Order does not contravene Arts. 14 and 19. See Ibid, Art 14. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 684 : AIR 1966 Raj 105 (DB).

——Art. 19 - Clause 25—Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order is not saved by Art 19 (6), and, therefore, it being not in conformity with Part III of the Constitution is void. See Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order (1949) Cl. 25. AIR 1952 Raj 74 (DB).

67 (d). By Agricultural Produce Markets Acts.

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — Provisions of Bombay Act 22 of 1939 cannot be struck down as an unreasonable restriction on fundamental right to carry on trade. See Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act (22 of 1939), S. 4 (2). AIR 1962 S C 1517.

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act, 1939 (Bom 22 of 1939), Ss. 4, 4-A, 5, 5-A and 5-AA — Sections intra vires.

Sections 4, 4-A, 5, 5-A and 5-AA of the Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act, 1939, are constitutional and intra vires and do not impose unreasonable restrictions on the right to carry on trade in the agricultural produce regulated under the Act : (1959) 1 Mad L J (SC) 133 : (1959) 1 Andh W R (SC) 133 : AIR 1959 S C 300. Foll. Mohammad Hussain Gulam Mohammad v State of Bombay, (1961) 2 Guj L R (SC) 21 : (1962) 2 S C R 659 : AIR 1962 S C 97 (102) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act (20 of 1933) — Constitutional validity.

The Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act, (20 of 1933), cannot be said to create unreasonable restrictions on the citizens' right to do business unless it is clearly established that the provisions are too drastic, and overreach the scope of the object to achieve which it is enacted. The Act, Rules and the By-laws framed thereunder have a long term target of providing a net-work of markets so that the growers may bring their commercial crops to the market and sell them at reasonable prices.

Having regard to the entire scheme of the Act, the provisions of the Act, including S. 5 constitute reasonable restriction on a citizen's right to do business and therefore, they are valid : Decision in AIR 1954 Mad 621, so far as it holds that s. 5 (4) (a) was void, Reversed M. C. V. S. Arunachala Nadar v. State of Madras, 1959 S C J 297: (1959) 1 M L J (SC) 133: (1959) 1 Andh W R (SC) 133: (1959) Supp (1) S C R 92 : AIR 1959 S C 300 (304, 305, 306) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 9, 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Hyderabad Markets Act (2 of 1339-F), Preamble — Validity — Right to carry business in fruits and vegetables — Provisions do not impose unreasonable restrictions — Hyderabad Markets Act (2 of 1339 F), Preamble.

Provisions of the Hyderabad Markets Act do not impose unreasonable restrictions on the right of persons to carry on business in vegetables and fruits and are not repugnant to the rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution. The regulatory provisions of the Act are reasonable restrictions conceived in the interests of the growers of agricultural produce and the community at large : AIR 1959 S C 300; AIR 1962 S C 97, Rel on.

The Act cannot also be challenged by contending that being a Telangana Act it cannot have for its objective protection of the interests of ryots growing vegetables and fruits outside the area. The purpose of the Act being to eliminate exploitation at the stage of marketing of agricultural produce the place of residence of the grower and the place where the produce is grown are not material. The Act governs the purchase and sale of agricultural produce and for the application of the Act only two tests must be satisfied :

(1) Whether it is agricultural produce ?

(2) Whether there is a transaction of sale or purchase of that produce within the area covered by the Act ? AIR 1962 S C 1517, Rel. on. (1963) 2 Andh L T 485 : ILR (1964) Andh-Pra 1223 : AIR 1964 Andh-Pra 373 (376 377) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 19, 27) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act (22 of 1939) — Act does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (g).

It is perfectly competent to the State Legislature to prohibit business being done in a particular place and also permit a business being done under certain conditions if public interest demands that a particular business should only be carried on under restrictions and limitations.

Under the Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act setting up of a proper market yard, the prohibition as to different businesses within a prohibited belt are all reasonable restrictions in the interest of the producers. The necessity for obtaining licences is also justified. Hence the Act cannot be challenged on the ground that it infringes Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. ILR (1955) Bom 870 : 57 Bom L R 892 : AIR 1956 Bom 21 (25) (Pt H) (Pr 9) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1957 S C 699.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Produce Markets (Validation) Act, 1962 (12 of 1962), S. 3, Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Produce Markets (Validation) Ordinance, 1962 (II of 1962) — Notification prohibiting use of particular place for transacting business in agricultural commodity — Notification struck down by judgment — Enactments purporting to validate notification do not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) or Constitution—Restrictions are not unreasonable. See Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Produce Markets (Validation) Act, 1962 (12 of 1962), S. 3. AIR 1965 Madh Pra 6 (DB).

—— Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 265 — Madras Agricultural Produce Markets Act (23 of 1959), S. 18—Imposition of cess under the section — Levy is not unconstitutional.

Cess is levied under S. 18, Madras Agricultural Produce Markets Act, 1959, by way of sales tax and not as a fee. Therefore the levy under the section is not unconstitutional on the ground that it is imposed upon persons carrying on business in notified commodities within the notified area, whether they make use of the facilities provided by the Market Committee or not AIR 1954 Mad 621 and AIR 1959 S C 300 and AIR 1961 S C 459 and A I R 1960 Mad 160, Rel. on.

Since the levy is by way of tax it does not amount to an unreasonable restriction upon the right of freedom of trade guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) to a private market owner carrying on business within the notified area. It is well established by authority that the imposition of a tax by the State cannot be regarded as in any way amounting to an unreasonable restriction upon the fundamental right of a citizen to carry on a business or profession. 77 Mad L W 100 : AIR 1964 Mad 458 (460) (Prs 9, 10).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) - Extension of Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act where petitioners were holding markets — Whether infringement of right to hold market. See Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act (20 of 1933), S. 4 AIR 1954 Mad 621 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1959 S C 300.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Validity of Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act (XX of 1933). See Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act (XX of 1933), S. 5 (4) (a). A I R 1954 Mad 621 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1959 S C 300, in so far as it holds that S. 5 (4) (a) was void.]

—— Arts 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) — Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act (1933), Ss. 5 (1) and 5 (3) — Validity -Provisions held have reasonable relationship with the object of Act. See Madras Commercial Crops Markets Act (20 of 1933), S. 5 (1). A I R 1959 Mys 29 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Constitutionality—Orissa Agricultural Produce Markets Rules (1958), R. 48 Imposition of market fees and licence fees is not a tax Act does not impose unreasonable restriction on fundamental right of trade or trade within State. See Orissa Agricultural Produce Markets Act (III of 1957), S. 4. AIR 1961 Orissa 81 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Provisions of S. 4, Bihar Agricultural Produce Markets Act (1960) — Power of the State to declare market area for agricultural produce — Valid See Bihar Agricultural Produce Markets Act (XVI of 1960), S. 4. AIR 1965 Pat 267 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6)—Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets (General) Rules (1962), R. 26 — Validity — Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1951 S C 118, A I R 1961 S C 448, Disting.; A I R 1959 S C 300, Rel on. 66 Punj L R 836 : I L R (1964) 2 Punj 523 : AIR 1965 Punj 33 (36, 37) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 14 - Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act (22 of 1939), Ss. 4 (2), Proviso and 5-A — Validity— Provisions are valid. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1960 Punj 439.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Rajasthan Agricultural Produce Markets Act (38 of 1961), S. 1—Restrictions under, to carry on trade in agricultural commodities — Restrictions have rational relation to object of Act and do not go in excess of that object — Restrictions are reasonable —Act held valid—AIR 1959 S C 300, Rel. on. 1965 Raj L W 358 : I L R (1965) 15 Raj 897 : A I R 1966 Raj 142 (147, 148) (Pt A) (Prs 28, 30) (DB).

67 (e). By Police Acts.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Notifications under S. 61-A of Calcutta Police Act and S. 38 A of Calcutta Suburban Police Act, prohibiting use of cycle carts within limits of town and suburbs of Calcutta.

There is no violation of Art. 19 (1) (g) — Notifications only regulate the manner of carrying the business of transport by controlling type of vehicles to be permitted on roads— No right to intangible assets are involved. A I R 1954 S C 728 Expl. and Disting. Paschim Banga Malbahi Cycle Mazdoor Union v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, 65 Cal W N 213 : AIR 1961 Cal 125 (132, 138) (Pt B) (Prs 23, 49) (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and Cl. (6)— Total prohibition of plying of hand carts in daytime on main road in business area —Restriction on the fundamental right under Article held unreasonable — Test of reasonableness.

The right to ply a vehicle over a public road is a fundamental right, particularly when it is associated with the carrying on of a business by a citizen. While other causes contributing to the congestion of traffic might be removed, this one cannot be done except in conformity with Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. The restriction of a right under Art 19 (1) must, in order to be valid have the quality of reasonableness and be one necessary in the interests of the public It will not be enough to say that as an efficient regulation of traffic is essential in the interests of the public, any human right that stands in the way of the achievement of that object should be done away with. It is necessary first to find out whether the invasion of that right is essential in the interests of the public, in order to remedy the evil. Then the restriction sought to be imposed should correlate to the evil and be reasonably necessary for securing the remedy. It must not be arbitrarily imposed without due care and consideration, or in excess ot the needs of the situation. AIR 1952 S C 196, Foll.

Speaking broadly, it must be competent for the authority enacting the law or issuing the notification to curb tendencies or potential developments reasonably apprehended which would create the mischief sought to be prevented. Preventive legislation for anticipated evil is not unknown ; the question of its legality depends on the need for it and whether the provisions do not unduly interfere with human rights. It is not necessary, therefore that actual mischief should have been done or the evil should be existing before the regulation is imposed; for what is attempted is the avoidance of the evils. This has to be distinguished from a case where the need for the restriction is not apparent but where it is imposed by way of an experiment to see whether the infringement on fundamental rights would yield beneficial results to the public. A I R 1957 S C 620 and (1932) 76 Law Ed. 747, Foll.

Whenever any law is impugned as unreasonably imposing restrictions on rights guaranteed by the Constitution, its validity has to be judged in the circumstances and conditions prevailing at the time when it is enacted. Further, there is and can be no absolute standards of testing the reasonableness of an encroachment made by law on the rights, except in relation to the context in which it is made. What would be unreasonable at one time and in certain circumstances might be perfectly reasonable at a later time or in a different situation.

There are certain broad and objective tests for finding out whether any restriction imposed on a fundamental right is reasonable or not. First it has to be seen whether there is any proximate connection or nexus between the restriction imposed and the evil sought to be remedied. Secondly, even where the restriction imposed is held to have a nexus or relation to the object which the law-making body seeks to achieve the restriction, unless it be within the necessary limits, will be unreasonable.

Held, on the facts of the case, that the notification in question issued by the Commissioner of Police on 20-3-1962 by virtue of the powers conferred on him under the Motor Vehicles Act and the Madras Traffic Rules totally prohibiting passage of hand carts on a certain main road during day time, was invalid but it would not prejudice the Commissioner of Police to regulate the time during which such carts or other slow moving vehicles should be allowed to pass and also to regulate the weight and capacity of such carts. A I R 1951 S C 118, Foll. 77 Mad L W 542 : ILR (1964) 2 Mad 33 : 1964 Mad W N 421 : A I R 1965 Mad 301 (302, 303, 304, 305) (Prs 6, 8, 10, 13, 14, 16) (DB).

67 (f). By other statutes.

●——Art. 19 (6) (ii) (as amended by Constitution (First Amendment) Act (1951) — Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control of Trade) Act (28 of 1961), S 18— Rules under — R. 7 (5) — Validity — R 7 (5 is bad in that it leaves it to the sweet will of officer concerned to fix terms and conditions of agreement on ad hoc basis.

Rule 7 (5) of the Rules framed under S. 18 of the Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control of Trade) Act provides that on appointment as agent the person appointed shall execute an agreement in such form as Government may direct within ten days of the date of receipt of the order of appointment failing which the appointment shall be liable to cancellation and the amount deposited as earnest money shall be liable to forfeiture. It is significant that though the Form for an application which has to be made by a person applying for agency is prescribed, no form has been prescribed for the agreement which the State Government enters into with the agent. If the State Government intends that for carrying on the State monopoly authorised, by the Act, agents must be appointed, it must take care to appoint agent on such terms and conditions as would justify the conclusion that the relationship between them and the State Government is that of agent and principal; and if such a result is intended to be achieved, it is necessary that the principal terms and conditions of the agency agreement must be prescribed, by the rules. Then it would be open to the citizens to examine the said terms and conditions and challenge their validity if they contravene any provisions of the Constitution, or are inconsistent with the provisions of the Act itself. Therefore R. 7 (5) is bad in that it leaves it to the sweet will and pleasure of the officer concerned to fix any terms and conditions on an ad hoc basis that is beyond the competence of the State Government and such terms and conditions must be prescribed by the rules made under S 18 of the Act. Akadasi Padhan v. State of Orissa, (1964) 1 S C A 187 : (1964) 2 S C J 37 : (1963) Supp 2 S C R 691 : AIR 1963 S C 1047 (1058, 1059) (Pt C) (Pr 31).

●——Art. 19 (6) (ii) (as amended by Constitution (First Amendment) Act (1951)) — Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control of Trade) Act (28 of 1961), Ss. 18, 3 (1) (c) — S. 18 — Rules under — R. 7 (5) — Validity — Under agreement entered into by person with Government all loss to be borne by the agent—Agreement held inconsistent with requirements of S. 3 (1) (c) of the Act

Agency which can be legitimately allowed under Art 19 (6) (ii) is agency in the strict and narrow sense of the term; it includes only agents who can be said to carry on the monopoly at every stage on behalf of the State for its benefit and not for their own benefit at all. All that such agents would be entitled to would be remuneration for their work as agents. That being so, the extended meaning of the word 'agent' in a commercial sense is wholly inapplicable in the context of Art. 19 (6) (ii). Where the agreement entered into by a person with the Government provides that subject to other terms and conditions, all charges and outgoings shall be paid by the agent and he shall not be entitled to any compensation whatsoever for any loss that may be sustained this clearly shows that the agent becomes personally liable to bear the loss which, under the normal rules of agency, the principal would have to bear. The agent appointed under this agreement seems to carry on the trade substantially on his own account, subject, of course, to the payment of the amount specified in the contract If he makes any profit after complying with the said terms, the profit is his; if he incurs any loss owing to circumstances specified in the agreement, the loss is his In terms, he is not made accountable to the State Government; and in terms, the State Government is not responsible for his actions. In such a case it is impossible to hold that the agreement in question is consistent with the terms of S. 3 of the Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control of Trade) Act. The agreement is invalid inasmuch as it is wholly inconsistent with the requirements of S 3 (1) (c). (1879) 10 Ch D 566 and (1910) 1 K B 285, Disting Akadasi Padhan v State of Orissa, (1964) 1 S C A 187:(1964) 2 S C J 37 : (1963) Supp 2 S C R 691 : AIR 1963 S C 1047 (1059, 1060) (Pt D) (Pr 33).

● ——Arts. 19 (1)(f) and (g), 32 and 226—Patiala Recovery of State Dues Act (4 of 2002 Bk.)—Procedure laid down in the Act for settlement of disputes between Patiala State Bank and its customers — No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g).

Per Majority ;

The Patiala Recovery of State Dues Act (4 of 2002 Bk.) and the Rules made thereunder cannot be attacked as contravening Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution, because the impugned enactments do not trench either directly or indirectly on the right of a person to carry on trade or business. A law with respect of the recovery of debts is not one with respect to the carrying on of trade or business, though the debtor might be a trader.

Nor do the impugned Act and the Rules infringe Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. Examining the provisions of the Act and the Rules as a whole they are reasonable and do not violate any rules of natural justice.

An important factor to be taken into account is that the impugned Act and Rules are not legislation confined to the recovery of money due to the Patiala State Bank. It is a general law applicable to the realisation of all revenue due to the State, dues to the Bank being expressly included in the definition of 'State dues' in S. 3 (1) of the Act, and it is the pattern usually adopted in Revenue Laws. If State Revenues can be diverted for Banking purposes, it seems reasonable that their recovery should be governed by the Revenue Laws.

It is too late in the day to contend that provisions in statutes creating a special jurisdiction and taking away the jurisdiction of Civil Courts in respect of matters falling within that jurisdiction are unreasonable, or opposed to rules of natural justice. It has only to be remembered that provisions excluding the jurisdiction of Civil Courts in such cases do not affect the jurisdiction of either the High Court under Art. 226 or of the Supreme Court under Art. 32 or Art. 136 to interfere when grounds therefor are established. Lachhman Das v. State of Punjab, (1963) 2 S C R 353 : AIR 1963 S C 222 (234, 235, 236) (Pt D) (Prs 28, 30, 33, 36, 37, 38, 40).

● ——Arts. 19 (6) and 14—Notification issued under S. 15 of Forward Contracts (Regulation) Act—Consequence of — Closing out of contract by operation of notification—Power vested in Government to fix rates at which differences are payable — Power so vested is valid — It is not open to attack either as excessive delegation of legislative power or as an infringement of Art. 14. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. A I R 1962 S C 263.

● ——Arts. 19 (5) and (6), 19 (1) (f) — Notification issued under S. 15 of Forward Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1952 — Rights under subsisting contract affected by — Power given under S. 15 is valid — Restriction imposed by S. 15 is reasonable. Raghubar Dayal v. Union of India, (1965) 3 S C R 547 : (1962) 2 S C J 445 : AIR 1962 S C 263 (273, 274) (Pt C) (Prs 25, 26).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Coal Bearing Areas (Acquisition and Development) Act (1957), S. 4 —Section does not invade fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (g). See Coal Bearing Areas (Acquisition and Development) Act (1957), S. 4. AIR 1961 S C 954.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Notification dated 31st August, 1957 under S. 4 of Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act recognising Native Share and Stock Brokers' Association and notification dated 30th November, 1957 applying S. 13 of the Act to Greater Bombay — Validity.

The Stock Exchange Rules do not operate as a bar against a person becoming a member of the Stock Exchange subject to the rules governing the application for the membership. He has the right to do business in shares; in spite of the notifications dated 31st August, 1957 and dated 30th November, 1957, he can still do business in spot delivery contracts. The Act enables the State to give or refuse recognition to any Stock Exchange and it has chosen to give recognition to the Stock Exchange, Bombay, subject to the conditions prescribed. The restrictions are not unreasonable, having regard to the importance of the business of a stock exchange in the country's national economy. The notification, dated 31st August, 1957 issued under S 4 of the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act (1956) and the notification dated 30th November, 1957 under S. 13 of the Act do not contravene Art. 19. Madhubhai Amathalal Gandhi v. Union of India, (1961) 2 S C A 108 : (1961) 1 S C J 442 : (1961) 1 S C R 191 : (1960) 30 Com Cas 667 : AIR 1961 S C 21 (26, 27) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

● ——Art. 19(6)—Vindhya Pradesh Tendu Leaves Act (6 of 1954), S. 4 (3) (c) — Vindhya Pradesh Tendu Leaves Rules (1954), R. 4—Condition in licence restricting it to purchases from contractors only — If ultra vires and void.

A licencee, who is not a contractor, is free under the Vindhya Pradesh Tendu Leaves Act, 1953, and the Vindhya Pradesh Tendu Leaves Rules, 1954, to deal with Jagirdars and tenants in respect of leaves from trees belonging to them The inclusion of a term in the licence restricting the operation of the licence to purchases from contractors only is not justified by S. 3 (2) (c) of the Act nor does R. 4 save it The clause itself amounts to an unreasonable restriction upon the rights of the petitioner-licencee guaranteed under Part 3. Hence, the condition must be declared to be both ultra vires and void. AIR 1950 S C 163, Rel. on. Hamid Raza v. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1960 S C 994 (996, 997) (Prs 10, 12, 13).

● ——Art. 19(6)—Central Excises and Salt Act (1944) —Validity.

The Central Excises and Salt Act cannot be challenged on the ground that the restrictions imposed on the fundamental right of the petitioner to trade in tobacco are unreasonable and therefore not saved by Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution of India. There is no breach of the principles of natural justice of audi alteram partem involved in the provisions of the Act. Chaturbhai M. Patel v. Union of India, 1960 S C J 224 : 1960 All L J 262 : (1960) 1 S C A 425 : (1960) 2 S C R 362: AIR 1960 S C 424 (429, 430) (Pt D) (Pr 13).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 31—U. P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act (24 of 1953) — Notifications under — If offend Article 19 (1) (f) and (g) and Art 31.

The power which is given to the Cane Commissioner under S. 15, U. P Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act for declaring reserved or assigned areas is guided by the considerations set out in R. 22 of Chap. 6 of the U. P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Rules, 1954 and is further conditioned that he has to consult the factory and the Canegrowers' Co-operative Society, and his orders made thereunder are subject to an appeal to the State Government at the instance of the party aggrieved. This cannot by any means be treated as an uncontrolled or an unfettered power. The power does not fall within the mischief of Article 19 (1) (f) and (g) and the notifications thereunder cannot be impugned. The restriction which is imposed upon the cane-growers in regard to sales of their sugarcane to the occupiers of factories in areas where the membership of the Cane-growers' Co-operative Society is not less than 75 per cent. of the total cane growers within the area is a reasonable restriction. That being so, it comes well within the protection of Art. 19 (6) and the impugned notifications cannot be challenged as violative of the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). If these impugned notifications are intra vires the State Legislature, they cannot be challenged also under Art. 31 as none of the petitioners is being deprived of his property, if any, save by authority of law. Tika Ramji v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1956 S C A 979 : 1956 S C J 625 : 1956 All W R (H C) 657 : 1956 S C R 393 : AIR 1956 S C 676 (711, 712) (Pt I) (Pr 51).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — U. P. Gaon Samaj Manual, Para. 63, second proviso — Whether inconsistent with Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (g) of Constitution and invalid—See U. P. Gaon Samaj Manual, Para. 63, Proviso 2. AIR 1957 All 487.

——Art. 19 — Notification appointing controller of Sugar Company — Controller given power to authorise Board of Directors, to dispose of sugar and funds of company — Direction does not imply prohibition to Board of Directors to dispose of sugar or funds without authority of Controller— See Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3 (4). AIR 1955 N U C (All) 3594.

——Art. 19 — Scope — Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3—Validity of vested right to get specific quantities of coal.

There is no vested right in the petitioners to get the specific quantities of coal which were allotted to them previously, and they cannot claim that the system which was prevailing during the previous years should be continued during the current year also. 1958 Andh L T 587.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) — Common law right of seller in markets —Restrictions on—Limits of — Prohibition by Nagpur Corporation of sale of meat in weekly markets — Legality— (Municipalities—City of Nagpur Corporation Act (2 of 1950), S. 57 (1) (m)).

The right of a seller available to him in Common Law, is now enshrined in and is guaranteed to him under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. The only restriction to this unfettered right is the authority of the State to make a law relating to the carrying on of such occupation, trade or a business as mentioned in Cl. (6) of that Article: AIR 1952 S C 115, Rel. on. Those restrictions are that the law must be in the interests of the general public and the restrictions must be reasonable.

Held, that the action of the Nagpur Corporation in prohibiting the sale of meat in weekly markets by its resolution No. 77, dated 28-3-1958 not being authorised by law had to be struck down, as contravening Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution as restricting the freedom of the sellers of meat in weekly markets. 61 Bom L R 468 : ILR (1959) Bom 1047 : 1958 N L J 625 : AIR 1959 Bom 112 (116, 119) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 18, 29) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) —S. 3 (2) (f) and (3A) of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955—Direction to sell to Government — Question of compensation — Justiciability of —See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f). AIR 1958 Cal 257.

——Art. 19 (1)—Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 13 (5), Proviso — Proviso is not unconstitutional as infringing Art. 19 (1) of the Constitution—See Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 13 (5), Proviso. AIR 1962 Guj 44 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Validity of order directing retail dealers in cloth to carry on business through Co-operative Societies —Restriction imposed held was reasonable and in the interest of general public within the meaning of Art. 19 (6). AIR 1958 Him Pra 41 (47) (Pt C) (Pr 29).

——Arts. 19, 13 and 305 — Jammu and Kashmir Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Ordinance (2003), S. 3 — Notification under dated 26-10-1955 — Validity — (Constitution (Application to Jammu and Kashmir) Order (1954), Para. 4 (d))—See Jammu and Kashmir Essential Supplies (Tempoary Powers) Ordinance (2003), S. 3. AIR 1956 J & K 26.

●——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 23 (1) (f) and Prevention of Food Adulteration Rules (1955), R. 44-A, Cl. (b)—Reasonable restriction — Prohibition on trade of Kesari dal is reasonable restriction and is covered by Art. 19 (6).

A complete prohibition of trade in Kesari dal would be in the interests of the general public even if its effect would be to reduce the amount of fodder available for the cattle in the country, and, having regard to the serious consequences that the consumption of Kesari dal by human beings entails, it can scarcely be contended that the prohibition is not a reasonable restriction (restriction, it is now well settled, is wide enough to cover a prohibition) on the fundamental right to trade. Therefore, even if trade in a poisonous food-grain like Kesari dal were not to be regarded as res extra commercium so that it would attract the fundamental right in Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution, the prohibition would clearly come within the saving in Art. 19 (6). Moreover the rule imposing the prohibition was made, required by S. 23 of the Act, in consultation with the expert committee constituted under S. 3 and after "previous publication". Also the rule was laid before both Houses of Parliament. Govinda Pillai v. Padmanabha Pillai, 1964 Ker L T 1023 : 1965 Ker L J 18 : ILR (1965) 1 Ker 12 : 1965 Mad L J (Cri) 23 : (1965) 1 Ker L R 10 : 1965 (1) Cri L J 446 : AIR 1965 Ker 123 (127, 128) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (FB).

●——Art. 19 (1) (g) and 245— Delegation of powers —Validity of Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3—See Ibid, Art. 245. AIR 1957 Madh Pra. 179 (FB).

[Held reversed on another point by Cri. App. No. 162 of 1957 dated 16-12-1959 (SC) as interpreted in (1961) 1 Cr L J 674 (MP).]

——Art. 19 — Essential Commodities Act (1955) — Validity — See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f). AIR 1960 Mys 192 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) — Madras Money-lenders Act (26 of 1957), is valid. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1964 Mad 30 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawnbrokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 5 (a)—Validity.

All that S. 5 (a) requires is that there should be no difficulty in identifying a pawnbroker's shop, and it prescribes a name board for that shop. That is not unreasonable. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : ILR (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : 1957 Cr L J 962 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (519) (Pt C) (Pr 25).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawnbrokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 6—Validity.

Prima facie, a statutory control of the rate of interest does abridge the freedom of contract. Freedom of contract can be claimed as incidental to and in fact necessary for carrying on any business including that of a pawn-broker. The statutory maxima by themselves not reasonable, were designed in the interests of a section of the public. The statutory maxima prescribed by S. 6 (i) of the Act do not constitute an unreasonable restriction on the right of the pawn-broker to carry on his business. (1957) 1

M L J 329 : ILR (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 1957 Cr L J 962 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (519) (Pt D) (Pr 26).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawn-brokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 10—Validity.

S. 10 (2) of the Act requires that all records or entries made in the books, accounts and documents referred to in S. 10 (1) of the Act shall be either in English or in such language of the locality as may be prescribed by authority. If the restriction imposed by S. 10 (2) was designed to facilitate maintenance of law and order, that would be sufficient to bring it within the scope of Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. If the legislature chose to provide for the protection of the larger community of the debtors and in that endeavour chose to prescribe what prima facie appears to be a restriction on the right of the pawn-broker to maintain his accounts in his own language, it is not for the Courts to say that it constitutes an unreasonable restriction outside the purview of Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. Neither S. 10 (2) by itself nor any other provision of the Act authorises the police to effect forcible entry into the premises of a pawn-broker by breaking open, for example, premises which have been locked. Neither part of S. 10 (2) constitutes an unreasonable restriction on the right of a pawn-broker to carry on his business. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : I L R (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : (1957) Cr L J 962 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : A I R 1957 Mad 514 (519, 520) (Pt E) (Prs 27, 28, 29, 30).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawn-brokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 11—Validity.

S. 11 of Madras Act (23 of 1943), as it stands, does not really compel a pawn-broker to continue his business against his wishes. The statute safeguarded the rights of his debtors. That the legislature was entitled to do. There is nothing unreasonable in the statutory conditions imposed by S. 11. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : I L R (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 1957 Cr L J 962 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (521) (Pt F) (Pr 31).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawn-brokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 12—Validity.

Conceived obviously in the interests of a larger section of the public other than the pawn-brokers, i. e., the debtors, S. 12 (3) does not fall outside the scope of Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : I L R (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 1957 Cri L J 962 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (521) (Pt G) (Pr 32).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawn-brokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 13 (1)—Validity.

The debtor has a subsisting interest in the articles he has pawned and he is entitled to redeem those articles under the terms of the contract with the pawn-broker. It is basically that right that S. 13 (1) is designed to safeguard S. 13 (1) does not constitute an unreasonable restriction on the pawn-broker's right to carry on his business. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : I L R (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 1957 Cri L J 962 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : A I R 1957 Mad 514 (521) (Pt H) (Pr 33).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawn-brokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 15—Validity.

The validity of S. 15 of the Act should really be linked up with that of S. 6 for the contravention of which penalties have been provided in S. 15. As S. 6 is valid, it follows the constitutional validity of S. 15 also is unassailable. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : ILR (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 1957 Cr L J 962 : 70 Mad L J 1022 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (521) (Pt I) (Pr 34).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawn-brokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 17 (2)—Validity.

The statutory obligation with a corresponding statutory right to seize and detain does not constitute an unreasonable restriction on the pawn-broker's right to carry on his business. One of the objects of the control imposed by the Act was to prevent clandestine disposal of stolen property. That was conceived in the interests of the society as a whole. The State was bound to provide safeguards against the commission of such offences. There is certainly nothing unreasonable in the State imposing an obligation on a citizen to give information to the police, entrusted with the duty of maintaining law and order, when a citizen has reasonable grounds to believe that a cognisable offence has been committed. It is only that normal duty of a citizen that has been converted into a statutory obligation under the limited circumstances specified in S. 17 (2) of the Act. S. 17 (2) does not impose an unreasonable restriction on a pawn-broker. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : ILR (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J (Cri) 196 : 1957 Cr L J 962 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (521) (Pt J) (Pr 35).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Madras Pawn-brokers Act (23 of 1943), S. 20—Validity—(Cr. P. C. (1898), S. 59).

A statutory provision enabling a police officer, whose primary duty is maintenance of law and order to arrest without a warrant when a person commits an offence in the presence of the police officer cannot be challenged as unreasonable in its scope. Section 20 gives a limited right to the police officer to arrest a person without a warrant, if that person commits an offence made punishable under the Act itself, the Pawn-brokers Act. AIR 1928 Pat 53; AIR 1933 Pat 503, Rel. on. (1957) 1 M L J 329 : ILR (1957) Mad 937 : 1957 Mad L J 196 : 1957 Cr L J 962 : 70 Mad L W 1022 : AIR 1957 Mad 514 (521) (Pt K) (Pr 36).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), Section 3 (2) (f)—Whether invalid. See Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946). S. 3 (2) (f). AIR 1953 Orissa 277.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Opium trade — Restrictions on — Validity. See Punjab Opium (Restriction on Oral Consumption) Rules (1957). AIR 1958 Punj 400.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on trade — Restrictions on.

The petitioner, a publisher of educational books for schools and colleges had got himself registered under Reg. 16 (1) of the Rajasthan Secondary Education Regulation, 1957, framed under Rajasthan Secondary Education Act, 1957. The petitioner had submitted certain books to the Board for approval for study in various subjects in Higher Secondary Schools but was informed that his registration had been cancelled and that the books submitted would not be considered by the Courses Committee for a period of three years.

Held, that the petitioner's right to carry on his trade or business in the matter of publication of books cannot be said to be infringed by any action of the Board. Article 19 guarantees the freedom of trade or business but it does not guarantee that conditions must be created by the State or any statutory subordinate body to make the trade lucrative or to bring customers to the trade or business man : AIR 1955 S C 549, Rel. on. 1960 Raj L W 209 : ILR (1960) 10 Raj 760 : AIR 1960 Raj 185 (187, 188) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 14—Prohibition of carrying on of business without Government permission invalid—(Bharatpur State Khas Industries Act (1943), Ss. 6, 11, 18 and 21).

Sections 6, 11, 18 and 21 in particular, are ultra vires of the Constitution. Other sections so far as they deal with matters covered by S. 6 or 18 are also ultra vires to that extent. (Section 6 provides that no person shall carry on business in Khas or manufacture Khas or Khas essential oil unless specially permitted so to do by the Bharatpur Government. The other sections are ancillary to S. 6 and make various provisions for giving effect to it, such as provisions relating to penalties etc. 1958 Raj L W 432.

68. Price control.

——Art. 19 (6)—Scope — Price Control Order (1957) —Validity.

If any enactment is to be saved under Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution, the law should be conceived in the interests of the general public and the restrictions should be reasonable. The reasonableness of a law or an order has to be judged with reference to the purpose the enactment seeks to accomplish, the extent to which it affects the fundamental rights of an individual and the service it renders to the general public. The law should strike a balance between the rights guaranteed under Part 3 of the Constitution and the social demands. A statute under the guise of safeguarding the interests of the general public should not impose unduly restrictive regulations upon freedom of trade and commerce. There should be a nexus between the policy underlying the Act and the restrictions that the law seeks to levy : A I R 1954 S C 465, Rel. on. A I R 1960 Andh Pra 431 (440) (Pt G) (Pr 46) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and (5) and (6) — Scope— Bihar Milled Rice Procurement (Levy) Order and Milled Rice (Bihar) Price Control Order—Constitutional validity — (Bihar Milled Rice Procurement (Levy) Order (1958), S. (1) — (Milled Rice (Bihar) Price Control Order (1958), S, 17) — Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (1)).

The right of property under Art. 19 (1) (f) or the right of carrying on trade or business under Art. 19 (1) (g), which the Constitution guarantees are not absolute rights. It is manifest that the rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) are rights to be enjoyed in the context and setting of a social organization which requires the protection of law against evils which menace the health, safety and welfare of the people.

The restrictions imposed by the Bihar Milled Rice Procurement (Levy) Order and the Milled Rice (Bihar) Price Control Order are reasonable restrictions in the interest of the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (f) or Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. The object of price fixation as mentioned in S. 3 (1) of the Essential Commodities Act is to maintain the supplies of essential commodities at a fair price to the general public. The mere fact that in consequence of fixation of price some loss may fall upon an individual trade cannot lead to the implication that the provisions of the Central Order are constitutionally invalid. 1959 Pat L R 72 : 1959 B L J R 366 : I L R 38 Pat 756 : AIR 1959 Pat 268 (271) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Legislation violating sanctity of contracts — Effect—Price fixation order made by Union of India — Legislation not to be held as ultra vires in absence of material that it was aimed at particular person. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1961 Punj 136.

69. Monopolies.

See also Ibid, Note 74.

● ——Art. 19 (6) (as amended by Constitution (First Amendment) Act (1951))—Law creating State monopoly—Basic provisions of law creating monopoly are protected by latter part of Art. 19 (6)—Validity of incidental provisions to be judged by first part of Art. 19 (6)—Effect of such law on other rights under Art. 19 (1) — Law directly controlling right under Art. 19 (1) (g) and only incidentally under other clauses of Art. 19 (1) (g) — Validity to be tested under Art. 19 (6)—Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control of Trade) Act (28 of 1961)—Validity—Ss. 4, 3 and 8 are valid.

'A law relating to' a State monopoly cannot, in the context, include all the provisions contained in the said law whether they have direct relation with the creation of the monopoly or not. It is only the essential and basic provisions which are protected by the latter part of Art. 19 (6). If there are other provisions made by the Act which are subsidiary incidental or helpful to the operation of the monopoly, their validity must be judged under the first part of Art. 19 (6).

The several rights guaranteed by the 7 sub-clauses of Art. 19 (1) are separate and distinct fundamental rights and they can be regulated only if the provisions contained in Cls. (2) to (6) are respectively satisfied. But in dealing with the question as to the effect of a law which seeks to regulate the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) on the citizen's right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f), it will be necessary to distinguish between the direct purpose of the Act and its indirect or incidental effect. If the legislation seeks directly to control the citizen's right under Art. 19 (1) (g), its validity has to be tested in the light of the provisions contained in Art. 19 (6), and if such a legislation, as for instance, a law creating a State monopoly, indirectly or incidentally affects a citizen's right under any other clause of Art. 19 (1), as for instance, Art. 19 (1) (f), that will not introduce any infirmity in the Act itself. AIR 1950 S C 27 and A I R 1951 S C 270 and AIR 1958 S C 578 and AIR 1957 S C 699, Rel. on.

Having regard to the scheme of the State monopoly envisaged by the Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control of Trade) Act, S. 4 cannot be said to be such an essential part of the said monopoly as to fall within the expression 'law relating to' under Art. 19 (6). Therefore, the validity of S. 4 must be tested in the light of the first part of Art. 19 (6) so far as a person's rights under Art. 19 (1) (g) are concerned, and under Art. 19 (5) so far as his rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) are concerned. The restrictions in regard to the fixing of price prescribed by S. 4 are reasonable and in the interests of the general public both under Art. 19 (5) and Art. 19 (6). Thus S. 4 must be held to be valid. A I R 1954 S C 728, AIR 1960 S C 891, AIR 1961 S C 82 and AIR 1960 S C 1073, Disting.

If a law is passed creating a State monopoly and the working of the monopoly is left either to the State or to the officers of the State appointed in that behalf, or to the department of the State, or to persons appointed as agents to carry on the work of the monopoly strictly on behalf of the State, that would satisfy the requirements of Art. 19 (6) (ii). S. 3 of the Orissa Kendu Leaves (Control of Trade) Act allows either the Government or an officer of the Government authorised in that behalf to purchase or transport Kendu leaves. The two categories of persons specified in Cls. (b) and (c) are intended to work as agents of the Government and all their actions and their dealings in pursuance of the provisions of the Act would be actions and dealings on behalf of the Government and for the benefit of the Government. If S. 3 is valid, then S. 8 which authorises the appointment of agents must also be held to be valid. Akadasi Padhan v. State of Orissa, (1964) 1 S C A 187 : (1964) 2 S C J 37 : (1963) Supp

(2) S C R 691: AIR 1963 S C 1047 (1054, 1055, 1056, 1057, 1058) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 18, 20, 23, 24, 29).

●——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Import and export control—Right to carry on trade—There cannot be unfettered and unrestricted freedom of export and import—Policy statement in the Press Note dated 3-2-1955 and Public Notice No. 25 ITC (PN)/56 dated 20-6-1956—No monopoly has been created. Bhatnagars & Co. v. The Union of India, (1957) S C J 546 : (1957) S C A 810 : 1957 S C R 700 : A I R 1957 S C 478 (482, 483) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

●——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Reasonable restrictions.

The question whether the restrictions imposed by a particular legislation on the exercise of the fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) are reasonable or not would depend on the nature of the trade and the conditions prevalent in it. A I R 1954 S C 220 : 1954 S C J 246, Rel. on.

In order to judge whether State monopoly is reasonable or not regard therefore must be had to the facts of each particular case in its own setting of time and circumstances. It is not enough to say that as an efficient transport service is conducive to the interests of the people a legislation which makes provision for such service must always be held valid irrespective of the fact as to what the effect of such legislation would be and irrespective of the particular conditions and circumstances under which the legislation was passed. It is not enough that the restrictions are for the benefit of the public, they must be reasonable as well and the reasonableness could be decided only on a conspectus of all the relevant facts and circumstances. 1950 A C 235, Relied on. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C A 1218 : 1955 All W R 23 : 68 Mad L W 8 : 1955 All L J 38 : 1955 S C R 707 : 1954 S C J 819 : (1954) 2 Mad L J 622 : I L R (1955) 1 All 211 : A I R 1954 S C 728 (738) (Pt E) (Pr 22).

●——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Business relating to intoxicating liquors—Competency of State to regulate it—Provisions of Excise Regulation held valid. See (Ajmer) Excise Regulation (1 of 1915), S. 1. A I R 1954 S C 220.

●——Art. 19 (6) — Business relating to intoxicating liquors—Monopoly rights, conferment of — Abridgment of right to carry on liquor business — (Ajmer) Excise Regulation (1 of 1915), S. 18.

The contention that the effect of some of the provisions of Excise Regulation (1 of 1915) is to enable Government to confer monopoly rights on one or more persons to the exclusion of others and that creation of such monopoly rights could not be sustained under Art. 19 (6), Constitution of India, is without force. Elimination and exclusion from business is inherent in the nature of liquor business and it will hardly be proper to apply to such a business principles applicable to trades which all can carry. The provisions of the Excise Regulation (1 of 1915) cannot be attacked merely on the ground that they create a monopoly.

There can be a monopoly only when a trade which can be carried on by all persons is entrusted by law to one or more persons to the exclusion of the general public. But when a contract is thrown open to public auction, it cannot be said that there is exclusion of competition and thereby a monopoly is created. Further in certain circumstances exclusion of competition so as to create a monopoly either in a State or in some other body may be justified. Every case must be judged on its own facts and its own setting of time.

For these reasons the contention that the provisions of the Excise Regulation (1 of 1915) are unconstitutional as they abridge the rights of the petitioner to carry on liquor trade freely cannot be sustained. (1950) A C 235, Foll.; A I R 1950 S C 163. Disting. Cooverjee B. Bharucha v. Excise Commissioner, 1954 S C J 246 : 1954 S C R 873 : 1954 S C A 256 : A I R 1954 S C 220 (223, 224) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 19 — Applicability — Overt or covert monopoly — Prohibition against creation of — Number of shops grouped into one lump and sold—Similar lump sales held in respect of other shops as well — No monopoly can be said to have been created by such sales—Further as there was a public auction in which any member of the public was entitled to bid, Arts. 14 and 19 of the Constitution cannot also apply. See U. P. Excise Manuals, R. 358 (9). I L R (1962) 2 All 409.

——Art. 19 (6) (as amended by the First Amendment)—Monopoly in favour of State—Legality.

The provision in Art. 19 (6) after the amendment entitles the Legislature to make an appropriate law for creation of State monopolies and since Cl. (6) is a limitation on sub-clause (g) of Art. 19 (1), it follows that the right of a citizen guaranteed by the sub-clause is subordinate to the right of the State to create a monopoly in its own favour. 61 Bom L R 1572 : I L R (1960) Bom 87 : A I R 1960 Bom 278 (281) (Pt A) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Right to monopoly in business.

There is no fundamental right to monopoly in any business. ('57) 61 Cal W N 590.

——Art. 19—Custom — Elements of — Custom establishing monopoly—Inconsistency with fundamental rights. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 13. A I R 1955 N U C (Madh B) 3078.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Fundamental right threatened — Petition under Art. 226, maintainability. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1954 Mad 621 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Notification by Director of Public Instruction prescribing certain copy books for use in schools — Order arbitrary and creating monopoly—Notification quashed. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1955 Mys 81 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19 (6) and 226—'Reasonable restriction'—What is — Order sanctioning sale of entire resin from Government stock to Co-operative Society —Held order created virtual monopoly and violated petitioners' right to get resin in their business and violation was not in interests of general public—Held further that order was tainted with mala fides. I L R (1965) 2 Punj 32 : 67 Pun L R 921 : A I R 1966 Punj 16 (24) (Pt C) (Prs 15, 16, 17) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and 13 (1) — Creation of monopoly — Bye-law of Municipality restricting sale of fruits and vegetables to particular area leased by auction — Effect — Monopoly in favour of highest bidders created—Bye law void. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). A I R 1962 Punj 364.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Monopoly contract executed on a pre-Constitution date—Such contract is not favoured by Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution. See Contract Act (1872), S. 23. A I R 1964 Raj 205 (DB).

——Art. 19 — Bombay District Municipal Act (3 of 1901) (as adapted and applied to Saurashtra), S. 50 (2) —Notification No. 84 dated 29-8-1950 — Constitution of India, Arts. 19 and 31 — Municipality farming out monopoly to take away hides to Ijardars—Monopoly, in so far as it purports to divest private ownership of carcasses and vest it in Ijardars is void — Notification No. 84 does not vest such ownership of hides in Municipality and cannot be assailed under Art. 19 or 31. See Municipalities — Bombay District Municipal Act (3 of 1901) (as adapted and applied to Saurashtra), S. 50 (2). (1956) 9 Sau L R 184.

——Art. 19 (6)—State monopoly in liquor.

The claim that liquor is a monopoly of the State cannot be accepted. There should be a 'law' to sustain a claim for monopoly by the State and in its absence the claim for monopoly cannot be sustained. I L R (1954) Trav.Co 806 : A I R 1954 Trav-Co 504 (509) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Government granting monopoly-cum-royalty lease to fell bamboo for umbrella sticks to one person — Fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of other persons is infringed—Granting of monopoly amounts also to discrimination. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1963 Tripura 14.

70. Labour laws.

See also Ibid, Note 71.

(a) Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952).
(b) Minimum Wages Act (1948).
(c) Shops and Establishments Acts.
(d) Other Acts.

70. Labour laws.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Employees' State Insurance Act (1948), Ss. 1 (3), 73-A — Validity — Power of Central Government to bring parts of the Act into force in different areas on different dates — No violation of Art. 15 — Levy of special contribution under S. 73-A before benefit sections are brought into force—Not an unreasonable restriction on right of employers — No violation of Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1962 Assam 120 (DB).

——Art. 19—Labour laws — Freedom referred to in Art. 19 (1) (g) does not mean freedom to carry on trade in manner prejudicial to public interest.

The Indian Constitution avoids controversy by providing in Art. 19 (6) that any business or trade, irrespective of its nature, is liable to be controlled or restricted by the State if necessary in the interests of the general public. The expressions 'reasonable' and 'interests of the general public' are both elastic terms.

In order to determine the reasonableness of the restriction regard must be had to the nature of the business. No hard and fast rules concerning all trades can be laid down.

The freedom referred to in Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India does not mean freedom to carry on trade or profession in a way which may be prejudicial to the public interest. 70 Mad L W 62 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 34 : 1957 Cri L J 374 : (1957) 1 Lab L J 524 : A I R 1957 Mad 144 (148) (Pt C) (Prs 26 to 31).

70 (a). Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), Ss. 5 (1), 6 (1), 7 (1)—Notifications under S. 7 (1) — Notifications No. S. R. O. 331, dated 15-1-1958 and No. G. S. R. 1467, dated 2-12-1960 — Constitutional validity— Employees' Provident Funds Scheme (1952). Paras. 2 (f) (iii), 30, 32, 73-A—Benefits of Scheme, available to direct employees, extended by notifications to contract labour—Right of principal employer to deduct amount of provident fund on account of employee from his wages not available against contract labour—Notifications discriminatory and unreasonable under Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and struck down as unconstitutional. See Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 5 (1). AIR 1962 S C 1402.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—S. 16 (2) of Employees' Provident Funds Act—If contravenes Art. 14 or 19 (1) (g) — Validity. See Ibid, Art. 14. (S) AIR 1957 Cal 702.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—S. 19-A, Employees' Provident Funds Act—Validity—If imposes unreasonable restrictions and void under Art. 13 (2). See Ibid, Art. 13 (2). AIR 1957 Cal 702.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Employees' Provident Funds Act —Validity. See Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952) Before its Amendment by Act (XCIV of 1956), S. 5. AIR 1959 Punj 27.

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 Punj 507.]

70 (b). Minimum Wages Act (1948).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)— Reasonable restriction —Retrospective operation of Act though relevant is not decisive test—S. 3 of Madhya Pradesh Minimum Wages Fixation Act, 1962 is not unreasonable.

The retrospective operation of legislation is a relevant circumstance in deciding its reasonableness. It is, however, established that this is not necessarily a decisive test. Where after the final judicial verdict is pronounced declaring a notification fixing the minimum rates of wages invalid, the Legislature passes an Act such as the Madhya Pradesh Minimum Wages Fixation Act, 1962, fixing again the minimum rates of wages and makes its provisions retrospective, it may well cover a long period taken by judicial proceedings in Court and yet it would be inappropriate to hold that because the retrospective operation covers a long period, therefore, the restriction imposed by it is unreasonable. AIR 1963 S C 1667, Foll. Narottamdas v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1965) 10 Fac L R 59 : (1964) 7 SCR 820 : 1964 Jab L J 693 : (1964) 2 Lab L J 647 : 1965 M P L J 143 : 1965 Mah L J 87 : (1965) 1 S C W R 80 : (1965) 2 S C J 395 : 1965 Mad L J (Cri) 629 : (1964-65) 26 FJR 254 : AIR 1964 S C 1667 (1671) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 10).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), (6) and 20 (1) — Effect of Ss. 3 and 4 of Madhya Pradesh Minimum Wages Fixation Act (16 of 1962)—No unreasonable restriction is imposed—Sections do not also contravene Art. 20 (1).

The words "be enforceable" in the concluding portion of S. 3 of Madhya Pradesh Minimum Wages Fixation Act, 1962, show that while it was intended that new rates of minimum wages will be enforceable against the employer with effect from the 1st January, 1959, no date is being prescribed by S. 3 as the date on which it became payable. This is done by S. 4 the provision of which contains a clear statement of the Legislature's intention that it is on the 21st June, 1963 that the rates which had become enforceable under S. 3 with effect from 1st January, 1959, became payable. The employer's apprehension that he might be made liable tor payment of compensation under S, 20 (3) or to prosecution under S. 22 of the Minimum Wages Act, 1948, as a result of the mere passing of the Madhya Pradesh Minimum Wages Fixation Act, 1962, is therefore groundless. The contention that S. 3 and S. 4 of the M P. Minimum Wages Fixation Act, 1962, impose unreasonable restrictions on the employer's fundamental rights must therefore be rejected.

Further, as on a proper construction of Ss. 3 and 4, the new rates of wages for the past period become payable not on the 1st January, 1959 but on the 21st June, 1962 the attack on the validity of the sections on the ground of Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution also fails. AIR 1964 Madh Pra 45, Affirmed. Narottamdas v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1965) 10 Fac L R 59 : (1964) 7 S C R 820 : 1964 Jab L J 693 : (1964) 2 Lab L J 647 : 1965 M P L J 143 : 1965 Mah L J 87 : (1965) 1 S C W R 80 : (1965) 2 S C J 395 : 1965 Mad L J (Cri) 629 : (1964-65) 26 F J R 254 : AIR 1964 S C 1667 (1672, 1673) (Pt D) (Prs 14, 16, 18, 19).

● ——Arts. 19 (6) and 19 (1) (g)— Labour Legislation for fixation of Minimum Wages in Industry — Minimum Wages Act (1948), Ss. 3, 4, 5—Power to fix minimum wage rates — Whether violates Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution— Components of minimum wage— Distinction between minimum wage fixed by industrial adjudication and that prescribed by statute — Capacity to pay — Relevancy —Notification of Kerala Government, dated 12-5-1958—Validity. See Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 3. AIR 1962 S C 12.

●——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Minimum Wages Act (11 of 1948), S. 3— Validity — Restrictions imposed though they interfere with freedom of trade, amount to reasonable restrictions in interest of general public, in view of directive principles of State policy contained in Art. 43. See Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 3. AIR 1955 S C 33.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), (6), 43 — Fixation of minimum rates of wages under Minimum Wages Act—Restrictions are protected by Art. 19 (6).

The restrictions, imposed upon the freedom of contract by the fixation of minimum rates of wages under the Minimum Wages Act, though they interfere to some extent with the freedom of trade or business guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution are not unreasonable and as they are imposed in the interest of general public and with a view to carrying out one of the Directive Principles of State Policy as embodied in Art. 43 of the Constitution, they are protected by Cl. (6) of Art. 19. AIR 1955 S C 33, Foll. 63 Bom L R 323 : (1962) 1 Lab L J 702 : 1961 Nag L J 384: ILR (1961) Bom 491: (1961) 3 Fac L R 122: AIR 1962 Bom 97 (103) (Pt F) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) —Fixing of minimum wage — Restriction is protected by Art. 19 (6) — Hardship to employer is no consideration. See Minimum Wages Act (1948) S. 3. AIR 1963 Ker 115.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) —M. P. Minimum Wages Fixation Act (16 of 1962), Ss. 3, 4— Validity — Do not impose unreasonable restrictions. See M. P. Minimum Wages Fixation Act (16 of 1962), S. 3. AIR 1964 Madh Pra 45 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Mandamus to compel authority to start legal proceedings—It is in discretion of Court —Minimum Wages Act (1948), Ss. 20, 22—Legal proceedings for enforcement of Act — Person not authorised by Act cannot compel authority to start prosecution against a concern on the ground that enforcement of Act against petitioner alone amounted to flagrant denial of right to equality before law. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1955 Nag 33 (DB).

——Art. 19—Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 5 (2)—Validity.

The Government's power to fix minimum wages is not in contravention of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and it is protected by Art. 19 (6). AIR 1955 S C 33, Foll. AIR 1958 Punj 425 (429) (Pt H) (Pr 15).

70 (c). Shops and Establishments Acts.

●——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Labour laws —Shops and commercial establishments— Limitation as to hours of work of employees and specification of opening and closing hours—Legislation is protected under Art. 19 (6) —Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (XV of 1958), Ss. 7 and 9—Constitutionally valid.

The provisions contained in Ss. 7 and 9 of the Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (XV of 1958), regarding the hours of employment of the employees and the opening and closing hours of the establishment, cannot be said to constitute an unreasonable restriction on the right to carry on trade or business guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and as such are protected by Art. 39 (6). AIR 1961 S C 418, Foll. Ramdhandas v. State of Punjab, 63 Punj L R 835 : (1961-62) 20 F J R 199 : (1962) 1 S C A 257 : (1961) 3 Fac L R 48: (1962) 1 S C R 852 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 102 : AIR 1961 S C 1559 (1563) (Pr 8).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) — Reasonable restriction — Right to carry on trade — Order to close shop —Validity— (U. P. Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (22 of 1947), S. 10).

It is only in the interests of the general public that a reasonable restriction can be placed upon the right to carry on any trade or business. Where a person wants to work on every day and his working in this manner does not affect any one else, it cannot be considered to be a reasonable restriction if he is stopped from earning his livelihood. The legislature never intended to include within the orbit of the Shops and Commercial Establishments Act, 1947, those shop-keepers who had no employees and who worked themselves alone. (1958) 1 Lab L J 734: 1958 All L J 333 : 1958 All W R (H C) 465 : 1958 All (Cr) R 308.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—U. P. Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (22 of 1947)—Validity.

The freedom referred to in Art. 19 (1) (g) does not mean the freedom to carry on a trade or profession in a way which may be prejudicial to the public interest. The avowed object of the U. P. Shops and Commercial Establishments Act as shown by its preamble is to provide for holidays and to regulate and lay down conditions of and the hours of employment in shops and commercial establishments. It is made applicable to all cases falling outside the purview of section 4 where labour is employed. The regulation of the hours of work of the employees or the prescription of holdidays and sick leave or the insistence on the observance of the legislative requirements to keep proper records of attendance, fines or overtime work, does not deny the freedom of profession. Its underlying purpose is to prevent what is called 'sweating of labour' by persons who by nature of their position as employers have a dominent voice and are apt to use it for their own benefit rather than for the benefit of their own employees. (1952-53) 4 F L R 203 : 1952 All W R (HC) 363 : 1952 All L J 409 : AIR 1952 All 773 (775) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)— Madras Shops and Establishments Act (36 of 1947), S. 11 (1) — Closing of shops once in a week —Shop not engaging any employee —Provision is reasonable and valid — (1958) 1 Lab L J 734 (All), Dissented from. (1959) 2 Lab L J 257 : (1959) 2 Andh W R 259 : 1959 Mad L J (Cri 698 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 604 (605 to 607) (Pr 2).

——Arts. 19(1) (g), 19 (6)—Contravention of S. 9(1) of C. P. & Berar Act (22 of 1947) by employer—Validity of S. 9 (1) — Amounts to reasonable restriction — Tests of reasonableness — Art. 19 (1) (g) not contravened. See C. P & Berar Shops and Establishments Act (22 of 1947) (As Amended in 1955), S. 9 (1). 1960 Nag L J 15 (Bom H C).

——Art. 19—Labour Laws — Madras Shops and Establishments Act —Validity —Restriction imposed by S. 11 if reasonable — Madras Shops and Establishments Act (36 of 1947), S. 11.

The restrictions in Act (36 of 1947) are not arbitrary or of an excessive nature and do not go beyond what is required in the interests of the public. Powers have also been taken to exempt shops and establishments in regard to which public interest require that they should be kept open on all days of the week. A I R 1952 All 773, Rel. on. 70 Mad L W 62 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 34 : 1957 Cr L J 374 : (1957) 1 Lab L J 524 : AIR 1957 Mad 144 (148, 149) (Pt C) (Prs 26 to 31).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Mysore Shops and Establishments Act (2 of 1948), S. 11 (1) — Validity – Provision for weekly holiday does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. See Mysore Shops and Establishments Act (2 of 1948), S. 11 (1). AIR 1957 Mysore 64.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) —Bihar Shops and Establishments Act (8 of 1954) as amended by Act (26 of 1959), S. 26 (3)—Restrictions imposed are reasonable. See Bihar Shops and Establishments Act (8 of 1954) as amended by Act (26 of 1959), S. 26 (3). AIR 1964 Pat 180 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Bihar Act (8 of 1954), S. 26 (2)— Validity of — Interest of general public — Rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) — If infringed. See Bihar Shops and Establishments Act, 1953 (8 of 1954), S. 26 (2). AIR 1958 Pat 442 (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Right to carry on one's trade or business – Restrictions placed on such right by Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958) are reasonable.

The Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act, 1958, comes in conflict with the fundamental right of a citizen to carry on his trade, business or profession unhampered. However, this right is subject to reasonable restrictions that may be placed and the Act in question is certainly a piece of legislation which puts reasonable restrictions on the individual's right to carry on trade, business or profession unhampered. Ramchander Baru Ram v. State, (1963) 1 Lab L J 620 : 65 Punj L R 1 : 1963 All Cr R 39 : 1963 All W R (Sup) 25 : ILR (1963) 1 Punj 259 : 1963 (1) Cr L J 459 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 620 : AIR 1963 Punj 148 (155) (Pt E) (Pr 19) (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (1958), Ss 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 20, 21, 30, 32 and Form B prescribed under S. 20 (1)– Validity — Provisions not ultra vires as violating fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in the interest of general public. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 7. AIR 1962 Punj 280.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope — Ajmer Act 4 of 1956 —.Validity — Act does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g), Constitution of India. See Ajmer Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (4 of 1956). AIR 1959 Raj 257 (DB).

70 (d). Other Acts.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Power to extend benefits of Factories Act to persons to whom Act has not been extended – Provision for selective application of Act —Bidi making establishments—Maharashtra Government Notification extending benefits of Act to bidi rollers in specified places—Constitutional validity of S. 85 of Act and notification — No contravention of Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (g). See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1963 S C 1591.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Punjab Trade Employees Act, S. 7 (1)—Validity. See Punjab Trade Employees Act (10 of 1940), S. 7 (1). 1961 (1) Cr L J 570 : AIR 1961 S C 418.

71. Industrial Disputes Acts.

Industrial Disputes Act (1947).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25-FFF — Validity — Restrictions imposed on freedom of employers—Not unreasonable—Tests of reasonableness—Object is to achieve social justice—Section is saved by Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25FFF. AIR 1960 S C 923.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Industrial Disputes Act, if infringes Article. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1957 S C 329.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (k) and (s) — Closure, right of — Discharge of workmen as result of closure—Nature of—There is no right to discharge—Applicability of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss. 2 (k) and 2 (s). AIR 1955 N U C (L A T l) 6115.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25F—Scope — It is a fundamental right of an employer to close down his business. (1956) 2 Lab L J 4 : (1956) 11 F J R 67 : AIR 1956 All 498 (500, 501) (Pt F) (Pr 6).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10—Not void on ground of infringement of Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (f) and (g) of Constitution. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10. AIR 1960 Assam 39 (DB).

——Art. 19 (6)—Industrial Disputes Act is valid. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Pre. AIR 1954 Assam 161 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Indutsrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25-F—Validity — Whether contravenes Art. 19 (1) (g). See Industrial Disputes Act (1947) (as amended by Act. 43 of 1953), S. 25-F. AIR 1955 Bom 294 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1957 S C 121.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — S. 25F, Cl. (b), Industrial Disputes Act — Validity — Provision does not offend against Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. AIR 1955 Bom 294, Rel. on. 57 Bom L R 1074 : 1955-2 Lab L J 501.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 36 (4)—If ultra vires.

Section 36 (4), Industrial Disputes Act does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g) and is therefore not ultra vires. AIR 1952 Bom 296 and AIR 1953 Mad 447 and AIR 1954 Mad 553, Foll. (1957) 1 Lab L J 63 : 60 Cal W N 648 : AIR 1956 Cal 353 (356) (Pt A) (Pr 12).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Standing order entitling company to take disciplinary action for misconduct against workman—Validity.

Standing Order No. 22 (8) of a company according to which the company is entitled to take disciplinary action for misconduct contemplated under Standing Order 23, in case there is drunkenness, fighting, riotous or disorderly or indecent behaviour within or without the factory does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g). 1958 Ker L T 456 : 1958 Ker L J 969 : ILR (1958) Ker 728 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 147 : AIR 1959 Ker 62 (63, 64) (Pt B) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Industrial Tribunal — Award ordering compensation instead of reinstatement — Validity—Does not violate Art. 19 (1) (g). See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10. AIR 1958 Ker 135 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25-FFF—Validity.

The provisions contained in S. 25-FFF of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, do not violate the constitutional right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. nor do they involve unreasonable restriction not in the interest of general public upon that right. AIR 1952 S C 196 and AIR 1958 S C 731 and AIR 1957 S C 38, Rel. on. 1960 M P L J 841 : 1960 M P C 510 : (1960-61) 19 F J R 77 : (1960) 1 Fac L R 326 : 1960 Jab L J 843 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 543 : AIR 1960 Madh Pra 307 (308) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Industrial Tribunal directing reinstatement of dismissed workman—No infringement of fundamental right — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 15).

An award by an Industrial Tribunal directing the reinstatement of a dismissed workman does not in any way curtail the freedom guaranteed to a citizen (employer) under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. Even on the assumption that a direction to reinstate a dismissed workman infringes the freedom to carry on business, there can be no doubt that it would be a reasonable restriction on the exercise of the right in the interests ot the general public. To bring about harmonious relationship between the employers and the employees in the interests of industrial peace is not an unreasonable restriction upon the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1953 Mad 98; AIR 1953 Mad 102, Rel. on; 52 L Ed. 436, 59 L Ed. 441. Distirg. 68 Mad L W 58 : 1955 Mad WN 372 : (1955) 2 Lab L J 470 : ILR 1955 Mad 1201 : (1955) 1 M L J 240 : AIR 1955 Mad 242 (244) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Industrial Disputes Act (14 of 1947), Preamble—Act is not unconstitutional. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Pre. AIR 1953 Mad 102.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on business — Nature and extent — Award under Industrial Disputes Act compelling continuance of business — Validity—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10.

Art. 19 (1) (g) gives every citizen a right to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business. Clause (6) of the same article confers power on the State to impose restrictions on this right. So far as such restrictions are concerned, the only question to be determined under the Constitution is whether the restrictions are reasonable and in the interests of the general public. Obviously the right conferred by Art. 19 (1) (g) to carry on any business is not absolute. Undeniably, the State has got the right to regulate any business, and this right need not be confined to "public utility business" only. Businesses which are likely to prove dangerous to public safety or public health may be subjected to severe restrictive regulations.

Where, however, a business is admittedly not a public utility service and which has not received any special consideration from the Government, an award made by the Industrial Tribunal appointed under the Industrial Disputes Act cannot direct the management of an industry to continue to carry on any business against their will, as it follows from Art. 19 (1) (g) that if a citizen has a right to carry on business, he must be at liberty not to carry it on if he so chooses. Such an award is therefore void to that extent as it is inconsistent with the Constitution. Case law referred. 65 Mad L W 269 : 1952 Mad W N 293 : 1952-1 Mad L J 481 : 1951-52 F J R 420: (1952) 1 Lab L J 364 : AIR 1953 Mad 98 (101, 102) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10, 13) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Pre. — Validity — Act if contravenes Arts. 14, 19 and 31, Constitution of India. See Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, Preamble. AIR 1951 Mad 974 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f), (g) — Award without consent of employers—Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, S. 15.

It cannot be said that Act 14 of 1947, in so far as it makes the employers bound to act in accordance with the terms of an award, which was passed without the employers being consenting parties to the reference and in spite of the protests of the employers is ultra vires by reason of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution. There is no restriction on the carrying on of a trade or business by the cinema employers, as a result of the Industrial Disputes Act. (1951) I Mad L J 527 : 52 Cri L J 744 : 1951 Mad W N 445 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 125 : 64 Mad L W 620 : (1951) 52 F J R 95: AIR 1951 Mad 191 (194) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 — Strike — Nature of right (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 24).

Every strike is not illegal and the workers enjoy the fundamental right to resort to strike whenever they are so pleased in order to express their grievances or to make certain demands. This fundamental right cannot in any way, be limited by standing orders. Strikes are illegal under the Indian law only when penalties have been imposed for them for contravention of the provisions of Ss. 22, 23 and 24 of the Act. 1958 Cri L J 81: AIR 1958 Pat 51 (56, 57) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Reasonable restrictions—(Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (3)).

Where the business of a person is not of the nature of public utility service nor has he taken any assistance from the Government to start his business, interference by the Government in the matter of the continuance of his business cannot be deemed to be reasonable. 1953 R L W 569 : ILR (1953) 3 Raj 363: AIR 1953 Raj 188 (192) (Pt C) (Pr 22) (DB).

[Impliedly overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1811].

——Art. 19—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 36 — Whether violates fundamental rights.

No question of violation of Art. 19 (1) (g) is involved in the section. S. 36 does not violate the fundamental right given by Art. 14 also. 1950 Ker L T 121 : AIR 1951 Trav Co 203 (210, 211) (Pt E) (Pr 22).

Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 14 — Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), S. 36 (4) — Right to practise any profession — Right of an advocate to appear before Industrial Tribunal—Restriction under S. 36 (4) not unreasonable—(Bar Councils Act (1926), Ss. 9 and 14). 1954 Mad W N 18 : 67 Mad L W 54 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 261 : ILR (1954) Mad 800 : AIR 1954 Mad 553 (555, 556) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 9) (DB).

Bombay Industrial Relations Act (1947).

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Unreasonable restriction —Bombay Industrial Relations Act, S. 3 (18)—Validity.

The fact that power is given to the industrial Court, which is a quasi-judicial tribunal to decide whether contract labour should be abolished or not would not make the definition of 'industrial matter' in S. 3 (18), an unreasonable restriction on the fundamental right of the employer to carry on trade. The matter being entrusted to a quasi-judicial tribunal would be decided after giving both parties full opportunity of presenting their case on the question of reasonable restriction. The tribunal would always go into the reasonableness of the matter and if it comes to the conclusion that the mode of employment desired by labour is not reasonable it will not allow it. Godavari Sugar Mills v. Kopergaon Taluka Sakhar Kamgar Sabha, (1961) 1 Lab L J 313 : (1961) 2 S C J 323 : (1961) 3 S C R 342 : (1961) 2 Fac L R 180 : AIR 1961 S C 1016 (1018, 1019) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Bombay Industrial Relations Act, S. 114 (2)—Validity—If unreasonable restrictions on right to carry on trade—Social Justice. See Bombay Industrial Relations Act (11 of 1947), S. 114 (2). ILR (1958) Bom 176.

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 977.]

U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (1947).

● ——Art. 19 (6) — U. P. Industrial Disqutes Act (1947), S. 2 (i) — Validity — Amounts to a restriction in the interest of general public within Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 2 (i). AIR 1964 S C 355.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 3—Government can pass order under Cl. (b) even after an industrial dispute has arisen — Clause (b) is not violative of Art. 14 of the Constitution—Order passed by the Government does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 3. AIR 1961 S C 420.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Section 3 of the U. P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is not invalid on the ground that it offends Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 of the Constitution. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947) S. 3. AIR 1954 All 538 (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 420.]

72. Clause (1) (g)—Illustrative examples.

● ——Arts. 19 and 21 — If infringed by Madhya Bharat Gambling Act (51 of 1949), Ss. 6 and 8.

The law to root out gambling cannot but be in the public interest. Such a law must of necessity provide for special procedure, but so long as it is not arbitrary and contains adequate safeguards it cannot be successfully assailed. The United State of Gwalior, Indore and Malwa (Madhya Bharat) Gambling Act (1949) contains sufficient safeguards to ensure that there is no danger to any one except to those who are proved to the satisfaction of the Court to keep a gaming house or who can be presumed unless the contrary be proved to be there for the purpose of gaming. Sections 6 and 8 of the Act are constitutional and cannot be challenged under Arts. 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India (1950). Krishnachandra v. The State of Madhya Pradesh, 1963 (2) S C J 722 : (1963) 1 S C W R 574 : 1963 Mah L J 624 : 1963 M P L J 656 : 1963 Jab L J 644 : 1963 Mad L J (Cr) 632 : (1964) 1 S C R 765 : 1965 (1) Cri L J 347 : AIR 1965 S C 307 (310, 311) (Prs 7, 8, 9, 10).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Interference with right of bare management of educational institution — No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g). Sidhrajbhai v. State of Gujarat, 1962 Ker L T (SC) 135 : (1963) 2 S C A 394 : AIR 1963 SC 540 (544) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (1) (g) — Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 8 (1)—Constitutional validity — Rule does not suffer from vice of excessive delegation of power to exempt—Notifications under—Notifications Nos. 74 of 1959, dated 31-7-1959 and 70 of 1960, dated 30-4-1960 — Validity—Excise duty on cotton fabrics produced on power looms — Exemption granted to co-operative societies of weavers — No violation of Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and (g) of Constitution. See Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 8 (1). AIR 1963 S C 98.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 38 (1) and (3) (b) (iii)—Banking Companies — Special law dealing with winding up—Validity — Whether discriminatory—Provision making Reserve Bank sole judge to decide whether affairs of banking company were being conducted prejudicially to interests of depositors and making it mandatory for High Court to order winding up when application was made by Reserve Bank — No violation of Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 301. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 S C 1371.

● ——Art. 19 (6) — Bihar Preservation and Improvement of Animals Rules (1960), R. 3 — Validity — Imposes disproportionate restrictions on fundamental rights — Held invalid to that extent. See Bihar Preservation and Improvement of Animals Rules (1960), R. 3. AIR 1961 S C 448.

● ——Art. 19 (6) — Bihar Preservation and Improvement of Animals Act, 1955 (2 of 1956), S. 3— Validity —Usefulness of bulls, bullocks and buffaloes—Proper period — Age limit for slaughter increased to 25 — Operates as unreasonable restriction on fundamental rights of butchers — Held invalid to that extent. See Bihar Preservation and (Improvement of Animals) Act (2 of 1956), S. 3. AIR 1961 S C 448.

● ——Art. 19 (6)—U. P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act (1 of 1956), S. 3 — Validity — Slaughter of bulls and bullocks — Provisions practically putting total ban — Held amounted to unreasonable restriction on rights of butchers and to that extent void. See U. P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act (1 of 1956), S. 3. AIR 1961 S C 448.

● ——Art. 19 (6) — Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Cattle Preservation Act (18 of 1959), S. 4 (2) (a) and R. 5 — Validity — Slaughter of bulls, bullocks and buffaloes—Conditions laid down by section—Amount to unreasonable restriction on butcher's rights—Held invalid to that extent. See Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Cattle Preservation Act (18 of 1959), S. 4 (2) (a). AIR 1961 S C 448.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Cattle Preservation Act (18 of 1959), Ss. 5, 4 (3) — Validity — Slaughter of bulls, bullocks and buffaloes —Provisions putting an end to trade — Held invalid. See Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Cattle Preservation Act (18 of 1959), S. 5. AIR 1961 S C 448.

● ——Art. 19 (6) — Reasonable restrictions on fundamental rights under Art. 19 — Test of reasonableness — "Interests of the general public" — What amounts to — Rules of evidence casting burden of proof upon person from whom specified goods have been seized, to establish that they are not smuggled — Whether violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and is not saved by Cls. (5) and (6) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A — Not constitutionally invalid. A I R 1959 Mad 142, Reversed; Decision of K. T. Desai J. in 62 Bom L R 1043, Overruled. Collector of Customs v. Sampathuchetty, (1962) 1 S C J 68 : 1962 Mad L J (Cri) 1 : (1962) 1 Mad L J (SC) 43 : (1962) 1 Andh W R (SC) 43 : (1962) 3 S C R 786 : 1962 (1) Cri L J 364 : AIR 1962 S C 316 (332, 333, 334) (Pt A) (Prs 35, 36).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—Essential Commodities Act, S. 3 — Central Government Notification, dated 30-7-58 — Validity. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3. AIR 1959 S C 626.

● —Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 48—Bihar Act (2 of 1956), U. P. Act 1 of 1956 and C. P. and Berar Act 52 of 1949—Validity.

The last part of the directive principles embodied in Art. 48 requires the State to take steps for prohibiting the slaughter of the special animals and this directive can only be carried out by prohibiting the petitioners and other butchers (Kasais) from slaughtering them. There can be no mistake about the directness of these legislations vis-a-vis the petitioners and other butchers and the effect of these legislations on their rights is direct and instantaneous as soon as they are brought into force. A I R 1950 S C 27, Disting. Mahomed Hanif Quareshi v. State of Bihar, 1958 S C A 783 : 1958 S C J 975 : (1958) Mad L J (Cr) 727 : (1959) S C R 629 : AIR 1958 S C 731 (742) (Pt I) (Pr 17).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bihar Act (2 of 1956) — Validity — (Bihar Preservation and Improvement of Animals Act (2 of 1956), Preamble and S. 3).

The Bihar Act in so far as it prohibits the slaughter of cows of all ages and calves of cows and calves of buffaloes, male and female, is constitutionally valid and in so far as it totally prohibits the slaughter of she-buffaloes, breeding bulls and working bullocks (cattle and buffalo), without prescribing any test or requirement as to their age or usefulness, it infringes the rights of the petitioners (butchers) under Art. 19 (1) (g) and is to that extent void. Mahomed Hanif Quareshi v. State of Bihar, 1958 S C A 783 : 1958 S C J 975 : (1958) Mad L J (Cr) 727 : 1959 S C R 629 : AIR 1958 S C 731 (755, 756) (Pt K) (Pr 45).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — U. P. Act (1 of 1956) — Validity.

The U. P. Act is constitutionally valid in so far as it prohibits the slaughter of cows of all ages and calves of cows, male and female, but in so far as it purports to totally prohibit the slaughter of breeding bulls and working bullocks without prescribing any test or requirement as to their age or usefulness, it offends against Art. 19 (1) (g) and is to that extent void. Mahomed Hanif Quareshi v. State of Bihar, 1958 S C A 783 : 1958 S C J 975 : (1958) Mad L J (Cr) 727 : (1959) S C R 629 : AIR 1958 S C 731 (756) (Pt L) (Pr 46).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — C. P. and Berar Act (52 of 1949)—Validity (C. P. and Berar (Animal Preservation Act (52 of 1949)) (as amended by M P Acts 23 of 1951 and (10 of 1956), S. 4).

The C. P. and Berar Act is constitutionally valid in so far as it prohibits the slaughter of cows of all ages and calves of cows, male and female, but it is void in so far as it totally prohibitis the slaughter of breeding bulls and working bullocks without prescribing any test or requirement as to their age or usefulness. The Act is valid in so far as it regulates the slaughter of other animals under certificates granted by the authorities mentioned therein. Mahomed Hanif Quareshi v. State of Bihar, 1958 S C A 783 : 1958 S C J 975 : (1958) Mad L J (Cri) 727 : 1959 S C R 629 : AIR 1958 S C 731 (756) (Pt M) (Pr 47).

● —Art. 19 (6) — Scope of Bombay Lotteries and Prize Competitions Control and Tax Act (54 of 1948) —Validity—Whether violates Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 301. —Act does not purport directly to interfere with trade and commerce—It controls and restricts betting and gambling. State of Bombay v. R. M. D. Chamarbaugwala, 1957 S C J 607 : (1957) 2 Andh W R (SC) 87 : (1957) 2 M L J (SC) 87 : (1957) M L J (Cr) 558 (SC) : AIR 1957 S C 699 (718 to 722) (Pt H) (Prs 36, 42, 43, 44, 46, 47).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and 301—Protection of lawful trading activities—Persons carrying gambling competitions—Right to protection under Art. 19 (1) (g)—(Prize Competitions Act (42 of 1955), Ss. 4, 5, 20—Rules under s. 20, Rr. 11, 12).

Trade and commerce protected by Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 301 are only those activities which could be regarded as lawful trading activities. As gambling is not trade but res extra commercium, it does not fall within the purview of those Articles. Hence as regards gambling competitions, the petitioners under Art. 32 cannot seek the protection of Art. 19 (1) (g), and the question whether the restrictions enacted in Ss. 4 and 5, Prize Competitions Act, 1955 and Rr. 11 and 12 framed under S. 20 are reasonable and in the interests of the public within Art. 19 (6) does not therefore arise for consideration. Civil Appeal No. 134 of 1956 (SC), Foll. Chamarbaugwalla v. Union of India, 59 Bom L R 973 : (1957) 2 M L J (SC) 76 : 1957 S C J 593 : (1957) M L J (Cr) 547 : (1957) 2 Andhra W R 76 : (1957) M P C 630 : 1957 S C A 912 : 1957 S C R 930 : AIR 1957 S C 628 (631) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

● —Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Scope and Applicability—Prize Competitions involving substantial skill — Restrictions on, whether saved by Art. 19 (6) — Prize Competitions Act (42 of 1955), Ss. 4, 5, 20 — Rules under S. 20, Rr. 11, 12).

Even assuming that the Act applies to prize competitions which involves substantial skill, they are business activities the protection of which is guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g). The restrictions imposed by Ss. 4 and 5 of the Act and Rr. 11 and 12 framed under S. 20 in respect of such competitions are not reasonable restrictions enacted in the public interest and as such are not saved by Article 19 (6). Chamarbaugwalla v. Union of India, 59 Bom L R 973 : (1957) 2 M L J (S C) 76 : (1957) S C J 593 : (1957) M L J (Cr) 547 : (1957) 2 Andhra W R (S C) 76 : (1957) M P C 630 : (1957) S C A 912 : 1957 S C R 930 : AIR 1957 S C 628 (631) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● —Art. 19 (1) (g)—Ajmer Laws Regulation (1877), S. 40—Rules under R. 1—Validity—Sub-rules (1) to (4) of R. 1 are invalid. See Ajmer Laws Regulation (3 of 1877), S. 40. AIR 1955 SC 188.

—Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Prize competitions — Restrictions on entries and prizes offered—Restrictions are reasonable and in public interest—Prize Competitions Act (1955), S. 4 — Provision saved by Art. 19 (6).

While laying down the reasonability or unreasonability of the restriction, the Courts must take a liberal view and should not proceed with the sole intention to find fault in the enactment. If one school of thought could in good faith place the restriction, it must be held to be reasonable though another class of persons may take a contrary view and may not impose any such restriction.

Prize competitions kindle gambling outlook among people and induce them to submit entries far in excess of their means. If, therefore the prizes offered, and the number of entries permitted, is restricted to a smaller number, the restriction so imposed is not only reasonable but is also in the interest of the public. The prohibition contained in S. 4 of the Act is, therefore within constitutional limits and is valid. 1964 All L J 581 : 1964 (2) Cri L J 632 : AIR 1964 All 572 (574) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 10, 11).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20—Constitutional Validity — Provision abridges fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and infringes Art. 14 - It does not however violate Art. 19 (1) (g) — Constitution of India, Arts. 13, 14 and 19 (1) (d), (e) and (g). See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. AIR 1963 All 71.

[Reversed in AIR 1964 S C 416.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960), S. 2 (1) (b) — Does not make unreasonable inroad into fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) —See Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960), S. 2 (1) (b). 1962 (1) Cri L J 629 (All).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Electricity Act (1910), S. 37 — Rules under R. 45 — Notification under—U. P. Govt. Notification No. 877/E 1-86-1938, D/- 2 6-1942, Cl. 21 —Cl. 21. violates Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. See Electricity Act (1910), S. 37. A I R 1960 All 87.

——Arts. 19 and 226—Deprivation of right—Certificate for profession of guide—Cancellation—Effect.

A person can carry on his profession of guide whether any certificate from the Superintendent of Police is held or not by him. The certificate is in the nature of a testimonial of good conduct granted to him by the authorities. No person can claim as of right that a certificate shall be granted to him or that any certificate once granted to him shall be continued. There is no right either with respect to it. It was not necessary for the Senior Superintendent of Police to have given an opportunity to the petitioner or to hear him before cancelling the certificate, more so because its cancellation in no way affected the right of the petitioner to carry on the profession of a guide. AIR 1959 All 573 (574) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Restrictions on the trade or profession of prostitutes — Validity of—Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20.

The work of a prostitute is a profession, occupation or trade within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution of India and the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act of 1956 has imposed restrictions on the same. But those restrictions cannot be said to have the effect of prohibiting the carrying on of the profession or trade of a prostitute. Ss. 3 to 10, 12, 18 and 20 are penal in character. But none of them has the effect of stopping the profession or trade of a prostitute altogether. Upon an examination it is clear that although there may be some substance in the complaint as to the unconstitutionality of S. 20 and S. 4 (2) the provisions of the other sections are not unreasonable. As Ss. 20 and 4 (2) can be severed from the rest of the Act the entire Act does not fail because these two sections may be unconstitutional. 1959 All Cr R 427 : 1959 All W R (H C) 509 : AIR 1959 All 57 (59, 60, 61, 66, 67) (Pt B) (Prs 2, 3, 4, 20).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 416.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Bye-law prohibiting slaughter of animals,

The bye-law framed by the Town Area Committee of Amin Nagar Sarai on 23-3-48 prohibiting slaughter of animals and sale of their meat does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1952 All 753 (FB), Foll. 1958 Cr L J 115 (117) (Pt H) (Pr 17) (All).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (65 of 1949), Preamble—Act is not inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (g). See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act 1949, Preamble. A I R 1953 All 613.

——Art. 19 — Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 10 — Validity cannot be attacked—Restriction reasonable. See Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 10. A I R 1964 Andh Pra 501.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g), (5) and (6) — Andhra Pradesh Notification, G. O. Ms. No. 1376, Revenue, D/- 5-9-1962 — Restrictions imposed by Notification in respect of Chloral Hydrate are reasonable and in the interest of general public - Notification cannot be challenged as violative of rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). (1964) 1 Andh L T 285 : A I R 1964 Andh Pra 430 (433) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19 (5) and 19 (6) — Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20—Constitutional validity—S. 20 does not offend Art. 14 or Art. 19 (1) (d), (e) and (g) read with Art. 19 (5) and (6) of the Constitution of India—See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. A I R 1964 Andh Pra 400.

——Art. 19 (1) (g); (6) — Section 99A, Criminal P. C., is saved by Art. 19 (6) — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 99A).

(Bhimasankaram, J.) Preventing a book-seller from publishing a matter which has the effect of disrupting the public order is clearly no more than imposing a reasonable restriction on the exercise of his right to carry on business. Section 99-A does not infringe any of the rights guaranteed by Art. 19 of the Constitution. N. Veerabrahmam v. State Andh Pra., 1959 Andh L T 575 : (1959) 2 Andh W R 269 : 1959 Mad L J (Cri) 703 : 1959 Cri L J 1280 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 572 (582, 583) (Pt I) (Pr 53) (SB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1662.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (f) — Madras Act 29 of 1949 — Constitutional validity — If violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Madras Essential Articles Control and Requisitioning (Temporary Powers) Act (29 of 1949) (As Amended by Andhra Act 1 of 1955). A I R 1959 Andh Pra 538 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (f) — Search of premises of person and seizure of documents, books etc., or property belonging to him — Constitute invasions of fundamental rights—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 37 (2) —Validity — Section is unconstitutional being violative of Art. 19 (1) (g) — Section does not amount to reasonable restriction within Art. 19 (6) — Per Majority. S. Doongarmal Agency v. K. E. Johnson, (1964) 52 I T R 637 : A I R 1964 Assam 16 (19, 27, 39, 40, 47, 48, 50) (Pt B) (Prs 72, 107, 170, 176, 197, 204, 205) (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (f) — Villagers holding market on land belonging to Government — Permissive user—District Council taking over management of market and right to collect tolls under Act — No infringement of fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (g), or Art. 19 (1) (f)—(United Khasi Jaintia Hills Autonomous District (Management and Control of Markets) Act (5 of 1953).

The land on which the market was held belonged to the Government. At no point of time the villagers acquired any interest in the land. The Government permitted the villagers to hold market on the land and to levy and collect tolls from those who carried on business on that land. The Government retained full control over the affairs of the market and also reserved to itself the right of stopping villagers from holding the market and levying and collecting tolls. This indicated that the right which the villagers acquired was only permissive and the ownership of the market vested in the Government which owned the land. Under the United Khasi Jaintia Hills Autonomous District (Management and Control of Markets) Act (5 of 1953) the District Council took over the management of the market. In a writ petition for the issue of certiorari by the villagers:

Held, that the villagers could not be said to have any common law right in the land to hold market which might be regarded as a property and the question of applicability of Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 of the Constitution would thus not arise.

Held, also that since the District Council had in no way restrained the villagers from selling their goods on the land and they had still right to carry on their business on the land and the District Council had only taken over the management of the market and the right to levy and collect tolls, it could not be said that any right of the villagers to carry on business conferred by Art. 19 (1) (g) had been infringed by the impugned order.

Held further even assuming that the right claimed by the villagers was a right to carry on business and Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution was attracted, unless they were able to establish that the Act under which the District Council exercised its right was ultra vires, the order passed by the District Council in the exercise of its powers under the Act could not give any right to the villagers to get a relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1960) 12 Assam 26.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 14—Arms Act, S. 18 (b)— Whether contravenes Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution (Quaere). See Arms Act, S. 18 (b). AIR 1955 Assam 183.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (a) and (2) — Notice under S. 11, Press (Objectionable Matter) Act by Assam Government on certificate by Legal Rembrancer—Validity—Validity of S. 11. See Press (Objectionable Matters) Act (1951), S. 11. A I R 1954 Assam 193 (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (f) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A—Section does not contravene fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and is not invalid. 62 Bom L R 634 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 229 : A I R 1961 Bom 48 (55, 56) (Pt E) (Pr 23).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Registration Act (1908), S. 80-G (W. B.)—Rules under R. 11—Validity—Rule does not infringe fundamental right of licenced deed writers guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) and does not violate Art. 14 — No discrimination between two classes of deed writers created. See Registration Act (1908), S. 80-G (W. B.). A I R 1963 Cal 124.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Essential Commodities Act (1956), S. 3 (1) — Validity — No excessive delegation without guides — Clause imposes reasonable restriction within Art. 19 (6) of Constitution. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (1). 1963 (1) Cri L J 49 : A I R 1963 Cal 61.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Calcutta Port Act (3 of 1890), S. 126 — Stevedores — Licenses issued to — Bye-laws under—Bye-law 4 A—Calcutta Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Scheme, 1956, Cl. 15 (1) (c)—New Bye-law 4-A is invalid having not been framed in accordance with S. 126—Old Bye-law and Cl. 15 (1) (c) of the Scheme are also invalid being violative of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. See Calcutta Port Act (3 of 1890), S. 126. A I R 1961 Cal 365.

[Reversed in A I R 1962 Cal 530.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19 (1) (d), 19 (5), 19 (6) — Police Act (1861), S. 17—Appointment as police officer under—Validity—Does not contravene Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (1) (d). See Police Act (1861), S. 17. AIR 1958 Cal 365.

——Art. 19 (6)—Prescribing foreign qualification does not constitute extra-territorial operation of law. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 5922.

——Art. 19 (6) — W. B. Clinical Establishments Act (56 of 1950)—Rules framed under Rule 11 (11) — Prescribing foreign qualification — Discrimination between citizen possessing foreign qualification and citizen not possessing same, See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 5922.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—West Bengal Clinical Establishments Act (56 of 1950)—Act does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 5922.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Validity of West Bengal Clinical Establishments Rules (1951) (as amended by Notification No. 2210/2-A — 9/52 — 9.8-1952), R. 11 (iii) (c). See West Bengal Clinical Establishments Act (56 of 1950), S. 9. AIR 1954 Cal 571.

——Arts. 19(1) (g) and 19 (6) — West Bengal Clinical Establishments Act (1950) — Constitutionality. See West Bengal Clinical Establishments Act (56 of 1950). AIR 1954 Cal 138.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Regulations under S. 25, Universities Act do not violate the Article. See Universities Act (1904), S. 25. AIR 1953 Cal 783.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3 (2) (c) (d), (h), (i), and (j) are valid. 57 Cal W N 397 : A I R 1953 Cal 548 (556) (Pt F) (Prs 35, 36).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Keeping police watch over business activities of a person — If breach of his fundamantal right.

To keep a watch over the activities of a particular baths and massage clinic by the posting of policemen in plain clothes near about the premises where such business is carried on to see whether any unlawful acts are being committed in the said premises, will not amount to a breach of the fundamental rights of the persons who carry on such business of baths and massage clinic. 1952 Cri L J 345: I L R (1952) 1 Cal 94 : AIR 1952 Cal 137 (138, 139) (Prs 10, 11).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 14, 15—West Bengal Hindu Social Disabilities Removal Act (1943), Preamble—Validity of Act — Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g). See West Bengal Hindu Social Disabilities Removal Act (37 of 1948), Pre. AIR 1951 Cal 167 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 35-B (1) (b) — Provision for previous approval of Reserve Bank being in the interests of depositors and general public, restrictions imposed are reasonable within Art. 19. See Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 35-B (1) (b). 1964 Ker L J 1150 : (1965) 35 Com Cas 299 : AIR 1966 Ker 6.

——Art. 19 (g) and (6)—Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 49-A — Law prohibiting private bankers from receiving deposits withdrawable by cheque—Legislation satisfies test of reasonableness under Art. 19 (6).

The provisions of the Banking Companies Act clearly indicate that the object of the Legislature was to control the business of banking. It was essential that certain restrictions had to be imposed on the receipt of deposits by private banks. Even the restrictions imposed by S. 49-A do not in any way, interfere with the private bankers' activity to carry on their banking business in other respects. The only restriction that has been placed is to prohibit the receipt of deposit of money withdrawable by cheque. No restriction or prohibition has been placed by S. 49-A in respect of receipt of deposits of money repayable by draft, order or otherwise.

Section 49-A in so far as it prohibits private bankers from receiving any deposits from the public withdrawable by cheque, amply satisfies the test of reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public under Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. A I R 1959 S C 300 and AIR 1960 S C 430 and (1952) S C J 253 : (1952) 2 Mad L J 135; A I R 1953 S C 196 and A I R 1960 S C 468 and A I R 1961 Mad 8, Rel. on. I L R (1961) 1 Ker 551 : 1961 Ker L J 725 : AIR 1962 Ker 267 (282) (Pt B) (Prs 111, 112).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 38 (3) (b) (iii) — Provisions of, though affect fundamental rights granted under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution are saved by Cls. (5) and (6) of the Article. See Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 38 (3) (b) (iii). AIR 1961 Ker 268.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Travancore Education Code (1909 M. E.), R. 146 (a) — Madras Grant-in-aid Code, R. 2—Madras Elementary Schools Rules, Part II, Chap. 1, R. 14– Grant-in-aid—Legal right to — Effect of on right under Art. 19 (1) (g) — Discrimation. See Travancore Education Code (1909), R. 146 (a). A I R 1958 Ker 290.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Custom giving exclusive right to some chamars to take carcasses of animals dying in village—Custom violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Custom is void and unenforceable. 1962 Jab L J 58 : 1962 M P L J (Notes) 115 : AIR 1962 M P 275 (276) (Prs 12, 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—M. B. Krishi Udyogi Pashu Rakshan Vidhan (41 of 2006 Smt.)—Validity—Act is not ultra vires—Prosecution for slaughter of cows and calves is valid. See Madhya Bharat Krishi Udyogi Pashu Rakshan Vidhan (41 of 2006 Smt.), S. 6. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 217.

——Art. 19 (6)—Drugs Act (23 of 1940) (as amended by Act 11 of 1955), S. 18 (a) (iii)—Validity—Right of purchasers to know what they purchase — Requirement of S. 18 (a) (iii) to indicate ingredients on container—Held reasonable restriction—Amendment held valid. See Drugs Act (1940) (as amended by Act 11 of 1955), S. 18 (a) (iii). AIR 1960 Madh Pra 389.

——Art. 19 (1) (f)and (g)—Printing and publishing of school text books by Government — Right of private publishers under Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) not affected. 1959 M P L J 525 : 1958 M P L J (Notes) 132 : 1959 M P C 485 : 1959 Jab L J 498 : A I R 1959 M P 183 (186) (Pt B) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 301—Scope—Madhya Bharat Customs Regulation Ordinance (8 of 1948)—Notification No. 7 of 1948, dated 14-8-1948 — Validity — If contravenes Art. 19 (1) (g). See Madhya Bharat Customs Regulation Ordinance Smt. 2005 (No. 8 of 1948), S. 9. 1958 Cri L J 181 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 33 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—State publishing textbooks—If infringement of fundamental right. See M. P. Secondary Education Board Act (12 of 1951), S. 18. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 132.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act, S. 99 (2), if violate, fundamental rights.

Sub-section (2) of S. 99 of the C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act, 1922 does not give the executive authority an absolute power to refuse sanction. One of the conditions on which sanction can be refused is that the construction of the building should not be against the interests of the residents of the locality. The sub-section therefore is not in contravention of Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution. The restrictions imposed are reasonable restrictions. 1957 Jab L J 86 : 1957 M P C 32 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 50 (51, 52) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 19 (6)—Resolution of Port Trust Board "to take over export cargo and do the landing on shore" is not ultra vires—Provisions of Art. 19 (1) (g) not infringed — "State" in Art. 12 includes "Local authority". See Madras Port Trust Act (2 of 1905), S. 39. AIR 1961 Mad 234 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (b) and 14—Madras City Police Act (3 of 1888), S. 41—Validity. See Madras City Police Act (3 of 1888), S. 41. AIR 1959 Mad 63.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 14—Violation of — Special permission granted to certain cooperative societies to export quantities of dry chillies. (Imports and Exports (Control) Act (1947), S. 3) — (Exports (Control) Order (1954), Cl. 7). See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1958 Mad 218.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 42 (1)—Validity of.

Though S. 42 (1) of the Act does in effect impose a vicarious liability on the agent of a non-resident principal to be assessed to tax leviable on the income of the non-resident principal and to pay the tax so assessed and that prima facie constitutes a restriction on the agent's right to carry on his business, that restriction is not outside the purview of Art 19 (6). The agent pays the tax, but the real liability discharged by that payment is that of his principal, who is no doubt not resident in the taxable territories. The imposition of liability to tax on the income of a non-resident principal cannot obviously be an unreasonable restriction on the right to trade, either of the principal or of his agent. The imposition of that liability on the agent, not to the exclusion of the principal, but normally where the non-resident principal cannot be reached at all, cannot be viewed as an unreasonable restriction placed on the right of the agent to engage himself in the business of his choice. Section 42 (1) shifts the incidence of tax to the agent in the circumstances mentioned therein. To that extent it provides the machinery for the levy and collection of the tax lawfully due. That does not constitute any unreasonable restriction on the rights of the agent. Section 42 (1) does not violate the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19(1)(g). 70 Mad L W 755: (1957) 2 Mad L J 421 : (1958) 33 I T R 154 : I L R (1957) Mad 1186: A I R 1958 Mad 1 (6, 7, 8) (Pt D) (Prs 27, 28, 32, 33) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Madras Cultivating Tenants' Protection Act is not repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (g).

The freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) is not one to carry on an occupation or business in any particular place, but the clause is designed to ensure that no unreasonable fetters shall be imposed if one were minded to engage one-self in it. The right of an owner personally to cultivate his land is not a right to carry on an occupation but only a right to hold or enjoy the property. This apart, there is no restriction on his right to carry on business as an agriculturist because he can still carry it on provided he can acquire land on which to do so. The impugned Act is not, therefore, repugnant to Art. 19 (1) (g). 70 Mad L W 221: (1957) 1 Mad L J 307: I L R (1957) Mad 571 : A I R 1957 Mad 333 (337) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Section 16 (3) (a) (ii), Income-tax Act does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g). See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a) (ii). AIR 1954 Mad 1120 (DB).

——Art. 19 (6)—Imports and Exports (Control) Act (18 of 1947), S. 3—Restrictions on export trade issued —Validity — Restrictions are reasonable within the meaning of Art. 19 (6), Constitution of India and are valid. See Imports and Exports (Control) Act (1947), S. 3. AIR 1952 Mad 840.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 25 and 13—Ruler granting exclusive right to person to practise priesthood in certain villages—Order is not a grant but has a force of law and offends against Art. 25 and becomes void. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1960 Manipur 34.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226—Right to trade in beef —License granted to petitioner by Municipality on certain conditions — Cancellation of license without any allegation or proof as to breach of conditions— Opportunity to show cause not given to petitioner— Fundamental right to trade is violated by such cancellation— Order quashed.

The right in trade in beef, as in any other commodity is without doubt, a fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. But such right can certainly be subjected to reasonable restrictions. AIR 1958 S C 731, Rel. on. The right to trade in beef being a fundamental right, the cancellation of a license granted thereof should be made on some reasonable ground and no ground can be considered reasonable unless the licensee is given an opportunity to show cause against the charges levelled against him. An arbitrary power to cancel a license cannot be considered as a reasonable restriction on the right to trade. The reasonable restriction provision not only governs the conditions to be imposed but must be held to apply also to the conditions relating to the cancellation of the license. If absolute power is granted to any authority to cancel a license granted in respect of a trade, then, the contents of the fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) would become illusory. Where the license to trade in beef granted to the petitioner by the Municipality was cancelled by it apparently to respect the sentiments of the Hindu public of the locality and there was neither any allegation nor enquiry nor proof as to the violation of conditions of license by the petitioner who was not given any opportunity to show cause, the order cancelling the license has to be quashed under Art. 226. A I R 1965 Mys 281 (282, 283) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (g)—Election to Central Council of Institute of Chartered Accountants of India—Prohibition imposed by Notification against canvassing of votes by visiting places of business or residence of voters or in any other manner—No unreasonable restriction on any fundamental right (1964) 1 Com L J 289 : AIR 1965 Mys 112 (116) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Mysore Town Municipalities Act (21 of 1951), S 150 (2) — Validity — Does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. See Municipalities — Mysore Town Municipalities Act (21 of 1951), S. 150 (2). I L R (1961) Mys 572.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226—Hyderabad Agricultural Markets Act (2 of 1339-F), S. 5—Rules under R. 40—Tax and fee—Distinction—Petitioners having oil mill at R — Petitioners purchasing groundnut from other places for their own use — Levy of fee on groundnut by Market Committee of R—Legality. See Hyderabad Agricultural Markets Act (2 of 1339-F), S. 5. A I R 1960 Mys 73.

——Art. 19 (6) — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 249 (3) — Constitutional validity. See Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 249 (3). (1959) 37 Mys L J 613.

——Art. 19 — C. P. Municipalities Act, S. 140 — Exercise of power — Opening slaughter house is discretionary — Municipal Committee closing down slaughter house for beef and cancelling license for same — No interference under Art. 226. See Municipalities—C. P. Municipalities Act, S. 140. ('51) 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 112.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Orissa Timber and Forest Produce Transit Rules (1958), Rr. 4 and 6—Constitutionality — Rules do not offend Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) or Art. 301. 29 Cut L T 150 : I L R (1962) Cut 59 : AIR 1963 Orissa 24 (26, 27) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Order requiring compulsory exhibition of approved films of certain minimum length constitutes a serious encroachment on the right of the holder of license for running cinema under Cinematograph Act 1918 to carry on his business. A I R 1954 S C 747, Foll. — (Cinematograph Act (1918), Cl. 6 (a)). AIR 1955 N U C (Orissa) 6085.

——Aft. 19 (1) (g) — Restriction on cinema hours in the interests of public peace, imposed throughout the district without distinction or discrimination. Held, was not unreasonable. AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 6085.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Grant of ferry right by District Board—Settlement of paimali rights by Government—If infringes Art. 19 (1) (g) — (Bengal Ferries Act (I of 1885)).

A settlee of a ferry right has, apart from the right guaranteed to him under the Bengal Ferries Act and the Rules thereunder, a right to use the lands on both sides of the river so as to enable him to embark and disembark his passengers, by way of easement of necessity. But beyond that he does not get any right over the said lands. The proprietor of the soil is entitled to the use of the soil in any way he likes provided it does not interfere with the enjoyment of the ferry rights acquired by the petitioner under a lease from the District Board. This, however, does not mean that the Government cannot levy any toll for the use of the khas mahal lands or settle the paimali lands independent of the settlement of the ferry right by the District Board. The two rights are different and independent of each other.

Held, that the Government was perfectly entitled to settle the paimali rights over the lands. Such a settlement did not infringe the fundamental right of the petitioner guaranteed to him under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India. 1958 B L J R 343 : AIR 1959 Pat 72 (74, 75) (Pt D) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Bihar Mica Act, 1947 (10 of 1948), S. 6 (6)—Validity. See Bihar Mica Act, 1947 (10 of 1948), S. 6 (6). AIR 1958 Pat 496 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Coal Mines Regulations (1926), Reg. 48—Validity—Power to suspend or cancel certificate — Effect — If violation of Art. 19 (1) (g). See Coal Mines Regulations (1926), Reg. 48. A I R 1958 Pat 378 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 838.]

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Notification under S. 3 (14) of Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914) (as in force in Delhi) — Validity — Notification is consistent with object of Act and does not impose unreasonable restrictions on trade, medical practitioners or general public—See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914) (as in force in Delhi), S. 3 (14). I L R (1965) 1 Punj 775 : AIR 1966 Punj 4 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Punjab Government Order, dated 6-11-1963 prohibiting production of gur by power crushers in mill supply areas— Validity — Proclamation of emergency in operation when Order passed—Art. 19 (1) (g) cannot be invoked to invalidate Order. See Defence of India Rules (1962), R. 125 (2). A I R 1964 Punj 307 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20 — Constitutional validity — Provisions do not offend Arts. 14 or 19 (1) (d) (e) and (g), of the Constitution. See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 20. 1963 (1) Cri L J 59 : A I R 1963 Punj 36.

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (f) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A — Validity — Section 178-A does not infringe cls. (f) and (g) of Art. 19 (1) because smuggled goods cannot be said to be goods in which any one can claim fundamental right. AIR 1960 Punj 664 and A I R 1960 Punj 488 and Cr. R. No. 1566 of 1958 (Punj), Foll. 62 Punj L R 772 : (1961) 1 Cri L J 150 : A I R 1961 Punj 21 (23) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (f) and (5) and (6) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178-A (1)—Validity—Section not violative of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Restriction imposed in shape of rule of evidence not unreasonable. 62 Pun L R 549 : 1960 Cri L J 1236 : AIR 1960 Pun 488 (490) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 152—Restriction on practising prostitution is not unreasonable See Municipalities - Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 152. 1960 Cri L J 111 : A I R 1960 Punj 18 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Dangerous Drugs Act (1930), S. 8 (2) — Punjab Manufactured Drugs Rules, 1932, R 27 30 — Renewal of licence at discretion of authority — Authority not bound to state or give reasons for refusal — Power is arbitrary — Reasonableness — Rule violates fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 19 (6) — AIR 1959 Punj 528, Reversed. See Dangerous Durgs Act (1930), S. 8 (2). AIR 1959 Punj 606.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Patiala Act 4 of 2002 B. K. — Validity —If offends Art. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g). See Patiala Recovery of State Dues Act (4 of 2002 B. K.), S. 1. AIR 1959 Punj 440 (DB).

[[Reversed on another point in AIR 1963 S C 222.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Mineral Concession Rules 1949, Rr. 32, 57 and 59 — Validity — Review application —Decision of Central Government, is not judicial or quasi-judicial but merely administrative — Does not infringe any rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g). See Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 5. ILR (1957) Punj 39.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Punjab Excise Act (I of 1914), S. 1—Excise Act is valid.

The Punjab Exise Act regulating trade in intoxicant liquor does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g) and is valid. AIR 1954 S C 220, Foll. ILR (1956) Punj 390 : AIR 1956 Punj 97 (99) (Pt G) (Pr 9) (DB)

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 S C 65.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act, S. 11 (h) - Section whether hit by Article. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1959 Raj 177 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1402].

——Art. 19 (6) — Explosives Act (1884), S. 5 — Explosives Rules, R. 85 (3) — Restrictions on person dealing with explosives — Validity — Power given to District Magistrate to recommend refusal of licence to particular person because he is undesirable — Validity. See Explosives Act (1884), S. 5. AIR 1956 Raj 153.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Licence-fee levied by Rajasthan State under Factories Act, S. 6 read with S. 112 — Levy is not unreasonable and is not void under Art. 19 (1) (g) read with Cl. (6). See Ibid, Art. 265. AIR 1954 Raj 178 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Rajasthan Dramatic Performances and Entertainments Ordinance (29 of 1949), S. 3—Validity—Not enforceable and not within the limits of reasonableness of Art. 19 (6). See Rajasthan Dramatic Performances and Entertainments Ordinance (29 of 1949), S. 3. AIR 1953 Raj 162 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Rajasthan Dramatic Performances and Entertainments Ordinance (1949), S. 3 (c) — District Magistrate prohibiting performance or entertainment under S. 3 (c) — Necessity to record opinion. See Rajasthan Dramatic Performances and Entertainments Ordinance (29 of 1949), S. 3 (c). AIR 1953 Raj 101.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Saurashtra Grants (Resumption) Ordinance (84 of 1949) and Amending Ordinance 6 of 1950—Validity.

The Saurashtra Grants (Resumption) Ordinance (84 of 1949 and the Amending Ordinance (6 of 1950) and the Notification issued thereunder by the Government do not contravene the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution of India. AIR 1956 Sau 32 (34) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Scope — Cochin Municipal Act (18 of 1113), S. 255 (3)—If ultra vires.

Section 255 (3), Cochin Municipal Act does not confer on the executive authority a power that is naked and arbitrary and therefore it is not ultra vires of the Constitution on the ground of infringement of Art. 19 (1) (g). As adequate checks and controls are available, the provision impugned does no more than strike "a proper balance" between the freedom guaranteed under Art 19 (1) (g) and the social control permitted by Cl. (6) of Art. 19.

Under S. 298 (4) a speaking order that is, an order which sets out the grounds of the decision, is postulated and it goes without saying that the grounds will have to be according to the rules of reason and justice, not to private opinion, according to law, and not humour, not arbitrary, vague, and fanciful, but legal and regular.

Reading S. 255 (3), Cochin Municipal Act in the context in which it appears and in the light of the trammels under which the power conferred by that sub-section is to be exercised, it is clear that the function of the executive authority under that sub-section is a judicial or quasi-judicial function and not an act which can be considered as merely administrative in character. Apart from the direction for a speaking order and the liability to judicial review which such an order affords, sub-ss. (1) and (2) of S. 329, Cochin Municipal Act also provides for appeals to the Council and the Government. ILR (1956) Trav-Co 177 : A I R 1957 Trav-Co 249 (250, 251) (Prs 6, 7, 9, 10, 11) (DB).

73. Clause (6) (i)—Professional or technical qualifications.

See also Ibid, Note 65.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (5) — Section 16 (1) (ix), Orissa Municipal Act does not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) — (Municipalities — Orissa Municipal Act (23 of 1950), S. 16 (1) (ix)).

The right of a person to practice the profession of law guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) cannot be said to have been violated by S. 16 (1) (ix) because in laying down the disqualification in S. 16 (1) (ix) of the Act the Legislature does not prevent him from practising his profession of law but it only lays down that if he wants to stand as a candidate for election he shall not either be employed as a paid legal practitioner on behalf of the municipality or act as a legal practitioner against the municipality. There is no fundamental right in any person to stand as a candidate for election to the municipality. The only fundamental right which is guaranteed is that of practising any profession or carrying on any occupation, trade or business. There is no violation of the latter right in prescribing the disqualification of the type enacted in S. 16 (1) (ix) of the Act. Even if it be taken as a restriction on his right to practice his profession of law, such restriction would be a reasonable one and well within the ambit of Art. 19, Cl. 5. Sakhawant Ali v. State of Orissa, 21 Cut L T 88 : 1955 S C A 353 : 1955 S C J 262 : 1955 S C R 1004 : A I R 1955 S C 166 (170) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g)—Right of lawyer to practise — Nature of right — Rule 36 framed under Bombay Co-operative Societies Act does not violate Article — (Bombay Co-operative Societies Act (7 of 1925), S. 71 (2) (u) and R. 36) — (Bar Councils Act (1926), S. 14 (1)—Bombay Pleaders Act (17 of 1920), S. 8).

According to the Bar Councils Act and also the Bombay Pleaders Act, the right of a lawyer to practise before a tribunal is not an absolute right. It is a right subject to the provisions of any law for the time being in force. Therefore, the only right of a lawyer that has been safeguarded under the Constitution is the right to practise his profession. Now, that right not being an absolute right, no absolute right is conferred upon the lawyer by the provisions of the Constitution. The Constitution guarantees to the lawyer such right as he has under his charter. If any such right is affected or contravened then undoubtedly he can rely upon the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f). But if the right given to him is a limited right and that right is not in any way affected, he cannot claim a wider right or a larger right under the Constitution. ILR (1952) Bom 766 : 54 Bom L R 285 : AIR 1952 Bom 296 (297) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) as amended by S. 3 (1) (b) of the Constitution (First Amendment) Act (1951) —Right to practise as Advocate or Attorney — Prescribing professional qualifications — Infringement of fundamental right.

Fundamental rights are rights which all citizens of India have by virtue of being such citizens. It could certainly not be said that any citizen of India has, merely by virtue of his being such citizen, the right to practise the profession of an Advocate or an Attorney in a High Court, nor could it be said, particularly in view of Cl. (6) of Art. 19, whether as it stood originally or as it stands now, that the prescribing of professional qualifications necessary for practising the profession of an Attorney in a High Court, constitutes an infringement of the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g). Aswini Kumar v. Arabindo Bose, 56 Cal W N 145 : AIR 1952 Cal 178 (179) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (SB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1952 S C 369.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bar Councils Act (1926), Section 24 – Rules under – Rule 1 (V-B) – Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g) — Requirement of University degree under the Rules is a reasonable restriction. See Bar Councils Act (1926), S. 24 — Rules under — Rule 1 (V-B). A I R 1964 Mad 390.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) –Advocate — Right to practise — Nature of right—If an absolute right — Restrictions on the right of audience before certain Tribunals — If repugnant to the guaranteed fundamental rights — Bar Councils Act (38 of 1926), Ss. 9 (1) and 14 (1) (a), (b), (c) and Industrial Disputes Act (14 of 1947), S. 36 (4) — If repugnant to Art. 14 of the Constitution.

A barrister under the English Practice has the right to practise, when called to the bar, before the superior Courts and most of the inferior Courts. So far as tribunals are concerned that right is limited by the statutes under which the tribunals are set up. In America the right of an individual to practise at the bar has been held to be not an absolute right but a privilege or a franchise. The right of an advocate to plead and act on behalf of suitors in a Court is not a right flowing from citizenship. It is really in the nature of a privilege Ex parte, In the matter of A. H. Garland, 18 L Ed. 366; Bradwell v. Illinois, 21 L. Ed. 442; (1952) 1 M L J 208; I L R (1952) Mad 933; AIR 1952 Bom 296, Ref.

• A person who has obtained the requisite legal qualifications is not entitled on that ground alone to a right of audience in Court. He must, further be admitted to the Bar before he could practise. That is a matter which is regulated by statutes and the extent of the right to practise must depend on the terms of those statutes. In this country the right of an advocate to practise is just what is conferred on him by Ss. 9 and 14 (1) (a) (b) and (c) of the Bar Councils Act, neither more nor less, and when the particular right claimed by him cannot be found within the four corners of those sections then there is nothing in respect of which the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution could be invoked. That Article merely operates to protect the rights which a person otherwise possesses under the law. It does not create any new rights in him.

The right of an Advocate to appear before an Industrial Tribunal is under S. 14 (1) (b) of the Bar Councils Act subject to any law for the time being in force; S. 36 (4) of the Industrial Disputes Act is such a law and under that section he has a right to appear only when the other parties consent.

There are essential differences between Courts of law and tribunals and the enactment of special rules with reference to tribunals is not open to attack as discriminatory under Art. 14 of the Constitution. Subject to rules of natural justice they enjoy in the matter of procedure and trial a freedom which the Courts do not possess. 1954 Mad W N 18 : 67 Mad L W 54 : (1954) 1 M L J 261 : ILR (1954) Mad 800 : AIR 1954 Mad 553 (555, 556) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 9) (DB).

74. Clause (6) (ii)—Transport business—General.

(a) Motor Vehicles Act (1939).

(b) State Acts and Rules.

74. Clause (6) (ii)—Transport business—General.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Government can enter business in competition with private citizens.

Article 19 (6) indicates that the State may carry on any business either as a monopoly, complete or partial, or in competition with any citizen and that would not have the effect of infringing any fundamental rights of such citizen. Parbhani Transport Co-operative Society, Ltd. v. Regional Transport Authority, Aurangabad, 62 Bom L R 521 : 1960 Nag L J 563 : (1960) 3 S C R 177 : 1960 Andh L T 400 : 1960 S C J 1250 : A I R 1960 S C 801 (805, 806) (Pt C) (Pr 14).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6), 13 and 31 (2) — C. P. and Berar Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act — Constitutional validity cannot be challenged after Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1955 S C 781.

[Held overruled by A I R 1959 S C 648 as interpreted in AIR 1961 Mys 3.]

● — Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to carry on business of transporting passengers on public highway—Nature of — Doctrine of franchise — Applicability in India —(Highway —Nature and extent of right of public over highway).

The right of the public to use motor vehicles on the public road cannot, in any sense, be regarded as a right created by the Motor Vehicles Act. The right exists anterior to any legislation on this subject as an incident of public rights over a highway. The State only controls and regulates it for the purpose of ensuring safety, peace, health and good morals of the public. Once the position is accepted that a member of the public is entitled to ply motor vehicles on the public road as an incident of his right of passage over highway, the question is really immaterial, whether he plies a vehicle for pleasure or pastime or for the purpose of trade and business. The nature of the right in respect to the highway is not in any way affected thereby and it cannot be said that the user of a public road for purposes of trade is an extraordinary or special use of the highway which can be acquired only under special sanction from the State.

The American doctrine of franchise has no place in our Constitution. Under the Indian Constitution the contract carriers as well as the common carriers would occupy the same position so far as the guaranteed right under Art. 19 (1) (g) is concerned and both are liable to be controlled by appropriate regulations under Cl. (6) of that Article. AIR 1951 All 257 (FB) and A I R 1953 Mad 279, Approved ; (1923) 68 Law Ed. 596 ; (1925) 70 Law Ed. 288, Ref. to.

Within the limits imposed by State regulations any member of the public can ply motor vehicles on a public road. To that extent he can also carry on the business of transporting passengers with the aid of the vehicles. It is to this carrying on of the trade or business that the guarantee in Art. 19 (1) (g) is attracted and a citizen can legitimately complain if any legislation takes away or curtails that right any more than is permissible under Cl. (6) of that Article. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C J 819 : (1954) 2 M L J 622 : I L R (1955) 1 All 211 : 1954 S C A 1218 : 1955 All W R 23 : 68 Mad L W 8 : 1955 All L J 38 : 1955 S C R 707 : A I R 1954 S C 728 (733, 734, 735) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 12, 13).

●——Art. 19 (6) — As amended by the Constitution (First) Amendment Act, 1951—Effect of amendment —State monopoly in trade.

The new clause in Art. 19 (6) has no doubt been introduced with a view to provide that a State can create monopoly in its own favour in respect of any trade or business ; but the amendment does not make the establishment of such monopoly a reasonable restriction within the meaning of the first of Art. 19 (6). The result of the amendment is that the State would not have to justify such action as reasonable at all in a Court of law and no objection could be taken to it on the ground that it is an infringement of the right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C J 819 : (1954) 2 M L J 622 : I L R (1955) 1 All 211 : 1954 S C A 1218 : 1955 All W R 23 : 68 Mad L W 8 : 1955 All L J 38 : 1955 S C R 207 : A I R 1954 S C 728 (739) (Pt G) (Pr 23).

——Art. 19 (6) (as amended in 1951) — Scope of amendment.

The scope of the amendment of Art. 19 is that the creation of a monopoly in favour of the State is a permissible restriction. Hence there is substance in the contention that the effect of the amendment was only to relieve the State of the necessity of establishing that a monopoly or a quasi-monopoly came within reasonable restriction but it did not relieve the State of the necessity of showing that the law enacted was in the interest of the general public. A I R 1954 S C 728, Rel. on. A I R 1957 All 320 (323) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1959 S C 648.]

——Arts. 19 (6) (ii) and 14 — There is no conflict between Art. 19 (6) (ii) and Art. 14. A I R 1954 All 257 (269, 270) (Pt E) (Pr 47) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1954 S C 728.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Sub-rule 5 of Cl. (iii) of R. 153-D introduced by G. O. Ms. No. 2455, Home (Transport I), dated 25-11-1960 — Provision is ultra vires Art. 19 (1) (g).

A citizen has a fundamental right to ply motor vehicles on public pathways under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India and any infringement of that right by the State can be justified only if it falls within the scope of Art. 19 (6) thereof. Any restrictions put on the citizens, which result in totally disqualifying them from applying for any permit would practically nullify the fundamental right which they enjoy under Art. 19 (1) (g). If any applicant fails to satisfy Cl. (iii) of R. 153-D he is screened and disqualified on that ground alone. It means that his application will not be considered under S. 47 of the Act. On possessing residential qualifications specific marks are allotted under Cl. (iv) of the rule and to that extent Cl. (iv) cannot be challenged. But when a provision prohibits any applicant to file his application simply because he has no main office or branch office on the route or that he resides beyond five miles from the route or that, in case any such application is filed, it shall be screened and the applicant declared disqualified it clearly prohibits him from carrying on the trade. Such provision is unreasonable. Sector or residential qualifications can be taken into consideration while granting or refusing to grant permits. But such qualifications cannot be so imposed as to debar all others even from applying for permits. Any discrimination based on the place of residence is not reasonable and valid. Sub-rule (5) of Cl. (iii) of R. 153-D must therefore be struck down. 1950 S C J 571 : A I R 1951 S C 118, Rel. on. The provision can however be separated from the rest of the rule. ILR (1964) Andh Pra 1076 : (1963) 1 Andh W R 77 : A I R 1963 Andh Pra 263 (267, 268) (Pt G) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6)—Right to carry motor transport business.

The right of carrying on transport business, falls in the category of the fundamental rights mentioned in Art. 19 (1) (g). This fundamental right to carry on transport business, within the four corners of the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, cannot be infringed on the ground of nationalisation of transport in the State. A I R 1951 Him Pra 36 (47) (Pt N) (Pr 32).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Right to operate stage carriage on public pathway is fundamental right : A I R 1954 S C 728. Foll. AIR 1953 Mad 279, Rel. on. (1965) 2 Mys L J 187 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—"Business"—Words and Phrases.

Plying of Motor Vehicles for hire on public roads is a 'business'. AIR 1952 Orissa 42 (42) (Pt F) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 31 — Running of parallel buses by State on routes for which private transport companies hold permits.

The running of parallel buses by the State on the very routes for which private transport companies hold permits does not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) or Art. 31. The private transport companies might have had a very lucrative business but they have no right fundamentally their own which can be said to have been impaired by the entry of the State in the arena of the business where for some time past the private transport companies were supreme. AIR 1956 Pepsu 3 (6) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 19, 38, 39, 289, 298 — Function of State—Motor Transport business—State, whether can carry on business or Trade like other individuals—Legislative sanction if and when necessary.

State which had in earlier times for its functions, defence, police, law and order, can now guarantee many other public services and the entry of the Pepsu Government, in pursuance of its economic policy in the business of motor transport does not suffer from any legal or other disqualification.

Function of a State like the Police States of old are not confined to mere collection of taxes or maintenance of laws and protection of the realm from external or internal enemies and a modern State is certainly expected to engage in all activities necessary for the promotion of the social and economic welfare of the community.

A reference to provisions of Arts. 19 (6), 38, 39, 289 and 298 of the Constitution would show that Government is free to make gains through trade or business or industry like any other individual.

No legislative sanction to start or run the business of plying motor vehicles for hire would be necessary when there has been no encroachment by the State on any private rights by its entering into the field as a competitor. No specific Act is thereof necessary to validate the running of motor buses by it. Particularly when legislative sanction in the form of the necessary Appropriation Act to incur expenditure on the venture and consequent implicit approval of the State Assembly has already been obtained, and this should be enough to serve the purpose of making a specific law. AIR 1955 S C 549, Rel. on. ILR (1956) Patiala 77.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 31—Running of parallel buses by State on very routes for which petitioners held permits—Action of Government though injurious to petitioners' lucrative transport business there is no violation of any of the fundamental rights under Art. 19 or 31. ILR (1956) Patiala 77.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Refusal to renew permit for motor vehicle interferes with operator's fundamental right to carry on trade and business — Aggrieved operator can apply.

The refusal to renew the permits issued under the Motor Vehicles Act does interfere with the operator's right to carry on trade and business as guaranteed under the Constitution. Any such interference with the right can be upheld only on valid and reasonable grounds. Hence, the operators have a right in the renewal of permit as to obtain a writ from the High Court. 1961 Raj L W 435 : ILR (1961) 11 Raj 333.

74(a). Motor Vehicles Act (1939).

● ——Art. 19 — Publication of scheme and cancellation of permits of existing operators—Effect—Right of operators to ply buses is extinguished—There is no infringement of fundamental right even if State plies its buses without obtaining permits under S. 42. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68-F (1). AIR 1963 S C 640.

● ——Art. 19 (6) (ii)—Scope of—Monopolies—Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended by Act C of 1956), S. 68-C—Nationalisation of road transport services.

Article 19 (6) is only a saving provision and the law made empowering the State to carry on a business is secured from attack on the ground of infringement of the fundamental rights of a citizen to the extent it does not exceed the limits of the scope of the said provision. Sub-cl. (ii) of Art. 19 (6) is couched in very wide terms. The word 'service' is wide enough to take in not only the general motor service but also the species of motor service. There are, no limitations on the State's power to make laws conferring monopoly on it in respect of an area, and person or persons to be excluded. S. 68-C, Motor Vehicles Act, which enables the State to take over a particular class of a service, say, the bus service, and exclude all or some of the persons doing business in that class of service does not exceed the limits prescribed by Art. 19 (6) (ii) of the Constitution. J. Y. Kondala Rao v. Andhra Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation, (1963) 1 Mad L J (SC) 111 : (1963) 1 Andh W R (SC) 111 : 1963 Mad L J (Cri) 226 : (1963) 1 S C J 539 : (1961) 1 S C R 642 : AIR 1961 S C 82 (87) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

● ——Art. 19 (6)—Chapter IV-A of Motor Vehicles Act—Validity of. See Ibid, Art. 298. AIR 1960 S C 1073.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and 226—Motor Vehicles Act (1939) — Ss. 43A and 47 (as amended by Motor Vehicles (Madras Amendment) Act 20 of 1948) —Orders and directions issued under S. 43A whether law—Regional Transport Authority granting permit to appellant applying order issued under S. 43A which was then in force — On appeal Central Road Traffic Board setting aside order and granting permit to respondent following another order issued under same section—Validity of order—Issue of writ of certiorari —Order whether discloses error apparent on its face —(Civil P. C. (1908), Preamble and O. 41, R. 33). See Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended by Motor Vehicles (Madras Amendment) Act 20 of 1948), S. 43A. AIR 1959 S C 694.

● ——Arts. 19 (6) (ii) and 19 (1) (g) and 31 (2) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939) — Chap. IV-A (Ss. 68A to 68I) (as amended by Act 100 of 1956) — Nationalisation of bus transport—Scheme not providing for compensation to existing permit holders—Constitutional validity — Chapter IV A whether infringes Art. 31 of Constitution. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939)(as amended by Act 100 of 1956), Chap. IV-A. AIR 1959 S C 308.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Art. 19 (1) (g) does not guarantee monopoly—Discretion vested in Regional Transport Authority exercised bona fide — No violation of Art. 19 (1) (g)—[Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 42].

Article 19 (1) (g) does not guarantee a monopoly to a particular individual or association to carry on any occupation and if other persons are also allowed the right to carry on the same occupation and an element of competition is introduced in the business, that does not, in the absence of any bad faith on the part of the authorities, amount to a violation of the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. Under the Motor Vehicles Act it is in the discretion of the Regional Transport Authority to issue permits at different rates of tariff to different classes of vehicles plying in the streets of a town and if that power is exercised in a bona fide manner by the Regional Transport Authority for the benefit of the citizens of the town, then the mere circumstance that by grant of licence at different tariff rates to holders of different taxis and different classes of vehicles some of the existing licence holders are affected cannot bring the case under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. Harman Singh v. Regional Transport Authority, Calcutta, 1954 S C J 46 : (1954) 1 M L J 79 : 1954 S C A 47 : 1954 S C R 371 : AIR 1954 S C 190 (192) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Acquisition—Mere deprivation of property—Effect—Colourable legislation, what is—Fraud on Constitution—Motor Vehicles Act (1939 as amended by Act 100 of 1956), Chap. IV-A, S. 68-G—If colourable legislation—Right to carry on occupation extinguished — Whether unconstitutional —Whether Parliament has circumvented limitations on its powers by indirect method. See Ibid, Art. 31 (as amended by Fourth Amendment). AIR 1959 Andh Pra 292 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68B—Scope of — Chapter IV-A (Amending Act C of 1956)—If ultra vires the Constitution—Section 68 B — Government's functions — If acts judicially or quasi-judicially — Scheme of the Andhra Pradesh Government to operate transport services—Examination in writ of certiorari — Power of High Court—Constitution of India (1950), Art. 14—Zonal or Territorial division of District — If discrimination or denial of equal protection of laws. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68B. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 292.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 14 and 226 — Nationalisation of motor transport — Transport Authority refusing to issue permits to private owners under direction of Executive — Legality — Law of nationalisation by Legislature—Validity—Grant of mandamus—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 42, 57).

Though the State may engage in trade and therefore in transport business even in competition with the citizens of the State, it does not thereby acquire the power to interfere with or infringe the constitutional right of the citizens to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business. It may engage in trade without violating any law or the rights of the citizen. As a matter of fact, its position is very much the same as that of an individual of the State in this respect.

While sub-s. (3) of S. 42, Motor Vehicles Act, recognises the power of the Central Government and the State Government to own vehicles and, by implication, to utilise them and to run them for profit or in the interest of the public it exempts the Governments from the obligation of obtaining a permit. Apart from the Government, all others who own transport vehicles, can use them only in accordance with the conditions of a permit as laid down in S. 42. AIR 1951 All 257 (FB), Relied on.

But no authority is conferred on the Government to take any route and to displace all vehicles belonging to citizens who have been plying on it under permits issued to them. The decision to appropriate and take over a route to the exclusion of permit-holders, cannot be arrived at under the Motor Vehicles Act or under any law for the matter of that by the executive Government of the State, nor have the Transport Authorities any power to create or to acquiesce in the creation of any such monopoly or exclusive use of the route.

The action of the Government in nationalising the route in this way by issuing orders to the Transport Authority, not to issue permits to private owners, which it obeyed by surrendering its powers under the Motor Vehicles Act, is in defiance of the provisions contained in the Motor Vehicles Act. It is, therefore, obviously illegal.

It is undoubted that the Transport Authorities, both Regional and State, are at least quasi-judicial bodies. Their obligations are to dispose of petitions or applications which are presented for permits under the Act uninfluenced by any considerations which do not find any place in S. 57 of the Act. The only considerations which should influence the decisions of the Transport Authorities under the Act are those specifically mentioned in the relevant provisions of the Act. Any decision about the nationalisation arrived at by the State Government is not a relevant consideration.

That the State Government intends to run its own buses is no ground for refusing permanent permits. Notice in advance of intention to issue only temporary permits is illegal. The practice of granting temporary permits for reasons other than those specified in S. 62 is clearly irregular. AIR 1951 All 257 (FB); A I R 1948 Mad 400, Rel. on. A I R 1953 Assam 74, Ref.

The executive Government in engaging in transport business, has to avoid encroaching upon or otherwise infringing the legal rights of any member of the public; where these rights are infringed the activity would be illegal. Art. 19 (1) (g) guarantees to the citizens the right to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade, or business. Under Cl. (6) as amended, any trade, business or industry which excludes, completely or partially, the citizens of the State, can be started, though only by legislative sanction. Clause (g) of Art. 19 (1) does not stand in the way of the State making any laws relating to the carrying on by the State or by a corporation owned or controlled by the State, of any trade or business even to the exclusion, complete or partial, of the citizen. The executive Government has no power to carry on any trade, business or industry to the exclusion, complete or partial of the citizen. It can do so only under a law which satisfies the requirements of cl. (6). If it creates a monopoly or excludes citizens from a profession or trade without the authority of the law and in the exercise of its ordinary functions, it infringes the constitutional right of the citizen guaranteed to him by Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1948 Mad 400, Ref.

Appropriate legislation may authorise the Government to embark on any commercial or industrial undertaking under cl. (6) of Art. 19. In that case partial or entire exclusion of the citizens from trade or profession would be justified.

Where the owners of the vehicles had not applied for permanent permits and no application under S. 40, Motor Vehicles Act, was filed and thus there was no occasion for refusal to grant permanent permits, it cannot be said that the Transport Authority failed in the performance of any public duty and no writ of mandamus can be granted when the authority concerned cannot be called upon to perform a legal duty or obligation.

The obligation arises under S. 47 only when there is an application under S. 46. The past cannot be recalled. It cannot even be cured by a writ in the nature of mandamus. In regard to the future, the private owners may be entitled to relief only if the Transport Authorities fail in discharging their legal or statutory obligations in spite of applications made to them. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 7 : A I R 1954 Assam 212 (215 to 219) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 13, 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ch. IV-A—Validity—Provisions are saved by Art. 19 (6).

The provisions of Chapter IV-A of the Motor Vehicles Act come within the purview of the exception laid down in sub-cl. (6) of Art. 19 and, therefore, are not ultra vires on the ground that they affect the fundamental rights of the petitioners under Art. 19 (1) (g). I L R (1960) Bom 978 : 62 Bom L R 952 : AIR 1961 Bom 80 (81) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 19 (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939). S. 74 — Section does not touch fundamental rights—There is no excessive delegation — Satisfaction enjoined by section is not arbitrary. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 74. ('62) 66 Cal W N 1024.

● ——Art. 19—Scope — Route in regard to stage carriage permit is not condition of permit — Regional Transport Authority cannot vary route in exercise of powers of variation of condition of permit. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 48. AIR 1964 Mad 136 (FB).

——Art. 19 (1) — Orders under S. 43A, Motor Vehicles Act, 1939—Constitutional validity of—Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) and 19 (6). See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 43-A. (1964) 1 Mad L J 92.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Validity — S. 68-G (2), Motor Vehicles Act, does not violate either Art. 14 or 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution — Cancellation of permits on account of scheme of nationalisation—Issue of alternative permits to displaced permit holders — Power of Government to issue directions — Nature of. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68-G (2). AIR 1963 Mad 265 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Grant of permit under Motor Vehicles Act — Exclusion of applicant on ground of monopoly — No contravention of Art. 19 (1) (g). See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1). AIR 1959 Mad 492 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Reasonable restriction—Refusal to renew permit under Motor Vehicles Act, to person who has been habitually deliberate in non-payment of taxes—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 (1) (a), 58 (2)).

It cannot be laid down that a refusal on the part of the Regional Transport Authority to renew a permit to ply buses under the Motor Vehicles Act to a person who has been deliberately and habitually defaulting in the payment of taxes, is not a reasonable restriction on the right of that person under Art. 19 (1) (g) in the interests of the public. (1955) 1 M L J 231 : 67 Mad L W 1217 : A I R 1955 Mad 205 (206) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g), (6)—If contravened by permit system for motor buses. See Motor Vehicles Act (4 of 1939), Ss. 42, 43-A, 47 and 64-A. AIR 1953 Mad 279 (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 48 — Power to take into account condition of road. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

——Art. 19 (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 48 — Consideration of nature of locality. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

——Art. 19 (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 48—Consideration of adequacy of existing services. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

——Art. 19 (6)—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 48—Consideration of running of unremunerative services by existing operators. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

——Art. 19 (6)—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 48 — Refusal to grant permit at all. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

——Art. 19—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47—Validity. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

—Art. 19 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 48 (a), (b) are valid. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 48. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

——Art. 19—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A is valid. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64A. AIR 1953 Mad 279.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Section 47 (1) (c), Motor Vehicles Act (1939) is not ultra vires of Article. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1) (c). (1965) 2 Mys L J 187.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Right to prosecute application for stage carriage permit — Whether personal right— Death of applicant—Right survives— Legal representative can prosecute application. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 46. AIR 1963 Mys 278 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)—Article 19 (1) (g) is subject to Art. 19 (6) — "Reasonable restrictions" include total stoppage—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 43, 58 and 58-A).

Provision of Art. 19 (1) (g) is subject to clause (6) of Art. 19. The right of the public in a highway is merely to pass and repass and such a right can be restricted. The words "reasonable restrictions" in Art. 19 (6) are wide enough to include total stoppage of the use of the highway if it is found to be necessary in the public interest. The State has a right under Article 19 (6) to regulate or prohibit business of plying buses on public highways in public interest. Under S. 43 read with Ss. 58 and 58A of the Motor Vehicles Act it is open to the state Government to place restrictions on the plying of public buses, to confine the use of public highways for running public buses to only such persons as have been granted permits under the Motor Vehicles Act and to cancel or refuse to renew permits held by an operator or a class of operators. These provisions have been clearly saved by clause (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution. AIR 1951 All 257 (FB), Rel. on. 1953 Nag L J 193: ILR (1953) Nag 110 : AIR 1952 Nag 353 (354) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1988 S C 158.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939) S. 43-A (Bihar) — Not ultra vires though particular orders made by Government, under it may be challenged as unconstitutional — Order of Bihar Government, dated 5th August, 1980, issued under S. 43 A, giving preference to operators whose applications for renewal of permits have been refused under S. 68-F (2) (a) in granting stage carriage permits— Held intra vires. AIR 1959 S C 694, Expl. and Dist. ILR 41 Pat 600 : AIR 1962 Pat 57 (59, 60) (Prs 4, 5, 7) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A—(As inserted by Bihar Amendment Act (27 of 1950)) — If unconstitutional or ultra vires —Nature of power conferred on State Government—(Natural Justice)—(Maxims—Audi alteram partem)—(Constitution of India, Art. 226).

Section 64-A of the Motor Vehicles Act as amended in Bihar, gives power to the State Government to call for the records of proceeding under Ch. IV and after examining such records to pass such orders as it thinks fit. The power given to the State Government under S. 64-A has to be exercised in a regulated manner and on the principles laid down in the other sections of the Act preceding to that. That being so, it cannot be said that S. 64-A creates an unreasonable restriction in enjoying the right of freedom of trade granted to the citizens under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. Section 64-A, therefore as passed by the Bihar Legislature, is not constitutionally void or ultra vires from the substantive point of view. It is clearly of a quasi-judicial character and the extent of the power is sufficiently defined in the Act. Even from the procedural point of view S. 64-A of the Motor Vehicles Act is not constitutionally void or ultra vires. The power conferred by S. 64-A on the State Government being a quasi-judicial power has to be exercised in accordance with the rules of natural justice even though that section does not lay down in itself any provision for a notice or an opportunity of hearing to be given to the parties concerned in the matter. The principle of law embodied in the maxim audi alteram partem clearly shows that the notice and opportunity of hearing is to be given only in those cases where an order adverse to a person is to be passed. 1956 B L J R 498 : AIR 1957 Pat 340 (345, 346) (Pt A) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 226—Right to carry on business of transport on public road — Extent of — State Government granting licence to ply buses on particular road to A in addition to that granted previously to B — Absence of notice to B—Order, if invalid and liable to be challenged by B by way of writ petition — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 and S. 64-A (Bihar Amendment).

Every citizen has the fundamental right to carry on business in transport even on the public road and that is subject only to the limitations and restrictions imposed upon him under the Motor Vehicles Act. The moment those restrictions are removed, his right, which is for the time being in the absence of licence dormant, is revived and he like others holding the licence, can enjoy, that right. It, therefore, cannot be said that the mere issue of a licence in favour of one citizen creates a right in him to object to the issue of licence to any other citizen. That is repugnant to the very conception of the fundamental right given under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. The procedure suggested under S. 47, Motor Vehicles Act does not create a substantive right in favour of any person or persons who are already provided with road transport facilities. Where the State Government on an application by A under S. 64-A, Motor Vehicles Act grants him an additional licence to ply buses on a particular road, B who is already holding a licence for the same road has no right to be heard in the matter so long as the licence issued in his favour is not affected by the order granting licence to A. AIR 1950 Pat 387 (FB), AIR 1952 S C 12 and AIR 1951 S C 41, Rel. on. 1956 B L J R 498 : AIR 1957 Pat 340 (346, 347) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 15) (DB).

——Art. 19 (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 1— Validity after the Constitution. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 1. AIR 1956 Pat 73.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47, 57 and 58— Refusal of permit or its renewal on ground of State monopoly or on ground that on some future date State Government may run their own service — Validity — See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1956 Pat 73.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 48—Number of stage carriages to be plied on any route — Limitation of—Validity.

The right to ply buses is one of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. However, some sort of restriction, if it is made in the interest of the public, and is reasonable will be protected under Cl. (6) of that article. The power given to limit the number of stage carriage by Cl. (a) of S. 48, Motor Vehicles Act, is preceded by the clause that the Regional Transport Authority may do so after consideration of the matters set forth in sub-s. (1) of S 47. ILR (1955) 5 Raj 545 : 1956 Raj L W 395 : AIR 1957 Raj 237 (240) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)— Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1) (c) —Condition that Regional Transport Authority shall have regard to the effect upon existing services of the service proposed is not ultra vires— See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1) (c). AIR 1956 Raj 142.

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (b) and 14 — Orders passed under valid law —Articles should not be applied to test correctness of orders passed under the Act — Orders under Motor Vehicles Act cannot be challenged as being arbitrary and contrary to Art. 14—A I R 1933 Mad 279, Diss. from — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 48). See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1955 Raj 19.

——Art. 19 (6)— Applicability. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1) (e). A I R 1954 Trav-Co 542 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and Art. 226 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47, 48—Transport authority refusing permit for bus service on grounds other than those mentioned in S. 47—Validity of order.

Section 47, Motor Vehicles Act, lays down what matters the transport authority shall consider in granting or refusing to grant a stage carriage permit. No application can be disposed of by the Transport Authority without applying its mind to the matters enumerated in S. 47. It is not proper for the State Transport Authority to refuse a permit for running bus service on the ground that there is no need for extension of service. What has to be decided is whether the grant would be for the benefit of the general public and not, whether it is injurious to the interests of the existing operators. For the same reason the Transport Authority cannot take into consideration that the existing operators are running other services which are not remunerative and they cannot grant permits to them with a view to compensate for those unremunerative services. This will be clearly opposed to Art. 19 (6), Constitution of India.

Where the Transport Authority refused an application for renewal of a permit on the ground that the route in question is no longer a prescribed route, the order is bad as it is passed without taking into consideration the matter referred to in S. 47. S. 48 (a) authorises the Transport Authority to limit the number of the stage carriages on any specified route. But when a fresh application for a permit is received, the Authority is bound to apply its mind once again to matters referred to in S. 47 before disposing of the application. AIR 1956 Vin Pra 25 (26) (Prs 4, 5, 6).

74 (b). State Acts and Rules.

● ——Art. 19 (6) (as amended by the Constitution (First Amendment) Act (1951))— Orissa Motor Vehicles (Regulation of Stage Carriage and Public Carrier's Services) Act (36 of 1947)—Orissa Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act (I of 1949) —Validity of these Acts cannot be challenged on ground that they create monopoly in favour of the State.

The Orissa Motor Vehicles (Regulation of Stage Carriage and Public Carrier's Services) Act (36 of 1947) and the Orissa Motor Vehicles (Amendment) (Act (I of 1949) cannot be said to be invalid on the ground that they were designed with a view to oust the private stage carriage services from business altogether and were intended to create a virtual monopoly in favour of the Joint-Stock Company or the State. Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution as amended by the Constitution (First Amendment) Act (1951) excludes all argument in regard to the alleged ousting of the private-owned stage carriage services and the creation of a virtual monopoly in favour of the Joint-Stock Company or the State. The Orissa Road Transport Co., Ltd., which is a Joint-Stock Company formed under the provisions of Orissa Act (36 of 1947) and the State Transport Services which are envisaged in Orissa Act (I of 1949) would, therefore, be able to carry on their business even if it resulted in the complete elimination of the private-owned stage carriage services without any violation of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g). Ramachandra v. State of Orissa, 1956 S C A 346 : 22 Cut L T 171 : 1956 S C C 184 : 1956 SCR 28 : 1956 S C J 293 : AIR 1956 S C 298 (304) (Pt C) (Pr 15).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — U. P. State Road Transport Act (2 of 1951) — Whether conflicts with the guarantee of freedom of inter-State and intra-State trade, commerce and intercourse provided under Art. 301— Relative scope of Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 301 indicated. See Ibid, Art. 301. AIR 1954 S C 728.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — U. P. State Road Transport Act if infringes Art. 19 (1) (g) and is unconstitutional. A I R 1954 All 257, Reversed. See U. P. State Road Transport Act (2 of 1951). AIR 1954 S C 728.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6)—Reasonable restriction— Restriction placed upon use of bus-stand is not repugnant—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68 (2) (r)—Rules under — Madras Vehicles Rules (1940), R. 268). Ibrahim, T. B. v. Regional Transport Authority, Tanjore, 1953 S C J 31 : (1953) 1 M L J 205 : 1953 S C R 290 : 1953 S C A 277 : AIR 1953 S C 79 (80, 81, 82, 83) (Pt C) (Prs 3, 13).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6) — U. P. Road Transport Services (Development) Act (9 of 1955), S. 1— Validity of.

The amendment made to Art. 19 (6) in 1951 debars the petitioner from attacking the validity of the U. P. Road Transport Services (Development) Act, 1955, on the ground of the infringement of the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution inasmuch as the impugned enactment is covered by the provisions of Art. 19 (6) as amended by the Constitution (First Amendment) Act, 1951. AIR 1957 All 320 (323) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

[Reversed in A I R 1959 S C 648 in so far as Allahabad High Court held that the validity has to be tested on basis of provision of the Constitution as amended by Constitution 4th Amendment Act.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and 31 (2) — U. P. Road Transport Services (Development) Act (9 of 1955), S 11 and Sch. I —Premature cancellation of permits of stage carriage permit holders—Right to compensation.

So far as the U. P. Road Transport Services (Development) Act, 1955 prematurely cancels the permits of the stage carriage permit holders and curtails the routes, compensation has been provided for under that Act. So far as it gives power to the Transport Authority not to renew the permits of the bus operators whose permits may expire the deprivation is by authority of law and consequently the permit holders are not entitled to any compensation for that. Apart from it as the renewal cannot be claimed as a matter of right it cannot be said that they are entitled to any compensation for that. A I R 1956 S C 298, Rel. on. AIR 1957 All 320 (328) (Pt D) (Pr 24) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1959 S C 648.]

——Art. 19 (6) (before its amendment) U. P. Act (2 of 1951) cannot be challenged on ground that it infringed Art. 19 (6). See Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Act, 1950 (2 of 1951), Preamble, S. 3. AIR 1954 All 257 (DB).

[Reversed in A I R 1954 S C 728.]

——Art. 19 (6)—Scope—Assam State Road Transport Act — Validity of. See Assam State Road Transport Act (30 of 1954), S. 1. AIR 1957 Assam 139.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68 (2) (o)—Kerala Motor Vehicles Rules (1961), R. 324 (a) —Validity — Rule does not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and do not impose total prohibition on right of car owners to convey travelling public for hire. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68 (2) (o). ILR (1962) 2 Ker 540.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—R. 49-A, C. P. and Berar Motor Vehicles Rules—If infringes Article. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 193 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Madras Motor Vehicles Taxation (Amendment) Act (9 of 1962), is not confiscatory in character and hence does not offend Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. AIR 1965 Mad 349 (351) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6) and 14 — Right to carry on trade or business — Reasonable restriction. See Madras Motor Vehicles (Taxation on Passengers and Goods) Act (16 of 1952), Preamble. AIR 1954 Mad 569 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (d), (5), 301, 304; Sch. 7, List 2, Entries 56, 57 — Mysore Motor Vehicles (Taxation on Passengers and Goods) Act (10 of 1961)—Validity —Imposition of tax on passengers and goods carried by person providing transport facilities constitutes restriction on carrying on of trade or commerce — Mysore Motor Vehicles Taxation Act (35 of 1957) does not impose tax on passengers and goods — Tax imposed by impugned Act is not tax imposed on motor vehicles — Restriction imposed by impugned Act is reasonable restriction on the trade activity and is in public interest—Act is valid—AIR 1961 S C 232, Rel. on. 1963 Mys L J (Sup) 31 : AIR 1963 Mys 49 (52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 10, 11, 20, 21, 23, 27, 33, 35, 38, 39, 42, 46, 47, 50, 51, 56, 57, 58, 59) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope—Punjab Motor Vehicles Rules (1940), R. 420 (c)—Validity—Rule authorising R. T. A. to prescribe uniforms for drivers and conductors and attaching it as a condition of permit — Rule, if ultra vires on ground of delegation of legislative powers or violation of fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (g). See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 62 (2) (f). AIR 1957 Punj 145.

● ——Art. 19 (1) — Rajasthan Motor Vehicles Act — Validity of. See Rajasthan Motor Vehicles Taxation Act (11 of 1951), S. 4. AIR 1958 Raj 114 (FB).

75. Taxation laws—General.
(a) Income Tax Acts.
(b) Sales Tax Acts.
(c) Miscellaneous.

75. Taxation laws—General.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 265—Imposition of tax by statutory authority — Presumption that it has followed prescribed procedure can be raised — Presumption not weakened by long acquiescence in imposition — Imposition of tax not in accordance with law—Effect of—Evidence Act (1872), S. 114.

There is a presumption, when a statutory authority makes an order for imposition of tax, that it has followed the prescribed procedure. The said presumption is not in any way weakned by the long acquiescence in the imposition by the residents of the locality. Nonetheless no tax shall be levied or collected except in accordance with law. If it is not imposed in accordance with law, it would infringe the fundamental right guaranteed under Art 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. While the long period of time that lapses between the imposition of the tax and the attack on it may permit raising of certain presumptions where the evidence is lost by efflux of time, it cannot exonerate the statutory authority if it imposes a tax in derogation of the statutory provisions. Gopal Narain v. State of U. P., 1964 All L J 479 : AIR 1964 S C 370 (376) (Pt C) (Pr 15).

● ——Art. 19—Assessment order under taxing statute —Statute intra vires—Order based upon misconstruction of provisions of statute and notification thereunder — Validity of such order cannot be questioned under Art. 32—Proper remedy is by way of appeal or under Art. 226. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1962 S C 1621.

● ——Arts. 19, 14, 31, 265 and Part 3 (General) — Taxing statute when can be challenged as violating Arts. 14, 19 and 31 — Taxing statute cannot be challenged merely because different rate of taxation are prescribed for different classes of persons or objects. Jagannath Baksh Singh v. State of U. P., (1962) 46 ITR 169: 1962 All L J 799: (1962) 2 S C R 679: 1962 All W R (HC) 649 : AIR 1962 S C 1563 (1570, 1571) (Pt C) (Prs 16, 17, 18).

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 226 and 265 — Taxation law —Ground of challenge.

A challenge to tax law on the mere ground that the tariff imposed by the tax law is heavy cannot be entertained. Jagannath v. Union of India, (1962) 2 S C R 118 : AIR 1962 S C 148 (148) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

● ——Arts. 19 and 265 — Taxation power of State and fundamental rights — (Cochin Abkari Act (1 of 1077 M. E.), Ss. 18, 17 and 69).

An impost not authorised by law cannot possibly be regarded as a reasonable restriction and therefore always infringes the right to carry on business which is guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1952 S C 115 and AIR 1955 S C 661, Rel. on. Where in pursuance of an endorsement made by the Government on the reference made to it by the Board of Revenue the excise authorities demanded an additional payment of a commission of 20 per cent. on the sale of liquor from a licencee to whom the licences in question had already been granted under the Cochin Abkari

Act, and the rules framed thereunder in force on the date of the issue of those licences on his paying the annual fee prescribed by R. 7.

Held, that the imposition of a further duty under S. 17, read with S. 18 on the licences for sale obviously amounted to an amendment of the provisions of R. 7. Even if it was possible to regard the endorsement made by the Government on the reference made to it by the Board of Revenue as a rule or notification prescribing the levy of duty, could not be taken to be an order having the force of law. Hence the impost could not be said to be supported by law.

Held, further that if the endorsement in question was not a rule or notification but merely an order not governed by S. 69, an imposition of a fee on licence for sale under S. 18 (d), was illegal. State of Kerala v. Joseph, 1958 S C J 614: 1958 Ker L T 362 : 1958 Ker L J 543 : 1959 S C A 38 : A I R 1958 S C 296 (299, 300) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Sales Tax—Imposition of tax without due authority—Infringement of fundamental right — It is open to citizen to approach Supreme Court under Art. 32. See Ibid, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1957 S C 790.

[Overruled in AIR 1962 S C 1621.]

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (g), (6) and 32—Illegal impost.

There is a difference between a tax like the income-tax and a license fee for carrying on a business. A license fee on a business not only takes away the property of the licensee but also operates as a restriction on his right to carry on his business, for without payment of such fee the business cannot be carried on at all. If the license fee cannot be justified on the basis of any valid law no question of its reasonableness can arise, for an illegal impost must at all times be an unreasonable restriction and will necessarily infringe the right of the citizen to carry on his occupation, trade or business under Art. 19 (1) (g) and such infringement can properly be made the subject-matter of a challenge under Art. 32. (1951) S C R 127, Disting. Mohammad Yasin v. Town Area Committee, Jalalabad, 1952 S C J 162 : 1952 All L J 313: 1952 Mad W N 492 : 1952 S C R 572 : (1952) S C A 237 : A I R 1952 S C 115 (116) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 265—Heavy taxes—Validity.

If in the exercise of the general policy of taxation each of the units of the federation is empowered to tax on the several items assigned to it respectively, the heaviness of the burden upon an individual, unless it exceeds the constitutional limits, cannot be questioned, prima facie taxation cannot be said to be an abridgment of the fundamental rights. If however, the pith and substance of the legislation is such that the taxes imposed are prohibitive or have the effect of imposing restrictions which are unreasonable and cannot be justified under Cl. (6) of Art. 19, they can be successfully questioned as being unconstitutional. (1958) 2 Andh W R 100 : (1958) 9 S T C 723 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 558 (563, 564) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Taxation powers of State and fundamental rights—Arts. 265 and 286 (2).

Per Ram Labhaya, J. — The fundamental right guaranteed to a person under Art. 19 (1) (g) is not wholly free from the taxing power of the State. If the taxation creates no restrictions on trade which are unreasonable and no restriction is placed on a person's right to purchase or sell wherever he pleases and if the law by which a tax is levied is valid and not in excess of the authority vesting in the State or against any provision contained in the Constitution, the imposition or levy cannot be regarded as unconstitutional merely because it imposes a burden on the trade or business of the person. A I R 1952 Mad 395, Rel. on. ILR (1956) 8 Assam 384 : A I R 1956 Assam 177 (184) (Pt E) (Pr 29) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1962 S C 107.]

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 265—Reasonable restrictions—Taxation—Oppressiveness—Reasonable safeguards.

A Legislature has the power of imposing taxation and it is no good saying that the taxation is oppressive. This is not a matter which concerns the Court. The power to levy a tax would include the power to impose reasonable safeguards in collecting it. (1957) 8 S T C 105 : A I R 1956 Cal 596 (599) (Pt D) (Pr 12).

——Arts. 19, 301, 304, 265 — Levy of fee—Distinction between fee and tax—Gujarat Denatured Spirituous Preparations Rules (1962), R. 37 — Validity — Rule 37 is invalid under Arts. 301, 304 and 19.

Two essentials are necessary to constitute a fee, (1) the existence of the element of quid pro quo and (2) the necessity of ear-marking and setting apart the collections of such an impost to meet the expenses of services for which it is levied and not merging them into the consolidated funds meant for utilization for all public purposes. Cases may arise where under the excuse of levying a fee the Legislature may attempt to impose a tax. In the case of such colourable exercise of legislative power, Courts would have to scrutinise the scheme of the levy very carefully and determine whether in fact there is a co-relation between the service and the levy, or whether the levy is either not co-related with service or is levied to such an excessive extent as to be a pretence of a fee and not a fee in reality. In other words, whether or not particular cess levied by a statute amounts to a fee or a tax would always be a question of facts to be determined from the circumstances of each case. The expression 'vend fee' in R. 37 is an inappropriate expression for there cannot be a vend fee in respect of goods imported by a trader into the State of Gujarat. The cess under R. 37 was neither set apart as a separate fund for the rendition of services to those applying for import passes, nor were its collections earmarked for such a purpose and they were in fact merged in the general consolidated fund which is utilised by means of proper appropriations for all general public purposes. Under these circumstances, it is impossible to say that the levy amounts to a fee. If this levy is held to be a tax and not fee, it was beyond the competence of the legislature and much more so of the State executive. Rule 37, in so far as it seeks to levy such a vend fee, would therefore, be invalid, even on the assumption that the Legislature authorised, under S. 53 of the Act, the State Government to levy such a cess. The fixing of seventy-five naya paise per gallon of imported French Polish and Varnish was arbitrary and without any co-relation between that amount and the costs of services to be rendered. A provision for imposition of such a levy as seventy-five naya paise per gallon of polish and varnish worked out in the case of the petitioners who asked for an import pass for 1500 gallons a month at Rs. 1125/- per month. Such an imposition was bound to unduly tilt the balance in business and trade in favour of local manufacturers as against those from outside the State. Such an impost must obviously be regarded as an impediment and an obstruction against the free flow of inter-State trade and commerce. Therefore such an imposition was a colourable exercise of the right to levy fee and amounted in fact to an imposition of tax. The imposition of such a levy as seventy-five naya paise per gallon on imported French Polish and Varnish without any proportion or co-relation with the expenses that may have to be incurred by the State while rendering services to the importers amounted also to an impediment or an obstruction in the way of freedom of trade and commerce guaranteed by Art. 301 and was not protected by the provisions of Art. 304 (b) as such an imposition fixed arbitrarily was unreasonable. Such an imposition was beyond the competence of the State Legislature and the State Government as it was an imposition as and by way of a tax and was in violation of Art. 301 and was unreasonable and excessive, both under Art. 304 and Art 19 (1) (f) and (g), and must, therfore, be declared to be invalid. A I R 1954 S C 282 ; AIR 1954 S C 388, AIR 1954 S C 400, AIR 1961 S C 459 and AIR 1962 S C 204, Rel. on. (1963) 4 Guj L R 1033 : ILR (1964) Guj 96 : AIR 1964 Guj 59 (78, 80) (Pt I) (Prs 36, 36a, 37, 38) (DB).

——Art. 19—Applicability to taxing statute — Taxing statutes are also to be tested in the light of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution—Even a taxing statute must be struck down as unconstitutional, if it infringes the provisions of Art. 14. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1963 Ker 31.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Taxation laws—Tax on motor vehicles — Differential treatment to motor vehicles plying in different areas on account of difference in density of traffic and road conditions — Discrimination not opposed to Art. 14 — No violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1961 Ker 72 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (6), 265 — Power of taxation and fundamental rights.

If a tax were a restriction which could be legally imposed on a business, the right to carry on which was guaranteed by the Constitution, the validity of the tax cannot be judged by standards applicable to regulations or restrictions imposed on the manner of carrying on the business restrictions which flow from the nature of the commodity or the repercussions of an unregulated trade on the health, morality or safety of the public. Taxation is the supreme function of the State, the exercise of a power which is necessary for the very existence and maintenance of the State. The restraints imposed by taxation are wholly beyond the scope of Art. 19 (6) and therefore not subject to the tests of a valid legislation under that provision. 70 Mad L W 770 : (1957) 8 S T C 690 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 469 : ILR (1958) Mad 35 : A I R 1958 Mad 158 (168, 169) (Pt D) (Pr 42) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), (5), 39 — Wealth Tax Act (1957) — Validity — Does not contravene Art. 19.

Though taxation laws may not be hit by Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution nevertheless they must satisfy the requirements of Arts. 14 and 19. But in considering whether the restrictions are reasonable or not, the Court must have due regard to the Directive Principles of State Policy. Hence once it is held that the levy of wealth tax is for a public purpose i.e., for preventing the concentration of wealth in a few hands, even periodical levy of the tax annually for that purpose with a view to implement the provisions of Art. 39 (c) of the Constitution must be held to be a reasonable restriction, subject to the limitation that the tax is not oppressively burdensome or confiscatory in nature. Then again, the refusal to recognise a transfer in favour of wives and minor children living with the assessees where such transfer is not for adequate consideration (though otherwise valid) must be held to be a reasonable restriction having regard to the main object of preventing large scale evasion of the tax. Doubtless, if such transfers have been ignored for all purposes the restriction may be held to be unreasonable. But S. 4 only refuses to recognise such transfers for the limited purposes of assessment of wealth tax. The transfers are valid for other purposes. By expressly excluding those transfers made for adequate consideration or made in favour of a wife who is living separate from the husband—assessee, the apparent unreasonableness of the restriction is removed. AIR 1962 S C 1006 AIR 1962 S C 1563 and AIR 1964 S C 587, Rel. on. ILR (1964) Cut 1 : 30 Cut L T 299 : (1965) 56 I T R 298 : 1963 I T J (Sup) 146 : AIR 1964 Orissa 128 (133) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (6) and 265 — Tax and licence fee — Distinction.

A licence fee is an imposition or exaction on the right to use or dispose of property, to pursue a business, occupation or calling or to exercise a privilege. A licence fee is imposed primarily with the object of reimbursing the State for the services rendered by it, while a tax is exacted with the object of providing revenue for the State and enabling it to carry on the duties of Government.

It is necessary also to ascertain the power, whether regulatory or taxing, under which the amount is demanded and the purpose for which the demand is made. The amount of the imposition or exaction must be also taken into consideration.

The amount of licence fee need not be confirmed to the mere expenses of issuing the licence but may include any reasonably proper cost of supervision, inspection, examination and regulation of the business, in respect of which the licence is issued. It is not possible to lay down any hard and fast rules for the purpose of determining whether a particular fee is reasonable or otherwise. 58 Punj L R 480 : ILR (1957) Punj 184: AIR 1957 Punj 45 (47) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (6) and 19 (1) (g), 265, 276 and Sch. 7, List 3, Entry 36 — Tax and Fees distinction pointed out — Effect of agreement between former Marwar State and applicant on power of Rajasthan State to levy renewal fees — Levy is not unreasonable and is not void under Art. 19 (1) (g) read with Cl. 6 — Fees are justified under Entry 36, List 3 of Sch. 7—Factories Act (1948), Ss. 6 and 112 — Rules under — Validity. AIR 1954 Raj 178 (179, 180, 181) (Prs 4, 7, 8, 9, 12, 13, 14) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bus stand fee — Fee and tax — Distinction. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co) 4127.

75 (a). Income-tax Acts.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Validity of Ss. 2 (6-A) (e) and 12 (1-B), Income-tax Act (1922) — Provisions do not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g). See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 2 (6-A) (e). AIR 1965 S C 1375.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Validity of Ss. 2 (6-A) (e) and 12 (1-B) of Income-tax Act, 1922 — Provisions do not contravene the Article. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 2 (6-A) (e). AIR 1965 S C 1375.

● ——Art. 19 (5) — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a) (i) and (ii) — Validity — Test of reasonableness of restriction — Section 16 (3) amounts to reasonable restriction on rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a) (i). AIR 1962 S C 123.

● ——Art. 19 — Madras Revenue Recovery Act, S 48 — Validity — Arrest and imprisonment of defaulter — Nature of — Validity of S. 46 (2) and S. 48 of Madras Act. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2). AIR 1957 S C 688.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Income-tax (1922), Ss. 5 (7-A) and 64—Constitutionality of — Whether discriminatory — Whether unreasonable restriction on fundamental right to carry on trade — Abuse of power — Remedy of aggrieved party. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1957 S C 397.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Compulsory Deposit Scheme Act (1963) — Validity — Act does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g).

It cannot be contended that the Compulsory Deposit Scheme Act, 1963 which was, so to speak, in lieu of Additional Surcharge was violative of the principles laid down in Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. The Compulsory Deposit Scheme now applies to those who are subject to additional surcharge and if an inducement is held out to them to make deposits regularly for which a corresponding rebate from additional surcharge is to be given, it cannot per se infringe any Article of the Constitution. It cannot be said that by such inducement in making the compulsory deposit, Government was discriminating between persons other than salaried employees from carrying on freely their profession, occupation or trade. The Compulsory Deposit Scheme applies to a well defined class and the Finance Act of 1963 cannot be said to place any restriction on the free exercise of any profession, trade or occupation. (1965) 1 I T J 63: (1965) 57 I T R 749 : AIR 1965 All 37 (38) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — U. P. Agricultural Income-tax Act (3 of 1949), S. 6 (1), Proviso 1 — Validity—Question of infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) does not arise. See U. P. Agricultural Income-tax Act (3 of 1949), S. 6 (1), Proviso 1. AIR 1953 All 25 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 31 and 265 — Applicability — Validity of taxing statute — Test —Section 46 (5-A) of Income-tax Act — Validity.

Constitutionality of S. 46 (5-A), Income-tax Act cannot be challenged on the ground that it violates Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. The validity of the law which provides for a levy or collection of a tax cannot be tested with reference to Art. 19 of the Constitution.

The protection against imposition and collection of taxes arises directly from Art. 265 and is not secured by Cl. (1) of Art. 31. The power of taxation is regarded as distinct from the exercise of police power or eminent domain. The limitations imposed on the exercise of police powers under Art. 19 cannot be placed on the exercise of the taxing power of the State. The result of acting under S. 46 (5-A), Income-tax Act is to deprive the assessee of his property and not only to regulate the use of the property or to restrain the right to hold and possess the property. Such a law, if at all, is one dealing with the deprivation of property and will thus be outside the scope of Art. 19. AIR 1957 S C 688, Applied. It cannot be said that S. 46 (5-A) gives an unfettered discretion to the Income-tax Officer and is therefore violative of Art. 19 being an unreasonable restriction on the right of the assessee to hold or possess property. (1961) 41 I T R 80 : AIR 1960 Assam 76 (84, 85, 86) (Pt E) (Prs 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21) (DB).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 37 (2) —Validity — Section does not violate Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 37 (2). A I R 1961 Cal 578 (SB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Bengal Agricultural Income-tax Act, S. 56—Validity. See Bengal Agricultural Income-tax Act (4 of 1944), S. 56. A I R 1959 Cal 490 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f)—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 23-A—Constitutionality of — S. 23-A, Income-tax Act does not offend Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and 31 of the Constitution. (1961) 41 I T R 21 (Mad).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1964 S C 1804,]

——Arts. 19, 14 — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 23-A (as enacted in 1939)—S. 23-A does not offend Art. 14 or any other fundamental right. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1957 Mad 133.

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Section 16 (3) (a) (1) of Income-tax Act, 1922—Does not offend against Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a) (i). (1965) 2 I T J 820 : A I R 1966 Pat 187.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Income-tax Act (1922), Ss. 16 (3) (a) and 16 (3) (b) — Sections do not violate Art. 14 or Art. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) of Constitution. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 16 (3) (a). A I R 1965 Pat 114 (DB).

75 (b). Sales Tax Acts.

● ——Arts. 19 and 31—Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9—Sales Tax—Bombay Sales Tax Act (5 of 1946), S. 20 — Suit of civil nature — Such suit barred expressly or impliedly by statute — Sales tax recovered from dealer under mistake of fact and law—Suit to recover tax so recovered — Contention raised that S. 20 of Bombay Sales Tax Act, 1946 was not bar to such suit and if a bar was constitutionally invalid—Held S. 20 was bar to such suit—Section 20 was also held constitutionally valid. A I R 1947 P C 78, Rel. on ; A I R 1955 S C 661, Ref.; A I R 1964 S C 322, Foll. Kamala Mills Ltd. v. State of Bombay, (1965) 16 S T C 613 : (1965) 2 S C A 233 : 1965 Kant L J 77 : (1965) 57 I T R 643 : (1965) 2 S C W R 485 : A I R 1965 S C 1942 (1946, 1947, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953) (Pt C) (Prs 13, 22, 26, 30, 32, 36, 38).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Orissa Sales Tax Validation Act (7 of 1961), S. 2—Not unconstitutional on ground that it imposes unreasonable restriction on fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g). See Sales Tax—Orissa Sales Tax Validation Act (7 of 1961), S. 2. A I R 1964 S C 1581.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (1) (g) — M. B. Sales of Motor Spirit Taxation Act (20 of 1953)—Act is not beyond the legislative competence of the State of Madhya Pradesh — Levy of tax not an infringement of fundamental rights under Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 286. 1963 Mah L J 493 : (1964) 1 S C R 488.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Vegetables— Meaning — Pan (betel leaves) not included — Conditional exemption of pan from sales tax on payment of annual fee not violative of Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (g) of Constitution—Rajasthan Notification, dated 1-4-1958—Validity. See Sales Tax—Rajasthan Sales Tax Act (29 of 1954), S. 4 (2). A I R 1963 S C 351.

● ——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Sales Tax — Assam Sales Tax Act (17 of 1947), S. 15 — Amendment introduced by S. 2 of Assam Act 13 of 1960 deleting sub-s. (b) of Item (i) of sub-cl. (b) of Cl. (1) is not illegal. See Sales Tax—Asssm Sales Tax Act (17 of 1947), S. 15. 1962 (Supp) 2 S C R 589.

● ——Arts. 19 (6) (1) (g), 245 and 226—Sales Tax—Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (1941) (as amended by Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) (Delhi Amendment) Act 17 of 1956), S. 8-A, as in force in Delhi—Powers conferred on Commissioner are not unlimited and unrestricted — Provision for demanding security is not arbitrary or unreasonable restriction — Amount of security — Power to demand is not constitutionally invalid. See Sales Tax — Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (1941) (as amended by Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) (Delhi Amendment) Act 17 of 1956), S. 8-A. (1962) 1 S C R 283.

● ——Art. 19 (6) and (1) (g) — Madras Sales of Motor Spirit Taxation (Andhra Pradesh Extension and Amendment) Act (5 of 1958), Ss. 4 (1) and (6) and 26—Rule 14 framed under S. 26—Sub-sections (1) and (6) are constitutional and do not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution—Restrictions imposed are reasonable within Art. 19 (6). See Madras Sales of Motor Spirit Taxation (Andhra Pradesh Extension and Amendment) Act (5 of 1958), S. 4 (1). A I R 1961 S C 1471.

●——Art. 19 (1) (f), Sch. 2, List II, Item 54 — Sales tax legislation — Orissa Sales Tax Act (1947) (as amended by Act 28 of 1958), S. 14-A—Validity.

The Orissa Sales Tax (Amendment) Act (28 of 1958), which incorporates S. 14-A, depriving the assessees of the common law right to claim refund of amounts paid as tax under an error of law and providing that refund shall be claimable only by the person from whom the dealer has actually realised the amounts by way of sales-tax, is not beyond the competence of the State Legislature. Nor is it void on the ground that it imposes an unreasonable restriction upon the assessee's fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution.

Assuming that by enacting that refund of tax shall only be made to the purchasers from whom the tax has been collected by the dealers and not to the dealers who had paid the tax the fundamental right of the dealers under Art. 19 (1) (f) is restricted and the restriction imposed by S. 14-A of the Act is in the interest of the general public. Orient Paper Mills, Ltd. v. State of Orissa, (1961) 12 S T C 357 : (1961) 1 Ker L R 567 : 27 Cut L T 361 : 1961 S C D 655 : (1962) 1 S C A 289 : (1962) 1 S C R 549 : (1961) 2 S C J 610 : A I R 1961 S C 1438 (1439, 1440) (Prs 5, 6, 7).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—U. P. Sales Tax Act (15 of 1948), S. 8-A (6) — Second Proviso — Restriction in proviso attached to filing of revision is not restriction against freedom to carry on business — Hence proviso is not ultra vires. (1964) 15 S T C 631 : A I R 1965 All 124 (125) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and (f) and 226—Imposition of sales tax—Infringement of fundamental right—Validity of Sales Tax Law challenged—Relief through writ petition is a more proper remedy — Existence of alternative remedy, no bar to issue of writ. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1964 All 284.

——Arts. 19 and 265 — Applicability — Taxing measure — (Madras Sales of Motor Spirit Taxation Act (6 of 1939))—Validity.

A taking measure cannot be tested on the touchstone of Art. 19. The only test to be satisfied in regard to taxing legislations is that laid down in Art. 265. So long as that is not violated, the taxing statute cannot be challenged. That apart, it is surely open to the legislature to impose certain restrictions on the rights guaranteed to a citizen under Art. 19. A trader cannot claim to carry on his trade without payment of taxes. Such a taxing provision is valid and enforceable as incidental to the power to levy and collect tax and it is not designed to unduly restrict the right of a citizen to carry on his business. A I R 1951 S C 97, Foll. I L R 1960) 1 Andh Pra 232 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 246 (253) (Pt C) (Prs 34, 35) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Validity of Assam Sales Tax Act. See Sales Tax — Assam Sales Tax Act (17 of 1947), S. 1. A I R 1955 Assam 113 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (a) — Bombay Sales Tax Act (24 of 1952), is ultra vires of the State Legislature. ('53) 55 Bom L R 246 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1953 S C 252.]

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941), S. 5 (1) — Illegal tax on sales — Contravenes Art. 19 (1) (g).

An ultra vires or illegal imposition on sales constitutes an infringement of the seller's fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g). A I R 1954 S C 403 and A I R 1953 S C 252 and A I R 1961 S C 65, Rel. on. A I R 1965 Cal 498 (506) (Pt I) (Pr 55).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Cotton fabrics declared goods of special importance — Imposition of sales tax under S. 5 (1) of Bengal Act 6 of 1941, in excess of 2% laid down in S. 15 of Central Act, was ultra vires, till the time the former section was amended to conform with latter section. See Sales Tax — Bengal Finance Sales Tax Act (6 of 1941), S. 5 (1) (as it stood prior to its amendment by Act 13 of 1959). A I R 1965 Cal 203.

——Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g), 19 (5) — Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941) (as amended by Bengal Act 19 of 1954), S. 17—Validity—Does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (f) or (g).

Section 17 imposes reasonable restrictions in the interests of the general public on the exercise of the right of the transferee to carry on the business transferred to him and to hold it. The section on its true construction does not render the transferee punishable under S. 22 for the acts and omissions of the original dealer. The restrictions imposed by the section are not unreasonable. Section 17 is not therefore an infraction of the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) of the Constitution and the law is saved by Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. 67 Cal W N 510 : (1964) 15 S T C 277 : A I R 1963 Cal 578 (580, 581) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Bengal Sales Tax Rules, R. 27A —Whether infringes Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution. See Sales Tax - Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941), S. 5 (2) (a) (ii) Proviso. (1962) 13 S T C 138 (Cal).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) — Exemption under S. 5 (2) (a) (ii), Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act — Precondition — Whether unreasonable restriction — See Sales Tax — Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941), S. 5 (2) (a) (ii). (1959) 10 S T C 241 (Cal).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — S. 7 (4), Bengal Finance Sales Tax Act — If repugnant to article. See Sales Tax — Bengal Finance Sales Tax Act (6 of 1941), S. 7 (4). (1957) 8 S T C 517 : ILR (1958) 2 Cal 285.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Reasonable restrictions — S. 7 (4-A), Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941) — If ultra vires.

As S. 7 (4-A) has been enacted, there are two limitations expressly mentioned therein. First of all, the Commissioner can only demand security "for good or sufficient reasons." The reason must be good or sufficient objectively and the matter is justiciable. The second limitation is that it must be "reasonable security." This again means that if there is a good or sufficient reason, then the security demanded must be compatible with a reason. If the security is arbitrary, or unconnected with the reason, which has impelled the Commissioner to demand security, or disproportionately large then it will be bad. Section 7 (4A) therefore does not confer unfettered and arbitrary power upon the Commissioner and the restriction imposed by it are reasonable restrictions and do not contravene the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. It is not ultra vires. (1957) 8 S T C 105: AIR 1956 Cal 596 (599) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — (Kerala) General Sales Tax (Amendment) Act (14 of 1959) — Validity. See Sales Tax—(Kerala) General Sales Tax Act (11 of 1125 ME), S. 3 (1) (b). AIR 1961 Ker 36 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) — Mysore Sales Tax Act (25 of 1957), S. 18 (3)—Legislation providing for forfeiture of amount collected as sales tax in contravention of statute — Validity — Provision in S. 18 (3) of the Act violates Art. 19 (1) (f) and is void. AIR 1958 S C 328, Applied. 40 Mys L J 514 : (1962) 13 S T C 322 : AIR 1962 Mys 183 (185) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (f), 226, 245 and 254, Sch. 7, List 2 Entry 54—Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1959), S. 20-A — Validity — Dealer has no right to challenge its validity on ground of violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution — S. 20-A is valid and intra vires the State Legislature.

Section 20-A of the Bihar Sales Tax Act, 1959 is intra vires the State Legislature under Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 54 of the Constitution and is a valid legislation. The provisions of S. 20-A of the Act and S. 14A, Orissa Sales Tax Act are in pari materia. There is no material distinction between them. Consequently, the Supreme Court decision in AIR 1961 S C 1438 would apply equally in determining the validity of S. 20-A relating to refund of unauthorised collection of sales tax. AIR 1964 S C 922, Dist.

Section 72, Contract Act and S. 20-A of the Bihar Act are not in conflict. Section 20-A cannot be challenged as a colourable piece of legislation. The provision in S. 20-A of the Bihar Act which enacts that the application for refund must be filed within the period of limitation allowed by law cannot be struck down as invalid. 1965 B L J R 431 : AIR 1966 Pat 54 (57, 58, 59, 60) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 12) (DB).

75 (c). Miscellaneous.

● —Art. 19 (1) (f)—Central Provinces Local Self-Government Act (4 of 1920 as amended by C. P. Act (7 of 1933), Ss. 51, 79(1)(xv)—Rules under S. 79 framed by Local Government, Rr. 3, 7, 8, 9—Validity — Impost of tax under S. 51 — Art. 19 (1) (f) not violated. See Central Provinces Local Self-Government Act (4 of 1920 as amended by C. P. Act 7 of 1933), S. 51. AIR 1964 S C 1013.

● —Art. 19 (1) (g) — Assam Taxation (on Goods Carried by Road or on Inland Waterways) Act (10 of 1961), S. 34 — Validity—Does not prohibit remedy by way of appeal or revision — Section not discriminatory or otherwise invalid. See Assam Taxation (on Goods by Road or on Inland Waterways) Act (10 of 1961), S. 34. AIR 1964 S C 925.

● —Art. 19 — Assam Taxation (on Goods Carried by Road or on Inland Waterways) Act (10 of 1961), S. 3 — Validity — Determination of validity of tax laws — Powers of Court — Considerations involved — Tax under S. 3 of Assam Act imposed only on tea and jute—Tax not unconstitutional. See Assam Taxation (on Goods Carried by Road or Inland Waterways) Act (10 of 1961), S. 3. AIR 1964 S C 925.

● —Arts. 19 (1) (f) (g), (5) and (6) and 304 (b) and Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 56—Bihar Taxation on Passengers and Goods (Carried by Public Service Motor Vehicles) Act (Bihar 17 of 1961), S. 3 — Validity of Bihar Act 17 of 1961—Retrospective effect of Act — Act competently enacted within Entry 56 of List 2 —It is reasonable and valid within ambit of Arts. 19 (5) and (6) and 304 (b).

Where in its essential features a taxing statute is within the legislative competence of the Legislature which passed it by reference to the relevant entry in the List, its character is not necessarily changed merely by the retrospective operation so as to take the said retrospective operation outside the legislative competence of the said Legislature.

The Bihar Finance Act, 1950 (Bihar 17 of 1950) was declared by the Supreme Court as unconstitutional. Thereafter an Ordinance, namely, Bihar Ordinance No. 2 of 1961 was issued by the State of Bihar. By this Ordinance, the material provisions of the earlier Act of 1950 which had been struck down by the Supreme Court were validated and brought into force retrospectively. Subsequently, the provisions of the said Ordinance were incorporated in the Act, namely, the Bihar Taxation on Passengers and Goods (Carried by Public Service Motor Vehicles) Act, 1961 (Bihar 17 of 1961). As a result of the retrospective operation of this Act, its material provisions were deemed to have come into force on April 1, 1950, the date on which the earlier Act of 1950 had come into force. The appellants challenged the validity of this Act of 1961.

Held (i) that as the scheme of S. 3 for the levy and recovery of the tax was valid under Entry 56 of List 2 of Sch. 7 so far as future recoveries were concerned, it was not easy to see how it could be said that the character of the tax was radically changed in the present circumstances. The tax recovered retrospectively like the one which would be recovered prospectively still continued to be a tax on passengers and it adopted the same machinery for the recovery of the tax both as to the past as well as to the future; (ii) that the nature of the tax in the present case was the same both in regard to prospective and retrospective operations. The argument that the retrospective operation of the Act was beyond the legislative competence of the Bihar Legislature must, therefore, be rejected; having regard to all the relevant facts of this case, the restrictions imposed by the said retrospective operation must be held to be reasonable and in the public interest under Art. 19 (5) and (6) and also reasonable under Art. 304 (b); (iii) that Part 13 of the Constitution contained provisions which constitute a self-contained Code and the Court need not really travel outside the said provisions in determining the validity of the tax imposed by the Bihar Act. Rai Ramkrishna v. State of Bihar, (1964) 1 S C A 413: ILR 42 Pat 796 : (1964) 1 SCR 897 : (1964) 2 S C J 749 : (1963) 50 ITR 171 : AIR 1963 S C 1667 (1673, 1674, 1675, 1676, 1677)(Pt F)(Prs 13, 15, 17, 20, 21).

● —Art. 19 — Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), Sch. I, Item 17 — Levy of excise duty on footwears under Item 17 is not discriminatory — It is valid and cannot be attacked under Arts. 19 and 31 of Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1963 S C 104.

● —Art. 19 (1) (f) — U. P. Large Land Holdings Tax Act (31 of 1957), S. 5 (1) and Schedule — Constitutional validity — Not void on ground of contravention of Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) of the Constitution — Constitution of India, Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2). See U. P. Large Land Holdings Tax Act (31 of 1957), S. 5 (1) and Schedule. A I R 1962 S C 1563.

● —Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Section 178-A, Sea Customs Act (1878)—Validity — S. 178-A is valid — A I R 1962 S C 316, Foll. Pukhraj v. D. R. Kohli, Collector of Central Excise, Madh. Pra., 65 Bom L R 281 : 1963 M P L J 460 : 1963 Mah L J 468 : (1964) 1 S C J 281 : 1964 Mad L J (Cri) 161 : (1962) Supp 3 S C R 866 : AIR 1962 S C 1559 (1560) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

—Art. 19 (1) (g)—Scope — Retrospective effect of U. P. Sugarcane Cess Act (22 of 1956)—It infringes Art. 19 (1) (g).

The fact that, as a consequence of the cess being made retrospective the petitioner may now have to pay in one year a sum of money, representing accumulations of tax for past year does not infringe Art. 19(1)(g). The argument is tantamount to saying that a heavy tax is unconstitutional. It cannot be argued that the retrospective operation of the provisions of the impugned Act is oppressive and constitutes an unreasonable restriction on the petitioners' right to carry on their trade or business. A I R 1957 All 159 (166) (Pt K) (Prs 37, 39) (DB).

—Art. 19 (6) and (1) (g)—Municipalities — Calcutta Municipal Act (1951), S. 548 (2) — Imposition under, if violates fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g). See Municipalities — Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 548 (2). AIR 1959 Cal 45.

—Art. 19 (1) (f)—Tax law — Tax on land — Classification of lands ultimately resulting in uniform levy per acre without any relation to income — Absence of quasi-judicial approach in matter of assessment, levy and collection of tax — Constitutional validity — Kerala Land Tax Act (13 of 1961), Ss. 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 17 and 19—Kerala Land Tax Rules (1961) — Entire Act and Rules framed thereunder declared unconstitutional—Interpretation of Statutes—Unconstitutionality of Legislation — Severability, question relating to — If Rules framed alone can be struck down. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1963 Ker 155.

——Art. 19 (1) (g) — Scope — Travancore-Cochin Entertainment Tax (Validation of Levy and Collection) Act, 1955 — Validity. See Travancore-Cochin Entertainment Tax (Validation of Levy and Collection) Act (26 of 1955), S. 3. AIR 1959 Ker 43 (DB).

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 23 and 304 — Madhya Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Taxation of Passengers) Act, 1959 (M. P. Act 17 of 1959), S. 3 — Tax imposed by M. P. Act — It is imposed on passengers and not on operators of motor vehicles — The Act is valid—It does not offend Arts. 19, 23 and 304 1962 M P C 31 : 1962 Jab L J 214 : 1962 M P L J 633 : I L R (1963) Madh Pra 45 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 108 (110) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 19—Mysore Buildings Tax Act (1963), S. 4—Classification based on floorage of building, not rational — Classification has no just relationship with object of Act—Act violates fundamental rights under Arts. 14 and 19 of Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1965 Mys 170 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) — Constitutional validity of Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act (7 of 1922), S. 82 (1) (ff) — Unrestricted power to subordinate body (Municipality) to impose professional tax at whatever rate it chooses—Not unreasonable and arbitrary. See Municipality — Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act (7 of 1922), S. 82 (1) (ff). 1965 B L J R 886.

● ——Art. 19 — Bihar Finance Act (17 of 1950) — Part III—Validity — Provisions of, do not contravene Arts. 14, 19, 23 or of Part XIII of the Constitution — (Constitution of India, Arts. 14, 19, 23, 246, Part XIII). See Bihar Finance Act (17 of 1950), Part III. AIR 1952 Pat 359 (SB).

——Art. 19—Section 6 (4) of Punjab Act (16 of 1952) not ultra vires on ground that it confers uncontrolled or unregulated power to reopen past assessment. See Punjab Passengers and Goods (Taxation) Act (16 of 1952), S. 6 (4). AIR 1964 Punj 438 (DB).

— Arts. 19 (6), 265 and 266—Tax or fees—Income from licence fees imposed under Punjab Act (12 of 1954) collected and received in treasury—Nature of —"Revenues" in Art. 266—Meaning—Licence fee if forms part of Consolidated Fund.

From the fact that the income derived from the licences issued under the Punjab Tobacco Vend Fees Act of 1954 is collected and received into the treasury of the State and is not earmarked for the administration of the Act, it cannot be said that the imposition ceases to be of the nature of the fees. It is not possible for any income from fees being kept out of the treasury and utilized for a particular purpose, for Art. 266 of the Constitution declares that all revenues received by the Government of a State shall form one consolidated fund to be entitled "the Consolidated Fund of the State". The expression "revenues" appearing in this article has not been defined but there can be no manner of doubt that it means 'the income of the nation derived from its taxes, duties or other sources for the payment of the nation's expenses'. If all the income of the State must, in view of the constitutional requirements, be credited to and form part of the Consolidated Fund of the State, it is obvious that the income derived by the State from the imposition of licence fees cannot be kept out of the general revenues or be earmarked for special purposes. 58 Pun L R 480 : I L R (1957) Punj 184 : A I R 1957 Punj 54 (48) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

——Arts. 19 (1) (g), 245 and Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 56 — Punjab Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (15 of 1952) (as amended by Punjab Act (21 of 1952)), Ss. 3, 4, 8, 9 and 10—Act is not 'ultra vires'—Ss. 3, 4, 8 and 9 are valid—S. 10 is invalid. A I R 1955 N U C (Punj) 1887.

76. Right to strike.

● ——Arts. 19 (1) (a), (b), 309—Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4-A—Validity—Is invalid in so far as to prohibit any form of demonstration but cannot be struck down in so far as it prohibits strikes.

Rule 4-A of the Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955) in the form in which it now stands prohibiting any form of demonstration is violative of the Government servants' rights under Art. 19(1)(a) and (b) and should, therefore, be struck down. But in so far as the said rule prohibits a strike it cannot be struck down for the reason that there is no fundamental right to resort to a strike. Where the charge against the Government servant is not that he participated in any strike but the charge is that he participated in the various demonstrations, that is, a charge based upon that part of the rule which prohibits demonstrations altogether, the fact that the demonstrations in which he is alleged to have participated actively were organised in connection with the strike does not mean either in fact or in law that he participated in the strike itself. Similarly, the charge that he took active part in the preparations made for the strike also does not mean in fact or in law that he participated in the strike and so the charge cannot be reasonably construed to mean that his conduct amounted to a contravention of the rule which prohibits strikes. A I R 1962 S C 1166, Foll.; Misc. Petn. No. 255 of 1960, dated 18-1-1961, decided by Bombay High Court, Reversed. O. K. Ghosh v. E. X. Joseph, (1963) Supp 1 S C R 789 : (1963) 1 S C W R 168 : 1964 Mah L J 509 : 1964 M P L J 599 : 66 Bom L R 93 : 1964 M P L J 599 : (1962) 5 Fac L R 511 : (1963) 2 S C A 117 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 615 : (1963-64) 24 F J R 115 : AIR 1963 S C 812 (814, 816) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 13).

● ——Art. 19 (1) (a) and (b)—Prohibition against resorting to strike is valid—In so far as it prohibits any form of demonstration, the rule violates Art. 19 (1) (a)—Provisions of rule not being separable entire rule is invalid. A I R 1959 Pat 187, Reversed. See Bihar Government Servants' Conduct Rules (1956), R. 4-A. AIR 1962 S C 1166.

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4 (A)—Constitutional validity—Prohibition against resorting to strike and participating in any demonstration — Whether violative of Art. 19 (1) (a), (b), (c) or (g) of the Constitution. See Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules (1955), R. 4 (A). A I R 1962 Bom 53 (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (c), (4)—Right to strike not included in right to form associations or unions — Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960), Ss. 3 (1) and 7—Restrictions imposed by Ordinance are within limits provided by Cl. (4).

The right to go on strike is not included in the fundamental right conferred on the citizens under Art. 19 (1) (c) of the Constitution to form associations or unions. Observations to the contrary in AIR 1958 Pat 51, held obiter.

Having regard to the danger to be averted, the restrictions imposed by the Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance promulgated by the President are reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right conferred by Art. 19(1) (c) imposed in the interests of public order, within the limits prescribed by Cl. (4) of Art. 19 of the Constitution.

The words 'public interest' used in sub-s. (1) of S. 3 have to be read in the context of other provisions of the Ordinance and when so read there is no doubt that the restrictions imposed are in the interests of public order. (1963) 2 Lab L J 264 : 63 Bom L R 774 : 1961 Nag L J 695 : (1961-62) 21 F J R 441 : AIR 1962 Bom 53 (65, 66, 67) (Pt D) (Prs 40, 49, 55) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g)—Right to carry on occupation of Government service — Ordinance preventing them from going on strike — No contravention of their right not to carry on occupation—Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960), S. 3—Constitutional validity.

It is true that the right to carry on occupation includes the right not to carry on occupation. But by going on strike the Government servants do not choose not to carry on their occupation of Government service; on the other hand, they want to remain into the occupation, viz., they want to remain in Government service, take their pay and yet not work and that is not choosing not to carry on the occupation. It is open to them to resign from Government service if they so desire. The Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance does not prohibit them from doing so. In that view the Ordinance in so far as it prevents them from going on strike, does not prevent them from exercising their right not to carry on their occupation of Government service and so does not contravene Art. 19 (1)(g). 63 Bom L R 774: 1961 Nag L J 695 : (1961-62) 21 F J R 441 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 264 : AIR 1962 Bom 53 (67) (Pt E) (Pr 57) (DB).

——Art. 19 (1) (g) —Strike—Nature of right—(Industrial Disputes Act (1949), S. 24).

Every strike is not illegal and the workers enjoy the fundamental right to resort to strike whenever they are so pleased in order to express their grievances or to make certain demands. This fundamental right cannot in any way, be limited by Standing Orders. Strikes are illegal under the Indian law only when penalties have been imposed for them for contravention of the provisions of Ss. 22, 23 and 24 of the Act. 1958 Cri L J 81 : A I R 1958 Pat 51 (56, 57) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

ARTICLE 20

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Art. 20)

1. Scope.
2. Ex post facto laws — Clause (1)—Scope.
   (a) Ex post facto laws and their validity.
   (b) "Law in force".
   (c) Pre-Constitution laws.
   (d) Continuing offences.
   (e) Retrospective effect of laws creating offences.
   (f) Law enhancing punishment.
   (g) Change in procedure.
3. Double jeopardy for same offence—Rule against —Clause (2).
   (a) Bar to fresh trial under Criminal P. C., S. 403.
   (b) Both prosecution and punishment necessary.
   (c) "Prosecuted", meaning of.
   (d) Judicial proceeding necessary.
   (e) Civil action.
   (f) Preventive detention.
   (g) Security proceedings.
   (h) Departmental or disciplinary proceedings.
   (i) Same offence.
   (j) Distinct offences.
4. Accused not to be compelled to be witness against himself—Clause (3).
   (a) Failure to give evidence—Inference from.
   (b) "Person accused of any offence".
      (i) Examination under S. 45G, Banking Companies Act.
      See also Ibid, Note 6 (d).
      (ii) Persons examined under S. 171A, Sea Customs Act.
      (iii) Person giving evidence under S. 240, Companies Act (1956).
      (iv) Other Cases.
5. Statement of accused under Criminal P. C., S. 342.
6. Compulsion to be witness—What amounts to.
   (a) Enquiry under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850).
   (b) Direction to accused to appear in identification parade or to exhibit his body or identifying marks on it.
   (c) Search and seizure of documents from the person or the custody of the accused.
   (d) Public examination of directors and office bearers under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act.
   See also Ibid, Note 4 (b) (i).
   (e) Direction to produce documents or other incriminating evidence.
   (f) Taking of thumb impression, specimen writing or signature etc.
7. Evidence Act, S. 132—Validity of.
8. Unreasonable searches and seizure.
9. Confessions of accused obtained under pressure.

1. Scope.

■——Art. 20—Interpretation of — Art. 19 gives list of individual liberties, while Arts. 20 to 22 primarily deal with penal or other laws—See Ibid, Art. 19—AIR 1950 S C 27.

——Art. 20, Preamble — Interpretation of — Reference to English decisions — See Ibid, Preamble—AIR 1958 Andh Pra 756.

——Art. 20—Approver — Position of — Whether that of accused or witness — Approver can be kept in custody — Art. 20 has no application — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 337. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh B) 5650.

2. Ex post facto laws—Clause (1)—Scope.

■——Art. 20 — Restrospective operation of law— An ex post facto law — If falls within prohibition under Art. 20 of Constitution — See Interpretation of Statutes. 1965 (1) Cr L J 360 : AIR 1965 SC 444.

■——Art. 20 (1) —Scope and object.

Article 20 (1) in its broad import has been enacted to prohibit convictions and sentences under ex post facto laws. This article must be taken to prohibit all convictions or subjections to penalty after the Constitution in respect of ex post facto law whether the same was a post-Constitution law or a pre-Constitution law.

Difference between Art. 20 (1) and Ss. 9 (3) and 10 of Art. 1 of the American Constitution pointed out. Shiv Bahadur Singh v. State of V.P., 1953 S C J 563: 1953 Cr L J 1480 : 1953 S C R 1188 : 1953 S C A 803 : AIR 1953 S C 394 (398) (Pt D) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20 — Scope— Prevention of Corruption Act, S. 5 (2)—Constitutional validity—Section whether has made some act punishable which was not punishable at the time when it was committed — See Prevention of Corruption Act 1947, S. 5. 1958 All L J 424: 1958 Cr R 335.

●——Art. 20 (1) — Bihar Land Encroachment Act (31 of 1950), S. 9—Validity.

Section 9, Bihar Land Encroachment Act, 1950, in terms is not hit by Art. 29 (1) of the Constitution. But the meaning which is being given to the, expression "unauthorisedly occupies" violates the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution and, as such this section is also unconstitutional and invalid. The possibility of the Act being applied in an unauthorised and arbitrary manner is sufficient to make it unconstitutional and S. 9 cannot be considered independently of the other provisions of the Act and especially of the provision where the expression "unauthorisedly occupies" has been explained.

But the words as used in this section do not indicate that there can be a punishment inflicted without a formal trial. The words "shall on conviction, be liable to a fine" carry with them the import that there should be a trial. Trial is contemplated by S. 9, and certainly it is the natural right of every accused to ask for a trial before he is convicted. Section 9 contemplates a regular punishment, and the words "on conviction" go to show that even this Act, badly framed as it is, did contemplate to some extent that before the punishment a sort of trial was to be held. AIR 1950 S C 27, Foll. Brij Bhukan v. S. D. O. Siwan, 33 Pat 690 : 1954 B L J R 513 : AIR 1955 Pat 1 (34) (Pt Za) (Pr 27) (SB).

2 (a). Ex post facto laws and their validity.

——Art. 20 (1)—Order of externment under S. 57, Bombay Police Act — Order, if offends against Article—(Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), Ss. 57 and 59).

The object of S. 57 of Bombay Police Act, 1951 is to protect the locality or area concerned from the probable commission of the offence by the externee. In that sense, the order is more preventive in intention and action than punitive. Previous convictions of the type and of the categories mentioned in the first part of S. 57 are, no doubt, a condition precedent. Assuming, therefore, that an order of externment can be regarded as a penalty within the meaning of Art. 20 (1), the penalty is imposed on the externee more directly and more substantially for the tendency which he exhibits on the date of notice under S. 59 of the Act. Since the penalty cannot reasonably be said to be the result of his previous convictions it cannot be held that the order of externment offends against the provisions of Art. 20 (1) and is therefore invalid. 57 Bom L R 560: ILR (1955) Bom 781 : 1955 Cr L J 1239 : AIR 1955 Bom 346 (347, 348) (Pr A) (Frs 4, 5) (DB).

●——Art. 20 —S. 19, Preventive Detention Act, does not contravene Art. 20—See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 19. AIR 1954 J and K 59 (FB).

——Arts. 20, 245, 246 and 248—Power of Parliament to pass retrospective legislation for Madhya Bharat—General Clauses Act (1897), S. 6.

There is no doubt that the Administration of Evacuee Property Act 1950, is meant to be retrospective. There is in our Constitution a limitation on the power of the Legislatures to make retrospective criminal legislation. These limitations are stated in Art. 20. But except for this Article, there is no other provision in the Constitution which points to any limitation of the plenary powers of the Parliament and the State Legislatures so long as they keep within the ambit of the subjects of the legislation specifically assigned to them. There is nothing in Arts. 245,246 and 248 to indicate an intention to withhold from the Parliament the same absolute discretion as the British Parliament has with regard to past events as well as present and future, provided of course Parliament confines itself to the specified subjects and legislates within the limitations prescribed by Art. 20. From the principle of the supremacy of the Parliament and the State Legislatures within their allotted spheres, it follows that in the absence of express provision to the contrary, the Parliament and any State Legislature can give to their laws otherwise valid, retrospective or prospective operation. The Constitution does not restrict or limit the legislative competence of Parliament so as to make it exercisable only with regard to that part of territory of India or only with regard to those subjects in regard to which the Dominion Legislature had before 26-1-1950 the power to legislate. The question therefore of the power of Parliament to legislate retrospectively or prospectively with respect to a subject, is in no way affected by the powers of the Dominion Legislature under the Government of India Act, 1935. It is to the provisions of the present Constitution that we must look for determining the powers of the Parliament. Section 6 of the General Clauses Act cannot be invoked in such cases for holding that the effect of the repeal of the Government of India Act 1935 is to confirm for ever the rights vested in the citizens just before the commencement of the Constitution and to deny to the Parliament and the State Legislatures the power of interfering with those rights by enacting retrospective legislation under the powers enforced on them by Arts. 245 and 246 of the Constitution. Section 6 of the General Clauses Act which merely lays down one of the general rules of construction of statutes, can have no applicability where the Government of India Act 1935 is not merely repealed but is substituted by a new Constitution under which the Parliament and the State Legislatures are not prohibited from legislating for the past and of interfering with vested rights. Section 6 of the General Clauses Act would have again no applicability where the Parliament and the State Legislatures with the legislative competence of retrospective legislation pass an enactment giving it in express terms retrospective effect. Further before 26-1-50, the Dominion Legislature functioning under the Government of India Act 1935, had the power to legislate for State of Madhya Bharat with respect to the custody, management and disposal of property declared by law to be evacuee property, by virtue of the instrument of Accession executed by the Raj-pramukh of Madhya Bharat accepting inter alia all the matters mentioned in the Concurrent List as matters with respect to which the Dominion Legislature may make laws for the State of Madhya Bharat. Thus the Parliament can make for Madhya Bharat State retrospective legislation with respect to the custody, management and disposal of property declared by law to be evacuee property. AIR 1950 S C 27, A I R 1952 M B 57, Foll. AIR 1951 Raj 94, Dist. and Dissent. AIR 1952 Madh-B 181 (186, 187, 188) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 20—M. P. Minimum Wages Fixation Act (16 of 1962), Ss. 3, 4 —Validity — Do not impose unreasonable restrictions on fundamental rights under Art. 19 and they are not contrary to Art. 20 (1). See

M. P. Minimum Wages Fixation Act (1962), S. 3. AIR 1964 Madh-Pra 45.

——Art. 20 (1)—Section 297 (2) (g) of the Income-tax Act, 1962 is not violative of provisions of Art. 20 (1) of Constitution. See Income Tax Act (1962), S. 297 (2) (g). 1965 Ker L J 1177.

——Arts. 20 and 245 — Applicability and Scope—R. 33 of the Sirhind Canal Rules—Validity—Retrospective effect.

The general rule is that a statute can be made to operate retrospectively by express enactment to that effect or necessary implication. Article 20 places certain restrictions on the powers of the Legislature in this respect. Except as provided by this article, the State Legislature has plenary power of legislation on the subject within the jurisdiction and can make laws which are retrospective in effect.

Article 20 provides a safeguard for personal security of the subject. It is meant to protect the subject against punishment by ex post facto laws. But it has no application to his rights or liabilities with respect to property or contracts. Rule 33 of the Punjab Rules to which retrospective effect is given by the Validation Act (4 of 1954) specifies the charge leviable for canal water in an unauthorised manner or suffered to run waste. The rule simply creates a civil liability in addition to the criminal liability, if any, under Act (8 of 1873). It cannot be said that the impugned provision offends the inhibition laid down by Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution. A I R 1956 Pepsu 40 (45, 46) (Pt D) (Prs 19, 21, 24) (DB).

——Arts. 20, 13 and Pre — Part of law alleged to be void as amounting to an ex post facto legislation—Whether whole becomes void — Test of severability — (Punjab District Boards (Tax Validating) Act (27 of 1955), S. 2 — Validity). See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1959 Punj 318.

2 (b). "Law in force".

● ——Art. 20—'Law in force at the time'—Meaning of. See Ibid, Art. 31 (1), AIR 1962 S C 1753.

● ——Art. 20 (1)—Mines Act (1952), Ss. 73, 74 — Contravention of Regulations of 1926 — Regulations deemed to be in force under 1952 Act on date of offence amount to laws in force within Art. 20 (1) of Constitution—General Clauses Act (1897), S. 24. See Mines Act (1952), S. 73. AIR 1961 S C 838.

● ——Article 20 (1)—"Law in force", meaning of—(Words and Phrases—'Law in force').

The phrase 'law in force' as used in Article 20 (1) must be understood in its natural sense as being "the law in fact in existence and in operation at the time of the commission of the offence" as distinct from the law deemed to have become operative by virtue of the power of legislature to pass retrospective laws. Shiv Bahadur Singh v. State of V. P., 1953 S C J 563 : 1953 Cri L J 1480 : 1953 S C R 1188 : 1953 S C A 803 : AIR 1953 S C 394 (398) (Pt F) (Pr 10).

——Art. 20—Law in force—Meaning — (Words and Phrases).

The expression 'law in force' in Art. 20 means 'law actually in force and not law deemed to be in force by retrospective operation of an amendment.' 1954 All W R (H C) 334 : 1954 Cri L J 1212 : A I R 1954 All 562 (567) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 20—'Law in force'—Rules and regulations made under repealed Mines Act of 1923, are not 'law in force' even though they are deemed to be in force by virtue of S. 24, General Clauses Act—(Mines Act (1952), Ss. 66 and 73).

The phrase 'law in force' in Art. 20 must be understood in its natural sense as being the law in fact in existence and in operation as distinct from the law 'deemed' to have become operative by virtue of the power of legislature to pass retrospective laws.

Article 20 prohibits conviction under a law which is only to be 'deemed to be' in force. The rules and regulations framed under the repealed Mines Act of 1923 cannot be described as 'law in force' within the meaning of Art. 20 and the accused cannot be convicted under Ss. 66 and 73 of the Mines Act of 1952, for violation of the rules framed under the repealed Act of 1923, even if these rules are kept alive by virtue of S. 24, General Clauses Act. A I R 1953 S C 394, 1953 S C J 563 (S C), Rel. on. 1956 Cri L J 29 : I L R (1955) Andh Pra 497 : (1955) Andhra W R 807 : A I R 1956 Andhra 24 (25, 26) (Prs 3, 5) (DB).

——Art. 20 (1)—"Law in force" — Contravention of rules framed under Mines Act, 1923 — Prosecution commenced after repeal of Act—Validity—(General Clauses Act (1897), S. 24.)

A prosecution under S. 73 of the Mines Act, 1952, for contravention of R. 3 of the Coal Mines Pithead Bath Rules, 1946 and R. 3 of the Mines Creche Rules, 1946 which were framed under the Mines Act, 1923, was launched after the repeal of the Mines Act, 1923, by the Mines Act, 1952.

Held, that the rules framed under the repealed Act of 1923 were deemed to be rules made under the new Act of 1952 so as to be perfectly valid and as the prosecution was launched long thereafter the rules framed under the repealed Act must be held to have been perfectly valid and part of the law in force within the meaning of the expression in Art. 20 of the Constitution. A I R 1953 S C 304, Disting. 61 Cal W N 660 : 1957 Cri L J 834 : A I R 1957 Cal 483 (491) (Pt D) (Pr 20) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1961 S C 1543.]

——Art. 20 (1)—'Laws in force'—Metalliferous Mines Regulations (1926) — Regulations are 'laws in force' within Art. 20, Constitution of India — Infringement of Regulations can be punished even after repeal of Mines Act, 1923. See Metalliferous Mines Regulations (1926). 1960 Cri L J 1227 : AIR 1960 Mys 245 (DB).

——Art. 20 (1)—Law in force — Metalliferous Mines Regulation (1926), S. 3 (1) — Force and operation of. See Metalliferous Mines Regulation (1926), S. 3 (1). 1960 Cri L J 1355 : AIR 1960 Orissa 180.

——Art. 20 (1)—Law in force — Regulations framed under Mines Act of 1923 — Validity — (General Clauses Act, 1897, S. 24)—(Mines Act (1923), S. 29) —(Metalliferous Mines Regulations (1926), Regs. 38, 41 and 91).

The Indian Metalliferous Mines Regulations of 1926 framed under S. 29 of the Indian Mines Act, 1923, which has since been repealed and replaced by the Indian Mines Act of 1952 and under which no rules and regulations have so far been framed, are kept alive by S. 24 of the General Clauses Act, and continue to be 'law in force' within the meaning of Art. 20 of the Constitution of India so as to enable the prescribed authority to launch criminal prosecution against a person or persons who are found to have contravened any of the aforesaid Regulations. A I R 1956 Andhra 24; A I R 1953 S C 394 and A I R 1954 Pat 371, Disting.; AIR 1957 Cal 483, Rel. on. 60 Punj L R 683 : 1959 Cri L J 232 : I L R (1959) Punj 19 : AIR 1959 Punj 69 (70) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20 (1) — "Law in force"—Meaning of—Law deemed to be in force is law in force — Mines Creche Rules (1946), framed under Mines Act (1923) are Law in force. AIR 1961 Raj 189.

2(c). Pre-Constitution laws.

●——Art. 20 (1)—Article 20 (1) prohibits convictions and subjections to penalty in respect of ex post facto law whether it is a post-Constitution law or a pre-Constitution law. Shiv Bahadur Singh v. State of V. P., AIR 1953 S C 394 (398) (Pt D) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20—Possession of unauthorised news-sheets on 11th June, 1950 — Conviction under S. 18 of the Press Act, 1931, on 23rd February, 1951 — Validity. See Press (Emergency Powers) Act (1931), S. 15. 1954 Cri L J 1212 : AIR 1954 All 562 (DB).

2(d). Continuing offences.

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability — Continuing offence — Previous acquittal whether operates as a bar for subsequent prosecution — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

Where the offences are continuing offences in the sense that the offences continue de die in diem so long as the duty cast upon the owner is left undischarged the previous acquittal cannot be a bar to the subsequent prosecutions because they are really for offences different from the offences of which the accused were acquitted on the previous occasion although the offences were of a similar nature. 61 Cal W N 660 : 1957 Cri LJ 834 : A I R 1957 Cal 483 (492) (Pt E) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Art. 20, Clause (1)—Continuing offence — Law respecting — Validity — Art. 20 (1) does not hit law punishing continuing offences—Non-payment of provident fund contribution and establishment charges on due date is a continuing offence and becomes punishable as soon as the scheme comes into force. See Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 5. 1961 (1) Cri L J 266 : AIR 1961 Madh Pra 37.

2(e). Retrospective effect of laws creating offences.

●——Arts. 20 (1) and 19 (1) (g), (6) — Effect of Ss. 3 and 4 of Madhya Pradesh Minimum Wages Fixation Act (16 of 1962) — No unreasonable restriction is imposed—Sections do not also contravene Art. 20 (1). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1964 S C 1667.

●——Art. 20 (1)—Prevention of Corruption Act, S. 5 (3)—Does not create new offence — Sub-section is not retrospective — Conviction in respect of property acquired before Act—No breach of fundamental right under Art. 20 (1) of Constitution. See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), S. 5 (3). 1964 (1) Cri L J 310 : AIR 1964 S C 464.

●——Art. 20 (1) — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25 FFF—Validity—Section imposing civil liability to pay compensation for closure prior to the Act — Non-compliance not made an offence—Article 20 (1) not attracted. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25 FFF. AIR 1960 S C 923.

●——Art. 20 (1)—Bombay Rents Hotel and Lodging House Rates Control Act (57 of 1947), S. 24—Enjoyment of essential supply by tenant—"Enjoyed" whether refers to a period before the coming into effect of the Act where landlord's action might not have been penal — Constitutional validity of provision if such construction is placed on it. See Houses and Rents—Bombay Rents Hotel and Lodging House Rates Control Act (57 of 1947), S. 24. AIR 1958 S C 444.

●——Art. 20 (1)—Applicability—Indian Penal Code (Application to Vindhya Pradesh) Ordinance (48 of 1949), Ss. 2 and 3 (1).

In determining the constitutionality of any conviction under Vindhya Pradesh Ordinance (48 of 1949) for an alleged offence committed during the period between 9-8-1948 (the date from which the Penal Code was deemed to have been in force in Vindhya Pradesh) and 11-9-1949 (the date of enactment of the said Ordinance), what is relevant for the application of Art. 20 (1) is not the result brought about by repeal and the retrospective operation thereof, but the factual state of law as it existed prior to the date (viz., 11-9-1949), when the repeal came into operation. The repeal itself posits the pre existence of the law, and it is that law which is relevant for that purpose. Shiv Bahadur Singh v. State of V. P. 1953 S C J 563 : 1953 Cri L J 1480 : 1953 S C R 1188 : 1953 S C A 803 : AIR 1953 SC 394 (399) (Pt G) (Pr 12).

——Art. 20 (1) — Foreigners Act (1946), S. 2 (g) — Retrospective effect given to definition is not valid. See Foreigners Act (1946), S. 2 (g) (as amended by Foreign Laws (Amendment) Act of 1957). 1962 (2) Cri L J 414 (All).

——Art. 20 (2) — Scope — Conviction under S. 165, Indian Penal Code for offence committed in 1948 — Conviction not valid—Appellate Court can alter finding — Accused may be convicted under S. 161, read with S. 109, Indian Penal Code. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 423 (1) (b). AIR 1957 All 388.

——Art. 20 — Temporary permit to stay in India issued to applicant—Permit expiring on 25-9-1948 — Applicant overstaying — Overstaying not an offence then—Law promulgated subsequently making overstaying an offence — Retrospective operation whether can be given to it. See Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 5. AIR 1956 All 108.

●——Art. 20 — Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act, S. 5—Pakistani national overstaying after 20th July 1950 — Conviction under S. 5 and R. 19 — Validity. See Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), (as amended by Ord. No. (22 of 1950)), S. 5. AIR 1955 Hyd 128 (FB).

——Art. 20 (1) — Finding of Commission of Enquiry appointed under J. & K Government Servant's Prevention of Corruption (Commission) Act (1962)—Act though retrospective is procedural — Corruption defined in the Act was an offence even before the commencement of the Act — Hence Art. 20 (1) of Constitution cannot apply. See Jammu and Kashmir Government Servants' Prevention of Corruption (Commission) Act (11 of 1962) (As Amended by Act I of 1964), S. 3 (d). AIR 1965 J & K 78 (DB).

●——Art. 20 (1)—Retrospective effect of laws creating offences — Rule requiring State Government to notify date from which prohibition regarding sale etc. of certain articles of food to come into force—Notification making rule applicable from 1-7-61 published in Gazette of 7-7-61 — Notification held applicable in respect of acts committed after 7-7-61 —Notification as a whole not invalid — Prevention of Food Adulteration Rules (1955), R. 44-A. Govinda Pillai v. Padmanabha Pillai, 1964 Ker L T 1023 : 1965 Ker L J 18 : I L R (1965) 1 Ker 12 : 1965 Mad L J (Cri) 23 : (1965) 1 Ker L R 10 : 1965 (1) Cri L J 446 : AIR 1965 Ker 123 (128) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (FB).

——Art. 20 (1)—Penalty — Arrest and detention of person to realise arrears of income-tax cannot amount to penalty—Income tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2) Proviso.

In order that Art. 20 may apply to a case where a notice is served upon a person to show cause why he should not be arrested for the failure to pay the arrears of income tax due from him, it has first to be established that the recovery of the arrears of income-tax by arrest would constitute a penalty; and arrest and detention of a person to realise the arrears of income tax cannot by any stretch of imagination be considered to be a penalty. It is only a method of recovering the tax. (1955) 28 I T R 891, Foll. (1965) 1 I T J 825 : 1965 Ker L T 353.

——Art. 20 — Offences committed before Criminal Law Amendment Act— Trial and punisbment under this Act — Validity — (Criminal Law Amendment Act (1952)).

Article 20 prohibits the creation of a new offence, the punishment of which may be prescribed with retrospective effect. The other limitation is that no one shall be subjected to a penalty greater than that which might .have been inflicted under the law in force at the time of the commission of the offence. If the presiding judge were to award a sentence under the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1952, severer than that which was provided in the former law, (viz., the Indian Penal Code) then of course it would offend against Art. 20. But before the stage of sentence no question of any heavier penalty arises and till the accused are tried and convicted under the new law, namely, the Criminal Law Amendment Act which was not in force when the acts, constituting the offence were committed, there is no question of punishment. Till then the constitutionality of the trial under the Criminal Law Amendment Act, cannot be questioned. A I R 1953 S C 394 ; 1953 S C J 563, Foll. Madh B L R 1954 Cr 140 : Madh B L J 1954 H C R 790 : A I R 1954 Madh B 206 (207) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

—— Art. 20 - Offer of bribe — Offence committed in 1950—Conviction under S. 165-A, Penal Code, enacted in 1952—Legality of. See Penal Code (1860), S. 165-A. AIR 1954 Madh B 83.

—— Art. 20 (1) — M. P. Motor Vehicles (Taxation of Passengers) Amendment and Validation Act (XV of 1962), Ss. 2 and 4 — Provisions are valid. See M. P. Motor Vehicles (Taxation of Passengers) Amendment and Validation Act (15 of 1962), S. 2. A I R 1963 Madh Pra 339 (DB).

——Art. 20 (1) — Ex post facto legislation regarding crimes—Law creating offence — Giving retrospective effect to—Legality. See Public Safety - Madras Maintenance of Public Order Act (23 of 1949), S. 2. AIR 1951 Mad 1015 (DB).

——Art. 20 (1) — Ex post facto laws — Retrospective effect of laws creating offences — Person can be convicted of offence for violation of law in force at time of commission of act charged as offence—Prosecution for violating on 18-11-1953 provisions of R. 17 (b) of Octroi Rules — Effect of subsequent 1954 amendment for first time (legalising levy of Octroi within Municipality) though made retrospective, will be left out of consideration — (Municipality— Orissa Municipal Act (23 of 1950), S. 131 (1) (kk) (as amended by Act 3 of 1954)). A I R 1955 N U C (Orissa) 2140 (DB).

●——Art. 20—Bihar Land Encroachment Act (XXXI of 1950), S. 5—Validity.

If a person is found to be in unlawful possession of a property, he has no right to enjoy the produce of that property, and the person entitled to evict him is also entitled to the usufruct. Thus it follows that if the possession of a person over public property is found to be unauthorised and unjustified, an order of forfeiture will not be illegal, and the word being a word of wide import, it will not be correct to say that forfeiture is really a conviction as contemplated by Art. 20 of the Constitution. It is another thing that because of the peculiar meaning given to the words "public property" and "unauthorised occupation" the relevant provisions have to be declared unconstitutional and ultra vires.

The provision regarding the forfeiture of crop cannot also be deemed to be bad on the ground that it is to be treated as an 'ex post facto' legislation. Because it is only after the passing of the Act that certain acts would be deemed to be unauthorised and therefore there could be no question of punishing a man for something which he had done in the past. Exception cannot, therefore, be taken only to the order of forfeiture. Brij Bhukan v. S. D. O, Siwan. 33 Pat 690 : 1954 B L J R 513 : AIR 1955 Pat 1 (37) (Pt ZF) (Prs 36, 37) (SB).

——Art. 20 (1) — Rajasthan Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (18 of 1959), Ss. 6, 8 — Rajasthan Passengers and Goods Taxation (Amendment and Validation) Act (22 of 1964): Ss. 3, 4 — Levy of penalty under Ss. 6 and 8 of Act of 1959 — Contravenes Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution and is illegal.

Though a retrospective legislation for the purpose of imposing a tax was permissible as for the penalties they could not be imposed retrospectively. The prohibition against ex post facto legislation which involves the imposition of a penalty was one of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution. It was therefore clear that even if the Rajasthan Act 22 of 1964 was upheld as a valid piece of legislation, the penalties imposed in the various cases for reason of non-payment of tax or non-submission of returns are illegal and must be struck down. I L R (1961) 11 Raj 443, Foll. 1965 Raj L W 118 : ILR (1965) 15 Raj 285.

——Art. 20 (1)—Rajasthan Sales Tax Act, 1954 (29 of 1954), Ss. 16 and 26 (5) — Enforcement of Rajasthan Sales Tax Rules, 1955—Retrospective enforcement—But cannot be enforced retrospectively for purpose of S. 16—Sales tax — Rajasthan Sales Tax Act, 1954 (29 of 1954), Ss. 16 and 26 (5).

Section 26 (5) of the Rajasthan Sales Tax Act, 1954, as it originally stood, required that the date on which the Rajasthan Sales Tax Rules were to come into force must be notified. There was no such notification issued after the Act had come into force till the Rajasthan Sales Tax Rules Validating Act, which brought the Rules in force from the 1st day of April, 1955.

The retrospective legislation for the purpose of imposing a tax is permissible. AIR 1954 S C 158, Rel. on.

But the prohibition against post facto legislation which involves the imposition of a penalty is one of the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution. Hence, for the purpose of S. 16 of the Rajasthan Sales Tax Act, the Rajasthan Sales Tax Rules, 1955, cannot be given retrospective effect. 1961 Raj L W 363 : ILR (1961) 11 Raj 443.

——Arts. 20 (1) and 13—Rajasthan Municipal Boards Validating Act — Validity — Rajasthan Municipal Boards Validating Act (37 of 1956), S. 1 — (Municipalities—Rajasthan Municipal Boards Validating Act (37 of 1956), S. 1).

The protection of Art. 20 being available in case some one takes it into his head to use the Validating Act as a retrospective Act for the provision of offences under the Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act, there is no question of the Validating Act itself being hit by Art. 20 read with Art. 13, for the Validating Act nowhere provides directly for any such retrospective creation of offences. The Validating Act therefore is valid, and is not hit by Art. 20. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 742 : 1957 Raj L W 609 : AIR 1957 Raj 293 (294) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

● ——Art. 20 (1)—Person entering India under permit, overstaying period of permit — Overstay not penal at the time—Subsequent legislation making overstay penal and ground for removal of the person from India — Applying that to that person offends Art. 20 (1). See Influx from West Pakistan (Control) Ordinance (17 of 1948), S. 6. AIR 1952 Sau 98 (SB).

2 (f). Law enhancing punishment.

● ——Art. 20 (1) — Pepsu Act 4 of 1954, Ss. 3 and 4 —Unauthorised use of canal water is not an offence—

Enhanced charge under Rr. 32 and 33 of Pepsu Sirhind Canal Rules, is not penalty — Question of Ss. 3 and 4 infringing Constitution, Art. 20 (1) does not arise. See Pepsu Sirhind Canal and Western Jumna Rau Canal Enforcement and Validation Act (4 of 1954), S. 3. 1962 (2) Cr L J 303 : AIR 1962 S C 1246.

● ——Art. 20 — Applicability and scope — S. 420, Penal Code, providing for unlimited fine—S. 10 of Ordinance 29 of 1943 fixing minimum sentence of fine—Ordinance does not contravene Art. 20.

A law which provided for a minimum sentence of fine on conviction could not be read as one which imposed a greater penalty than that which might have been inflicted under the law at the time of the commission of the offence where for such an offence there was no limit as to the extent of fine which might be imposed. Under Art. 20 of the Constitution all that has to be considered is whether the ex post facto law imposes a penalty greater than that which might be inflicted under the law in force at the time of the commission of the offence. It could not be said that S. 10 of the Ordinance (29 of 1943) imposed any such penalty and therefore was in contravention of the provisions of Art. 20. Satwant Singh v. State of Punjab, 1960 Cr L J 410 : (1960) 2 S C R 89 : 1960 S C J 863 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 603 : 1960 All W R (HC) 505 : ILR (1960) Punj 504 : 1960 All Cr R 315 : AIR 1960 S C 266 (276, 277) (Pt E) (Pr 31).

——Art. 20 — Applicability and scope — If contravened by Preventive Detention Act, S. 11.

Section 11 of the Preventive Detention Act as amended by the Amending Act of 1951 cannot be held to be void as contravening Art. 20 of the Constitution. What Art. 20 (1) prevents is the infliction of a penalty greater than that which might have been inflicted under the law in force at the time of the commission of the same offence. The article has reference to a penalty to be imposed in respect of an offence only and cannot apply to the case of preventive detention. ILR (1952) Bom 134 : 1952 Cr L J 81 : 53 Bom L R 717 : AIR 1952 Bom 1 (9) (Pt D) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 20 — Prejudicial speech made on 26-6-1949 —Prosecution started under S 11 (3), W. B. Security Ordinance — Conviction under S. 11, W. B. Security Act—Conviction offended against Art. 20—Constitution of India. See Public Safety—W. B. Security Act (19 of 1950), S. 11. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 5590 (DB).

——Art. 20 (1)—Greater penalty.

Prosecution under Calcutta Municipal Act of 1923 —Greater penalty under new Calcutta Municipal Act is not justified. ILR (1954) 2 Cal 405 : 1953 Cr L J 1347 : 57 C W N 248 : AIR 1953 Cal 561 (562) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——Art. 20 (1) — Offence committed before Criminal Law Amendment Act—Trial under Act—As question of inflicting heavier penalty under Act does not arise till the accused are tried and convicted no question of constitutionality of trial can be raised before that stage. AIR 1954 Madh Bha 206 (207, 208) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 20 (1)—Law reducing punishment—If falls within the bar of the provision.

Even a statute which changes the punishment that may be imposed for a crime theretofore committed would be ex post facto only if it prescribes or permits the imposition of a greater sentence and not when it reduces the punishment. 1952 Mad W N 971: 1953 Cri L J 625 : (1953) 1 Mad L J 157 : 1952 Mad W N (Cri) 283 : AIR 1953 Mad 337 (339) (Prs 7, 9).

——Arts. 20 (1) and 31 (2) and (5) (b) (i) — Ex post acto laws — Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1947), S. 14-A, Proviso — Amendment to made by Bihar Finance Act (4 of 1955) violates Art. 20 (1) and is unconstitutional — Sales tax—Bihar Sales tax Act (19 of 1947), S. 14-A, Proviso) — (Contract Act (1872), S. 72).

The proviso to S. 14-A, Bihar Sales Tax Act, as amended by Bihar Finance Act (4 of 1955) is unconstitutional to the extent that it makes the imposition of forfeiture retrospective in operation. The effect of the amendment is that an additional penalty of forfeiture is imposed on the petitioner for the same offence. The amendment made in S. 14 A by Bihar Act (4 of 1955) is an ex post facto law and violates, the important principle of criminal jurisprudence—namely the principle of nulla poena sine lege as embodied in Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution.

The forfeiture of sales tax illegally recovered by the petitioner from his customers outside the State is certainly a penalty within the meaning of Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution.

Even assuming that the proviso to S. 14 A does not impose a penalty, the legal position is that the legislation would be hit by Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution and it would still be unconstitutional and void. The reason is that the legislation in question would not be saved by Art. 31 (5) (b) of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 119, Applied. 1956 B L J R 562 : (1956) 7 S T C 609 : 1956 Pat L R 371 : ILR 35 Pat 757 : AIR 1957 Pat 1 (2, 3, 4) (Pr A) (Prs 5, 6, 7, 8, 10) (DB).

——Art. 20 (1) — S. 14-A of Bihar Sales Tax Act (as amended by Act 4 of 1955)—Validity—(Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1947), S. 14A).

The effect of the amendment made in S. 14A of the Bihar Sales Tax Act by the Bihar Finance Act 4 of 1955 is that an additional penalty of forfeiture is imposed for the same offence. It is obvious that the amendment made in S. 14A by Act 4 of 1955 is ex post facto law, and is hit by Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution. 1956 B L J R 562, Foll. 1956 B L J R 702.

——Art. 20—Scope—R. 33 of the Sirhind Canal Rules —Nature of additional liability created by the rule — Whether the rule offends Art. 20 (1). See Ibid, Pre. AIR 1956 Pepsu 40

——Art. 20 (1) — Scope — Minimum rate of penalty under S. 271 of Income-tax Act of 1961 for default in furnishing returns higher than that under S. 28 (b) of the Act of 1922—S. 297 (2) (g) giving retrospective operation to penalty provisions under new Act — Validity—Art. 20 (1) of Constitution is not infringed. See Income tax Act (1961), S. 297 (2) (g). AIR 1965 Raj 104 (DB).

2 (g). Change in procedure.

● ——Art. 20 (1)—Scope.

What is prohibited under Article 20 is only conviction or sentence under an ex post facto law and not the trial thereof. Such trial under a procedure different from what obtained at the time of the commission of the offence or by a Court different from that which had competence at the time cannot ipso facto be held to be unconstitutional. A person accused of the commission of an offence has no fundamental right to trial by a particular Court or by a particular procedure, except in so far as any constitutional objection by way of discrimination or the violation of any other fundamental right may be involved. Shiv Bahadur Singh v. State of V. P. 1953 S C J 563 : 1953 Cr L J 1480 : 1953 S C R 1188 : 1953 S C A 803 : AIR 1953 S C 394 (398) (Pr E) (Pr 9).

——Art. 20 (1)—The accused has no vested right in any course of procedure. 1960 Mad W N 317 : I L R (1961) Mad 70 : (1962) 1 Mad L J 434 : 1962 Mad L J (Cri) 331.

——Arts. 20 and 265 — Conviction under S. 15 (b). Madras General Sales-Tax Act — Madras General Sales-Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 15 (b).

The Sales-tax Act existed at the time of the commission of the offence and also at the time of the conviction for the offence in the year 1951.

Any change in the mode of execution is not bad for its being ex post facto; a statute merely regulating procedure and leaving untouched all the substantial protection with which existing law surrounds a person accused of crime is not within the constitutional inhibition of ex post facto laws; even a statute which changes the punishment that may be imposed for a crime theretofore committed would be ex post facto only if it prescribes or permits the imposition of a greater sentence and not when it reduces the punishment New provision in S 15 (b) of the Madras General Sales-tax Act amounts to nothing more than an alteration of procedure which does not make the act which was not an offence to be an offence or imposes a greater penalty than what was the case before. The recovery of the tax as if it were a fine does not impose a greater penalty than the two modes of recovery as an arrear of land revenue or by a suit as on a debt. Therefore Art. 20 does not apply and on this footing the application of Art. 265 does not arise. Case law discussed. (1953) 1 M L J 157 : 1953 Cr L J 625 : 1952 Mad W N 971: 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 283 : AIR 1953 Mad 337 (339) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 9).

3. Double jeopardy for same offence— Rule against—Clause (2).

(a) Bar to fresh trial under Criminal P. C., S. 403.

(b) Both prosecution and punishment necessary.

(c) "Prosecuted", meaning of.

(d) Judicial proceeding necessary.

(e) Civil action.

(f) Preventive detention.

(g) Security proceedings.

(h) Departmental or disciplinary proceedings.

(i) Same offence.

(j) Distinct offences.

3. Double jeopardy for same offence — Rule against—Clause (2).

● ——Art. 20—Principle of autre fois acquit is incorporated in the Article. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1966 SC 69.

● ——Art. 20 (1) — Double jeopardy—Rule as to — Applies only when both complaints relate to same offence—Offence under S. 409, I. P. Code and that under S. 105, Insuranee Act, not same—Two trials not barred by Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution or by S. 26, General Clauses Act. ILR (1956) Bom 685 : 58 Bom L R 578, Reversed.

If the offences were distinct there is no question of the rule as to double jeopardy as embodied in Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution being applicable.

Though S 26. of the General Clauses Act, in its opening words refers to 'the act or omission constituting an offence under two or more enactments', the emphasis is not on the facts alleged in the two complaints but rather on the ingredients which constitute two offences with which a person is charged. This is made clear by the concluding portion of the section which refers to 'shall not be liable to be punished twice for the same offence'.

The above construction of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution and S. 26 of the General Clauses Act is precisely in line with the terms of S. 403 (2) of the Criminal Procedure Code.

Where therefore the accused are sought to be punished for the offence under S. 105 Insurance Act, after their trial and conviction for the offence under S. 409, Penal Code, they are not being sought to be punished for 'the same offence' twice but for two distinct offences constituted or made up of different ingredients and therefore the bar of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution or of S. 26 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, is not applicable: AIR 1957 SC 458 and AIR 1957 SC 592, Rel. on. I L R (1956) Bom 685 : 58 Bom L R 578, Reversed State of Bomhay v. S. L. Apte. 63 Bom L R 491 : (1961) 1 Ker L R 452 : (1961) 1 S C J 685 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (SC) 210 : (1961) Mad L J (Cr) 331 : (1961) 1 An W R (SC) 210 : (1961) 31 Com Cas (Ins) 39 : 1961 M P L J 1108 : 1961 Nag L J 524 : (1961) 2 S C A 446 : 1961 (1) Cr L J 725 : 1961 Mad W N 284 : (1961) 3 S C R 107 : AIR 1961 SC 578 (583) (Prs 15, 16, 17).

——Art. 20 (2)—Accused charged and convicted on identical facts both under S. 409, Penal Code, and S. 105, Insurance Act — Conviction under Insurance Act set aside in appeal on the ground that there was no proper complaint as required by that Act—Case filed again under that Act after, satisfying the requirements of the Act—Held that both S. 26, General Clauses Act and Art. 20 (2) Constituted a bar to the punishment of the accused under S. 105, Insurance Act. ILR (1956) Bom 685 : 58 Bom L R 578.

[Reversed in AIR 1961 SC 578].

3 (a). Bar to fresh trial under Criminal P. C., S. 403.

● ——Art. 20 (2)—Principle of.

The roots of the principle which Art. 20 (2) enacts are to be found in the well established rule of English law which finds expression in the maxim 'Nemo debet bis vexari'—a man must not be put twice in peril for the same offence. If a man is indicted again for the same offence in an English Court, he can plead, as a complete defence his former acquittal or conviction or as it is technically expressed, take the plea of autrefois acquit' or "autrefois convict". Venkataraman v. Union of India, 1954 S C A 466 . 1954 Cri L J 993 : 1954 S C J 461 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 702 : 1954 Mad W N 475 : 1954 All W R (Sup) 54 : 1954 S C R 1150 : 1954 Andh LT (Civ) 55: AIR 1954 SC 375 (377) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

● ——Art. 20 (2)—Limited scope of Article.

The ambit and contents of the guarantee of the fundamental right given in Art. 20 (2) are much narrower than those of the Common Law rule in England or the doctrine of 'Double jeopardy' in the American Constitution; Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution of India does not contain the principle of 'autrefois acquit'. In order to enable a citizen to invoke the protection of Cl. (2) of Art. 20 of the Constitution there must have been both prosecution and punishment in respect of the same offence. The words 'prosecuted and published' are to be taken not distributively so as to mean prosecuted or punished. Both the factors must co-exist in order that the operation of the clause may be attracted. AIR 1953 S C 325 Foll. Venkataraman v. Union of India, (1954) S C J 461 : (1954) 1 MLJ 702 : (1954) SCA 466: 1954 CrLJ 993: 1954 S C R 1150 : 1954 All W R (Supp) 54 : 1954 Mad W N 475 : AIR 1954 S C 375 (377) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 20 (2)—Principle underlying Art. 20 (2) and its scope—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

Article 20 (2) incorporates within its scope the plea of "autre fois convict" as known to British jurisprudence or the plea of double jeopardy as known to the American Constitution but circumscribes it by providing that there should be not only a prosecution but also a punishment in the first instance in order to operate as a bar to a second prosecution and punishment for the same offence.

The words 'before a Court of law or judicial tribunal" are not to be found in Art. 20 (2). But in order to invoke the protection of Art. 20 (2), there must have been a prosecution and punishment in respect of the same offence before a Court of law or a tribunal, required by law to decide the matters in controversy judicially on evidence on oath which it must be authorised by law to administer and not before a tribunal which entertains a departmental or an administrative enquiry even though set up by a statute but not required to proceed on legal evidence given on oath. The Article contemplates proceedings of the nature of criminal proceedings before a Court of law or a judicial tribunal and the prosecution in this context means an initiation or starting of proceedings of a criminal nature before such a Court or tribunal in accordance with the procedure prescribed in the statute which creates the offence and regulates the procedure. Maqbool Hussain v. State of Bombay. (1953) SCJ 456:(1953) 2 MLJ 113: 1953 Cri LJ 1432: 1953 All W R (Sup) 84 : 1953 Mad W N 648 : 1953 S C R 730 : 56 Bom L R 13 . 1953 S C A 641 : A I R 1953 S C 325 (328) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 12).

——Art. 20 — Scope —Accused tried under S. 19 (f), Arms Act for possession of unlicensed gun—Acquittal — Evidence of possession— Use of, against him in subsequent charge for another offence— Legality — Cr. P. Code, S. 403 (1).

Where the accused was tried under S. 19 (f). Arms Act, for the offence of being in possession of an unlicensed gun and it was found by a competent Court that the charge laid against him had not been satisfactorily established, the accused is entitled to rely on that finding, and it is not open to any court subsequently to ignore the order of acquittal and to proceed to hold that the finding of acquittal in favour of the accused was not correct. This would be against the spirit of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. This is also the true meaning of S. 403 (1), Criminal P. C.

Therefore in his subsequent trial under S. 395, I. P. Code, evidence of the recovery of the unlicensed gun from him cannot be used against him. AIR 1956 S C 415, Rel. on. 1961 (1) Cr L J 454 : AIR 1961 All 196 (197, 198) (Pr 7).

——Art. 20—Scope—Prisons Act, S. 45 (1)—Prisoners refusing to take food—Warning given by Superintendent—Trial for same offence—If illegal. See Prisons Act (1894), S. 45 (1). 1960 Cr L J 203 : AIR 1960 All 124 (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Dismissal of complaint — Fresh complaint—Maintainability — Improper discharge — Remedy. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1957 All 557.

——Art. 20 (2)—(Per Sapru J., Mukerji J. Dissenting) Art. 194 (3) not governed by Art. 20 (2). See Ibid, Art. 194 (3). AIR 1954 All 319.

——Art. 20 (2) — Resolution of House suspending member — Nature of—Applicability of Art. 20 (2) to. See Ibid, Art. 194 (3). AIR 1954 All 319 (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Principle and scope of—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

Article 20 (2) is based upon the principle of the 'double jeopardy' clause and lays down that no person should be put in jeopardy of his life or liberty more than once. This principle is so well established in the system of law that is administered in India that it is not surprising that it should have been elevated to the level of a fundamental right. The intention of the founding fathers appears to have been not to disturb the existing law which is to be found in S. 403, Criminal P. C. relating to the extent of protection against 'double jeopardy' in the criminal law of this country.

Article 20 (2) does nothing more than reproduce in effect the provisions of S. 403, Criminal P. C. It is clear that under that Code a discharged person can be put for re-trial. Article 20 (2) clearly uses the word 'and' in a conjunctive sense and it is only where the accused has been both prosecuted and punished for the same offence that a second trial is barred. AIR 1952 Mad 725 and AIR 1952 Cal 26 Ref. 1954 Cr L J 691 : ILR (1955) 1 All 25 : AIR 1954 All 319 (334) (Pt O) (Pr 40) (DB).

——Arts. 20 (2), 194 (3) — 'Offence' in Art. 20 (2)—Meaning—Breach of Parliamentary privilege — Applicability of Art. 20 (2) — [General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (37)].

Taking Art. 20 as a whole the context indicates that the word 'offence' as used in the Article contemplates a criminal offence and not all types of offences.

In any case, for an 'offence' there has to be an act or omission made punishable by any law for the time being in force. Significance has, therefore, to be attached to the word 'made' which carries with it the implication that some authority empowered to do so has laid down the law. The law contemplated in the Article would appear to be an enacted law by a legislature or by a body of persons authorised by the legislature to make.

While the punishment for parliamentary offences has been prescribed by R. 63 of the Rules of Procedure of the Assembly framed under Art. 208 of the Constitution, the offences themselves have not been so defined by those rules. So long as this essential element of the word offence as used in Art. 20 (2) has not been made out a case of double punishment for a parliamentary offence cannot be held to be covered by Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. ILR (1955) 1 All 25 : 1954 Cr L J 691 : AIR 1954 All 319 (334, 339) (Pt Q) (Prs 43, 67) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Article merely recognises the principle of autre fois convict which is one of the principles recognised by S. 403, Criminal P. C. itself. A I R 1954 Assam 106 (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability — Double punishment —Departmental enquiry — Punishment enhanced in revision—If second punishment.

The State has a right to reconsider the whole of the charge levelled against the officer in the departmental enquiry and to inflict punishment in revision as it deemed necessary. Enhancement of punishment made in exercise of revisional jurisdiction cannot amount to a second punishment and it cannot be said that in such a case the party is exposed to the risk of double punishment. Spl. C. A. No. 180 of 1954 (Bom), Rel. on. 61 Bom L R 1625 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 66 : AIR 1960 Bom 225 (230) (Pt D) (Pr 28).

——Art. 20—Person already punished by jail authority.

If a person has already been punished by the Superintendent of the Jail for an alleged offence under Ss. 224 and 224/114, Penal Code, the proceedings for the same offences against the person would be against the provisions of Art. 20 of the Constitution and would be illegal. 55 Cal W N 140 : AIR 1952 Cal 319 (320) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Whether West Bengal Foodgrains (Movement Control) Order, 1951 contains any provision which permits the prosecution and punishment of any person contravening its provisions more than once for the identical offence and is therefore void under Art. 20 (2). See West Bengal Foodgrains (Movement Control), Order 1951, Para 7. AIR 1952 Cal 61.

——Art. 20—Second prosecution on the same facts — Legality. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. A I R 1955 NUC (Madh.B) 3737.

——Arts. 20 (2) and 132 (1) — Accused tried under S. 6 (2), Prevention of Corruption Act and acquitted — High Court holding that he could not be subsequently tried on the same facts under S. 409, Penal Code—Application under Art. 132 (1) rejected. A I R 1955 NUC (Madh.B) 3037.

——Art. 20 (2) — Criminal P. C (1898), Ss. 233, 403 — Cases to be committed on Police complaint and on private complaint — Procedure — Separate trial— Propriety — Double jeopardy not involved. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 233. AIR 1959 Mad 521.

——Art. 20 (2) — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403—Non-payment of Sales tax—Prosecution of one of the partners under S. 15 (b), Madras General Sales-tax Act and acquittal — Subsequent prosecution of the firm for the same period whether permissible. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1955 Mad 161.

——Art. 20 (2)—Double punishment — (Companies Act (1913), S. 282-A) — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

Section 282-A of the Companies Act cannot be construed as providing for a double punishment. It is only an alternative punishment arising when default is committed—Section 282-A does not offend against Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. (1953) 1 M L J 514 : (1953) 23 Com Cas 142 : 1953 Cri L J 1142 : A I R 1953 Mad 595 (598) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Discharge of accused under S. 251-A (2), Cr. P. Code — Order becoming final — Fresh case on same facts and for same offences — Maintainability though not barred by S. 403 it would cause harassment to accused and deserves to be dismissed. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403 Expl. 1964 (2) Cri L J 561 : AIR 1964 Mys 245.

——Art. 20 (2) — Scope — Offence for which accused could have been convicted in the previous trial under S. 237, Criminal P. C. — Fresh prosecution on same facts—Bar of. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403 (1). 1960 Cri L J 1649 : AIR 1960 Pat 552.

——Art. 20 — Application for starting proceedings for contempt rejected by Sub-Divisional Magistrate—Whether operates as an acquittal or discharge and bars starting proceedings for contempt by High Court — See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 3. AIR 1956 Pat 321.

——Art. 20 — Scope—Jail Manual, paras. 571 to 575 — Provisions for separation of prisoners for jail management—Not unconstitutional. See Ibid, Art. 14. 1961 (2) Cri L J 687 (2) : AIR 1961 Punj 524.

——Arts. 20 (2) and 34 — Departmental enquiry — Police charged under S. 10 (m), Central Reserve Police Force Act, 1949, acquitted by Appellate Court not on merits of case but on ground that trial was vitiated—Acquittal is no bar for institution of departmental enquiry. See Central Reserve Police Rules (1955), Rule 27. AIR 1965 Raj 140 (DB).

——Art. 20 — Discharge of accused is no bar to fresh complaint against him — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403 Expl. AIR 1957 Tripura 47.

3 (b). Both prosecution and punishment necessary.

● ——Art. 20 (1) — Criminal Law Amendment Ordinance (38 of 1944), S. 13 (3) — Forfeiture provided in—Not penalty within meaning of Art. 20 (1) — Penal Code (1860), S. 53.

Forfeiture provided in S. 13 (3), Criminal Law Amendment Ordinance (38 of 1944), in case of offences which involve the embezzlement, etc., of government money or property is really a speedier method of realising government money or property as compared to a suit which the Government could bring for realising the money or property and is not punishment or penalty within the meaning of Art. 20 (1).

The forfeiture by the District Judge under S. 13 (3) cannot be equated to forfeiture of property which is provided in S. 53 of the Penal Code.

Article 20 (1) is dealing with punishment for offences and provides two safeguards, namely, (i) that no one shall be punished for an act which was not an offence under the law in force when it was committed, and (ii) that no one shall be subjected to a greater penalty for an offence than what was provided under the law in force when the offence was committed. The provision for forfeiture under S. 13 (3) has nothing to do with the infliction of any penalty on any person for an offence.

A sentence of fine imposed under S 10 of the 1943 Ordinance as amended in 1945 has nothing to do with the amount to be forfeited under S. 13 (3) of the 1944 Ordinance and simply because that fine was imposed after taking into account the amount embezzled would make no difference so far as S. 13 (3) is concerned. That section clearly contemplates that the District Judge will first forfeit the attached properties upto the amount of money determined under S. 12 and thereafter if any further properties are left the fine imposed by the Criminal Court may be realised from those properties. The fact that the fine imposed by the criminal Court may have taken into account under S 10 of the 1943 Ordinance the amount of money procured by means of the offence makes no difference to the interpretation of S. 13 (3). Criminal Appeal No. 176 of 1958 (Cal), Reversed. State of West Bangal v. S. K. Ghosh, 1963 S C D 236 : (1963) 2 S C R 111 : 1963 (1) Cri L J 252 : (1965) 2 S C J 239 : 1965 Mad L J (Cri) 538 : A I R 1963 S C 255 (263, 264) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 15, 17).

● ——Art. 20 (2) — Applicability — To bar second trial first trial should be by Court of competent jurisdiction—Prosecution requiring sanction—Trial under Prevention of Corruption Act without sanction is null and void being by Court not competent—Subsequent trial with proper sanction is not barred. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1957 S C 494.

● ——Art. 20 (2) — 'Prosecuted and punished' — Interpretation.

In order to enable a citizen to invoke the protection of Art. 20 (2) there must have been both prosecution and punishment in respect of the same offence. The words 'prosecuted and punished' are to be taken not distributively so as to mean prosecuted or punished. Both factors must co-exist in order that the operation of the clause may be attracted Venkataraman v. Union of India, 1954 S C A 466 : 1954 Cri L J 993 : 1954 S C J 461 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 702 : 1954 Mad W N 475 : 1954 All W R (Sup) 54 : 1954 S C R 1150 : 1954 Andh L T (Civ) 55 : A I R 1954 S C 375 (377) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 20 (2) — "Prosecuted and punished" — Gold confiscated under Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8) — Prosecution under Foreign Exchange Regulation Act (1947), S. 23, not barred — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

The Sea Customs Authorities are not a judicial tribunal and the adjudging of confiscation, increased rate of duty or penalty under the provisions of the Sea Customs Act do not constitute a judgment or order of a Court or judicial tribunal necessary for the purpose of supporting a plea of double jeopardy. AIR 1922 Bom 30, Ref.

Hence, when the Customs Authorities confiscate the gold brought in India in contravention of a notification of the Government of India neither the proceedings taken before the Sea Customs Authorities constitute a prosecution of the person from whom it is confiscated nor does the order of confiscation constitute a punishment inflicted by a Court or judicial tribunal on that person. Such person cannot be said by reason of these proceedings before the Sea Customs Authorities to have been "prosecuted and punished" for the same offence with which he is later on charged before the Magistrate, in the complaint which is filed against him under S. 23 of the Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1947. Maqbool Hussain v State of Bombay, (1953) S C J 456 : (1953) 2 M L J 113 : 1953 Cr L J 1432 : 1953 All W R (Sup) 84 : 1953 S C A 641 : 56 Bom L R 13 : 1953 S C R 730 : 1953 Mad W N 648 : AIR 1953 S C 325 (330) (Pt C) (Prs 17, 18).

● ——Art. 20 (2) —"Prosecuted" meaning of.

If there is no punishment for the offence as a result of the prosecution, the sub-cl. (2) of Art. 20 has no application; and secondly, an appeal against an acquittal wherever such is provided by the procedure is in substance a continuation of the prosecution. Kalawati v State of H. P., 1953 S C J 144 : 1953 Cr L J 668 : 1953 S C A 660 : 1953 All W R (Supp) 52 : 1953 S C R 546 : 1953 Mad W N 219 : AIR 1953 S C 131 (132) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

——Art. 20 (2) — Applicabiiity and scope — (Press (Objectionable Matter) Act (1951), Ss. 3 (v), 4, 7, 16).

Article in newspaper published on 3-6-1952—Soon after, editor detained under Preventive Detention Act and released — Another article published on 12-6-1952—Editor again detained and released — On 7-7-1952 District Magistrate preferring complaint under Ss. 3 (v), 4 and 7 read with S. 16 of the Press (Objectionable Matter) Act that editor should furnish security —Objection that it was punishment for same offence. Held, that there was neither prosecution nor punishment for the writing of Article when he was directed to be detained — Therefore, Art. 20 (2) was not contravened. AIR 1953 S C 323, Foll. 1954 Cri L J 549 : 1954 A M L J 74 : AIR 1954 Ajmer 19 (20) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 20 (2) — Conviction set aside and retrial ordered—There is no double prosecution.

What Art. 20 (2) contemplates is a double prosecution and punishment. No person shall be prosecuted and punished for the same offence more than once. In order that this Article may be attracted there must be a second prosecution and punishment. Where a person has been convicted and punished for an offence and the conviction has been set aside and retrial ordered the retrial is a continuance of the same prosecution. The order setting aside the conviction washes out the effect of the previous conviction. A conviction on retrial is a conviction in the same prosecution. It is neither a second prosecution nor a second punishment. The fact that the accused unfortunately served a sentence in jail for two or three days on account of the first conviction which was later on set aside does not render the conviction and punishment imposed upon retrial as a second punishment upon a second retrial. AIR 1954 All 116, Rel. on. 1954 Cri L J 1450 : 1954 All L J 474 : AIR 1954 All 689 (690) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 20 (2) — Prosecution and punishment — Meaning — (Words and Phrases — Prosecution and punishment).

The words 'prosecution and punishment' in Art. 20 (2) have reference to criminal offences and have the effect of limiting the scope of the article to criminal proceedings before a Court of law or judicial tribunal competent to deal with criminal cases. AIR 1953 Cal 316, Rel. on. 1954 Cr L J 691 : ILR (1955) 1 All 25 : AIR 1954 All 319 (334) (Pt P) (Pr 42) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Fresh prosecution — Retrial after setting aside conviction in appeal — It is not fresh prosecution on same facts — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

A retrial cannot be regarded as fresh prosecution within meaning of Art. 20 (2). Where a person has been prosecuted and convicted but the appellate Court finding the conviction illegal inasmuch as the charge had been improperly framed, sets aside the conviction and orders a retrial, the retrial is not a fresh trial but continuance of the same prosecution.

Moreover, the prohibition is against a person being prosecuted and sentenced for the same offence more than once. Where the sentence once passed has been set aside, Art. 20 (2) can be no bar to a retrial for the same offence. 1953 All L J 552 : 1953 All W R (H C) 579 : 1954 Cr L J 216 : AIR 1954 All 116 (116) (Pr 2).

——Art. 20 (2) — Filing of second complaint on dismissal of first for complainant's absence — Article not contravened.

There is nothing fundamentally wrong in not barring a second prosecution after a discharge or acquittal. A discharge or acquittal can in certain circumstances take place on account of technical reasons and it may be very desirable in the circumstances of particular cases that the person be prosecuted after removing those technical defects in procedure. A second complaint filed after the dismissal of the first complaint for complainant's absence is not therefore, in contravention of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. 1951 All L J 725 : 1951 All W R (H C) 620 : 1951 All Cr C 152 : ILR (1952) 1 All 244 : AIR 1952 All 642 (642) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Applicability — Madras General Sales Tax, S. 15—Legality—If contravenes Art. 20 (2) —(Sales Tax — Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 15 (b)) —(General Clauses Act (1897), S. 26) —(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

For an order to bring it within the prohibition under Art. 20 (2), it must be established that the person was prosecuted and punished. A prosecution without a punishment would not bring the case within the prohibition of Art. 20 (2). AIR 1953 S C 325, Rel. on.

Where the Magistrate, finding the accused guilty under S. 15 (b), Madras General Sales Tax Act, 1939, sentenced the accussd to pay fine and in default to suffer imprisonment and further directs the sales-tax due from the accused to be recovered as if it were a fine, the direction in the order of the Magistrate for the recovery of the amount of sales tax and the amount of the fine as if it were a fine is not hit by Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. The liability of the dealer's property being attached and the amount of the sales tax being recovered as arrears of land revenue by the attachment and sale of his property cannot be regarded as amounting to a prosecution of the dealer or the assessee. The provision in the order, for imprisonment in default of fine cannot be regarded as amounting to double punishment. AIR 1953 Mad 595 : (1953) 1 Mad L J 514, Rel. on. 1958 Cr L J 1377 : AIR 1958 Andhra 707 (708, 709) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 10).

——Art. 20 (2) — 'Prosecuted and punished' —(Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 403).

The word 'and' has been definitely used in a conjuctive sense and could not possibly bear a disjunctive meaning. The effect of latter interpretation would be that although a person may be prosecuted but not punished and the trial has for some reason become abortive either because the Court or tribunal had no jurisdiction to try him or because of some inherent defect or illegality affecting the validity of the trial itself, yet once this erroneous prosecution had been adopted, the person can claim exemption under cover of the Article from any fresh trial before a competent Court and in a regular manner. That could never be the intention of the law. The article merely recognizes the principle of autrefois convict which is one of the principles recognized by S. 403 of the Cr. P. Code, itself. Where the trial of the accused is found to be abortive because the Special Judge appointed under the Assam Special Courts Act (19 of 1950) was held to be not a Court of competent jurisdiction to try them, Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution is no bar to the trial of the accused again. AIR 1953 S C 325, Foll. 1954 Cr L J 851 : AIR 1954 Assam 106 (107) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Bombay Sales Tax (Procedure) Rules (1954), R. 51 — Rule does not contravene the provisions of the Article — Sales Tax—Bombay Sales Tax Act (III of 1953), S. 16.

Rule 51 of the Bombay Sales Tax (Procedure) Rules 1954, which imposes a penalty for default in payment of tax within the prescribed period, does not contravene the provision of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution on the ground that failure to pay tax within the prescribed time is also made liable for prosecution and punishment under S. 16 of the Act.

Article 20 (2) does not say that there shall not be two offences constituted by the same act. The same act may be punishable under two different provisions. The existence of two different provisions making an act punishable would not by itself attract the applicability of Art. 20 (2).

Further in order that the protection of Art. 20 (2) can be invoked by a citizen there must have been prosecution and punishment in respect of the same offence before a Court of law or a judicial tribunal and prosecution in this context means an initiation or starting of proceedings of a criminal nature before a Court of law or a judicial tribunal in accordance with the procedure prescribed in the statute which creates the offence and regulates the procedure. The proceeding which results in the punishment must therefore be a proceeding of a criminal nature. The proceeding resulting in the imposition of penalty under S. 16 of the Act could not possibly be said to be a proceeding of a criminal nature. A I R 1953 S C 325 and A I R 1960 Andh Pra 451, Rel. on. (1964) 5 Guj L R 1076 : A I R 1964 Guj 239 (240) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability—Appeal from acquittal—Interpretation of 'and' in "prosecuted and punished."

(Obiter)—The word 'and' in 'prosecuted and punished' should be interpreted disjunctively so as to mean "or", as otherwise the provision which should be applicable to cases of acquittal also, would become inapplicable to them. A I R 1952 Him Pra 81 (86) (Pt A) (Pr 11).

——Art. 20 (2) — Applicability and construction — "Prosecuted and punished" — Interpretation —First prosecution without proper sanction—Second charge-sheet on same facts — Maintainability — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

It is essential for the operation of Art. 20 (2) that the person who wants to get the benefit of this provision should be prosecuted as well as punished. The words therein are 'prosecuted and punished' and they are conjunctive. An accused obtaining a reversal of the order of the trial Court on appeal is estopped from pleading previous conviction although the accused at the time of the reversal had served out a part of his sentence.

Similarly a plea of former jeopardy cannot be maintained where a former conviction of the accused for the same offence was based upon an indictment which has been found defective. Where therefore, the prosecution of the petitioner was without a proper sanction;

Held, that it was a nullity and therefore the former prosecution and conviction would not be a bar to a subsequent prosecution. ILR (1956) Hyd 355 : 1956 Cri L J 998 : A I R 1956 Hyd 127 (128) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Arts. 20 (2), 14 and 311 — Double jeopardy for same offence — Departmental proceedings against Government servant after acquittal in criminal proceedings — Charge of receiving illegal gratification— Finding by Criminal Court that bribe was taken but acquittal granted on technical grounds relating to processual law — Acquittal does not preclude departmental proceedings in respect of same subject-matter — Departmental enquiry might not possess all attributes of criminal trial but to argue therefrom that Art. 14 of Constitution stands infringed leads to patent absurdity—Right to exercise disciplinary jurisdiction always exists when charge of sufficient gravity is alleged against an employee. W. P. 120 of 1962, D/- 18-2-1964 (Mad) Affirmed., A I R 1956 Mad 460 and A I R 1963 Orissa 73, Rel. on.; A I R 1952 Mad 853, Expl. A I R 1961 Cal 1, Ref. 78 Mad L W 692 : (1966) 1 Mad L J 306 : ILR (1965) 2 Mad 373.

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability — Discharge of accused.

Where an accused has been discharged on account of a trial which was a nullity there is no punishment and Art. 20 (2) does not apply. A I R 1952 Mad 729, Rel. on. 1955 Cri L J 514 : AIR 1955 Mad 129 (135) (Pt F) (Pr 19).

——Art. 20 (2) — Restrictive precautions taken under Madras Restriction of Habitual Offenders Act, 6 of 1948 — If amounts to prosecution and punishment — "Prosecuted and punished", meaning of. See Madras Restriction of Habitual Offenders Act (6 of 1948). A I R 1953 Mad 664 (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Prosecution without valid sanction —Discharge—Effect.

The principle underlying Art. 20 (2) is the same as underlies S. 403, Criminal P. C., namely, double jeopardy. The word "prosecuted" is said to have been introduced in order to make it clear that the power relates to punishment by a Court of law and not to other kinds of punishment besides a judicial penalty for example departmental action in the case of public servants or proceedings under the Legal Practitioners' Act in the case of lawyers. Clause (2) uses the conjunction "and" and not disjunction "or" between the words "prosecuted" and "punished" and this makes it clear that to bar a fresh prosecution for the same offence, the accused should have been both prosecuted and punished. So when an accused is discharged for want of sanction there is no punishment and when a man is punished departmentally, there is no prosecution. Therefore, Art. 20 (2) does not take away the right to institute a second prosecution when the first is found to be a nullity by reason of want of sanction a prerequisite for the maintaining of the prosecution. (1952) 65 Mad L W 329 : 1952 Mad W N 362 : 1952 Mad W N Cr 74 : 1952-1 Mad L J 550 : 1952 Cri L J 1576 : A I R 1952 Mad 725 (726, 727) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability — Acquittal in previous case—Second prosecution—Bar of.

Article 20 (2) does not prohibit proceedings against a person for an offence when he has been prosecuted and acquitted previously for the said offence. The principle of autre fois convict or of double jeopardy alone is accepted by the Constitution and not the plea of autrefois acquit. Where the accused was first acquitted under S. 347, Criminal P. C., for the non-appearance of the complainant but later on, the Magistrate, having been satisfied that there was sufficient reason for the complainant to remain absent, ignored the acquittal and revived the case, the revival would not offend Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. A I R 1953 S C 325 Rel. on. 1961 (2) Cri L J 507 (Manipur).

——Art. 20 (2)—Interpretation.

The word "and" in Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution cannot be read as "or". Although by construing the article literally the protection given by the Constitution will not be as extensive as that given by S. 403, Criminal P. C., to a person who has been tried for an offence, there is no reason why the literal meaning should be departed from. ILR (1952) Nag 52 : 1952 Nag L J 221 : 1952 Cri L J 845 : AIR 1952 Nag 170 (171) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Applicability — Award of damages by appropriate Government under Employees' Provident Funds Act — (Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 14-B).

Although the infliction of damages imposed under S. 14-B is penal in its character and is, therefore, tantamount to "punishment" within the meaning of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution, the protection of Art. 20 (2) can be invoked by a person only if there is a prosecution and punishment in respect of the same offence before a Court of law or a judicial tribunal, and not before a tribunal which entertains a departmental or an administrative enquiry even though set up by statute. The appropriate Government which is empowered to inflict damages under S. 14-B of the Employees' Provident Funds Act is not a Judicial Tribunal required by law to decide matters in controversy judicially upon evidence on oath. Hence the employer when he is prosecuted and convicted under S. 14 (2) read with para. 78 of the scheme and also damages under S. 14-B are imposed upon him is not entitled to invoke the protection of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. A I R 1953 S C 325, Rel. on. 1957 Pat L R 386 : 1957 B L J R 811 : (1958) 1 Lab L J 598 : ILR 37 Pat 47.

——Art. 20 (2) — Applicability to departmental enquiry.

Article 20 (2) only prohibits the prosecution and punishment of a person more than once for the same offence. It does not in fact prohibit a second prosecution and punishment for an offence for which he has been previously prosecuted and acquitted. Hence Art. 20 (2) has no application in the case of a civil servant who has been prosecuted and acquitted. AIR 1959 Tripura 51 (54) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

3 (c). "Prosecuted", meaning of.

●——Art. 20—Applicability — Scope—'Prosecuted' meaning of — (Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167) — (Foreign Exchange Regulation Act (1947), Ss. 23 and 23-B)—(Penal Code (1860), S. 40) —(General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (37)).

Per Majority. — The proceedings before the Sea Customs Authorities under S. 167 (8) of the Sea Customs Act are not 'prosecution' within the meaning of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution.

Prosecution means a proceeding either by way of indictment or information in the criminal Courts in order to put an offender upon his trial. The Chief Customs Officer or any other officer lower in rank than him in Customs department is not a Court. When a criminal prosecution and punishment of a criminal, in the sense of the penal law, is intended. section 167 makes a specific reference to a trial by a Magistrate, a conviction by such Magis rate and on such conviction to imprisonment or fine or both.

One of the three essential conditions laid down in cl. (2) of Art. 20 of the Constitution is absent and therefore the prohibition against double jeopardy would not become operative.

Subba Rao, J. — (Dissenting).—The word 'prosecuted' is comprehensive enough to take in a prosecution before an authority other than a magisterial or a criminal Court.

Section 167 of the Sea Customs Act defines a criminal act and fixes the punishment for that act. Apart from the fact that the statute itself in clear terms describes the acts detailed in the first column of S. 167 as offences against particular laws the acts described therein clearly fall within the definition of 'offences' in the General Clauses Act and the Penal Code.

The entire scheme of the Act as disclosed in the Sea Customs Act leaves no doubt that so far as offences mentioned in S. 167 are concerned the Customs Authority has to function as a judicial tribunal.

When the accused along with others, attempted to take out of India, Indian currency in contravention of the law prohibiting such export it cannot be held that the offence for which he was prosecuted by the Magistrate was different from the ore for which he had already been prosecuted and punished by the Customs Authority. In that view the prosecution and punishment by the Magistrate directly infringes the fundamental right under Art. 20 (2). Thomas Dana v. State of Punjab. 1959 Mad L J (Cr) 474 : 1959 Cr L J 392 : 1959 S C J 699 : 1959 Cal L J 342 : (1959) 1 S C R (Supp) 74 ; AIR 1959 S C 375 (379, 383, 385, 386, 387, 388) (Prs 11, 18, 27, 28, 32, 33, 34, 35).

●——Art. 20 (2) — Nature of proceedings contemplated by Article — Connotation of 'prosecuted' and 'punished' — Enquiry under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act is neither prosecution nor punishment—(Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), S. 2).

The language of Art. 20 and the words actually used in Art. 20 (2) afford a clear indication that the proceedings in connection with the prosecution and punishment of a person must be in the nature of a criminal proceeding, before a Court of law or judicial tribunal, and not before a tribunal, which entertains a departmental or an administrative enquiry even though set up by a statute, but which is not required by law to try a matter judicially and on legal evidence. AIR 1953 S C 325, Foll.

It is true that the Commissioner appointed to make an enquiry under the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850 is invested with some of the powers of a Court, particularly in the matter of summoning witnesses and compelling the production of documents and the report, which he has to make, has to be made on legal evidence adduced under sanction of oath and tested by cross examination. But from these facts alone, the conclusion does not necessarily follow that an enquiry made and concluded under that Act amounts to prosecution and punishment for an offence as contemplated by Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution.

The words 'prosecution' and 'punishment' have no fixed connotation and they are susceptible of both a wider and a narrow meaning; but in Art. 20 (2) both the words have been used with reference to an 'offence' and the word 'offence' has to be taken in the sense in which it is used in General Clauses Act as meaning 'an act or omission made punishable by any law for the time being in force.' It follows that the prosecution must be in reference to the law which creates the offence and the punishment must also be in accordance with what that law prescribes.

In an enquiry under the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act of 1850 there is neither any question of investigating an offence in the sense of an act or omission punishable by any law for the time being in force, nor is there any question of imposing punishment prescribed by the law which makes that act or omission an offence. Venkataraman v. Union of India, (1954) S C J 461 : (1954) I M L J 702 : (1954) S C A 466 : 1954 Cr L J 993 : (1954) S C R 1150 : 1954 All W R (Supp) 54 : 1954 Mad W N 475 : AIR 1954 S C 375 (377, 378, 379) (Pt C) (Prs 6, 9, 15, 17).

● —Art. 20 (2) — Double jeopardy — Action under S. 7—Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act whether amounts to a prosecution—See Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (23 of 1949), S. 7. AIR 1954 S C 229.

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability—Levy of penalty for non-payment of sales-tax—If prosecution.

Levy of penalty under the Andhra Pradesh Sales Tax Act for default in payment of sales tax is not a prosecution within meaning of Art. 20 (2). Therefore the provision for the levy of the penalty under S. 16 (3) and the starting of the prosecution under S. 30 (1) and S. 30 (3), Andhra Pradesh General Sales Tax Act as the case may be, is not violative of the guarantee given under Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 375, A I R 1953 S C 325, AIR 1958 S C 119, A I R 1959 S C 375, Rel. on. (1960) 11 S T C 581 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 451 (454, 455) (Pt D) (Prs 14, 16).

——Art. 20 (2) — Recovery of sales tax by attachment and sale of assessee's property—Does not amount to prosecution of assessee. 1958 Cri L J 1377 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 707 (708) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 20 (2)—"Prosecution"—Meaning of.

The word "prosecution" in Art. 20 (2) means judicial proceedings before a Court or a legal tribunal. It cannot have reference to departmental or disciplinary proceedings taken for inflicting departmental penalty or punishment on an officer belonging to the department for any misconduct. 55 Cal W N 605 : ILR (1952) Cal 254 : AIR 1953 Cal 316 (319) (Pt C) (Pr 34).

——Art. 20 (2) — Previous conviction and fine by Rent Controller — Prosecution in Criminal Court upon same facts—If barred — West Bengal Premises Rent Control Act (1950), Ss. 34 and 41.

If the prosecution in the Criminal Court under S. 41 of the West Bengal Premises Rent Control Act, 1950, is upon the same facts as the proceedings in the Rent Controller's Court under S. 34 of the Act, then a previous conviction and fine by the Rent Controller would bar any punishment being given by the Criminal Court by reason of the plain words of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution of India. The words "prosecution" and "offence" as used in the Constitution are not defined and they must be given their ordinary meaning. Going to the Rent Controller and asking him to fine a man for an act is really a prosecution of that man and the act is an offence against the statute and is a criminal offence because it is punishable by a fine which is a punishment of a criminal nature. 1953 Cr L J 294 : 56 C W N 585 : AIR 1953 Cal 85 (87) (Prs 12, 13, 16) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)— Prosecution means proceeding of a criminal nature.

"Prosecution" in the context of Art. 20 (2) means the initiation or starting of proceedings of a criminal nature before a Court of law or a judicial tribunal in accordance with the procedure prescribed in the statute which creates the offence and regulates the procedure. The proceeding which results in the punishment must therefore be a proceeding of a criminal nature. The proceeding resulting in the imposition of penalty under S. 16 Bombay Sales Tax Act could not possibly be said to be a proceeding of a criminal nature. (1964) 5 Guj L R 1076 : A I R 1964 Guj 239 (240) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Prosecution without sanction is a nullity — Conviction therein would not bar a subsequent prosecution. I L R (1956) Hyd 355 : 1956 Cri L J 998 : AIR 1956 Hyd 127 (128) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — "Prosecuted" refers to the power of punishment by Court of law and not to other kinds of punishment.

The word "prosecuted" has been used to make it clear that the power relates to punishment by Court of law and not to other kinds of punishment besides a judicial penalty for example departmental action in the case of public servants or proceedings under the Legal Practitioners Act in the case of lawyers. (1952) 1 Mad L J 550 : 65 Mad L W 329 : 1952 Mad W N (Cri) 115 : 1952 Mad W N 362 : 1952 Cri L J 1576 : AIR 1952 Mad 725 (726) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20 (2) — Conviction in previous trial set aside for want of proper sanction — Fresh trial after fresh sanction — If barred — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403.

Where a conviction and sentence passed on a person after a trial are set aside on the ground of want of proper sanction, it cannot be said that there was a proper trial at all and so the result of the decision cannot operate as a bar to a fresh trial after receipt of a fresh sanction. 30 C W N 382 and A I R 1939 F C 43, Ref to. ILR (1952) Nag 52 : 1952 Nag L J 221 : 1952 Cri L J 845 : A I R 1952 Nag 170 (171) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Prosecution under S. 182 Penal Code — Dismissal of, on ground of the complaint not having been presented by public servant concerned — Second prosecution on valid complaint, if barred. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1018 : AIR 1966 Raj 40.

3 (d). Judicial proceeding necessary.

● ——Art 20 (2) — Criminal proceeding before Court of law or tribunal necessary.

The language of Art. 20 and the words actually used in Art. 20 (2) afford a clear indication that the proceedings in connection with the prosecution and punishment of a person must be in the nature of a criminal proceeding before a Court of law or judicial tribunal and not before a tribunal which entertains a departmental or administrative enquiry even though set up by a statute but which is not required by law to try a matter judicially and on legal evidence. Venkataraman v. Union of India, 1954 S C A 468 : 1954 Cri L J 993 : 1954 S C J 461 : 1954 (1) Mad L J 702 : 1954 Mad W N 475 : 1954 All W R (Sup) 54 : 1954 S C R 1150 : 1954 Andh L T (Civil) 55 : AIR 1954 S C 375 (377) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

● ——Art. 20 (2)—Proceedings of the nature of criminal proceeding before a Court of law or judicial tribunal necessary.

In order to invoke the protection of Art. 20 (2) there must have been a prosecution and punishment in respect of the same offence before a Court of law or judicial tribunal, required by law to decide the matters in controversy, judicially on evidence on oath which it must be authorised by law to administer and not before a tribunal which entertains a departmental or administrative enquiry even though set up by a statute but not required to proceed on legal evidence given on oath. The article contemplates proceedings of the nature of criminal proceedings before a Court of law or a judicial tribunal and the prosecution in this context means initiation of proceedings of a criminal nature before such a Court or tribunal in accordance with the procedure prescribed in the statute which creates the offence and regulates the procedure. Maqbool Hussain v. State of Bombay. 1953 S C A 641 : 1953 S C J 456 : (1953) 2 Mad L J 113 : 1953 Cri L J 1432 : 1953 All W R (Sup) 84 : 1953 Mad W N 648 : 1953 S C R 730 : 56 Bom L R 13 : A I R 1953 S C 325 (328, 329) (Pt A) (Pr. 12).

——Art. 20 (2) — Applicability — Departmental enquiry.

The proceedings in connection with the prosecution and punishment of a person must be in the nature of a criminal proceedings, before a Court of Law or Judicial Tribunal, and not before a Tribunal which entertains a departmental or an administrative inquiry even though set up by a statute, but which is not required by law to try the matter judicially and on legal evidence. AIR 1954 S C 375, Foll. 61 Bom L R 1625 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 66 : AIR 1960 Bom 225 (229, 230) (Pt C) (Pr 27).

——Art. 20 (2) — Employees' Provident Funds Act — Government which is empowered to inflict damages under S. 14 (B) not a judicial tribunal — Hence employer, even if he has been prosecuted and convicted under S. 14 (2) is not entitled to invoke protection of Art. 20 (2) against infliction of the damages although the damages being penal in its character would amount to "punishment" within the meaning of the article. ('58) ILR 37 Pat 47.

——Art. 20 (2) — Double jeopardy — Sea Customs Authorities confiscating goods and imposing penalty on accused — Accused it also liable to be convicted under S. 167 (81), Sea Customs Act.

The Sea Customs Authorities are not a judicial tribunal and the adjudging of confiscation or increased rate of duty or penalty under the provisions of the Sea Customs Act do not constitute a judgment or order of a Court of Judicial Tribunal necessary for the purpose of supporting a plea of double jeopardy and hence in such a case the accused can be convicted under S. 167 (81) of the Sea Customs Act. AIR 1953 S C 325 and A I R 1959 S C 375, Foll. ; A I R 1958 S C 845, Disting. 62 Punj L R 772 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 150 : AIR 1961 Punj 21 (24) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

3 (e). Civil action.

● ——Art. 20—Scope — Imposition of civil penalties — Does not amount to conviction and sentence under criminal law so as to attract doctrine of double jeopardy — Action under S. 186, Sea Customs Act does not preclude proceedings under S. 167 (81) of that Act. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (81). AIR 1962 Mad 85 (FB).

3 (f). Preventive detention.

——Art. 20—Satisfaction under Preventive Detention Act is not a "prosecution"—Article 20 (2) does not apply to preventive detention. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950) (as amended in 1951), S. 3. AIR 1952 Cal 26 (DB).

3 (g). Security proceedings.

——Art. 20—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 107 — Proceedings under S. 107 — Nature of — Person proceeded against is not under any accusation of offence — His imprisonment for failure to give security does not bar his subsequent trial for the acts on which the security proceedings were based. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 107. AIR 1959 Mad 339.

——Art. 20 (2) — Proceedings under S. 107, Criminal P. C.—Petitioner imprisoned for failure to give security — Subsequent trial for same acts for which security proceedings were started—Trial, whether barred. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. A I R 1952 Trav-Co 556.

3 (h). Departmental or disciplinary proceedings.

● ——Art. 20(2)—Departmental enquiry—Proceedings quashed by civil Court on ground of irregularity in procedure— Fresh departmental enquiry can be held on same facts. See Ibid, Art. 226. (1962) 2 S C J 282: AIR 1962 S C 1334.

——Art. 20 (3)—Simultaneous departmental and criminal proceedings—There is no provision requiring stay of departmental proceedings pending criminal Proceedings—Art. 20 (3) has no application because the person is not 'tried' in departmental proceedings for any criminal offence. AIR 1958 Cal 682, Disting. 1962 All W R (H C) 343 : 1962 All Cr R 196 : (1962) 1 Cr L J 554 : AIR 1962 All 232 (232, 233) (Prs 2, 4).

——Art. 20—Violation of conditions of motor vehicle permit— Provisions of Motor Vehicles Act for prosecution under S. 123 and for taking departmental action under S. 60 — No complaint of double jeopardy or violation of Art. 20 can be made because action under S. 60 of the Motor Vehicles Act cannot be regarded as prosecution—If law provides both for criminal prosecution and a civil claim or departmental action in respect of a wrongful act there is nothing illegal or invalid about it. A I R 1955 Andhra 277, Rel. on. Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 60 and 123. 1962 All L J 116.

——Art. 20 (2) — Scope — Departmental enquiry — Whether superior officer holding enquiry can be said to have prosecuted and punished the officer charged within the meaning of Art. 20 (2). See Madras Civil Services (Disciplinary Proceedings Tribunal) Rules (1940). (1957) 2 Andh W R 425.

——Art. 20 (2) — Departmental or administrative enquiry—Though made by tribunal set up, statute does not attract application of article where it is not required by law to try the matter judicially and on legal evidence. AIR 1960 Bom 225.

——Art. 20 (2)—Departmental proceedings.

Article 20 (2) does not apply to departmental proceedings. A I R 1953 Cal 316 ; A I R 1952 Mad 725 and AIR 1953 S C 325, Rel. on. 58 C W N 18 : ILR (1955) 2 Cal 28 : AIR 1954 Cal 60 (65) (Pt K) (Pr 76) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Scope and effect — Acquittal in criminal proceedings — Departmental proceedings in respect of identical charges—If barred.

Departmental proceedings against an officer in respect of the identical charges of which he was acquitted in the criminal proceedings by a Sessions Judge, are not barred under Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution. This article is merely a reproduction of the principles underlying or laid down in S. 403, Criminal P. C. (1898) and S. 26 of the General Clauses Act (10 of 1897). The word "prosecution" in Art. 20 (2) means judicial proceedings before a Court or a legal tribunal. It cannot have reference to departmental or disciplinary proceedings taken for inflicting departmental penalty or punishment on an officer belonging to the department for any misconduct. ILR (1952) Cal 254: 55 C W N 605 : A I R 1953 Cal 316 (319) (Pt C) (Pr 34).

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability of principles of Autrefois acquit and Autrefois convict to departmental enquiries. See Criminal P.C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1965 J & K 91 (DB).

——Art. 20 – Scope—Government servant prosecuted on criminal charge and honourably acquitted – Fresh proceedings in respect of same matter – Validity — Art. 311 (2). See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). A I R 1959 Madh Pra 46.

——Art. 20 (2) — Departmental proceeding against Government servant after his acquittal in criminal proceeding on technical grounds relating to processual law not barred. 78 Mad L W 692 : (1966) 1 Mad L J 306 : ILR (1965) 2 Mad 373.

——Art. 20 (2) — Fresh departmental proceedings against, Government servant in respect of same matter —Dismissal order set aside by Court not on merits, but on ground that principles of natural justice were not observed — Fresh enquiry in respect of same allegations not illegal – Central Civil Service Rules, (1957), R. 12 (4) — Second enquiry is covered by R. 12 (4)—No question of double jeopardy — Retrospective suspension—Validity. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1963 Manipur 28.

——Art. 20 (2) — Fresh enquiry for same offence— Order of removal without giving opportunity to defend — Order withdrawn reserving right to direct enquiry — Fresh enquiry on same grounds not hit by principle of double jeopardy. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). ('64) 66 Punj L R 1227.

——Art. 20 (2) —Departmental enquiry and punishment against Government servant — Power of Government to hold fresh enquiry — Principle of double jeopardy not applicable. See Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules (1952), Rule 14. A I R 1956 Punj 81.

3 (i). Same offence.

● ——Art. 20 (2)—'Same offence.'

The previous case in which the accused was convicted was in regard to a conspiracy to commit criminal breach of trust in respect of the funds of the Jupiter Company. Therein it was found that the accused was a party to the conspiracy and also a party to the fraudulent transactions entered into by the Jupiter Company in his favour. The subsequent case related to a different conspiracy altogether. The conspiracy in question was to lift the funds of the Empire Company, though its object was to cover up the fraud committed in respect of the Jupiter Company :

Held, that it might be that the defalcations made in Jupiter Company afforded a motive for the new conspiracy, but the two offences were distinct ones. Some accused might be common to both of them, some of the facts proved to establish the Jupiter Company conspiracy might also have to be proved to support the motive for the second conspiracy. But that in itself would not be sufficient to make the two conspiracies the one and the same offence. It could could not even be said that some of the ingredients of both the conspiracies were the same. The facts constituting the Jupiter Company conspiracy were not the ingredients of the offence of the Empire Company conspiracy, but only afforded a motive for the latter offence. Motive was not an ingredient of an offence. The proof of motive helped a Court in coming to a correct conclusion when there was no direct evidence. Where there was direct evidence for implicating an accused in an offence the absence of proof of motive was not material. The ingredients of both the offences were totally different and they did not form the same offence within the meaning of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution Bhagwan Swarup Lal Bishan Lal v. State of Maharashtra, (1964) 2 S C R 378 : (1964) 2 S C J 771 : 1965 (1) Cri L J 608 : AIR 1965 S C 682 (688, 689) (Pt D) (Prs 11, 12).

● ——Art. 20 (2)—General Clauses Act (1897), S. 26—Principle—Second trial must be for same offence.

Both in the case of Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution as well as S. 26 of the General Clauses Act to operate as a bar the second prosecution and the consequential punishment thereunder must be for 'the same offence' i. e., an offence whose ingredients are the same. The 5th amendment of the American Constitution which provides that no person shall be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb, proceeds on the same principle. A I R 1961 S C 578, Rel. on, Manipur Administration, Manipur v. Thokchom Bira Singh, 1964 Mad W N 557 : (1964) 7 S C R 123 : 1965 S C D 8 : (1965) 1 Andh L T 96 : (1965) 1 S C J 451 : 1965 Mad L J (Cri) 233 : (1965) All W R (H C) 358 : 1965 All Cri R 250 : 1965 (1) Cr L J 120 : AIR 1965 S C 87 (90) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

● ——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability—Applies only when both complaints relate to same offence — Offence under S. 409, I. P. Code and that under S. 105, Insurance Act, not same—Two trials not barred by Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution or by S. 26, General Clauses Act. ILR (1956) Bom 685 : 58 Bom L R 578, Reversed. State of Bombay v. S. L. Apte, 1961 (1) Cri L J 725 : 63 Bom L R 491 : (1961) 1 Ker L R 452 : (1961) 2 S C A 446 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (S C) 210 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (S C) 210 : (1961) 31 Com Cas 39 : (1961) 1 S C J 685 : 1961 Mad L J (Cri) 331 : 1961 M P L J 1108 : 1961 Nag L J 524 : A I R 1961 S C 578 (583) (Prs 15, 16, 17).

——Art. 20 (2)—Accused prosecuted under Ss. 120-B/420, 420, 467/-471, Penal Code—After examination of several prosecution witnesses, State filing second case separately against same accused persons under same sections for the same offences committed in pursuance of same conspiracy — Accused cannot be tried twice over in two cases for same offence of conspiracy punishable under S. 120 B, Penal Code. 1965 (2) Cr L J 351 : AIR 1965 Cal 457 (458, 459) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 6).

——Art. 20 (2)—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403 — Applicability—Under R. 19 under Madras General Sales Tax Act, partner is jointly and severally responsible for payment of tax—But it is firm that has to be prosecuted—One of partners prosecuted under S. 15 (b) of Madras General Sales Tax Act and acquitted — No subsequent prosecution of firm or other partner is maintainable—(Sales Tax—Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 15 (b), R. 19). See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1955 Mad 161.

——Arts. 20 (2), 311 (2), Proviso (a) — Misconduct by Government servant — Conviction by criminal Court under S. 353, Penal Code—Government first imposing punishment of suspension for the misconduct which has led to his conviction and again of dismissal — Latter order amounts to second punishment for same misconduct and is illegal – Order held not covered by Proviso (a) to Art. 311 (2) or Standing Order (n) in Chap. 12 (2) Mysore Government Road Transport Department Standing Orders, Ch. 12 (2), Order (n). (1963) 2 Mys L J 28 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 723 : 1964 (1) Cr L J 112 (113, 114) (Prs 6, 8, 10) (DB).

3(j). Distinct offences.

● ——Art. 20 (2) – Offence under S. 409, Penal Code, and that under S. 105, Insurance Act are not same. State of Bombay v. S. L. Apte, 1961 (1) Cri L J 725 : 1961 Mad W N 284 : 63 Bom L R 491 : (1961) 3 S C R 107 : (1961) 1 Ker L R 452 : (1961) 1 S C J 685 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (SC) 210 : 1961 Mad L J (Cri) 331 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (SC) 210 : (1961) 31 Com Cas (Ins) 39 : 1961 M P L J 1108 : 1961 Nag L J 524 : (1961) 2 S C A 446 : AIR 1961 S C 578 (583) (Pr 16).

● ——Art. 20 (2) — Applicability — Conviction for offence under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act –Subsequent trial for conspiracy – If barred – Collector of Customs acts judicially under S. 167 (8) – (Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8) (81) – (Penal Code (1860), S. 120-B) – Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403).

In imposing confiscation and penalties under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act, the Collector of Customs acts judicially. But the fact that the Collector of Customs acted judicially is not decisive and does not necessarily attract the protection guaranteed by Art. 20 (2). That article protects a person from being 'prosecuted and punished' for the same offence more than once'. Under S. 186, Sea Customs Act, the award of any confiscation, penalty or increased rate of duty under that Act by an officer of Customs does not prevent the infliction of any punishment to which the person affected thereby is liable under any other law.

Criminal conspiracy under S. 120-B, Indian Penal Code, is not punishable under the Sea Customs Act. Where the offence of criminal conspiracy was not the subject-matter of the proceedings under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act before the Collector of Customs it cannot be said that the accused have already been prosecuted and punished for the 'same offence' as conspiracy under S. 120-B, Penal Code read with S. 167 (81), Sea Customs Act. Their subsequent trial, therefore, under S. 120-B read with S. 167 (81) is not barred. Leo Roy Frey v. Superintendent, District Jail, Amritsar, 1958 S C J 301 : 1958 Mad L J (Cr) 289 : 1958 S C A 40 : 1958 Cr L J 260 : 1958 S C R 822 : AIR 1958 S C 119 (121) (Pr 4).

● ——Art. 20 (2) – Applicability – One trial for several offences – Acquittal of some and conviction of others – Legality. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1957 S C 592

● ——Art. 20 – Prior proceeding under S. 488, Calcutta Municipal Act read with R. 62 of Sch. 17 does not bar proceeding under S. 363 – See Municipalities – Calcutta Municipal Act (3 of 1923), S. 363. AIR 1956 S C 110.

——Art. 20 (2) – Saharanpur Municipal Bye-laws, Bye-law No. 2 – Offence under – Continuing offence – Previous prosecution does not operate as bar for subsequent prosecution. See Municipalities – U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 299. 1965 (1) Cri L J 412 : AIR 1965 All 160.

——Art. 20 (2) – Applicability – Every act of refusal to take food constitutes fresh offence – Accused continuing hunger strike after repeated warnings and jail punishments – Subsequent prosecution and conviction under S. 52, Prisons Act – Art. 20 (2) not infringed. 1958 All L J 849 : 1959 Cr L J 283 : ILR (1959) 2 All 1 : AIR 1959 All 164 (166) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 20 – Accused tried for misappropriation for items covering period 1951-52 – Sanction obtained – Conviction – Second trial for items covering period 1949-50 – These items not subject-matter of previous trial – Evidence not same – Principle of Art. 20 and S. 403, Cr. P. C., applicability – (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403) – (Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), S. 6).

The accused along with another was prosecuted for misappropriating items of money covering the period between 1951-52. Prosecution was under S. 5 (2), Prevention of Corruption Act and Ss. 465 and 471 read with S. 120B, I. P. C. Sanction was obtained on 10-8-1953. The accused was convicted for offence under Ss. 465 and 471, I. P. C. and S. 5 (2), Prevention of Corruption Act and was acquitted of other charges. Subsequently the accused was being tried for items covering a period of 1949 to 1950. These items were not the subject-matter of the previous trial. Sanction for the prosecution for this second trial was granted on 14-12-1953 more than four months after the sanction for the first trial was obtained. Some of the charges in the second trial were not the charges in the previous trial, viz. Ss. 409, 468 and 420 of I. P. C. When the charge-sheet in the first trial was presented there was no sanction for prosecution in respect of the second trial.

Held, that items in the second trial being different relating to different entries, it could not be said that the evidence in the two cases would be identical or that the second trial would be a repetition of what had taken place in the earlier trial.

(2) that neither cl. (2) of Art. 20 of the Constitution nor S. 403 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in terms applied. (Point conceded).

(3) that in the second trial the items in dispute were of an entirely different period and were in any case beyond 12 months from any of the items in respect of which the first trial was held. They could not, therefore, be made subject matter of a charge in that case. Besides there was no evidence that the prosecution was aware when the former case was started about the items (subject matter of second trial) misappropriated by the accused. In the first trial the accused too were different. The sections under which they were charged were also different. For all these reasons the principle underlying the doctrine of autrefois convict could not be extended to the present case. 1958 A W R (HC) 195 : 1958 All L J 111 : 1958 A Cr R 179.

——Art. 20 – Continuing offence – Offence of default in payment of successive instalments towards licence fee. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1956 All 141.

——Art. 20 – Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 403 and 234 – Applicability and scope – Distinct offences committed in different transactions – Separate trials – Acquittal in one – Competency of the other – Principle of autrefois acquit. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 517.

——Art. 20 (2) – Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403 – "Any distinct offence" – Accused found in possession of stolen articles forming subject-matter of distinct thefts – Trial of accused under S. 411, Penal Code more than once – (Penal Code (1860), S. 411) – (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104). See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. A I R 1959 Andh Pra 137.

——Art. 20 (2) – Applicability – Prosecution for different offences relating to different periods – Bar of.

Where in the previous case the contravention was of provision imposing a different obligation and in period different from that to which the complaint in the subsequent case relates, there can be no bar of autrefois acquit to the maintainability of the subsequent complaint. 61 Bom L R 1291 : 1960 Cri L J 1321 : I L R (1960) Bom 762 : A I R 1960 Bom 453 (455) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) – Double jeopardy for same offence – Rule against – Applicability – Offences involved in second prosecution distinct and different from those in first prosecution though allegations of fact substantially similar – Rule does not apply

If the offences in respect of which prosecutions started are distinct and different, there is no question of the Rule as to double jeopardy as embodied in Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution being applicable. To operate as a bar, the second prosecution and the consequential punishment thereunder must be for the 'same offence'. The crucial requirement, therefore, for attracting the article is that the offences are the same, that is, they should be identical. If, however, the two offences are distinct, then notwithstanding that the allegations of facts in the two complaints might be substantially similar, the benefit of the ban cannot be invoked. A I R 1961 S C 578, Rel. on.

Held, on facts, that the contravention of the sections under the Drugs Act for which the second prosecution was started was a continuing offence and an offence distinct and different from that which was the subject-matter of the first prosecution and consequently the principle of double jeopardy was not attracted to the facts and circumstances of this case. 1965 (2) Cri L J 206 : A I R 1965 Cal 434 (436) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Art. 20 — Double jeopardy for same offence— Illegal exportation of Indian Currency out of India —Prosecution of person under Clauses (3), (8) and (37) of S. 167 of Sea Customs Act is legal — Person can at the same time also be prosecuted under Ss. 23 (1) and 23-B of Foreign Exchange Regulation Act.

Where a person is prosecuted for trying to illegally export Indian Currency out of India, his prosecution under Cls. (3), (8) and (37) of S. 167, Sea Customs Act is valid. It cannot be said that he is being prosecuted for the same offence, three times over. The ingredients of the three offences set forth under S. 167 (3), (8) and (37) are different although all the offences might be committed by the same person in planning to export currency notes out of India. The illegal exportation of currency consists of an integrated series of acts just as much as the legal exportation would be. Some facts are bound to be common in the commission of the different offences but that does not affect the jurisdiction to impose the several penalties. A further criminal complaint against him under Ss. 23 (1-A) and 23-B of Foreign Exchange Regulation Act is also valid for a person may be guilty of certain acts which expose him to a criminal prosecution for a criminal offence to a penalty under the law intended to collect the maximum revenue under the taxing law, and/or at the same time, make him liable to damages in torts. A I R 1959 S C 375, Rel. on. 1964 (2) Cri L J 151 : A I R 1964 Cal 347 (354) (Pt D) (Prs 26, 27) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Double jeopardy — West Bengal Premises Tenancy Act (12 of 1956), S. 31 — Proceeding under, against landlord for cutting electric connection — Subsequent conviction under S. 426, Penal Code for same act — Legality — (Penal Code (1860), S. 425).

A landlord cut off the electric connection of his tenant with a pair of scissors in the presence of his wife as the tenant had refused to pay the enhanced electric charges demanded by him. They were tried under S. 426, Indian Penal Code, and convicted on the same. A prosecution under S. 31, West Bengal Premises Tenancy Act had also been launched against the landlord's wife only and had not come for hearing as yet.

Held, that (i) the cutting off of the electric connection, was with the intention of causing wrongful loss to the opposite parties so as to clearly come within the definition of S. 425 of the Indian Penal Code.

(ii) that although there is proper and adequate remedy available to the tenant under S. 31 of the West Bengal Premises Rent Control Act, it could not be said that the landlord's wife should not have been prosecuted under the general law before the Presidency Magistrate. It will be for the wife if so advised to point out before the Rent Controller, Calcutta, if she is punished that there had been a punishment awarded to her on a conviction under S. 426 of the Indian Penal Code on the same facts and it will be for the Magistrate to deal with the matter according to law. 1959 Cri L J 446 : I L R (1959) 2 Cal 658 : A I R 1959 Cal 260 (261, 262) (Prs 8, 15).

——Art. 20 (2)—Offence under S. 30 (1) (b), Madhya Bharat Excise Act compounded — Prosecution for offence under S. 33 (b) is competent. See Madhya Bharat Excise Act (1952), S. 53 (2). A I R 1955 N U C (Madh B) 1818.

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability — Second prosecution based on different acts on different occasions at different places — Bar of — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 235 (1) and 303)—(Penal Code (1860), S. 485).

It may be that a person may be in possession of different sets of counterfeit labels of trade-mark on different occasions at different places If such a person be found in possssion he will be deemed to have committed a distinct and separate offence under S. 485, Penal Code in respect of each set of counterfeit labels found with him, at different places. It cannot be said that a second prosecution in respect of another set of counterfeit labels found with a person would amount to a prosecution for the same offence twice, violating S. 403, Criminal P. C. or Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution of India. A I R 1955 S C 280, Rel. on. 1960 M P L J 443 : 1960 M P C 233 : 1960 Cri L J 609 : I L R (1959) Madh Pra 620 : 1960 Jab L J 501 : A I R 1960 Madh Pra 149 (149, 150) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 20 (2) — Different cases started against accused under S. 411, Penal Code, in respect of different articles seized on same occasion — Acquittal in one case will not bar retrial in other cases. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403. 1961 (1) Cri L J 398 : A I R 1961 Mys 69.

——Art. 20—Applicability and scope — Punishment for same offence more than once — Liability to be punished under S. 161, Penal Code, and also under S. 5 of Prevention of Corruption Act. See General Clauses Act (1897), S. 26. 1960 Cri L J 493 : A I R 1960 Mys 111 (DB).

——Art. 20—More than one trial—Legality—Test— (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403)—(Penal Code (1860), Ss. 160, 323).

The test for determining the legality of the trial of a person more than once is whether the offences for which he is tried are distinct from those for which he was previously tried. The facts necessary to make out an offence of hurt being altogether different from those for affray, the previous trial and conviction under S. 160, Penal Code, are therefore no impediment to a subsequent case under S. 323, Penal Code, filed by one of the parties to that affray. 35 Mys H C R (C C R) 10 ; A I R 1936 Mad 353 (F B) ; A I R 1928 Cal 240 and A I R 1930 Cal 60 (1), Disting. ; 7 Mys C C R 131 ; 31 Mys C C R 335 ; A I R 1940 Mad 224 and A I R 1925 All 299, Rel. on. 1955 Cri L J 1611 : I L R (1955) Mys 470 : A I R 1955 Mys 138 (139) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2)—Applicability—Distinct offence.

Possession of firearm without license is an offence independent of the offence of dacoity and as it is a case of a distinct offence Cl. (2) of Art. 20 of the Constitution of India does not bar the second trial. A I R 1952 Cal 730, Ref.; 54 Cal W N 695 (PC), Expl. 1955 B L J R 219 : 34 Pat 164 : 1955 Cri L J 1277 : A I R 1955 Pat 396 (400) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 20 (2) — Same offence — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403—General Clauses Act (1897), S. 26— Sales tax—Bihar Sales Tax Act (1947), S. 26.

The accused obstructed a Commercial Tax Inspector on a particular day while the latter was examining his accounts in regard to agricultral income-tax. During this inspection it was discovered that the accused had also committed an offence under S. 26 (1) (a) by failing to register himself under the Bihar Sales Tax Act. On a complaint filed by the Inspector the accused was tried on a charge under S. 353, Penal Code, by a Magistrate with second class powers and was acquitted. He was again prosecuted on the same facts by a first class Magistrate for offences under Clauses (a) and (h) of S. 26 (1), Bihar Sales Tax Act after obtaining the necessary sanction as required by S. 26 (2) of that Act.

Held, that (i) so far as the offence under S. 26 (1) (a), Bihar Sales Tax Act was concerned, the trial was not barred because that offence was not constituted by any of the acts done by the accused on the particular date. The mere fact that it was discovered on that day could not make it an offence committed on the day of occurrence.

(ii) So far as the offence under S. 26 (1) (h) was concerned, the fresh trial was not barred either under Art. 20 (2) of the Constitution or under S. 26, General Clauses Act and as such it was neither illegal nor unconstitutional. The prohibition envisaged in these provisions is with regard to 'same offence'. The offences under S. 353, Penal Code and S. 26 (1) (h), Bihar Sales Tax Act, though constituted by the same act were 'different offences'.

(iii) The trial was also not barred on the principle of autrefois acquit but was expressly permissible under S. 403 (4) Criminal P. C. (1898), as the Magistrate in the previous trial was not competent to try the offences in the subsequent trial in view of S. 26 (2), Bihar Sales Tax Act. A I R 1948 Pat 32, Rel. on; A I R 1947 Pat 290, Disting. 1954 B L J R 155 : 1954 Cri L J 653 : A I R 1954 Pat 247 (248, 249) (Prs 5, 6, 8) (DB).

Accused not to be compelled to be witness against himself—Clause (3).

(a) Failure to give evidence—Inference from.

(b) "Person accused of any offence".

(i) Examination under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act.

See also Ibid, Note 6 (d).

(ii) Persons examined under S. 171A, Sea Customs Act.

(iii) Person giving evidence under S. 240, Companies Act (1956).

(iv) Other cases.

4. Accused not to be compelled to be witness against himself—Clause (3).

● ——Art. 20 — Applicability — Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Cattle Preservation Act (18 of 1959), S. 12 — Validity — Burden of proof on accused—No infringement of fundamental right. See Madhya Pradesh Agricultural Cattle Preservation Act (18 of 1959), S. 12. 1961 (1) Cri L J 573 : A I R 1961 S C 448.

● ——Art. 20 (3)—Principle underlying — Scope and extent of fundamental right indicated.

Article 20 (3) embodies the principle of protection against compulsion of self-incrimination which is one of the fundamental canons of the British system of criminal jurisprudence and which has been adopted by the American system and incorporated as an article of its Constitution. It has also, to a substantial extent, been recognised in the Anglo-Indian administration of criminal justice in this country by incorporation into various statutory provisions.

So far as the Indian law is concerned, it may be taken that the protection against self-incrimination continues more or less as in the English common law, so far as the accused and production of documents are concerned, but that it has been modified as regards oral testimony of witnesses, by introducing compulsion and providing immunity from prosecution on the basis of such compelled evidence.

Analysing the terms in which this fundamental right has been declared in our Constitution, it may be said to consist of the following components. (1) It is a right pertaining to a person "accused of an offence"; (2) It is a protection against "compulsion to be a witness"; and (3) It is a protection against such compulsion resulting in his giving evidence "against himself".

Broadly stated the guarantee in Art. 20 (3) is against "testimonial compulsion". But there is no reason to confine it to the oral evidence of a person standing his trial for an offence when called to the witness-stand. The protection afforded to an accused in so far as it is related to the phrase "to be a witness" is not merely in respect of testimonial compulsion in the Court room but may well extend to compelled testimony previously obtained from him.

Considered in this light, the guarantee under Art. 20 (3) would be available to persons against whom a First Information Report has been recorded as accused therein. It would extend to any compulsory process for production of evidentiary documents which are reasonably likely to support a prosecution against them. Sharma v. Satish Chandra, 1954 S C J 428 : (1954) 1 M L J 680 : 1954 Cri L J 865 : 1954 S C A 449 : (1954) S C R 1077 : 56 Punj L R 366 : 1954 Andh L J (W) 54 : 1954 Andh L T (SC) 1 : 1954 Mad W N 566 : A I R 1954 S C 300 (302, 303, 304) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 7, 9, 10, 11).

——Arts. 20, 13, 245, Preamble — Construction of constitution—Rules as to — Repugnancy between law and constitution—Effect—Law Trangressing fundamental right given by Art. 20 (3) must be held to be void. See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1958 All 293.

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Doctrine of immunity from self-incrimination—Foundation for—(Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 342, 342-A).

The doctrine of immunity from self-incrimination is founded on the presumption of innocence which characterises the English system of criminal justice, and a fundamental principle of that system of justice (which differs from the inquisitorial procedure obtained in France and some other Continental countries) is that it is for the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused and that the latter need not make any statement if he does not want to. 1957 All L J 263 : 1957 Cri L J 698 : 1957 All W R (HC) 381 : A I R 1957 All 396 (397) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Arts. 20 (3) and 21 — Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129-A — Validity — Deprivation of personal liberty on account of being compelled to go before the medical officer whether in accordance with procedure established by law — Determination of reasonableness of procedure not justiciable. See Prohibition — Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129-A. 1964 (2) Cr L J 523 : AIR 1964 Bom 253 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Company—Right to benefit.

The protection against self-incrimination given to the accused by Art. 20 (3) is available not only to natural individuals but also to companies. ILR (1961) Bom 508 : 1961 Nag L J 96 : (1961) 31 Com Cas 324 : 63 Bom L R 559 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 200 : AIR 1961 Bom 242 (243, 244) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—'Person'—If includes Company.

Reading Art. 367 of the Constitution with S. 3 (42) of the General Clauses Act, 1897, the word 'person' occurring in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution is deemed to include companies, and unincorporated bodies. ILR (1961) Bom 508 : 1961 Nag L J 96 : (1961) 31 Com

Cas 324 : 63 Bom L R 559 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 200 : AIR 1961 Bom 242 (243) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Nature of — Compelled testimony obtained in violation of Art. 20 (3) held inadmissible.

The rule that an accused person shall not be compelled 'to be a witness against himself' is primarily a rule of evidence both in form and in content and it must follow that a breach of the rule renders the evidence incompetent. The protection against compulsory self-incrimination would be largely illusory, it it was to be held that although compulsion is banned by the Constitution, compelled testimony may nevertheless be used against the accused. It follows, therefore, that evidence obtained by the exercise of testimonial compulsion contrary to Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution is incompetent and inadmissible. AIR 1954 S C 300, Foll. 1961 Nag L J 83 : 63 Bom L R 87 : ILR (1961) Bom 360.

——Art. 20 (3) — Principle of protection against testimonial compulsion — Scope of — Rule of construction — Interpretation of Statutes—Constitutional provision.

The principle of protection against testimonial compulsion embodied in Art 20 (3) is a principle of somewhat limited utility. It is a recognised doctrine that when appropriate, a constitutional provision has to be liberally construed, so as to advance the intendment thereof and to prevent its circumvention. The principle should not be extended to cover a wider field than what it has come to occupy. AIR 1954 S C 300, Foll. 1961 Nag L J 83 : 63 Bom L R 87 : ILR (1961) Bom 360.

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — If debars person from furnishing evidence which may be used against him.

The expression 'to be a witness' means to furnish evidence, and the constitutional guarantee is not restricted in its ambit to proceedings in the Court room : the protection afforded to an accused person in so far as it is related to the phrase 'to be a witness' is not merely in respect of testimonial compulsion in the Court room, but may well extend to compelled testimony previously obtained from him. The guarantee only protects a person accused from being compelled to furnish evidence against himself. The Constitution does not prohibit a person accused of an offence from furnishing evidence which may be used against him; it only affords a protection against compulsion in furnishing evidence. 61 Bom L R 345: 1959 Cr L J 1057 : ILR (1959) Bom 865 : AIR 1959 Bom 408 (412) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 14) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) —Scope.

Article 20 (3) should be read in the context of the two clauses which precede it and this Article should not be read in the light of the American Constitution or the American decisions but more in the light of our own legislative provisions, our own legislative history, the background of English law, and the Constitution looked upon as an organic whole. (1960) 30 Comp Cas 72 : 61 Bom L R 220 : ILR (1959) Bom 952 : AIR 1959 Bom 320 (326) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) —Scope—Sea Customs Act, S. 171-A—Validity —Does not violate Art. 20 (3) for the reason that there is a possibility of an unconstitutional summons being issued under its provision. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 171-A. 1961 (1) Cr L J 237 : AIR 1961 Cal 86.

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Immunity under—Claim to —Procedure.

The immunity under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution depends on a fact that no person accused of an offence shall be compelled to be a witness against himself. The petitioner has therefore to state that he is being compelled to be a witness against himself by doing certain things and what these things are which will make him a witness against himself. Without that assertion and statement of fact in the petition, no claim for constitutional immunity against testimonial compulsion in favour of an accused from being a witness against himself can be entertained in the air. ILR (1961) 1 Cal 919 : (1961) 1 Cr L J 237 : AIR 1961 Cal 86 (89) (Pt D) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope and principle of — General rule—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 1 and 118.)

Testimonial compulsion is the very foundation of the law of evidence, for without such compulsion every refusal to give evidecce will render administration of justice impossible. The constitutional prohibition of self-incriminating evidence is an exception designed to defend justice and insure the accused against self-created criminal traps. Legal protection against self-incrimination, therefore, is one of the pillars of liberality of criminal justice in a civilised society. But such liberality should be confined within the limits of its doctrine and not expanded into the sentimentality that testimonial compulsion is always a kind of unproclaimed tyranny to be shunned in law. 61 Cal W N 709 : (1958) 28 Com Cas 305 : AIR 1957 Cal 520 (523) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Art. 20 — Whether Art. 134 is in conflict with this Article and therefore the right of appeal against acquittal given by that article gives way — Validity of S. 417, Criminal P. C. providing for appeal against acquittal. See Ibid, Art. 134. 1952 Cri L J 1720 : AIR 1952 Him Pra 81.

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Order of Court directing public examination of directors and office-bearers of banking company on petition by Liquidator — Legality — Kerala High Court Act (5 of 1959), S. 5 — Scope — Liquidation of a banking company — Order of a Single Judge directing public examination under S. 478 of the Companies Act (1 of 1956) and S. 45 G of the Banking Companies Act (10 of 1949) —Appeal to Division Bench — Maintainability —Banking Compantes Act (10 of 1949), S. 45-H.

The rights conferred by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution consists of the following components :—

(1) It is a right pertaining to a person accused of an offence; (2) It is a protection against compulsion to be a witness and (3) It is a protection against such compulsion resulting in his giving evidence against himself. The public examination sought for by the Official Liquidator is to bring out from the directors and office-bearers of the company facts necessary to sustain a conviction of these persons. Under cl. (6) of S. 45-G of the Banking Companies Act (10 of 1949) these persons are bound to answer all the questions put to them in a public examination. The answers thus recorded from them in such a public examination can be used against them in any civil or criminal proceeding. Such user is expressly sanctioned by clause (3) of S. 45 G. Thus all the elements necessary to bring the matter within the mischief of clause (3) of Art 20 are present in this case and therefore the impugned order is hit by it.

Under S. 5 of the Kerala High Court Act, an appeal shall lie to a Bench of two Judges from a judgment or order of a Single Judge sitting on the original side. The appeals contemplated by S. 45-H of the Banking Companies Act (10 of 1949) are appeals against the final orders of the High Court under the Banking Companies Act. The present appeals are appeals against the order of a Single Judge. The right to prefer such appeals has been expressly conferred by S. 5 of the Act. Hence, the appeal is competent. (1960) M L J (Cr) 713 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 75 : 1960 Ker L J 641 : (1960) 1 Ker L R 670 : 1960 Ker L T 581 : (1960) 30 Com Cas 501 : AIR 1961 Ker 14 (17, 18) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Art. 20 (3)—Construction.

Per Ramaswami J. — In construing Art. 20 (3), the first and obvious rule is to read the article as a whole and not divorce clause (3) of the article from the rest of it. The fact that constitution makers in India had knowledge not only of the American Constitution but also the principles of English Common Law and also the exceptions engrafted on these principles, should not be overlooked. Finally, the Courts must give to this Article an interpretation which is for the greatest good of the people. Any interpretation which advances the good of the people must be preferred to an interpretation which would retard the interest of the people of the country.

Therefore, Art. 20 (3) should be read in the context of the second clause which precedes it and should not be read in the light of American Constitution or American decisions but more in the light of our own legislative provisions, our legislative history, the background of English law. The Constitution must be looked upon as an organic whole. 1960 Mad W N 342 : I L R 1960 Mad 586 : (1960) 2 Mad L J 458 : 1960 Mad L J (Cri) 771 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 273 : AIR 1961 Mad 47 (55) (Pt F) (Prs 24, 25) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope—Police Standing Order No. 157 issued by Madras Government—Enquiry made according to—Validity of—Officer concerned warned of his right and also not giving evidence—Enquiry does not offend article. See Criminal P. C (1898), S. 176. 1959 Cri L J 856 : AIR 1959 Mad 294 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Examination of accused under—Object and extent of — Searching cross-examination of accused not allowed—Such examination may offend Art. 20 (3) of Constitution. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 253. 1962 (1) Cri L J 47 : AIR 1962 Manipur 2.

——Art. 20 (3) —Investigation into affairs of company —Appellant stopping answering questions put by inspector—Plea that answer might be used as evidence pending criminal case—Objection not as to specific questions but vague —Protection of Art. 20 (3) of Constitution not available. See Companies Act (1956), (as amended by Act 53 of 1963), S. 240 (5). ILR (1965) 2 Punj 339 : AIR 1967 Punj 45 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—S. 6, Commissions of Inquiry Act—Immunity under, whether co-extensive with one under Art. 20 (3) —Distinction between the two provisions—Invoking article before commission—If can be done. See Commissions of Inquiry Act (1952), S. 6. AIR 1960 Punj 86 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Privilege against self-incrimination — What is — Necessity of assertion—Privilege not invoked will be deemed to have been waived.

The privilege given to the accused under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution embodies a principle of criminal jurisprudence. Under this privilege no witness or party is compellable to answer any question or to produce any document the tendency of which is to expose such a person to a criminal charge of penalty. The privilege is restricted not to any and every compulsion but to testimonial compulsion. The prohibition is against compulsion. But this privilege has to be claimed or otherwise a person will not be considered to be compelled. Unless invoked, the benefit is deemed to have been waived. As a condition of statutory immunity from prosecution assertion of privilege against self-incrimination is necessary. 1958 Cri L J 1084 : ILR (1953) Punj 1747 : AIR 1958 Punj 294 (297) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 15, 18).

4 (a). Failure to give evidence—Inference from.

——Art. 20 (3)—Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 114, 115—Accused asked to produce self-incriminating document—Possession denied by accused—Adverse inference not justified.

The denial of the possession of the self-incriminating document by the accused, when called upon to produce the same, neither amounts to a waiver of the right conferred upon him under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution nor does it justify any adverse inference against him under S. 114 of the Evidence Act because the order requiring him to produce the document was contrary to Art. 20 (3). 1961 (2) Cri L J 55 (57, 58) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 14) (All).

——Art. 20 (3)—Refusal by accused to give thumb impression as ordered by Court—Court may draw presumption against him. 1959 All L J 812 : 1959 All W R (HC) 629 : 1960 All Cri R 8 : 1960 Cri L J 297 : AIR 1960 All 157 (160) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

—Art. 20 (3)—Order by Court directing accused to furnish his specimen writing—Refusal by accused—Court can legally draw a presumption against him. 1958 Cri L J 134 : A I R 1958 All 119 (126) (Pt E) (Prs 48, 50) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Duty of Court.

If a person accused of an offence refuses to answer a question on the ground that by answering it he will incriminate himself or to produce a document on the ground that it will incriminate him, he will in a way be admitting his guilt and yet if effect is to be given to Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution, he will, in effect, be protected from being compelled to furnish evidence of his admitted guilt and protected even by the issue of, if necessary, a writ.

The Courts are to take the Constitution as it is and although the growing resourcefulness of criminals or other offenders and the expansion of the ramificatious of crime may at times force reflections on the justness of the immunity, yet the only concern of the Courts is to give effect to the policy enshrined in the Constitution. So far as the Constitution assures any immunity to a person accused of crime, the Courts must secure it for him. 1958 Cri L J 1469 : ILR (1959) 2 Cal 442 : A I R 1958 Cal 682 (690) (Pt F) (Prs 19, 20).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 759].

——Arts. 20 and 21 — Petition for dissolution of marriage on ground that respondent is incurable of unsound mind—It is for petitioner to establish such unsoundness of mind — There is no provision in law compelling respondent to undergo medical examination — Adverse inference can, however be drawn against respondent for refusing to submit to medical examination. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), S. 13 (1) (iv). AIR 1963 Guj 250.

—Art. 20 (3) — No presumption can be drawn for voluntary non-production of documents for comparing and writing — Search-warrant can be issued for seizure of documents. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 114. 1960 M P L J (Notes) 67.

4. (b). "Person accused of any offence".

——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability—For application of Art. 20 (3) statement in question must have been made by a person at a time when he was accused of an offence. AIR 1961 S C 1808, Rel. on. R. K. Dalmia v. Delhi Administration, (1963) 1 S C R 253 : (1962) 32 Com Cas 699 : 1962 (2) Cri L J 805 : A I R 1962 S C 1821 (1870) (Pt Q) (Pr 290).

● ——Art. 20 (3) — Scope—Statement by accused in police custody without anything more does not amount to compulsion — Mere production of documents or giving information by accused is not 'to be a witness'—Giving of thumb-impressions etc , is not 'to be a witness' — For application of Art. 20 (3) person must have stood in character of accused at time of statement AIR 1960 Cal 32, Reversed; AIR 1960 Ker 392 (FB), Overruled.

An accused person cannot be said to have been compelled to be a witness against himself simply because he made a statement while in police custody, without anything more. The mere questioning of an accused person by a police officer, resulting in a voluntary statement, which may ultimately turn out to be incriminatory, is not compulsion.

(Per Majority, S. K. Das, A. K. Sarkar and K. C. Das Gupta, JJ., contra).—To be a witness is not equivalent to 'furnishing evidence' in its widest significance so as to include also production of documents or giving materials which may be relevant at a trial to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused The observation of the Supreme Court in AIR 1954 SC 300 that S. 139 of the Evidence Act has no bearing on the connotation of the word 'witness' is not entirely well founded in law.

Per Majority — Giving thumb impressions or impressions of foot or palm or fingers or specimen writings or showing parts of the body by way of identification are not included in the expression 'to be a witness'.

Per S. K. Das, A. K. Sarkar and K. C. Das Gupta, JJ.—An accused person when he is giving specimen handwriting, or impressions of his fingers or palms or foot does not furnish evidence against himself in so doing within the meaning of Art. 20 (3). AIR 1960 Cal 32, Reversed. AIR 1960 Ker 392 (FB), Overruled.

(Per Majority, S K. Das, A. K Sarkar and K. C. Das Gupta, JJ., contra). 'To be a witness' means imparting knowledge in respect of relevant facts by an oral statement or a statement in writing, made or given in Court or otherwise.

(Per :Majority, S K. Das, A. K. Sarkar and K. C. Das Gupta, JJ. expressing no opinion)—To bring the statement in question within the prohibition of Art. 20 (3), the person accused must have stood in the character of an accused person at the time he made the statement. It is not enough that he should become an accused, any time after the statement has been made. AIR 1960 SC 756, Rel. on; AIR 1954 SC 300, Dist. State of Bombay v. Kathi Kalu Oghad, 1961 B L J R 840 : 1961 All L J 936 : 1961 All W R (HC) 736 : 1961 All Cr R 416 : (1962) 1 S C A 429 : 64 Bom L R 240 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 856 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 378 : 1961 L T (S C) 74 : (1962) 3 S C R 10 : (1963) 1 S C J 195 : 1963 Mad L J (Cri) 97 : A I R 1961 S C 1808 (1816, 1817, 1820) (Pt A) (Prs 16, 32)

●——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability—Conditions.

Before Art. 20 (3) comes into play two facts have to be established (1) that the individual concerned was a person accused of an offence and (2) that he was compelled to be a witness against himself.

Held, that (in the instant case) at the time notes were produced by the appellant there was no formal accusation against him relating to the commission of an offence. In the circumstances, the provisions of Art. 20 (3) were not attracted. Mohammed Dastagir v. State of Madras, (1960) 1 Ker L R 592: 1950 S C J 726 : 1960 Cr L J 1159 : (1960) 2 Mad L J (SC) 39 : (1960) 2 An W R (SC) 39 : 1960 M L J (Cr) 466 : 1960 All Cr R 240 : 1960 All W R (HC) 357 : 1960 3 S C R 116 : AIR 1960 SC 756 (760, 761) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

● ——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability to person accused in first Information report.

The guarantee under Art. 20 (3) would be available to persons against whom a first Information Report has been recorded as accused therein. It would extend to any compulsory process for the production of evidentiary documents which are reasonably likely to support a prosecution against them. M. P. Sharma v. Satish Chandra, 1954 Cri L J 865 : 1954 Andh L T (SC) 1 : 1954 S C A 459 : 1954 S C J 428 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 680 : 1954 Mad W N 566 : 56 Pun L R 366 : 1954 Andh L J (W) 54 : 1954 SC R 1077 : AIR 1954 S C 300 (302, 303, 304) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 7, 9, 10, 11).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—"Accused of an offence" — Meaning of—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 27, 24

Where evidence, whether oral or circumstantial, points to the guilt of a person and he is taken in custody and interrogated on that basis he becomes a person accused of an offence. The mere fact that his name was not mentioned as an accused in the first information report will not take him out of that category. The moment suspicion attaches to a person, he for all purposes becomes an accused person and any self-incriminatory statement made by him subsequently is inadmissible in evidence against him, if it is induced by any promise, threat or violence. 1958 Cr L J 462 : ILR (1957) 2 All 110 : AIR 1958 All 293 (302) (Pt G) (Pr 44) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Accused of any offence—Interpretation of.

The protection of Art. 20 (3) becomes available to a person as soon as he is named as an accused either in a first information report made under S. 154, Criminal P. C. or in a complaint instituted against him in Court. 1957 All L J 263 : 1957 All W R (HC) 381; 1957 Cri L J 698 : AIR 1957 All 396 (398) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 10).

——Arts. 20 (3), 367 (1) — Offence — Meaning of—Breach of Customs Laws — (General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (38).)

The term 'Offence' has not been defined in the Constitution but the definition contained in S. 3 (38) of the General Clauses Act, under which 'offence means any Act or omission made punishable by law for the time being in force', will apply, and even breaches of the Customs laws entailing a monetary penalty or forfeiture of the goods concerned would be offences as contemplated by Art. 20 (3). AIR 1953 SC 325, Disting. 1958 Cri L J 1469 ; ILR (1959) 2 Cal 442 : AIR 1958 Cal 682 (685) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1962 S C 759].

——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability—Right to protection—Person not formally accused.

If the principle underlying Art. 20 (3) be that any forcible and compulsory extortion of a man's own testimony or his private papers, to be used as evidence to convict him of crime, must be forbidden, there is no reason for holding that the protection of the Article will be available only to a person who has been formally accused or charged. Even if a man has been named as a person who has committed an offence particularly by officials who are competent to launch a prosecution against him, he has been accused of an offence within the meaning of Art. 20 (3) and a situation has arisen in which he can claim protection against being compelled by a coercive process to furnish evidence against himself 1958 Cri L J 1469 : I L R (1959) 2 Cal 442 : AIR 1958 Cal 682 (687) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 759].

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Compulsion to produce evidence at investigation stage.

The language of Art. 20 (3) is 'to be witnesses' and 'not to appear as witnesses' and therefore the extortion of any evidentiary material even at the stage of investigation which may aid the building up of a case against them must be within the condemnation of the Article. This meaning of the constitutional guarantee against self-incrimination appears to be self-evident, because if officers, competent to prosecute a man, can, after telling him that according to their information he has committed an offence, extort oral or documentary testimony from him which may be used directly or indirectly to bring the charge home to him, the guarantee must be a very hollow guarantee indeed ILR (1959) 2 Cal 442 : 1958 Cri L J 1469 : AIR 1958 Cal 682 (687) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1982 SC 759].

——Art. 20 (3)—Self-incrimination—Conditions.

Before Art. 20 (3) can come into play, there must be a very clear and formal accusation against the person concerned as to make him a person accused of any offence. AIR 1960 SC 756, Rel. on.

Where a woman was vaginally examined by a lady doctor, with the reluctant consent of the woman, and upon examination it was found that she had very recently given birth to a child and subsequently, the woman admitted to the doctor that she did so give birth to a child and that she threw the new born child through the ventilator, the evidence of the doctor who examined the woman, as to the result of her examination is admissible against the woman in her trial under S. 302, I. P. Code, and is not hit by Art. 20 (3), since the woman, at the time of the examination was not accused of any offence. 1961 (1) Cri L J 258 : AIR 1961 J & K 11 (13, 14) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Protection under—When open—A making admission on date of search — Show cause notice for action under Rr. 9 and 52A issued after fortnight—Held there was no violation of Art. 20 (3) —Central Excise Rules (1944), Rr. 9 and 52A.

For invoking the Constitutional right against testimonial compulsion guaranteed under Art 20 (3), it must appear that a formal accusation has been made against the party pleading the guarantee and that it relates to the commission of an offence, which in the normal course, may result in prosecution. AIR 1961 S C 29, Rel. on.

Where on the date of search the oil businessman, A, made statement admitting the fact that the tins of oils were illicitly removed by him from his oil mills without payment of excise duty and without gate pass and after about fortnight a show cause notice was issued to him for action under Rr. 9 and 52-A of Central Excise Rules;

Held, that there had been no accusation, much less a formal accusation, as against A. If at all, the accusation must be considered to have been made on the date of issue of show cause notice. Hence the said statement on date of search was not inadmissible. There was, therefore; no question of violation of Art. 20 (3) of Constitution. 1962 Ker L J 1212.

——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability—Person making statement must stand in character of accused at time of statement.

To bring a statement within the prohibition of Art. 20 (3), the person accused must have stood in the character of an accused person at the time he made the statement and it is not enough that he should have become an accused at any time after the statement has been made. AIR 1961 S C 1808, Foll. 1962 Ker L T 415 : I L R (1962) 2 Ker 105 : 1962 Ker L J 1007.

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Two accused tried separately - In trial of one accused other accused called as witness — No violation of Art. 20 (3) - (Evidence Act (1872), S. 132).

The immunity from testimonial compulsion under Art. 20 (3), Constitution of India, is confined to a person accused of an offence. But it does not extend to the case of a witness summoned to give evidence in a case against a third party whose position is sufficiently safeguarded by the provisions of S. 132, Evidence Act. 1959 M P L J (Notes) 213.

——Art. 20 (3) — Directives under S. 19, Foreign Exchange Regulation Act — Person answering them is not in the position of accused.

Even assuming that Art. 20 (3) would be applicable not merely to judicial proceedings of any character but to a multiplicity of situations in which judicial proceedings might be in prospect it is still impossible to hold that when certain facts are ascertained, it may be under an obligation to furnish an answer, in order to explore and determine if a person had committed an offence, this exploration itself already places him in the situation of a virtually accused person, and thus renders the explanations inadmissible in evidence. The directives of the Reserve Bank under S. 19 and the replies thereto are not inadmissible in evidence under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution, as incriminating answers furnished by a party in the virtual position of an accused under testimonial compulsion. The statements which a party makes under fear of penalties prescribed by the Act are not hit by Art. 20 (3) and cannot be excluded from being used in evidence against him after he has become an accused and when he is on trial. The person is not in the position of an accused when he furnishes replies to the directives under S. 19. The protection or immunity under Art. 20 (3) is available only to a person against whom a formal accusation relating to the commission of an offence has been levelled. 1960 Mad W N 332 : I L R (1960) Mad 586 : (1960) 2 Mad L J 458 : 1960 Mad L J (Cri) 771 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 273 : AIR 1961 Mad 47 (53, 54, 56, 57) (Pt D) (Prs 18, 19, 29, 34) (DB).

——Art 20 (3) — Scope — Person not accused of any offence — Safeguard against self-incriminating evidence not available - Departmental enquiry into allegations against railway servant—Allegations constituting offence—Art. 20 (3) not attracted.

The safeguard against self-incriminating evidence contained in Art. 20 (3) is not available to a person who has not been accused of any offence, or, when there is no accusation before any competent authority, that he had committed any offence.

The mere fact that the allegations against certain Railway employees, which were being enquired into by an enquiry Committee appointed under the Railway Establishment Code, constitute an offence under the Penal Code or the Railways Act is not sufficient to entitle them to the immunity guaranteed by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. Before the Railway servants can avail themselves of the guarantee provided under Art. 20 (3), they must show that some accusation had been made by any person for their prosecution be it before a Court, or before the police, or before any competent authority. AIR 1954 S C 300 and AIR 1955 Mad 718 and AIR 1938 Cal 682, Disting. AIR 1963 Pat 38 (46) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB) ——Art. 20 (3) — 'Accused of an offence' — Formal charge or accusation necessary — What constitutes accusation.

Held, on facts that before the protection under Art. 20 (3) could be invoked at least two essential requirements were to be fulfilled; firstly the person concerned must be accused of an offence, and secondly, he should not be compelled to give evidence against himself. The accusation must be in the shape of a formal charge and could not relate merely to a stage of investigation when no charge had been formally preferred against the person as an accused. AIR 1960 S C 756, Rel. on.

Held further, that the information sought by the customs officers from the petitioner, which was with a view to test the genuineness of entries in the account books, could not be regarded as testimony of compulsion within the meaning of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. 1961 Raj L W 376 : I L R (1961) 11 Raj 646 : 1962 (1) Cr L J 666 (669) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

4 (b) (i). Examination under S. 45G, Banking Companies Act.

See also Ibid, Note 6 (d).

● ——Art. 20 (3) — Order for public examination under S. 45 G, Banking Companies Act (1949) — Validity — Allegations justifying order for public examination are not accusations within Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution—Applications for order under S. 545 on allegations under Ss. 538, 539 and 541 of Companies Act also are not accusations—Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution is not violated. See Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 45-G. AIR 1965 S C 654.

● ——Art. 20 (3) — S 45-G, Banking Companies Act (1949) —Validity—S. 45-G does not contravene Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution.

A person examined publicly under S. 45 G, Banking Companies Act (1949) may, in some cases, be compelled to be a witness against himself. Thus, one element of Art. 20 (3) is satisfied. It is only when a person can be said to have been accused of any offence that the prohibition prescribed by Art. 20 (3) comes into operation. If a person who is not accused of any offence is compelled to give evidence, and evidence taken from him under compulsion ultimately leads to an accusation against him, that would not be a case which would attract the provisions of Art. 20 (3). The main object of Art. 20 (3) is to give protection to an accused person not to be compelled to incriminate himself and that is in consonance with the basic principle of criminal law accepted in our country that an accused person is entitled to rely on the presumption of innocence in his favour and cannot be compelled to swear against himself. Therefore unless it is shown that a person ordered to be publicly examined under S. 45-G of the Banking Companies Act is, before, or at the time when the order for examining him publicly is passed, Art. 20 (3) will not apply. After the examination is over and the material adduced before the Court has been examined by the Court an occasion may or may not arise to take any action. In such a case, what may conceivably follow cannot be said to be existing before the order is passed under S. 45-G; an accusation may follow the enquiry, but an accusation was not in existence at the time when the public examination was ordered, and so, the directors cannot contend that they were accused of any offence at the time when the order for their public examination was passed by the High Court. The accusation of any offence which is an essential condition for the application of Art. 20 (3) is a condition precedent for the application of the principle prescribed by the said Article, and since this essential condition is lacking in all cases covered by S 45-G of the Banking Companies Act it is difficult to sustain the argument that the said section contravenes Art. 20 (3). Therefore, it cannot be contended that it is invalid on the ground that it contravenes Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. Civil Appeal No. 286 of 1959 dated 26th October, 1961 (S C.) and AIR 1961 S C 29, Rel. on. K Joseph Augusthi v. M. A. Narayanan, 1964 Ker L T 267 : 1964 Ker L J 442 : (1964) 1 S C J 676 : (1964) 1 Com L J 294 : (1964) 34 Com Cas 546 : (1964) 7 S C R 137 : AIR 1964 S C 1552 (1555, 1556) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Privilege confined to accused—Not extended to witness—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 132) - (General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (38)).

The rule laid down by Art. 20 (3) is narrower than the Anglo American rule, since the privilege has been kept confined to persons "accused of any offence", "offence" being defined by S. 3 (38) of the General Clauses Act. Witnesses in India have been left untouched by the Constitution and continue to be governed by S. 132 and other provisions of the Evidence Act. 1957 All L J 263 : 1957 Cri L J 698 : 1957 All W R (HC) 381 : A I R 1957 All 396 (397) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 20 (3) - Scope of -'Proceedings'—Civil proceedings which might at a future date expose person to criminal prosecution — If included — Banking Companies Act (10 of 1949), S. 45G — Validity — Public examination of director — Companies Act (7 of 1913), Ss. 2 (11) and 196 — Scope of—Public examinatton of officers of a banking company.

The fact that the answers given by a person examined under S. 45 G of the Banking Companies Act might tend to subject him to a criminal prosecution at a future date will not attract the prohibition envisaged by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. To interpret Art. 20 (3) as applying to all proceedings, civil or criminal which might at a subsequent period expose the person concerned to prosecution on the basis of answers given by him, is to enlarge the scope of this article and to defeat justice. This is not the purpose underlying Art. 20. A I R 1953 S C 325; A I R 1954 S C 375 and A I R 1957 Cal 520, Rel. on. A I R 1956 Cal 253 and 69 L. Edns (S C R) 158, Diss. from. Article 20 (3) of the Constitution would not come into play when the Directors are sought to be examined under S. 45-G and there is no inconsistency or repugnancy between S. 45-G of the Banking Companies Act and Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. Section 45-G is intra vires of the Constitution and was validly enacted by the Legislature and it is not unconstitutional. I L R (1958) Andh Pra 651 : (1958) 2 Andh W R 331 : 1958 Andh L T 1063 : (1959) 29 Com Cas 114 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 756 (759) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Examination under S. 45G, Banking Companies Act — Whether hit by Art. 20 (3) — Order for such examination whether amounts to accusation of any offence.

Though under S. 45G, Banking Companies Act, the notes of the examination may be used later in evidence against the person in any proceeding, civil or criminal, such examination is not bad under Art. 20 (3). The article applies only where a person is accused of any offence and an order for examination under S. 45G of the Banking Companies Act is not an accusation for an offence It is a past evidence likely to be used for a future accusation of an offence and as such it does not infringe the constitutional right given by Art. 20 (3). The language of the article means that the evidence must come after and not before the accusation of an offence in order to come within the constitutional prohibition. 61 Cal W N 709 : (1958) 28 Com Cas 305 : A I R 1957 Cal 520 (522, 523) (Pt C) (Prs 4, 6, 7).

——Art. 20 (3) — Applicability—"Offence"—Meaning — If criminal offence — Proceedings under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act—Nature of—Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 45-G—General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (38).

The context of Art. 20 leaves no room for doubt that the offence contemplated in that article of the Constitution is a criminal offence although it does not use the word "criminal". Hence that article has no application to the public examination of a director under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act. The words of the proviso in sub-s. (7) of S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act, by using the expression "exculpated from any charges made or suggested" do not convert proceedings under S. 45-G of the Act into a criminal prosecution or a criminal charge or a criminal trial and are only used for the purpose of awarding costs to the director and do not alter or modify the substantial or essential nature of the proceedings described in the substantive provisions of S. 45-G of the statute. 61 Cal W N 709 : A I R 1957 Cal 520 (523) (Pt E) (Pr 10).

● ——Art. 20 (3) — Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 45-G — Not violative of Art. 20 (3) — Persons specified in report under S. 45-G (1) — Persons not 'accused of any offence'.

Section 45-G of the Banking Companies Act, 1949, is not violative of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution.

The object of a report under sub-s. (1) of S. 45-G is not the accusation of a crime; but the affirmation of a loss, and even if such a report embodies accusations, it can only be in the popular sense of the word that will not alter the essential character of the report or make the persons specified therein 'persons accused within the meaning of Art 20 (3) of the Constitution. 1962 Ker L T 37, Affirmed; A I R 1957 Cal 520 and AIR 1958 Andh-Pra 756, Foll K. Joseph Augusti v M. A. Narayanan, 1962 Ker L T 512 : (1962) 2 Ker L R 150 : ILR (1962) 2 Ker 265 : 1962 Ker L J 1138 : (1963) 33 Com Cas 126 : (1963) 1 Comp L J 43 : AIR 1963 Ker 81 (83, 84) (Pt A) (Prs 14, 22) (FB).

4 (b) (ii). Persons examined under S. 171A, Sea Customs Act.

——Art. 20 (3) — Conditions for applicability — Accused person — Meaning of — Person examined under S. 171-A, Sea Customs Act, is not an accused — His statement does not come within Art. 20 (3).

To bring into operation the provisions of clause (3) of Article 20, two conditions have to be fulfilled : (1) that a person must be one who has been accused of an offence, and (2) he must be compelled to be a witness against himself. It is the protection given to a person accused of an offence, and the protection is against be being compelled to be a witness against himself. The test to determine whether a person making a statement is an accused within Art. 20 (3) is whether there was a formal accusation on that date against him. An accusation becomes a formal accusation when there is an accuser who makes an accusation against the accused which should in normal course lead to prosecution in a criminal Court. AIR 1954 S C 300 and A I R 1960 S C 756 and A I R 1961 S C 29, Rel. on.

A person examined under section 171-A, Sea Customs Act, does not stand in the character of an accused person inasmuch as there is no formal accusation made against him by any person at that time. The fact that subsequent to the making of the statement he becomes an accused person is not sufficient to bring the statement within the mischief of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. Persons recording statements are not persons who are empowered to lodge a complaint against an accused under section 187-A of the Act. There is no provision in the Act making it obligatory on Customs officers to forward persons to a Magistrate to stand their trial, even if the Customs Officers on investigation find that they have committed an offence under the Act. Section 187-A prohibits a Criminal Court from taking cognizance of an offence under the Sea Customs Act under section 167 (81) of the Act save and except when a complaint has been lodged by persons authorised to lodge a complaint under the section. Thus, having regard to these provisions, the formal accusation which in the normal course would result in a trial of a person in a Criminal Court, would be a complaint lodged by a competent officer under section 187-A when the accusation falls under item (81) of the schedule to section 167. AIR 1963 Mad 434, Diss. from. 67 Bom L R 317 : ILR (1965) Bom 648 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 616 : 1965 Mah L J 705 : A I R 1965 Bom 195 (213, 214, 215, 216) (Pt H) (Prs 44, 46) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Applicability and scope — Notice under 171-A of Sea Customs Act (1878) to appear and produce documents.

The protection afforded by Art. 20 (3) is available to a person accused of an offence not merely with respect to the evidence to be given in the Court room in the course of a trial, but is also available to him at previous stages, if a formal accusation had been made of the commission of an offence which might in the normal course result in prosecution. AIR 1954 S C 300, Rel. on.

Where in the case of notices issued under S. 171 A of the Sea Customs Act to certain persons to appear before certain customs officials and to produce certain documents, it appeared from the accusations made in the search warrants at the instance of the Customs authorities and those made in one of the notices by the Customs authorities themselves, that the accusations of criminal offences could not be excluded.

Held, that the requirements of Art. 20 (3) were satisfied and the protection under the Article was available to the persons concerned. ILR (1959) 2 Cal 442 : 1958 Cri L J 1469 : A I R 1958 Cal 682 (685) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 759.]

——Art. 20 (3) — "Accused of any offence" — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 171-A — Validity — (General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (37) — Offence) — (Penal Code (1860), S. 40).

The word "offence" is to be construed by the General Clauses Act, which defines it as meaning "any act or omission made punishable by any law for the time being in force". Article 20 (3) is not merely applicable to a criminal trial in Court. It applies to proceedings which may lead to such a trial. In proceedings under S. 171 A of the Sea Customs Act the party is compelled to give evidence and to depose truthfully. He is also compelled to produce any document. In either case, he might incriminate himself. The provision of S. 171 A in so far as it enables the authorities to compel a person accused of an offence to give evidence against himself and/or to produce documents for that purpose, offends against Art. 20 (3) of the Consiitution and is bad. 60 Cal W N 67 : AIR 1956 Cal 253 (257, 258) (Pt A) (Prs 21, 22, 26).

——Art. 20 (3) — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 171 A — Validity — Nature of guarantee given by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution — Article applies only to a person accused of an offence and not to mere witnesses and persons from whom information is sought to be obtained — Section does not contravene Art 20 (3). See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 171-A. 1963 (2) Cri L J 636 : AIR 1963 Mad 434 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Applicability and scope — Person summoned to appear under Sea Customs Act — If a person accused—Protection under Art. 20 (3)—Right to—Evidence Act (1 of 1872), S. 132 — Applicability —Sea Customs Act (VII of 1878), S. 171-A — Duty of person summoned to appear — Nature of proceedings under.

A person summoned to appear before the Sea Customs Authorities under S. 171 A of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, is not in the position of a person accused and he is bound to appear before such authorities and answer all questions put to him.

The position in such proceedings in relation to Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution and the Sea Customs Act will be as follows : (1) The Departmental Officers are not acting as Courts of law and the proceedings before them are not judicial proceedings except for the limited purposes of Ss. 193 and 228, Indian Penal Code; (2) To the persons examined in such proceedings S. 132 of the Evidence Act would not apply of its own force; (3) But as they are empowered to prosecute persons for contravention of the Sea Customs Act the position of Customs Officers will in certain respects be analogous to that of Police Officers acting on information relating to a cognizable offence; (4) A person who has been examined by the Customs Officers will not be in the position of an accused. (5) Though the question when a person becomes an accused person would depend on the decision that the Departmental Officers may take, they cannot, circumvent the provisions of Art. 20 (3); (6) Whether a witness or a suspect has become an accused person in any particular instance is substantially a question of fact.

Per Curiam. — 'It is very desirable that the Departmental Officers, should make it plain to the person concerned whether it is intended to proceed against him in a criminal Court or not. If it is made plain that there is no intention to proceed against him in a criminal Court then question of invoking Art. 20 (3) could not possibly arise. But, if it is intended to prosecute the person concerned in a criminal Court he cannot be compelled to answer any question the answer to which is likely to incriminate him. (1960) 1 M L J 367 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 290 : 73 Mad L W 24 : 1960 Mad W N 65 : ILR (1960) Mad 267 : 1960 Cri L J 625 : A I R 1960 Mad 225 (230) (Prs 27, 28).

4 (b) (iii). Person giving evidence under S. 240, Companies Act (1956)

● ——Art. 20 (3) — Companies Act (1956), S. 240—Validity.

When a person is called upon under S. 240 of the Companies Act to give evidence and to produce documents, he cannot be said to be a person who is accused of any offence as required by Art. 20 (3), and therefore the provisions of S. 240 do not offend against the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 20 (3). Case law reviewed.

A general enquiry and investigation into the affairs of the company contemplated cannot be regarded as an investigation which starts with an accusation contemplated in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. AIR 1959 Bom 320, Affirmed. Raja Narayanlal Bansilal v. Maneek Phiroz Mistry, 63 Bom L R 251 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (S C) 73 : (1961) 1 M L J (SC) 73 : (1961) M L J (Cr) 208 : (1961) 1 S C J 353 : (1961) 1 S C A 531 : (1961) 1 S C R 417 : (1960) 30 Com Cas 644 : AIR 1961 S C 29 (35, 39, 40) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 24, 27)

——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability and scope—Companies Act (1956), S. 240—Validity.

Protection under Art. 20 (3) is available when there is a formal accusation against a person, and the second test is that that formal accusation must in the normal course result in prosecution. What the scope and nature of the inquiry under the Companies Act is, is made clear by the words used by the Legislature in S. 235 and those words are 'to investigate the affairs of any Company and to report thereon.' The scope and nature of the inquiry is not investigation into an offence, but is investigation into the affairs of the company. The function of the Inspector is to express an opinion on the way the affairs of the company are conducted in order that appropriate action may be taken which action may take different forms like application under Ss. 243, 244, 397 or 398 of the Companies Act or a prosecution under S. 242 of the Companies Act. There is no formal accusation in such a case and the compulsion introduced by the provision in S. 240 of the Companies Act is not a compulsion which can be struck down by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. AIR 1956 Cal 253. Diss. from. 61 Bom L R 220 : ILR (1959) Bom 952 : (1960) 30 Comp Cas 72 : A I R 1959 Bom 320 (328, 329, 330, 332) (Pt D) (Prs 17, 21, 22, 28) (DB).

4 (b) (iv). Other cases.

● ——Art. 20 (3)—Contempt of Court is not 'offence' — Contemner is not 'accused' — Cross-examination of contemner, on affidavit filed by him See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 5 (2) AIR 1954 All 523 (FB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Applicability and scope—Notice to produce documents under S. 13-A, Bombay Money-lenders Act — Claim to protection—Sustainability—Validity of S. 13-A.

In order that the protection of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution should be available to a person he must be accused of an offence. Merely because the evidence might disclose some crime and it might form the subject-matter of future prosecution, would not enable the person who is asked to furnish evidence to claim protection of Art. 20, sub-cl. (3), in any proceedings other than where he is accused of any offence. A I R 1956 Cal 253, Diss. from. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 756, Rel. on.

A proceeding under the Bombay Money lender's Act calling upon a person under S. 13-A to produce documents is not concerned with any accusation against such person of any offence and, therefore, the protection under Art. 20 (3) is not available to such person.

Section 13-A of the Money-lenders' Act is not bad and does not offend against the provisions of Art. 20 (3). 62 Bom L R 316 : 1960 Nag L J 325 : 1960 Cr L J 1317 : I L R (1960) Bom 685 : A I R 1960 Bom 443 (446) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 11) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Testimonial compulsion—Inquiry into affairs of a society under S. 43 (1), Bombay Co-operative Societies Act — Statement made in course of — Not hit by Art. 20 (3)—Person must be an accused at time of making statement.

To bring a statement within the prohibition of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution, the person accused must have stood in the character of an accused person at the time he made the statement. It is not enough that he should become an accused, any time after the statement has been made. AIR 1961 S C 1808 Rel. on.

Where the Assistant Registrar of Co-operative Societies directed an inquiry as contemplated by S. 43 (1) of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act, 1925. into the affairs of a co-operative society and in the course of that inquiry, the accused who was a contractor of the society made certain statements before the inquiry officer ;

Held, that the statements made by the contractor who was subsequently prosecuted for certain offences would not be hit by the provisions of Art. 20 (3),

Constitution of India as S. 43 of the Bombay Act does not contemplate any accused or any accused person. A I R 1961 S C 29, Applied, A I R 1958 Cal 682, Not Foll. 1963 (2) Cr L J 611 : (1963) 4 Guj L R 1088 : ILR (1963) Guj 1007 : AIR 1963 Guj 312 (313, 314) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 14) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) – Protection under — When open—A making admission on date of search — Show cause notice for action under Rr. 9 and 52 A of Central Excise Rules issued after fortnight — Held there was no violation of Art. 20 (3). 1962 Ker L J 1212 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 279 : AIR 1963 Ker 241 (246) (Pt B) (Prs 57, 59).

—Art. 20 (3) — 'Person accused of any offence'—Meaning of—Purchase of milk by Sanitary Inspector for testing whether it was adulterated — Milkman not 'accused' — Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S 16.

Held on facts that there was no compulsion or accusation of any offence under S. 16 of Prevention of Food Adulteration Act when the milk was purchased Therefore, Art. 20 (3) did not apply. A I R 1958 Cal 682, Disting and Expl. 1961 Jab L J 768 : 1961 M P L J 876 : 1962 (1) Cr L J 41 : ILR (1959) Madh Pra 1031 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 17 (18) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 20 (3) — Applicability and scope—Proceedings of a criminal nature before a Court of law or judicial tribunal—'Accused of any offence'—Meaning of — Foreign Exchange Regulation Act (VII of 1947) S. 19 (2)—Constitutional validity.

The words 'accused of any offence' in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution indicate an accusation made in a criminal prosecution before the Court of law or a judicial tribunal where a person is charged with having committed an act which is punishable under the Indian Penal Code or any special or local law. In construing Art. 20 of the Constitution the article has to be read as a whole and not to divorce cl. (3) of the article from the rest of it.

The Reserve Bank of India had merely some information about dollars acquired by a person in the United States in addition to the foreign exchange specifically granted to him. In order to ascertain this, under S. 19 (2) of Act (7 of 1947) the Bank issued a number of directions to the person, at several stages, the questions themselves being dependent upon the explanations furnished by the person and fashioned in order to test the truth of those explanations. No accusation that he had committed any offence was levelled against the person. Assuming that Art. 20 (3) applied to all kinds of proceedings, such person could not be held to be a person accused of any offence within the scope of Art. 20 (3) in order to render his testimony inadmissible in evidence. ILR (1960) Mad 586 : (1960) 2 M L J 458 : 1960 M L J (Cr) 771 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 273 : AIR 1961 Mad 47 (53, 54, 56, 57) (Pt D) (Prs 18, 19, 29, 34) (DB).

——Arts. 20 (3), 311 (2), proviso (a)—Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), Ss. 11, 15, 16 and 19—Inquiry under Act against public servant accused of offence but no sanction for prosecution had yet been granted —No power in the Enquiry Commissioner to compel the public servant to make any statement or produce document as in a criminal Court—No violation of Art. 20 (3). (1961) 63 Punj L R 780.

5. Statement of accused under Criminal P. C., S. 342.

——Art. 20 (3)—Section 342, Criminal P. C., is not ultra vires of the Constitution as infringing the guarantee of Art. 20 (3). See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 342. AIR 1956 All 385.

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 342—Constitutionality — Whether infringes guarantee under.

Section 342, Criminal P. C., does not convert the accused into a witness and certainly does compel him to be a witness against himself in infringement of the constitutional guarantee under Art. 20(3) of the Constitution and as such no provision of S. 342 is unconstitutional.

Since the accused is at liberty to make a false statement, he is free to make a statement in favour of himself and, therefore, it cannot be said that he is compelled to be a witness against himself. If he falsely makes a statement in favour of himself and the falsehood is expressed to the Court, the Court may draw an adverse inference, but the inference cannot place him in a worse position than he would find himself in, if he had made the correct statement. The accused's statement is only a matter which can be taken into consideration and is not evidence. The guarantee provided by Art. 20 (3) is against the accused being compelled to give evidence and is not against his furnishing a matter which may be taken into consideration by the Court. 1956 Cri L J 664 : A I R 1956 All 341 (344) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Validity of S. 342, Criminal P. C.

As it is entirely a matter of option with the accused to answer or not when he is questioned under S. 342, Criminal P. C., and as oath cannot be administered to him as to a witness and his evidence cannot be put in evidence in that trial or enquiry there is no chance of the accused being compelled to be a witness under S. 342. That he is not a witness when he answers the questions put to him under S. 342 also follows from the definition of the word 'evidence' in S. 3, Evidence Act. Therefore S. 342, Criminal P. C., is not ultra vires of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. 1952 Cri L J 1720 : AIR 1952 Him Pra 81 (86) (Pr C) (Pr 12).

——Art. 20 (3) — Criminal Procedure Code (1898), S. 342—Repugnancy to Art. 20 (3) — Answers given by accused if offend Art. 20 (3) — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 342).

The answers given by the accused under S. 342 (2), Criminal P. C. would not offend Art 20 (3) of the Constitution. The object of S. 342 is not to build up a case against the accused from his answers or non-answers but to test by the explanation furnished by the accused in another additional manner the truth of the prosecution version. When the answers given satisfactorily explain the prosecution evidence there can be no conviction; if they do not rebut the prosecution evidence the Court will convict; but in any case the Court cannot supplement the prosecution evidence by selecting passages which might corroborate the evidence rejecting the passages exonerating the accused; the entire statement should be considered though it need not be accepted and acted upon because it is the duty of the Court to separate the grain from the chaff and accept only those portions which are found to be true and reject those portions which are found to be false by evidence aliunde. 1955 Cri L J 452 : A I R 1955 Mad 100 (118) (Pt E) (Pr 60).

——Art. 20 (3)—S. 342, Criminal P. C.—Validity of.

The provisions of S. 342 of the Code of Criminal Procedure are not ultra vires of the Constitution of India and do not in any way infringe the guarantee of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution of India. AIR 1956 All 385, Rel. on. (1958) Mad L J (Cri) 341 : I L R (1957) Mys 177 : 36 Mys L J 278 : 1958 Cri L J 1489 : AIR 1958 Mys 150 (170) (Pt H) (Pr 22) (DB).

6. Compulsion to be witness—What amounts to.

(a) Enquiry under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850).

(b) Direction to accused to appear in identification parade or to exhibit his body or identifying marks on it.

(c) Search and seizure of documents from the person or the custody of the accused.

(d) Public examination of directors and office-bearers under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act.

See also Ibid, Note 4 (b) (i).

(e) Direction to produce documents or other incriminating evidence.

(f) Taking of thumb impression, specimen writing or signature, etc.

6. Compulsion to be witness—What amounts to.

■ ——Art. 20 (3)—Compulsion —Means duress—Held, various circumstances preceding making of statement by accused fell far short of proving that his mind had been so conditioned by some extraneous process as to render the making of the statement involuntary and therefore extorted. AIR 1961 S C 1808. Rel. on. R. K. Dalmia v. Delhi Administration, (1963) 1 S C R 253 : (1962) 32 Com Cas 699 : 1962 (2) Cri L J 805 : AIR 1962 S C 1821 (1870) (Pt R) (Pr 290).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Expressions 'accused of any offence' and 'witness against himself' — Interpretation of - (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss 340 (2), 342 and 342-A)—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 118).

Article 20 (3) consists of three components: (1) it is a right pertaining to a person "accused of an offence"; (2) it is a protection against compulsion to be a witness'; and (3) it is a protection against such compulsion resulting in his giving evidence "against himself". The word 'witness' must be understood in its natural sense, i. e., as referring to a person who furnishes evidence. Indeed every positive volitional act which furnishes evidence is testimonial. Compulsion connotes coercion which procures the positive volitional evidentiary acts of the person, as opposed to the negative attitude of silence or submission on his part. The protection of Art. 20 (3) becomes available to a person as soon as he is named as an accused either in a first information report made under S. 154, Criminal P. C., or in a complaint instituted against him, in Court. A I R 1954 P C 300, Foll. 1957 All L J 263 : 1957 Cri L J 698: 1957 All W R (HC) 381: AIR 1957 All 396 (397) (Pt C) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Privilege under—Waiver of—Effect of S. 342-A, Criminal P. C.

Article 20 (3) confers merely a privilege, and it is well settled that a privilege can always be waived. It may be waived by voluntarily answering question, or by voluntarily taking stand in the witness box, or by failure to claim the privilege.

Where persons against whom a criminal complaint was instituted, on being summoned as witnesses in the preliminary inquiry under S. 202, Criminal P. C., appeared and gave evidence they should be deemed to have waived the privilege under Art. 20 (3). But since there was no written request by them to do so, no charge had been made against them, and under S. 342-A, Criminal P. C., they could appear only as witnesses for the defence and never for the prosecution, whatever statements had been obtained from them could not be used. 1957 Cri L J 698 : 1957 All W R (HC) 381 : 1957 All L J 263 : AIR 1957 All 396 (398) (Pt D) (Pr 13).

——Arts. 20 (3), 19—Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129 A (as amended by Act (12 of 1959)—Validity — Consumption of prohibited intoxicant — Medical examination — Section 129 A applicable to persons 'accused of an offence'. AIR 1954 S C 300, Foll. — Accused merely required to submit to evidence being collected from him — Compulsion only in case of active resistance and not to passive non-co-operation — Section held not violating protection against testimonial compulsion or compulsory self-incrimination guaranteed by Art. 20 (3).

No constitutional invalidity, therefore, attaches to any part of S. 129-A. AIR 1941 F C 72; AIR 1957 S C 699 and AIR 1957 S C 628, Ref. 1961 Nag L J 83 : 63 Bom L R 87 : I L R (1961) Bom 360 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), S. 124—Validity of.

Article 20 (3) prohibits the compulsion of an accused person to incriminate himself. Far from an accused person incriminating himself, he is, according to S. 124, Bombay Police Act called upon to explain his possession, because the prosecution says that the accused was found in possession of certain property and that there was reason to believe that the property was stolen property. Therefore, S. 124 does not contravene Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 300 Foll. 60 Bom L R 403 : I L R (1958) Bom 883 : 1960 Cri L J 1186 : A I R 1960 Bom 377 (379) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—"Compelled to be a witness against himself"—What amounts to.

A cursory study of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution would show that before claiming protection of this Article, the person accused of any offence shall have been compelled to furnish evidence against himself. If an accused person out of his own free will or without any compulsion furnishes evidence, even against himself, that would not seem to be hit by Art. 20 (3). 1957 Cri L J 1124 : AIR 1957 J & K 44 (44) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 20 (3) — Requiring the accused to produce a thing in his possession is no testimonial compulsion.

F, filed a complaint against other non-applicants alleging that non-applicant had been entrusted by her with money to purchase cycles but he purchased cycles in his own name. On application of the complainant the Magistrate issued a warrant under S. 98, Cr. P. Code, for seizure and production of cycles with the accused. The accused did not produce them and opposed that application on the ground that Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution was a bar to such direction by the Court.

Held, that requiring an accused to produce a thing in his possession would not amount to testimonial compulsion, unless the thing to be produced by itself, would be enough to establish his guilt. A I R 1961 S C 1808, Rel. on. (Objection overruled) 1962 M P L J (Notes) 204.

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope — Blood test of defendant for ascertaining paternity of applican' child — Violation of Art. 20 (3). See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 488. AIR 1959 Mad 396.

——Art. 20 (3) — "Compulsion" to be witness — What amounts to.

The principle of protection against self-incrimination is not confined to the oral evidence of a person standing his trial for an offence; it refers to all kinds of evidence which the accused might be compelled to produce as a positive volitional evidentiary act. Any attempt to compel the accused to produce evidence of any kind which is likely to support a prosecution against him would be struck down by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution.

Under a search warrant or other kindred process of law, documents or articles or any other incriminating evidence can be seized from the custody or the person of the accused by force and against his will, such as stolen articles, blood-stained clothes, etc., but he cannot be compelled to produce them himself. There can be no objection to an accused person being taken to a doctor for the examination of injuries on his body. He can also be taken to an identification parade. The taking of thumb impression or the signature of the accused does not stand on a different footing from the seizure of documents or articles or other facts of evidence from the person of the accused.

An accused who was found in a state of intoxication was arrested by the Police and taken to a doctor for medical examination.

The police, with the help of the doctor, gathered evidence which was available on the person of the accused, and the accused himself was not compelled to make such evidence available for the prosecution.

Held, that the symptoms observed by the doctor could not be regarded as evidence obtained from the accused by compulsion and was not therefore, hit by Art 20 (3) of the Constitution of India. ILR (1957) Mad 66 : (1956) 2 Mad L J 273 : 1957 Cri L J 976 : 1956 Mad W N 657 : A I R 1957 Mad 546 (548 to 551) (Pt B) (Prs 6 to 10) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Witness against himself — What amounts to.

A day before the occurrence the accused appeared before the Sub Magistrate and surrendered before him. He stated that he was wanted by the police in connection with his wife's murder and so he surrendered. The Magistrate, on finding his dhoti and upper cloth blood stained, directed his clerk and peon to seize them. In his presence they were seized.

Held, that the securing of the blood-stained clothes on a person like the accused who wanted to report and surrender before the Magistrate would be very material and relevant, and the Magistrate, situated as he was, was bound to take possession of them (as of a blood-stained weapon) from the accused. Such being the case, it could not be said that there had been any compulsion exercised upon the accused to produce the article and be a witness against himself in the murder case against him. A I R 1954 S C 300, Disting (1955) 2 M L J 199 : 1955 Cri L J 1197 : 1955 Mad W N 301 : I L R (1956) Mad 351 : AIR 1955 Mad 495 (497) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Construction and scope of — "Shall be compelled to be a witness" — Meaning of — (Cr. P. Code (1898), Ss. 342, 342-A).

Article 20 (3) undoubtedly embodies the principle of protection against compulsory self incrimination which is one of the fundamental canons of the British System of criminal jurisprudence. The expression 'to be a witness' means all cases where the accused is compelled to furnish any material which may be used against him for the purpose of convicting him. If he himself submits to give his thumb-impression or if he has raised no objection whatsoever at any stage to give his thumb impression, he cannot seek the aid of the guarantee. A I R 1954 S C 302, Foll ; A I R 1956 Mad 165 and A I R 1956 Mad 632, Rel. on. 23 Cut L T 234 : 1957 Cri L J 902 : I L R (1957) Cut 200 : A I R 1957 Orissa 172 (176) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope.

It is well settled that unless a statement is obtained or is to be used under compulsion the provisions of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution will not come into play. AIR 1961 S C 1808, Rel. on. A I R 1963 Punj 198 (200) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability and scope — Criminal Law Amendment Ordinance (1944), S. 4 — Offence in relation to property — Notice under S. 4 to show cause why ad interim order of attachment in respect of that property should not be made absolute amounts to compelling the person to be a witness against himself and violates Art. 20 (3). See Criminal Law Amendment Ordinance (38 of 1944), S. 4. 1960 Cri L J 984 : AIR 1960 Punj 351 (DB).

6 (a). Enquiry under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850).

● ——Art. 20 (3)—Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), S. 15—S. 15 does not contravene Art. 20 (3).

The provision made in S. 15 of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, that an accused shall be required to make his defence does not amount to compelling the accused to be a witness against himself. Under this section the accused is not even compelled to make his defence. The section merely compels the inquiring authority to require the accused to make a defence. If the accused chooses not to make any defence S. 15 cannot compel him to do so. R. P. Kapur v. Pratap Singh Kairon, 1963 Cur L J (SC) 105 : 1964 S C D 1 : (1964) 1 S C A 313 : 1964 (1) Cri L J 224 (231) (Pt F) (Pr 22) (SC).

——Art. 20 (3) — Enquiry under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), Ss. 11, 15, 16 and 19 — Enquiry Commissioner has no power to compel public servant to make any statement or produce document as in a criminal trial — No violation of Art. 20 (3). ('61) 63 Punj L R 780.

6 (b). Direction to accused to appear in identification parade or to exhibit his body or identifying marks on it.

——Art. 20 — Applicability — Test identification parade — Concealment of distinctive marks — Bearded criminal getting himself shaved to avoid recognition — Magistrate in delaying identification until his beard grew again does not violate Art. 20 (3). See Evidence Act (1872) S. 9. 1961 (1) Cri L J 340 : AIR 1961 All 153 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Test identification — Order for — Legality.

A Magistrate's order directing the accused to appear in a test identification parade does not violate his fundamental right under Art. 20 (3) and is not ultra vires the Constitution. It is the procuring by compulsion of the positive volitional evidentiary acts of an accused that is prohibited by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. His mere attendance or the exhibition of his body at a test identification parade, even though compelled, does not result in any evidentiary act until he is identified by some other agency. The identification of him by a witness is not his act, even though his body is exhibited for the purpose; certainly it is not his evidentiary act. AIR 1954 S C 300, Applied ; AIR 1957 Orissa 172 and A I R 1957 Madh Pra 108 and A I R 1959 Madh Pra 411 and A I R 1955 Cal 247 and A I R 1958 All 119, Diss. from 1961 (2) Cri L J 462 : ILR (1961) 1 Cal 707 : A I R 1961 Cal 531 (532, 534) (Prs 3, 5, 16, 19) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope — Compulsion for exhibition of body or identifying marks on it — Procurement of fingerprints by force for establishing identity — Not objectionable — (Identification of Prisoners Act (33 of 1920), S. 5 — Constitutional validity) — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 73).

Taking of thumb, finger and palm impression of the accused in the Court of the Magistrate under his directions was not in contravention of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. True scope of the constitutional inhibition against self-incrimination contained in Art. 20 (3) is to prohibit compulsion in the matter of testifying either by word of mouth or in writing. What is forbidden is the use of force in the process of disclosure by oral statements or by written words of testimonial character. In principle resort to compulsion requiring the accused to exhibit his body for purposes of establishing identity is not objectionable, because by doing so he is not being forced to give false testimony.

The provisions of S. 5 of the Identification of Prisoners Act. 1920, cannot be held to be unconstitutional as violative of the constitutional guarantee against testimonial compulsion. 1958 Cri L J 1084: I L R (1958) Punj 1747 : A I R 1958 Punj 294 (297, 299, 301) (Pt B) (Prs 21, 32, 50).

6 (c). Search and seizure of documents from the person or the custody of the accused.

●——Art. 20 (3)—Search and seizure of documents from accused, if amounts to infringement of fundamental right under Art. 20 (3)—[Cr. P. Code (1898), Ss. 94 and 96].

Sections 94 and 96 (1) of the Criminal P. C. cannot be read as importing any statutory recognition of a theory that search and seizure of documents is compelled production thereof. Section 96 (1) has three alternatives and the requirement of previous notice or summons and the non-compliance with it or the likelihood of such non-compliance is prescribed only for the first alternative and not for the second or the third. A "general search" and a "search for a document or a thing not known to be in possession of any particular person" are not conditioned by any such requirement. Indeed in cases covered by the second alternative such a requirement cannot even be contemplated as possible. It would therefore, follow, that some at least of the searches within the scope of the second and third alternatives in S 96 (1) would fall outside the constitutional protection of Art. 20 (3) — an anomalous distinction for which no justification can be found on principle.

There is no basis in the Indian law for the assumption that a search or seizure of a thing or document is in itself to be treated as compelled production of the same. A notice to produce is addressed to the party concerned and his production in compliance therewith constitutes a testimonial act by him within the meaning of Art. 20 (3). But a search-warrant is addressed to an officer of the Government generally a police officer. Neither the search nor the seizure are acts of the occupier of the searched premises. They are acts of another to which he is obliged to submit and are, therefore not, his testimonial acts in any sense.

A power of search and seizure is in any system of jurisprudence an overriding power of the State for the protection of social security and that power is necessarily regulated by law. When the Constitution makers have thought fit not to subject such regulation to constitutional limitations by recognition of a fundamental right to privacy, analogous to the American Fourth Amendment, there is no justification to import it, into a totally different fundamental right, by some process of strained construction. Nor is it legitimate to assume that the constitutional protection under Art 20 (3) would be defeated by the statutory provisions for searches. 116 U S 616, Discussed.

Held, in the circumstances of the case that searches made in pursuance of warrant issued under S. 96, Cr. P. Code, could not be challenged as illegal on the ground of violation of fundamental right under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. Sharma v. Satish Chandra, 1954 S C J 428 : (1954) 1 M L J 680 : 1954 Cr L J 865 : 1954 S C A 449 : 1954 SCR 1077 : 56 Punj L R 366 : 1954 Andh L T (SC) 1 : 1954 Mad W N 566 : 1954 Andhra L J (W) 54 : AIR 1954 S C 300 (305, 306, 307) (Pt C) (Prs 17, 18, 19).

—— Art 20 (3) — Warrant in respect of documents —Order for return of books and papers on execution of bond—Effect of. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 172. AIR 1956 Cal 609.

——Art. 20 (3) Scope — Search-warrant for production of documents in possession of accused— If invasion of fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 20 (3) — Cr. P. Code, Ss. 94 and 96.

The constitutional protection under Art. 20 (3) is not defeated by the statutory provisions for searches contained in Ss. 94 and 96, Cr. P. Code. Searches are under the authority of a Magistrate (excepting in the limited class of cases falling under S. 165 of the Cr. P. Code). Therefore, issue of a search-warrant is normally the judicial function of the Magistrate, and is no invasion of any fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 20 (3). AIR 1954 S C 300 ; AIR 1955 Mad 685, Rel. on. Madh B L R 1956 Cri 341 : 1956 Madh B L J 1487 : 1957 Cri L J 195 : AIR 1957 Madh B 68 (70) (Pt B) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art 20 (3)—Scope — Power to issue search warrant under S. 94—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S 94)—Legality.

The power of the Court to issue a search warrant under S. 94 of the Cr. P. Code is not taken away by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution of India. AIR 1957 Madh B 68, Foll. 1959 M P L J (Notes) 215.

——Art. 20 (3) — Under search warrant documents or articles or incriminating evidence can be seized from custody or person of accused by force and against his will. 1956 Mad W N 657 : (1956) 2 Mad L J 273 : ILR (1957) Mad 66 : 1957 Cri L J 976 : AIR 1957 Mad 546 (549, 550) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Production of documents — Notice issued to accused to show cause why his premises should not be searched for certain incriminating documents amounts to testimonial compulsion and as such offend article. (1955) 2 Mad L J 268 : 1955 Mad W N 669 : 68 Mad L W 737 (2) : 1955 All W R (Sup) 99 : 1955 Cri L J 1602 (2): AIR 1955 Mad 716 (717) (Prs 1, 2).

——Art. 20 (3)—Power of police to search accused or his premises for certain documents believed to be in his possession or of the magistrate to issue search warrant not taken away. 1955 Mad W N 567 : (1955) 2 Mad L J 269 : 1955 All W R (Sup) 100 : 1955 Cri L J 1602 (1) : AIR 1955 Mad 685 (685) (Pr 3).

6 (d). Public examination of directors and office-bearers under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act.

See also Ibid, Note 4 (b) (i).

——Art. 20 (3)—Applicability—Public examination of director under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act, 1949 If hit by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution—(Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 45 G).

Because under S. 45-G (8) of the Banking Companies Act the notes of the examination of the evidence may be used later in evidence against the person in any proceeding, civil or criminal, a public examination of the director cannot be held to be bad under the provisions of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. The reasons are (1) A public examination of a director under S. 45-G Banking Companies Act, does not necessarily mean that the director shall be compelled to be a witness against himself and to give evidence against himself ; (2) the constitutional provision only applies where a person is 'accused of any offence'. An order for public examination under S 45-G, Banking Companies Act, on the report of the Official Liquidator is not an accusation for an offence; (3) taking into consideration the guarantees under which the director is examined under S. 45-G, it cannot be said that he is "compelled to be a witness against himself" within the language and meaning of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution; and (4) a past evidence likely to be used for a future accusation of an offence does not infringe the constitutional right given by Art. 20 (3). The language of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution means that the evidence must come after and not before the accusation of an offence in order to come within the constitutional prohibition. 61 Cal W N 709 : A I R 1957 Cal 520 (522) (Pt C) (Prs 4, 6, 7).

——Art. 20 (3)—Petition under Ss 45-G, 45-H and 45 J, Banking Companies Act, against Directors and other office bearers—Latter also accused of offences under Companies Act — Order directing public examination of Directors and others under S. 478, Companies Act and S 45 G, Banking Companies Act, 1949—Legality—Order is hit by Art. 20 (3).

Held on facts that the effect of the order was that the counter-petitioners were compelled to be witnesses against themselves and to give evidence in support of the accusations against them and the protection granted by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution being against such compulsion, the order was illegal AIR 1958 Andh Pra 756 and AIR 1959 Bom 320, Disting. 1960 Ker L J 641 : (1960) 1 Ker L R 670 : 1960 Ker L T 581 : (1960) 30 Com Cas 501 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 713 : 1961 (1) Cr L J 75 : AIR 1961 Ker 14 (17, 18) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Ker 72 (FB)]

——Art. 20 (3) Order directing public examination of directors under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act.

The public examination of the directors and office bearers under S. 45-G, Banking Companies Act is sought by the official liquidator to bring out from them facts necessary to sustain a conviction of those persons. Under cl. (6) of S 45-G of that Act these persons are bound to answer all the questions put to them in a public examination. The answers recorded from them can be used against them in any civil or criminal proceeding. Such use is expressly sanctioned by cl. (3) of that section. Thus all the elements necessary to bring the matter within the mischief of Art. 20 (3) are present and therefore the order for their examination is hit by it. AIR 1961 Ker 14 (17) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

6 (e). Direction to produce documents or other incriminating evidence.

● —Art. 20 (3)—Testimonial compulsion, rule of—Applicability of S. 94 (1), Criminal P. C., to accused. AIR 1951 Cal 101 (FB) Overruled. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 94 (1). 1965 (2) Cr L J 356 : AIR 1965 S C 1251.

● ——Art. 20 (3) — Accused giving information or producing documents - Whether becomes witness.

Per Majority; S. K. Das, A. K. Sarkar and K. D. Das Gupta JJ., contra.:—To be a witness is not equivalent to 'furnishing evidence' in its widest significance to include also production of documents or giving materials which may be relevant at a trial to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused. The observation of the Supreme Court in A I R 1954 S C 300 that S. 139 of the Evidence Act has no bearing on the connotation of the word 'witness' is not entirely well founded in law.

"To be a witness" means imparting knowledge in respect of relevant facts by an oral statement or a statement in writing made or given in Court or otherwise. State of Bombay v. Kathi Kalu, 1963 Mad L J (Cri) 97: 1961 (2) Cr L J 856: (1961) 2 Ker L R 378 : 1961 Ker L T (S C) 74 : 1961 B L J R 840 : 1961 All L J 936 : (1962) 3 S C R 10 : 1961 All W R (H C) 736 : (1962) 1 S C A 429 : 1961 All Cri R 416 : 64 Bom L R 240 : (1963) 1 S C J 195 : A I R 1961 S C 1808 (1816, 1817, 1819, 1820) (Pt A) (Prs 16, 32).

——Art 20 (3) — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 94, 96 — Order requiring accused to produce self incriminating document—Legality.

The guarantee in Art. 20 (3) against testimonial compulsion is not only confined to the oral evidence of a person standing his trial for an offence when called to the witness stand but that protection extends also to the compulsory process for the production of evidentiary documents which are reasonably likely to support the prosecution against him. Requiring the accused charged for forgery, to produce the alleged forged document under Ss. 94 and 96, Criminal P. C. is violation of Art. 20 (3). AIR 1954 S C 300, Foll. 1961 (2) Cr L J 55 (57) (Pt A) (Pr 12) (All).

——Art. 20 (3)— Scope — 'To be a witness' — Order under S 94, Criminal P. C.

The expression 'to be a witness' used in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution has to be read in a wide sense. That expression includes furnishing evidence. An order under S. 94, Criminal P. C., is directed to a person to produce documents before the Court. Such an order is clearly an order to furnish evidence. Such an order therefore attracts the prohibition contained in clause (3) of Art. 20 of the Constitution. 1958 All W R (H C) 855 : 1958 All Cr R 569 : 1959 All L J 29 : 1959 Cr L J 410 : I L R (1959) 2 All 132 : A I R 1959 All 219 (220) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Production of documents — Summons under S. 94, Criminal P. C., against company's employees—Legality.

Article 20 (3) of the Constitution prohibits a summons to be issued under S. 94 of the Criminal P. C., against an accused person, requiring him to produce documents in support of the prosecution case. For to produce a document in a criminal case in support of a prosecution is a testimonial act. 1954 S C J 428 : (1954) 1 M L J 680 : AIR 1954 S C 300 and AIR 1959 All 219, Rel. on. Thus, a company against whom a prosecution is started cannot be required by virtue of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution to produce incriminating documents. And as the company can, under S. 131 of the Evidence Act, object to its own employees producing its documents in Court without its consent, no summons can, under S. 94, Criminal P. C., to produce the documents, be issued against the company's employees. 1961 Nag L J 96 : (1961) 31 Com Cas 324 : 63 Bom L R 559 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 200 : I L R (1961) Bom 508 : A I R 1961 Bom 242 (243) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Accused ordered to produce document in his possession — Order illegal. See Factories Act (1948), Section 79 (ii). 1960 Nag L J (Notes) 17.

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Notice to appear or produce documents —If contravenes Art. 20 (3). See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 171-A. 1958 Cr L J 1469 : AIR 1958 Cal 682 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 759.]

● ——Art. 20 (3) — Whether if S. 94, Criminal P. C. is construed as applicable to accused persons also that would render it ultra vires of Art. 20 (3)—Scope of Art. 20 (3)—Calling accused to produce document whether amounts to testimonial compulsion. See Criminal P. C (1898), S. 94. AIR 1951 Cal 101 (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1965 S C 1251.]

——Art 20 (3) —Witness, who is —Accused producing document.

If an accused produces a document in his possession that would not offend Art. 20 Cl. (3) unless the document contains statements based on the personal knowledge of the accused because he does not become a witness by the mere fact that he has produced it. AIR 1961 S C 1808 and A I R 1960 S C 756, Rel. on. (1963) 4 Guj LR 638 : 1963 (2) Cr L J 135: AIR 1963 Guj 178 (181) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20 (3) —Testimonial compulsion — Criminal trial — Order for production of books of account by accused — Effect.

The constitutional guarantee under Art. 20 (3) is not confined to oral testimony but also extends to any compulsory process for production of evidentiary documents which are reasonably likely to support the prosecution against the accused. A I R 1954 S C 300, Foll. An order under S. 94, Criminal P. C. requiring an accused to produce documents which are reasonably likely to support the prosecution against him offends against the provisions of Art. 20 (3). A I R 1956 Mad 165 and A I R 1959 All 219 and A I R 1960 J and K 55, Rel. on. (1961) 2 Guj L R 415 : (1961) 2 Guj H C R 197 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 338 : A I R 1961 Guj 137 (139, 140) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Succession Act (1925), S. 317—Administrator — Books of account maintained by — Order for production of— Effect.

Under S. 317 of the Succession Act the only obligation on the Administrator is to exhibit an inventory and an account of the estate. No obligation is imposed on the administrator by the section to maintain any books of account. Therefore the books of account maintained by an administrator or joint administrators in connection with the administration of the estate of a deceased person cannot be said to be public documents. If they are not public documents, they would be necessarily private documents. Therefore assuming that protection against self-incrimination under Art. 20 (3) extends to private documents and not to public ones the protection would extend to such books of account. 1961 (2) Cr L J 338 : (1961) 2 Guj L R 415 : (1961) 2 Guj H C R 197 : A I R 1961 Guj 137 (140) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

—— Art. 20 (3)— Order directing accused to produce books of account on next date—Application to cancel that order on ground of testimonial compulsion violating Art. 20 (3). See Criminal P.C. (1898), S. 439. 1961 (2) Cr L J 338: AIR 1961 Guj 137 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) —Order directing accused to produce documents under S. 94, Criminal P. C .— Order violates article.

An order passed by a Magistrate under S. 94, Criminal P. C., calling upon the accused to produce the documents which are incriminating against them is absolutely without jurisdiction as it violates the protection given to the accused under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. There is clear distinction between an order of the Court by which the accused himself is directed to produce the documents and an order of the Court by which the police is directed to search or seize the documents in possession of the accused. The former case amounts to testimonial compulsion which comes within the ambit of Art. 20 (3) whereas in the latter case Art. 20 (3) has no appliction. AIR 1954 S C 300, Foll ; A I R 1951 Cal 101 (FB), held no longer good law. 1960 Cri L J 470 : AIR 1960 J & K 55 (56, 57) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——Art 20 (3) — Order to produce documents — Accused making statement in protest — If can be said to have agreed to production — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 94).

Where an application of the complainant for production of documents is strongly resisted by the accused, if they make any statement in protest to comply with the orders of the Court in case their objection was overruled, this surely cannot be taken to mean that they agreed to the production of the documents and that the Magistrate did not compel the accused to produce the documents. 1960 Cri L J 470 : AIR 1960 J and K 55 (57) (Pt D) (Pr 4).

——Art. 20 (3) — Testimonial compulsion — Production of document impugned as forged — Order for — Legality.

A Magistrate commits a grave violation of the right guaranteed by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution in issuing notice to the accused to produce in Court the document impugned as forgery. AIR 1954 S C 300 and AIR 1957 Mad 716 and AIR 1956 Mad 165 and AIR 1957 Madh B 68, Rel. on. 1957 Ker L T 293 : ILR (1957) Ker 277 : 1957 Ker L J 329 : (1957) Mad L J (Cr) 227 : 1957 Cr LJ 755 : AIR 1957 Ker 78 (79) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Guarantee under — Extent—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 94—Production of documents).

The guarantee under Art. 20 (3) would extend to any compulsory process for production of evidentiary documents which are reasonably likely to support a prosecution against the accused. AIR 1954 S C 300, Foll.; AIR 1951 Cal 101, Not foll. (1955) 2 M L J 267 : 68 M L W 737 (1) : 1955 Mad W N 660 : 1955 All W R (Sup) 96 : 1956 Cri L J 248 (1) : AIR 1956 Mad 165 (165) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope—Notice to accused to show cause why his premises should not be searched for seizing documents — Validity — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 96).

The guarantee under Art. 20 (3) would extend to any compulsory process for production of evidentiary documents which are reasonably likely to support a prosecution against the accused.

A notice to the accused to show cause why his premises should not be searched for the purpose of seizing certain incriminating documents practically amounts to stating that either he produces the documents or else the premises will be searched. To avoid the search the accused is likely to come forward with the production of the documents himself. Instead of directly compelling him to produce by means of a summons, the notice to show cause will practically have the same effect in an indirect manner. The notice, therefore, will amount to a testimonial compulsion and will stand on the same footing as the summons to produce the same documents. Such a notice offends Art. 20 (3) and should be quashed. (1955) 2 M L J 268 : 68 M L W 737 (2) : 1955 Mad W N 669 : 1955 All W R (Sup) 99 : 1955 Cr L J 1602 (2) : AIR 1955 Mad 716 (717) (Prs 1, 2).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Search by police and issue of search-warrant by Magistrate, if prohibited — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 96 (1) and 165).

Though by reason of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution a Court is precluded from issuing summons to an accused person to produce any document or thing in his custody, there is nothing in Art. 20 of the Constitution or in any of its other articles to prohibit the police from searching either the person of the accused or the premises in the manner laid down by the Criminal Procedure Code. Nor have the powers of the Magistrate to issue a search-warrant in the circumstances set out in the Code been abrogated by the Constitution. (1955) 2 M L J 269 : 1955 Mad W N 567 : 1955 All W R (Sup) 100 : 1955 Cri L J 1602 (1) : AIR 1955 Mad 685 (685) (Pr 3).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope—Criminal P. C., S. 94—Validity — If in conflict with Art. 20 (3). See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 94. (1957) Nag L J 302.

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope and applicability—Production of public documents in custody of accused — Foodgrains Procurement Stock Register — Order for its production by Magistrate — Legality — (Orissa Foodgrains Control Order (1951) — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 74 (1) (iii)) —(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 94).

The protection against compulsory testimony under Cl. (3) of Art. 20, Constitution of India, is not only available so far as the giving of oral evidence by an accused is concerned but is also available against the production of documents in his possession which may be reasonably used against him. But this principle does not apply to 'public documents' in the possession of the accused.

Apart from the statutory duty of maintaining the Foodgrains Procurement Stock Register cast on the accused by the Orissa Foodgrains Control Order, 1951 and the licence issued thereunder, the accused by acting as the agent of the Government had undertaken to maintain this register in accordance with the directions that may be issued from time to time by a public officer. The accused had agreed to the register being inspected from time to time by public officials and also to produce it for inspection whenever required. In a prosecution of the accused for an offence under S. 409, Penal Code, the Magistrate made an order calling upon the accused to produce the said register.

Held, that the register was a public record and a public document and that the accused must comply with the order of the Magistrate issued under S. 94, Criminal P. C., and produce the register called for on pain of incurring the penalty prescribed by law for non-compliance with his order. AIR 1954 S C 300 and (1948) 335 U S 1 and (1911) 221 U S 382, Rel. on ; AIR 1956 Mad 185 and AIR 1956 Cal 253, Disting. ILR (1957) Cut 564 : 1958 Cr L J 59 : AIR 1958 Orissa 1 (4) (Prs 14, 19).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Testimonial compulsion—Prohibition against — Scope and extent of — 'To be a witness' — Interpretation — Fundamental right of protection against testimonial compulsion — If confined to oral evidence in Court — Order under S. 94, Criminal P. C. directing accused persons to produce registers and other documents kept by or under their direction — If violative of Art. 20 (3) — Employees' Provident Funds Act (XIX of 1952), S. 14 — Employees' Provident Fund Scheme (1952), S. 76.

The guarantee under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution is against testimonial compulsion. It is not confined to the oral evidence of a person standing his trial for an offence when called upon to the witness stand but would extend to any compulsory process for production of evidentiary documents which are reasonably likely to support a prosecution against him. 'To be a witness' in its ordinary grammatical sense would mean giving oral evidence in Court, but the expression cannot be given such a strict literal interpretation. It has a wider meaning, namely bearing testimony in Court or out of Court by a person accused of on offence orally or in writing.

The respondents, the chairman and manager of a private limited Transport Company were charged with several charges under S. 14 of the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952 read with S. 76 of the Employees' Provident Fund Scheme, 1952, for failure to pay the contribution of the employees and the Employers' share and submit the necessary return as required by the Employees' Provident Fund Scheme. The complainant (State) applied to the Court under S. 94, Criminal P. C., for production of the records of the Transport Company kept by the respondents, i.e., the registers, etc., kept by them or under their direction relating to the affairs of the Combany of which they were the chairman and the Manager.

Held, the documents in question would obviously contain information based upon personal knowledge of the respondents which was to be used as incriminating evidence against them, and consequently an order compelling the production of such documents by the respondents would be violative of the constitutional guarantee contained in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution and the accused could resist the application. AIR 1959 All 219 ; AIR 1961 Bom 242, Foll., (1954) Cr L J 865 : AIR 1954 S C 300; AIR 1961 S C 1808, Disting. (1964) 1 Comp L J 112 : 1964 Cur L J 306 : 1964 (2) Cr L J 199 : (1964-65) 26 F J R 127 : AIR 1964 Punj 325 (327) (Prs 11, 12, 13) (DB).

6(f). Taking of thumb impression, specimen writing or signature, etc.

● ——Art 20 (3)—Accused giving thumb impressions etc.—Whether becomes a witness.

Per Majority. — Giving thumb impressions or impressions of foot or palm or fingers or specimen writings or showing parts of the body by way of identification are not included in the expression 'to be a witness.'

Per S. K. Das, A. K. Sarkar and K. C. Das Gupta JJ. —Accused when he is giving specimen handwriting or impressions of his fingers or palms or foot does not furnish evidence against himself in so doing within the meaning of Art. 20 (3). AIR 1960 Cal 32, Reversed; AIR 1960 Ker 392 (DB), Overruled. State of Bombay v. Kathi Kalu, 1963 Mad L J (Cri) 97 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 856 : (1961) 2 Ker L R 378 : 1961 Ker L T (SC) 74 : 1961 B L J R 840 : 1961 All L J 936 : (1962) 3 S C R 10 : 1961 All W R (HC) 736 : (1962) 1 S C A 429 : 1961 All Cri R 416 : 64 Bom L R 240 : (1963) 1 S C J 195 : AIR 1961 S C 1808 (1819, 1820) (Pt A) (Pr 32)

——Art. 20 (3)—Mere furnishing specimen signature and handwriting does not make person witness against himself.

Only because an accused gives his specimen initials, signatures and writing he does not become a witness against himself. The mere giving of these, has no testimonial effect. It is only when a handwriting expert compares the specimen writing or signature of an accused person with the disputed ones and states in Court that the two tally and that the disputed handwriting or signature is that of the accused that the stage of evidence comes in. In that view of the matter, it cannot be said that the mere act of furnishing specimen signature or writing by an accused person can amount to his being a witness against himself. (Held on facts that accused was not compelled to give his specimen initials, signature and handwriting to the investigating officer). AIR 1960 S C 756, Relied on. ILR (1962) 1 All 451.

● ——Art. 20 (3)—Testimonial compulsion — Order under S. 73, Evidence Act, directing accused to furnish fingerprints or specimen of handwriting — Accused giving writing voluntarily without objection—Effect—Evidence Act (1872) S. 73.

Per Full Bench : An order directing an accused person to furnish his fingerprints or specimen of his handwriting does not amount to 'testimonial compulsion' and does not contravene the provisions of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. AIR 1958 All 119, Approved. Where the Sessions Judge directs the accused to furnish a specimen of his handwriting under S. 73, Evidence Act, for comparison with the writings in the questioned documents and the accused furnishes the same voluntarily without raising any objection or protest, Art. 20 (3) is not infringed, as the giving of his writing by the accused could not be held to be compelled testimony. The mere absence of a warning that he was free to refuse will not bring about compulsion. AIR 1960 Ker 392 (FB). Diss. from. Ranjit Ram v. State, 1961 All L J 303 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 306 : 1961 All W R (HC) 320 : 1961 All Cr R 171 : ILR (1961) 1 All 128 : AIR 1961 All 456 (458, 463, 476, 477) (Prs 2, 3, 20, 84, 90) (FB).

— Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Taking of finger prints under Identification of Prisoners Act—No contravention of Art. 20 (3) — (Identification of Prisoners Act (1920), Ss. 5, 6).

Thumb marks of persons are taken under Ss. 5 and 6 not to use them in evidence, but to have a record of criminals undergoing trial or who had been convicted of a criminal offence. It cannot, therefore, be said that by taking the thumb-impressions the persons concerned are being compelled to be witnesses against themselves. 1959 All L J 812 : 1950 All W R (HC) 629 : 1960 All Cr R 8 : 1960 Cr L J 297 : AIR 1960 All 157 (158) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope—Taking of thumb impression of accused in spite of his protests—They cannot be made use of—Court may, however draw presumption against him—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 73 and 114).

If the accused refuses to give the impressions of his thumb and toes in compliance with the order of the Court, he cannot be compelled to do so and the only remedy available to the prosecution is to later on urge before the Court that a presumption in accordance with the law be drawn against him (accused). Where the impressions of his thumb and toes were taken by the prosecution in spite of his verbal protests, the only inference which can be drawn is that he had refused to comply with the order and his impressions were taken under compulsion. This would be in contravention of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution, and for this reason the impressions already taken cannot be used in evidence nor can the prosecution act upon such impressions. AIR 1958 All 119, Foll. 1959 All L J 812 : 1959 All W R (HC) 629 : 1960 All Cr R 8 ; 1960 Cr L J 297 : AIR 1960 All 157 (160) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Privilege given by—Accused if can waive — Exercise of power under S. 73, Evidence Act—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 73).

Per James, J.—(in Order of Reference) Since Art. 20 (3) gives only a privilege to an accused person he can always waive it. Where the Sessions Judge passed an order that the specimen writing of the accused previously taken by the Committing Magistrate be sent for expert examination.

Held, that by submitting to Magistrate's order to give his specimen writing the accused waived his constitutional privilege and consequently the Sessions Judge must be held to have rightly exercised his statutory power under S. 73 of the Evidence Act in directing expert examination of that specimen. AIR 1954 S C 300; 1954 S C J 428 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 680, Applied. 1958 Cr L J 134 : AIR 1958 All 119 (120) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Order directing accused to furnish his specimen writing — If hit by Article—Presumption—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 73 and 114).

An order directing an accused to furnish his specimen writing under S. 73, Evidence Act, is not hit by the provisions of Art. 20, Cl. (3) of the Constitution. The accused cannot, therefore, refuse to give the specimen writing when ordered by the Court to give it. If he does refuse, the Court can legally draw a presumption against him under any other provision of law. It will not amount to compelling the accused to be a witness against himself. (S) AIR 1957 Madh Pra 73 Diss. from. 1958 Cr L J 134 : AIR 1958 All 119 (126) (Pt E) (Prs 48, 50) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Protection against testimonial compulsion—Taking of specimen writing or signature in Court with consent of accused—Taking of finger impressions of accused by investigating officer against his will—Protection under Art. 20 (3) not violated.

Where an accused on being asked by the Court voluntarily gives his specimen writing and signature without raising any objection, the protection under Art. 20 (3) is not contravened.

The taking of finger impressions of the accused person by the investigating officer even against his will would not contravene the protection afforded by Art. 20 (3) : AIR 1959 Mad 396, Rel. on. 1962 (1) Cr L J 19 : AIR 1962 Cal 36 (38, 39, 40) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—'Testimonial compulsion' — Taking of thumb-impressions or foot-prints of accused—Effect.

The giving of evidence as referred to in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution, refers to doing a positive volitional act on the part of the accused to reveal something or to produce something which may be used against him; but it does not relate to the accused being compelled to show his face to the witnesses for identification or to show any part of his body or to give his thumb-impression or foot print for the purpose of identification. Hence an order of the Magistrate compelling the accused to give his thumb-impressions or finger-impressions for the purpose of investigation would not violate the safeguard of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 106 and AIR 1957 Mad 47 and Cr. Revn. No. 538 of 1960, dated 11-5-1960 (Cal) and AIR 1959 Mad 396, Foll.; AIR 1926 Mad 632, Not foll. Where the counsel for the accused stated that he had no objection to the taking of foot-prints of the accused, it cannot be said that the accused is compelled to do something against his will. 1961 (1) Cr L J 249 : 65 Cal W N 433 : AIR 1961 Cal 123 (124, 125) (Prs 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Testimonial compulsion — Taking specimen handwriting from accused—Effect.

The taking of specimen handwriting from the accused after his arrest so as to furnish evidence against him amounts to a violation of the guarantee against testimonial compulsion as envisaged by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 300 and AIR 1960 Cal 32, Rel. on. 1960 Cr L J 579 : AIR 1960 Cal 318 (319) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope — Taking of specimen writings and signatures of accused—Effect—'To be a witness against himself'—Meaning—Section 73, Evidence Act—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 73) — (Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 342).

An order of a Magistrate allowing the investigating Officer to take the specimen writings and signature of the accused person is violative of the fundamental right mentioned in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. The phrase 'to be a witness against himself' is not confined to the oral evidence of the accused but it means to furnish evidence against himself. It may be as much by word of mouth as by hand. Further, it may be in and out of Court. Section 73, Evidence Act, will afford no justification for such an order. AIR 1955 Cal 247, Diss. from ; AIR 1954 S C 300, Rel. on. 63 Cal W N 901 : 1959 All W R (Sup) 87 : 1959 All Cri R 353 : ILR (1960) 2 Cal 60 : 1960 Cr L J 56 : AIR 1960 Cal 32 (32, 33, 34) (Prs 3, 4, 11) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1808].

——Art. 20 (3) — Procedure under S. 73, Evidence Act—Validity — See Evidence Act (1872), S. 73. AIR 1958 Cal 123.

——Art. 20 (3)—Direction under S. 73, Evidence Act —Nature of — Does not offend Art. 20 (3) — See Evidence Act (1872), S. 73. AIR 1955 Cal 247 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—Scope — Taking finger impressions in Court for comparison—If amounts to testimonial compulsion — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 73).

Taking of finger impressions of an accused person in Court under its directions for the purpose of comparing them with disputed finger impressions under S. 73, Evidence Act, or otherwise would not amount to compelling the accused person to be a witness against himself, as contemplated by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. 1959 Cr L J 1165 : AIR 1959 Him Pra 29 (31) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 20 (3) — Testimonial compulsion — Asking accused to give thumb-impression during police investigation — Effect of.

A direction by a police officer asking the accused to furnish his thumb impression or a specimen writing would not amount to testimonial compulsion so as to bring it within the mischief of Art. 20 (3). But if the accused person has been compelled to give thumb-impression or specimen writing, it would certainly be hit by Art. 20 (3). But this fact of compulsion has to be proved like any other fact by evidence and not to be presumed. AIR 1956 Mad 632, Diss. from; AIR 1957 Mad 47 and AIR 1955 All 367, Rel on. 1957 Cr L J 1124 : AIR 1957 J & K 44 (45) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 4).

——Art. 20 (3) — Order directing accused to give specimen handwriting and signature—Does not infringe Art. 20 (3).

The direction by a Magistrate to an accused person to give specimen handwriting and signature will not amount to compelling the accused person to be witness against himself and hence does not infringe the fundamental right enshrined in Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. 1965 M L J (Cr) 212 : 1963 Ker L J 1005 : 1963 Ker L T 1132.

● ——Art. 20 (3)—Testimonial compulsion — Specimen hand-writing got by non-voluntary positive act of accused—Admissibility.

The guarantee against testimonial compulsion envisaged by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution is available only where there is formal accusation or where proceeding would in the normal course result in such accusation. The guarantee can be waived and does not cover the accused furnishing evidence willingly. The guarantee covers every volitional positive evidentiary act of the accused. Where a person formally accused is compelled, through positive volitional act to furnish materials which are tendered as evidence against him, the guarantee against testimonial compulsion in Article 20 (3) is infringed.

The privilege against self-incrimination contained in Art. 20 (3), which rests upon the abhorrence of compelling a man to expose his own guilt, must not be limited to what is evidence oral or documentary, according to the Evidence Act, but should cover all positive acts of the accused, which furnish material for reaching conclusions of facts in criminal cases. The specimen of the handwriting got by non-voluntary positive act of the accused, cannot but be treated as amounting to self-incrimination by compulsion. Hence, the specimen of handwriting compelled from the accused is not admissible. The words 'to be a witness' in Art. 20 (3) are not confined to compelled oral evidence alone, but cover documentary evidence as well and consistently with such liberal interpretation compelled writing by the accused cannot be admitted as being covered by the inhibition. AIR 1958 All 119, Diss. from. State of Kerala v. K. K. Sankaran Nair, 1960 Ker L J 805 : 1960 Ker L T 684 : ILR (1960) Ker 760 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 660 : 1960 Cr L J 1603: AIR 1960 Ker 392 (396, 398, 399, 400) (Prs 9, 20, 23) (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1961 S C 1808.]

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Making use of finger print evidence offends article.

Where in finding the accused guilty of forgery and false personation the lower Court made use of the finger prints obtained from her by the police during the course of the investigation and the report and the evidence of a finger print expert.

Held, that to make use of that evidence amounted to testimonial compulsion and offended Art 20 (3). 1960 Cri L J 75 : 1959 Ker L J 651 : ILR (1959 Ker 749 : 1959 Ker L T 829: AIR 1960 Ker 29 (30) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Taking thumb impression of accused—Legality.

It is implicit in the provisions contained in Art. 20 (3) that unless and until there is an element of compulsion there cannot be the infringement of that fundamental right.

Taking finger prints of an accused while he remains merely passive, is beyond the pale of the constitutional protection. But where the accused is made to give his finger prints under some form of duress, that would be hit by Art. 20 (3). AIR 1954 S C 300 Rel. on; AIR 1957 Madh Pra 106 and AIR 1957 Madh Pra 73, Disting. 1959 M P L J 1182: 1959 Jab L J 711 : 1960 M P C 203 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 411 (412) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Arts. 20 (3) and 13 — Testimonial compulsion — Direction to take thumb impression and specimen signature of accused — Legality — Section 2 (a) of M. B. Identification of Prisoners Act, if void—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 73).

Article 20 (3) is not confined to the oral evidence of an accused person at his trial in the Court room. It extends to any compulsory process by which the accused is asked to furnish evidence against him, through the lips or by production of a thing or of a document or in other modes. A direction by the Court asking the accused to give his thumb impression or specimen writing or signature amounts to asking him to furnish evidence, which is prohibited under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution.

Section 5 of the Madhya Bharat Identification of Prisoners Act, to the extent it empowers a Magistrate to direct an accused person to give his thumb impression, specimen writing and signature for comparison with other documents, to be used against the accused at the trial, is repugnant to Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution and void, and the direction made by the Magistrate to take thumb impression and specimen hand writing of the accused is illegal. AIR 1954 S C 300, Explained and Foll ; AIR 1956 Mad 632, Rel. on; AIR 1955 Cal 247, Diss. from; AIR 1956 Mad 165, AIR 1957 Mad 47, Disting. 1957 M P C 274 : 1957 M P L J 347 : 1957 Jab L J 631 : 1957 Cr L J 855 : ILR (1957) Madh Pra 236 : AIR 1957 Madh Pra 106 (107, 109) (Pt C) (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Compelled written testimony obtained prior to trial—(Telegraph Act (1885), S. 29).

The protection afforded to an accused by Art. 20(3) in so far as it is related to the phrase "to be a witness" is not merely in respect of testimonial compulsion in the Court room but may extend to compelled testimony previously obtained from him. In the course of the investigation of an offence alleged to have been committed by the accused under S. 29, Telegraph Act, the police took out an application alleged to have been written by the accused from the file of one of the cases pending before the Municipal Magistrate, and taking the accused to a Second Class Magistrate, made the accused copy out that application in the presence of the Magistrate. This writing was compared with the writing on the telegraph form by a handwriting expert. The expert, was of opinion that the telegram was in the handwriting of the accused.

Held, that what was sought by the prosecution was that the accused should furnish evidence to the Court; and the evidence which the accused was made to furnish must be overlooked and cannot be received in the case. AIR 1954 S C 300, Foll.; AIR 1956 Mad 632, Rel. on; AIR 1955 Cal 247; AIR 1957 Mad 47, Not. foll. 1957 M P C 329 : 1957 M P L J 465 : 1957 Jab L J 595 : AIR 1957 M P 73 (75) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Testimonial compulsion — What amounts to.

The thumb impression of the accused taken by the police on a slip of paper which was later on produced in Court cannot amount to testimonial compulsion and therefore is not hit by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. 1957 Cr L J 73 (2) : (1956) 2 Mad L J 427 : 1956 Mad W N 883 : AIR 1957 Mad 47 (48) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 20 (3)—Evidence Act (1872), S. 73 — Accused cannot be compelled to give his thumb impression —(Cr. P. Code, (1898), S. 342).

A direction by the Court asking the accused to give his thumb-impression amounts to asking him to furnish evidence which is prohibited under Art. 20 (3). The accused, therefore, cannot be compelled to give his thumb-impression as directed by the Magistrate. A I R 1954 S C 300, Foll. 68 M L W 738 : (1955) 2 M L J 468 : 1955 Mad W N 824 : 1955 All WR (Sup) 126 (1) : 1956 Cri L J 1333 : A I R 1956 Mad 632 (633) (Pr 2).

——Art. 20 (3)—Taking thumb impressions of accused — Legality.

The thumb impressions taken by the police during the course of the investigation can be produced in Court as evidence against the accused and the same does not amount to testimonial compulsion. Even if it is assumed that the Sub-Inspector of Police and the Daffedar compelled the accused to give their thumb impressions or forcibly took their impressions on the sheets of paper during the course of the investigation, it is not hit by Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution of India since it does not amount to testimonial compulsion. ILR (1957) Mys 177 : 1958 Mad L J (Cr) 341 : 36 Mys LJ 278 : 1958 Cr L J 1489 : AIR 1958 Mys 150 (181) (Pt M) (Pr 35) (DB).

● ——Art. 20 (3) —Compelling accused to be witness against himself—Direction by Magistrate to accused to give signature, specimen writing, thumb-impressions, etc., for comparison during course of investigation—Does not violate Art. 20 (3)— Direction given before taking cognizance—Direction is justified under S. 73, Evidence Act — Criminal Revn. 240 of 1960, dated 9th August, 1960 (Pat), Overruled : A I R 1961 S C 1808, Foll. Gulzarkhan v. State, 1962 (2) Cr L J 84 : 1962 B L J R 604 : AIR 1962 Pat 255 (257, 258) (Prs 7, 8) (FB).

——Art. 20 (3) —Scope—Direction to give specimen handwriting — Legality — Obtaining of specimen hand-writing and obtaining of thumb impression—Difference.

What Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution prohibits is the use of compulsion in order to obtain evidence against the accused by the act of the accused himself. It does not prohibit the securing of evidence by agencies other than the accused himself and by methods in which the co-operation of the accused is not necessary.

In obtaining specimen handwriting or signature, the co-operation of the accused is necessary. But it is not always for the purpose of finding evidence against the accused that such specimen may be used. A mere direction to the accused to give specimen handwriting or signature, does not by itself contravene the provision of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. Even where the accused has objected, the direction will not contravene the provisions of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution but no action will be taken to compel him to furnish such specimen. In respect of thumb-impressions different considerations arise. A I R 1955 Cal 247, Rel. on ; A I R 1957 Madh Pra 106, Disting. 1958 Raj L W 376 : ILR (1958) 8 Raj 856 : 1960 Cr L J 1000 : AIK 1960 Raj 184 (184, 185) (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

7. Evidence Act, S. 132 — Validity of.

——Art. 20 (3)—Witness called to witness box, sworn and questioned about relevant facts — Whether his obligation to state truth as a witness on oath can be equated with compulsion. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 132. 1963 (2) Cr L J 475 (Orissa).

——Art. 20 (3) —Scope—Evidence Act (1872), S. 132 —Companies Act (1913), S. 185—Proceedings under, against managing director —Criminal proceedings in respect of same subject matter also pending against managing director — Recording of evidence of managing director in proceedings under S. 185 — Adjournment of proceedings till after decision of criminal case in view of Art. 20 (3), if can be claimed by managing director —Managing director if 'compelled to be a witness against himself'.

Held, on facts that the respondent could not claim the privilege under Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution in proceedings under S. 185 of the Companies Act, 1913. Those proceedings did not partake of the character of criminal prosecution and he was not an accused person. He was not being subjected to a compulsion to make any statement and it was within his option to offer or not. As a witness, he could not claim protection beyond what was contained in the proviso to S. 132 of the Evidence Act. The appropriate time when the privilege could be claimed was after the question was put and not in advance of the examination. The privilege of silence was restricted to real dangers and not to remote possibilities. The protection against self-incrimination confines itself to a person accused of an offence and does not include the cases of witnesses. The privilege under Art. 20 (3) can also be waived by a person accused of an offence.

A witness has no privilege beyond the immunity conferred by S. 132 of the Evidence Act, but even if he has any, that privilege cannot be claimed and allowed before he takes his stand, and before the question, whether incriminatory or otherwise, is considered by the Court in the light of the surrounding circumstances. It has to be remembered that the privilege is in the nature of a prohibition against involuntary subjection to questions. The emphasis is on a compulsory disclosure of a guilt by an accused in a criminal matter and the right does not extend to a proceeding which does not involve punishment for the commission of a crime. 64 Punj L R 296 : ILR (1962) 1 Punj 468 : (1962) 32 Com Cas 125 : 1962 (1) Cr L J 451 : ILR (1962) 1 Punj 468 : AIR 1962 Punj 101 (107, 110) (Pt A) (Prs 17, 18, 34, 35, 36).

8. Unreasonable searches and seizure.

——Art. 20 (3) -Scope -Notice of reassessment under S. 11-A, C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act and also notice of prosecution —Seizure and detention of assessee's account books — Legality. See Sales Tax — C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act (21 of 1947), S. 24. ILR (1958) Bom 961.

9. Confessions of accused obtained under pressure.

● ——Art. 20 (3) —S. 27 of the Evidence Act (1872)— Validity — Self-incriminatory information given by accused without compulsion — S. 27, Evidence Act, does not infringe Art. 20 (3) in such case. State of Bombay v. Kathi Kalu Oghad, 1961 B L J R 840 : 1961 All L J 936 : 1961 All W R (H C) 736 : 1961 All Cr R 416 : (1962) 1 S C A 429 : 64 Bom L R 240 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 856 : (1931) 2 Ker L R 378 : 1961 Ker L T (S C) 74 : (1962) 3 S C R 10 : (1963) 1 S C J 195 : 1963 Madh L J (Cri) 97 : AIR 1961 S C 1808 (1815, 1816, 1820) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 36).

● ——Art. 20 (3) —Accused making statement while in police custody voluntarily.

An accused person cannot be said to have been compelled to be a witness against himself simply because he made a statement while in police custody, without anything more. The mere questioning of an accused person by a police officer, resulting in a voluntary statement, which may ultimately, turn out to be incriminatory, is not compulsion. State of Bombay v. Kathi Kalu, 1963 Mad L J (Cri) 97 : 1961 (2) Cri L J 856 : (1963) 2 Ker L R 378 : 1961 Ker L T (S C) 74 : 1961 B L J R 840 : 1961 All L J 936 : (1962) 3 S C R 10 : 1961 All W R (H C) 736 : (1962) 1 S C A 429 : 1961 All Cri R 416 : 64 Bom L R 240 : (1963) 1 S C J 195 ; AIR 1961 S C 1808 (1819, 1820) (Pt A) (Pr 32).

● ——Art. 20 (3) — Applicability — (Criminal P. C., S. 164).

Sub-clause (3) of Art. 20 does not apply at all to a case where the confession is made without any inducement, threat or promise. It is true that a retracted confession has only little value as the basis for a conviction, and that the confession of one accused is not evidence against co-accused tried jointly for the same offence, but can only be taken into consideration against him; but this deals with its probative value and has nothing to do with any repugnancy to the Constitution. Kalawati v. State of H. P., 1953 S C J 144: 1953 Cri L J 668 : 1953 S C R 546 : 1953 Mad W N 219 : 1953 S C A 660 : 1953 All W R (Sup) 52 : A I R 1953 S C 131 (132) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Voluntary confession or admission — If prohibited.

Clause (3) of Art. 20 imposes a ban against compelling a person accused of any offence to be a witness against himself. This ban is against compulsion; it does not forbid voluntary confession or admissions. If a person accused of an offence makes a confession or admission of guilt of his own accord and without any compulsion or coercion, his statement is admissible against him as proof of his guilt. A I R 1960 All 323 (329) (Pt B) (Pr 29).

● ——Art. 20 (3) -Scope — Ss. 161 and 162, Criminal P. C., do not conflict with Art. 20 (3) —S. 162 applies to and bars use of statements leading to discovery of facts -As under the section no witness can be compelled to give answers which may expose him to charges or to a penalty or forfeiture no investigating officer can compel an accused to be a witness against himself. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 161. 1960 Cri L J 1 : A I R 1960 All 1 (FB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Evidence Act (1872) S. 27 — Discoveries, result of compulsion —Admissibility—Effect of Art. 20 (3) — Meaning of 'to be a witness'. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 27. A I R 1958 All 293.

——Art 20 (3) —Applicability—Conditions.

The conditions requisite for the application of the provisions of Art. 20 (3) are : (1) that the person was accused of an offence, (2) that he was compelled to be a witness, and (3) that he was compelled to be a witness against himself.

Where on information conveyed to him by the village Mukhia the Sub Inspector of Police had already come and arrested the accused, and the facts of the case disclosed that the accused was compulsorily subjected to treatment which furnished evidence of discovery of the dead body at his instance.

Held, that the evidence of discovery of the dead body at the instance of the accused was hit by the provisions of Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution. 1957 Cri L J 431 : 1958 All L J 330 : 1957 All W R (HC) 114 : AIR 1957 All 197 (203) (Pt B) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) —Testimonial compulsion —Protection against—Extent of.

The protection against testimonial compulsion, so long as the fact discovered is the outcome of compulsion exercised on the accused extends to compelled testimony previously obtained outside Court and to its being deposed to in Court by any person other than the accused himself. A I R 1954 S C 300, Rel. on. 1957 Cri L J 431 : 1957 All L J 330 : 1957 All W R (HC) 114 : A I R 1957 All 197 (203) (Pt D) (Pr 26) (DB)

——Art. 20 (3) —Accused not to be compelled to produce incriminating evidence — Evidence of compulsion — No presumption — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 114)

The contention that the recovery of blood-stained articles from the box of the accused and the handing over of the karauli by the accused would amount to a compelled production of incriminating evidence and as such it amounts to an infringement of the fundamental right under Art. 20 (3) cannot be accepted, when there was not only no evidence that the accused was compelled to produce the incriminating articles, but there was not even a suggestion to that effect anywhere in the evidence or in the cross-examination of witnesses. No presumption of compulsion can be raised in every case where the admission of evidence has not been expressly excluded by statute such as Ss. 25 and 26 Evidence Act, which expressly exclude from evidence a confession made by the accused before the police. To assume compulsion in all cases where recovery of incriminating articles is made during the course of any investigation would be to brush aside a very strong circumstantial evidence, and this could not have been the intention of the framers of the Constitution in framing Art. 20 (3). A I R 1954 S C 300. Considered. 1955 Cri L J 898 : A I R 1955 All 367 (369) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope and effect of — Evidence admissible under S. 27, Evidence Act — When it is not barred under Art. 20 (3). See Evidence Act (1872), S. 27. 1957 Cri L J 1071 : A I R 1957 Andh Pra 611 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Statement leading to discovery, made involuntarily after interrogation by police, and admitted under S. 27 is hit by Art. 20 (3). 1960 All W R (Sup) 41 : 1960 All Cr R 264 : 1960 Cri L J 1429 : 1960 Nag L J 390 : ILR (1960) Bom 664 : A I R 1960 Bom 488 (489, 490) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 20 (3)—Testimonial compulsion—Evidence Act (1872), S. 27 — Statement by accused in police custody admitted in evidence under S. 27 — Fact of prolonged interrogation by police not enough to attract Art. 20 (3).

So far as statements admitted under S. 27, Evidence Act, are concerned, there must have been 'compulsion' of the accused concerned, to make Art. 20 (3) applicable. Mere repeated and prolonged questioning of the accused by the police, resulting in a voluntary statement which has ultimately turned out to be incriminatory, is not 'compulsion', so as to attract Art. 20 (3) to the statement. A I R 1961 S C 1808, Rel. on ; A I R 1960 Bom 488, held impliedly overruled by S C decision. (1963) 4 Guj L R 543 : 1963 (2) Cri L J 16 : A I R 1963 Guj 159 (160) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3)—S. 27, Evidence Act—Validity.

The information furnished by an accused person after his arrest to the Investigating Officer which leads to the discovery of articles under S. 27 of the Evidence Act is admissible in evidence and does not in any way offend Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution of India. Section 27 of the Evidence Act is not repugnant to Art. 20 (3) of the Constitution of India and does not stand abrogated by Art. 13 of the Constitution of India. 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 341 : I L R (1957) Mys 177 : 36 Mys L J 278 : 1958 Cri L J 1489 : A I R 1958 Mys 150 (170) (Pt I) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope—Testimonial compulsion — Statement by accused — No evidence to show that he was compelled by police to throw stone - Effect. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 27. 1959 Cri L J 353 : A I R 1959 Orissa 33 (DB).

——Art. 20 (3) — Scope — Evidence leading to discovery—No compulsion by police—Evidence not hit by Art. 20 (3). See Evidence Act (1872), S. 27. 1960 Cri L J 847 : A I R 1960 Punj 294.

——Art. 20 — Evidence Act (1872), S. 27 — Scope — Section not repugnant to Art. 20 (3) — Information leading to discovery—Presumption. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 27. A I R 1955 Raj 147.

ARTICLE 21

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Art. 21).

1. Scope of the Article.
   (a). Power of Court under the article.
2. "Life".
3. "Deprivation" of personal liberty.
4. This Article and Art. 19.
   (a). Laws affecting personal liberty — Court's power to question their validity under Art. 19.
   (b) "Personal liberty".
5. This Article and Art. 22.
6. "Procedure established by law."
   (a) Illustrative cases.
7. Preventive detention.

1. Scope of the Article.

(a). Power of Court under the article.

1. Scope of the Article.

● ——Art. 21 — Privileges of Legislature—Power of Legislature to commit citizen for contempt on general warrant — Whether such power is subject to Art. 21. See Ibid, Art. 194 (3). AIR 1965 S C 745.

● ——Art. 21—Validity of Defence of India Act and Rules cannot be questioned on ground of violation of fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 21, 22, during operation of Presidential order under Art. 359—See Ibid, Art. 359. 1964 (1) Cri L J 269 : AIR 1964 S C 381.

● ——Art. 21 — Presidential Order suspending enforcement of rights under Arts. 14, 21 and 22 during period of emergency — By indirectly validating laws in infringement of Arts. 14, 21 and 22, the Order does not become a fraud on powers under Art. 359. See Ibid, Art. 359 (1). AIR 1964 S C 381.

● ——Art. 21 — Validity of Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisements) Act (1954), S. 8 —Contravenes Arts. 21 and 31 of the Constitution—Held invalid. See Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisements) Act (1954), S. 8. 1960 Cri L J 735 : AIR 1960 S C 554.

● ——Arts 21 and 32 — Right to personal liberty—Violation of by private individual — Remedy under Art. 32, if available.

Violation of the right to personal liberty by a private individual is not within the purview of Art. 21. Therefore a person whose right to personal liberty is infringed by a private individual must seek his remedy under the ordinary law and not under Art. 32. Smt. Vidya Verma v. Dr. Shiv Narain Verma, 1956 Cri L J 283 : 1956 All W R (H C) 168 : 1956 Nag L J 200 : 1956 All L J 156 : 1956 S C A 357 : 1956 B L J R 133 : (1955) 2 S C R 983 : (1956) S C J 121 : AIR 1956 S C 108 (109) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 21 — Provision made in, by constitution —Protection against infringements by executive or individuals.

Per Patanjali Sastri J. — It is a misconception to think that constitutional safeguards are directed against individuals. They are as a rule directed against the State and its organs. Protection against violation of the rights by individuals must be sought in the ordinary law. Article 21 is not designed to afford protection against infringements by the executive or individuals. The insertion of a declaration of Fundamental Rights in the forefront of the Constitution, coupled with an express prohibition against legislative interference with these rights (Art. 13) and the provision of a constitutional sanction for the enforcement of such non-interference by means of a judicial review (Art. 32), is a clear and emphatic indication that these rights are to be paramount to ordinary State-made laws. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (74) (Pt U) (Pr 115).

——Art. 21—Drugs Act (1940), S. 25—Constitutional validity—Procedure prescribed by S. 25 preserved the basic right of accused to defend himself and hence does not contravene Art. 21 of the Constitution — But strict adherence to that procedure is necessary. See Drugs Act (1940), S. 25. 1958 Cr L J 1453 : AIR 1958 All 865.

——Art. 21 — Scope — Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 537 — If void as contravening Art. 21—(Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 537).

Article 21 is not intended to be a constitutional limitation upon the powers of the Legislature otherwise conferred by the Constitution. Its object is simply to serve as a restraint upon the executive so that it may not proceed against the life or personal liberty of an individual, save under the authority of some law and in conformity with the procedure laid thereunder. There is nothing in the Constitution which provides that the Legislature has got no power to make provision if some irregularity is committed in the procedure laid down for the trial. In absence of any such limitation it was open to the Legislature to enact S. 537, Cr. P. Code, and provide therein that in case of certain irregularities the trial should not be vitiated if there is no prejudice to the accused. What the Constitution has guaranteed under Art. 21 is that no person shall be deprived of his life and personal liberty except in accordance with the provisions of law. S. 537, Cr. P. Code does not in any way contravene Art. 21 of the Constitution and is perfectly valid. 1956 All L J 748 : AIR 1956 All 462 (463) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 21 and 22—Contravention of—(Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 7).

Where a person is arrested in enforcement of the direction in an order under S. 7 of the Act (23 of 1949) for the purpose of removal from India and he is informed of the order of the Government at the time of the arrest, Arts. 21 and 22 of the Constitution are not violated as Art. 21 does not apply to the case and as there is a substantial compliance with the provisions of Art. 22. Cr. Appln. No. 706 of 1951 (Bom) and AIR 1951 All 257, Rel. on. 1954 Cr L J 602 : AIR 1954 Bhopal 9 (16) (Pt J) (Prs 44, 45).

——Arts. 21 and 31 (1) — The principle had been enshrined as the "fundamental rights" of a person, in two articles, namely Art. 21, relating to life and personal liberty and Art. 31 (1), relating to property. No logic was, required to assert that confiscation of goods seized from possession of a person was deprivation of his property within the meaning of Art. 31 (1) AIR 1956 SC 17 and AIR 1954 SC 415, Rel. on. 68 Cal WN 383 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 477 : AIR 1965 Cal 507 (515) (Pr 38) (DB).

● ——Arts. 21 and 22—Arts. 21 and 22 do not exempt members of either House of Legislature and apply to all. See Ibid, Art. 105. AIR 1952 Cal 632 (SB).

● ——Art. 21—Mysore Special Criminal Courts Act (24 of 1942) whether offends the provisions of this Article and is therefore void. See Mysore Special Criminal Courts Act (24 of 1942). AIR 1951 Mys 72 (FB).

——Art. 21—Validity of Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act, 1949 — Act whether consistent with provisions of Art. 21. See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), S. 1. AIR 1954 Punj 145 (DB).

1 (a). Power of Court under the article.

● ——Art. 21 — Ordinance prescribing special procedure for trial of offence — Constitutional validity of, whether can be questioned by Courts otherwise than under this article. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1952 S C 123.

● ——Arts. 21, 22—Scope—Duty of Court in interpreting the Articles.

Per Bose J.—Arts. 21 and 22 confer a fundamental right and give a fundamental guarantee. It is therefore the duty of the Court to see that the right is kept fundamental and that the fullest scope is given to the guarantee. It is the duty of the Court to ensure that the right and the guarantee are not rendered illusory and meaningless. Therefore, wherever there is a scope for difference of opinion on a matter of interpretation in this behalf, the interpretation which favours the subject must always be used because the right has been conferred upon him and it is the right which has been made fundamental, not the fetters and limitations with which it may be circumscribed by legislative action. Krishnan v. State of Madras, 1951-2 Mad L J 105 : 1951 S C J 453 : 52 Cri L J 1103 : 64 Mad L W 945 : 1951 S C R 621 : AIR 1951 S C 301 (309) (Pt H) (Pr 43).

——Art. 21—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 151—Discretion of police — High Court can go into the matter. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 151. 1965 (1) Cri L J 413 : A I R 1965 All 161.

——Art. 21 — Personal liberty — Deprivation of — Duty of High Court — (Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), S. 30).

Unless some provision of a valid substantive law empowers the authority concerned, no citizen can be deprived of his personal liberty, and the High Court has been entrusted by the Constitution with the responsible task of jeolously checking breaches of the said rule.

The warrant of arrest issued against a displaced person, before the amendment of 1959 of the Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act was for the amount due on account of land revenue and purported to have been issued under S. 69, Punjab Land Revenue Act. The record showed that this amount consisted of various items including taccavi loans for which no warrant of arrest could be issued under S. 30 of the Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act.

Held, that the warrant of arrest was liable to be quashed. A I R 1960 Punj 155 (156, 157) (Pr 3).

2. "Life".

● ——Art. 21—'Life' and 'personal liberty'.

Per Majority.—The word 'life' in Art 21 means not merely the right to the continuance of a person's animal existence, but a right to the possession of each of his organs—his arms and legs, etc.

Per Subba Rao and Shah, JJ.—The right of personal liberty in Art. 21 may be defined as a right of an individual to be free from restrictions or encroachments on his person, whether those restrictions or encroachments are directly imposed or indirectly brought about by calculated measures. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cri L J 329 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : A I R 1963 S C 1295 (1302, 1306) (Pt I) (Prs 17, 31).

● ——Art. 21 — Supreme Court Rules (1950), O. 4-A, R. 24 — Rule 24 is not discriminatory so far as the precincts of Supreme Court are concerned and does not infringe Art. 14 of Constitution — So also it does not infringe Arts. 19 and 21 — It is in interest of general public to exclude touts from precincts of Supreme Court—Word 'life' in Art. 21 does not include livelihood. See Supreme Court Rules, O. 4-A, R. 24. AIR 1960 S C 932.

● ——Art. 21—Right to live.

The right to live, though the most fundamental of all, is also one of the most difficult to define and its protection generally takes the form of a declaration that no person shall be deprived of it save by due process of law or by authority of law. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950-2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 Mad W N 495 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (71) (Pt Z) (Pr 106).

3. "Deprivation" of personal liberty.

● ——Art. 21—U. P. Police Regulations, Regn. 236, Cl. (a)—Secret picketing of house of suspect — Personal liberty of suspect how far affected or prejudiced.

Per Majority —In respect of the provision contained in Cl. (a) of Regn. 236 of the U. P. Police Regulations, namely, secret picketing of the houses of suspects, there is no substance in the submission, that if the suspect does come to know that his house is being subjected to picketing, that might affect his inclination to move about or that in any event it would prejudice his 'personal liberty'. In dealing with a fundamental right such as the right to free movement or personal liberty, that only can constitute an infringement which is both direct as well as tangible.

Per Subba Rao and Shah, JJ. — The scientific methods used to condition a man's mind are in a real sense physical restraints, for they engender physical fear channelling one's actions through anticipated and expected grooves. So also the creation of conditions which necessarily engender inhibitions and fear complexes can be described as physical restraints. Further, the right to personal liberty takes in not only a right to be free from restrictions placed on his movements, but also free from encroachments on his private life. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., 1963 All L J 711 : 1963 (2) Cri L J 329 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : A I R 1963 S C 1295 (1300, 1305, 1306) (Pt C) (Prs 11, 31).

● ——Art. 21 — "Deprivation" of personal liberty whether includes restriction on movement. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (d). A I R 1950 S C 27.

——Art. 21 — Hindu Marriage Act (1955), Ss. 13 (1) (iv), 21 — Court has no power under Civil P. C. or Evidence Act or under Hindu Marriage Act to compel party to undergo medical examination — Medical examination even by mere questioning would be interference with personal liberty as much as the drawing of blood or personal examination of the body would be. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), S. 13 (1) (iv). A I R 1963 Guj 250.

——Art. 21 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 497 — Bail given on Saturday — Release of prisoner on Monday —Detention continued on Sunday is illegal.

When a bail order releasing a prisoner is passed, the order must be given immediate effect. Where the arrested person has furnished the required sureties or is prepared to sign the bail bond there is no reason for detaining him longer than absolutely necesssry and the detention on Sunday and his release on Monday is quite against the order of a Court granting bail on Saturday and is illegal. (1956) 1 Mad L J 469 : 1956 Mad W N 197 : A I R 1956 Mad 639 (639) (Pr 3).

4. This Article and Art. 19.

(a). Laws affecting personal liberty — Court's power to question their validity under Art. 19.

(b). "Personal liberty".

4. This Article and Art. 19.

● ——Arts. 21 and 19—Law which authorises deprivation of personal liberty does not fall within purview of Art. 19 — Its validity depends on its compliance with requirements of Art. 21 and Art. 22. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1951 S C 270 (SC).

● ——Art. 21 — Right to life and personal liberty whether absolute — Limits on fundamental rights provided for in Arts. 19, 21 and 22.

Per Das, J.—Article 21 gives protection to life and personal liberty to the extent therein mentioned. It does not recognise the right to life and personal liberty as an absolute right but delimits the ambit and scope of the right itself. The absolute right is by the definition in that article cut down by the risk of its being taken away in accordance with procedure established by law. It is this circumscribed right which is substantively protected by Art. 21 as against the executive as well as the Legislature, for the Constitution has conditioned its deprivation by the necessity for a procedure established by law made by itself. While sub-cls. (2) to (6) of Art. 19 have put a limit on the fundamental rights of a citizen, articles 21 and 22 have put a limit on the power of the State given under Art. 246 read with the legislative lists. Under the Constitution the life and personal liberty are balanced by restrictions on the rights of the citizens as laid down in Art. 19 and by the checks put upon the State by Arts. 21 and 22. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (120) (Pt V) (Pr 242).

● ——Arts. 21 and 19—Constitution, recognition by, of personal liberties. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1950 S C 27.

● ——Art. 21 — Interpretation of — Article 19 gives list of individual liberties while Arts. 20-22 primarily deal with penal or other laws. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1950 S C 27.

● ——Art. 21 — Article 19 is a separate complete article.

It is improper to read Art. 19 as dealing with the same subject as Art. 21. The protection given by Art. 21 is very general. It is of "law". The legislative restrictions on the law-making powers of the Legislature are not prescribed in detail as in the case of rights specified in Art. 19. Therefore Art. 19 should be read as a separate complete article. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (37) (Pt N) (Pr 12).

● ——Arts. 21 and 19 — Articles 21 and 19 are not complementary to each other. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1950 S C 27.

——Arts. 21 and 19—Article 19 (1) (d) whether controlled by this article. See Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 13 (5), Proviso. A I R 1962 Guj 44 (DB).

——Arts. 21 and 19—Scope of this article and Art. 19 —Effect of this article — "Procedure established by law," meaning of—Deprivation of personal liberty involved in detention under Preventive Detention Act—Arts. 21 and 22 and not Art. 19 deals with the matter —Detention Act not in contravention of these Articles is not void under Art. 13 (2)—Person undergoing trial for substantive offence or convicted—Order for his detention is not illegal. See Preventive Detention Act. ILR 29 Pat 502

● ——Arts. 21 and 19 — Provisions of Art. 19 are subject to provisions of Art. 21. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1952 Punj 309 (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 10.]

4 (a). Laws affecting personal liberty— Court's power to question their validity under Art. 19.

● ——Arts. 21 and 19—Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), Preamble—Act is not inconsistent with Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) and Art. 21 See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (65 of 1949), Preamble. 1952 S C J 664 : AIR 1953 S C 10.

——Arts. 21 and 19—Deprivation of personal liberty under Statute by preventive or punitive detention—Constitutionality of Statute if can be challenged on ground of infringement of Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1955 All 193 (DB).

——Arts. 21 and 19—Externment under S. 17, Assam Opium Prohibition Act falling within scope of Art. 21 —It would be open to citizen to contend that impugned legislation should be examined in light of tests laid down by Art. 19 (5) — See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1951 Assam 106 (DB).

4 (b). "Personal liberty."

● —Arts. 21 and 19 (1) (d) — U. P. Police Regulations, Reg. 236. cl. (b) – Domiciliary visits – Meaning of — Such visits do not affect fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (d) but they affect personal liberty contemplated by Art. 21. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (d). AIR 1963 S C 1295.

● —Arts. 21 and 19 (1) (d) — Freedom of movement and personal liberty—Scope of these provisions —Their relation inter se — "Personal liberty," meaning of. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (d). A I R 1963 S C 1295.

● —Arts. 21 and 19 (1) (d) — U. P. Police Regulations, Reg. 236, cls. (c), (d) and (e) — Keeping watch on movements — No invasion of the freedom guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (d)— Art. 21 does not also apply to the case. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (d). AIR 1963 S C 1295.

● —Art. 21— Per Subba Rao and Shah JJ. (in their concurring judgment)—The right of personal liberty in Art. 21 may be defined as the right of an individual to be free from restrictions or encroachments on his person whether those restrictions or encroachments are directly imposed or indirectly brought about by calculated measures. Kharak Singh v. State of U. P., 1963 (2) Cri L J 329 : 1963 All L J 711 : (1964) 2 S C J 107 : (1964) 1 S C R 332 : AIR 1963 S C 1295 (1305, 1306) (Pt I) (Pr 31).

● —Art. 21 — "Personal liberty" connotation. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1950 S C 27.

● —Art. 21—"Personal liberty," meaning of.

Per Fazl Ali, J.—The expressions 'personal liberty' and 'personal freedom' have a wider meaning and also a narrower meaning. In the wider sense, they include not only immunity from arrest and detention but also freedom of speech, freedom of association, etc. In the narrow sense, they mean immunity from arrest and detention. The juristic conception of 'personal liberty,' when these words are used in the sense of immunity from arrest, is that it consists in freedom of movement and locomotion.

Per Patanjali Sastri J. — Whatever may be the generally accepted connotation of the expression "personal liberty", it is used in Art. 21 in a sense which excludes the freedoms dealt with in Art. 19. Thus personal liberty in the context of Part III of the Constitution is something distinct from the freedom to move freely throughout the territory of India.

Per B K. Mukherjea, J. — In ordinary language 'personal liberty' means liberty relating to or concerning the person or body of the individual and 'personal liberty' in this sense is the antithesis of physical restraint or coercion. 'Personal liberty' means a personal right not to be subjected to imprisonment arrest or other physical coercion in any manner that does not admit of legal justification. This negative right of not being subjected to any form of physical restraint or coercion constitutes the essence of personal liberty and not mere freedom to move to any part of the Indian territory. In the Indian Constitution the expression 'personal liberty' has been deliberately used to restrict it to freedom from physical restraint of a person by incarceration or otherwise. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (53, 70, 96, 97) (Pt W) (Prs 59, 105, 177, 178).

—Art. 21—Passport Act (1920), S. 3 — Expression 'personal liberty' in Art. 21—Includes freedom of Indian citizen to go abroad—Restriction on re-entry without passport—Implies right to obtain passport—Union cannot refuse to issue it in absence of any law to the contrary.

The compendious expression 'personal liberty' used in Art. 21 includes in its ambit the right to go abroad; and a person cannot be deprived of this right except according to procedure established by law as laid down in Art. 21. A I R 1950 S C 27 and AIR 1963 S C 1295 and (1958) 357 U S 116, Rel. on. Thus Art. 21 recognises and protects the right of every citizen to personal liberty, of which he cannot be deprived 'except according to procedure established by law' In the absence of any law to the contrary, an Indian citizen has a right to obtain a passport which is necessary for the exercise of his right to go abroad, which right is clearly a part of the personal liberty. 67 Bom L R 544 : 1965 Mah L J 834 : AIR 1966 Bom 54 (60, 64) (It D) (Prs 19, 32).

5. This Article and Art. 22

● —Art. 21 — Article whether supplemental or exclusive.

Art. 21 has to be read as supplemented by Art. 22. The proper mode of construction will be that to the extent the procedure is prescribed by Art. 22 the same is to be observed; otherwise Art. 21 will apply. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 AIR 1950 S C 27 (40, 41) (Pt ZC) (Pr 22.)

6. "Procedure established by law."

(a) Illustrative cases.

6. "Procedure established by law."

● —Art. 21—'Law'—Meaning—Principles of natural justice not covered—Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), S. 4—Not unconstitutional as S. 4 lays down 'procedure established by law' within Art. 21.

The word 'law' in Art. 21 refers to law made by the State and not to positive law or law in the abstract sense. 'Procedure established by law' means procedure established by law made by the State, that is to say, by the Union Parliament or the Legislatures of the States. S. 4 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947, has been enacted by Parliament and, therefore, it must be held that what it lays down is a procedure established by law. The constitutionality of S. 4, therefore, cannot be questioned on the ground that it went against the provisions of Art. 21 of the Constitution. A I R 1950 S C 27, Rel. on. Ram Chandra Prasad v. State of Bihar. 1961 (2) Cr L J 811 : 1961 All W R (H C) 721 : 1961 All Cr R 409 : 1961 S C D 928 : (1962) 1 S C A 661 : (1962) 2 S C J 13 : 1962 Mad L J (Cri) 392 : (1962) 2 S C R 50 : AIR 1961 S C 1629 (1630, 1631) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

● —Art. 21—'Law' — Meaning of. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1960 S C 1080.

● —Arts. 21 and 22 — "Procedure established by law"—Meaning of — Madras Revenue Recovery Act, S. 48 — Income-tax Act, S. 46 (2) — Arrest and imprisonment of defaulter—If contravention of Arts. 21 and 22 — Validity of S. 46 (2) and S. 48 of Madras Act. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2). AIR 1957 S C 688.

● —Arts. 21 and 20 (2)—Action of Jail Superintendent—Procedure established by law— (Punjab Communist Detenus Rules (1950), R. 41).

The scheme of Rule 41 is to constitute the Jail Superintendent only an administrative authority to maintain jail discipline and inflict summary punishment on the detenus for breach of that discipline by committing a jail offence. It is only when the jail Superintendent considers that the offence is not dequately punishable by him that he can send the case to the Magistrate. If he actually himself punishes he cannot under this rule refer the case again to the Magistrate. A reference by him after punishment will be wholly unauthorised and without jurisdiction and the prosecution before the Magistrate would be illegal and not in accordance with procedure established by law. Maqbool Hussain v. State of Bombay. (1953) S C J 456 : (1953) 2 M L J 113 : 1955 Cr L J 1432 : 1953 All W R (Sup) 84 : 1953 S C R 730 : 56 Bom L R 13 : 1953 S C A 641 : 1953 Mad W N 648 : AIR 1953 S C 325 (331, 332) (Pt D) (Prs 22, 24).

● ——Art. 21 — "Procedure established by law"— Meaning — Prqcedure under S. 12 of Preventive Detention (Amendment) Act, (1951), S. 12 – Validity.

The expression 'Procedure established by Law' means procedure prescribed by law. It is open to Parliament to change the procedure prescribed by S. 12 of Act 4 of 1950 by enacting a law & that procedure becomes the procedure established by law within the meaning of that expiession in Art. 21 of the Constitution. Thus, where the detention of the petitioners is by virtue of S. 12 of the amended Act, a new detention under the amended Act, the procedure prescribed by the amended Act is the procedure established by law within the meaning of Art. 21. Krishnan v. State of Madras. 1951-2 Mad L J 105 : 1951 S C J 453 : 52 Cri L J 1103 : 64 Mad L W 945 : 1951 S C R 621 : A I R 1951 S C 301 (308) (Pt G) (Pr 27).

● ——Art. 21—"Procedure established by law."

Per Kania C. J.; Patanjali Sastri ; B. K. Mukherjea and Das JJ. -"Procedure established by law" means procedure prescribed by the law of the State. These words are to be taken to refer to a procedure which has a statutory origin, for no procedure is known or can be said to have been established by such vague and uncertain concepts as "the immutable and universal principles of natural justice." A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (39, 60, 72, 103, 114) (Pt Y) (Prs 18, 77, 109, 196, 228).

● ——Art. 21—"Procedure" meaning of.

Per Patanjali Sastri J. — Article 21 presents an example of the fusion of procedural and substantive rights in the same provision. The right to live though the most fundamental of all, is also one of the most difficult to define and its protection generally takes the form of a declaration that no person shall be deprived of it save by due process of law or by authority of law. "Process" or "procedure" in this context connotes both the act and the manner of proceeding to take away a man's life or personal liberty.

Per B. K. Mukherjea J. — On a plain reading of Art. 21, the meaning seems to be that you cannot deprive a man of his personal liberty unless you follow and act according to the law which provides for deprivation of such liberty. The expression 'procedure' means the manner and form of enforcing the law.

Per Das J.— The word 'procedure' in Art. 21 must be taken to signify some step or method or manner of proceeding leading up to the deprivation of life or personal liberty. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (71, 97, 98, 114) (Pt Z) (Prs 106, 180, 228).

● ——Art. 21—"Established," meaning of.

Per Kania C. J. — The word 'established' itself suggests an agency which fixes the limits. This agency can be either the Legislature or an agreement between the parties.

Per B. K. Mukherjea J. — The word 'established' ordinarily means 'fixed or laid down' and if 'law' means not any particular piece of law but the indefinite and indefinable principles of natural justice which underlie positive systems of law, it would not at all be appropriate to use the expression 'established' for natural law or natural justice cannot establish anything like a definite procedure A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cr L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (39, 102) (Pt Za) (Prs 189, 192).

● ——Art. 21—"Law" meaning of.

Per Kania C. J.; Patanjali Sastri; B. K. Mukherjea and Das JJ. — The word "law" in Art. 21 has not been used in the sense of "general law" connoting what has been described as the principles of natural justice outside the realm of positive law. "Law" in that article is equivalent to State-made law. A K. Gopalan v. State of Madras. 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (39, 60, 72, 102) (Pt Zb) (Prs 18, 77, 109, 193).

——Art. 21—Deprivation of personal liberty — Procedure established by law must be followed.

There is no arbitrary power in the executive or Police authority either to detain or punish a person except for violation of law. Once a person is arrested and detained, the executive has to justify its action in the sense that the detention is either for violation of some law or for preventive purpose, as prescribed by law. In both the cases, the justification for detention has to be only under the authority of law. It is an established principle that before a person is deprived of his liberty the procedure established by law must be strictly followed and must not be departed from to the disadvantage of the person affected. AIR 1931 P C 248 and (1947) 1 All E R 567 and A I R 1963 All 4 Rel. on. 1963 All W R (HC) 760 : 1963 All Cri R 460 : 1965 (1) Cr L J 413 : A I R 1965 All 161 (165, 166) (Pt E) (Pr 15).

——Art. 21—"Established by law."

It is not for the Court to question the wisdom and policy of the Constitution ; and by adopting the phrase "established by law" in preference to "due process of law" the Constitution gave the Legislature the final right to determine a law when acting within the jurisdiction assigned to it. A I R 1954 All 161 (162) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 21 — Validity of S. 7, Police Act (1861)— Result of it being saved by Art. 19 (5) — Meaning of the phrase "Procedure established by law." See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (j). AIR 1954 Cal 60.

——Art. 21— Bengal Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act (6 of 1933), S. 13—Words "procedure established by law" in Art. 21 refer to any enactment which is not repugnant to Constitution — Hence Bengal Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act is attracted by Art. 21 — There is, however, nothing in Act which infringes Art. 21. 57 Cal W N 507 : 1953 Cri L J 1187 : AIR 1953 Cal 522 (524) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

—Art. 21—(Hyderabad) Special Tribunals Regulation (5 of 1358 Fasli)—Expression "procedure established by law" in Art. 21 must mean procedure prescribed by law of State — Hence trial by Special Tribunal under Hyderabad Special Tribunals Regulation does not infiringe Art. 21. I L R 1951 Hyd 895 : AIR 1953 Hyd 145 (149) (Pt A) (Pr 14a).

——Arts. 21, 14 and Sch. 7, List 2, Items 54, 64 — Madras General Sales Tax Act (1939), S. 16-A — Validity — Section is intra vires State Legislature — Does not contravene Art. 14 or 21 of Constitution, or Criminal P. C. — Defences allowed in trial under S. 16-A — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 5 (2)) — 1937-1 Mad L J 274; AIR 1937 Mad 291 : 38 Cri L J 464 and 1946-2 Mad L J 461; A I R 1947 Mad 321 ; 48 Cri L J 401 and 1947-1 Mad L J 317; A I R 1947 Mad 397 : 60 Mad L W 298 and ILR (1955) Mad 184: A I R 1954 Mad 833 : 1954 Cri L J 1267, Overruled. See Sales Tax — Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 16-A. AIR 1958 Mad 544.

——Arts. 21, 22—Scope.

The general principle that personal liberty shall not be deprived except according to the procedure established by law had been clarified and crystallized by Art. 21. Whereas the deprivation of life or personal liberty in future can be done only in accordance with the procedure established by law, that is, by legislative enactments passed either by the Parliament or by the State Legislatures in accordance with the division of functions elaborated in the seventh schedule, in so far as preventive detention is concerned, Art. 22 prescribes what ought to be the procedure established by law. 1952 Cri L J 170 : A I R 1951 Mad 1015 (1022) (Pt G) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 21—"Procedure established by Law."

Per Govinda Menon, J.—The expression "according to procedure established by law" means a procedure fixed in accordance with legislative enactment passed by the Parliament or the State Legislature which does not offend or is not revolting to notions and ideas of dignity of the human being and is neither indecent, unconscionable or repugnant to civilized beliefs. 1952 Cri L J 170: AIR 1951 Mad 1015 (1025) (Pt H) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Arts. 21 and 22 — Letter of Ministry of State, New Delhi to Chief Commissioner, Manipur, inconsistent with Criminal Law (Amendment) Act (1952) —Validity — (Penal Code (1860), S. 165(A)) — (Criminal Law Amendment Act (1952), Ss 6 and 7).

Any law or provision of law which affects the personal liberty and is inconsistent with Arts. 21 and 22 of the Constitution of India, is void to that extent.

In view of the provisions of Arts. 21 and 22, the demi-official letter dated 21st September 1954 from the Ministry of States, New Delhi, to the Chief Commissioner, Manipur, which is inconsistent with the provisions of the Criminal Law Amendment Act (1952) cannot be legally operative and binding and it cannot confer jurisdiction on the Extra Assistant Commissioner to try the case under S. 165-A, Penal Code. 1956 Cri L J 249 : A I R 1956 Manipur 9 (11) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

●——Art. 21 — Procedure established by law — Meaning.

In Art. 21 in the expression 'procedure established by law' the word 'procedure' is not used in its technical sense indicating a particular law as contained in the Civil or Criminal Procedure Codes but is employed in a general sense to mean the steps to be taken in an orderly trial. There is neither vested right to any particular form of trial or procedure, nor to a right of appeal; they being the creation of the Statute should be governed by the Statute with which a particular offender is tried. The expression "procedure established by law" means the law of the land having statutory origin. Abdul Khader v. State, 52 Cri LJ 992: I L R (1951) Mys 284: AIR 1951 Mys 72 (85) (Pt H) (Pr 38) (FB).

——Art. 21—Procedure established by law — Meaning of.

"Law" in the expression "procedure established by law" in Art. 21 of the Constitution means State-made or enacted law and not the general principles of natural justice. "Procedure established by law" thus means procedure prescribed by the legislature. I L R (1952) Nag 14; 1952 Nag L J 300; 1952 Cri L J 646: A I R 1952 Nag 118 (122) (Pt A) (Prs 19, 21, 22) (DB).

●—— Art. 21—Procedure established by law—Meaning of.

The expression 'procedure established by law' in Art. 21 contemplates a procedure which was followed by the various High Courts prior to the passing of the Indian Constitution and includes summary procedure based on fairness and justice without the trammels of technicality and there is nothing invalid in the practice and procedure followed in matters of contempt on account of Art. 21 of the Constitution. AIR 1959 Bom 182, Foll. Basanta Chandra Ghosh, In the matter of, 1960 Cri L J 125 : I L R 39 Pat 415 : 1960 B L J R 622 : A I R 1960 Pat 430 (440) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (FB).

●——Arts. 21 and 22 — "Procedure established by law" — Meaning of — Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949)—Validity.

(Per Khosla J.): The 'procedure' means procedure laid down by law or the procedure prescribed by Art. 22. There is nothing inconsistent in the Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act which is contrary to the provisions of Art. 21. The procedure governing the recovery and restoration of abducted women is set out in an Act of Parliament and as long as this procedure is consistent with Art. 22 it must be held to be valid and lawful. A I R 1950 S C 27, Foll. Ajaib Singh v State of Punjab, 54 Pun L R 260; I L R (1952) Punj 381 : 1952 Cri L J 1313; AIR 1952 Punj 309 (334) (Pt G) (Pr 151) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 10.],

●——Arts. 21 and 22—Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949)—Validity.

(Per Khosla, J): The entire procedure under the Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act is not unjust or improper. The case is examined by a tribunal consisting of a Superintendent of Police of India and a Superintendent of Police from Pakistan who may be expected to deal with the question of the abducted persons' status justly and impartially. There is nothing fundamentally wrong or improper in entrusting the decision of this question to a tribunal of this nature, and the prohibition in regard to interference by Law Courts is not by itself contrary to the principles of natural justice. Apart from the conflict with Art. 22 there is nothing unreasonable in the procedure laid down under the Act for the recovery and restoration of abducted women. AIR 1952 S C 198, Ref. Ajaib Singh v. State of Punjab, 54 Pun L R 260 : 1952 Cri L J 1313 : ILR (1952) Punj 381 : AIR 1952 Punj 309 (334-335) (Pt H) (Pr 153) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 10.]

——Art. 21—Necessity to follow procedure strictly.

It cannot be too often emphasised that before a person is deprived of his personal liberty the procedure established by law must be strictly followed and must not be departed from to the disadvantage of the person affected. 1955 Cri L J 95 : 1955 Raj L W

75: ILR (1954) 4 Raj 51: AIR 1955 Raj 6 (10) (Pt G) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 21 — "Law" — Extradition treaty between Dholpur State and British Government — Validity of detention under that treaty. See Ibid, Art. 372. A I R 1951 Raj 127 (DB).

6 (a). Illustrative cases.

● —— Arts. 21, 19 — United State of Gwalior, Indore and Malwa (Madhya Bharat) Gambling Act Samvat 2006 (51 of 1949) (Samvat 2006), Ss. 6 and 8 — Sections are constitutionally valid — Hence the curtailment of liberty under that Act would not be except according to law and thus there is no breach of Art. 21. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1965 S C 307.

● —— Arts. 21 and 19 (1) (d) — U. P. Police Regulations, Regn. 236, Cl. (b) — Regn. 236, Cl. (b) is not justifiable on the basis of any law—Hence it is violative of Art. 21 and invalid. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (d). AIR 1963 S C 1295.

● ——Art. 21—Deprivation of personal liberty—Rules framed by Bihar Legislative Assembly under Art. 208 for enforcing its powers, privileges and immunities—Deprivation of personal liberty as a result of proceedings held in accordance therewith before committee of privileges is one in accordance with procedure established by law. See Ibid, Art. 194. AIR 1959 S C 395.

● — Art. 21—Arrest and detention for recovery of arrears of tax—Validity—Does not contravene Art. 21 as S. 46 (2) of the Income tax Act and S. 13 of the Bombay City Land Revenue Act which are not challenged constitute a procedure established by law. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2). AIR 1956 S C 20.

● ——Art. 21 — Procedure established by law — Jail Superintendent inflicting punishment on detenu under R. 41, Punjab Communist Detenus Rules of 1950—Reference by him of case to Magistrate thereafter is without jurisdiction — Prosecution before Magistrate would be illegal and not in accordance with procedure established by law. See Ibid, Art. 20 (2). A I R 1953 S C 325.

——Arts. 21, 194 (3) and 226 — Member of U. P. Legislative Assembly convicted by the Assembly for its contempt — Petition for writ of habeas corpus under Art. 226—Conviction cannot be challenged on ground of violation of Art. 21 or of principles of natural justice.

The petitioner, a member of the U. P. Legislative Assembly was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment by the Assembly for its contempt. The petitioner applied for a writ of habeas corpus under Art. 226 of the Constitution.

Held, (1) that as the Legislative Assembly has the power to commit the petitioner for its contempt and since the Legislative Assembly has framed rules for the procedure and conduct of its business under Art. 208 (1), the commitment and deprivation of the personal liberty of the petitioner cannot but be held to be according to the procedure laid down by law within the meaning of Art. 21 of the Constitution. AIR 1959 S C 395, Rel. on; (2) that the petitioner is not entitled to challenge the commitment either on the ground of violation of the principles of natural justice or on the ground that the facts found by the Legislative Assembly do not amount to its contempt. The High Court cannot, in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution, sit in appeal over the decision of the Legislative Assembly committing the petitioner for its contempt. The Legislative Assembly is the master of its own procedure and is the sole judge of the question whether its contempt has been committed or not. 1965 All W R (H C) 286: (1965) 2 Cri L J 170: I L R (1965) 2 All 281: 1965 All Cr R 213: AIR 1965 All 349 (355) (Pt E) (Prs 16, 17) (DB).

——Arts. 21 and 22 — Procedure established by law —Preventive detention — Non-compliance with procedure prescribed by Preventive Detention Act—Effect.

In the case of Preventive detention 'the procedure established by law' within the meaning of Art. 21 of the Constitution would be the procedure prescribed by the Preventive Detention Act, 1950.

The right to the strict observance of this procedure, therefore, itself constitutes a constitutional guarantee made in the Constitution itself. Any breach, therefore, of the procedure prescribed under the Act would, therefore, tantamount to a breach of the fundamental rights of the citizen. the guarantee of which is given in Art. 21 of the Constitution. I L R (1961) 1 All 427.

——Art. 21 — Scope — Co-operative Societies Act (1912), S. 42 (4-A) (as inserted by U. P. Act (3 of 1919))—Validity of.

The power under sub-s. (4-A) of S. 42 does not extend to every kind of dues payable to the Society. It is limited to the recovery of two classes of dues, namely, (1) any amount as contribution to the assets of the Society or (2) as costs of liquidation. Where the amount to be recovered under S. 42 (4-A) cannot be classed either as contribution to the assets of the Society or as costs of liquidation the foundation of the power to recover this amount as arrears of land revenue disappears and the entire proceedings including his arrest taken against the member must be condemned as illegal and in violation of the constitutional guarantee under Art. 21 of the Constitution. AIR 1959 All 733 (735, 736) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 10).

——Art. 21 — Criminal P. C., S. 537—Constitutional validity of—Section itself is a part of procedure established by law. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 537. 1959 Cr L J 268: AIR 1959 All 149.

——Art. 21—Procedure established by law—Affidavits—Contempt proceedings — Use as mode of proof — Art. 21 how far infringed — See Evidence Act (1872), S. 1. AIR 1955 All 638.

——Arst. 21 and 19 and 20—Bombay Prohibition Act (1949), S. 129-A — Validity—Provision for extraction of blood from accused — Deprivation of personal liberty of accused by the collection of blood whether in accordance with procedure established by law — Determination of reasonableness of procedure not justiciable — Bombay Prohibition (Medical Examination and Blood Test) Rules (1959), R. 4. See Prohibition—Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129-A. AIR 1964 Bom 253.

——Art. 21 — Procedure established by law — Contempt of Judges of High Court — Contempt of a criminal nature — Imprisonment — Power of High Court to impose in exercise of its inherent power as Court of Record.

So far as contempt of Court is concerned, statutory recognition is given by the Contempt of Courts Act of 1952 to the practice and procedure followed by the High Court prior to the coming into force of the Act. The procedure the High Court followed in dealing with contempt of itself is a procedure established by law within the meaning of Art. 21.

Apart from the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act there are also the provisions contained in Cl. 38 of the Letters Patent. The High Court has jurisdiction within the meaning of that clause when the proceedings by way of contempt are criminal in nature and the case connected therewith is a criminal case. The procedure which is being followed by the High Court since prior to coming into force of the Letters Patent in dealing with matters of criminal contempt in the exercise of its inherent powers as a Court of Record is a procedure enacted by law and the High Court is therefore entitled to deprive a person of his liberty in matters relating to contempt when that procedure has been followed, even if the expression 'procedure established by law' in Art. 21 of the Constitution meant procedure enacted by law. 1959 Cr L J 567 : 60 Bom L R 873 : AIR 1959 Bom 182 (190) (Pt C) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Art. 21 — Regulation 881 of Police Regulations of 1943.

Regulation 881 of the Police Regulations of 1943, which provides for compulsory residence in the lines unless specially exempted and presence in the line from Retreat to Reveille and attendance at all parades and roll calls during 24 hours, is not void of Art. 21 of the Constitution. 3 Cr L J 110 (Cal), Dist. I L R (1955) 2 Cal 28 : 58 C W N 18 : AIR 1954 Cal 60 (63) (Pt G) (Pr 47) (DB).

——Art. 21 — Procedure established by law—Rule of evidence in procedure enacted by statute. See Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 13 (5), Proviso. AIR 1962 Guj 44 (DB).

——Art. 21—Revenue Recovery Act (1890), Ss. 3 (2), 5—Constitutional validity—Power of Revenue Authorities to determine arrears due and issue certificate—Whether absolute and uncontrolled—Statutory provisions for issue of warrant of arrest for recovery of arrears of revenue — Not unconstitutional—No violation of Arts. 14, 19 and 21—See Constitution of India, Art. 14. (1962) 3 Guj L R 666.

——Art. 21—Compliance with.

When the Nizam had delegated full power to the Military Governor and the validating Regulation passed on 6-10-49 cured the defect in the proceedings, there can be no question of Art. 21 of the Constitution being infringed as the validating Regulation was as much the law as the Regulation appointing the Tribunal. 52 Cri L J 1123 : AIR 1951 Hyd 97 (107) (Pt C) (Pr 33) (DB).

——Art. 21 — Scope — Public Safety and Public Interest Regulation, S. 5 (2) — If void, on account of its failure to lay down procedure for depriving personal liberty. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1951 Hyd 64 (DB).

——Art. 21—Proceedings under S. 3, Hyderabad Regulation (5 of 1358-F)—Validity of—Effect of validating Regulation passed on 6-10-1949 is to cure defect in trial — Hence it cannot be said that the trial was not in accordance with the procedure established by law and that there was a contravention of Art. 21. See (Hyderabad) Special Tribunals Regulation (5 of 1358-F), S. 3. AIR 1955 N U C (Hyd) 5624 (DB).

——Art. 21—Cognizable offence — Cognizance of, by Magistrate on complaint by public official instructed by State Government instead of on police report under S. 173—Not against law—Trial not vitiated by violation of Art. 14 or Art. 21 of the Constitution. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 190. (1960) 2 Ker L R 265.

——Art. 21 — Validity of S. 16-A Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939) — Section whether offends Constitution by depriving accused of right to resort to any good and tenable defence or is repugnant to the provisions of Criminal P. C. See Sales Tax—Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 15 (b). 1959 Cr L J 381 : AIR 1958 Ker 55 (DB).

——Arts. 21, 14 and 20 (3) — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 176— Police Standing Order No. 157 issued by Madras Government — Enquiry made according to — Validity of — Standing Order neither repugnant to other provisions of Code nor violative of Constitution. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 176. AIR 1959 Mad 294.

——Art. 21—Madras Revenue Recovery Act (2 of 1864), S. 48—Validity—(Madras Revenue Recovery Act (2 of 1864), S. 48).

Arrest and imprisonment of the defaulter under S. 48 challenged as offending Art. 21 of the Constitution.

Held, that there was no necessity for canvassing this Article at length as there was a law on the Statute Book under which a Collector acted. If the law was ultra vires there would be no procedure established by law and the imprisonment becomes unlawful—On the other hand if it was intra vires the defaulter had been lawfully deprived of his personal liberty. (1954) 2 M L J 683 : (1954) 26 I T R 509 : 1954 Cr L J 1775 : ILR (1955) Mad 999 : AIR 1964 Mad 1091 (1095) (Pt B) (Pt 9) (DB).

——Art. 21—Section 4 (2), Madras Prohibition Act, is not inconsistent with procedure laid down in Criminal P. C. Even if it prescribes a procedure slightly different from the procedure laid down in that Code such procedure could not be, on that account, invalid. 1954 Mad W N 575 : (1954) 2 Mad L J 475 : 1954 Cri L J 1521 : AIR 1954 Mad 993 (998) (Pt C) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 21 — Public Safety — Orissa Maintenance of Public Order Act (10 of 1950), Ss. 2 (1) (b) and 3 Provisions, if void under Arts. 13 (2) and 21 of Constitution—Constitution of India, Arts. 13 (2), 19 (1) (d) (e) and (5) and 21.— (Per Ray, C. J.) Provisions are inconsistent with Art. 21 as they do not provide for essentials of a legal procedure. See Ibid, Art. 13 (2). AIR 1951 Orissa 86 (DB).

——Art. 21—Scope of—Production of kidnapped girl in pursuance of search warrant— Magistrate remanding girl to jail custody on ground of apprehension of breach of peace —Order, whether justified by Ss. 100, 107 or 552, Criminal P. C.—Legality of detention. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 100. 1957 Cr L J 1445 : AIR 1957 Pat 689 (DB).

——Art. 21—On facts held that procedure adopted by District Magistrate was clear violation of statute and was breach of Art. 21. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 561-A. AIR 1953 Punj 149.

——Art. 21—Scope— Procedure established by law—Presumption under S. 114, Illus. (a), Evidence Act, is not ultra vires or unconstitutional. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 114, Illus. (a). AIR 1956 Raj 224.

● ——Arts. 21, 14 and 254 — Sales-tax—Travancore-Cochin General Sales Tax Act (1125), Ss. 19 and 21—S. 21 is not ultra vires Art. 14 or 21 of Constitution, Criminal P. C., or Evidence Act—Gist of offence under S. 19 (b) is not validity of assessment, but is non-payment of tax within time—Thus there is no violation of Art. 14 or Criminal P. C., or Evidence Act—Criminal P. C., and Evidence Act apply to trial of offence under S. 19 — Ambit of offence is not thereby enlarged—AIR 1954 Mad 833, Dissented from. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1955 T C 220 (FB).

7. Preventive detention.

● ——Arts. 21 and 22—Detention under Preventive Detention Act not open to challenge by virtue of Presidential Order under Art. 359 (1) of the Constitution—The fact that emergency may last for a long period and as a consequence citizens may be precluded from enforcing fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 21 and 22 during the period of the order has no bearing on the validity of detention — How long the Proclamation of Emergency should continue and what restrictions should be imposed on the fundamental rights of citizens during the pendency of the emergency, are matters which must inevitably be left to the executive because the executive knows the requirements of the situation and the effect, of compulsive factors which operate during periods of grave crisis—Similarly the argument that during the operation of the Presidential Order, the executive may abuse its powers and the citizens would have no remedy is essentially political and its impact on the constitutional questions is at best indirect — In a democratic State the effective safeguard against abuse of executive powers whether in peace or in emergency is ultimately to be found in the existence of enlightened, vigilant and vocal public opinion. Makhan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 2 S C A 663 : 1964 1 Cr L J 269 : AIR 1964 S C 381 (403, 404) (Pt G) (Pr 46).

● ——Art. 21 — Jammu and Kashmir Preventive Detention Act (4 of 2011), S. 8 (1) Proviso—Validity—Constitutionality questioned on the ground of its inconsistency with Arts. 21 and 22 of the Constitution — See Public Safety — Jammu and Kashmir Preventive Detention Act (4 of 2011), S. 8 (1) Proviso. AIR 1956 S C 197.

——Art. 21—Procedure established by law— Preventive detention—Failure to comply with requirements of Art. 22 (5) —Detention not in accordance with procedure established by law. See Ibid, Art. 22 (5). AIR 1953 S C 318.

● ——Art. 21—Grounds furnished not containing particulars of each of the grounds mentioned—Effect on validity of detention. See Ibid, Art. 22 (5). AIR 1953 S C 318.

● ——Art. 21—Application of.

Per Patanjali Sastri J.—Article 21 is applicable to preventive detention. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383: 1950 S C R 88: A I R 1950 S C 27 (75) (Pt X) (Pr 118).

——Art. 21—Person likely to commit breach of public peace and tranquillity — His arrest without warrant is not justified. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 151. 1965 (1) Cri L J 413 : AIR 1965 All 161.

——Arts. 21 and 22 (5) — Vagueness of grounds for detention — Effect. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (1) (a) (ii). 1965 All W R (H C) 266.

——Art. 21 — Preventive Detention Act — Breach of procedure prescribed by Act amounts tp breach of fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 21. ILR (1961) 1 All 427.

——Art. 21 — Applicability and scope—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3—Validity. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1956 All 589.

——Art. 21—Article 21 empowers legislature to provide for preventive detention and Preventive Detention Act is a product of that power— Allegation as to non-existence of grounds — Reagitation of matter before High Court—Absence of provision for—Remedy —(Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), Ss. 7 and 10) — (Natural justice). See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1956 All 589.

——Arts. 21, 22 (5) (6)—Good grounds mixed up with bad grounds — (Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7).

Where good grounds for detention have been mixed up with vague, indefinite and bad grounds, the petitioner's detention cannot be held to be in accordance with the procedure established by law within the meaning of Article 21 as the constitutional requirement with respect to each of the ground communicated to the person detained, subject to a claim of a privilege under Cl. (6) of Art. 22, is not satisfied. AIR 1953 S C 318, Foll. 1954 All L J 6 : 1954 All W R (H C) 34 : 1954 Cr L J 685 : ILR (1954) 2 All 230 : AIR 1955 All 315 (316, 317) (Pt D) (Prs 6a, 15) (DB).

——Art. 21 — Detention of person under S. 123-A Criminal P. C. — Illegal as being in contravention of Arts. 21 and 22. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 123-A (U. P.) 52 Crj L J 1282 : AIR 1950 All 562 (DB).

——Art. 21 — Validity of Ss. 107, 117 and 123, Criminal P. C. — Nature of detention under—Section not discriminatory or repugnant with Art. 22 — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 107. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 90.

● ——Art. 21—Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950) (as amended in 1951), S. 8 — Detenu's case considered by two out of three members only of Advisory Board — There is infringement of fundamental right guaranteed by Art 21. See Public Safety -Preventive Detention Act (1950) (as amended in 1951), S. 8. AIR 1951 Assam 169 (SB).

● ——Art. 21 (5)—Scope—Non furnishing of grounds within reasonable time to detenu detained lawfully —Effect If renders detention unlawful. See Preventive Detention Act, S. 7. AIR 1951 Bom 30 (FB).

——Art. 21— Principle enshrined in article as fundamental right — Criminal proceedings — Burden of proof on prosecution. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8). 68 Cal W N 383 : A I R 1965 Cal 507 (DB).

——Art. 21—Public safety—Hyderabad Public Safety and Public Interest Regulation (12 of 1358 F.), S. 5—Section is void being inconsistent with Art. 21 of the Constitution of India. See Public Safety — Hyderabad Public Safety and Public Interest Regulation (12 of 1358 F.), S. 5. AIR 1951 Hyd 69 (2) (DB).

● ——Arts. 21, 22—Grounds of detention — Vagueness — (Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7).

It is the right of the petitioner under Art. 22 (5) to be furnished with particulars of the grounds of his detention sufficient to enable him to make a representation which on being considered may give relief to him. The constitutional requirements must be satisfied with respect to each of the grounds communicated to the person detained, subject of course to a claim of privilege under Cl. (6) of Art. 22.

Where it has not been done in regard to one of the grounds mentioned in the statement of grounds, the petitioner's detention cannot be held to be in accordance with the procedure established by law within the meaning of Art. 21 and he is, therefore, entitled to be released. A I R 1954 S C 179, Foll. Abdul Ghani v. State. 1955 Cri L J 1598 : AIR 1955 J & K 38 (40) (Pr 9) (FB).

● ——Art. 21 — Preventive Detention Act (1950) S. 8 — Vague and indefinite grounds supplied — Effect.

Where the grounds supplied to the person detained are vague and indefinite his detention cannot be held to be in accordance with the procedure established by law within the meaning of Art. 21 of the Constitution and the person detained, is, therefore, entitled to be released. A I R 1953 S C 318, Foll. Ghulam Qadir Hawabaz v. State, 1955 Cri L J 1597 : AIR 1955 J & K 35 (36) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (FB).

——Art. 21 — Public Safety—Madras Maintenance of Public Order Act (23 of 1949), S. 2 — Provisions of Madras Maintenance of Public Order Act (23 of 1949) relating to preventive detention are ultra vires as being inconsistent with Arts. 21 and 22. See Public Safety— Madras Maintenance of Public Order Act (23 of 1949), S. 2. AIR 1951 Mad 1015 (DB).

——Arts. 21 and 226 — Public Safety — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), S. 2 (1) (a) — Validity of detention under after Act had become void on the Constitution coming into force. See Public Safety — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), S. 2 (1) (a). 51 Cri L J 1081 : A I R 1950 Pat 265.

——Arts. 21 and 22 — Detention beyond three months.

The person concerned cannot be detained for a day longer than three months unless upon the report of the Advisory Board, which means unless upon action taken on such a report and that action must necessarily be taken before the expiration of the three months' period allowed under Art. 22 (4) or else the detention of the person beyond the period of three months will be illegal. A I R 1953 Sau 51 (52) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 21—Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10 (1) — Failure to report within ten weeks —Constitution of India, Art. 21. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10 (1). AIR 1953 Sau 51.

ARTICLE 22

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Art. 22)

1. Scope.
   (a) This Article and Art. 19.
   (b) Laws inconsistent with article.
2. Retrospective effect.
3. Procedure to be followed on arrest—Clauses (1) and (2).
4. "Arrest", meaning of.
5. Information of order of arrest.
6. Information of grounds of arrest.
7. Right to be defended by pleader.
   (a) Right to be provided with a lawyer by the State.
8. Clause (2).
9. Right of foreign nationals.
10. Validity of Preventive Detention Act (1950).
11. J. and K. Preventive Detention Act—Validity of.
12. Preventive detention—General.
   (a) Meaning and object of preventive detention.
   (b) Law of preventive detention—Essentials of validity.
   (c) Legislative competency.
   (d) Conformity to law.
   (e) Criminal prosecution, if a bar to preventive detention.
13. Satisfaction of detaining authority.
14. Bona fides of the order of detention.
15. Advisory board.
16. Procedure before advisory board.
17. Advisory board—Qualification of members.
18. Clauses (7) (a) and (b)—"Any law".
19. Maximum period of detention.
20. Detention beyond three months without obtaining opinion of advisory board.
21. President's powers.
22. Clause (5)—General.
23. "Grounds on which the order has been made".
24. Vagueness of grounds.
   (a) Effect of, on validity of detention.
25. Grounds of detention—Consideration by Court.
26. Supplementary grounds.
27. Grounds on which detention can be ordered.
28. "As soon as may be".
29. Right to make representation against order of detention.
30. Clause (6).
31. Fresh order of detention.

1. Scope.

(a) This Article and Art. 19.

(b) Laws inconsistent with article.

1. Scope.

● ——Art. 22—Duty of Court in interpreting Arts. 21 and 22. See Ibid, Art. 21. AIR 1951 S C 301.

——Art. 22 — Applicability to punitive detention. See Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), S. 10. AIR 1959 All 57.

——Art. 22 — Provisions of clauses (1) and (2) of Art. 22 not applicable to a detention or arrest made under a law for Preventive Detention. 1961 Nag L J (Notes) 34.

——Art. 22—Article 22 is not applicable to arrest and detention under S. 46 (2), Income-tax Act. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2). 57 Bom L R 1062 : ILR (1956) Bom 136.

——Art. 22 — Applicability — Assessee arrested for failure to pay income-tax—Article does not apply.

Article 22 applies to a case of a person who is arrested for having committed an offence or having taken part in an activity prejudicial to the interest of the State or of the public. The article does not apply and cannot apply where arrest, is neither for having committed an offence nor for having acted prejudicially to the interest of the public or of the State.

Where the arrest of the assessee was as a result of coercive machinery applied against him for failure to pay his income-tax dues, there was no question of any investigation taking place nor was there any question of the trial of the assessee, and therefore Art. 22 was not intended that it should apply to all persons arrested and detained in custody. Hence Art. 22 did not apply. A I R 1953 S C 10, Dist. 57 Bom L R 1062 : ILR (1956) Bom 136.

——Art. 22—Scope of—Warrant of legislature being judicial warrant—Protection under Art. 22 not available.

Article 22 (1) contemplates an arrest without warrant of Court and there is indication in the language of Art. 22 (1) and (2) that it was designed to give protection against the act of the executive or other non-judicial authority. The categories indicated are two and it is within the category of judicial warrant that warrant of legislatures in contempt matters necessarily falls and therefore cannot draw the protection afforded by Art. 22 of the Constitution. A I R 1953 S C 10, Rel. on. I L R (1957) Bom 218 : 60 Bom L R 279.

——Art. 22—Article applies to case of persons arrested for having committed an offence or having taken part in activity prejudicial to the interest of State — Article does not apply where arrest is as a result of coercive machinery applied against an assessee for failure to pay his income tax dues — S. 13 of Bombay City Land Revenue Act (2 of 1876) as amended by Act 47 of 1954 does not contravene Art. 22 (1953) S C R 254, Rel. on. 57 Bom L R 1062 : I L R (1956) Bom 136.

——Art. 22—Nature of right conferred by article.

Article 22 which deals with preventive detention and confers on the subject certain rights and privileges which are fundamental in their character and the observance of which is obligatory upon the legislatures of the country. 52 Bom L R 794 : ILR (1951) Bom 92 : 52 Cri L J 437 : A I R 1951 Bom 252 (253, 254, 255) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

● ——Art. 22 — Applicability — Whether applies to members of legislature. See Ibid, Art. 105. AIR 1952 Cal 632 (SB).

● ——Art. 22—Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930)—Act if provides for preventive detention. See Public Safety—Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930), Preamble and S. 2. 51 Cri L J 1110 : A I R 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

——Art. 22—Scope — Art. 22 is to be read as proviso to Art. 21.

Per Govinda Menon, J.: — One of the modes of depriving the personal liberty is indicated in Art. 22 which should be read as a proviso to Art. 21. The curtailment of personal liberty should be in accordance with what is prescribed by Art. 22. If the article is followed both in letter and spirit, the Court cannot question an Act dealing with preventive detention. As Art. 22 prescribes the procedure established by law for making preventive detention valid, it is essential that its terms should be complied with and observed, if preventive detention has to be legally recognised and given effect to. Otherwise the detention will be unlawful. It is, therefore, abundantly clear that the Indian Constituent Assembly intended to define and explain what is meant by "procedure established by law" in Art. 21 by enacting Art. 22 as a proviso to it. So with regard to preventive detention Art. 22 clearly lays down the procedure to be adopted. 52 Cri L J 170 : A I R 1951 Mad 1015 (1025) (Pt I) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 22—U. P. Goondas Act (1 of 1932) (as modified and extended to State of Delhi) is not a law providing for preventive detention. 54 Pun L R 312 : ILR (1952) Punj 362 : 1953 Cri L J 421 : A I R 1953 Punj 52 (54, 55) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

1 (a). This Article and Art. 19.

● ——Art. 22 — Law authorising deprivation of personal liberty—Validity of, not to be judged by criteria laid down by Art. 19 — That depends on compliance with Arts. 21 and 22. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1951 S C 270.

● ——Art. 22 — Recognition by Constitution of personal liberties — Function of Articles 21 and 22. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1950 S C 27.

● ——Art. 22 — Interpretation of — Article 19 gives list of individual liberties, while Arts. 20 to 22 primarily deal with Penal or other laws. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1950 S C 27.

● ——Art. 22 — Articles 19, 21 and 22 whether supplemental or exclusive. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1950 S C 27.

——Art. 22 — Deprivation of personal liberty under Statute by preventive or punitive detention — Constitutionality of Statute if can be challenged on ground of infringement of Art. 19. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1955 All 193 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Scope — Legislation dealing with preventive detention — Arts. 21 and 22 and not Art. 19 apply. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1955 N U C (Cal) 4507 (DB).

1 (b). Laws inconsistent with article.

● ——Art. 22 — Arrears of Income-tax — Recovery under S. 48 of Madras Act 2 of 1864 — Arrest and imprisonment of defaulter — Nature of — Whether amounts to arrest or detention within the meaning of Art. 22 of the Constitution—Validity of S. 46 (2) and S. 48 of the Madras Act—See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2). A I R 1957 S C 698.

——Art. 22—Provisions for arrest of defaulter are not inconsistent with Art. 14 of Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1956 All 428.

——Art. 22—Orders under Ss. 110, 118, 123, Criminal P. C. — Art. 22 does not apply and the sections have not been rendered void. A I R 1953 All 753 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Section 123A (U P), Criminal P. C. — Section offends Art. 22 and became void on 25-1-1950 —Effect of Preventive Detention (Extension of Duration) Order made by President on 26-1-1950. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 123A (U P). 52 Cri L J 1282 : A I R 1950 All 562.

——Art. 22 — Validity — Nature of detention under Ss. 107, 117 and 123, Criminal P. C. — Sections not discriminatory or repugnant with Art. 22. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 107. A I R 1957 Andh Pra 90.

● ——Art. 22 (4) — West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949)—Offends Art. 22 (4) because of absence of provision for constitution of advisory Board contemplated under that provision. See Public Safety — West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949), S. 22. A I R 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

● ——Art. 22 (4)—Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930 as amended by Criminal Law Amendment (Amending) Ordinance, 1949) — Act is in direct conflict with clause (4) of Art. 22. See Public Safety —Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930 as amended by Criminal Law Amendment (Amending) Ordinance 1949), Pre. A I R 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

——Art. 22 (4) — Madhya Bharat Police Act (67 of 1950), S. 49 (2)—Section does not infringe Art. 22 (4). A I R 1955 N U C (Madh B) 5943 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Income-tax Act, S. 46 (2) — Section is ultra vires as it empowers Collector to proceed under S. 48. Madras Revenue Recovery Act which offends Art. 22 (1) and (2). 26 I T R 509 : (1954) 2 Mad L J 683 : ILR 1955 Mad 999 : 1954 Cri L J 1775 : A I R 1954 Mad 1091 (1094, 1095) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 22—Law affecting personal liberty — Inconsistency with Arts. 21 and 22 — Letter of Ministry of State, New Delhi to Chief Commissioner, Manipur inconsistent with Criminal Law Amendment Act (1952) — Validity. See Ibid, Art. 21. A I R 1956 Manipur 9.

——Art. 22 (7) — C. P. and Berar Public Safety Act (62 of 1948), S. 2 (1) (a) — Section whether void for the reason that it provides for preventive detention. See Public Safety—C. P. and Berar Public Safety Act (62 of 1948), S. 2 (1) (a). 51 Cri L J 1372 : AIR 1950 Nag 203 (DB).

● ——Art. 22 — Orissa Maintenance of Public Order Act (4 of 1948 as amended in 1949), Ss. 3 and 4— Inconsistency between sections and Art. 22—Effect on validity of the provisions. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1950 Orissa 157 (FB).

——Art. 22—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950)—Inconsistency between detentive provisions and cls. (4) and (5) of Art. 22 — Effect on validity on constitution coming into force. See Public Safety—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950). AIR 1950 Pat 265.

——Art. 22—Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950)—Scope—If void as in conflict with Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution—Section 14 of Act 4 of 1950—If void and renders whole Act illegal — Person undergoing trial for substantive offence or convicted therefor—Order of detention in respect of—If illegal.

See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950). ILR 29 Pat 502.

——Art. 22—Validity of Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act, 1949—Act whether infringes cls. (1) and (2) of this article—See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), S. 1. AIR 1954 Punj 145 (DB).

——Art. 22 (1) & (3)—Public Safety—U. P. Goondas Act (10 of 1932) (as modified and extended to the State of Delhi)—Validity of S. 5 (2) of Act—Whether provision offends Cl. (1) of Article and if so whether it is saved by cl. (3). See Public Safety—U. P. Goondas Act (10 of 1932) as modified and extended to the State of Delhi. AIR 1953 Punj 52.

2. Retrospective effect.

——Art. 22 (1) — Retrospective operation — Interpretation of Statutes—Constitution Statute.

The Article has no retrospective effect and does not apply to a person who was arrested before January 26, 1950. The words used are "who is arrested" and not "who has been arrested". The word "shall be detained" and "shall be denied", suggest futurity. Constitution is always prospective and never retrospective. 52 Cri L J 1251 : ILR (1951) 2 All 745 : AIR 1951 All 718 (732) (Pt E) (Pr 30) (D 3).

3. Procedure to be followed on arrest—Clauses (1) and (2).

● ——Art. 22, Cls. (1) and (2) — Arrest of person — Procedure to be followed on.

Per Das J. — Clauses (1) and (2) of Art. 22 lay down the procedure that has to be followed when a man is arrested. They ensure four things; (a) right to be informed regarding grounds of arrest, (b) right to consult, and to be defended by, a legal practitioner of his choice, (c) right to be produced before a Magistrate within 24 hours and (d) freedom from detention beyond the said period except by order of the Magistrate. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (121) (Pt Zd) (Pr 243).

4. "Arrest", meaning of.

● ——Art. 22 — Recovery of arrears of income-tax — Arrest and detention of defaulter—Nature of. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2). AIR 1956 S C 20.

● ——Art. 22 (1) — Restraint on abducted person is not 'arrest" within the meaning of the article. See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (65 of 1949), S. 4. AIR 1953 S C 10.

——Art. 22 (1)—Applicability to civil proceedings — R. 18 framed under S. 43, Co-operative Societies Act —Validity — (Co-operative Societies Act (1912), S. 43) Ajmer Rules, R. 18.

Article 22 (1) applies only, when a person is arrested or detained and has no application in civil proceedings. R. 18 is, therefore, intra vires of the powers of of the Chief Commissioner under S. 43, Co-operative Societies Act, and does not, in any manner, offend against the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution. AIR 1956 Ajmer 63 (65) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 1743].

——Art. 22—Scope — Punitive imprisonment after conviction by Court—If falls within Article.

Article 22, Cls. (1) and (2), of the Constitution, do not deal with punitive detention following a conviction by a Court. The safeguards provided in Art. 22 (1) and (2) were to a large extent, covered by the existing provisions of the Criminal P. C., but their incorporation in Art. 22 of the Constitution has the effect of making them inviolable by ordinary legislation. 1956 Andh W R 485 : 1956 A L T 745 : 1957 Cri L J 624 : AIR 1957 A P 90 (91) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 22 — "Arrest" does not include removal — (Bengal Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act (6 of 1933), S. 13).

The word "arrest' in Art. 22 has a much restricted meaning and does not include the removal of a minor girl from a brothel or from premises which are used as a brothel under S. 13 of the Bengal Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act, 1933. AIR 1953 S C 10, Rel. on. ILR (1955) 1 Cal 76 : 57 C W N 507 : 1953 Cri L J 1187 : AIR 1953 Cal 522 (523) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 22—Madras Revenue Recovery Act, S. 48 — Validity.

Article 22 cannot be confined to cases of arrest of persons who are suspected to have committed an act of criminal or quasi-criminal nature or to some activity prejudicial to the public or the State interest. The article applies to an arrest for non-payment of public dues. There is undoubtedly indication in the language of Art. 22 (1) and (2) that it was designed to give protection against the act of the executive or other non-judicial authority. Where the arrest is in pursuance of a warrant by an executive authority, it directly attracts the application of Art. 22 (1) and (2). There is obvious inconsistency between S. 48 of the Revenue Recovery Act and the provisions of Art. 22 (1) and (2) of the Constitution, and S. 48 to the extent it is inconsistent with the provisions of Art. 22 of Part III of the Constitution must be considered void. 1954 Cri L J 1775 : I L R (1955) Mad 999 : (1954) 2 M L J 683 : (1954) 26 I T R 509 : AIR 1954 Mad 1091 (1100) (Pt G) (Pr 30) (DB).

● ——Arts. 22 & 13 — Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), Ss. 4 & 7 — Validity — (Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949) Ss. 4 & 7) — (Words and Phrases) — "Arrest and" and "Apprehension.")

The expression "arrest" appearing in Art. 22 is a comprehensive term which is designed to cover all cases in which a person is apprehended by legal authority and is not confined to cases in which a person is apprehended by or under the orders of a Civil or Criminal Court. It covers not only cases of punitive and preventive detention but also cases of what may for convenience, be called "protective detention." When a person is apprehended by legal authority he must be deemed to be arrested within the meaning of Art. 22 even though the word "arrest" or "apprehension" has not been used in the statute or statutory rule under the authority of which he has been taken into custody. An abducted person who is apprehended under the provisions of S. 4, Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949) for purposes of being delivered to the custody of an officer in charge of a camp must also be deemed to be arrested. The fact that the word "arrest" does not appear in the Act of 1949 and the fact that the police officer is merely empowered to take an abducted person into custody, do not alter the fact that the person who is so apprehended and taken into custody has in fact been arrested. An abducted person is entitled to the protection of Art. 22 even though she has committed no offence and is not alleged to have commited one. It cannot also be said that the procedural protection guaranteed by Art. 22 is available only to a person who is being detained to answer a criminal charge.

An Act is said to be inconsistent with another when the two cannot stand together i. e., when to obey one enactment is to disobey the other. It is impossible to obey the directions contained in sections 4 and 7 of the Act of 1949 without disobeying the directions contained in Clauses (1) and (2) of Art. 22. The provisions of Ss. 4 and 7 of the Act 1949 are inconsistent with the provisions of Art. 13. Case law discussed. Ajaib Singh v. State of Punjab, 54 Pun L R 260: ILR (1952) Punj 381 : 1952 Cri L J 1313 : AIR 1952 Punj 309 (320, 321) (Pt C) (Prs 44, 46, 47) (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1953 S C 10].

5. Information of order of arrest.

——Art. 22—Contravention of, by order under S. 7 of Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949—Accused informed of order of arrest at time of arrest — Whether Art. 22 is violated. See Ibid, Art. 21. AIR 1954 Bhopal 9.

6. Information of grounds of arrest.

——Art. 22 (1)—Petition for writ of habeas corpus—Legality of detention — Detention unlawful on the ground of information of arrest not being given to accused at material time namely, date of return—Subsequent information—Effect. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1956 All 56.

——Art. 22 (1)—Grounds of arrest—Object of information.

The object underlying the provision in Art. 22 (1) that the ground for arrest should be communicated to the person arrested appears to be this. On learning about the ground for arrest, the man will be in a position to make an application to the appropriate Court, for bail, or move the High Court for a writ of habeas corpus. Further the information will enable him to prepare his defence in time for purposes of his trial. 1956 Cr L J 13 : ILR (1956) 2 All 527 : AIR 1956 All 56 (59) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 22 (1) — Grounds of arrest—Sufficiency of information.

For purposes of Cl. (1) of Art. 22, it is not necessary for the authorities to furnish full details of the offence. But the information should be sufficient to enable the arrested person to understand why he has been arrested.

Per Desai, J.—The words "grounds for such arrest" occurring in Art. 22 (1) should be interpreted in the light of the reasons for the provisions. If a person is arrested on a warrant the grounds or reasons for the arrest are the warrant. If he is arrested without a warrant, he must be told why he has been arrested.

If he is arrested for committing an offence, he must be told that he has committed a certain offence for which he would be placed on trial. Informing him merely of the law applicable to that act would not be enough. 1956 Cr L J 13 : ILR (1956) 2 All 527 : AIR 1956 All 56 (59, 61) (Pt D) (Prs 21, 30) (DB).

——Art. 22 (1)—Grounds for arrest—Sufficiency.

The mention in the warrant about the accused being wanted in a case for certain offences is sufficient compliance with the requirements of sub-s. (1) of Art. 22. The ground for arrest is simply an order of the Court which is passed in a case relating to certain accusation against the person arrested. 1955 Cri L J 1146 : AIR 1955 All 462 (464) (Pt A) (Pr 15).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1955 All 521 (DB)].

——Art. 22—Armed Forces (Assam and Manipur) Special Powers Act (1958), S. 4 (c) — Arrest under—Remand of accused—Procedure for remand of accused—S. 167 and not S. 109, Criminal P. C. will apply—Duty of Magistrate to see that person is informed of grounds of his arrest. See Armed Forces (Assam and Manipur) Special Powers Act (1958), S. 4 (c). 1963 (1) Cr L J 451 : AIR 1963 Manipur 12.

——Art. 22 (1)—Information as to grounds of arrest —Arrest by merely telling sections of penal provisions—Legality.

The arrest of a person by merely enumerating section of any penal provision is not proper compliance with the constitutional requirements as envisaged by Art. 22 (1) of the Constitution. Merely by telling that the person was being arrested under S. 7, Criminal Law (Amendment) Act and S. 143 read with S. 117, Penal Code, cannot provide him with information as to which of them any unlawful acts he has committed. The arrest on such a statement is, therefore, wholly repugnant to the constitutional guarantee contemplated by Art. 22 (1). 1947 A C 573 and AIR 1956 All 56, Rel. on. 61 Punj L R 413 : 1959 Cr L J 1209 : ILR (1959) Punj 1111 : AIR 1959 Punj 506 (508) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 22—Detention in custody — Necessity to inform person of grounds of his arrest — Remand to Police custody under S. 344, Criminal P. C.—Conditions for—Similarity of—Offence under Official Secrets Act—Bail—Grant of. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 167. 1958 Cr L J 1248 : AIR 1958 Tripura 34.

7. Right to be defended by pleader.

(a) Right to be provided with a lawyer by the State.

7. Right to be defended by pleader.

●——Art. 22 (1)—Accused merely alleging that certain relatives who sought interview with him after arrest were refused permission and that procedure resulted in a denial of opportunity to defend himself by engaging a civil lawyer through their help—No request made by accused to the Court martial for being defended by lawyer of his and no such request turned down by the Court—Held there had been no denial of the right guaranteed by the Article. Ram Sarup v. Union of India, 1964 Cur L J (SC) 169 ; (1964) 5 S C R 931 ; 1964 S C D 661 : (1964) 2 S C J 619 ; 1964 M L J (Cri) 626 : 1965 (1) Cri L J 236 : AIR 1965 S C 247 (250) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——Art. 22 (1)—Right to consult and to be defended by pleader—Infringement of — Effect — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 340).

The accused were arrested for offences alleged to have been committed by them under Ss. 120 and 121, Railways Act and were put into prison. Two sets of these persons were tried within the Jail precincts on the 30th of March, 1955, and the other two sets were tried on the 31st of March, 1955. The trial was held under the summary provisions of the Code, and the accused were convicted under the two sections. No information had been given to the accused persons that they had a right to consult a legal practitioner and to be defended by him under Art. 22 of the Constitution and S. 340 of the Code.

Held, that the fundamental right given to the applicant under Art. 22 of the Constitution and the right further conferred upon them, though similar in nature, under S. 340 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, had in a sense been denied to them. The trial was, therefore vitiated. AIR 1947 All 436 and AIR 1926 Bom 551, Rel. on. American case law discussed. 1956 Cr L J 1267 : ILR (1957) 1 All 144 : AIR 1956 All 641 (643) (Pt A) (Pr 88).

——Art. 22 (1)—Scope—Validity of S. 80, U. P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947—Proviso to section only enforces the right given by the article to a person whose personal liberty is sought to be deprived to be represented by counsel and is therefore not invalid. See U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (28 of 1947), S. 80, Proviso AIR 1954 All 655 (DB).

——Art. 22 (1)—Right to invoke—Complainant in a case.

A complainant in a case cannot take advantage of Art. 22 (1) of the Constitution because he is neither a person arrested nor a person detained in custody. 1952 All WR (HC) 223 : 1952 Cr L J 1666 : 1952 R D (HC) 183 : 1952 All L J 195 : AIR 1952 All 924 (925) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Art. 22 (1)—Applicability.

The only condition necessary for a person to have the right of defence by legal practitioner is that he must have been arrested; it is not at all obligatory that after arrest he should have been detained. If after arrest he was released on security, his right of defence by a legal practitioner which accrued at the moment of his arrest would continue, because the right to be defended is a continuing right. 52 Cri L J 1251 : ILR (1951) 2 All 745 : AIR 1951 All 718 (732) (Pt D) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 22 (1) and (3) –Public Safety—U. P. Prevention of Crimes (Special Powers) (Temporary) Act (5 of 1949), S. 4 – Warrant to the police directing them to take security from the applicants and to take them in custody only on their default—Police taking them into custody first and then released them on security, thinking that it was warrant for arrest and that the security to be taken from the applicants was for their appearance before the Magistrate and not for being of good behaviour and keeping the peace – Arrest could not be said to be under the Act which was held to be one for preventing detention—Hence Art. 22 (3) held did not apply to rob them of the right of defence by a legal practitioner. 52 Cri L J 1251 : ILR (1951) 2 All 745 : AIR 1951 All 718 (732) (Pt F) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 22 (1)—Applicability.

The provision as to the right to be defended by a legal practitioner is only conferred on a person who is arrested and is not a general right conferred on every one. 52 Cri L J 1251 : ILR (1951) 2 All 745 : AIR 1951 All 718 (732) (Pt G) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 22 (1)—Infringement—What constitutes.

In order to show that the Constitution has been infringed it is not necessary to show that a person arrested under a certain Act was actually denied, the right of defence by a legal practitioner. It is sufficient that the Act impugned itself denied the arrested person the right. 52 Cri L J 1251 : ILR (1951) 2 All 745 : AIR 1951 All 718 (732) (Pt H) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art 22 (5) — S. 123A (U. P.), Criminal P. C. fails to give right to arrested person to consult or be defended by legal practitioner of his choice as contemplated by Art. 22 (1) — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 123A (U. P.). 52 Cri L J 1282 : AIR 1950 All 562.

——Art. 22 (1) — Legal Practitioner — Professional ethics – Appearing for opposite party after ceasing to represent one party — Criminal appeal — Engagement of Public Prosecutor who appeared for the State terminated pending appeal — He cannot be allowed to appear for the accused — Evidence Act, S. 126, violation of. (1960) 2 Andh W R 11 : 1960 Mad L J (Cri) 439 : 1960 Andh L T 539 : ILR (1960) 2 Andh Pra 212 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 356 : AIR 1961 Andh Pra 105 (107 to 112) (Prs 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 22—Right to be defended by lawyer. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1956 Cal 476.

——Art. 22 (1)—Whether an accused lawyer can be permitted to appear as lawyer for co-accused in the same case — Rights of the accused to have pleader of his own choice. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 561A. (1965) 6 Guj L R 531.

——Art. 22—Madras Revenue Recovery Act, S. 48 and Income-tax Act, S. 46 (2)— Validity — (Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46) — (Madras Revenue Recovery Act (2 of 1864), S. 48).

Section 48 of the Madras Revenue Recovery Act is clearly ultra vires and cannot remain on the Statute Book. It clearly offends Art. 22 (1) and (2) of the Constitution. Under it the defaulter has been denied all right of being heard. He has also been deprived of all right of engaging a legal practitioner to appear on his behalf before the Collector, the arrest warrant issued by the Collector being final and unappealable. S. 46 (2) of the Income-tax Act is also ultra vires in so far as it empowers a Collector to proceed under S. 48 of the Revenue Recovery Act. 1954 Cr L J 1775: ILR (1955) Mad 999 : (1954) 2 M L J 683 : (1954) 26 I T R 509 : AIR 1954 Mad 1091 (1094, 1095) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Arrest of person — Duty of Magistrate —Accused must be informed of grounds of arrest and be allowed to consult and be defended by a lawyer of his choice. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 167. 1963 (2) Cr L J 562 (Manipur).

——Art. 22 (1) — Engagement of lawyer — Right of party — Witness of one party cannot act as advocate for the opposite party—It is professional misconduct. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 340. 1964 (1) Cr L J 601 (Mys).

——Art. 22 (1)—Under-trial prisoners in police lock up –Duty of police officers.

Article 22 (1) of the Constitution provides that no person detained in custody shall be denied the right to be defended by a legal practitioner of his choice. Hence when a person seeks the permission of the Police Officer to obtain the signature of the under-trial prisoners in the police lock up on a vakalatnama, the police officers should immediately give him the necessary facility. ('65) 31 Cut L T 695.

——Art. 22 (1) — Scope — Orissa Gram Panchayats Act, S. 94—Validity — If infringes right to be represented by lawyer. See Panchayats - Orissa Gram Panchayats Act (15 of 1948), S. 94. 1957 Cr L J 1437: AIR 1957 Orissa 281 (DB).

——Art. 22—Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 243, 340 and 364—Conviction on plea of guilty — Several accused —Questions put to them jointly about their guilt — Accused were Bengali speaking but examined in Hindi—No certificate by Magistrate that questions were interpreated to them—No opportunity to accused to be defended by pleaders — Conviction held not legal—Constitution of India, Art. 22. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 243. 1962 B L J R 390: (1962) 2 Lab L J 404.

——Art 22 (1) — Right to be defended by pleader — Effect of non-compliance. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 191. AIR 1955 N U C (Pat) 3268.

——Art. 22—Scope — Right of accused to be defended by counsel of his choice — Scope and extent of. See Panchayats — Punjab Gram Panchayat Act, 1952 (4 of 1953). AIR 1957 Punj 149 (DB).

——Art. 22 (1) — Right to be defended — Absolute conformity with provisions of Criminal P. C. (1898) whether essential to comply with requirements of Cl. (1). 54 Pun LR 312 : ILR (1952) Punj 362 : 1953 Cri L J 421 : AIR 1953 Punj 52 (55) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 22 (1) — Criminal Trial held after Court hours — Opportunity to avail legal assistance not given — Effect — Failure of justice—Trial is vitiated. AIR 1948 Mad 492 and AIR 1956 All 641 and AIR

1926 Bom 551, Rel. on. 1962 Raj L W 266 : 1962 (2) Cr L J 496 : ILR (1962) 12 Raj 620 : AIR 1962 Raj 216 (217, 218) (Prs 6, 10).

——Art. 22 (1) — Right to consult legal practitioner while in police custody — Scope and extent of — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 340 and 561-A).

Article 22 (1) confers a fundamental right which the authors of the Constitution in their wisdom have guaranteed to every person who may be arrested and detained in custody. The right of an accused to consult his legal adviser and to be defended by him has been put on the highest footing ever since our Constitution came into force with effect from 26th January, 1950. and it is really not necessary to derive it now from other enactments. Certain propositions seem to follow almost axiomatically from it: (1) that ever since his arrest, the accused has a right to be consulted by a legal adviser of his choice and to be defended by him; (2) in order that such consultation may be effective interviews must be allowed to his counsel, when asked for, out of the hearing of the police though within their presence; and (3) that such a right must of course not be abused and must be granted subject to reasonable restrictions as to time and convenience of the police authorities, no less than that of the party seeking the interview. It must be clearly understood, however, that the police must not in any way obstruct such interviews on arbitrary or fanciful grounds with a view to deprive the accused of his fundamental right. 1954 Cri L J 1591; 1954 Raj L W 611 : ILR (1955) 5 Raj 70 : AIR 1954 Raj 241 (241, 243) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 6, 7).

7 (a). Right to be provided with a lawyer by the State.

——Art. 22 — Right of accused to demand court to supply him with lawyer — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 340. AIR 1958 Mys 150.

——Art. 22 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 340 — Right conferred by section does not extend to right in accused to be provided with lawyer by State. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 340. AIR 1963 Orissa 144.

——Art. 22 — Right conferred by S. 342, Criminal P. C. does not extend to right in accused to be provided with lawyer by State — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 340. ILR (1962) Cut 726.

8. Clause (2).

● ——Arts. 22 and 136 — Arrest and detention of foreigner for purpose of deportation — Protection under Art. 22, if available — Non-production of detenue within 24 hours of his arrest before nearest Magistrate — Legality of detention — Order of High Court under S. 491, Criminal P. C., declaring detention as illegal — Appeal by special leave under Art. 136 — Detenue obtaining interim injunction against State from executing order of deportation pending disposal of his suit — Interference by Supreme Court.

The two respondents, husband and wife, were arrested for non-compliance with an order of deportation passed against them On the petition for habeas corpus filed by the respondents, the Judges of the High Court confined their attention to the period, viz,, from 1 p.m. on 25th July, 1960 to 2 p.m. on 27th July, 1960 and holding that during this period there had been a violation of the requirements of Art. 22(2) of the Constitution, in that the respondents had not been produced before a Magistrate within 24 hours of the commencement of the custody, expressed their opinion that the detention was illegal and directed the release of the respondents. The State of Uttar Pradesh preferred the appeal by special leave against the said order of the High Court. Subsequent to the filing of the appeal, the respondents filed a suit and obtained an injunction against the State from deporting them to Pakistan pending the disposal of the suit.

Held (Per P. B. Sinha, C. J., Ayyangar, Mudholkar and Venkatarama Aiyer, JJ., Subba Rao, J., dissenting):—that without pronouncing on the precise scope of Art. 22 (1) or (2) in relation to an arrest and detention for the purpose of executing a lawful order of deportation, it could not be said in the circumstances of the case that during the period commencing from 1 p.m. on 25-7-1960 the respondents were illegally detained for more than 24 hours without production before a judicial authority as required by Art. 22 (2). Even if Art. 22 (2) were construed to require that a person arrested and detained has to be produced before a Magistrate every 24 hours during his detention, in this case as the respondents were during 'the second stage' produced before the High Court itself 'for suitable orders' on the 26th and again on the 27th, the requirement was satisfied. Hence there was no justification whatsoever for the finding on the basis of which the High Court directed the release of the respondents.

Per Subba Rao, J. : - The case is not a fit one for exercising the extraordinary jurisdiction, under Art. 136 of the Constitution. The appeal has become infructous, for even if the State succeeds it cannot arrest the respondents till the disposal of the suit. Nor has the High Court decided any such important question of law as to cause some irreparable injury to the appellant unless the Supreme Court sets the matter right. An arrest and detention for the purpose of deportation is not outside the scope of the Constitutional protection under Art 22 (2). It is not permissible to read into that provision exceptions other than the two specific exceptions in Cl. (3). As the respondents were not produced before the nearest Magistrate within 24 hours of their arrest for the purpose of deportation, the arrest and detention were in contravention of Art 22 (2) and illegal. AIR 1953 S C 10 and AIR 1957 S C 688, Dist. State of Uttar Pradesh v. Abdul Samad, 1962 All L J 991 : ILR (1962) 2 All 547 : 1962 All Cr R 440 : 1962 All W R (HC) 780 : (1962) Supp 3 S C R 915 : (1963) 1 S C A 780 : 1963 S C D 385 : 1962 B L J R 952 : 1962 (2) Cr L J 499 : AIR 1962 S C 1506 (1511, 1512, 1513) (Prs 14, 15, 19, 20).

● ——Art. 22 (2) — Detention without authority of Magistrate.

A petition under Art. 32 of the Constitution alleged that A was arrested in Bomby on the 11th March. 1952, and taken in custody to Lucknow to be produced before the Speaker of the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly to answer a charge of breach of privilege. He was not produced before a Magistrate within twenty-four hours of his arrest and was in detention in the Speaker's custody at Lucknow even at the time of petition, which fact was admitted by the State.

Held, that the peremptory provisions of Art. 22 (2) were contravened and that A was entitled to release. Gunupati Keshavram v. Nafisul Hasan, 1954 Cr L J 1704 : AIR 1954 S C 636 (637) (Pr 2).

[The decision in the case proceeded on the concession of counsel and was not regarded as considered opinion and was not followed in AIR 1959 S C 395—Ed.]

—Art. 22 (2)—Applicability and scope—Detention in pursuance of conviction and sentence for contempt by Legislative Assembly—Art. 22 (2) does not apply.

The provisions of Art. 22 (2) of the Constitution cannot apply to a detention in pursuance of a conviction and imposition of a sentence of imprisonment by a competent authority. Article 22 (2) is applicable only at a stage when a person has been arrested and is accused of some offence or other act and it can have no application after such person has been adjudged guilty of the offence and is detained in pursuance of such adjudication.

Where a person has been convicted and sentenced for contempt by the Legislative Assembly, his production before a Magistrate would be absolutely futile. The Magistrate would have no power either to release such a person on bail or to make any other order or provision regarding his custody. The Constitution-makers could never have intended that an empty formality should be gone through which would serve no useful purpose. Hence the detention of the petitioner following conviction for contempt and sentence by the Legislative Assembly is not violative of the provisions of Art 22 (2) of the Constitution. AIR 1953 S C 10, Rel. on. 1965 All W R (H C) 286 : 1965 All Cr R 213 : (1965) 2 Cri L J 170 : ILR (1965) 2 All 281 : AIR 1965 All 349 (354, 355) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 22 (2) — Production of arrested person for remand before Magistrate on duty at Kotwali at odd hour — No violation of Art. 22 (2). AIR 1952 Assam 167, Foll. 1960 All L J 206 : 1960 All W R (H C) 145 : 1960 All Cr R 122 : 1960 Cr L J 1049 : AIR 1960 All 467 (467) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 22 (2) — Production of person arrested before Magistrate posted at Kotwali in executive capacity—Art. 22 (2) is satisfied—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 61).

In Art. 22 as well as in S. 61, Criminal P. C., the terms 'Magistrate' and 'Court of a Magistrate' are interchangeable ones and mean the same thing. When a Magistrate is posted at Kotwali with the primary duty to quell any disturbance that might arise, he discharges an executive function. Nevertheless when the arrested person is produced before him, and he has to consider the question of granting a remand, he exercises judicial functions, i.e, acts as a Court. In such a case, the production of the arrested person is before a Court of Magistrate within Art. 22 (2). Petition No. 2762 of 1959 (All), Foll. 1960 All L J 227 : 1960 All W R (H C) 215 : 1960 All Cr R 143 : ILR (1960) 2 All 792.

——Art. 22 (2) — Applicability.

Article 22 (2) has no application when an arrest is made under a warrant issued by a Court. 1952 S C J 364 : AIR 1952 S C 10 and AIR 1953 All 753, Foll. 1960 All W R (H C) 215 : 1960 All Cr R 143 : 1960 All L J 227 : ILR (1960) 2 All 792.

——Art. 22 (2) — Production before Magistrate at early hours of morning — Validity.

When the petitioner was produced before the Magistrate in the early hours of the morning and was granted a remand, the Magistrate acted as a Court, and therefore the production was in full conformity with the requirements of Art. 22 (2). 1960 All L J 227 : 1960 All W R (H C) 215 : 1960 All Cr R 143 : ILR (1960) 2 All 792.

——Art. 22 (2) -Scope and object of—Duty of Magistrate. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 167. 1959 Cr L J 685 : AIR 1959 All 384 (DB).

——Art. 22 (2) -Time of arrest—Materiality of.

The actual time of arrest is material in order to judge whether the police authorities did or did not comply with the requirements of Art. 22 (2) by the production of the accused before a Magistrate within the prescribed time. 1957 All W R (H C) 14 : 1957 All L J 152 : 1957 Cri L J 427 : AIR 1957 All 189 (191) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 22 (2) — "Shall be produced before the nearest Magistrate".

Petitioner arrested without a warrant by a Station Officer on his own authority - Within few minutes of arrest City Magistrate going to the spot in his executive capacity — Arrested person produced before such Magistrate who was fully competent to authorise detention in custody — Petitioner remanded to jail custody by City Magistrate — Held, that in the circumstances the arrest not having been made by the Station Officer under the direction or supervision of the Magistrate, it was not necessary for him to produce the accused before another Magistrate and in producing the accused before the City Magistrate on the spot there was full compliance with Art. 22 (2). AIR 1954 All 601, Disting. 1955 Cr L J 623: ILR (1955) 1 All 355 : AIR 1955 All 193 (198, 215) (Pt G) (Prs 5, 55) (DB).

——Art. 22 (2)—Art. 22 (2) and Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 61.

Article 22 (2) of the Constitution in effect not only gives constitutional protection to the provision contained in S. 61, Criminal P. C. but further liberalizes it by making the provision applicable in those cases also where the arrest is made in pursuance of a warrant. 1954 All L J 355 : AIR 1954 All 601 (604) (Pt D) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Art. 22 (2)—Production before Magistrate.

On 17th February, 1954, the petitioners were arrested by a Magistrate acting under S. 64, Cr. P. Code for having obstructed the entry of the Harijans into the temple of Shri Vishwanathji of Banaras through the main gate and thereby having committed an offence punishable under S. 6 of the U. P. Removal of Social Disabilities Act, 1947. On the same day the Magistrate remanded the petitioners into jail custody. It was contended for the petitioners that they were not produced before the Magistrate within 24 hours of their arrest as required by Art. 22 (2), Constitution of India.

Held, (i) that the Magistrate in directing the arrest of the petitioners did not, as contemplated by S. 167 Cr. P. Code, act as a Court nor had he an opportunity of applying a judicial mind to the facts of the case; and

(ii) that in the circumstances of the case there was no proper production of the petitioners before a competent Magistrate within 24 hours of their arrest without warrants and consequently their further detention in jail was illegal and unconstitutional. AIR 1953 SC 10, Rel. on. 1954 All L J 355 : AIR 1954 All 601 (605) (Pt F) (Prs 32, 34) (DB).

——Art. 22—"Magistrate"—Magistrate contemplated by Cl. (2) is the Court of Magistrate and not a Magistrate acting in any other capacity such as when he passes orders as a persona designata. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 123-A (U. P.) AIR 1950 All 562.

——Art. 22 (2)—Order of remand—Who can pass — Subsequent remand — Production of accused before Magistrate — Necessity of — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 167).

An order of remand can only be passed by a Magistrate sitting as a Court. It is immaterial where such a Magistrate was sitting at the time of the passing of the order, Neither Art. 22 of the Constitution nor S. 167, Criminal P. C. requires production of an accused person before a Magistrate on the occasion of a subsequent remand. ILR (1952) 4 Assam 18 : 1952 Cri L J 1659 : AIR 1952 Assam 167 (167, 168) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

● ——Art. 22 — Non-production of detained person within 24 hours of his arrest—Offends Art. 22 (2) —

Order of detention cannot be upheld. See Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930), Preamble. AIR 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

9. Right of foreign nationals.

——Art. 22 (4) (a) and Part III, (General) — Foreign nationals not entitled to claim fundamental right— (Right under Art. 22). See Ibid, Art. 12. 1964 (2) Cr L J 588 : AIR 1964 Tripura 57.

10. Validity of Preventive Detention Act (1950).

●——Art. 22 (4) and (7)—Scope — S. 11 (1), Preventive Detention Act — Validity. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11 (1). 1958 Cr L J 283 : AIR 1958 SC 163.

●——Art. 22 — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11-A — Classification by, of detentions into those before and after 30-9-1952—Whether ultra vires of Cl. (7) (b) of this article and Art. 14. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (4 of 1950), S. 11A. AIR 1953 SC 52.

●——Art. 22 — Preventive Detention (Amendment) Act (1952), S. 3 — Validity of. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention (Amendment) Act (1952), S. 3. AIR 1952 SC 324.

●——Art. 22 - Preventive Detention Act whether ultra vires of the Constitution. See Public Safety— Preventive Detention Act (1950), Ss. 12 and 14. 51 Cri L J 1383 : AIR 1950 SC 27.

——Art. 22 — Applicability and scope — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3—Validity. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1956 All 589 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Preventive Detention Act (1950), Ss. 9 and 10—Validity—S. 10 does not offend against principles of natural justice or test of proper judicial inquiry. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 9. ILR (1956) Bom 715.

——Art. 22 (7) (a)—Ss. 11 (1) and 11-A, Preventive Detention Act (1950) — Validity — Opinion of Advisory Board obtained and final order of detention passed within 3 months of original order—Question of validity of sections does not arise.

Though the Preventive Detention Act, 1950, does not provide for any circumstance under which a detenu may be detained for a period longer than three months without a reference to an Advisory Board the the omission of such a provision cannot make S. 11 (1) or S. 11-A of the Preventive Detention Act ultra vires. Where, however, the opinion of the Advisory Board had been obtained and the final order of detention made within three months from the date of the original order of detention, invalidity of the order of detention or the question of S. 11 (1) or 11-A of the Preventive Detention Act being ultra vires of Art. 22 (7) of the Constitution cannot arise. 1962 (1) Cr L J 279: AIR 1962 Cal 119 (121) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

11. J. & K. Preventive Detention Act— Validity of.

●——Art. 22—Jammu and Kashmir Preventive Detention Act (4 of 2011), S. 8 (1) Proviso — Validity — Constitutionality—Constitutionality questioned on the ground of its inconsistency with Arts. 21 and 22 of the Constitution. See Public Safety — Jammu and Kashmir Preventive Detention Act (4 of 2011), S. 8 (1) Proviso. AIR 1956 SC 197.

——Art. 22 (5) as applied to J. & K. State — Though Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution is violated, the provisions are not ultra vires in view of Art. 35 (c) as applied to J. & K. State. See Public Safety — J. & K. Preventive Detention Act, S. 8 (1). 1963 (1) Cr L J 765 : AIR 1963 J & K 23.

12. Preventive detention — General.

(a) Meaning and object of preventive detention.

(b) Law of preventive detention — Essentials of validity.

(c) Legislative competency.

(d) Conformity to law.

(e) Criminal prosecution, if a bar to preventive detention.

12. Preventive detention — General.

●——Art. 22 — Defence of India Act (1962), Section 3 (2) (15) (i) — Detention under Defence of India Act, 1962 not open to challenge by virtue of Presidential Order under Art. 359 (1) of the Constitution — The fact that emergency may last for a long period and as a consequence citizens may be precluded from enforcing fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 21 and 22 during the period of the Order has no bearing on the validity of detention — How long the Proclamation of Emergency should continue and what restrictions should be imposed on the fundamental rights of citizens during the pendency of the emergency, are matters which must inevitably be left to the executive because the executive knows the requirements of the situation and the effect of compulsive factors which operate during periods of grave crisis — Similarly the argument that during the operation of the Presidential Order, the executive may abuse its power and the citizens would have no remedy is essentially political and its impact on the constitutional question is at best indirect — In a democratic State the effective safeguard against abuse of executive powers whether in peace or in emergency, is ultimately to be found in the existence of enlightened, vigilant and vocal public opinion. See Defence of India Act (1962), S. 3 (2) (15) (i). AIR 1964 S C 381.

●——Art. 22 — Deprivation of personal liberty — Obligation to follow procedure established by law— Applicability of rule to preventive detention before Constitution. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1952 S C 106.

●——Art. 22 — Preventive detention—Whether infringes on rights guaranteed under Part III.

Preventive detention is not by itself considered an infringement of any of the fundamental rights mentioned in Part III of the Constitution. This is subject to the limitations prescribed in Cl. (5) of Art. 22 of the Constitution. State of Bombay v. Atma Ram, 1951 S C J 208 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 389 : 53 Bom L R 437 : 1951 S C R 167 : 1951 All L J (SC) 36 : 1951 Mad W N 532 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 148 : 52 Cri L J 373 : AIR 1951 S C 157 (164, 165) (Pt D) (Prs 15, 18).

——Art. 22 — Scope — Freedom of expression—Reasonable restriction—Preventive detention for inciting violence — Legality. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (a). 1957 Cr L J 1361 : AIR 1957 All 782 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Preventive and punitive detention — Distinction between — Issue of warrant under S. 3, Preventive Detention Act against person in Jail awaiting trial—Legality. See (1) Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1950 Hyd 66.

——Arts. 22 (7), 246, Sch. 7, List III, Item 3 — Preventive detention legislation — Powers of State — Successive legislations.

Per Sarjoo Prasad J. — It is not open to any State to play with the life and liberty of its citizens and in providing legislation for preventive detention. It must always pay due care and attention so that the legislation so enacted or promulgated is beyond exceptions. A State must, therefore, exercise due care and attention in framing all such law and legislations lest it may be accused of bad faith on account of any hasty or ill-advised move taken in that direction. Successive legislations and orders of detention passed under legislations which have ultimately to be abandoned as found to be defective and void on technical grounds may in most cases lead to the unfortunate result of detaining a person for a period much beyond that contemplated by Art. 22 of the Constitution of India. A State must, therefore, guard against any such unfortunate action. ILR 29 Pat 410: 51 Cri L J 1251 : AIR 1950 Pat 332 (345) (Pt G) (Prs 5, 3).

12 (a). Meaning and object of preventive detention.

● ——Art. 22 — Order of detention — Nature of. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. 1959 Cr L J 1501 : AIR 1959 S C 1335.

——Art. 22 (4) — Scope — Criminal P. C., S. 123 — Preventive detention under — If falls within ambit of Art. 22 (4).

The basis of the order under S. 123, Criminal Procedure Code, awarding imprisonment for non-compliance with the same is that the person proceeded against is likely to commit offences or a breach of the peace unless he furnishes security. It is a precautionary and not a punitive measure. The fact that an order demanding security precedes the order of detention under S. 123 would make no difference to the character of the detention being precautionary. The detention contemplated by Cl. (4) of Art. 22 is detention ordered by the executive authority, and not that ordered by a judicial tribunal after the full trial. It follows that that preventive detention ordered by a Court under S. 123, Criminal P. C., does not come within the ambit of Art. 22 (4). 1956 Andh W R 450 : 1957 Cr L J 826 : A I R 1957 A P 268 (271) (Pt C) (Prs 11, 12, 15).

——Art. 22 (4) — Preventive detention — Detention under S. 123, Criminal P. C.—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 123).

The preventive detention in the Article means preventive detention by an executive authority and not detention by any order passed by a judicial tribunal after a full trial. Therefore the provisions of S. 123, Criminal P. C., which provides for detention for failure to give security which is ordered after full trial is not the detention referred to in Art. 22 (4) of the Constitution and therefore it is not ultra vires of the Constitution. (1956) 1 M L J 232 : 1956 Cr L J 750 : 1956 Mad W N 77 : AIR 1956 Mad 292 (293) (Pr 4).

——Art. 22 (3)—Preventive detention and externment or banishment — Distinction — Nature, object and effect of latter. 54 Pun L R 312 : ILR (1952) Punj 362 : 1953 Cri L J 421 : AIR 1953 Punj 52 (54, 55) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

12 (b). Law of preventive detention — Essentials of validity.

——Art. 22 — Defence of India Act (1962) and Defence of India Rules (1962) — Validity of.

A perusal of the Act and the Defence of India Rules clearly reveals that their provisions are violative of Cls. (4), (5) and (7) of Art. 22 of the Constitution. There is no provision in the impugned laws for an Advisory Board or for furnishing grounds to a detenu so that he may know why he is detained and make a representation against the order of detention. Preventive detention for more than 3 months has been provided for without the Act having prescribed the circumstances under which and the class or the classes of cases in which the Act was to apply and the maximum period for which detenus of any class or classes could be detained. No procedure is for consulting an advisory board is provided. It is true that R. 30 (a) provides for review but that does not affect the position. Its provisions do not touch the merits of the order of detention already made but simply provide a machinery by which an order already made can be reviewed by the same or higher authorities at a later stage. (63) 1963 All W R (HC) 559.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 S C 381.]

——Art. 22 — Section 123-A (U. P.), Criminal P. C.— Failure to provide for advisory Board though provision has been made for detention in excess of three months — Validity. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 123-A (U. P.). AIR 1950 All 562 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Law under which preventive detention is ordered should not be against the Constitution. 1959 Cri L J 160 : (1958) 2 Andh W R 589 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 913 : 1958 Andh L T 1136 : AIR 1959 Andh Pra 73 (75, 76) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Assam Maintenance of Public Order Act (5 of 1947) (as amended by Assam Act 21 of 1950) — Act whether one providing for preventive detention — Provision in, for imposing restriction without providing for reference to advisory Board — Validity. See Public Safety — Assam Maintenance of Public Order Act (5 of 1947) as amended by Assam Act (21 of 1950), S. 2. 1953 Cri L J 657 : AIR 1953 Assam 77.

——Art. 22 — Violation of safeguards prescribed by article — Effect of.

A preventive detention cannot be justified if there has been a violation of any of the safeguards provided by Art. 22, the most important of which is contained in sub-cl. (6). 52 Bom L R 794 : ILR 1951 Bom 92 : 52 Cri L J 437 : AIR 1951 Bom 252 (253 to 255) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

● —Art. 22—West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949) — Provides for preventive detention — Absence of provision in, for constitution of advisory board — Offends Art. 22 (4). See Public Safety — West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949), S. 22. AIR 1950 Cal 274 (S B).

——Art. 22—Scope— Art. 22 is to be read as proviso to Art. 21.

Per Govinda Menon J.— One of the modes of depriving the personal liberty is indicated in Art. 22 which should be read as a proviso to Art. 21. The curtailment of personal liberty should be in accordance with what is prescribed by Art. 22. If that article is followed both in letter and spirit the Court cannot question an Act dealing with preventive detention. As Art. 22 prescribes the procedure established by law for making preventive detention valid, it is essential that its terms should be complied with and observed, if preventive detention has to be legally recognised and given effect to. Otherwise the detention will be unlawful. It is, therefore, abundantly clear that the Indian Constituent Assembly intended to define and explain what is meant by "procedure established by law" in Art. 21 by enacting Art. 22 as a proviso to it. So with regard to preventive detention Art. 22 clearly lays down the procedure to be adopted. 1952 Cri L J 170 : A I R 1951 Mad 1015 (1025) (Pt I) (Pr 18) (DB)

12 (c). Legislative competency.

● —— Arts. 22, 246, Sch. 7 List I, Entry 9 and List 3, Entry 3—Preventive detention—Power of Parliament to enact law.

Bearing in mind the provisions of Art. 22 read with Art. 246 and Sch. 7, List I, Entry 9 and List III, Entry

3, it is clear that the Parliament is empowered to enact a law of preventive detention (a) for reasons connected with defence, (b) for reasons connected with foreign affairs, (c) for reasons connected with the security of India, and (under List III), (d) for reasons connected with the security of State, (e) for reasons connected with the maintenance of public order, or (f) for reasons connected with the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (42, 121, 122) (Pt Z1) (Prs 26, 244, 245).

12 (d). Conformity to law.

——Art. 22 (5)—Curtailment of freedom of person.

The same act may, at the same time, warrant restriction being placed on two freedoms, namely one, freedom of the right of expression and the other the liberty of the person. However liberty of a person is a much wider thing than freedom of expression. And if what is sought to be curtailed is the liberty of the detenu as distinguished from his freedom of expression the detenu cannot complain against the order of detention on the ground that to the extent that he published secretly unauthorised objectionable news sheets action should have been taken against him under the Press Emergency Powers Act 1931, and not under the Preventive Detention Act, 1950. 53 Bom L R 127 : 52 Cri L J 418 : ILR (1951) Bom 546 : A I R 1951 Bom 33 (41, 45) (Pt F) (Prs 15, 24) (DB).

——Art. 22 (4)—Detention under Preventive Detention Act for period beyond life of Act—Validity. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 1 (3)). AIR 1955 Cal 374 (DB).

——Art. 22— Failure by advisory board to submit report within period prescribed by S. 10, Preventive Detention Act—Consequent omission by Government to pass orders under S. 11 of that Act — Detenu's right to be released. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10. AIR 1953 Sau 63 (DB).

——Art. 22 – Report of advisory Board not submitted to Government within 10 weeks prescribed by S. 10, Preventive Detention Act (1950)—Validity of further detention. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10 (1). AIR 1953 Sau 51.

12 (e). Criminal prosecution, if a bar to preventive detention.

——Art. 22—Scope—Action can be taken under S. 3, Preventive Detention Act (1950) even in respect of matter as to which criminal prosecution can be launched. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1957 Cal 74 (DB).

——Art. 22— Person in jail awaiting trial — Warrant issued against him under S. 3, Preventive Detention Act — Legality of. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1950 Hyd 66.

● ——Art. 22—Person undergoing trial for substantive offence or convicted therefor — Order of detention in respect of — Legality. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. ('50) 29 Pat 502 (FB).

13. Satisfaction of detaining authority.

——Art. 22 — Preventive detention — Satisfaction of detaining authority — Question of maintenance of public order—Grounds must be germane to that question —See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (1) (a). ILR (1956) Bom 715.

——Art. 22 — Satisfaction of detaining authority — Mistake in describing grounds of detention. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1954 Cal 591 (DB).

——Art. 22— Government exercising discretion under S. 11 (1), Preventive Dentention Act — Opinion and report of Advisory Board, if should be considered — Relevancy of opinion and report — Secrecy of report. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11. 1958 Cr L J 1047 : AIR 1958 Mad 425 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Satisfaction of detaining authority — Satisfaction is presumed unless rebutted by detenu — Presumption. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (1) (a) (i). 1965 (2) Cri L J 119 : AIR 1965 Punj 270 (DB).

14. Bona fides of the order of detention.

● ——Art. 22 — Mala fides of order of detention — Relevant consideration. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1958 S C 163.

● ——Art. 22—Mala fides of detaining authority—See Public Safety —Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1956 S C 531.

——Art. 22—Preventive detention—Bona fides of the order– Order passed during detention for trial under ordinary criminal law —Validity — (Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (1)).

If the person is convicted and sentenced for alleged offences under the ordinary law the necessity for an order of detention under the Preventive Detention Act ceases to exist, at least until he has served out his sentence. Even an order of detention passed shortly before the expiry of the sentence and in anticipation of the release would not necessarily be wrong. AIR 1958 S C 451 and A I R 1944 Pat 354 Rel. on; A I R 1948 All 281, Disting. I L R (1957) 2 All 42 : 1957 Cr L J 1361 : AIR 1957 All 782 (796) (Pt G) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Power should not be exercised in bad faith.

The action of the detaining authority should not be ultra vires the law empowering preventive detention. The power should not be exercised in bad faith or in an arbitrary manner or for a collateral purpose but the detaining authority should be honestly satisfied. 1959 Cri L J 160 : (1958) 2 Andh W R 589 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 913 : 1958 Andh L T 1136 : AIR 1959 Andh-Pra 73 (75, 76) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 9—Mala fides– Detention order during pendency of case against person or immediately after his discharge — Not mala fide. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 9. A I R 1955 NUC (Cal) 1009.

——Art. 22 — Detention under S. 3, Preventive Detention Act — Allegation of mala fide — Burden of proof — Order found to be in conformity with the Act and not outside its scope or object — Question of mala fide, whether can arise. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491. AIR 1960 Guj 43.

——Art. 22 — Allegation of mala fide detention — Duty of Court. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1952 Hyd 112 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Person arrested and detained in police custody for being prosecuted for certain crime — Government subsequently changing its mind to preventively detain him — Detention, if mala fide. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1952 Hyd 112 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Mala fides of authorities. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. 1961 Jab L J 522.

——Art. 22—Bona fides of detention — Relevant factors. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. 1958 Cri L J 1047 : AIR 1958 Mad 425 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Scope—Detenu charged-sheeted in criminal prosecution—Ground of detention not same as offence set out in charge — No question of mala fides. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10. 1958 Cri L J 1047 : AIR 1958 Mad 425 (DB).

● ——Art. 22—Person undergoing trial for substantive offence or convicted therefor — Order for preventive detention in respect of. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950). (1950) I L R 29 Pat 502 (FB).

——Art. 22 — Preventive detention — Bona fides of the order of detention.

Because a man might have been prosecuted under the ordinary criminal law on the basis of allegations put forward as grounds for the detention, his detention under the Preventive Detention Act is not necessarily illegal. It is quite easy to conceive of circumstances in which, even in such a case, the main purpose of the detention is evidently preventive and not punitive. Where the whole gravamen of the grounds of detention are that the detenu is so powerful himself, and is also a close associate of desperados, that it is impossible to procure witnesses to appear against him for the purpose of dealing with him under the ordinary law recourse to the powers of preventive detention by the authorities is not only legitimate, but is the only course which they could adopt for the purpose of restoring a healthier atmosphere in which the ordinary process of law can be exercised properly. A I R 1953 S C 451; 1950 S C J 433, Disting. 56 Punj L R 291 : 1954 Cri L J 1068 : AIR 1954 Punj 154 (156, 157) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 22—Mala fide of detention—Burden of proof. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1952 Raj 171.

15. Advisory board.

——Arts. 22 (4), 226—Power of High Court to grant writ of habeas corpus— (Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 8).

Neither S. 8 of the Preventive Detention Act, 1950, nor Cl. (4) (a) of Art. 22 constitutes the Advisory Board a Court of law or imposes on it the duty of determining whether a person's detention is legal. All that S. 8 of the Preventive Detention Act does is to constitute a body which, as its name implies, is a purely advisory body whose duty it is to advise the Government whether in its opinion there is sufficient cause for the continued detention of a particular person or persons. Its opinion cannot operate to oust the jurisdiction of the High Court to determine whether the grounds upon which the petitioner was detained satisfied the requirements of the law. The High Court has no concern with the proceedings of the Advisory Board The fact that the Constitution has provided an Advisory Board for advising on cases of preventive detention does not mean that the right of the High Court to grant a writ of habeas corpus in cases where the initial arrest in the opinion of the High Court was illegal or improper has been taken away. AIR 1953 Raj 177, Rel. on. 1954 All L J 6 : 1954 All W R (H C) 34 : 1954 Cri L J 685 : I L R (1954) 2 All 230 : A I R 1954 All 315 (315, 316) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 10) (DB).

——Art. 22 (7) (c)—Advisory Board does not exercise functions of Court — Its duty is to report about sufficiency of cause for detention — See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10. A I R 1965 Punj 270 (DB).

16. Procedure before advisory board.

——Art. 22 — Object of Advisory Board's report — Communication of Board's report to detenu more than three months after his arrest — Effect of — See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10. AIR 1956 All 589.

——Art. 22 (5) — Scope — Refusal of the Advisory Board to call records of cases required by detenu — There is no infringement either of Art. 22 (5) or of S. 10 of the Preventive Detention Act (1950).

Article 22 (5) provides for a constitutional right to be told as to why a person has been detained. Section 10 of the Preventive Detention Act makes a procedural provision for the Advisory Board to call for such information as it may deem necessary from the appropriate Government or from any person or from the detenu concerned. It is the Board's discretion to call for such further particulars as it may deem necessary in a given case. There is no infringement of either Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution or of S. 10 of the Preventive Detention Act, by reason of the Board's refusal to accede to the request of the detenu to call for the record. 1962 Cri L J 311 : ILR (1961) 1 Cal 276 : AIR 1962 Cal 162 (163, 164) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 22—Report of Advisory Board whether judgment—Opinion of Board—Whether should be backed by report. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10. 1958 Cri L J 1047 : A I R 1958 Mad 425 (DB).

——Art. 22 (4) — Confirmation of detention must be within three months from the date of detention. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S 11. 1959 Cri L J 63 : AIR 1959 Mys 7 (DB).

——Art. 22 (4)— Procedure before advisory board — Detenu desiring opportunity of being personally heard —Such opportunity not given—Effect of. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10. A I R 1955 NUC (Raj) 4639 (DB).

17. Advisory board — Qualification of members.

——Arts. 22 (4) (a) and 165 (1) — Qualifications for appointments under—Age limit, if one such qualification.

The qualifications for appointment as a High Court Judge as contemplated by Art 22 (4) (a) and Art 165 (1) of the Constitution refer only to those qualifications described in Art. 217 (2) and do not refer to the age limit fixed in Art. 217 (1). The age limit is not one of the qualifications. 17 Cut L T 366 : AIR 1952 Orissa 60 (61) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

18. Clause (7) (a) and (b)—"Any law".

——Art. 22—Scope.

The words employed in Art. 22 (7) are not 'a law in force' or 'an existing law' but only 'any law'. Prima facie, it could not therefore refer to 'a law in force' or 'existing law' but to 'a law'. Art. 22, if read carefully, only indicates that it was intended to apply to a prospective legislation. 52 Cri L J 170 : A I R 1951 Mad 1015 (1040) (Pt J) (Pr 63) (DB).

——Arts. 22 (7), 373 — Power of Parliament and President under.

The Parliament's power under Art. 22 (7) (a) and (b) can only relate to detentions made under any law enacted in pursuance and in conformity with the provisions of Art. 22 (4). Neither the Parliament nor the President acting under Art. 373 can therefore prescribe what it is empowered to do under Art. 22 (7) (a) and (b), in respect of the detentions made under a law in force prior to commencement of the Constitution. 52 Cri L J 170 : AIR 1951 Mad 1015 (1041) (Pt K) (Pr 64) (DB).

19. Maximum period of detention.

● ——Art. 22 — Power of Parliament to prescribe minimum period for a class of cases taken as a whole. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention (Amendment) Act (1952), S. 3. AIR 1952 S C 324.

● —Art. 22 (7) — Power under Art. 22 (7) — Limitation upon.

It cannot be said that once the power given under clause (7) to fix a maximum period has been exercised the power exhausts itself and cannot be exercised again in respect of the same detention. No such limitation is imposed upon Parliament by the Constitution. Shamrao v. Dist. Magistrate, Thana, 1952 S C J 476 : 52 Cri LJ 1503 : 1952 SCR 683 : 54 Bom L R 877 : (1952) S C A 635 : AIR 1952 S C 324 (328) (Pt F) (Pr 22).

● — Art. 22 (7) — Scope—Article, whether confers fundamental right.

Per Mahajan J. — If the Parliament by law under Art. 22 (7) prescribed a maximum period for which any person may be detained under any law providing for preventive detention, then that period does not become a part of the fundamental right conferred on a person under Part III of the Constitution. Article 22 in clause 7 does not confer a fundamental right on a person; on the other hand, in its true concept, it restricts to a certain degree the measure of the fundamental right contained in clause 4 (a) of the Article.

Per Bose J. — The provisions of cls. 4 (a), 4 (b) and 7 (b) of Art. 22 confer a fundamental right not to be detained beyond a certain period. The extent of that period can vary but the maximum period of detention cannot exceed certain fixed limits. Those limits are [a] in the first instance, three months : if not, (b) the maximum prescribed by Parliament under sub-cl. 7 (b). No law can be made authorizing detention either under sub-cl. 4 (a) or 4 (b) [b] unless a maximum period of detention is prescribed by Parliament under sub-cl. 7 (b). Krishnan v. State of Madras, 1951 S C J 453 : (1951) 2 Mad L J 105 : 52 Cri L J 1103 : 64 Mad L W 945: 1951 S C R 621: AIR 1951 S C 301 (307, 308) (Pt E) (Prs 24, 38).

● — Art. 22 (7)—Scope—Does not confer legislative power—Period of detention prescribed by it can be altered by Parliament.

Per Mahajan J. — The ambit of the legislative powers of the Parliament is contained in Art. 245 of the Constitution read with the entries in Sch. 7. Article 22 of the Constitution restricts those powers to a certain extent. It does not enlarge them. Clause 7, however, cuts down these restrictions to a certain extent. Parliament having power to make the law has also the power to alter or amend it, if it so chooses. It cannot, therefore, be argued that the Parliament has no authority to alter the period of one year prescribed under Art. 22 (7) (b) as the section does not confer any legislative power on Parliament. Krishnan v. State of Madras, 1951 S C J 453 : (1951) 2 Mad L J 105 : 52 Cri L J 1103 : 64 Mad L W 945 : 1951 S C R 621 : AIR 1951 S C 301 (307) (Pt F) (Pr 25).

——Art. 22 — C. P. and Berar Public Safety Act (62 of 1948), S. 2 (1) (a) — Implied provision in section conferring power to detain for an indefinite period —Validity of. See Public Safety — C. P. and Berar Public Safety Act (62 of 1948), S. 2 (1) (a). AIR 1950 Nag 203 (DB).

20. Detention beyond three months without obtaining opinion of advisory board.

● — Art. 22 (7)—'Such detention'—If refers to preventive detention or to period of detention—S. 11 (1), Preventive Detention Act—Validity of—See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11 (1). 1958 Cri L J 283 : AIR 1958 S C 163.

● — Art. 22 (4) (a)—Detention order not specifying definite period of detention — Omission is not material rendering order invalid See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 12. AIR 1952 SC 350.

● —Art. 22 (7) (a)—'And'—Meaning—Words and Phrases.

(Majority view, Bose J., dissenting)—Sub-clause (a) of cl. 7 of Art. 22 being an enabling provision, the word 'and' should be understood in a disjunctive sense: AIR 1950 S C 27, Rel. on. Krishnan v. State of Madras, 1951 S C J 453 : (1951) 2 Mad L J 105 : 52 Cri L J 1103 : 64 Mad L W 945 : 1951 S C R 621 : AIR 1951 S C 301 (303) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

● —Art. 22 (4) (a)—"Such detention".

Per Fazl Ali J. — The words "such detention" occurring at the end of cl. (4) (a) of Art. 22 mean detention for a period of longer than three months.

Per Patanjali Sastri J. Contra — The words "such detention" in sub-cl. (a) refer back to the preventive detention mentioned in cl. (4) and not to detention for a longer period than three months. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (61, 76) (Pt Ze) (Prs 80, 120).

● —Art. 22, cls. (4) (a) and (7)—Cl. (7) whether is exception to cl. (4) (a).

Per Kania C. J. and Patanjali Sastri J.:—An attempt to correlate cl. (4) (a) and cl. 7 (a) as a rule and an exception respectively is opposed both to the language and the structure of those clauses. They are two alternatives provided by the Constitution for making laws on preventive detention. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (42, 63, 77) (Pt Zf) (Prs 25, 83, 124).

● —Art. 22 (7)—Interpretation of.

Per Kania C. J. — In the case of an Act of preventive detention passed by the Parliament, cl. (7) of Art. 22 contained in the Chapter on Fundamental Rights. permits detention beyond a period of three months and excludes the necessity of consulting an Advisory Board, if the opening words of the sub-clause are complied with. Sub-clause (b) is permissive. It is not obligatory on the Parliament to prescribe any maximum period. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : AIR 1950 S C 27 (42) (Pt Zg) (Pr 25).

● —Art. 22 (7) — Interpretation of—Real purpose and intention.

Per Mahajan J. — The real purpose of cl. (7) of Art. 22 is to provide for a contingency where compulsory requirement of an Advisory Board may defeat the object of the law of preventive detention. This clause is incorporated in the Constitution to meet abnormal and exceptional cases, the cases being of a kind where an Advisory Board could not be taken into confidence. The authority to make such drastic legislation was entrusted to the supreme legislature but with the further safeguard that it can only enact a law of such a drastic nature provided it prescribed the circumstances under which such power had to be used or in the alternative it prescribed the classes of cases or stated a determinable group of cases in which this could be done. The intention was to lay down some objective standard for the guidance of the detaining authority on the basis of which without consultation of an Advisory Board detention could be ordered beyond the period of three months. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : 1950 Mad

W N (Cri) 127 : A I R 1950 S C 27: (85) (Pt Zh) (Pr 143).

● —Art. 22 (7) (a) — "The circumstances under which and the class or classes in which" — Sub-clause, whether is conjunctive or disjunctive.

Per Kania C. J., Patanjali Sastri and Das JJ.—The use of the word "which" twice in the first part of sub-cl. (a) of cl. (7) read with the comma put after each, shows that the legislature wanted these to be read as disjunctive and not conjunctive. By cl. (7) (a) of Art. 22, as worded, the legislature intended that the power of preventive detention beyond three months may be exercised either if the circumstances in which or the class or classes of cases in which, a person is suspected or apprehended to be doing the objectionable things mentioned in the section.

Per Fazl Ali and Mahajan JJ. Contra — The provision clearly means that both the circumstances and the class or classes of cases (which are two different expressions with different meanings and connotations and cannot be regarded as synonymous) should be prescribed, and prescription of one without prescribing the other will not be enough. A K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (44, 63, 79, 86, 123) (Pt Zi) (Prs 34, 84, 126, 144, 248).

● —Art. 22 (7) (a) — Parliament may prescribe either the circumstances or the classes of cases or both —Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 12 (1).

Per Patanjali Sastri and Das JJ. — Article 22 (7) (a) means that Parliament may prescribe either the circumstances or the classes of cases or both, and in enacting S. 12, Preventive Detention Act, 1950, Parliament evidently regarded the matters mentioned in cls. (a) and (b) of sub-s. (1) of that section as sufficiently indicative both of the circumstances under which and the classes in which a person could be detained for the longer period. To say, for instance, that persons who are likely to act prejudicially to the defence of India may be detained beyond three months is at once to "prescribe a class of persons in which and the circumstances under which" a person may be detained for the longer period. In other words, the classification itself may be such as to amount to a sufficient description of the circumstances for purposes of cl (7).

Per B. K. Mukherjea J.—Sub-clause (a) of Art. 22(7) lays down a purely enabling provision and Parliament, if it so chooses, may pass any legislation in terms of the same. Where an optional power is conferred on certain authority to perform two separate acts, ordinarily it would not be obligatory upon it to perform both; it may do either if it so likes. Here the classes have been specified and the classes apparently are composed of persons who are detained for the purpose of preventing them from committing certain apprehended acts. It is extremely doubtful whether the clauses themselves could be described as 'circumstances' as they purport to have been done in the section. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127 : (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 SCJ 88: A I R 1950 SC 27 (79, 104, 123) (Pt Zj) (Prs 126, 201, 248).

● —Art. 22 (7) (a) — Circumstances and class or classes — Meaning of — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 12 (1).

Circumstances ordinarily mean events or situation extraneous to the actions of the individual concerned, while a class of cases means determinable groups based on the actions of the individuals with a common aim or idea. Determinable may be according to the nature of the object also. The classification can be by grouping the activities of people or by specifying the objectives to be attained or avoided. A. K. Gopalan v. State of Madras, 1950 Mad W N (Cri) 127: (1950) 2 Mad L J 42 : 63 Mad L W 638 : 1950 S C J 174 : 51 Cri L J 1383 : 1950 S C R 88 : A I R 1950 S C 27 (45, 78, 86, 104) (Pt Zk) (Prs 35, 125, 145, 199).

—Art. 22 — Power of executive to decide time of detention — Obtaining opinion of Advisory Board on specific question whether detention for more than 3 months was necessary in particular case, is not necessary. AIR 1955 NUC (Madh B) 3100 (DB).

— Art. 22—Detention beyond three months—Meaning of. See Ibid, Art. 21. AIR 1953 Sau 51.

21. President's powers.

● —Arts. 22, 359, 358, 14, 21, 226 and 32 — Interpretation of Art. 359—Article is capable of only one construction — Scope of Art. 358 compared with that of Art. 359 — Effect of Presidential Order — Right to move High Court under Art. 226 falls within mischief of Art. 359 (1) — Nature of proceedings that are barred by Presidential Order under Art. 359 (1) —"Any Court" in Art. 359 (1), means any Court of competent jurisdiction — Vires of Defence of India Act and Rules on ground of violation of fundamental rights in issue in proceedings under S. 491 (1) (b), Criminal P. C. — Proceedings fall within mischief of Art. 359 (1) and the Presidential Order — Validity of Defence of India Act and Rules thereunder cannot be questioned on ground of violation of fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 21 and 22, for period of operation of Presidential Order under Art. 359. 1963 All W R (HC) 559, Overruled. See Ibid, Art. 359 (1). AIR 1964 SC 381.

● —Arts. 22, 359(1), 226—Detention under Defence of India Act and Rules— Presidential Order suspending enforcement of fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 21 and 22 during operation of order — Detention can be challenged on grounds of infringement of rights other than those specified in the order — Defence of India Act (1962), S. 3 (2) (15) (i) — Defence of India Rules (1962), R. 30 (1) (b) — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491 (1) (b). See Ibid, Art. 359 (1). AIR 1964 S C 381.

● —Arts. 22, 359 (1), 14, 21 — Presidential Order suspending enforcement of right under Arts. 14, 21 and 22 during period of emergency — By indirectly validating laws in infringement of Arts. 14, 21 and 22, the Order does not become a fraud on powers under Art. 359. See Ibid, Art. 359 (1). A I R 1964 S C 381.

● —Arts. 22, 359 (1), 32 — President ordering suspension of right to move Court for enforcing rights under Arts. 21 and 22 — Effect of the order — Person detained under R. 30 of Defence of India Rules — Petition to Supreme Court under Art. 32 for issue of writ of habeas corpus— Petitioner held had no locus standi to enforce the right — Defence of India Rules (1962), R. 30. See Ibid, Art. 359 (1). A I R 1964 S C 173.

—Art. 22 (4), (5) and (7)—Presidential order under Art. 389 in force — Application under S. 491, Criminal P. C., challenging validity of detention on the ground that the law, namely Defence of India Ordinance, Act and the Rules are ultra vires of the Constitution — Maintainability. ('63) 1963 All W R (HC) 559.

[Overruled in AIR 1964 S C 381.]

● — Arts. 22 (7) and 373 — Preventive Detention Extension of Duration Order (1950) passed by President in exercise of power under Art. 22 (7) (a) and Art. 373 — Whether revived Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1930 and West Bengal Security Ordinance, 1949 which had become void under Art 13 (1) on 25-1-1950 — See Public Safety — Preventive Detention (Extension of Duration) Order (1950). 51 Cri L J 1110: AIR 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

——Art. 22—Government can detain person for more than three months only after getting the opinion of the Advisory Board. It has nowhere been laid down that opinion of the Board on a specific question whether the detenu should be detained for more than three months is to be obtained. If the Board sees the detenu's case and confirms the order of detention, then the executive Government is empowered to keep the detenu in detention for any period not exceeding one year. It is within province of the executive to decide for which time the detenu is to be detained. The Advisory Board has nothing to do with the question. Madh B L J 1954 H C R 1195.

——Arts. 22 (7), 373 — Powers of President under Art. 373 — Extent of.

The powers conferred by Art. 373 on the President are not wider than those conferred on Parliament by cl. (7) of Art. 22 of the Constitution and, therefore, he cannot order the continuance of the detention of a person even in a case which is not covered by that clause. 51 Cri L J 1372: 1951 Nag L J 1: AIR 1950 Nag 203 (207) (Pt C) (Prs 18, 19) (DB).

——Art. 22—C. P. and Berar Public Safety Act (62 of 1948), S. 2 (1) (a) — Order of detention under—Effect of President C. O. 8. dated 26-1-1950 on the order of detention — Section, whether amounts to 'any law' so that the President has power to prescribe the circumstances under which period of detention may extend beyond 3 months without obtaining opinion of Advisory Board. See Public Safety—C. P. and Berar Public Safety Act (62 of 1948), S. 2 (1) (a), AIR 1950 Nag 203 (DB).

● ——Art. 22 — Detention under Orissa Maintenance of Public Order Act (4 of 1948 as amended in 1949) —Continuation of, after law in Ss. 2, 3 and 4 of Act became void after Constitution came into force—Whether can be justified under Preventive Detention (Extension of Duration) Order (1950). See ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1950 Orissa 157 (FB).

——Art. 22 (7)—Scope.

Article 22 (7) merely entitles the President to specify circumstances define classes in which a person may be detained under any pre-existing law for preventive detention. but without those limitations imposed by Art. 22 (4). It does not authorise making a new detention law that can stand by itself. 51 Cri L J 1081 : I L R 29 Pat 335 : AIR 1950 Pat 265 (271) (Pt F) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Art. 22—Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950), becoming void under Art. 13 (1) — Power of President to render the Act valid under Art. 22 (7) read with Art. 373 or by means of adaptations contemplated under Art. 372. See Public Safety — Bihar Maintenance of Public Order Act (3 of 1950). AIR 1950 Pat 265 (DB).

22. Clause (5)—General.

● ——Art. 22 (5)—'Communicate the grounds'—Communication, meaning of — Communication means bringing home to detenu effective knowledge of facts —Detenu under S. 3 (1) (a) (ii) of the Preventive Detention Act, 1950 not knowing enough English to understand grounds served upon him — In such case grounds should be in a language which he can understand. Harikisan v. State of Maharashtra, 1962 All W R (H C) 429 : 1962 All Cr R 248 : (1962) 2 S C A 233 : 64 Bom L R 522 : 1962 Nag L J 583 : 1962 M P L J 1015 : 1962 (1) Cr L J 797: (1963) 2 S C J 352 : (1963) 2 Mad L J (SC) 82 : 1963 Mad L J (Cri) 461 : (1963) 2 Andh W R (S C) 82 : 1962 Supp (2) S C R 918 : 1962 M P L J 1015 : 1963 Mad W N 16 : AIR 1962 S C 911 (913, 914) (Prs 7, 8).

● ——Art. 22 (5)—Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3—Right of detenu to be furnished with facts — Limitations — Satisfaction of appropriate authority — Grounds of satisfaction — Rights conferred by Art. 22 (5) of Constitution—Public Safety. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1958 S C 163.

——Art. 22 (5) — Power of State Government to revoke or modify under S. 13 order of detention—Does not include power to modify grounds under S. 7. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. ILR (1961) 1 All 427.

——Art. 22 (5)—Non-compliance of—Effect.

Order of detention passed by District Magistrate under S. 3 (2), Preventive Detention Act—Grounds of detention supplied to detenu by District Magistrate superseded by those supplied by State Government — No evidence to show that District Magistrate had signified his assent to modified grounds supplied by State—No affidavit by State that detention was necessary on modified grounds supplied by it — Held, in the facts and circumstances that there was clear violation of the constitutional guarantee under Art. 22 (5) vitiating the final order of detention. ILR (1961) 1 All 427.

——Arts. 22 (1) and 22 (5) — Decisions under Art. 22 (5)—Use of, under Art. 22 (1)—(Precedent).

Decisions of Courts under clause (5) of Art. 22 will be of much assistance in interpreting cl. (1) of Art. 22. 1956 Cr L J 13 : I L R (1956) 2 All 527 : AIR 1956 All 56 (59) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Refusal by Advisory Board to call for records required by detenu — There is no infringement of Art. 22 (5). 1962 (1) Cri L J 311 : AIR 1962 Cal 162 (163, 164) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Scope of, indicated — Non-compliance, when amounts to infringement of fundamental rights, stated — (Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11). A I R 1955 N U C (Cal) 1009 (DB).

23. "Grounds on which the order has been made."

● ——Art. 22 (5) — Communication of grounds of detention—Sufficiency.

(Per Kania C. J., Patanjali Sastri and Das JJ.—Mahajan and Bose JJ., dissenting.)

To hold that Art. 22 (5) requires that, wherever detention is grounded on alleged prejudicial speeches the detaining authority should indicate to the person detained the passages which it regards as objectionable, would rob the provisions of the Act of much of their usefulness in the very class of cases where those provisions were doubtless primarily intended to be used and where their use would be most legitimate. Where, therefore, an order of detention is based upon speeches made by the person sought to be detained, the detaining authority need not communicate to the person the offending passages or even the gist of such passages on pain of having the order quashed if it did not. If the time and place at which the speeches were alleged to have been made are specified and their general nature and effect (being such as to excite disaffection between Hindu and Muslims) is also stated these constitute sufficient particulars to enable the person to make his representation to the authority concerned, and the requirements of Art. 22 (5) are complied with.

Per Mahajan J. — The sufficiency of the material supplied is a justiciable issue though the sufficiency of the grounds on which the detaining authority made up its mind is not a justiciable issue. In the absence of any indication in the grounds as to the nature of the words used by the detenu in his speeches from which an inference has been drawn against him, he would not be able fully to exercise his fundamental right of making a representation and would not be able to furnish a proper defence to the charge made against him; Case No. 22 of 1950, Rel. on.

Per Bose J.—On the facts and circumstances of the present cases, the grounds supplied were insufficient and the gist of the offending passages should have been supplied. The omission to do so invalidates the detention. Ram Singh v. State of Delhi, 1951 All L J (S C) 111 : 1951 Mad W N 765 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 233 : 1951 S C R 451 : 1951 S C J 374 : 52 Cr L J 904 : AIR 1951 S C 270 : (273, 274 275, 277) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10, 18, 33).

——Art. 22 (5), (6) — Good grounds mixed up with bad grounds. See Ibid, Art. 21. AIR 1954 All 315 (DB).

——Art. 22—Grounds disclosed under—Essentials of —Grounds as evidence of satisfaction under S. 3— See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7 (1). AIR 1956 Bom 490.

——Art. 22 (5) — Scope — Non-compliance —Detention order — Failure to give sufficient particulars— Detention, if legal — Subsequent amplification or improvement by further and better particulars—If cures defect and legalises order of detention. See Preventive Detention Act, S. 7. AIR 1951 Bom 268 (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) and (6) — Construction and relative scope — Duty of detaining authority—Discretion of detaining authority — Power of Court to examine — Grounds on which exercise can be challenged.

Article 22 of the Constitution which deals with preventive detention confers upon the subject certain rights and privileges which are fundamental in their character and the observance of which is obligatory upon the Legislatures of the country. A preventive detention cannot be justified or supported if there has been a violation of any of the safeguards provided by Art. 22, one of the most important of which is contained in sub-cl. (5) of the Article. The true position, on a reading of sub-cls. (5) and (6) of Art. 22, is that sub-cl. (6) refers to that limited class of facts which the detaining authority is not under an obligation to disclose, i. e., where in the opinion of the detaining authority it is against the public interest to disclose the facts and under that sub-clause it is entirely for the detaining authority to decide whether a certain fact is or is not against public interest. The exercise of discretion under that clause may be challenged on the ground that the discretion has been exercised arbitrarily, capriciously or mala fide; but if the discretion is exercised properly, it is not for the Court to sit in judgment on an opinion formed by the detaining authority that certain facts are not in the public interest to disclose. But subject to that it is incumbent upon the detaining authority under Art. 22 (5) to disclose all facts which would enable the detenu to make a representation against the order which has been passed depriving him of his liberty, and it would be for the Court to determine whether the facts disclosed are sufficient or not sufficient to give the detenu the necessary opportunity to make the representation under sub-cl. (5). This is also the position under S. 7 (1) and (2) of the Preventive Detention Act, which has been passed in conformity with Art. 22 of the Constitution. A I R 1948 Bom 334; AIR 1949 Bom 319, Ref. I L R (1951) Bom 92 : 52 Cri L J 437 : 52 Bom L R 794 : A I R 1951 Bom 252 (253, 254, 255) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Scope — Right of person arrested and detained — Sufficiency of grounds or facts to be disclosed. See Preventive Detention Act, Ss. 3 and 7. AIR 1951 Bom 33 (DB).

——Arts. 22 (5), 246 — "Grounds" — Meaning of — Conflict between Act of Legislature and Constitution.

Where there is a conflict between an Act of a Legislature, which is enacted by it under a particular power given to it by Constitution, and the Constitution itself, then the words of the Constitution must prevail. 53 Bom L R 127 : 52 Cri L J 418 : I L R (1951) Bom 546 : A I R 1951 Bom 33 (36) (Pt H) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Object of—Vagueness of ground — Test—Scrutiny by Court—Permissibility.

Article 22 (5) of the Constitution enjoins upon the detaining authority the duty to communicate to the detenu, as soon as may be, the grounds on which the order has been made and the detaining authority should afford him the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the order. The object of this constitutional safeguard appears to be this that the grounds must be such as to enable the detenu to make what has been called an "effective representation". Vagueness of grounds therefore is not an abstract notion but is always to be examined by the test whether the grounds permit the detenu to make an effective representation or not. While the sufficiency of the grounds in the sense whether the same could give satisfaction to the Government is not a matter for examination by the Courts, the sufficiency of grounds in the sense of enabling a detenu to make an effective representation can be examined by the Courts. A I R 1951 Cal 194 and A I R 1951 S C 174, Referred to. 56 C W N 42 : 1952 Cri L J 204 : I L R (1953) 1 Cal 89 : A I R 1952 Cal 26 (28, 29) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Detention without furnishing grounds — Validity—Preventive Detention Act, 1950, S. 7.

Under Art. 22 of the Constitution and S. 7 of the Preventive Detention Act a detenu is entitled at the earliest possible opportunity to know the grounds of his detention. If there is any detention without furnishing of grounds to the person concerned such detention is not lawful. 52 Cri L J 502 : I L R (1951) Hyd 187 : AIR 1951 Hyd 79 (1) (79) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Scope — Failure to communicate grounds of detention to detenu — Effect on legality of detention.

Authorities directing detention of persons should have regard to the conditions attached to the exercise of the power of detention, e. g., that the persons detained must be informed as soon as may be of the grounds for their liberty being curtailed. These conditions have to be fulfilled before the arrested persons can be allowed to remain under arrest. Section 7 of the Preventive Detention Act also contains a similar provision. Since curtailment of personal liberty is subjected to certain conditions, such conditions must be complied with both in letter and in spirit in order to continue the detention. Non-compliance with the conditions, i. e., failure to communicate the grounds to the detenu renders the detention illegal. AIR 1950 Mad 162; AIR 1950 E P 222, Ref. A I R 1950 Hyd 68 (69) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 22 (5)—Scope—Compliance—"Grounds" of detention — Order under S. 3, Preventive Detention Act, reciting grounds as to security of State and maintenance of public order—Grounds served reciting only maintenance of public order — If amounts to withholding some grounds for detention.

The expression "the maintenance of public order" is comprehensive enough to include "the security of the State" as used in S. 3 of the Preventive Detention Act. Grounds relating to the maintenance of public order are not therefore necessarily different from the grounds relating to the security of the State. Whether an order of detention stated that the detenu had to be detained "with a view to prevent him from acting in a manner prejudicial to the security of the State and maintenance of public order," but the grounds served on the detenu and communicated to him disclosed only grounds concerning the maintenance of public order, it cannot be said that the grounds relating to the security of the State have been withheld from him and therefore that Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution has not been complied with. When the grounds served do not show or suggest that there were other grounds which led to the passing of the order of detention, the detention cannot be challenged as invalid because some grounds have been withheld from him contrary to Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution in that all the grounds have not been served on or communicated to the detenu. 1952 Cri L J 543 : A I R 1951 Pat 439 (2) (441, 443) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 12) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) and (6) — Scope — "Grounds" and "facts"—Distinction—Court's power to scrutinise or examine.

Under Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution the grounds on which an order of detention is made against a person have to be communicated to the detenu as soon as may be so as to afford the detenu an opportunity of making a representation against the order. Article 22 (6) makes a restriction in this respect and says that the detaining authority need not disclose facts which that authority considers to be against the public interest to disclose. A distinction is clearly drawn between grounds and facts. The grounds are the basis of the allegations, and the facts are the evidence on which the basis of the allegations are to be established. The "grounds" are based on and arise out of the "facts". The Court is concerned only with such facts as have been disclosed and on which the grounds are based, in order to find whether there has been any failure to comply with the mandatory provisions of Art. 22 (5), or whether the order is mala fide or whether it is bad for any other reason. AIR 1951 Cal 194, Ref. 30 Pat 630 : 52 Cri L J 406 : AIR 1951 Pat 47 (54) (Pts F & G) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 22—Detention ordered by District Magistrate — Detention later on extended by State Government — Detenu's right to fresh grounds on which order of Government is based. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. A I R 1951 Punj 119 (DB).

——Art. 22 (5)—Formulation of grounds — Duty of detaining authority.

It is the duty of the detaining authority to formulate the statement of grounds, against the detenu in a precise and concise manner. The grounds furnished to the detenu should consistently with the privilege not to disclose facts which are not desirable to disclose in public interest, be as full and adequate as the circumstances permit, and a departure from this desideratum would amount to a violation of Art. 22(5) of the Constitution which must entail the quashing the order of detention. 1958 Cri L J 962 : 1958 Raj L W 247: I L R (1958) 8 Raj 386 : AIR 1958 Raj 158 (161) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 22—Grounds of detention—Particulars of—If should be furnished—Right of detenu to ask for further particulars. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1952 Raj 171.

24. Vagueness of grounds.

(a) Effect of, on validity of detention.

24. Vagueness of grounds.

● ——Art. 22—Scope—Vagueness of grounds—What amounts to - Particulars of events—If to be definitely stated. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. 1959 Cri L J 1501 : AIR 1959 S C 1335.

● ——Art. 22 (6)—Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3—Right of detenu to be furnished with facts—Limitations—Satisfaction of appropriate authority — Grounds of satisfaction — Question of satisfaction whether justiciable and when — Rights conferred by Art. 22 (5) of Constitution. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1958 S C 163.

● ——Art. 22 (5)—Grounds of detention—Vagueness of grounds. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1956 S C 531.

● ——Art. 22 (5) — Vagueness of grounds — (Public Safety - Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7).

A layman who is not experienced in the interpretation of documents, can hardly be expected without legal aid, which is denied to him, to interpret the grounds in the proper sense. It is therefore, up to the detaining authority to make his meaning clear beyond doubt, without leaving the person detained to his own resource for interpreting them. Otherwise such grounds would be regarded as vague so as to render it difficult, if not impossible, for the petitioner to make an adequate representation. Ramkrishan Bhardwaj v. State of Delhi, (1953) S C J 444 : 1953 Cri L J 1241 : 1953 All W R (Supp) 66 : 1953 S C R 708 : 1953 S C A 604: AIR 1953 S C 318 (320) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

● ——Arts. 22 (5), 21—One of several grounds vague —Effect—(Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7).

Preventive detention is a serious invasion of personal liberty and such meagre safeguards as the Constitution has provided against the improper exercise of the power must be jealously watched and enforced by the Court.

A petitioner has the right, under Art. 22 (5), to be furnished with particulars of the grounds of his detention sufficient to enable him to make a representation which on being considered may give relief to him. This constitutional requirement must be satisfied with respect to each of the grounds communicated to the person detained, subject of course to a claim of privilege under Cl. (6) of Art. 22. Where it has not been done in regard to one of the grounds mentioned in the statement of grounds, the petitioner's detention cannot be held to be in accordance with the procedure established by law within the meaning of Art. 21 and he is, therefore, entitled to be released. A I R 1951 S C 157, Rel. on. Ram Krishan Bhardwaj v. State of Delhi, (1953) S C J 444 : 1953 Cri L J 1241 : 1953 All W R (Supp) 66 : 1953 S C R 708 : 1953 S C A 604 : AIR 1953 S C 318 (320) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 22 (5)—Information conveyed to detenu—Nature of—Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (4 of 1950), S. 7.

If the representation to be made by detenu contemplated by Art. 22 (5) has to be intelligible to meet the charges contained in the grounds, the information conveyed to the detained person must be sufficient to attain that object. Without getting information sufficient to make a representation against the order of detention it is not possible for the man to make the representation. Indeed the right will be only illusory but not a real right at all. The right to receive the grounds is independent but it is thus intentionally bound up and connected with the right to make the representation. State of Bombay v. Atma Ram, 52 Cri L J 373 : 1951 S C J 208 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 389 : 53 Bom L R 437: 1951 S C R 167: 1951 All L J (SC) 36 : 1951 Mad W N 532 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 148 : AIR 1951 S C 157 (161, 162) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 8).

——Art. 22 (5) – Vague grounds. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. A I R 1954 All 315 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Grounds of detention — Must be communicated with sufficient clarity and precision, as early as possible. (1958) 2 Andh W R 589 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 913 : 1958 Andh L T 1136 : 1959 Cri L J 160 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 73 (75, 76) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7 — Constitution of India, Art. 22 (5) — Grounds of detention — Insufficiency of particulars — Detenu has right to obtain further details. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. 1963 (2) Cri L J 499 : AIR 1963 Cal 589 (DB).

——Art. 22 (5)—Vagueness of grounds — (Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7).

Held, that even singly, far more so collectively, the grounds were conclusions drawn from the available facts showing that suspected activities of the detained persons fell within the category of prejudicial acts affecting the maintenance of supplies essential to the community. Moreover, though not all the 'grounds' were equally full, even in the case of the grounds' with the least details, they were capable of being intelligently understood and were sufficiently definite to furnish materials to enable the detained persons to make a representation against the respective orders of detention. The only answer of the detenus to the grounds being to deny them, the grounds were not necessarily vague on that account only. Case-law discussed. 1954 Cri L J 1722 : A I R 1954 Cal 591 (599) (Pt I) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 22—Vagueness—How determined.

Vagueness of grounds is not an abstract notion but is always to be examined by the test whether the grounds permit the detenu to make an effective representation. 56 Cal W N 42 : 1952 Cri L J 204 : I L R (1953) 1 Cal 89 : A I R 1952 Cal 26 (28, 29) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Question whether grounds are vague—Test to determine. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491. AIR 1960 Guj 43.

——Art. 22 (5) — Vagueness of grounds. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1953 Hyd 277 (DB).

● ——Art. 22—Grounds of detention — Statements in — Vagueness—Test. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. A I R 1951 Hyd 162 (FB).

——Art. 22 — Vagueness of grounds. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. 1961 Jab L J 522.

——Art. 22 (5), (6)—Basis of grounds—Disclosing of — Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act 1950, S. 7.

Though if the grounds of detention are very vague and indefinite so as to render the object of furnishing the grounds nugatory the order may be set aside, the detaining authority is under no obligation to disclose to the detenu the basis of the allegation, i. e., the particulars of the allegations on which the detention is made. It is not correct to say that what clause (6) of Art. 22 entitles the detaining authority is only to refrain from disclosing the detenu the evidence of the allegations. Grounds of detention cannot be said to be vague and indefinite for the reason that they do not contain the basis of those grounds. (1951) 1 M L J 274 : 64 Mad L W 311 : 1951 Mad W N 248 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 76 : 52 Cri L J 688 : A I R 1951 Mad 182 (184, 185) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 13) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5), (6) — Grounds — Vagueness—Public interest — Proof of — (Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11).

Clauses (5) and (6) of Art. 22 if read together make it obligatory on the Government to disclose all the grounds on which the order has been made though not all the facts constituting such grounds.

Where the State takes recourse under Cl. (6) of Art. 22, it must prove that the authority concerned was satisfied that it was not in public interest to disclose facts upon which the grounds for detention were based. I L R (1957) Mys 374 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 670 : 1959 Cri L J 63 : 36 Mys L J 424 : A I R 1959 Mys 7 (11) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5)—Infringement of fundamental rights —Grounds of detention supplied to the detenu.

There can be no infringement of any fundamental right of a detenu petitioner or the contravention of any constitutional provision if he has been supplied with sufficient particulars as soon as he raised the objection that the grounds supplied are vague.

Merely because a ground is vague it cannot be considered that it is no ground at all and therefore not sufficient to satisfy the authorities, and a vague ground does not stand on the same footing as an irrelevant ground, which can have no connection at all with the satisfaction of the Government. I L R (1951) Mys 455 : 1952 Cri L J 1526 : A I R 1952 Mys 85 (86) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5)—Grounds of detention — Vagueness of—Preventive Detention Act 1950, S. 3.

The grounds on which the officer passes the order for detention within the meaning of S. 3, Preventive Detention Act, 1950 should necessarily mean the detailed facts on which a prosecution in a criminal Court may be launched. It is not necessary to mention in the grounds the particulars in the same way as they are mentioned in a charge of a criminal offence.

Where in a case of detention for instigating in collaboration with a notorious outlaw, the landless labourers to loot foodgrains the grounds served upon the detenu clearly mentioned the places at which the disturbances have taken place and also the period when they took place, the mere fact that the exact date and hour and the part played by the detenu in each of the occurrences were not set out in detail will not render the grounds vague. 1952 Cri L J 543 : AIR 1951 Pat 439 (2) (441) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Vagueness of grounds. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7 (1). 1965 (2) Cri L J 119 : AIR 1965 Punj 270 (DB).

——Art. 22—Scope—Vagueness—Test—Government unable to make disclosure on ground of public interest—Detention—If valid—(Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3).

The question as to whether the grounds furnished are vague or not is ultimately a question that has to be determined on a consideration of the circumstances of each case. Even if there is a challenge on the ground of vagueness owing to the absence of certain particulars and facts which according to the Government could not be disclosed on the ground of public interest, the order of detention will still be valid in certain circumstances. It is for the Government to decide to what extent information could be supplied consistent with considerations of public interest. ('60) 62 Punj L R 257.

——Art. 22 (5)—Sufficiency of grounds — Vagueness —See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1954 Punj 154.

——Art. 22 (5)—Grounds of detention—Vagueness.

A detenu has the right, under Art. 22 (5) to be furnished with particulars of the grounds of his detention sufficient to enable him to make a representation which on being considered may give relief to him.

The ground that all murderers and all badmashes not only of the Punjab but from Pepsu and Rajasthan meet at the 'place of detenu' and that he and members of his party are 'schemers' and do no cultivation themselves, is much too vague a ground and does not comply with the fundamental right which is given to the detenu under Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution. AIR 1953 S C 318, Rel. on. A I R 1951 S C 157, Disting. 1954 Cri L J 940 : AIR 1954 Punj 133 (133) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Vagueness of grounds — Effect — Right of detenu.

It is open to the petitioners to have applied for further particulars in case they had any real grievance that the grounds applied to them were not precise enough to enable them to make an effective representation. A I R 1951 S C 157, Foll. 1958 Cri L J 962 : 1958 Raj L W 247 : ILR (1958) 8 Raj 386 : AIR 1958 Raj 158 (160) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5)—Vagueness of grounds—Test.

No hard and fast rule can be laid down to determine the vagueness or otherwise of the grounds, supplied to the person detained, and each case will have to be decided on its own facts and circumstances. 1958 Cri L J 962 : 1958 Raj L W 247 : ILR (1958) 8 Raj 386 : A I R 1958 Raj 158 (160) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

24 (a). Effect of, on validity of detention.

● ——Art. 22—One of several grounds vague—Effect on validity of detention—Detention cannot be upheld as it would not be in accordance with procedure established by law. Dr. Ram Krishan v. State of Delhi, 1953 S C J 444 : 1953 Cri L J 1241 : 1953 S C A 604 : 1953 All W R (Sup) 66 : 1953 S C R 708 : AIR 1953 S C 318 (320) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 22 (5) and Preventive Detention Act (4 of 1950), S. 3 — Vague grounds — Effect on validity of detention — Supplemental grounds — Serving of—If and when affects validity of detention.

"Vague" grounds do not stand on the same footing as "irrelevant grounds". An irrelevant ground has no connection at all with the satisfaction of the Provincial Government which makes the order of detention. For the reasons stated in State of Bombay v. Atma Ram Sridhar, (A I R 1951 S C 157) the contention that if the grounds are vague and no representation is possible there can be no satisfaction of the authorities as required by Section 3 of the Preventive Detention Act cannot be accepted. This argument mixes up two objects. The sufficiency of the grounds, which gives rise to the satisfaction of the Provincial Government is not a matter for examination by the Court. The sufficiency of the grounds to give the detained person the earliest opportunity to make a representation can be examined by the Court, but only from that point of view. The contention that the quality and characteristic of the grounds should be the same for both sets cannot be accepted. On the question of satisfaction, one person may be but another may not be satisfied on the same grounds. That aspect, however, is not for the determination of the Court, having regard to the words used in the Act. The second part of the enquiry is clearly open to the Court under Art. 22 (5).

A description of the contents of a second communication by the Government to the detained person, as "supplementary grounds" does not necessarily make them additional or new grounds. One has to look at the contents to find out whether they are new grounds as explained in State of Bombay v. Atma Ram Sridhar, (A I R 1951 S C 157). When they only furnish details of the grounds of detention already supplied, they cannot be treated as fresh or new grounds. It is not proper to consider the true effect of the communication only by reading its opening words. The whole of it must be read and considered together. Tarapada De v. The State of West Bengal, (1951) S C J 233 : 1951 Mad W N 549 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 165 : 52 Cri L J 400 : 5 A I Cr D 467 : 1951 All L J (SC) 70 : (1951) 1 M L J 431 : AIR 1951 S C 174 (176) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 22 (5) — Notice under S. 7, Preventive Detention Act containing grounds and other facts — Vagueness in facts - Effect on validity of notice. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. 1957 Cri L J 1361 : A I R 1957 All 782 (DB).

——Art. 22 (5)—Scope — Vagueness of the ground—If contravention of Art. 22 (5).

Where one or more of a number of grounds are found to be vague, the provisions of cl. (5) of Art. 22 of the Constitution of India cannot be said to have been complied with. 60 Cal W N 464 : 1957 Cri L J 172 : ILR (1957) 2 Cal 463 : A I R 1957 Cal 74 (76) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5)—Order of detention—Validity—One of grounds stated vague. See Preventive Detention Act, S. 3. 1952 Cri L J 204 : A I R 1952 Cal 26 (DB).

——Art. 22—Preventive detention—Grounds vague—No disclosure of grounds in public interests — Rights of detenu—Detention held invalid. See Public Safety —Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. I L R (1965) Guj 644.

——Arts. 22, 21—Grounds of detention — Vagueness — One of the grounds vague — Detention held illegal —(Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7). See Ibid, Art. 21. A I R 1955 J & K 38.

——Art. 22 (5) — One of grounds of detention vague would infringe constitutional safeguard provided in Art. 22 (5). A I R 1955 N U C (Madh B) 3100 (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7 — Insufficient and vague grounds — Violation of safeguards under Art. 22 (5).

The Court can scrutinise the grounds to see whether they are sufficiently explicit to enable the detenu to make a representation or not. If the grounds do not fulfil that condition, it would amount to the violation of the safeguard under Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution. Where the grounds supplied to the detenu are so vague as to make the detention order void, the detenu deserves to be released. A I R 1952 S C 350; A I R 1951 S C 157; A I R 1953 S C 318, Rel. on ; A I R 1952 Pat 374, Disting. 1956 Cri L J 86 : A I R 1956 Pat 1 (4) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Arts. 22 (5) and 226 — Vague grounds of detention, effect — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491) — (Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3).

All the grounds supplied to the petitioner must be clear and specific and even if one of them does not satisfy this condition the right of representation guaranteed to the detenu under Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution is affected and consequently the order of detention is illegal. 1953 Cri L J 1838 : I L R (1953) Patiala 423 : A I R 1953 Pepsu 207 (208) (Pr 4).

——Art. 22 (5)—Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7—Grounds supplied vague — There is breach of Article — Detention becomes illegal. A I R 1955 N U C (Punj) 5712 (DB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Vagueness of grounds — (Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3).

Where the grounds are so vague that the detenu cannot make an effective representation he has a right to approach the Court and complain that there has been an infringement of his fundamental right, and even if the infringement of the second part of the right under Art. 22 (5) is established, he is bound to be released by the Court. A I R 1951 S C 157, Foll. 1953 R L W 343 : 1953 Cri L J 1424 : ILR (1950) 3 Raj 63 : A I R 1953 Raj 177 (178) (Pr 4) (DB).

25. Grounds of detention — Consideration by Court.

● ——Art. 22 — Satisfaction of the detaining authority—Whether can be challenged in Court of law—If so on what grounds. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. A I R 1958 S C 163.

● ——Art. 22—Justiciability of sufficiency of particulars.

The sufficiency of the particulars conveyed to a detenu in accordance with the provision embodied in Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution is a justiciable issue, the test being whether they are sufficient to enable the detenu to make an effective representation. Shibban Lal Saksena v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (1954) 1 Mad L J 143 : 1954 S C J 73 : 1954 All L J 48 : 1954 Cri L J 456 : 1954 B L J R 113 1954 S C A 53 : 1954 S C R 418 : 1954 Andh L J (W) H C 20 : A I R 1954 S C 179 (180) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 22 — Sufficiency of grounds — Examination by Court.

The sufficiency of the grounds which gives rise to the satisfaction of the Provincial Government is not a matter for examination by the Court. The sufficiency of the grounds to give the detained person the earliest opportunity to make a representation can be examined by the Court only from that point of view. The contention that the quality and characteristic of the ground should be the same for both sets cannot be accepted. On the question of satisfaction one person may be but another may not be satisfied on the same grounds. That aspect however is not for the determination of the Court having regard to words used in Preventive Detention Act. The second part of the enquiry is clearly open to the Court under Art. 22 (5). Tarapada De v. State of West Bengal, 52 Cri L J 400 : 1951 S C J 233 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 431 : 1951 S C R 212 : 1951 All L J (SC) 70 : 1951 Mad W N 549 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 165 : A I R 1951 S C 174 (177) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

● ——Art. 22 (5) and (6) and Preventive Detention Act (4 of 1950)—Scope and extent of the rights of a person detained in preventive detention—Communication of grounds — Requirements as to — Supplemental communications, if and when valid.

Preventive detention is not by itself considered an infringement of any of the fundamental rights mentioned in Part III of the Constitution. This is subject to the limitations prescribed in Cl. (5) of Art. 22 of the Constitution. That clause requires two things to be done for the person against whom the order is made. The detained person has to be furnished with "the grounds on which the order has been made" and which has to be done "as soon as may be". He has also to be afforded "the earliest possible opportunity of making a representation against the order". Although both these rights are separate and are to be exercised at different times, they are still connected with each other. While there is a connection between the obligation on the part of the detaining authority to furnish grounds and the right given to the detained person to have the earliest opportunity to make the representation, the test to be applied in respect of the contents of the grounds for the two purposes is quite different. For the first the test is whether it is sufficient to satisfy the authority and for the second, whether it is sufficient to enable the detained person to make the representation at the earliest opportunity. The two rights cannot be treated as one indivisible right. The two rights are connected by the word "and". Furthermore the use of the words "as soon as may be" with the obligation to furnish the grounds of the order of detention, and the fixing of another time limit, viz., "the earliest opportunity for making the representation" makes the two rights distinct. The second right as it is right of objection, has to depend first on the service of the grounds on which the conclusion (i.e.) satisfaction of the Government about the necessity of making the order is based. To that extent and that extent alone, the two are connected. But when grounds which have rational connection with the ends mentioned in S. 3 of the Preventive Detention Act are supplied, the first condition is satisfied. If the grounds are not sufficient to enable the person detained to make a representation he can rely on his second right and if he likes he may ask for particulars which will enable him to make the representation. On an infringement of these two rights the detained person has a right to approach the Court and complain that there has been an infringement of his fundamental right and even if the infringement of the second part of the right under Art. 22 (5) is established he is bound to be released by the Court. To treat these two rights mentioned in Art. 22 (5) as one is neither proper according to the language used nor according to the purpose for which the rights are given. By reason of the fact that Cl. (5) of Art. 22 forms part of Part III of the Constitution its provisions have the same force and sanctity as any other provision relating to fundamental rights.

Apart from the duties mentioned above there exists no express provision contemplating a second communication from the detaining authority to the person detained. While the authorities must discharge the duty in furnishing the grounds for the order of detention "as soon as may be" and also provide "the earliest opportunity to the detained person to make the representation", the number of communications from the detaining authority to the detenu may be one or more and they may be made at intervals, provided the two parts of the aforesaid duty are discharged in accordance with the working of Cl. (5). So long as the later communications do not make a new ground, their contents are no infringement of the two procedural rights of the detenu mentioned in the clause. They may consist of a narration of facts or particulars relating to the grounds already supplied. But in doing so, the time factor in respect of the second duty, viz., to give the detained person the earliest opportunity to make a representation, cannot be overlooked.

While the Constitution gives the Government the privilege of not disclosing in public interest facts which it considers undesirable to disclose, by the words used in Art. 22 (5) there is a clear obligation to convey to the detained person materials (and the disclosure of which is not necessary to be withheld) which will enable him to make a representation.

From the fact that Cl. (6) of Art. 22 gives a right to the authorities to withhold facts which they consider not desirable to be disclosed in the public interest, it does not follow that what is not stated or considered to be withheld on that ground must be disclosed and if not disclosed, there is a breach of a fundamental right.

There is nothing in Art. 22 (5) to warrant the view that the grounds on which the order of detention has been made must be such that, when communicated to the person detained, they are found by a Court of law to be sufficient to enable him to make what the Court considers to be an adequate representation. The combined effect of Cls. (5) and (6) of Art. 22 is to require the detaining authority, to communicate to the person affected only such particulars as that authority and not a Court of law considers sufficient to enable the said person to make a representation. It cannot be said that Cl. (5) deals with two distinct and independent matters. The collocation in the same clause of the right to be informed of the grounds of detention and the right to make a representation indicate that the grounds communicated are to form the basis of the representation and, indeed, are intended mainly, if not solely, for that purpose. To suggest that apart from those grounds any right of making a representation imports by necessary implication a further obligation to give such details and particulars as would render that right effective is not to construe the clause in its natural meaning but to stretch it by the process of implication so as to square with one's preconceived notions of justice and fairplay. It is not the province of the Court to examine the sufficiency of the grounds for the purpose of making a representation a matter left entirely to the discretion of the executive authority.

While Cl. (5) does not allow the authority after making the order of detention and communicating the grounds of such order, to put forward fresh grounds in justification of that order, there is nothing in that clause to preclude the authority furnishing particulars or details relating to the grounds originally communicated, or the person under detention availing himself of such particulars and making a better or a further representation.

Per Das J.—There is no doubt some correlation between the two parts of Art. 22 (5). To say that Cl. (5) itself indicates that the grounds must be such as will enable the detenu to make a representation is to read into Cl. (5) something which is not there. If the sufficiency of the grounds of detention is not justiciable at the initial stage when the order is made, it is wholly illogical to say that the intention of the Constitution is to make the sufficiency of the same grounds justiciable as soon as they are communicated to the detenu.

On a plain reading of Cl. (5) there is no justification for assuming that a second communication of particulars is contemplated either under the first part or under the second part of Cl. (5). This does not, however, mean that the authority may not supply particulars either suo motu or on the application of detenu. Clause (5) imposes no constitutional obligation on the authority to supply particulars so as to remove the vagueness of the grounds or to enable the detenu to make a representation and non-supply of further particulars does not constitute an infraction of any fundamental right State of Bombay v. Atma Ram Sridhar Vaidya, (1951) S C J 208 : 1951 S C R 167 : 1951 Mad W N 532 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 148 52 Bom L R 437 : 52 Cr L J 373 : 1951 A L J 36 : (1951) 1 M L J 389: A I R 1951 S C 157 (161, 162, 163, 164, 165) (Pts B, C, D) (Prs 7, 8, 12, 15, 18).

——Art. 22 — Detention under Preventive Detention Act — Allegation as to non-existence of grounds— Opportunity to be heard — Re agitation of matter before High Court—Absence of provision — Remedy. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1956 All 589.

——Art. 22—Grounds of detention — Sufficiency of— Power of Court to go into—Actions committed outside jurisdiction of authority — Preventive and punitive detention—Distinction. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. A I R 1958 All 589.

——Art. 22—Gronnds of detention—Examination by Court—Court whether can consider their sufficiency for giving satisfaction.

The Courts can examine the grounds disclosed by the Government to see if they are relevant. If the relevancy is placed beyond doubt the sufficiency of the grounds which give rise to the satisfaction of the detaining authority is not a matter for examination by Court. (1958) 2 Andh W R 589 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 913 : 1958 Andh L T 1136 : 1959 Cri L J 160 AIR 1959 Andh Pra 73 (76, 77) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 22—Preventive Detention Act (1950)— Duty of Court — Principles to be applied in construing grounds of detention—See Public Safety— Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 1. ILR (1956) Bom 715.

——Art. 22—Order under — Duty of Court — Considerations of—Security of State — How far material— See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1956 Bom 490.

——Art. 22 — Grounds of detention supplied to detenu — Facts disclosed in — Court is entitled to determine whether they are sufficient or not sufficient to give detenu necessary opportunity to make representation against order of detention. 52 Bom L B 794 : ILR (1951) Bom 92 : 52 Cr L J 437 : AIR 1951 Bom 252 (253 to 255) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Examination of grounds — Powers of Court—Limitation on.

While the sufficiency of the grounds in the sense whether the same could give satisfaction to the government is not a matter for examination by Courts, their sufficiency in the sense of enabling a detenu to make an effective representation can be examined by the Court. 56 Cal W N 42 : 1952 Cri L J 204 : ILR (1953) 1 Cal 89 : AIR 1952 Cal 26 (28, 29) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 22—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491 — Order of detention under S. 3 of Preventive Detention Act (1950) — Satisfaction of detaining authority — Order whether mala fide — Truth of facts — Vagueness of grounds — Powers of High Court to question — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491. AIR 1960 Guj 43.

——Art. 22—Detention under Preventive Detention Act — Sufficiency of material to arrive at conclusion that detenu is likely to indulge in prejudicial activities — Question is solely for detaining authority — Correctness of statement of past activities is not justiciable—See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950). AIR 1952 Hyd 112 (DB).

●——Art. 22 — Correctness of statement relating to past conduct in grounds of detention — Whether justiciable—See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1951 Hyd 162 (FB).

●——Art. 22 (5)— Delay in supplying grounds of detention — It justiciable.

Delay in supplying the grounds of detention to the detenu and in affording him opportunity to make representation is justiciable issue in Indian law. The authorities concerned can apprehend prejudicial activities on the part of a detenu from his past conduct, even though such conduct may have been long time ago and he has in the interval been in Jail. When the authorities are apprehensive of such future conduct, their satisfaction is subjective and is not justiciable. But the rights to have the ground and to make representation against it are secured by the Constitution and the obligations of 'as soon as may be' and 'earliest opportunity' in each are cast on the authority concerned. Enquiry about the limitations is therefore, an important judicial function. B. Santhamma v. State of Hyderabad, 52 Cri L J 1402: ILR (1951) Hyd 654:AIR 1951 Hyd 128 (129) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (FB).

● ——Art. 22 (5) and (6)—Scope of inquiry—Grounds of detention— Statements made in—Truth or correctness of — If can be challenged or gone into — Power of Court. See Preventive Detention Act, S. 3. 52 Cri L J 1402 : AIR 1951 Hyd 128 (FB).

——Art. 22 (5) — Sufficiency of particulars conveyed to detenu is justiciable. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh B) 3100 (DB).

——Art. 22 — High Court is precluded from going into the truth or adequacy of the grounds of detention communicated to the detenu. See Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh B) 3100 (DB).

——Arts. 22 and 226 — Habeas corpus — Detention under Preventive Detention Act—Factual correctness of ground for detention verified by Advisory Board after hearing petitioner—Matter cannot be investigated by High Court under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 226. 1958 Crj L J 1047 : (1958) M L J (Cr) 607 : (1958) 2 M L J 169 : ILR (1958) Mad 692 : 71 Mad L W 328: AIR 1958 Mad 425 (DB).

——Art. 22—Power of Court to scrutinise grounds of detention.

The Court can scrutinise the grounds to see whether they are sufficiently explicit to enable the detenu to make a representation or not. 1956 Cri C J 86 : AIR 1956 Pat 1 (4) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (D B).

——Art. 22 — Power of Court to consider ground — Extent.

The Court is concerned only with such facts as have been disclosed in order to find whether there has been any failure to comply with the mandatory provisions of Art. 22 (5) or whether the order is mala fide or whether it is bad for any other reason — Distinction between grounds and fact pointed out. 30 Pat 630 : 52 Cri L J 406 : A I R 1951 Pat 47 (55, 56) (Pt G) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 22—Scope— Preventive detention—Grounds for — Consideration by Court. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1957 Punj 235 : 1957 Cri L J 1168.

——Art. 22 — Sufficiency of grounds for satisfaction of detaining authority—Court whether has power to enquire into. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1952 Raj 171.

26. Supplementary grounds.

● ——Art. 22—Description of contents of communication by the Government — Whether amounts to supplementary ground.

A description of the contents of a communication by the Government to the detained person does not necessarily make them additional or new grounds. One has to look at the contents to find out whether they are new grounds as explained in State of Bombay v. Atma Ram Sridhar, AIR 1951 S C 157. When they only furnish details of the grounds of detention already supplied they cannot be treated as fresh or new grounds. It is not proper to consider the true effect of the communication only by reading its opening words. The whole of it must be read and considered together. Tarapada De v. State of West Bengal, 52 Cri L J 400 : 1951 S C J 233 (1951) 1 Mad L J 431 : 1951 S C R 212 : 1951 All L J (SC) 70 : 1951 Mad W N 549 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 165 : AIR 1951 S C 174 (176) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 22 (5)—Supplementary grounds—Connotation of — When do they infringe right given by Art. 22 (5)— Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (4 of 1950), S. 7.

The adjective "supplementary" in the words "supplementary grounds" is capable of covering cases of adding new grounds to the original grounds, as also giving particulars of the facts which are already mentioned or of giving facts in addition to the facts mentioned in the grounds to lead to the conclusion of fact contained in the ground originally furnished. If by "supplementary grounds" is meant additional grounds, i. e., conclusions of fact required to bring about the satisfaction of the Government, the furnishing of any such additional grounds at a later stage will amount to an infringement of the first mentioned right in Art. 22 (5) as the grounds for the order of detention must be before the Government before it is satisfied about the necessity for making the order and all such grounds have to be furnished as soon as may be. The other aspects, viz., the second communication (described as supplemental grounds) being only particulars of the facts mentioned or indicated in the grounds firstly supplied or being additional incidents which taken along with the facts mentioned or indicated in the ground already conveyed lead to the same conclusion of the fact, (which is the ground furnished in the first instance) stand on a different footing These are not new grounds within the meaning of the first part of Art. 22 (5). Thus, while the first mentioned type of "additional" grounds cannot be given after the grounds are furnished in the first instance, the other types even if furnished after the grounds are furnished as soon as may be, but provided they are furnished so as not to come in conflict with giving the earliest opportunity to the detained person to make a representation, will not be considered an infringement of either of the rights mentioned in Art. 22 (5).

Having regard to this principle, the summary rejection by a Court of the later communication solely on the ground that all materials in all circumstances must be furnished to the detenu when the grounds are first communicated, is not sound. AIR 1951 Bom 266, Reversed, State of Bombay v. Atma Ram, 52 Cri L J 373 : 1951 S C J 208 : (1951) 1 M L J 389 : 53 Bom L R 437 : 1951 S C R 167 : 1951 A L J (S C) 36 : (1951) 21 Bom Cr C 134 : 1951 M W N 532 : 1951 M W N Cr 148 : AIR 1951 S C 157 : (164, 165) (Pt D) (Prs 15, 18).

——Art. 22—Supply of grounds in several instalments —If permissible — Failure to give sufficient particulars — Subsequent amplification or improvement by further and better particulars — If cures defect and legalises order of detention. See Preventive Detention Act, S. 7. AIR 1951 Bom 266.

27. Grounds on which detention can be ordered.

● ——Art. 22— Scope — Order on the ground of making statements prejudicial to maintenance of public order — Instigation against personal safety of Prime Minister—Whether irrelevant to main object of order of detention, namely maintenance of public order. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. 1959 Cr L J 1501 : AIR 1959 S C 1335.

● ——Art. 22 (5)— Ground of detention — Rational connection with objects of detention. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11 (1). 1958 Cr L J 283 : AIR 1958 S C 163.

——Art. 22—Notice under S. 7 of Preventive Detention Act—Satisfaction based on two circumstances—One of them irrelevant—Effect on validity of order. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. 1957 Cr L J 1361 : AIR 1957 All 782 (DB).

——Art. 22—Absence of connection between grounds supplied to detenu and preventive order — Right of detenu. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), Ss. 3, 7 and 12. 52 Cri L J 732 : AIR 1950 All 709.

——Art. 22 — Ground on which order for preventive detention is based should be rationally connected with the objects of the Act, viz., Preventive Detention Act—Preaching of violence or incitement thereto is not essential for passing order under S. 3 of that Act — Grounds, whether taken individually or otherwise, not irrelevant to objects of Act—No infringement of Art. 22 (5) is occasioned. (1958) 2 Andh W R 589 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 913 : 1958 Andh L J 1136 : 1959 Cri L J 160 : AIR 1959 Andh Pra 73 (75, 76) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 22—Relevant grounds for passing order under S. 3, Preventive Detention Act.

It is not correct to say, that, for coming to the conclusion that the detenu or the organisation to which he belongs is acting or likely to act in a manner prejudicial to the security of the State and the maintenance of public order and pass the order under S. 3, Preventive Detention, Act, the past activities are not at all relevant. The preaching of violence or open incitement thereto is not a sine qua non for an order under S. 3, Preventive Detention Act. (1958) 2 Andh W R 589 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 913 : 1958 Andh L T 1136: 1959 Cri L J 160 : AIR 1959 Andh Pra 73 (76, 77) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art, 22—Grounds — Membership of Communist party which was declared as unlawful under S. 16 which was struck down as void — Declaration also void — Being members of Communist party one of grounds of detention—Detention—Validity. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 9. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1009.

——Art. 22—Some of grounds irrelevant and outside scope of Act—Detention is illegal—Grounds of detentionrand particulars thereof—Distinction. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 9. A I R 1955 NUC (Cal) 1009 (DB).

——Art. 22—Detention under Preventive Detention Act—Past activities of detenu whether can be considered—Prejudicial activities alleged to continue till time of arrest—Fact that activities in remote past were considered, if affects validity. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1952 Hyd 112 (DB).

——Art. 22 — Membership of Communist party—If sufficient ground for taking action under Preventive Detention Act. See Public Safety— Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1952 Hyd 112 (DB).

——Art. 22—Detention under Preventive Detention Act (1950) for investigation of crime — Legality. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1950 Hyd 68.

——Art. 22—Relevancy of grounds. See Public Safety —Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. 1961 Jab L J 522.

——Art. 22 (5)—Grounds — Being habitual offender —Sufficiency—Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11).

Obiter : Per Das Gupta, C. J. — Preventive Detention Act is not meant for the purpose of detaining habitual criminals, as in that case it would really take the place of the Criminal Procedure Code. ILR (1957) Mys 374 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 670 : 1959 Cr L J 63 : 36 Mys L J 424 : AIR 1959 Mys 7 (11) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Arts. 22 and 226 — Preventive detention — Grounds of detention — Rational relation between the two necessary—Legality of detention—(Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (3).)

There must be a rational relation between the detention and the object thereof. Where the grounds on which the detention of the petitioner has been ordered have no rational probative value and are extraneous to the scope or purpose of the object in view as laid down by law, the detenu in such a case has a right to come to Court and attack the order of detention. 1957 Cri L J 100 : 1957 Raj L W 28 : ILR (1956) 6 Raj 821 : AIR 1957 Raj 5 (7) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Grounds supplied should not be irrelevant—Grounds having no bearing on objects of detention — Effect. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1952 Raj 171.

28. "As soon as may be".

● ——Art. 22 (5) —"As soon as may be."

Where the State Government had suddenly to deal with a large number of cases of detention under the Preventive Detention Act, 1950, on one day and the detention orders on all the detenus were served on 26-2-1950, it was held that it could not be said that the grounds of detention served on 14-3-50 were not communicated "as soon as may be." Tarapada De v. The State of West Bengal, 52 Cri L J 400: 1951 S C J 233 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 431 : 1951 S C R 212 : 1951 All L J (SC) 70 : 1951 Mad W N 549 : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 165 : A I R 1951 S C 174 (176) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 22 (5)—"As soon as may be" — Supplementary grounds—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7.

The detenus were detained in February 1950 and did not receive the particulars of the grounds served in the middle of March, until towards the end of July 1950. The so-called supplementary grounds or particulars did not state any new grounds for the orders of detention. They were in the nature of particulars of the rather general grounds given earlier. They merely amplified those grounds giving specific instances to support the general statements made earlier.

Held that the detenus had been given the grounds of detention "as soon as may be" and had been given "the earliest opportunity of making representations. AIR 1953 Cal 129 (133) (Pt A) (Pr 23) (DB).

——Art. 22 — Delay in furnishing grounds. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1953 1953 Hyd 277 (DB).

——Art. 22—Preventive Detention Act— Delay of 14 days in furnishing grounds — Effect of. See Public Safety— See Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1952 Hyd 112 (DB).

● ——Art. 22—Grounds of detention—Delay in communication —Question of is one of fact. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1951 Hyd 162 (FB).

● —Art. 22 (5) —"As soon as may be"—Meaning—Delay in communication of grounds.

The phrase "as soon as may be" in Art. 22 (5) does not exclude reasonable time for formulating the grounds on the material in the possession of the authority. The time must necessarily vary with the activities of the person and the other circumstances of the case. It is, therefore, a question of fact in each case whether there has been delay. AIR 1951 Bom 30 (FB), Rel. on. Santhamma B v. State of Hyderabad, ILR (1951) Hyd 654 : 52 Cri L J 1402 : AIR 1951 Hyd 128 (132) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (FB).

● —Art. 22—Obligation to supply of grounds at earliest opportunity is cast on authorities.

The rights to have the ground and to make representation against it are secured by the Constitution and the obligation of 'as soon as may be' and 'earliest opportunity' in each are cast on the authority concerned. Santhamma B. v. State of Hyderabad, 52 Cri L J 1402 : ILR (1951) Hyd 654 : A I R 1951 Hyd 128 (129) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (FB).

—Art. 22 (5) – 'As soon as may be"—Held delay of of 22 days was not unreasonable in the case. A I R 1951 Pat 439 (2) (442) (Pt E) (Pr 8) (DB).

—Arts. 22 and 226—Habeas corpus—District Magistrate passing order of preventive detention—Grounds of detention drawn more than three weeks thereafter —Legality—(Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3 (3) and (4)).

The grounds of preventive detention are required to be prepared soon after the detention if not simultaneously with it or prior thereto and the fact of detention along with grounds thereof has to be reported by the District Magistrate to the State Government, and by the State Government, if it has approved the detention to the Central Government together with the grounds on which the order has been made.

Held on facts that, either the District Magistrate or the State Government had not before them proper material on the basis of which the detention of the petitioner could be ordered or approved.

Held, further that an order of detention under sub-s. (2) of S. 3, Preventive Detention Act, 1950, after twelve days of the making thereof, must spend itself under sub-s. (3) of S. 3 unless in the meantime it has been approved by the State Government. Such approval can only be accorded if the order made has been reported to the State Government. The detention of the petitioner in any case beyond the twelve days of the order of detention was altogether illegal inasmuch as it was impossible for the detaining authorities to have formed any rational opinion about the necessity of the detention. 1957 Cri L J 100 : 1957 Raj L W 28 : I LR (1956) 6 Raj 821: AIR 1957 Raj 5 (6) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

29. Right to make representation against order of detention.

● —Art. 22 –Right to make representation— Implication from —Grounds supplied not sufficient to enable of exercise of the right—Remedy of detenue—Limitations on, imposed by cl. (6) See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1958 S C 163.

—Art. 22 (5) – Right of detenue detained under Preventive Detention Act (1950) —Order of detention not served or copy thereof not furnished even after request —Communication of grounds alone — Legality of detention —Writ of habeas corpus—Issue of—Right of detenu.

A person who is directed to be detained under the Preventive Detention Act has, under Art. 22 (5) of the Constitution, the right of making a representation against the "order" of detention. To enable him to do that and to seek redress in a Court of law he should necessarily have a copy of that order as without it, it would not be possible for him to say whether the order was passed by a competent authority or whether the order is a valid order. The right of the detenu is not merely to take exception to the grounds or to show that those grounds are not tenable, but also to take exception to the validity of the order, for which the detenu must be put in possession of a copy of the order, especially when he has made a request for it. Refusal to comply with his request for a copy of the order deprives him of his right to object to the validity or the legality of the order, and he thereby gets a right to seek redress in a Court of law under Art. 226 of the Constitution.

The right to move the High Court under Art. 226 can be exercised by the detenu not only after he has been served with a copy of the grounds of the order, but also during the period between the commencement of the detention and the date on which the grounds are communicated to him. When a copy of the order is not furnished to the detenu even after he has requested for it, and only the grounds of detention are served on him three days after his arrest and detention, and there is no legal proof of any order of detention having been passed at all by a competent authority, the detention must be held to be illegal and a writ of habeas corpus will issue for his release. 1951 KLT 34 : ILR (1951) T C 114 : 52 Cr L J 845 : AIR 1951 T C 130 (131, 132) (Prs 8, 9, 10).

30 Clause (6).

● —Art. 22 (5) and (6) — Grounds of detention — Right to be furnished particulars — Withholding of facts in public interest —Discretion.

The right of detenu under Art. 22 (5) to be furnished particulars is subject to the limitation under Art. 22 (6)' whereby disclosure of facts considered to be against public interest, cannot be required.

The duty to consider whether the disclosure of any facts involved therein is against public interest, is vested in the detaining authority, not in any other.

There is no obligation under Art. 22 (5) and (6) to communicate to the detenu the decision not to disclose the facts as well as the ambit of the non-disclosure at the time when the grounds are furnished. The necessity for such a communication would arise only if the detenu asks for particulars. Lawrence Jaochim Joseph D'Souza v. State of Bombay, 1956 S C A 766 : 1956 Cr L J 935 : 1956 S C J 559 : 1956 All W R (Sup) 121 : 58 Bom L R 989 : 1956 S C R 382 : AIR 1956 S C 531 (535) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

—Art. 22 –Evidence Act (1872), S. 123 — "Affairs of State", meaning of—Report relating to individual with a view to take action under Preventive Detention Act is matter relating to affairs of State. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 123. AIR 1960 Assam 210.

—Art. 22 (6)— Privilege of detaining authority to refuse to disclose grounds of detention — Nature and scope of — Bald averment of public interest held not sufficient —Satisfaction of court as to bona fides is necessary. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7. 58 Bom L R 614 : ILR (1956) Bom 797.

—Art. 22—Detaining authority withholding facts under cl. (6) –Power of court to interfere — Limitations.

Sub-cl. (6) refers to that limited class of facts which the detaining authority is not under an obligation to disclose i. e. where in the opinion of the detaining authority it is against the public interest to disclose the facts and under that sub-clause it is entirely for the detaining authority to decide whether any fact is or is not against public interest. The discretion under that clause may be challenged on the ground that the discretion has been exercised arbitrarily, capriciously or mala fide; but if the discretion has been exercised properly it is not for the court to sit in judgment on an opinion formed by the detaining authority that certain facts are not in the public interest to disclose. 52 Bom L R 794 : ILR (1951) Bom 92 : 52 Cri L J 437 : AIR 1951 Bom 252 (253, 255) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 22 (5), (6) – Grounds – Vagueness – Public interest – Proof of – (Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 11). 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 670 : 1959 Cri L J 63 : ILR (1957) Mys 374 : AIR 1959 Mys 7 (11) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 22 (6) – Disclosure of facts – Withholding of facts in public interest – Right vests only in detaining authority. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 7 (2). 1965 (2) Cr L J 119 : AIR 1965 Punj 270 (DB).

——Art. 22 – Disclosure not made on ground of public interest – If affects validity of detention.

Even if there is a challenge on the ground of vagueness owing to absence of certain particulars and facts which according to the Government could not be disclosed on the ground of public interest the order of detention will still be valid in certain circumstances. It is for the Government to decide to what extent information could be supplied consistent with considerations of public interest. ('60) 62 Punj L R 257.

31. Fresh order of detention.

● ——Art 22 — Preventive detention — Former defective order — Power of detaining authority to supersede order and make a fresh order free from defect — Question of bad faith. See Public Safety — Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1952 S C 106.

ARTICLE 23

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Art. 23).

1. Traffic in human beings.
2. Begar or forced labour.
3. Compulsory service for public purposes—Clause (2).

1. Traffic in human beings.

——Arts. 23 and 35 — Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act — Validity — If offends Art. 19 (1) (g) – (Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act (1956), Ss. 3 to 10 and 18).

A mere perusal of Ss. 3 to 10 and 18 of the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act shows that the acts made punishable under those sections are acts which result in traffic in human beings. Therefore quite apart from all considerations of reasonable restrictions those sections have been validily enacted by Parliament under Arts. 23 and 35 of the Constitution. Even if those provisions to some extent curtailed the fundamental rights of prostitutes to carry on their trade of prostitution those provisions would nonetheless be valid because if there is any conflict between a fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 and what is prohibited under Art. 23 the prohibition contained in the latter provision will prevail over the fundamental right guaranteed by the former Article. 1959 All W R (HC) 509 : 1959 All Cr R 427 : AIR 1959 All 57 (62) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 S C 416].

——Art. 23 – T. P. Act (1882), S. 6 (h) (2) — Transfers for immoral objects — Setting aside — Plea of particeps criminis by defendant — The rule in Ayerst v. Jenkins, (1874) 16 Eq 275 should never be used to violate the express prohibition of the Constitution such as Art. 23 saying that traffic in human beings is prohibited — Lease of house by owner for running brothel — Right of executors and trustees of will of owner to recover back property with aid of Court — Relief, whether can be denied on grounds of public policy. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 6 (h) (2). AIR 1958 Cal 713.

2. Begar or forced labour.

——Art. 23 — U. P. Removal of Social Disabilities Act (14 of 1947) – Validity.

The passing of the U. P. Removal of Social Disabilities Act does not contravene Art. 23 at all.

When a person is prohibited from refusing to render service merely on the ground that the person asking for it belongs to a scheduled caste he is not thereby subjected to forced labour similar in form to begar. 1951 All L J 282 : 1951 All W R (HC) 305 : 52 Cri L J 899 : 1951 All Cri R 59 : AIR 1951 All 615 (617) (Pt F) (Pr 5).

——Art. 23 (1) — Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960) – Constitutional validity — No contravention of Art. 23, Cl. (1) of the Constitution – Constitution of India, Art. 23, Cl. (1) — 'Begar' — Meaning of. See Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960). AIR 1962 Bom 53 (DB).

——Art. 23 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947) — Validity — Act does not infringe Art. 23 of the Constitution. An Industrial Tribunal has no power to impose upon an employee forced labour akin to Traffic in human beings and begar. Therefore the Industrial Disputes Act does not contravene Art. 23. ILR (1958) 2 Cal 525.

——Art. 23 (1) — Forced labour — Extra work agreed to be done by licensed railway porter.

Licensed railway porters entered into a contract for doing extra work for at least two hours a day. They were paid some remuneration for their two hours' labour. Further they got the benefit of a reduced license fee and in addition they were allowed the privilege of free user of the Railway premises for earning their livelihood.

Held, that the porters could not be said to be doing begar or forced labour within the meaning of Art. 23 (1) of the Constitution. AIR 1952 Cal 496 (498, 499) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 11, 13).

——Art. 23 (1) — Begar or forced labour — Enforcement of personal service as per stipulation under contract — Refusal to perform personal service rendering party liable to punishment for offence under law — It amounts to Begar or similar form of forced Labour – It is open to aggrieved party to sue for damages or compensation for breach of contract. (1910) 55 Law Ed. 191, Rel. on. : AIR 1952 Cal 496. Dissent. 1962 Ker L J 1176 : ILR (1961) 2 Ker 645 : 1961 Ker L T 1110 : AIR 1962 Ker 138 (144) (Prs 38, 40).

——Art. 23 – M. B. Civil Service (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1956 — Withholding of pay by way of punishment — Validity – Such punishment is against the spirit of Art. 23 of the Constitution.

To ask a man to work and then not to pay him any salary or wages savours of Begar which is prohibited in Art. 23. It is a fundamental right of a citizen of India not to be compelled to work without wages. In this view of the matter, the stopping of pay and making the teacher to work is not only against the Rules of 1956 but it also offends against the spirit of Art. 23 of the Constitution. 1960 Jab L J 423 : 1960 M P C 370 : 1960 M P L J 836 : AIR 1960 Madh Pra 303 (304) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 23 (1) — Custom requiring one day's free labour to be given to village headman — Validity —

Money compensation for violation of custom—If can be awarded—Art. 265—Scope.

The custom for each of the house-holders of a village to offer one day's free labour (free in the sense that the labour has to be given without payment of any wages and not in the sense that it is voluntary) to the Headman or Khullakpa of the village for his being Headman and for his first settlement in the village, even if immemorial, will certainly be hit by Art. 23 (1). Even granting that the labour is performed for certain services rendered by the khullakpa, the element of compulsion still exists which compulsion Art. 23 prohibits. The only authority who can compel a citizen to render service is the State as provided in Art. 23 (2). As the custom to perform free labour is void, then no Court of law can give a decree for money compensation if the custom is violated. Only the State can levy a tax on a citizen under Art. 265 and that too by an Act of the legislature. A I R 1956 Manipur 41, Expl and Not foll. AIR 1961 Manipur 1 (4, 5) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 13, 14, 15, 16).

——Art. 23 (1) — Begar — Custom in Manipur State according to which villagers render free service to their Chief once in year for service rendered by him—Legality of.

In the Ukhrul sub-division in the hill area of Manipur State, there is a custom according to which in lieu of the onerous duties rendered by the Chiefs (Khulakpas) to secure the well-being and peaceful living in their village, the villagers render free service to the Chiefs for only one day in a year and if any villager did not want to render actual service he is allowed by the custom to pay money compensation.

Held, that such free service for one day in a year or compensation in lieu thereof does not amount to any Begar and the custom does not contravene in any way the provision of Art. 23 (1) of the Constitution. AIR 1956 Manipur 41 (41) (Pr 7).

[The case was dissented from in subsequent case, A I R 1961 Manipur 1—Ed.]

——Art. 23 — Punjab Civil Service Rules (1959), Vol. I, R. 3.26 (d) —Validity—Rule does not contravene Art. 23.

The 1959 Rules specifically provide in Rule 3.26 (d), Vol. I, for retention in service in the circumstances mentioned in the rule. When service is continued according to and under the service rules even after the date of compulsory retirement or superannuation, that is not 'begar' or forced labour but service according to the conditions of service as provided in the rules applying to the Government servant. Where the government servant has been retained in service and placed under suspension and the order says that he is entitled to subsistence allowance according to the rules there is no case of 'begar' or forced labour. AIR 1960 Madh Pra 303 and AIR 1961 Cal 1, Disting. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642 : AIR 1963 Punj 298 (316) (Pt Z1) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Art. 23—Compulsory labour is prohibited.

A panchayat cannot force persons to perform labour. And an order to that effect made by sirpanch of a panchayat is clearly against Art. 23 of the Constitution which forbids Begar. 1956 Raj L W 311 : I L R (1956) 6 Raj 797 : A I R 1956 Raj 188 (190) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

3. Compulsory service for public purposes—Clause (2).

——Art. 23 — Rule 3.26 (d), Punjab Civil Service Rules (1959) — Validity — Does not contravene Art. 23.

The services to be rendered by the Government servant subsequent to the age of superannuation in view of R. 3.26 (d), is in no sense a service which can be equated with the expression 'begar' or 'forced labour' in Art. 23. The Government servant is not forced to do any work. Assuming that the retention in service of the Government servant, can come within the expression "forced labour", this rule would be valid in view of Art. 23 (2), as such retention will be for public purposes. Partap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1965) 1 S C A 259 : (1966) 1 Lab L J 458 : (1964) 4 S C R 733 : A I R 1964 S C 72 (100) (Pt R) (Pr 70).

——Art. 23 — 'Accept employment' does not mean 'accept recruitment'—Words refer to persons already in employment. See Essential Services Maintenance Ordinance (1960), S. 2 (1) (a). 1962 (1) Cri L J 629 (All).

——Art. 23 — Scope — Police Act (1861), S. 17—Validity—If contravenes Art. 23 (1).

The kind of forced labour that is contemplated in the constitutional prohibition has to be something in the nature of either traffic in human beings or begar. The conscription for police service or military service under S. 17, Police Act, cannot come under either. Even if such conscription were held to be a form of forced labour within Art. 23 (1), this forced labour is permitted by sub-art. (2) of Art. 23 as a kind of compulsory service for public purposes. A I R 1958 Cal 365 (372) (Pt E) (Prs 28, 29).

——Art. 23 (1) —Forced labour — Licensed Railway porters — Agreement to do extra work for railway each day — Extra work not forced labour within Art. 23 (1).

The petitioners, who were licensed porters at a railway station, agreed to do 2 hours extra work for the railway administration, by entering into a contract to that effect. The petitioners were paid some remuneration for their two hours' labour. Further they got the benefit of a reduced license fee and in addition they were allowed the privilege of free user of the railway premises for earning their livelihood.

Held, that in the circumstances, the petitioners could not be said to be doing Begar or forced labour within the meaning of Art. 23 (1).

The very idea that the petitioners had voluntarily agreed to do extra work by entering into a contract to that effect repels the idea of their work being a forced labour.

There was no element of force or illegality in the system of license or in realizing the fees for such licenses.

The railway authorities had the power to regulate the use of the station : (1897) A C 479 ; A I R 1951 Cal 501, Rel. on ; 35 All 136 : A I R 1933 All 891, Disting. A I R 1952 Cal 496 (498, 499) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 11, 13).

——Art. 23—Chamba Paid Forced Labour Act (3 of 2004-B) invalid.

Chamba Paid Forced Labour Act was repugnant to the provisions of Art. 23 of the Constitution of India. Conscription for the defence of the country, or for social services, are possible instances of imposition of compulsory service for public purposes under the article. That cannot however be said of imposition of compulsory service for the purpose of carrying a load of Government property by the Tahsildar or any Government servant in normal times. 1953 Cri L J 400 : A I R 1953 Him Pra 18 (18) (Pr 3).

——Arts. 23, 304 and 19 (1) (g) — Madhya Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Taxation of Passengers) Act, 1959 (M. P. 17 of 1959), S. 3 — The Act is valid — It does not offend Arts. 19, 23 and 304. The duty imposed on the operator of collection of the tax from the passengers and of paying it to the Government cannot be viewed as begar or forced labour within the meaning of Art. 23. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). A I R 1962 Madh Pra 108.

——Art. 23 (2) —State law imposing tax on passengers and goods carried by public service motor vehicles—Constitutional validity — Levy and collection of tax through owners of motor vehicles—Reasonableness.

Article 23 (2) makes an exception in favour of the State and enables the State to impose compulsory service for public purposes provided that such an imposition is not vitiated on grounds of discrimination. It is manifest, therefore, that the Legislature is entitled to impose burdens upon citizens in public interest. In the case of a taxing statute, where the Legislature has to levy tax for the purpose of State Revenue, it has to collect the tax through the most convenient and efficient channel. The State will therefore be justified in imposing obligation upon the citizens concerned to assist in the collection of tax. A I R 1963 Pat 16 (19, 20, 21, 22, 23) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5, 7, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 23 — Bihar Finance Act (17 of 1950), Part III—Contravention of fundamental rights.

The provisions of Part III of the Bihar Act do not contravene any of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Arts. 14, 19 and 23. Article 23 (2) clearly makes an exception in favour of the State and enables it to impose compulsory service for public purposes, provided such imposition is not vitiated on grounds of discrimination. The Legislature is therefore, entitled to impose burdens on citizens in the interest of the public. Atma Ram v. State of Bihar, A I R 1952 Pat 359 (365, 366, 367, 368) (Pt E) (Prs 16, 17) (SB).

——Art. 23 — Taxation Law — State Act requiring owners of motor vehicles to keep accounts—Compulsory service—There is nothing savouring of 'begar' or forced labour in requiring the owners of motor vehicles to keep accounts and statements under the Taxation Act. A I R 1955 N U C (Punj) 1887 (DB).

——Art. 23—Punjab Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (16 of 1952), Ss. 3 (3) and 4 — Imposition of compulsory service for public purposes. See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1954 Punj 264 (DB).

ARTICLE 25

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Art. 25.)

1. Scope.
2. Corresponding provisions in American Constitution.
3. Freedom of religion.
   (a) Right to propagate religion.
   (b) Right to enter into a public temple.
4. "Subject to the other provisions of this Part."
5. Power of State to provide for social welfare and social reform.
   (a) Constitutionality of legislative provisions under Article.
6. State regulation—Clause 2 (a).
7. Religious institutions of public character — Clause 2 (b).
8. Explanation I.
9. Explanation II.

1. Scope.

——Arts. 25, 26—Scope—Articles embody principles of religious toleration.

Per Ayyangar, J.: — Articles 25 and 26 embody the principles of religious toleration that has been the characteristic feature of Indian civilization from the start of history, the instances and periods when this feature was absent being merely temporary aberrations. Besides, they serve to emphasize the secular nature of the Indian Democracy which the founding fathers considered should be the very basis of the Constitution. Saifuddin Saheb v. State of Bombay, (1963) 2 S C A 192 : (1963) 2 S C J 519 : 1962 Supp (2) S C R 496 : A I R 1962 S C 853 (871) (Pt B) (Pr 50).

——Arts. 25 and 26—Duties of Mutawalli are purely secular in character and not comparable with rights of Mahant — Validity of S. 55, U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (1960) cannot be challenged under Arts. 19 (1) (f), 25 or 26 by a Mutawalli. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1965 All 333.

——Art. 25 — Right to take out religious procession —Magistrate can prohibit it, if he apprehends breach of peace—(Religious procession—Right to take out).

Persons of whatever sect are entitled to conduct religious procession through public streets provided that they do not interfere with the ordinary use of such streets by the public and subject to such directions as the Magistrates may lawfully give to prevent obstructions of the thoroughfare or breaches of the public peace. This right of a person of a particular religious sect to freely profess practise and propagate his religion is now a part of the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 25 of the Constitution but it has been made subject to public order and there can be no doubt that in exercise of the police powers of the State it is open to a Magistrate, in a case where he apprehends breach of the peace to pass such orders as he may consider necessary to prevent breach of the peace.

It is no part of the Magistrate's duty to fix the date, time and the route and if he thinks that he cannot fix a date, time and route which would not lead to a breach of the peace and rejects the application, the order cannot be read as meaning that he purported to hold that the parties have no right to take out a procession. It is not for the Court to consider whether the Magistrate was right in his apprehension that there was a likelihood of breach of peace, when his bona fides have not been questioned. It is a matter entirely for the District authorities to consider whether in the particular circumstances if a procession was taken out it would lead to public disturbance. Whether it would be more suitable on a particular occasion to bind down a particular party and to allow the procession to be taken out by the others is a matter in the discretion of the Magistrate. It is not open to courts to take the administration in their own hands and to issue orders to the Magistrate in this respect. ILR (1955) 1 All 121 : 1954 All W R (HC) 514 : 1954 Cr L J 1607 : 1954 All L J 665 : AIR 1954 All 756 (757, 758) (Prs 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 25—Article 25 guarantees the right to profess and practice religion freely. But there is no guarantee to preserve any particular form of its exercise. See Ibid, Art. 326. AIR 1961 Cal 289.

——Arts. 25, 29 (2), 30 and 226 — Applicability and scope — Educational institution run on Christian principles and receiving State aid—Power of, to impose restrictions on practice of other religions within college precincts — Refusal of Principal to permit Hindu students to celebrate Saraswati Puja in College compound — Legality — Powers of High Court to give directions.

The petitioner was admitted to the first year class of the St. Paul's College at Calcutta on his undertaking to submit to the rules and discipline of the College as laid down in the prospectus. The college was receiving recurring grant from the Government. Although it was a Christian College more than 90 per cent. of the students belonged to Hindu Community. The petitioner along with other students sought permission of the Principal to celebrate Saraswati Puja within the College compound, but the Principal refused to grant permission. The petitioner thereupon filed a petition under Art. 226 questioning the legal validity of such refusal.

Held, that in so far as this application was intended to force the hands of the authorities to allow idol worship being conducted within the precincts of the college, it must be declared to be misconceived and consequently must be rejected.

Merely because as a result of Art. 29 (2), there was a legal right in members of the Hindu community to get admission into the College, it does not follow that there is every right under Art. 25 to freely profess, practise and propagate their religion within the precincts of the college receiving State aid.

The Constitution protects the freedom of conscience and the right freely to profess, practise and propagate religion but it does not protect secular activities. AIR 1953 Bom 342, Rel. on.

Under Art. 30 of the Constitution, Christian institutions opened primarily for the propagation of Christian religion are within the bounds of law. There is nothing illegal in laying down conditions under which such services can be availed of, provided the conditions do not militate against public order, morality or health. Such an institution can lay down that all religious practices which will be carried out inside its precincts, should be in conformity with Christian principles. 61 Cal W N 717 : AIR 1957 Cal 524 (526) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Arts. 25, 26 — Scope.

Article 25 protects religious freedom as far as individuals are concerned. But the right is not an unrestricted right. It is a right subject to public order, morality and health and further it permits the State to make any law regulating or restricting any economic, financial, political or secular activity although it may be associated with religious practice and there is a further right given to the State and that is that the State can legislate for social welfare and reform even though in doing so it may interfere with the profession, practice and propagation of religion by an individual. Article 26 does not deal with the rights of an individual or of a citizen. It deals with the right of a religious denomination or a section of a religious denomination. AIR 1953 Bom. 242 Foll. 58 Cal W N 73 : AIR 1954 Cal 241 (242) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Art. 25 — Scope — Article creates no offence. 1960 Ker L J 624 : 1960 Ker L T 599 : (1960) 1 Ker L R 819 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 711 : 1961 (1) Cr L J 265 : AIR 1961 Ker 55 (57) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 25—Applicability and scope—Ruler granting exclusive right to person to practise priesthood in certain villages—Order is not a grant but has a force of law and offends against Art. 25 and becomes void. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1960 Manipur 34.

——Art. 25 – Applicability and scope — If protects acts done in pursuance of religion.

The guarantee under the Constitution not only protects the freedom of religious opinion, but it protects also acts done in pursuance of a religion and this is made clear by the use of the expression 'practice of religion' in Art. 25. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 424 : 1959 Raj L W 496 : AIR 1959 Raj 177 (190) (Pt I) (Pr 68) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 1402].

2. Corresponding provisions in American Constitution.

——Art. 25 — Scope.

The first amendment of the American Constitution consists of two clauses, which deal with distinct subjects. The first clause is directed against legislation in respect of "an establishment of religion" and the second against any law prohibiting the free exercise of religion. Under the former, the State is disconnected from "establishment of religion"; under the latter the individual is guaranteed freedom in the profession and practice of religion. The scope of the two clauses is thus different and the questions that arise with reference to them are also different. While Arts. 25 and 26 of Constitution of India reproduce the law as enacted in the second clause of the First Amendment, there is nothing in our Constitution which corresponds to the first clause therein. There are some specific prohibitions enacted in Arts. 27 and 28. But apart from them, there is no general prohibition against legislation in respect of "establishment of religion." On the other hand, there are provisions in our Constitution which are inconsistent with the theory that there should be a wall of separation between Church and State. Case Law discussed. 66 Mad L W 947 : 1953 Mad W N 807 : (1953) 2 Mad L J 699 : ILR (1955) Mad 356 : AIR 1954 Mad 385 (387, 390) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 6) (DB).

3. Freedom of religion.

(a) Right to propagate religion.

(b) Right to enter into a public temple.

3. Freedom of religion.

● ——Art. 25 (1)—s. 11 (f) and (h), Durgah Khawaja Saheb Act (1955)—Validity.

What S. 11 (f) and (h) of Durgah Khawaja Saheb Act intend to achieve is the regulation of the discharge of duties by the Khadims and the discharge of functions and powers by the Sajjadanashin. The impugned provisions merely provide for the regulation of the discharge of the duties, by the Khadims and nothing more. Section 15 makes it obligatory for the Committee in exercise of its powers and discharge of its duties to follow the rules of Muslim Law applicable to Hanafi muslims in India, and so all the ceremonies in the Durgah have necessarily to be conducted and regulated in accordance with the tenets of the Chishti saint. The powers conferred on the Committee by S. 11 (f) and (h) must be read in the light of the mandatory provisions of S. 15. The vires of S. 11 (f) and (h) cannot be challenged on the ground that the Committee has been given power by these provisions to determine the privileges of the Khadims as well as the functions and powers, if any, which the Sajjadanashin may exercise in relation to the Durgah which amounts to infringement of the freedom of the Khadims to practise their religions according to the custom and according to their concept. AIR 1959 Raj 177, Reversed. Durgah Committee, Ajmer v. Syed Husain Ali, (1961) 2 S C A 171 : (1962) 1 S C R 383 : AIR 1961 SC 1402 (1418) (Pt F) (Prs 40, 41, 42).

● ——Art. 25—Religion — Its content and extent — (Words and phrases—'Religion.')

Religion is not necessarily theistic; there are well known religions in India like Buddhism and Jainism which do not believe in the existence of God or of any intelligent First Cause. A religion has its basis in a system of beliefs and doctrines which are regarded by those who profess that religion to be conducive to their spiritual well being, but it is not correct to say that matters of religion are nothing but matters of religious faith and religious belief. A religion is not merely an opinion, doctrine or belief. It has its outward expression in acts as well.

The article protects acts done in pursuance of religious belief as part of religion. For, religious practices or performances of acts in pursuance of religious belief are as much a part of religion as faith or belief in particular doctrines. AIR 1954 SC 282, Reiterated. Ratilal Panachand Gandhi v. State of Bombay, (1954) S C J 480 : (1954) 1 M L J 718 :

1954 S C A 538 : 56 Bom L R 1184 : 1954 S C R 1055 : AIR 1954 SC 388 (392) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13).

● ——Art. 25 – 'Religion', meaning of—(Words and Phrases—"Religion").

Religion is a matter of faith with individuals or communities and it is not necessarily theistic. There are well krown religions in India like Buddhism and Jainism which do not believe in God or in any intelligent First Cause. A religion undoubtedly has its basis in a system of beliefs or doctrines which are regarded by those who profess that religion as conducive to their spiritual well being, but it will not be correct to say that religion is nothing else but a doctrine or belief. A religion may not only lay down a core of ethical rules for its followers to accept, it might prescribe rituals and observances, ceremonies and modes of worship which are regarded as integral parts of religion, and these forms. and observances might extend even to matters of food and dress.

The guarantee under the Constitution of India not only protects the freedom of religious opinion but it protects also acts done in pursuance of a religion and this is made clear by the use of the expression "practice of religion" in Art. 25. (1888) 133 U S 333 (342), Criticised. 67 Com W L R 116 (127), Appr. Commr. H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : (1954) S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 SC 282 (289, 290) (Pt G) (Prs 17, 18).

● ——Arts. 25 and 26 –Fundamental rights and restrictions with respect to matters of religion.

The language of Arts. 25 and 26 is sufficiently clear to enable the Court to determine without the aid of foreign authorities as to what matters come within the purview of religion and what do not. Freedom of religion in the Constitution of India is not confined to religious beliefs only; it extends to religious practices as well subject to the restrictions which the Constitution itself has laid down.

Under Art. 26 (b), therefore, a religious denomination or organization enjoys complete autonomy in the matter of deciding as to what rites and ceremonies are essential according to the tenets of the religion they hold and no outside authority has any jurisdiction to interfere with their decision in such matters. Of course, the scale of expenses to be incurred in connection with these religious observances would be a matter of administration of property belonging to the religious denomination and can be controlled by secular authorities in accordance with any law laid down by a competent Legislature; for, it could not be the injunction of any religion to destroy the institution and its endowments by incurring wasteful expenditure on rites and ceremonies.

However, under Art. 26 (d), it is the fundamental right of a religious denomination or its representative to administer its properties in accordance with law; and the law, therefore, must leave the right of administration to the religious denomination itself subject to such restrictions and regulations as it might choose to impose. A law which takes away the right of administration from the hands of a religious denomination altogether and vests it in any other authority would amount to a violation of the right guaranteed under Cl. (d) of Art. 26. 67 Com W L R 116 : (1939) 310 U S 586; (1942) 319 U S 105 and (1942) 319 U S 621; (1941) 316 U S 584, Ref. Commr. H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (291) (Pt I) (Pr 22).

——Art. 25—Applicability and scope—U. P. Government Servants Conduct Rules, R. 27, of infringing Article.

Rule 27, U. P. Government Servants Conduct Rules, which provides that a Government servant cannot marry a second wife during the presence of the first wife without the permission of the State Government does not infringe the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 25, because the act of performing a second marriage in the presence of the first wife cannot be regarded as an integral part of Hindu religion nor can it be regarded as practising or professing or propagating Hindu religion which is protected under Art. 25. Even if bigamy be regarded as an integral part of Hindu religion the impugned rule is protected under Art. 25 (2) (b). 1957 All L J 439 : 1957 All W R (H C) 420 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 172 : AIR 1957 All 411 (413, 414) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8).

——Art. 25—Criminal P. C., S. 488 (3)—Validity — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 488).

It may be that under the Personal Law of Muslims, a Muslim may have as many as four wives. But having more than one wife is not a part of religion. Any legislative requirement to the effect that a Mussalman may not have more than one wife does not amount to interference with freedom of conscience or interference with the right to profess, practice and propagate religion. The provision of law in favour of monogamy does not involve violation of Art. 26. 1957 All W R (HC) 155 : 1957 All L J 300.

——Arts. 25 and 26—Religious freedom.

The religious freedom as contemplated by the Constitution is not an unrestricted freedom. The religious freedom which has been safeguarded by the Constitution is religious freedom which must be envisaged in the context of a secular State. It is not every aspect of religion that has been safeguarded, nor has the Constitution provided that every religious activity cannot be interfered with. "Religion" as used in Arts. 25 and 26 must be construed in its strict and etymological sense. Therefore, whatever, binds a man to his own conscience and whatever moral and ethical principles regulate the lives of men, that alone can constitute religion as understood in the Constitution. 55 Bom L R 86 : ILR (1953) Bom 1187 : AIR 1953 Bom 242 (244, 245) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 SC 388].

——Art. 25—Scope.

In considering Art. 25, a sharp distinction must be drawn between religious faith and belief and religious practices. What the State protects is religious faith and belief. If religious practices run counter to public order, morality, health or a policy of social welfare upon which the State has embarked, then the religious practices must give way before the good of the people of the State as a whole. AIR 1952 Bom 84, Foll. 55 Bom L R 1 : AIR 1953 Bom 183 (187) (Pt G) (Pr 18) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 853.]

——Art. 25—If there is any custom or usage which is in force in India which is inconsistent with the fundamental rights, that custom or usage is void. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1952 Bom 84.

——Art. 25 — A sharp distinction must be drawn between religious faith and belief and religious practices What the State protects is religious faith and belief. It is rather difficult to accept the proposition that polygamy is an integral part of Hindu religion. See Bombay Prevention of Hindu Bigamous Marriages Act (25 of 1946). AIR 1952 Bom 84 (DB).

——Art. 25—Applicability and scope—Meaning and scope of religious freedom—Religion and practice.

Where the Commissioner of Police refused his permission to the use of an electrical loud-speaker five times a day for calling the Azan (call for prayer) as several residents of the locality complained against the practice, it was argued for the Mutawalli of the mosque that the liberty allowed under Art. 25 of the Constitution has been curtailed by the suppression of the use of loud-speakers.

The High Court rejected the argument :

A sharp distinction must be drawn between religious faith and belief and religious practices. What the State protects is religious faith and belief. If religious practices run counter to public order, morality or health, then the religious practices must give way before the good of the people of the State as a whole. AIR 1952 Bom 84, AIR 1953 Bom 242 and (1879) 25 L Ed. 244, Rel. on. 59 Cal W N 293 : 95 Cal L J 129 : AIR 1956 Cal 9 (10) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 7, 9).

——Arts. 25 and 26—Religious beliefs and practices —Nature and extent of.

The fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 25 (1) is the right to profess, practise and propagate religion. Religious practices or performances of acts in pursuance of religious beliefs which are guaranteed under Art. 25 (1) and Art. 28 (b) subject to the limitation of public order, morality and health and the limitations stated in Art. 25 (2), are religious practices and performances according to the doctrines of that religion. Religious practices are matters of religion within the meaning of Art. 26 (b) What constitutes the essential part of religion is primarily to be ascertained with reference to the doctrines of that religion itself. AIR 1954 S C 282 and AIR 1954 S C 388, Rel. on.

The presence of a Shivling and the worship of it is repugnant to the principles of Jainism and of Jain worship of Tirthankars and to the sentiments of Jains who worship in the temple. Such act as the presence of Shivling in the temple amounts to a violation of the fundamental rights of those people under Arts. 25 (1) and 26 (b) of the Constitution. 1957 M P C 725 : 1957 Jab L J 1088 : I L R (1957) Madh Pra 658 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 115 (127) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 25—Scope.

Freedom of conscience is the minimum of religious liberty. It is intangible as it is subjective and is not capable of legal protection except that a person may not be compelled by law to abandon his belief, creed or opinion. A man may not only hold his religious opinions but may put them to practice and translate them into articulate force by profession, practice and propagation. Unless these are also protected, there is no meaning in protecting freedom of conscience. It is very difficult to separate religious belief and practice from politics or ethics. But in the interests of the State it cannot be contended, at any rate at the present day that such practices cannot legitimately be prohibited by legislation though such legislation might infringe religious liberty. 1952 Mad W N 299: 1952-1 Mad L J 557 : AIR 1952 Mad 613 (636, 638) (Pt L) (Prs 36, 38) (DB).

——Arts. 25, 26 — Denominational institutions — If unconstitutional.

The Constitution recognizes that every community or section thereof is entitled to establish its own institutions. This is subject only to public order, morality and health. In granting a freeship or free treatment to a Christian there may be discrimination between one community and another; there is nothing in the Constitution which prohibits such preferential treatment. The law contemplates denominational institution. The internal management of such institutions is not the concern of Government. Everybody is free to enter a Christian hospital or not; but if he does, he cannot complain that a Christian is being given free treatment and not he. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25, 26—Duty of Court.

The Judge when called upon to pronounce, on religious freedom is not justified in writing his private notions of policy into the Constitution. 319 U S 624, Rel. on. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

● ——Art. 25—Applicability—Religion, its sense.

Religion in its broadest sense includes all forms of faith and worship, all the varieties of man's belief in a Superior Being or a Moral Law transcending the things that are Caesar's and demanding his affection and obedience. P. M. Baimadathan Nambooripad v. Cochin Devaswami Board, 1955 Ker L T 516 : I L R (1955) T C 741 : AIR 1956 Tra-Co 19 (22) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (FB).

——Art. 25 (1) — Sacrifice of cow on Bakr-id-Day is not obligatory act for Muslim and protection of fundamental right under Art. 25 (1) cannot be avalied of. See Penal Code (1860), S 295. AIR 1965 Tripura 22.

Religious practices — Power of Government to enquire into.

——Arts. 25, 26— Right of religious practices — Inquiry by State.

No one can deny that under colour of religion harmful activities of a secular nature cannot be allowed to grow. A liberal meaning has been given to the expression "practices of religion". All practices of religion are part of religion and are also guaranteed. A person may, thus not only profess a particular religion but, subject to public order, morality and health, may exercise his religious beliefs in any way he likes. If religious freedom is to be real, the State cannot interfere, unless a question of loyalty arises.

How far it is moral to ask a man to accept a different faith on the assurance of worldly gain is a matter of pure ethics. It is not a matter of law. Morality, as used in Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution, has reference to that morality which the law makes it, its concern to maintain. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25 and 26—Inquiry about money received by foreign Missions—Power of State.

No doubt, Government, has a right to inquire how much foreign money comes in as aid to foreign missions, and no objections can be taken to such an inquiry. But the expenditure of the money belonging to these Missions is a matter for them to decide. It may not be a part of religious practice, though a portion of it may well be spent for that purpose. The Missions are certainly at liberty to apply their money to the best advantage, they can find, without having to account to any one unless the money is used in a way which promotes a breach of public order, morality and health. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25, 26—Scope — Appointment of inquiry Committee to inquire into harassment by and against Christian Missions—If offends Arts. 25 and 26—(Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 107, 144, 145)—(Penal Code (1860), Chaps. 8, 16).

The freedom of conscience and religion guaranteed under Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution is subject only to considerations of public order, morality and health but it cannot be gainsaid that an attempt forcibly or fraudulently to convert a person from his belief to another is a matter which must be the concern of Government. Indeed these three expressions exclude everything undesirable in such activities. Force and fraud are covered both by public order and morality; but an approach with a view to convincing others of the spiritual benefits to be acquired from the faith preached is a necessary foundation of the religious freedom guaranteed under the Constitution. That freedom cannot be taken away, except perhaps in the interests of public order, morality and health. Where the subject of the inquiry is whether the methods to propagate religion adopted by the Christian Missions in any way contravened "public order, morality and health" and whether the Christian Missions and Christians were being harassed, and whether the Christian Missions were transgressing the limits of law as to public order and morality, it is well within the powers of Government. The test of clear and present danger is applied to religious freedom and freedom of speech and press, to discover at what stage the freedom of the citizen ends and the power of the State begins. What applies to positive action does not necessarily apply to an inquiry, because while inquiry goes on there is no interference such as there is when positive action is taken. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25, 26—Religious community indulging in politics—Inquiry by Government—Legality.

No doubt, religion and politics have to be kept completely apart. An enquiry into political activities associated with religion is well within the terms of the Constitution. No one can deny the right of Government to know the kind of political activity a section of the public indulges in. Undesirable political activity is one thing and taking part in political activity legitimately as it is open to any other person is another, and the latter cannot be called in question. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25, 26 — Christian Missions — Attitude towards Indians—Inquiry as to.

Government is entitled to know whether people who have come from abroad and who have established Missions are friendly to Indian aspirations and Indian culture. The inquiry is legitimate to find out how far they are hostile to Indian aspirations and Indian culture. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25, 26 — Inquiry into social relations between Christians and others—Propriety.

Inquiry into the social relations between the Christians and non-Christians which is comprehensive and non-discriminatory, is perfectly legitimate. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25, 26—Inquiry by Government about operations of Christian Missions—Power of Government.

Government is entitled to know where the Christian population resides and what Missions are working. If the Government is interested in knowing whether these Missions operate in areas other than those peopled largely by scheduled castes and aboriginal tribes there is nothing sinister in it. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Arts. 25, 26—Inquiry about Pracharaks—Power of Government.

Of course the methods of the Pracharaks can be looked into to find out if they offend against public order, morality and health; but it is not the concern of anybody or even of Government if the Pracharaks are paid beyond their worth and are rewarded. That is matter of internal administration of the Christians themselves, who have the liberty to preach their faith to outsiders and can employ such agency as they choose. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

3 (a). Right to propagate religion.

● ——Art. 25 (1) — Scope — Bihar Preservation and Improvement of Animals Act (2 of 1956), Ss. 2, 3—U. P. Prevention of Cow-Slaughter Act (1 of 1956), S. 3—C. P. and Berar Animal Preservation Act (52 of 1949), (as amended by M. P. Acts (23 of 1951 and (10 of 1956), S. 4—Validity.

Subject to the restrictions which this article imposes every person has a fundamental right under the Constitution not merely to entertain such religious belief as may be approved of by his judgment or conscience but to exhibit his belief and ideas in such overt acts as are enjoined or sanctioned by his religion and further to propagate his religious views for the edification of others. The free exercise of religion by which is meant the performance of outward acts in pursuance of religious belief, is, as stated above, subject to State regulation imposed to secure order, public health and morals of the people. AIR 1954 S C 388, Foll.

Held, that the sacrifice of a cow on Bakr-Id Day is not an obligatory overt act for a Mussalman to exhibit his religious belief and idea and consequently there was no violation of the fundamental rights of the Mussalmans under Art. 25 (1). Mahomed Hanif Quareshi v. State of Bihar, 1958 S C A 783 : 1958 S C J 975 : (1958) M L J (Cr) 727 : 1959 S C R 629 : AIR 1958 S C 731 (739) (Pt G) (Pr 13).

● ——Art. 25 - Practice and propagation of religious tenets — Applicability of Art. 25 to Mathadhipati — (Hindu Law - Religious Endowment).

A Mathadhipati is not a corporate body; he is the head of a spiritual fraternity and by virtue of his office has to perform the duties of a religious teacher. It is his duty to practise and propagate the religious tenets, of which he is an adherent and if any provision of law prevents him from propagating his doctrines, that would certainly affect the religious freedom which is guaranteed to every person under Art. 25. Institutions, as such cannot practise or propagate religion; it can be done only by individual persons and whether these persons propagate their personal views or the tenets for which the institution stands is really immaterial for purposes of Art. 25. It is the propagation of belief that is protected no matter whether the propagation takes place in a church or monastery, or in a temple or parlour meeting. Commissioner, H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : A I R 1954 S C 282 (289) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——Art. 25—Religious procession—Right to take out religious procession—Magistrate can prohibit it, if he apprehends breach of peace. 55 Cri L J 1607 : A I R 1954 All 756 (757, 758) (Prs 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Arts. 25, 19 (1) (a)—Penal Code (1860), S. 295-A—Section 295-A is valid—Intention of writer found clearly to outrage religious feelings of Muslims deliberately and maliciously—Offence under S. 295-A held made out.

A person is entitled to express and propagate his own views so long as he does not affect public order, morality and health or offend any of the provision of the Constitution or laws of the land. (1964) 1 Mad L J 147 : 1964 All Cri R 61 : 1964 Mad L J (Cri) 123: 1964 (1) Cri L J 672: AIR 1964 Mad 258 (259) (Prs 6, 7, 8).

——Arts. 25, 26 — Extolling one's own religion—Propriety.

Anyone who preaches the benefits of his religion is likely to extol his own and, to some extent, dispute the truth and efficiency of another religion. Propagation of religion cannot otherwise be carried on and within limits; regard being had to the law of blasphemy, profanity, etc., everybody is free to dispute the truth of another's religion. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

3 (b). Right to enter into a public temple.

● ——Art. 25 (2) (b)—Scope—If controls Arts. 25 (1) and 26 (b).

Right conferred by Art. 25 (2) (b), is a right conferred 'on all classes and sections of Hindus' to enter into a public temple, and on the unqualified terms of that Article, that right must be available, whether it is sought to be exercised against an individual under Art. 25 (1) or against a denomination under Art. 26 (b). Though Art. 25 (1) deals with rights of individuals, Art. 25 (2) is much wider in its contents and has reference to the rights of communities, and controls both Art. 25 (1) and Art. 26 (b). Sri Venkataramana Devaru v. State of Mysore, 36 Mys L J 232 : 1958 Mad W N (SC) 96 : (1958) S C J 382 : (1958) 1 Mad L J (S C) 109 : (1958) 1 Andh W R (S C) 109 : 1958 S C R 895 : A I R 1958 S C 255 (268) (Pt H) (Pr 28).

——Art. 25 (2) (b) — Scope — Jain temple—Right of untouchable to enter — Cannot insist upon entering it. See Untouchability (Offences) Act (1955), S. 3. 1958 Cr L J 1398 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 352 (DB).

——Art. 25 — Applicability and scope — Right to worship in temple.

Where the temple is exclusively a public Jain temple dedicated to and for the benefit of the Jain community, then the members of the Jain community, have clearly a right to enter and worship in the temple according to the principles and forms of their religion. That right is a fundamental and guaranteed right under Art. 25 (1) of the Constitution. 1957 Madh Pra L J 788 : I L R (1957) Madh Pra 507 : 1957 Madh Pra C 725 : 1957 Jab L J 1088 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 115 (126) (Pt D) (Pr 15).

4. "Subject to the other provisions of this part."

● ——Art. 25 (1) and (2)—Relative scope of.

The limitation "subject to the other provisions of this Part" occurs only in cl. (1) of Art. 25 and not in cl. (2). Cl. (1) declares the rights of all persons to freedom of conscience and the right freely to profess, practise and propagate religion. It is this right that is subject to the other provisions in the Fundamental Rights Chapter. One of the provisions to which the right declared in Art. 25 (1) is subject to is Art. 25 (2). A law, therefore, which falls within Art. 25 (2) (b) will control the right conferred by Art. 25 (1) and the limitation in Art. 25 (1) does not apply to that law. Sri Venkataramana Devaru v. State of Mysore. 36 Mys L J 232 : 1958 Mad W N (SC) 96 : (1958) S C J 382 : (1959) 1 Andh W R (SC) 109 : (1958) 1 M L J (SC) 109 : 1958 S C R 895 : A I R 1958 S C 255 (267) (Pt G) (Pr 26).

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Mutawalli can neither claim personal interest in waqf property nor claim to fall within definition of religious denomination or section thereof—Mutawalli cannot complain about violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) and neither Art. 25 nor Art. 26 can help him. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1965 All 333.

■ ——Arts. 25 (1) and 31 — Compulsory acquisition of Waqf property under Art. 31 — Right to profess religion if affected.

The acquisition of Waqf property under Art. 31 (to which the right conferred by Art. 25 is expressly subject) has nothing to do with such right and in no way interferes with a Mutawalli's right to profess his religion. Raja Surya Palsingh v. U. P. Government, 1951 All L J 365 : 1951 R D (HC) 122 : 1951 All W R (HC) 317 : I L R (1952) 2 All 46 : A I R 1951 All 674 (690) (Pt Q) (Pr 81) (FB).

5. Power of State to provide for social welfare and social reform.

(a) Constitutionality of legislative provisions under Article.

5. Power of State to provide for social welfare and social reform.

——Arts. 25 and 26—Scope — Power of Legislature to make law with regard to religious matter or property possessed by religious institutions.

Arts. 25 and 26 clearly make a distinction between matters of religion and holding and management of property by religious institution. In matters of property there is always a secular angle which is supplied by the law of the country, and no religious denomination can make a law about its own property and thus nullify the law of the land. The property of the Christian religious institutions, therefore, is as much subject to law as any other property privately held in our country. Hence the State Legislature is not incompetent to make laws with regard to property possessed by religious institutions. AIR 1954 S C 388, Rel. on. I L R (1957) Madh Pra 599 : 1958 Jab L J 713 : 1959 Madh Pra L J 611 : 1958 Madh Pra C 588 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 362 (365) (Pt B) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Arts. 25, 26—Public temple—Temple belonging to a particular religious denomination — Right of State claiming ownership to instal idols of other religions.

Where a temple belonging to Jain religion is a public temple and therefore res extra commercium, its character as a public Jain temple cannot be taken away by any assertion on the part of the State of a right to ownership; and by that assertion a public temple cannot be made a museum for an exhibition of deities and idols of all religions. The temple being a public Jain temple, only images or deities of Jain religion can be kept therein even if the State is the owner of the temple. 1957 M P C 725 : 1957 Jab L J 1088 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 115 (127, 128) (Pt G) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Scope—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 100 (2) (y) - Rules under R. 10—Validity—Mathadhipathi's right to manage affairs of Math—Unreasonable restrictions on.

Rule 10 framed under S. 100 (2) (y) of the Act imposes an unreasonable restriction on the right of the Mathadhipathi to manage the affairs of the Math. The restrictions are such as would bring the Mathadhipathi down to the level of a servant under a State department. In relation to Maths the Government cannot claim that power in derogation of the Mathadhipathi's right of management of a denominational institution like a Math. 69 Mad L W 337 : (1956) 1 M L J 532 : AIR 1956 Mad 491 (499) (Pt K) (Pr 36) (DB).

——Art. 25—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951)—Validity.

The freedom of religion guaranteed by Art. 25 is not an uncontrolled freedom. The religious freedom which has been safeguarded by this article is religious freedom in the background of a secular State. The freedom which Art. 25 guarantees is freedom in a social organisation which requires the protection of law against the evils masquerading in name of religion, against evils which menace the welfare and the morals of the people. Unless the legislation directly attempts to control the practice and propagation of religion there is no violation of the guarantee under Art. 25 (1) of the Constitution. The Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act is not legislation directly interfering with the practice and propagation of religion. On the contrary, the object of the Act is to provide for the better administration of Hindu Religious Trusts and for the protection and the preservation of the properties appertaining to such trusts. There is no violation of the guarantee under Art. 25 of the Constitution. AIR 1950 S C 27, Foll. 32 Pat 1148 : AIR 1954 Pat 269 (274) (Pt I) (Prs 16, 17) (DB).

5 (a). Constitutionality of legislative provisions under Article.

● ——Arts. 25 (1), 26 and 31 (2)— Legislature taking over secular affairs of religious institution — Validity of Nathdwara Temple Act—Act does not contravene Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f), 31 (2), 25 and 26—Provisions of the Act except first part of S. 30 (2) (a) are valid. See Rajasthan Nathdwara Temple Act (13 of 1959), S. 2 (viii). AIR 1963 S C 1638.

● ——Arts. 25 (2), 26, cl. (b)—Law interfering with right of religious denomination to ex-communicate its members — Constitutional validity — Dawoodi Bohras—Dai-ul-Mutlaq—Legislation invalidating his power of excommunicating members on religious grounds—Legislation violates Art. 26 (b) and is void —Legislation not saved by Art. 25 (2)—Bombay Prevention of Excommunication Act (42 of 1949). A I R 1953 Bom 183, Overruled. See Ibid, Art. 26 cl. (b). AIR 1962 S C 853.

● ——Art. 25 (1)—S. 13 (1), Durgah Khawaja Saheb Act (1955)—Validity—AIR 1959 Raj 177, Reversed.

Section 13 (1) of Act 36 of 1955 authorises the Committee to make provisional interim arrangement if a vacancy occurs in the office of the Sajjadanashin. In considering the scope and effect of this provision it cannot be read apart from the provisions of the remaining sub-sections of S. 13. Section 13 is really intended to lay down the procedure for determining disputes as to the succession to the office of the Sajjadanashin. If a vacancy occurs suddenly all that S. 13 (1) empowers the Committee to do is to make an appropriate interim arrangement in that behalf and to proceed to take the necessary steps for the appointment of a permanent successor as prescribed by the other provisions of S. 13. Section 13 (1) does not offend against Art. 25 (1) of the Constitution. AIR 1959 Raj 177, Reversed. Durgah Committee, Ajmer v. Syed Hussain Ali, (1961) 2 S C A 171 : (1962) 1 S C R 383 : AIR 1961 S C 1402 (1418, 1419) (Pt H) (Pr 44).

● ——Arts. 25, 26 and 27 — Scope — Bihar Act (1 of 1951) — Act does not infringe Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) 25, 26 and 27 of Constitution. See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951). AIR 1959 S C 1073.

● ——Arts. 25 and 26—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act — Validity — (Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), Preamble and S. 60 (6)).

It cannot be said that the power to alter or modify the budget relating to a religious trust or the power to give directions to a trustee may be exercised by the Board in such a way as to affect the due observance of religious practices in a math or temple so as to constitute an encroachment on the right guaranteed under Art. 25; the power to alter the budget is subject to cl. (6) of S. 60 of the Act and the Board is not authorised to alter or modify the budget in a manner inconsistent with the wishes of the founder or with the provisions of the Act. The keynote of all the relevant provisions of the Act is the due observance of the objects of the religious trust and not its breach or violation. Secondly, an apprehension that the powers conferred may be abused in individual cases does not make the provision itself bad or invalid in law.

With regard to Art. 26, cls. (a) and (b), the position is the same. There is no provision of the Act which interferes with the right of any religious denomination or any section thereof to establish and maintain institutions for religious and charitable purposes; nor do the provisions of the Act interfere with the right of any religious denomination or any section thereof to manage its own affairs in matters of religion. The Act by its several provisions seeks to fulfil rather than defeat the trust. There is, therefore, no substance in the argument that the provisions of the Act contravene Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution. Moti Das v. S. P. Sahi, (1959) 2 S C A 432 : ILR 38 Pat 639 : (1959) Supp 2 S C R 563 : 1959 S C J 1144: AIR 1959 S C 942 (949, 950) (Pt F) (Prs 13, 14).

● ——Art. 25—Infringement of—Sections 38, 39 and the proviso to S. 46 of the Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act, are invalid. The rest of the Act is not invalid or ultra vires the Orissa legislature. SriJagannath Ramanuj Das v, State of Grissa, (1954) S C J 329 : (1954) 1 M L J 591 : AIR 1954 S C 400 (403) (Pt A) (Pr 11).

——Arts 25, 26 and 19 (1) (f)—U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (1960), S. 55—Validity—Duties of Mutwalli are purely secular in character and not comparable with rights of Mahant — Validity cannot be challenged under Arts. 19 (1) (f), 25 or 26 - Muslim Law—Waqf — Rights of Mutwalli — U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (16 of 1960), S. 55. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1965 All 333.

——Art. 25—Hindu Marriage Act (1955), Ss. 5 (i), 11 and 17 — U. P. Govt. Servants' Conduct Rules R. 27 — Prohibition of bigamy — Not invalid. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), S. 5 (1). AIR 1961 All 334.

——Art. 25 (2) (b) — Scope — Ss. 5, 9, 10 and 13 and other provisions of Hindu Marriage Act are protected under the Article — (Hindu Marriage Act (1955), Ss. 5, 9, 10 and 13). 1957 All L J 439 : 1957 All W R (HC) 420 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 172 : AIR 1957 All 411 (413) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 25—Freedom of religion—U. P. Act (14 of 1947) is saved by Art. 25 (2)—[U P. Removal of Social Disabilities Act (14 of 1947), S. 1].

By the U. P. Removal of Social Disabilities Act the freedom guaranteed under Art. 25 (1) of the Constitution has in no manner been affected. The U. P. Act falls within the definition of 'existing law' given in Art. 366 (10) and is thus protected by cl. (2) of Art. 25. The Act only provides for the removal of those distinctions which caste Hindus enforced on the Harijans in respect of, among other matters, entry of Harijans in temples on the same footing as caste Hindus. 1954 All L J 355 : 1954 All W R (H C) 424 : AIR 1954 All 601 (603) (Pt B) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Commissions of Inquiry Act (1952), S. 5 (3)—Validity.

S. 5, sub-s. (3) of the Act gives only a limited power to the authorised officers to enter any building or place; the search and seizure of books of account or documents that may be found in the building or place can be done only after observing the formalities prescribed by Ss. 102 and 103, Criminal P. C. The power of search and seizure is hedged in by several restrictions and safeguards. Sub-s. (3) of S. 5 of the Act is constitutionally valid and does not violate the provision contained in Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 282, Disting. 1959 Andh L T 235 : (1959) 1 Andh W R 258: ILR (1959) Andh Pra 67 : AIR 1959 Andh Pra 148 (152) (Pt C) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 25—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 52—S. 52 of the Act, when interpreted in the context of the rights guaranteed to Mathadhipathi, is not unreasonable and unconstitutional. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 283.

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Bombay Public Trusts Act (29 of 1950), Preamble and Ss. 18, 31, 32, 35, 36, 37, 44, 47, 48, 50 (e), and (g), 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, and 62 — Validity of Act.

The provisions of the Act, particularly Ss 18, 31, 32, 34, 35, 36, 37, 44, 47, 48, 50 (e) and (g), 55, 56, 57, 58, 59 and 62 do not contravene the fundamental rights embodied in Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution nor is any provision of the Act beyond the competence of the State Legislature. 55 Bom L R 86 : ILR (1953) Bom 1187 : AIR 1953 Bom 242 (251) (Pt A) (Pr 21) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1954 S C 388, where the following provisions of Bombay Public Trusts Act to wit :—(i) S. 44 of the Act to the extent that it relates to the appointment of the Charity Commissioner as a trustee of religious public trust by the Court; (ii) the provisions of cls. (3) to (6) of S. 47 and (iii) Clause (c) of S. 55 and the part of cl. (1) of S. 56 corresponding thereto were held invalid.

Note—In addition to the above sections, the other sections, validity of which also was challenged, were Ss. 18, 31 to 37, 48, 50, cls. (e) and (g), 58 and 68. Rejecting the contention of the appellants with respect to these sections the Supreme Court held that they are validly enacted—Ed.].

——Art. 25 — Bombay Prevention of Bigamous Marriages Act (1946) is valid. See Bombay Prevention of Bigamous Marriages Act, 1946. AIR 1952 Bom 84 (DB).

——Arts. 25 and 26 — The West Bengal Foodgrains (Intensive Procurement) Order, 1952, in so far as it authorises the State to acquire the entire produce of a land dedicated to a deity or in trust does not infringe the rights confered by either Art. 25 or Art. 26 and is not unconstitutional on that ground. See West Bengal Foodgrains (Intensive Procurement) Order, 1952—Validity. AIR 1954 Cal 241.

——Art. 25 — Madras Temple Entry Authorization Act (5 of 1947 as amended by Madras Act 13 of 1949) is not ultra vires the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 17. AIR 1956 Mad 541.

——Art. 25 (2) (b) — Madras Temple Entry Authorisation Act (5 of 1947)—Validity—Is not ultra vires or illegal. See Madras Temple Entry Authorization Act (5 of 1947). AIR 1956 Mad 528.

——Art. 25—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 21 (as amended by Act 27 of 1954). S. 21 is invalid even as amended. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1956 Mad 491.

——Art. 25—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 31 (as amended by Act 27 of 1954) — Section 31 is invalid — See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1956 Mad 491.

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Scope — Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 30 (2) (as amended by Act (27 of 1954), S. 30 (2)) — Validity.

Section 30 (2), even as amended, constitutes an unreasonable restriction on the Mathadhipathi's powers of disposal over the income of Math. Designed as a fetter on the Mathadhipathi's power of disposal, S. 30 (2) as it now stands amended, has to be struck down as void and unenforceable in its application to the Mathadhipathis of their Maths. 69 Mad L W 337 : (1956) 1 M L J 532 : AIR 1956 Mad 491 (496) (Pt E) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Scope — Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 52 (1) (f) (as amended by Act 27 of 1954), S. 52 (1) (f) — Validity.

Section 52 (1) empowers a Commissioner or person authorised by him to move the Court to remove a Mathadhipathi on any of the grounds mentioned in S. 52 (1) as it now stands amended. It is for the Court to consider, even with reference to S. 52 (1) (f) as it stands, whether a case for removal has been made out. It is not possible to hold that S. 52 (1) (f) constitutes an unreasonable and unconstitutional restriction on the fundamental right of the Mathadhipathi. 69 Mad L W 337 : (1956) 1 M L J 532 : AIR 1956 Mad 491 (498) (Pt H) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 25—Validity of provisions of Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951). See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 20. AIR 1952 Mad 613 (DB).

——Art. 25 — Madras Hindu (Bigamy Prevention and Divorce) Act (6 of 1949) — Validity — Act does not offend Arts. 15 and 25 of the Constitution and is valid—Constitution of India, Arts. 15, 25 and Sch. 7, List 3, Item 5 — Government of India Act (1935), Sch. 7 List 3, Items 6, 7. See Madras Hindu (Bigamy Prevention of Divorce) Act (1949). AIR 1952 Mad 193.

——Art 25 — Hindu Marriage Act (1955) — Validity of—Act does not offend Arts. 14, 15 or 25. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), S. 5. 1959 Cr L J 493 : AIR 1959 Manipur 20.

——Art 25 (1) —Section 295 A, Penal Code, is a law creating an offence relating to religion in the interests of public order and is therefore not inconsistent with the right guaranteed by Art. 25 (1) of the Constitution to propagate religion. See Penal Code (1860), S. 295-A. 1962 (2) Cr L J 564 (Mys).

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Power to appoint temporary Mutawalli — Majlis is empowered—Section not violative of Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution. See Bihar Wakf Act (8 of 1948), S. 7. 1963 B L J R 151.

——Art. 25—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951) — Validity.

The Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act, 1 of 1951 is a valid piece of legislation and does not violate Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 25 of the Constitution. See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1951). AIR 1954 Pat 279.

——Art. 25 — Bihar Act 1 of 1951 does not violate the constitutional guarantee under Arts. 19 (1) (f), 25, 26 and 27 of the Constitution and the legislation is valid. See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951). AIR 1954 Pat 278 (DB).

——Art. 25 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 28 (2) (j) — Is not invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19. AIR 1957 Pat 615 (DB).

——Art. 25 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 60 (2) — Is not invalid. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1957 Pat 615.

——Arts. 25 and 26 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), Ss. 30, 49 — Validity.

Sections 30 and 49 of the Act enact in statutory form the doctrine of Cy pres so far as the Hindu Religious Trusts are concerned. The provisions enacted in these sections are wholly reasonable and there is no violation of the guarantee of freedom of religion under Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution. The Act empowers the Board of Religious Trust to interfere only if the object of the Religious Trusts has ceased to exist or has become impossible of achievement or, in the alternative, if the object of the trust was vague or uncertain. AIR 1954 SC 388, Dist. ILR 33 Pat 682: AIR 1957 Pat 615 (615) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts. 25, 26 (b) and 26 (d) — Legislation taking over administration of secular affairs of religious institution — Validity — Nathdwara Temple Act (13 of 1959), S. 2 (viii), 16, 28 (2) and (3), 30 (2) (a), 36 and 37 — Provisions ultra vires the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Raj 196 (DB).

——Arts. 25 (1), 14 and 19 (1) (g) — Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act, S. 11 (f) — Section whether hit by Articles.

Section 11 (f) of the Act inasmuch as it authorized the committee to regulate the presence of the Khadims in the Durgah by the grant of licence, and impliedly to prohibit the entry of any Khadim by refusal of licence is hit by Art. 25 (1) of the Constitution. The grant or refusal to grant licence is left arbitrarily in the hands of the committee, and no guidance is afforded by the Act in the matter of grant or refusal of licences. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 424 : 1959 Raj L W 496 : AIR 1959 Raj 177 (189, 191) (Pt F) (Prs 63, 76) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1402.]

——Art. 25 — Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act, S. 11 (h) — Validity.

A Sajjadanashin has well-known powers in respect of the Durgah so far as the spiritual side is concerned and the power given to the secular committee by S. 11 (h) of the Act to define the religious or spiritual functions of the Sajjadanashin is hit by Art. 25 of the Constitution. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 424 : 1959 Raj L W 496: AIR 1959 Raj 177 (189) (Pt G) (Pr 64) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1402].

——Art. 25 — Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act, S. 13 (1) — Validity.

The office of the Sajjadanashin is a spiritual office, and the appointment of a Sajjadanashin is regulated by custom pertaining to the institution.

Section 13 (1) is hit by Art. 25 so far as it empowers the secular committee to make interim arrangements for the performance of the spiritual functions of the Sajjadanashin as it may think fit with the previous approval of the Chief Commissioner. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 424:1959 Raj L W 496 : AIR 1959 Raj 177 (189, 190, 191) (Pt H) (Prs 65, 66, 76) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1402].

6. State regulation — Clause 2 (a).

■ ——Art. 25 (2) (a)—Scope.

What sub-cl. (a) of Cl. (2) of Art. 25 contemplates is not State regulation of the religious practices as such which are protected unless they run counter to public health or morality but of activities which are really of an economic, commercial or political character though they are associated with religious practices. Ratilal Panachand Gandhi v. State of Bombay, (1954) S C J 480 : (1954) 1 M L J 718 : 1954 S C A 538 : 56 Bom L R 1184 : 1954 S C R 1055 : A I R 1954 S C 388 (391) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Art. 25—"Restriction" and "Regulation"— Meaning and interpretation of—Distinction—The expression 'restriction' in Art. 19 (6) is not synonymous with regulation. Restriction may be complete or partial; and when it is complete it would imply absolute prohibition. That the framer of the constitution were aware of the distinction between the power to regulate and the power to restrict will be apparent from a scrutiny of sub-cl. (a) of Cl. (2) of Art. 25. See Ibid, Art. 19 (6). AIR 1952 Orissa 42.

7. Religious institutions of public character — Clause 2 (b).

■ ——Arts. 25 (2) (b) and 26 (b) — 'Matters of religion' — Denominational temple founded for benefit of Gouda Saraswath Brahmins — Right to exclude others from worship — Conflict between Arts. 25 (2) (b) and 26 (b) — Art. 25 (2) (b) prevails — Litigation under Madras Act 5 of 1947—Parties — Government agitating on behalf of Public — Public if bound by decisions—(Madras Temple Entry Authorisation Act, 5 of 1947 as amended by Act 13 of 1940), S. 2 (2).

The expression 'matters of religion' in Art. 26 (b) embraces not merely matters of doctrine and belief pertaining to the religion but also the practice of it. AIR 1954 S C 282, Relied on.

Under the ceremonial law pertaining to temples, who are entitled to enter into them for worship and how the worship is to be conducted are all matters of religion. The conclusion is also implicit in Art. 25. Exclusion of persons from temple is a matter of religion with reference to the tenets of the institution.

There is a fundamental distinction between excluding persons from temples open for purposes of worship to the Hindu public in general on the ground that they belong to the excluded communities and excluding persons from denominational temples founded, say, for the benefit of Gowda Saraswath Brahmins on the ground that they are not objects within the benefit of the foundation. The former will be hit by Art. 17 and the latter protected by Art. 26. Article 25 (2) (b) applies in terms to all religious institutions of a public character without qualification or reserve, and denominational temples would be comprised therein. It must be held that denominational institutions are within Art. 25 (2) (b). The validity of S. 3 of the Madras Act 5 of 1947 does not depend on its own force but on Art. 25 (2) (b) of the Constitution. The very Constitution which is claimed to have rendered S. 3 of the Madras Act void as being repugnant to Art. 26 (b) has, in Art. 25 (2) (b) invested it with validity, and, therefore, the trustees can succeed only by establishing that Art. 25 (2) (b) itself is inoperative as against Art. 26 (b).

Applying the rule of harmonious construction it must be held that Art. 26 (b) must be read subject to Art. 25 (2) (b).

Exclusive right of the members of the community to worship for all the time will be hit by Art. 25 (2) (b) but the distinct right, namely, that during certain ceremonies and on special occasions, it is only members of the Gowda Saraswath Brahmin community that have the right to take part therein, and that on those occasions, all other persons would be excluded, would clearly be a denominational right. If this right is recognised, what is left to the public of the right under Art. 25 (2) (b) is substantial and unaffected.

Held, on facts that even though the members of the public were not parties to the litigation, they could be bound by the result of it, since it was their rights that had been agitated by the Government and not any of its own rights. Sri Venkataramana Devaru v. State of Mysore, 36 Mys L J 232 : 1958 Mad W N (S C) 96 : (1958) S C J 382 : (1958) 1 Mad L J (S C) 109 : (1958) 1 Andh W R (S C) 109 : 1958 S C R 895 : AIR 1958 S C 255 (263, 265, 267, 268, 269) (Pt F) (Prs 16, 18, 24, 25, 27, 29, 31, 32, 33, 34).

8. Explanation I.

——Art. 25 — Kripan means a sword and its size or shape has not been prescribed by the Sikh Religion; it may be a sword of any size or shape. 1952 Cri L J 218 : AIR 1952 All 53 (55) (Pt A) (Pr 13).

——Art. 25—A person as a Sikh is entitled to possess only one sword. He cannot possess an extra sword without a licence. 1952 Cri L J 218 : A I R 1952 All 53 (55) (Pt B) (Prs 16, 18).

9. Explanation II.

● ——Art. 25 (2) (b), Expl. II — 'Hindu' includes Buddist only for purpose of Art. 25 (2) (b) and for no other. See Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order (1950), Cl. (3). AIR 1965 S C 1179.

——Art. 25, Expl. II—Applicability — Explanation II to Art. 25 lays down that reference to Hindus shall be construed as including a referenee to persons professing the Sikh, Jain or Buddhist religion only in sub-cl. (b) of Cl. (2) of that article. In general the term Hindu does not include those professing the Buddhist religion. It includes only those persons who are governed by Hindu law. See Ibid, Art. 14. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 63.

ARTICLE 26

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Art. 26)

1. Scope of the Article.
2. Right to manage its own affairs in matters of religion — Clause (b).
3. Right to own and acquire property—Clause (c).
4. Right to administer property—Clause (d).

1. Scope of the Article.

● ——Art. 26 (1) — Institutions for charitable purposes — In a larger sense an educational institution may be regarded as charitable. Rev. Sidhrajbhai Sabhaj v. State of Gujarat, (1963) 3 S C R 837 : (1963) 2 S C A 394 : 1962 Ker L T (S C) 135 : A I R 1963 S C 540.

● ——Art. 26 — Scope — Articles 25 and 26 embody principles of religious toleration. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1962 S C 853.

● ——Art. 26 — 'Denomination', meaning of — Followers of the three Acharyas.

The word 'denomination' has been defined in the Oxford Dictionary to mean 'a collection of individuals classed together under the same name; a religious sect or body having a common faith and organisation and designated by a distinctive name'. The practice of setting up Maths as centres of theological teaching was started by Shri Sankaracharya and was followed by various teachers since then. After Sankara, came a galaxy of religious teachers and philosophers who founded the different sects and sub-sects of the Hindu religion. Each one of such sects or sub-sects can be called a religious denomination, as it is designated by a distinctive name —in many cases it is the name of the founder—and has a common faith and common spiritual organisation. The followers of Ramanuja, who are known by the name of Shri Vaishnavas, constitute a religious denomination, and so do the followers of Madhwacharya and other religious teachers.

Further, Art. 26 contemplates not merely a religious denomination but also a section thereof, the Math or the spiritual fraternity represented by it can legitimately come within the purview of this article. Commr., H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : A I R 1954 S C 282 (289) (Pt E) (Pr 15).

——Arts. 26, 25 and 19 (1) (f) — Mutwalli can neither claim personal interest in waqf property nor claim to fall within definition of religious denomination or section thereof — Mutwalli cannot complain about violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) and neither Art. 25 nor Art. 26 can help him — U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (16 of 1960), Ss. 49, 50. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1965 All 333.

——Arts. 26, 30, 226 — Wearing a nun's religious habit by expelled nun while teaching in Convent school — Whether a fundamental right — Petition under Art. 226 against private body — Maintainability.

A was a nun working as woman teacher in the school run by Roman Catholic Mission. By reason of conduct unbecoming of a nun, the Bishop in his capacity as the head of the Diocese expelled A from the sisterhood. In defiance of the Canon Law, A persisted in wearing the religious habit of a nun after her expulsion. The authorities also removed her as a teacher. On appeal to the educational authorities, A was ordered to be reinstated. On representation of the Mission authorities the reinstatement was made subject to the discipline of the Convent with regard to the dress. The Mother-General issued a direction that A should attend the school wearing a saree and blouse as a lay woman teacher. In writ petition A contended that such a direction about her dress was illegal and that it was still open to her to wear the religious habit of a nun.

Held (1) that the Educational authority had not passed a direction adverse to A on an appeal of which due notice was not given to the petitioner; (2) that under Art. 26 the Roman Catholic Mission could establish and maintain the churches and manage their affairs in matters of religion. Any religious body has a right to establish and maintain institutions for religious and charitable purposes and manage their affairs. The term 'administer' in Art. 30 is wide enough to take in enforcement of discipline in regard to dress and other matters by the educational institution. Thus the direction that A, an expelled nun should not wear the 'religious habit' of a nun could not be questioned when indisputably nuns have a distinctive dress known as the 'religious habit' which only nuns could wear. There is nothing in the chapter of fundamental rights embodied in Part III of the Constitution whereunder such a right is expressed or could be inferred. AIR 1954 S C 282, Rel. on. (3) that A could wear a nun's 'religious habit' could not be a right which could be recognised under the chapter of Fundamental Rights and much more so when she had ceased to be a nun; (4) that the Mission authority was a private body and the petition under Art. 226 complaining of an infringement of a fundamental right did not lie against the said body : AIR 1952 S C 59 and AIR 1956 S C 108, Rel. on. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 277 (279) (Prs 9, 10, 11, 13) (DB).

——Art. 26 — Scope — Article 26 does not deal with the rights of an individual or of a citizen. It deals with the rights of a religious denomination or a section of a religious denomination. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1954 Cal 241.

——Art. 26 (a) — Right to perform Santhi at temple confined to particular Brahmin community — Purchase of right by institution on this condition — Validity.

Where the right of performing "Santhi" at the temple was confined by custom to a particular Brahmin community, and the right was put up to auction by the State in whom the right to manage the temple had vested and the bid of a certain institution was accepted, and the auction was subject to the condition that the "Santhi" would be performed by the particular Brahmin community according to the established custom and usage, the right of the public under Art. 26 (a) of the Constitution is not infringed. 1960 Ker L T 250 : AIR 1960 Ker 312 (313) (Pr 1).

——Art. 26 — Religious denomination — Gowd Sarswath Brahmin community is a religious denomination — Inclusion of Shri Venkataramana Temple, Mulki in list under S. 38, Madras Act (19 of 1951) — Petition under Art. 26 is maintainable.

The Gowd Saraswath Brahmin community is undoubtedly a religious denomination or at any rate a section of a religious denomination. Therefore, the protection under Art. 26 can be claimed on behalf of the trustees of a temple belonging to the denomination. Therefore the provisions of the Act in so far as they interfere with the autonomy of the religious denomination which own and has the sole and exclusive control of the temple should not be allowed to be enforced including the provision relating to notification procedure which vests an arbitrary power in the Commissioner and the Government to wrest from the hands of the trustees the power to administer the temple.

Mere inclusion of the temple in the list under S. 38 is enough for the trustees to move the Court under Art. 26 since inclusion of temple in the list means that the Board have taken a definite decision to apply the provisions of the Act to the temple owned by the trustees. The petition cannot be thrown out in limine on the ground that the petitioners are not persons aggrieved and that there is at present no danger of the provisions of the Act being applied to the temple. (1952) 2 M L J 481 : 65 Mad L W 968 : A I R 1953 Mad 149 (151, 152) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 26 — Denomination — Who could form and claim benefit of Art. 26. See Madras H. R. and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 20. A I R 1952 Mad 613 (DB).

——Art. 26—Scope—Denomination, meaning of.

The dictionary meaning of the word 'denomination' as given by Webster is "a collection of individuals classed together under the same name; now almost always specially a religious sect or body having a common faith and organization and designated by a distinctive name." There being several religions in India such as Islam, Christianity, Zorostrianism and Hinduism, it may not be wrong to take Hinduism and the members of that religion as constituting a religious denomination in a larger sense or if it should be taken in a limited sense. Advaita, Dwaita, Visishtadwaita, Saivaites may be another classification and the members of each faith may be be treated as members of one denomination. Even taking it in the sense as only a 'sect writ large' the division of the members of the Hindu religion based upon a system of philosophy which is adopted by a group of members may be treated as a denomination or sect and any section of that denomination and a division made either on territorial or sectional basis, may be treated as a section thereof. The contention that the denomination contemplated by Art. 26 is not identical with a religious sect or members of a religious persuasion but it must be a closed body like a Corporation cannot be accepted. It is rather difficult to dissociate the religious affairs of an institution from the property or its secular affairs. The secular affairs are only directed for the purpose of better management of the religious affairs for which alone the institution exists. They are inextricably mixed up.

Article 26 is concerned with religious institutions and the consideration of the question whether there is any beneficial ownership in the properties of the institution by the members of the denomination is irrelevant as it is solely concerned with the institution which exists for spiritual and not for material benefit.

It is unnecessary, that in order to claim the benefit of Art 26, a religious denomination should be capable of holding all the four rights in the four sub clauses of that article. Each clause recognises a distinct and separate right. The denomination may exercise all or any of those rights and it is unnecessary that it should own all the rights before it can claim recognition as a religious denomination. 1952 Mad W N 299 : 1952 1 Mad L J 557 : A I R 1952 Mad 613 (639, 640) (Pt D) (Prs 40, 41, 42, 43) (DB).

——Art. 26 — Mysore Police Act (5 of 1908) S. 40— Notification under — Validity — If can be challenged on ground that proceedings under S. 144, Criminal P. C., would have been more appropriate so as to protect rights of petitioners in respect of management of religious institution—Duty of State to protect civil rights — Extent of, in cases of emergency arising out of breach of public peace. See Mysore Police Act (5 of 1908), S. 40. 1962 Mys L J (Supp) 411.

——Art. 26 — Denominational Institutions — If unconstitutional. See Ibid, Art. 25. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26—Extolling one's own religion—Propriety. See Ibid, Art. 25. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26—Duty of Court—The Judge when called upon to pronounce on religious freedom is not justified in writing his private notions of Policy into the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 25. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26 — Religion and "religious denomination — Meaning — Institution belonging to Hindu public in general.

The expression 'religious denomination' in Art. 26 may be used both in a larger sense and in a narrow sense and its construction will depend on the context. Thus in a country like India where there are several religious faiths the followers of each religion may also be quite appropriately called a religious denomination. The contention that the followers of the Hindu religion in general will not form members of a religious denomination within the meaning of Art. 26 cannot, therefore, be accepted and an institution meant for the Hindu public generally will also get the protection of Art. 26. A I R 1954 S C 282, Rel. on : A I R 1958 S C 255, Disting. I L R (1958) Cut 369 : A I R 1959 Orissa 5 (12) (Pt D) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 26 — Durgah Khwaja Saheb Act, S. 5 — Validity,

The Chishtia order can be considered to be a religious denomination or a section thereof mentioned in Art. 26 of the Constitution.

Section 5 of the Act is hit by Art. 26 of the Constitution so far as it lays down that the Committee shall consist of Hanafi Muslims without further restricting that they shall be of the Chishtia order believing in the religious practices and rituals in vogue at this Shrine. I L R (1959) 9 Raj 424 : 1959 Raj L W 496 : AIR 1959 Raj 177 (190, 191) (Pt E) (Prs 68, 76) (DB).

[Reversed in A I R 1961 S C 1402.]

Religious Practices — Power of Government to enquire into.

——Art. 26—Scope—Appointment of inquiry committee to inquire into harassment by and against Christian Missions — If offends Arts. 25 and 26 (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 107, 144, 145) — (Penal Code (1860), Chapters 8, 16). See Ibid, Art 25 (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26 — Christian Missions — Attitude towards Indians — Inquiry as to. See Ibid, Art. 25. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26—Inquiry about money received by foreign Missions — Power of State. See Ibid, Art. 25. 1957 M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26 — Inquiry about Pracharaks — Power of Government. See Ibid, Art. 25. 1957 M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26 — Inquiry by Government about operations of Christian Missions—Powers of Government. See Ibid, Art. 25. 1957 M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26 — Inquiry into social relations between christians and others — Propriety. See Ibid, Art. 25. 1957 M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26 — Religious community indulging in politics — Inquiry by Government — Legality. See Ibid, Art. 25. 1957 M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 26—Right of religious practices —Inquiry by State. See Ibid, Art. 25. 1957 M P L J 1 (Nag).

2. Right to manage its own affairs in matters of religion—Clause (b).

● ——Arts. 26, 25 (1), 31 (2), 14 and 19 (1) (f) — Legislature taking over secular affairs of religious institution—Validity of Nathdwara Temple Act—Act does not contravene Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f), 31 (2), 25 or 26—Provisions of the Act except first part of S. 30 (2) (a) are valid—A I R 1962 Raj 198, Reversed in part — Religious practice to which Art. 25 (1) refers and affairs in matters of religion to which Art. 26 (b) refers, include practices which are an integral part of the religion itself and the protection guaranteed by Art. 25 (1) and Art. 26 (b) extends to such practices. See Rajasthan Nathdwara Temple Act (12 of 1959), S. 2 (viii). A I R 1963 S C 1638.

● ——Arts. 26, Cl. (b), 25 (2)—Law interfering with right of religious denomination to ex-communicate its members — Constitutional validity — Dawoodi Bohra — Dai-ul-Mutlaq — Legislation invalidating his power of ex-communicating members on religious grounds—Legislation violates Art. 26 (b) and is void —Legislation not saved by Art. 25 (2)—Bombay Prevention of Ex-communication Act (42 of 1949). AIR 1953 Bom 183, Overruled.

Per Majority (Sarkar, Das Gupta and Mudholkar, JJ.; Ayyangar, J., concurring; Sinha, C J., contra):

The Bombay Prevention of Ex-communication Act, 42 of 1949, in so far as it destroys the right of the Dai ul-Mutlaq of excommunicating any member of the Dawoodi Bohra Community on religious ground, is void being in violation of Art. 26 (b) of the Constitution: AIR 1953 Bom 183 Overruled.

Since the decision of the Privy Council in A I R 1948 P C 66 it is no longer open to dispute that the Dai ul-Mutlak as the head of the Dawoodi Bohra Community has the right to excommunicate any member of the community.

The impugned Act makes even such excommunications invalid and takes away the power of the Dai as the head of the community to excommunicate even on religious grounds. It therefore, clearly interferes with the right of the Dawoodi Bohra Community under Cl. (b) of Art. 26 of the Constitution. The necessary consequence of excommunication will be that the excommunicated member will lose his right of enjoyment of property. The right given under Art 26 (b) has not, however, been made subject to preservation of civil rights. Hence, the fact that civil rights of a person are affected by the exercise of the fundamental right under Art. 26 (b) is of no consequence. The right under Art. 26 (b) is subject to cl. (2) of Art. 25 of the Constitution. The impugned Act, however does not come within the saving provisions embodied in cl. (2) of Art. 25. As the Act invalidates excommunication on any ground whatsoever, including religious grounds, it must be held to be in clear violation of the right of the Dawoodi Bohra Community under Art. 26 (b) of the Constitution.

Per Ayyangar, J., concurring:

The impugned enactment is a violation of the right to practise religion guaranteed by Art. 25(1) and is also violative of Art. 26 in that it interferes with the rights of the Dai as the trustee of the property of the denomination to so administer it as to exclude dissidents and excommunicated persons from the beneficial use of such property.

Per Sinha C. J., contra: Art. 26 (b) must be read subject to Art. 25 (2) (b).

The Act is aimed at fulfilment of the individual liberty of conscience guaranteed by Art. 25 (1) of the Constitution, and not in derogation of it. Sardar Syedna Taher Saifuddin v State of Bombay, (1962) 2 S C A 192: (1963) 2 S C J 519: 1962 Supp (2) S C R 496: AIR 1962 S C 853 (865, 866, 867, 869, 870, 873, 874, 875, 876) (Pt A) (Prs 19, 21, 22, 23, 24, 27, 40, 41, 42, 44, 46, 56, 57, 60, 64, 65).

● ——Art. 26—Applicability—'Matters of religion'—What constitute.

Matters of religion in Art. 26 (b) include even practices which are regarded by the community as part of its religion. In order that the practices in question should be treated as a part of religion they must however be regarded by the said religion as its essential and integral part; otherwise even purely secular practices which are not an essential or an integral part of religion are apt to be clothed with a religious form and may make a claim for being treated as religious practices within the meaning of Art. 26. Unless the practices are found to constitute an essential and integral part of a religion their claim for the protection under Art. 26 may have to be carefully scrutinised: A I R 1954 S C 282 and A I R 1958 S C 255, Rel. on. Durgah Committee, Ajmer v. Syed Hussain Ali (1962) 1 S C R 383: (1961) 2 S C A 171: A I R 1961 S C 1402 (1415) (Pt B) (Pr 33).

● ——Arts. 26, 19 (1) (f), 25, 14 and 27 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), does not infringe Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f), 25, 26 and 27 of Constitution. See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951). AIR 1959 S C 1073.

● ——Arts. 26 and 25—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act — Provisions of Act do not contravene Arts. 25 and 26. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1959 S C 942.

● ——Art. 26 (b) — Principle of direct election on universal denominational suffrage —Not a matter of religion within Art. 26 (b). See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (6 of 1925), S. 148 B. AIR 1959 S C 860.

● ——Art. 26 (b) and (d)—Distinction between.

The distinction between Cls. (b) and (d) strikes one at once. So far as administration of its property is concerned, the right of a religious denomination is to be exercised in accordance with law, but there is no such qualification in cl. (b). The administration of its property by a religious denomination has thus been placed on a different footing from the right to manage its own affairs in matters of religion. The latter is a fundamental right which no legislature can take away, whereas the former can be regulated by laws which the legislature can validly impose. Freedom of religion in our Constitution is not confined to religious beliefs only, but extends to essential religious practices as well, subject to the restrictions which the Constitution has laid down. Under Art. 26 (b) a religious denomination or organisation enjoys complete autonomy in the matter of deciding as to what rites and ceremonies are essential according to the tenets of the religion they hold. A I R 1954 S C

282 and A I R 1958 S C 255, Rel on. Sarup Singh v. State of Punjab, (1960) 1 S C A 163 : (1959) Supp (2) S C R 499: 1959 SCJ 1115: A I R 1959 S C 860 (865) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

● —Art. 26 (b) — "Matters of religion" — Denominational temple founded for benefit of Gowda Saraswath Brahmins — Right to exclude others from worship— Conflict between Arts 25 (2) (b) and 26 (b) —Art. 25 (2)(b) prevails. See Ibid, Art. 25 (2) (b). AIR 1958 SC 255.

● —Art. 26 (b)— Right conferred by Art. 25 (2) (b) is available against individual under Art. 25 (1) or against denomination under Art. 26 (b). See Ibid, Art. 25 (2) (b). AIR 1958 S C 255.

● —Art. 26 — Infringement of. See Orsssa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (4 of 1939), S. 38. A I R 1954 S C 400.

● —Art. 26 (b) and (d) — Fundamental rights and restrictions with respect to matters of religion.

In regard to affairs in matters of religion, the right of management given to a religious body is a guaranteed fundamental right which no legislation can take away. On the other hand, as regards administration of property which a religious denomination is entitled to own and acquire, it has undoubtedly the right to administer such property but only in accordance with law. This means that the State can regulate the administration of trust properties by means of laws validly enacted; but under Art. 26 (d), it is the religious denomination itself which has been given the right to administer its property in accordance with any law which the State may validly impose. A law, which takes away the right of administration altogether from the religious denomination and vests it in any other or secular authority, would amount to violation of the right which is guaranteed by Art. 26 (d) of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 282 Reiterated. Ratilal Panachand Gandhi v. State of Bombay, (1954) S C J 480 : (1954) 1 M L J 718 : 1954 S C A 538 : 56 Bom L R 1184 : 1954 S C R 1055 : AIR 1954 S C 388 (391) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

● —Art. 26 — Matters of religion and secular administration.

The distinction between matters of religion and those of secular administration of religious properties may, at times, appear to be a thin one. But in cases of doubt, the Court should take a common sense view and be actuated by considerations of practical necessity. 67 Com W L R 116 (129), Rel. on. Ratilal Panachand Gandhi v. State of Bombay, (1954) S C J 480 : (1954) 1 M L J 718 : 1954 S C A 538 : 56 Bom L R 1184 : 1954 S C R 1055 : AIR 1954 S C 388 (392) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

● —Art. 26—Trust created for religious purposes —Right to spend trust property—Diversion of trust property—Infringement of fundamental right.

A religious sect or denomination has the undoubted right guaranteed by the Constitution to manage its own affairs in matters of religion and this includes the right to spend the trust property or its income for the religious purposes and objects indicated by the founder of the trust or established by usage obtaining in a particular institution. To divert the trust property or funds for purposes which an Authority created under a State Act or the Court considers expedient or proper, although the original objects of the founder can still be carried out, is an unwarrantable encroachment on the freedom of religious institutions in regard to the management of their religious affairs. Ratilal Panachand Gandhi v. State of Bombay, (1954) S C J 480 : (1954) 1 M L J 718 : 1954 S C A 538 : 56 Bom L R 1184 : 1954 S C R 1055 : AIR 1954 S C 388 (393) (Pt G) (Pr 19).

● —Art. 26 — Fundamental rights and restrictions with respect to matters of religion. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1954 S C 282.

● —Art. 26 — Distinction between Art. 26, Cl. (b) and following two clauses.

Besides the right to manage its own affairs in matters of religion, which is given by Art. 26, Cl. (b), the next two clauses of Art. 26 guarantee to a religious denomination the right to acquire and own property and to administer such property in accordance with law. The administration of its property by a religious denomination has thus been placed on a different footing from the right to manage its own affairs in matters of religion. The latter is a fundamental right which no Legislature can take away, whereas the former can be regulated by laws which the Legislature can validly impose. It is clear, therefore, that questions merely relating to administration of properties belonging to a religious group or institution are not matters of religion to which Cl. (b) of the article applies. Commissioner, H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : A I R 1954 S C 282 (289) (Pt F) (Pr 17).

● —Art. 26 (b)—What are matters of religion.

What constitutes the essential part of a religion is primarily to be ascertained with reference to the doctrines of that religion itself. If the tenets of any religious sect of the Hindus prescribe that offerings of food should be given to the idol at particular hours of the day, that periodical ceremonies should be performed in a certain way at certain periods of the year or that there should be daily recital of sacred texts or oblations to the sacred fire, all these will be regarded as parts of religion and the mere fact that they involve expenditure of money or employment of priests and servants or the use of marketable commodities will not make them secular activities partaking of a commercial or economic character; all of them are religious practices and should be regarded as matters of religion within the meaning of Art. 26. Commissioner of H. R. E., Madras v. Shri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (290) (Pt H) (Pr 19).

—Art. 26 - U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (1960), S. 55— Validity — Duties of Mutwalli are purely secular in character and not of a religious character — Validity cannot be challenged under Arts. 19 (1) (f), 25 and 26. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1965 All 333.

—Art. 26—Commissions of Inquiry Act (1952), S. 5 (3)—Sub-section (3) of S. 5 is constitutionlly valid— The right of entry, search and seizure, conferred by S. 5 (3) of the Act, does not violate the sanctity of the institution nor is it likely to wound religious feelings. Hence sub-s. (3) of S. 5 of the Act is constitutionally valid and does not violate the provision contained in Arts. 25 and 26 of the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 148.

—Art. 26—Bombay Public Trusts Act (29 of 1950). Preamble and Ss. 18, 31, 32, 34 to 37, 44, 47, 48, 50 (e) and (g), 55 to 59 and 62 — Whether provisions contravene the fundamental rights embodied in Arts. 25 and 26. See Bombay Public Trusts Act (29 of 1950), Preamble. AIR 1953 Bom 242 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 388.]

—Art. 26—Religion as used in Arts. 25 and 26 must be construed in its strict and etymological sense. 55 Bom L R 86: I L R (1953) Bom 1187: AIR 1953 Bom 242 (244, 245) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 388.]

——Art. 26 (b)—Management of domestic affairs.

What is safeguarded under sub-cl. (b) is the right of a religious denomination to manage its own domestic affairs provided those affairs only refer to matters of religion. What was obviously contemplated was that when a religious denomination is dealing with things like dogmas, things like religious ceremonies, things like matters concerning its own day to day affairs, the State should not interfere with those matters. But where the religious denomination is managing its own affairs connected with property it cannot be said that those are affairs in matters of religion. 55 Bom L R 86 : I L R (1953) Bom 1187 : AIR 1953 Bom 242 (244, 245) (Pt D) (Pr 4) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 388.]

——Art. 26 (b)—Scope—"To manage its own affairs in matters of religion" meaning of.

To manage its own affairs in matters of religion can only mean that in domestic matters of a religious denomination, where those matters are concerned with questions of religion, the Legislature cannot interfere unless the denomination is managing its affairs in such a way as to interfere with public order, morality and health. 55 Bom L R 1: AIR 1953 Bom 183 (187, 188) (Pt H) (Pr 18) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 S C 853.]

——Art. 26—Dispute regarding worship in a temple —Matter governed by religious law — Matter to be decided in a civil Court — No outside authority has any jurisdiction to interfere with the decision of the religious denomination. A I R 1954 S C 282 and AIR 1958 S C 255, Rel. on. 1962 M P L J (Notes) 181.

——Art. 26 (d) — Muslim Wakfs Act (29 of 1954), S. 11—Provisions do not violate Art. 26 (b) and (d) of the Constitution. See Muslim Wakfs Act (1954), S. 11. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 377.

——Art. 26 Religious beliefs and practices. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 115.

——Art. 26 — Scope and applicability — Madras Temple Entry Authorisation Act (5 of 1947 as amended by Madras Act 13 of 1949) — Validity — Act is not ultra vires the Constitution and continues to be in force as a valid piece of legislation. See Ibid, Art. 17. AIR 1956 Mad 541.

——Art 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 21 (as amended by Act 27 of 1954) — S. 21 is invalid even as amenedd. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1956 Mad 491.

——Art. 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S 100 (2) (y)— Rule 10 of the Rules framed under section — Right of Mathadhipathis to manage affairs of Math — Unreasonable restrictions on — Rule 10 is invalid. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1956 Mad 491.

——Art. 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 20 The impugned Act in so far as it takes away the right to administer the religious and secular affairs of the Mutt is invalid as infringing Art. 26. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 20. AIR 1952 Mad 613 (DB).

——Art 26 (b) and (d)—Scope of. See Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (2 of 1952), S. 42. A I R 1959 Orissa 117 (DB).

——Art. 26 (b) — Scope — Religion — Includes religious practices of all sects.

The expression 'religion' in Art. 26 (b) includes not only the philosophical side of religion, but also religious practices as laid down in the tenets of any religious sect. By virtue of clause (b) of Art. 26, the religious practices sanctioned by a particular denomination should be preserved inviolate. The legislature is not competent to alter or modify the same, subject of course to certain limitations such as public order, morality or health as specified in the article itself. A I R 1954 S C 282 and A I R 1954 S C 388, Rel. on. ILR (1958) Cut 369 : AIR 1959 Orissa 5 (10) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 26 (b) — Sri Jagannath Temple Act (1955), Ss. 1, 15 — Validity of Act — Does not contravene Art. 26 (b). See Sri Jagannath Temple Act (11 of 1955), S. 1. AIR 1959 Orissa 5.

——Art. 26 — Bihar Wakf Act (7 of 1948), S. 32 — Validity of.

Article 26 empowers every religious denomination or any section thereof to manage its own affairs in matter of religion. Therefore no provision of the Act interferes with such management and the power of the majlis to appoint a temporary Mutawalli as contained in S. 32 of the Act does not amount to interference with such affairs. 1963 B L J R 151.

——Art. 26 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act — Validity of — There is no violation of the guarantee under Arts. 19, 25 and 26 of the Constitution of India and Bihar Act 1 of 1951 is a valid piece of legislation. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1957 Pat 615 (DB).

——Art. 26 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951)— Validity — Legislation constitutionally valid. See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1951). A I R 1954 Pat 278.

——Art. 26 — Scope — Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (1925), S. 148-B—Constitution of interim Board under, if amounts to interference in religious matter. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 148-B (as Amended in 1959). AIR 1959 Punj 623 (DB).

——Arts. 26 and 226 — Appointment of temporary khateeb for Idgah by Wakf Board — Fundamental or legal right of the members of the congregation of Muslims entitled to offer prayers at Idgah not infringed — High Court will not issue writ under Art. 226. 1964 Raj L W 278 : I L R (1964) 14 Raj 497.

——Art. 26 (b) — Legislation taking over administration of secular affairs of religious institution — Validity — Nathdwara Temple Act (13 of 1959), Ss. 2 (viii), 16, 28 (2) and (3), 30 (2) (a), 36 and 37 — Provisions ultra vires the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Raj 196.

● ——Art. 26 — Section 66 of Trav-Co Act (15 of 1950) does not offend Arts. 19, 26 and 254 of the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1956 Trav-Co 19 (FB).

● ——Art. 26 — Restrictions imposed in Ss. 63 and 64 of Trav Co Act (15 of 1950) in choosing members of Cochin Devaswom Board. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1956 Trav-Co 19 (FB).

3. Right to own and acquire property—Clause (c).

● ——Art. 26 (c), (d)—Scope—S. 5, Durgah Khawaja Saheb Act (1955) — Validity. A I R 1959 Raj 177, Reversed.

Article 26 (c) and (d) merely safeguard and guarantee the continuance of rights which a denomination or its section had. If the right to administer properties never vested in the denomination or had been validly surrendered by it or has otherwise been effectively and irretrievably lost to it Art. 26 cannot be successfully invoked.

The endowments of Durgah Khawaja Saheb have always been made on such terms as did not confer on the denomination represented by the Khadims the right to manage the properties endowed. The management of the properties endowed was always in the hands of officers appointed by the State who were answerable to the State. Hence the vires of S. 5 of Act 36 of 1955 and the subsidiary sections which deal with the powers of the Committee cannot be challenged on the ground that the said provisions violate the fundamental right guaranteed to the denomination represented by the Khadims under Art. 26 (c) and (d). A I R 1959 Raj 177, Reversed. Durgah Committee, Ajmer v. Syed Hussain Ali, (1962) 1 S C R 383 : (1961) 2 S C A 171 : A I R 1961 S C 1402 (1416, 1417) (Pt C) (Pr 37).

● —Art. 26 (c)—Scope of the right conferred by.

Article 26 (c) of the Constitution confers on every religious denomination the right to own and acquire property, but it does no more than this and there is no ground for holding that it prevents, or was intended to prevent, property belonging to a religious body being acquired by authority of law. Suryapal Singh v. Government of U. P., ILR (1952) 2 All 46 : 1951 A W R (HC) 317 : 1951 A L J 365 : A I R 1951 All 674 (690) (Pt R) (Pr 82) (FB).

—Art. 26 — Constitutional validity of W. B Foodgrains Order under article — Order is valid. See West Bengal Foodgrains (Intensive Procurement), Order, 1952. AIR 1954 Cal 241.

—Art. 26—Acquisition of Devadayam inam under Estates Abolition Act—Validity — (Tenancy Laws—Orissa Estates Abolition Act, 1951 (1 of 1952), S. 3).

The acquisition of a Devadayam inam under S. 3 of the Orissa Estates Abolition Act does not interfere with the fundamental rights guaranteed under Art. 26. There is only a change in the form of the property, namely, from immovable property into money, and the fundamental rights guaranteed are not in any way affected. A I R 1952 S C 252, Foll.; A I R 1954 S C 282, Disting. 23 Cut L T 205 : ILR (1957) Cut 328 : A I R 1958 Orissa 18 (19) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

—Art. 26 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S 60 (2)—Validity. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1957 Pat 615 (DB).

4. Right to administer property — Clause (d).

● —Art. 26 (d) Shri Jagannath Temple Act, 1954 (Orissa Act 11 of 1955) Act is not hit by Art. 26 (d). Articles 27 and 28 have nothing to do with the matters dealt with under the Shri Jagannath Temple Act, 1954 (Orissa Act 11 of 1955). In the absence of any indication as to which was the denomination which was concerned with the Temple and whose rights to administer the Temple have been taken away and in the absence of any claim on behalf of any denomination, the Act is not open to argument that it is bad on the ground that it is hit by Art. 26 (d). See Shri Jagannath Temple Act (11 of 1955). A I R 1964 S C 1501.

● —Arts. 26, 14, 19 (1) (f), 31 and 31A — Tenancy Law — Mysore Tenancy Act (13 of 1952), S. 6 — Section is valid. See Tenancy Laws — Mysore Tenancy Act (13 of 1952), S. 6. (1963) 2 S C J 246 : AIR 1966 S C 1172.

● —Art. 26 (d)— S. 5, Durgah Khawaja Saheb Act (1955)—Validity. AIR 1959 Raj 177, Reversed.

The vires of S. 5 of the Durgah Khawaja Saheb Act (1955) cannot effectively be challenged on the narrow ground that since the Committee constituted under the Act was likely to include Hanafi Muslims who may not be Chisti Muslims the provision authorising the appointment of the Committee was ultra vires. If the right of the denomination or a section of such denomination is adversely affected by the statute the relevant provision of the statute must be struck down as a whole and in its entirety. The infirmity or the vice in the statute cannot be cured by confining the members of the proposed Committee to the denomination itself. A I R 1959 Raj 177, Reversed. Durgah Committee Ajmer v. Syed Hussian Ali, (1961) 2 S C A 171 : (1962) 1 S C R 383 : A I R 1961 S C 1402 (1416) (Pt D) (Pr 35).

—Art. 26—Right to manage property is secular and has not been taken away by S. 19, U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act, 1960 — Provisions of Constitution of India, Art. 26 are not attracted. See U. P. Muslim Waqfs Act (1960), S. 19. AIR 1965 All 333.

—Art. 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 52 — Validity—The avowed purposes and object of the Act is to see that religious trusts and institutions wherever they exist, are properly administered. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1957 Andh Pra 283.

—Art. 26 (d)—Right to administer property.

The right to administer property given to a religious denomination or any section thereof is not an unqualified right. This right clearly contemplates the right of the State to make laws with regard to the administration of property owned and acquired by religious denomination or any section thereof. 55 Bom LR 86 : ILR (1953) Bom 1187 : AIR 1953 Bom 242 (244, 245) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 388.]

—Art. 26 (d) — Regulation 58 framed under S. 16 of the Hyderabad Endowments Regulation if repugnant to Art. 26. See Hyderabad Endowments Regulation (1358 H.), S. 12. AIR 1955 Hyd 82.

—Art. 26 (d) — S. 30 of Gwalior State Places of Worship and Religious Endowments Aid and Administration Act (Smt. 1983), if interpreted as authorising permanent taking over by State, would be inconsistent with Art. 26 (d) of the Constitution. See Gwalior State Places of Worship and Religious Endowments Aid and Administration Act (Samvat 1983), S. 30. AIR 1965 Madh Pra 183.

—Art. 26 (b) — Muslim Wakfs Act (29 of 1954), S. 11 — Provisions do not violate Art. 26 (b) and (d) of the Constitution. See Muslim Wakfs Act (1954), S. 11. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 377.

—Arts. 26 and 25—Scope— Power of Legislature to make law with regard to religious matter or property possessed by religious institutions. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 362.

—Art. 26 — Religious institution denominational in character — Body entitled to protection under Article—Area Committee under the Madras H. R. E. Act purporting to nominate members — Fact not sufficient to cure vice or infirmity if rights guaranteed under Art. 26 (d) are effectively taken away by nomination — Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (22 of 1959), Ss. 49 and 107.

A religious institution, which is denominational in character, belongs to the members of that community in the district as a whole and does not belong merely to the members of certain villages, or of certain named villages. It is this corporate body which has the right to manage the temple and to administer the endowments, presumably through the elected trustees; the rights of this body will be entitled to protection under Art. 26 of the Constitution particularly sub-cl. (d) thereof. Section 107 of the Madras Act (22 of 1959) statutorily embodies the right of any corporate body with regard to a denominational religious institution to have its functions preserved from invasion under Art. 26 of the Constitution. There is no need to strike down S. 49 in the 1959 Act as ultra vires but the fact that the Area Committee purported to nominate members of the particular religious denominations will not be enough to cure the vice or infirmity, if otherwise the rights guaranteed to this body under Art. 26 (d) are effectively taken away by the nomination. AIR 1961 S C 1042, Foll ; AIR 1950 Mys 18, Rel. on. 78 Mad L W 388 : (1965) 2 Mad L J 220.

——Art. 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 31 (as amended by Act 27 of 1954) — Section 31 is invalid. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1956 Mad 491.

——Art. 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 30 (2) (as amended by Act 27 of 1954) — S. 30 (2), though amended, is invalid. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1956 Mad 491.

——Art. 26—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 52 (1) (f) (as amended by Act 27 of 1954) — S. 52 (1) (f) of Madras Act is valid. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1956 Mad 491.

——Art. 26 (d) — Scope — Madras Act (19 of 1951), S. 18 — Validity. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951) (As Amended by Madras Act (27 of 1954). AIR 1960 Mys 18 (DB).

——Art. 26 (d)—Madras Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 39, 41, 42 and 44—Validity — Taking away right of administration from religious denomination. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951) (as amended by Madras Act 27 of 1954)), S. 39. AIR 1960 Mys 18 (DB).

——Art. 26 (d) — Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (1952) — S. 42 —(Constitution of India, Art. 26 (b) and (d) — Scope of pointed out). See Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (2 of 1952), S. 42. AIR 1959 Orissa 117.

——Art. 26 (d) — Religious denomination—Worshippers of Jagannath Temple Act — Validity. See Sri Jagannath Temple Act (11 of 1955), S. 1. AIR 1959 Orissa 5 (DB).

——Art. 26—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 28 (2) (i) — Validity. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1957 Pat 615 (DB).

——Art. 26—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), Ss. 30, 49 — Not invalid—The legislature has simply enacted in statutory form the doctrine of cypres applicable in the general law of charitable trust. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1957 Pat 615.

——Art. 26—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951)—Validity.

Art. 26 (d) expressly states that the right of a religious denomination to administer property is not an unqualified right. Art. 26 (d) contemplates the right of the State to make a law with respect to administration of property owned and acquired by religious denominations or by any section thereof. All that is safeguarded is that so long as the religious denomination or a section thereof administers its property in accordance with such law as the State Legislature has passed, that right should not be interfered with. The expression 'law' in Art. 26 (d) should be construed to mean enacted law or State made law and not to mean the principles of natural justice outside the realm of positive law. The impugned Act does not violate the freedom given under Art. 26 of the Constitution of India. AIR 1950 S C 27, Foll. 32 Pat 1148 : AIR 1954 Pat 266 (275) (Pt J) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 26 (d) — Legislation taking over administration of secular affairs of religious institution — Validity—Nathdwara Temple Act (13 of 1959), Ss. 2 (viii), 16, 28 (2) and (3), 30 (2) (a), 36 and 37—Provisions ultra vires the Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Raj 196.

——Art. 26 (d)—Scope—T C. Hindu Religious Institutions Act, S. 93—Framing of scheme—If infringement of fundamental right — (Travancore-Cochin Hindu Religious Institutions Act (15 of 1950), Ss. 61 (6) and 93).

Section 93, Travancore-Cochin Hindu Religious Institutions Act, which provides for the framing of a scheme by the Cochin Devaswom Board in respect of institutions falling within the definition of institution in S. 61 (6) of the Act is perfectly valid and is not ultra vires Art. 26. AIR 1954 S C 282 and AIR 1954 S C 388, Foll. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 307 (310) (Pt D) (Pr 12).

ARTICLE 27

● ——Art. 27 — Shri Jagannath Temple Act, 1954 (Orissa Act 11 of 1955)—Act cannot be attacked on the ground that it is hit by Art. 27—Articles 27 and 28 have nothing to do with the matters dealt with under the Act. See Shri Jagannath Temple Act 1954 (Orissa Act 11 of 1955). AIR 1964 S C 1501.

● ——Art. 27 — Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1951)—Act does not infringe Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f), 25, 26 and 27 of Constitution. See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951). AIR 1959 SC 1073.

● ——Art. 27—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951), S. 70 Section imposes fee and not tax—Imposition is not hit by Article—AIR 1954 S C 400, Applied. Moti Das v. S. P. Sahi, ILR 38 Pat 639 : (1959) Supp (2) S C R 563 : (1959) 2 S C A 432 : 1959 S C J 1144 : AIR 1959 S C 942 (950) (Pt G) (Pr 15).

● ——Arts. 27 and 265, Sch. VII, List 1, Item 96, List 2, Items 66; List 3, Item 47—Tax and fee—Distinction.

There is no generic difference between a tax and a fee and both are different forms in which the taxing power of a State manifests itself. Our Constitution, however has made a distinction between a tax and a fee for legistative purposes and while there are various entries in the three lists with regard to various forms of taxation, there is an entry at the end of each one of these lists as regards fees which could be levied in respect of every one of the matters that are included therein. A tax is undoubtedly in the nature of a compulsory exaction of money by a public authority for public purposes, the payment of which is enforced by law. But the essential thing in a tax is that the imposition is made for public purposes to meet the general expenses of the State without reference to any special benefit to be conferred upon the payers of the tax. The taxes collected are all merged in the general revenue of the State to be applied for general public purposes. Thus, tax is a common burden and the only return which the tax-prayer gets is the participation in the common benefits of the State. Fees, on the other hand, are payments primarily in the public interest but for some special service rendered or some special work done for the benefit of those from whom payments are demanded. Thus in fees there is always an element of quid pro quo which is absent in a tax. Two elements are thus essential in order that a payment may be regarded as a fee. In the first place it must be levied in consideration of certain services which the individuals accepted either willingly or unwillingly. But this by itself is not enough to make the imposition a fee, if the payments demanded for rendering of such services are not set apart or specifically appropriated for that purpose but are merged in the general revenue of the State to be spent for general public purposes. Jagannath v. State of Orissa, (1954) S C J 329 : (1954) I M L J 591 : 20 Cut L T 298 : ILR (1954) Cut 334 : 1954 S C A 569 : 1954 S C R 1129 : AIR 1954 S C 400 (403) (Pt E) (Pr 9).

● ——Art. 27—Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (4 of 1939), S. 49—Not invalid. What is forbidden by Art. 27 is the specific appropriation of the proceeds of any tax in payment of expenses for the promotion and maintenance of any particular religion or religious denomination. See Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments Act (4 of 1939), S. 49. AIR 1954 S C 400.

● ——Arts. 27, 110 (a) and 265 and Sch. VII, List 3, Entry 47—Distinction between tax and fee.

A tax is in the nature of a compulsory exaction of money by a public authority for public purposes, the payment of which is enforced by law. The other characteristic of a tax is that the imposition is made for public purpose to meet the general expenses of the State without reference to any special advantage to be conferred upon the payers of the tax. Thus, although a tax may be levied upon particular classes of persons or particular kinds of property it is imposed not to confer any special benefit upon individual persons and the collections are all merged in the general revenue of the State to be applied for general public purposes. Tax is a common burden and the only return which the taxpayer gets is participation in the common benefits of the State.

Fees are payments primarily in the public interest, but for some special service rendered or some special work done for the benefit of those from whom the payments are demanded. Thus in fees there is always an element of quid pro quo which is absent in a tax. In order that the collections made by the Government can rank as fees, there must be correlation between the levy imposed and the expenses incurred by the State for the purpose of rendering such services. Thus two elements are essential in order that a payment may be regarded as a fee. In the first place, it must be levied in consideration of certain services which the individuals accepted either willingly or unwillingly and in the second place, the amount collected must be ear-marked to meet the expenses of rendering these services and must not go to the general revenue of the State to be spent for general public purposes.

However, too much stress should not be laid on the presence or absence of what has been called the 'coercive' element. It is not correct to say that as distinguished from taxation which is compulsory payment, the payment of fees is always voluntary, it being a matter of choice with individuals either to accept the service or not for which fees are to be paid. AIR 1954 S C 288, Reiterated; AIR 1953 Bom 242, Appr. Ratilal Panachand Gandhi v. State of Bombay, (1954) S C J 480 : (1954) 1 M L J 718 ; 1954 S C A 538 : 56 Bom L R 1184 : 1954 S C R 1055 : AIR 1954 S C 388 (395) (Pt H) (Pr 22).

● ——Arts. 27, 110 (a) and 265—Tax—Indicia of.

A tax is a compulsory exaction of money by public authority for public purposes enforceable by law and is not payment for services rendered. This definition brings out the essential characteristics of a tax as distinguished from other forms of imposition which, in a general sense, are included within it. The essence of taxation is compulsion, that is to say, it is imposed under statutory power without the tax-payer's consent and the payment is enforced by law. The second characteristic of tax is that it is an imposition made for public purpose without reference to any special benefit to be conferred on the payer of the tax. This is expressed by saying that levy of tax is for the purposes of general revenue, which when collected forms part of the public revenues of the State. As the object of a tax is not to confer any special benefit upon any particular individual, there is no element of quid pro quo between the tax-payer and the public authority. Another feature of taxation is that as it is a part of the common burden, the quantum of imposition upon the tax-payer depends generally upon his capacity to pay. 60 C L R 283 (276), Foll. Commr. of H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshimindra Thirtha Swamiar, 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (295) (Pt L) (Pr 43).

● ——Art. 27. Sch. VII, List 1, Entry 96, List 2. Entry 66 and List 3, Entry 47—'Fee'—Meaning of.

A fee is generally defined to be a charge for a special service rendered to individuals by some Governmental agency. The amount of fee levied is supposed to be based on the expenses incurred by the Government in rendering the service, though in many cases the costs are arbitrarily assessed. Ordinarily, the fees are uniform and no account is taken of the varying abilities of different recipients to pay. These are undoubtedly some of the general characteristics, but as there may by various kinds of fees, it is not possible to formulate a definition that would be applicable to all cases. Commr. of H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 Mad W N 363 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (295) (Pt M) (Pr 44).

● ——Arts. 27, 110 (a) and 265 — Distinction between tax and fee.

A careful examination reveals that the element of compulsion or coerciveness is present in all kinds of imposition, though in different degrees and it is not totally absent in fees. This, therefore, cannot be made the sole or even a material criterion for distinguishing a tax from fees.

The distinction between a tax and a fee lies primarily in the fact that a tax is levied as a part of a common burden while a fee is a payment for a special benefit or privilege. Fees confer a special capacity, although the special advantage, as for example, in the case of registration fees for documents or marriage licences, is secondary to the primary motive of regulation in the public interest. Public interest seems to be at the basis of all impositions, but in a fee it is some special benefit which the individual receives. It is the special benefit accruing to the individual which is the reason for payment in the case of fees; in the case of a tax, the particular advantage if it exists at all is an incidental result of State action.

As fee is a sort of return or consideration for services rendered, it is absolutely necessary that the levy of fees should on the face of the legislative provision, be co-related to the expenses incurred by Government in rendering the services. If the money thus paid is set apart and appropriated specifically for the performance of such work and is not merged in the public revenues for the benefit of the general public, it could be counted as fees and not a tax. There is really no generic difference between the tax and fees and the taxing power of a State may manifest itself in three different forms known respectively as special assessments, fees and taxes. Commr. of H. R. E., Madras v. Shri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, (1954) S C J 335 : 1954 Mad W N 363 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (295, 296) (Pt N) (Prs 45, 46, 47).

● ——Art. 27—What is forbidden by Art. 27.

What is forbidden by Art. 27 is the specific appropriation of the proceeds of any tax in payment of expenses for the promotion or maintenance of any particular religion or religious denomination. The reason underlying this provision is that India being a secular State and there being freedom of religion guaranteed by the Constitution, both to individuals and to groups, it is against the policy of the Constitution to pay out of public funds any money for the promotion or maintenance of any particular religion or religious denomination. Commissioner of H. R. E., Madras v. Sri Lakshmindra Thirtha Swamiar, (1954) S C J 335 : (1954) 1 M L J 596 : 1954 S C A 415 : 20 Cut L T 250 : 1954 S C R 1005 : 1954 Mad W N 363 : 67 Mad L W 1220 : AIR 1954 S C 282 (296) (Pt O) (Pr 50).

● —Art. 27 — Tax, meaning of — Land revenue is tax and not rent — See Ibid, Art. 265. AIR 1956 Assam 33 (SB) —Arts. 27 and 265—Scope—Contribution collected as fees under provision of enactment — Legality — Tests.

The following tests will have to be satisfied before the contribution levied, under the provision of an enactment can be upheld as a fee, within the legislative competence of the State Legislature (1) the levy can be justified as intra vires the State Legislature, only if it falls within the ambit of Entry 47 read with Entry 28 in List III of Schedule VII of the Constitution; (2) there should be a quid pro quo basis to justify the levy as a fee. The correlation between the fee levied and the services rendered should appear ex facie the legislative provision. The correlation should be between the actual levy and the expense incurred by the Government for rendering the services for which the levy is made; (3) the services rendered by the Government, which constitute the quid pro quo for the levy of the fee, must be incidental to a system of regulation; (4) that regulation itself must be solely on considerations of public interest; and (5) that statutory regulation should not exceed the limits of a reasonable restriction on the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 282, Foll. 69 Mad L W 337 : (1956) 1 M L J 532 : AIR 1956 Mad 491 (501) (Pt L) (Pr 46) (DB).

—Art. 27—Scope—There are some specific prohibitions enacted in Arts. 27 and 28. But apart from them, there is no general prohibition against legislation in respect of 'Establishment of religion." See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1954 Mad 385.

—Art. 27—Tax — Contribution under the Madras H. R. and Charitable Endowments Act, 1951, S. 76. The levy of five percentum of the income of a religious institution provided for in S. 76 (1) of the new Act is a tax within the meaning of Art. 27. See Madras H. R. and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 20, 21, etc. AIR 1952 Mad 613 (DB).

—Art. 27—Not violated by Bihar Act (1 of 1951). See Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951). AIR 1954 Pat 278 (DB).

—Art. 27—Imposition of tax —Nomenclature given to it as licence fee will not affect its validity. See Ibid, Art. 265. AIR 1954 Trav Co 504 (DB).

ARTICLE 28

● —Art. 28—Shri Jagannath Temple Act, 1954 (Orissa Act 2 of 1955) — Act is not hit by Art. 28. Articles 27 and 28 have nothing to do with the matters dealt with under the Act. See Shri Jagannath Temple Act, 1954 (Orissa Act 2 of 1955). AIR 1964 S C 1501.

—Art. 28—Scope—While Arts. 25 and 26 of Constitution of India reproduce the law as enacted in the second clause of the first Amendment to the American Constitution, there is nothing in our constitution which corresponds to the first clause therein. There are some specific prohibitions enacted in Arts. 27 and 28. But apart from them, there is no general prohibition against legislation in respect of "Establishment of religion." See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1954 Mad 385.

ARTICLE 29

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Art. 29).

1. Scope of the article.
2. Admission into educational institutions—Clause 2.
3. Special provision for benefit of backward classes.
4. Ground of discrimination.
5. Directive principles of State policy.

1. Scope of the article.

● —Art. 29 (1) — Election — Corrupt practice—Appeal to voters to vote or refrain from voting on ground of candidate's language. Right to conserve the language of the citizens includes the right to agitate for the protection of the language; political agitation for conservation of the language of a section of the citizens cannot therefore be regarded as a corrupt practice within the meaning of S. 123 (3) of the Representation of the People Act. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 123(3). AIR 1965 S C 183.

● —Arts. 29 and 30—"Minority"—Test.

Where a bill passed by a State Legislature extends to the whole of the State, the minority for the purposes of Arts. 29 and 30 must be determined by reference to the entire population of that State. By this test, so far as the Kerala Education Bill, 1957, is concerned, Christians, Muslims and Anglo-Indians will be minorities in the State of Kerala. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, ILR (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C J 321 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1958 Ker L T 465 : AIR 1958 S C 956 (976) (Pt G) (Pr 21).

● —Arts. 29 and 30 — Minority communities—Right to establish educational institutions of their choice.

A minority community can effectively conserve its language, script or culture by and through educational institutions and therefore, the right to establish and maintain educational institutions of its choice is a necessary concomitant to the right to conserve its distinctive language, script or culture and that is what is conferred on all minorities by Art. 30 (1). This right, however, is subject to Cl. 2 of Art. 29 which provides that no citizen shall be denied admission into any educational institution maintained by the State or receiving aid out of State funds on grounds only of religion, race, caste, language or any of them. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, ILR (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C J 321 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1958 Ker L T 465 : AIR 1958 S C 956 (976) (Pt H) (Pr 20).

● —Arts. 29 (2), 30 (2) — 'Aid' — If covers grant under Art. 337.

Although the word 'grant' is used in Art. 337, the word 'aid' is used in Art. 29 (2) and Art. 30 (2). But there can be no question that the word 'aid' in these two articles will cover the 'grant' under Art. 337. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, ILR (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C J 321 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1958 Ker L T 465 : AIR 1958 S C 956 (979) (Pt L) (Pr 26).

● —Arts. 29 (1) and 30 (1)—Power of State to determine medium of instruction.

Where a minority, like the Anglo-Indian community, which is based, inter alia on religion and language has the fundamental right to conserve its language, script and culture under Art. 29 (1) and has the right to establish and administer educational institutions of their choice under Art. 30 (1), surely then there must be implicit in such fundamental right, the right to impart instruction in their own institutions to the children of their own community in their own language. To hold otherwise will be to deprive Article 29 (1) and Art. 30 (1) of the greater parts of their contents. Such being the fundamental right, the police power of the State to determine the medium of instruction must yield to this fundamental right to the extent it is necessary to give effect to it and cannot be permitted to run counter to it. State of Bombay v. Bombay Education Society, (1954) S C J 678 : 1954 S C A 784 : (1954) 2 M L J 359 : 56 Bom L R 1211 : (1955) S C R 568 : AIR 1954 S C 561 (568) (Pt C) (Pr 17).

● ——Art. 29 (2) –Art. 29 (2) is not limited to minority group — Distinction between Arts. 15 and 29 (2). See Ibid, Art. 15. AIR 1954 S C 561.

——Art. 29 (2)—Scope.

Article 29 (2) embodies two important principles. One is the right of the citizen to select any educational institution maintained by the State and receiving aid out of State funds and the other is that an educational institution which the State recognises cannot restrict admission to members of a particular religion, race, caste or language.

Once the State gives its grant and puts its imprimatur upon the school the article must come into operation and the right of the citizen immediately arises. The right of the citizen arises by virtue of the fact that it is the State funds that are helping to maintain the school, and if State funds are helping to maintain the school, that school cannot refuse admission to any citizen on the ground of religion, race, caste or language. Therefore, the only two conditions that are necessary for the operation of Art. 29 (2) are that there must be an institution maintained by the State and it must receive aid out of State funds. Therefore, as soon as there is such an educational institution the right of the citizen to admission to this school arises and that right cannot be defeated only on the ground that he belongs to a particular religion, race, caste or speaks a particular language. 56 Bom L R 643 : ILR (1954) Bom 1333 : AIR 1954 Bom 468 (474) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Arts. 29 (1) and 30 (1)—"Institutions of their own choice."

Under Art. 30 (1) not only is a minority given the right to establish and administer educational institutions, but the educational institutions must be of their own choice. It is not open to the State to dictate to a minority what the nature of its educational institution should be. It is for the minority itself to decide through what educational institution it would be able to conserve the rights given to it under Article 29 (1). 56 Bom L R 643 : ILR (1954) Bom 1333 : AIR 1954 Bom 468 (476) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Arts. 29 (2), 15— Applicability — Educational institution run on Christian principles and receiving State aid—Power to impose restrictions on practice of other religions within college precincts — Refusal of Principal to permit Hindu Students to celebrate Saraswati Puja in College compound—Held, that Art. 29 (2) did not apply. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1957 Cal 524.

——Art. 29—Whether Art. 15 (1) controls Art. 29 (2) —(Quaere). See Ibid, Art. 15 (1). 56 Cal W N 801 : AIR 1952 Cal 825 (DB).

——Art. 29 (2) — Art. 15 (1) controls Art. 29 (2) — Article 15 (1) which is of wider application than Art. 29 (2) prohibits discrimination on the ground of sex on all matters and so it includes discrimination in matters of admission to educational institutions. The result is that Art. 15 (1) should be construed as controlling Art. 29 (2). AIR 1952 Cal 822 (824) (Pt A) (Pr 9),

● ——Arts. 29 and 30—Validity of Gujarat University Act, Ss. 4 (27) 5, 38-A — Provisions contravene Arts. 29 (1) and 30 (1). See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1962 Guj 88 (FB).

● ——Arts. 29 and 30 — Statute contravening provisions of Arts. 29 and 30 — Person whose rights as distinct from infringement of fundamental rights are affected can maintain petition under Art. 226 —Threat to right is sufficient — Actual infringement not necessary. See Ibid, Art. 226 AIR 1962 Guj 88 (FB)

——Art. 29 (2)—Rules for admission to Government professional colleges are not statutory—They serve as code of guidance to selecting authorities — Candidate satisfying qualification rules rejected—No violation of Art. 29 (2)—Law Courts cannot interfere. See Ibid, Art. 226. 1962 M P L J (Notes) 327.

——Arts. 29 (2) and 15 (1)—Scope.

The true scope of Art. 15 (3) is that notwithstanding Art. 15 (1), it will be lawful for the State to establish educational institutions solely for women and that the exclusion of men students from such institutions would not contravene Art. 15 (1). That is not inconsistent with the authorities of educational institutions not falling within Art. 15 (3) from being clothed with power to admit or exclude women students from those institutions. The combined effect of both Arts. 15 (3) and 29 (2) is that while men students have no admission to women's colleges, the right of women to admission in other colleges is a matter within the regulation of the authorities of these colleges. Article 29 (2) is a special Article and is the controlling provision when the question relates to the admission to colleges. (1953) 2 M L J 287 : 66 Mad L W 665 : ILR (1954) Mad 426 : AIR 1954 Mad 67 (70) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 29 — Scope — Article 29 saves the cultural and educational rights of any section of citizens residing in any part of India. See Ibid, Art. 15. AIR 1955 Orissa 113 (DB).

● ——Arts 29, 30 (1) and 226 — School managed and administered by Brahmo Samaj is entitled to protection guaranteed by S 30 (1), even though majority of students are not of Brahmo faith and no instructions in that faith are given — Order of Government interfering with management is ultra vires and void — The language of Art 30 (1) should not be restricted by reference to Art. 29 (1). See Ibid, Art. 30 (1). AIR 1962 Pat 101 (FB).

——Arts. 29 (1) and 30 — Bihar Education Code, Art. 182 (e) — Government (Bihar) (Education) Resolution No. 17714 D/- 7-5-1956 requiring school committee to be of 11 members representing different interests — Secretary and President to be from these members — Director of Public Instruction requiring committee to appoint person not member of committee — Failure to comply—D. P. I if can appoint ad hoc committee under Art. 182 of Code — Denominational school managed by denomination — Order violates the guarantee contained in Arts. 29 (1) and 30 of the Constitution See Bihar Education Code, Art. 182 (e). AIR 1958 Pat 359 (DB).

2. Admission into educational institutions — Clause 2.

● ——Art. 29 — Minority educational institutions — Admission to outsider — Effect — The real import of Art. 29 (2) and Art. 30 (1) is that they clearly contemplate a minority institution with a sprinkling of outsiders admitted into it. See Ibid, Art. 30 (1). AIR 1958 S C 956.

● —Arts. 29 (2) and 337, Proviso 2 — Government circular order — Admission to Anglo-Indian Schools — Restriction—Constitutionality of circular.

On 6th January, 1954, the Government of Bombay issued a circular directing in Cl. (5) that "no primary or secondary school shall from the date of these orders admit to a class where English is used as a medium of instruction any pupil other than a pupil belonging to a section of citizens the language of which is English, namely, Anglo-Indians and citizens of Non-Asiatic descent." In Cl. (7) of the Circular all schools using English as a medium of instruction were "advised to open progressively divisions of Standards using Hindi or an Indian language as the medium of instruction, starting from Standard I in 1954." One of the Anglo-Indian Schools affected by the circular having applied for the issue of a writ of mandamus against the State Government preventing it from enforcing the said circular order against it.

Held that ordinarily the word "namely" imports enumeration of what is comprised in the preceding clause. In other words, it ordinarily serves the purpose of equating what follows with the clause described before. Therefore relying on the word, "namely" in Cl. (5) it could not be contended that the clause did not limit admission only to Anglo-Indians and citizens of non-Asiatic descent, but permitted admission of pupils belonging to any other section of citizens the language of which is English.

(2) that assuming that the contention was true, even then, citizens, whose language was not English were certainly debarred by the order from admission to a School where English was used as a medium of instruction in all the classes.

(3) that granting that the object of the order was to promote advancement of the national language, the object was sought to be achieved by denying to all pupils, whose mother-tongue was not English, admission into any school where the medium of instruction was English.

(4) that, therefore, the order offended against the fundamental right guaranteed to all citizens by Art. 29 (2).

(5) that whether Cl. (7) of the order was treated as operative or merely as advice, in either view of the matter the order could not but be regarded as unconstitutional in view of Proviso 2 to Art. 337 AIR 1954 Bom 468, Affirmed. State of Bombay v. Bombay Education Society, (1954) S C J 678 : 1954 S C A 784 : (1954) 2 M L J 359 : 58 Bom L R 1211:(1955) S C R 568 : AIR 1954 S C 561 (565, 567, 569) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 13, 16, 18).

——Arts. 29 (2) and 337, Proviso — Government circular — Admission to Anglo-Indian Schools — Restriction — Validity of circular.

On 6-1-1954 the Government of Bombay issued a circular directing that 'no primary or secondary school shall from the date of these orders admit to a class where English is used as a medium of instruction any pupil other than a pupil belonging to a section of citizens the language of which is English, namely, Anglo-Indians and citizens of non-Asiatic descent." One of the schools affected by the circular having applied for the issue of a writ of mandamus against the State preventing it from enforcing the said order against it.

Held, (i) that although the grounds on which the State based the circular might not be grounds of religion, race or caste, still the effect of the circular was to deprive the citizens of their right only on the grounds mentioned in Art. 29 (2). AIR 1951 S C 226, Rel. on.

(ii) that in face of the proviso to Art. 337 the State was asking the Anglo-Indian school not only not to make available 40 per cent. of the annual admissions which are reserved for non Anglo-Indians, but to prohibit any non-Anglo-Indian from entering the school.

(iii) that, therefore, the circular was bad on the ground that it contravened Arts. 29 (2) and 337. 56 Bom L R 643 : ILR (1954) Bom 1333:AIR 1954 Bom 468 (475, 477, 478) (Pt A) (Prs 14, 19, 22) (DB).

——Arts. 29 (2) and 226—Writ against college authority for refusal to admit student.

The Constitution does not guarantee to the student studying in an educational institution to enforce a right to be admitted to a class for no such right exists.

All persons have not a right to be admitted members of a college ; they must be approved of by the college or by others to whom the college has delegated the power of exercising a discretion as to the person they admit. If, therefore, an authority has exercised the discretion bona fide in accordance with the rules of the institution and not influenced by extraneous or irrelevant considerations and such discretion has not been exercised arbitrarily or illegally the Court would not interfere. (1910) 2 K B 165; 107 E R 1277, Rel. on; A I R 1918 Mad 783, Dist.

The Courts would not ordinarily interfere in the internal autonomy of educational institutions. It would be encroaching upon the sphere of activity of persons responsible for running educational institutions if the High Court were to interfere with their discretion. The determination of the fitness of the candidate lies in the discretion of the college authorities and the Court would not wrench such discretion from them nor interrupt them in the proper exercise of it. I L R (1953) Hyd 665 : AIR 1954 Hyd 25 (27) (Pt D) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 29 (2)— Admissions to educational institutions —Reservation of seats under Art. 15 (4) — Few seats reserved for children of medical practitioners and for sportsmen—No legal basis for such preference —Order held invalid. See Ibid, Art. 15 (4). AIR 1964 Ker 39.

[Reversed in A I R 1964 Ker 316 to the extent it held that the reservation for sports men was invalid].

——Arts. 29 (2), 226—Admission to professional Colleges — Selection of candidates on merit — Number of marks obtained is not the only criterion to judge merit —No mechanical or absolutely objective measure —Selection to be fair — Court will not interfere in selection. AIR 1962 M P 18 (50) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 29 (2), 15 (1) and 12 — Applicability and scope of Art. 29.

Held, that the University of Madras is not a State as defined in Art. 12 of the Constitution and that its regulations are not subject to the prohibition enacted in Art. 15 (1). admission to colleges is regulated by Art. 29 (2) and the regulations of the University requiring that colleges should provide certain facilities for women before they could be admitted are not discriminatory on the ground of sex. American case-law, ref. (1953)2 M L J 287:66 Mad L W 665:I L R (1954) Mad 426 : AIR 1954 Mad 67 (71) (Pt A) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 29 (2)—Consideration of other grounds.

Under Art. 29 (2) the exclusion which is based on the ground of religion, race, caste, language or any of them is prohibited. Under the Constitution race, caste, religion, language or any of them cannot be the basis of selection, but it cannot be said that other grounds cannot be taken into consideration when the question of admission of candidates is being decided. 53 Pun LR 218 : ILR (1951) Punj 344 : AIR 1951 Punj 93 (96) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 29 (2)— Mandamus — Admissions to public institution—Right of eligible persons — Nature of — Refusal by principal on the basis of illegal instructions of University —Mandamus lies against the University and the authority refusing the admission. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1963 Raj 172 (DB).

3. Special provision for benefit of backward classes.

——Art. 29 (2)—Scope — Admission into educational institutions—Reservation of seats for backward classes —Principle of selection. See Ibid, Art. 15 (4). A I R 1958 Andh Pra 569 (DB).

——Arts. 29 (2) and 15— Admission into educational institutions —Special provision for benefit of backward classes — Provision in effect abridging their rights —Constitutionality.

Every individual citizen as a citizen whether he belongs to the backward classes or not has a right to get admission into an educational institution of the kind mentioned in Cl. 2 of Art. 29. The said fundamental right is abridged by the special provision made by the State for the advancement of any socially and educationally backward classes of citizens. If the provision is for the advancement of such classes, the fundamental right of a citizen is not infringed.

Held on facts, that it may be that in other localities where the members of other communities are more advanced educationally than in the area in question, this rule may work for the advancement of the backward class candidates. It was therefore not necessary to hold that the rule was bad, but it would be enough to confine the operation of that rule to a case where the assumption underlying that rule applied and to hold that in other cases where the rule does not operate for the advancement of the backward classes the fundamental right of a citizen of that class was unaffected by the provisions. 1957 An L T 763 : (1957) 2 An W R 416 : ILR (1957) Andh Pra 772 : AIR 1958 A P 129 (131) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 29 (2)—Admission into medical colleges in Kerala—Order of Kerala Government (dated 7-6-1963) reserving seats for Ezhavas, Muslims and Latin Catholics inclusive of Anglo-Indians on ground that they were socially and educationally backward classes — Reservation held valid. See Ibid, Art. 15 (4). A I R 1964 Ker 316 (DB).

——Arts. 29, 15 (4), 14 — Admission to educational institutions — Order dated 7-6-1963 reserving seats under Art. 15 (4) on districtwise basis —Classification not based on scientific data nor related to object claimed—Such reservation held invalid. A I R 1958 Ker 33, Foll. 1963 Ker L T 783 : (1963) 2 Ker L R 372 : 1963 Ker L J 820 : AIR 1964 Ker 39 (67, 68) (Pt G) (Prs 119, 120).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1964 Ker 316.]

——Art. 29 (2) — Scope — Classification on basis of caste or literacy —Admission to Medical and Technical Colleges — Reservation of seats for backward classes—Separate reservation for each class—Provision for unfilled seat reserved for one class being filled by candidate of other backward class — Reservation is discriminatory and unconstitutional — Selection of candidates on basis of marks obtained at qualifying examination and those awarded at interview — Not objectionable. See Ibid, Art. 15 (4). A I R 1961 Mys 220 (DB).

——Art. 29 (2)—Discrimination on sole ground of caste—Orders of State Government reserving seats for 'backward classes' for admission to Medical College—Classification made solely on consideration of their castes —Orders held illegal — Government of Bihar Letters Nos. 2 M-173/49 A 7079, dated 25-7-1951 and III/S/2-1028/51-A 1883 D, dated 28-2-1952. A I R 1963 S C 649, Applied. See Ibid, Art. 15 (1). A I R 1965 Pat 372 (DB).

——Arts. 29 (2), 46—Scope— Reservation of seats for scheduled castes in educational institutions.

If it is incumbent on the State to promote the educational and economic interest of Scheduled castes then it can well do that by reserving certain seats in educational institutions for these castes. If Art. 37 makes Art. 46 a fundamental principle of the governance of this country then a correct way of interpreting would be to read Art. 46 as an exception to Art. 29 (2), and it could not have been the intention of the Constituent Assembly to make Art. 29 (2) as an article overriding Art. 46. 1950 2 M L J 404, Dissent. [Editorial Note. —On this point the decision must be treated as Overruled by A I R 1951 S C 226.] 53 PLR 218 : I L R (1951) Punj 344 : AIR 1951 Punj 93 (96, 97) (Pt F) (Prs 18, 19) (DB).

4. Ground of discrimination.

——Arts. 29 (2) and 226—Decision of the head of an educational institution not to readmit a student for the academic year 1952-53 — No reasons given— Rights under Art. 29 (2) if infringed.

The principal of a College sent an intimation to the parent of a student C that he will not be readmitted into the College for the academic year 1952-53. No reasons were given. C therefore applied under Art. 226 that the decision was against all principles of natural justice to refuse admission to the 2nd year class without assigning any reasons and an appropriate writ be issued.

Held, the action of the principal did not amount to an invasion of any fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (a) or Art. 29 (2). C could have his right of freedom of speech and expression outside. He had not been denied admission on any of the prohibited grounds mentioned in Article 29 (2). There is no guarantee for his being allowed to continue against the decision of the authorities to the interest of discipline.

There is nothing in R. 96 (c) of U. P. Education Code requiring that the principal should give his reasons for refusing readmission. He had only to refuse for adequate reasons. The fact that neither the managing committee nor the Inspector of Schools took any action in the matter leads to the inference that the reasons were adequate.

There is a tendency to indiscipline and the action taken by the heads of institutions in the interest of discipline which seems to be the reason for the decision in the case, are not to be interfered with in the exercise of discretionary powers under Art. 226. 1952 All W R (H C) 587 : 1952 All L J 731 : 1952 R D (H C) 331 : A I R 1953 All 90 (91) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

[Overruled in A I R 1966 All 477 (FB).]

——Art. 29 — Reservation of seats in pre-professional (Medical) classes for candidates passing Multipurpose examination held not repugnant to Art. 14 — Arts. 15, 16 and 29 have no bearing on the question. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1962 Andh Pra 212 (DB).

——Art. 29 (2) — Discrimination on ground of residence — Articles not contravened by it. See Ibid, Art. 15 (1). A I R 1964 Ker 39.

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1964 Ker 316.]

——Arts. 29 (2) and 15 (1)—Applicability — Admission into educational institutions—Discrimination.

The distribution of seats in Colleges between two areas of a State is not on the basis of the place of birth of the candidates but of their domicile, that is, their place of residence. Residence and place of birth are two distinct conceptions with different connotations both in law and in fact, and when Art. 15 (1) prohibits discrimination based on the place of birth, it cannot be read as prohibiting discrimination based on residence. A I R 1955 S C 334, Rel. on.

It is Art. 29 (2) and not Art. 15 (1) which prevails in matters of admission into educational institutions. While Art. 15 (1) prohibits discrimination on the ground inter alia of 'place of birth' these words are omitted in Art. 29 (2). The omission is deliberate and there is a purpose behind it. If persons from other and more advanced region are to insist on being admitted and the restriction in favour of persons who belong to the locality is to be rejected as inconsistent with Art. 15 (1), the result would be that persons in the locality might be prevented for all times from improving their lot. It is to avoid such consequence that 'place of birth' which is included in Art. 15 (1) would appear to have been omitted in Art. 29 (2). A I R 1954 Mad 67 and A I R 1954 S C 561, Rel. on. 1957 Ker L T 971 : 1957 Ker L J 976 : I L R (1958) Ker 65 : A I R 1958 Ker 33 (34) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 7) (DB).

——Art. 29—Admission to educational institution in State restricted to residents of State — Capitation fee charged to non-residents — No violation of Art. 14 read with Art. 29. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1954 Madh B 119 (DB).

——Art. 29 (2) — Denial of admission to educational institution on ground of residence.

The fundamental right bearing on the subject of admission to an educational institution run or aided by State funds will only arise on a denial of admission on the grounds of religion, race, caste, language or any of them. Hence if denial of admission proceeds on any other ground (such as residence or non-residence in a State) no right arises. I L R (1953) Madh B 87 : Madh B L J 1952 H C R 431 : A I R 1954 Madh B 119 (121) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

5. Directive principles of State policy.

●——Arts. 29 (2) and 46 — Communal G. O. fixing proportionate seats for different communities in State Colleges—Validity.

The Chapter of fundamental rights is sacrosanct and not liable to be abridged by any legislative or executive act or order, except to the extent provided in the appropriate Article in Part III. The directive principles of State policy cannot override the provisions found in Part III but have to conform to and run as subsidiary to the Chapter of fundamental rights. Hence the argument that having regard to the provisions of Art. 46, the State is entitled to maintain the Communal G. O. fixing proportionate seats in State Colleges for different communities, and if certain individual citizens are unable to get admissions into the educational institutions, there is no infringement of their fundamental rights, cannot be sustained. ——

The classification in the said Communal G. O. proceeds on the basis of religion, race and caste and is opposed to the Constitution and constitutes a clear violation of the fundamental rights guaranteed to the citizen under Art. 29 (2). State of Madras v. Champakam Dorairajan, 64 Mad L W 430 : 1951 S C J 313 : 1951 S C R 525 : 1951 Ker L T (SC) 41 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 621 : 1951 Mad W N 470 : 1951 All L J (SC) 107 : 1951 Raj L W 333 : 87 Cal L J 379 : A I R 1951 S C 226 (227, 228) (Prs 8, 11).

ARTICLE 30

●——Art. 30 — Right of minorities to establish and administer educational institution—Ambit and limits of right under Cl. (1) — Severe restrictions on right of private Training Colleges to admit students of their choice — Threat to withdraw recognition and to refuse to pay grant-in-aid in case of breach—Art. 30 (1) is violated.

Unlike Art. 19, the fundamental freedom to establish and administer educational institutions by minorities guaranteed under Cl. (1) of Art. 30, is absolute in terms : it is not made subject to any reasonable restrictions of the nature of the fundamental freedoms enunciated in Art. 19 may be subjected to. All minorities, linguistic or religious have by Art. 30 (1) an absolute right to establish and administer educational institutions of their choice ; and any law or executive direction which seeks to infringe the substance of that right under Art. 30 (1) would to that extent be void. The fundamental freedom is to establish and to administer educational institutions. Regulations made in the true interests of efficiency of instruction, discipline, health, sanitation, morality, public order and the like may undoubtedly be imposed. Such regulations are not restrictions on the substance of the right which is guaranteed : they secure the proper functioning of the institutions, in matters educational.

Clause (2) is only a phase of the non-discrimination clause of the Constitution and does not derogate from the provisions made in Cl. (1). The State is enjoined not to discriminate in granting aid to educational institutions on the ground that the management of the institution is in the hands of a minority, religious or linguistic, but the form is not susceptible of the inference that the State is competent otherwise to discriminate so as to impose restrictions upon the substance of the right to establish and administer educational institutions by minorities, religious or linguistic.

The right established by Art. 30 (1) is intended to be a real right for the protection of the minorities in the matter of setting up of educational institutions, of their own choice. Regulations which may lawfully be imposed either by legislative or executive action as a condition of receiving grant or of recognition must be directed to making the institution while retaining its character as minority institution effective as an educational institution. Such regulation must satisfy a dual test—the test of reasonableness, and the test that it is regulative of the educational character of the institution and is conducive to making the institution an effective vehicle of education for the minority community or other persons who resort to it.

Rule 5 (2) of the Rules made by Bombay Government for Primary Training Colleges, and Rr. 11 and 14 for recognition of private Training institution, and directions given regarding reservation of 80 per cent. of the seats and the threat to withhold grant-in-aid and recognition of the College, infringe the fundamental freedom guaranteed to the petitioners under Art. 30 (1) and are unconstitutional. Rev. Sidhrajbhai Sabbaj v. State of Gujarat, (1963) 2 S C A 394 : 1962 Ker L T (SC) 135 : (1963) 3 S C R 837 : A I R 1963 S C 540 (545, 547) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15, 16).

●——Art. 30 (1) — Kerala Education Bill (1957), cl. 3 (5) — Constitutional validity — Right of minorities to establish and maintain educational institutions—Right to State aid and recognition—Restrictions on—Validity. See Kerala Education Bill (1957), cl. 3 (5). AIR 1958 S C 956.

●——Art. 30 (1) — Applicability to pre-Constitution educational institutions.

The language employed in Art. 30 (1) is wide enough to cover both pre-Constitution and post-Constitution institutions. It must not be overlooked that

Art. 30 (1) gives the minorities two rights, namely, (a) to establish, and (b) to administer educational institutions of their choice. The second right clearly covers pre-Constitution schools. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, I L R (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C J 321 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1958 Ker L T 465 : A I R 1958 S C 956 (977) (Pt I) (Pr 22).

● —Arts. 30 (1) and 29 (2) — Minority educational institutions—Admission to outsider—Effect.

The real import of Art. 29 (2) and Art. 30 (1) is that they clearly contemplate a minority institution with a sprinkling of outsiders admitted into it. By admitting a non-member into it the minority institution does not shed its character and cease to be a minority institution. Indeed the object of conservation of the distinct language, script and culture of a minority may be better served by propagating the same amongst non members of the particular minority community. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, I L R (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C J 321 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1958 Ker L T 465 : AIR 1958 S C 956 (977) (Pt J) (Pr 22).

● —Art. 30 (1)—Scope and ambit of right.

Article 30 (1) in the first place gives certain rights not only to religious minorities but also to linguistic minorities. In the next place, the right conferred on such minorities is to establish educational institutions of their choice. There is no limitation placed on the subjects to be taught in such educational institutions.

The article leaves it to their choice to establish such educational institutions as will serve both purposes, namely, the purpose of conserving their religion, language or culture, and also the purpose of giving a thorough, good general education to their children. The next thing to note is that the article in terms gives all minorities, whether based on religion or language, two rights namely, the right to establish and the right to administer educational institutions of their choice. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, ILR (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C J 321 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1958 Ker L T 465 : AIR 1958 S C 956 (978) (Pt K) (Pr 23).

● —Art. 30 (2)—"Aid"—Whether covers "grant."

Although the word "grant" is used in Art. 337 the word "aid" is used in Art. 29 (2) and Art. 30 (2). But there can be no question that the word "aid" in these two articles will cover the "grant" under Art. 337. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, 1958 Ker LT 465 : ILR (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1959 S C J 321 : AIR 1958 S C 956 (980) (Pt L) (Pr 26).

● —Art. 30 (1) — Reasonable regulations as condition for State aid—Validity.

Article 30 (1) gives two rights to the minorities (1) to establish and (2) to administer educational institutions of their choice. The right to administer cannot obviously include the right to maladminister. The minority cannot surely ask for aid or recognition for an educational institution run by them in unhealthy surroundings without any competent teachers, possessing any semblance of qualification, and which does not maintain even a fair standard of teaching or which teaches matters subversive of the welfare of the scholars. The constitutional right to administer an educational institution of their choice does not necessarily militate against the claim of the State to insist that in order to grant aid the State may prescribe reasonable regulations to ensure the excellence of the institution to be aided. Reasonable regulations may certainly be imposed by the State as a condition for aid or even for recognition. In re, The Kerala Education Bill, 1957, ILR (1958) Ker 1167 : 1959 S C A 450 : 1959 S C J 321 : 1959 S C R 995 : 1958 Ker L T 465 : AIR 1958 S C 956 (982) (Pt O) (Pr 31).

● —Arts. 30 (1) and 29 (1) — Power of State to determine medium of instruction—The police power of the State to determine the medium of instruction must yield to the fundamental right under Arts. 29 (1) and 30 (1) to the extent it is necessary to give effect to it and cannot be permitted to run counter to it. See Ibid, Art. 29 (1). AIR 1954 S C 561.

—Arts. 30, 26, 226 — Wearing a nun's religious habit by expelled nun while teaching in Convent school — Whether a fundamental right — Petition under Art. 226 against private body—Maintainability —The term "administer" in Art. 30 is wide enough to take in enforcement of discipline in regard to dress and other matters by the educational institution. Thus the direction that A, an expelled nun, should not wear the religious habit of a nun, could not be questioned when indisputably nuns have a distinctive dress known as "the religious habit" which only nuns could wear There is nothing in the chapter of Fundamental Rights embodied in Part III of the Constitution, whereunder such a right is expressed or could be inferred See Ibid, Art 26. A I R 1964 Andhra Pra 277.

—Art. 30 (1) — Scope—Right of minorities to administer educational institutions of their choice—Power of State to prescribe reasonable regulations as a condition of granting aid to such institution—Extent of — Order of Director of Public Instruction directing institution to re-employ teachers retrenched from service — It violative of right under article 30 (1).

The constitutional right of minorities under Art. 30 (1) to administer an educational institution of their choice does not necessarily militate against the claim of the State to insist that in order to grant aid the State may prescribe reasonable regulations to ensure the excellence of institutions to be aided, but the State cannot grant aid in such a manner as to take away fundamental right of the minority community under Art 30 (1) and the State cannot disregard or override the fundamental rights by employing indirect methods of achieving exactly the same result. AIR 1958 S C 956; AIR 1963 S C 540, Rel. on.

Held that the orders of the Director of Public Instruction, Andhra Pradesh, directing the Board of Management of the Methodist Boys' Multipurpose Higher Secondary School to re-employ the ten teachers whose services were terminated assuming that they were passed by him in exercise of any power vested in him under any rule or regulation in the Education Code or under the rules for the recognition of Schools of the Grant-in-Aid Rules, would not offend Art. 30 (1) of the Constitution of India. (1963) 2 Lab L J 496 (Andh Pra).

—Art. 30—Scope of.

In order to bring the case under the first part of Art. 30 of the Constitution, a minority community has to establish its character first as a religious or linguistic minority. It is then to show that an institution was established by it and it will then follow that it will have the right to administer the educational institution according to its choice. A mere statement that a College is to all intents and purposes a minority college, will not bring the case under Art. 30, for there is no statement that it was a college established by a minority. Without establishing the college, a minority cannot claim the right to administer it. ILR (1951) 3 Assam 348 : AIR 1951 Assam 163 (164) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

—Arts. 30 (1) and 29 (1) — "Institutions of their own choice."

Under Art. 30 (1) not only is a minority given the right to establish and administer educational institutions, but the educational institutions must be of their own choice. It is not open to the State to dictate to a minority what the nature of its educational institution should be. It is for the minority itself to decide through what educational institution it would be able to conserve the rights given to it under Art. 29 (1). 56 Bom L R 643 : ILR (1954) Bom 1333 : AIR 1954 Bom 468 (476) (Pt E) (Pr 17).

—Art. 30—Educational institution run on Christian principles and receiving State aid—Power to impose restrictions on practice of other religions within college precincts — Refusal of Principal to permit Hindu Students to celebrate Saraswati Puja in College compound — Held that such institution although could not interfere with the belief and profession of religion, could control the outward manifestation of it within the boundaries of its property. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1957 Cal 524.

● —Arts. 30, 226, 29—Statute contravening provisions of Arts. 29 and 30 — Person whose rights as distinct from infringements of fundamental rights are affected can maintain petition under Art. 226 — Threat to right is sufficient—Actual infringement not necessary—If an Act is inconsistent with the provisions of Arts. 29 (1) and 30 (1), it is bad because it is violative of them and not because it is challenged or only when a conflict between it and the fundamental rights guaranteed by these articles is established. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1962 Guj 88 (FB).

● —Arts. 30, 13, 29, 350-A — Gujarath University Act (50 of 1949), Ss. 4 (27), 5, 38-A and statutes 207, 208 and 209 — Validity — Provisions contravene Arts. 29 (1) and 30 (1)—The words "of their choice" in Art 30 (1) if read with Art. 29 (1) would mean that a minority has a right not only to conserve its own language and culture but also has a right to establish educational institutions of its choice and to administer them in such manner as the members thereof choose without the State having a right to impose upon them any particular mode or method of administering them. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1962 Guj 88 (FB).

● —Art. 30 (1) — Minority — What constitutes — Roman Catholics in State of Kerala.

The word "minority" is not defined in the Constitution; and in the absence of any special definition it must be held that any community, religious or linguistic, which is numerically less than fifty per cent. of the population of the State is entitled to the fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 30 of the Constitution.

Held, that as the Christians, at the 1961 census, amounted only to 21.22 per cent. of the population of the State of Kerala, the Roman Catholics who formed a section of that community were a minority within Art. 30 (1) of the Constitution. Aldo Maria Patroni v. E. C Kesavan, 1964 Ker L T 791 : I L R (1964) 2 Ker 478 : 1964 Ker L J 1055 : (1964) 2 Ker L R 67 : AIR 1965 Ker 75 (76) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (FB).

● —Art. 30 (1) —Kerala Educational Rules (1959), Ch. 14, Pt. A, R. 44 — Catholic School managed by Jesuits of Calicut Mission — Junior member of mission appointed as Headmaster — Appointment set aside by Director—Order held constituted violation of Art. 30 (1)—Meaning of 'ordinarily' in R. 44.

Held, on facts that the right to choose the headmaster was perhaps the most important facet of the right to administer a school: and the imposition of any trammel thereon—except to the extent of prescribing the requisite qualifications and experience—could not but be considered as a violation of the right guaranteed to the minority by Art. 30 (1) of the Constitution. (2) That the order impugned in the petition, the Director of Public Instruction abrogating the appointment by the management of a person of their choice as the headmaster of the school conducted by a minority on the sole ground that he was junior in the service of the school, was a violation of their right under Art. 30 (1) of the Constitution, and should be struck down on that account. (3) That all that R. 44, stipulated was that when other things are equal seniority shall prevail. The word "ordinarily" in R. 44, gave a certain amount of elasticity to that rule. One of the "extraordinary" circumstances visualised by the rule is the appointment of headmasters in institutions like the one in this case. Aldo Maria Patroni v. E. C. Kesavan, 1964 Ker L T 791 : I L R (1964) 2 Ker 478 : 1964 Ker L J 1055 : (1964) 2 Ker L R 67 : AIR 1965 Ker 75 (77) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 16, 17) (FB).

—Art. 30 (1)—Scope—Establishment of non-denominational school by minority in village—Setting up rival school by member of majority community—No violation of right of minority under Art. 30 (1).

The right, which may be characterised as part of the right to freedom of religion, is what is guaranteed in Art. 30 (1), so that it may not be subjected to the vicissitudes of political controversies or the whims of electoral majorities. But it does not mean that the minority of a village has an exclusive right to conduct a non-denominational shool in the village, unmolested by any competition from the majority population of the village. The setting up of a rival school by a member of the 'majority' community cannot therefore, be characterised as a violation of any fundamental right of 'the minority' under Art. 30 (1) or any other Article of the Constitution. 1960 Ker L J 986 : 1960 Ker L T 917 : (1960) 2 Ker L R 442: AIR 1962 Ker 33 (34) (Pr 3) (DB).

—Art. 30 (2)—Discrimination on ground of minority—Establishment of another school in same locality—Effect.

The establishment of another school in the same locality by other person does not interfere with the petitioner's right to run his school and if the result thereof is that petitioner who was a member of a minority community cannot get enough pupils to earn a grant from the Government, surely it cannot be said that the State is discriminating against him on the ground of his community. Even if the sanction granted to the other person is against the provision of the Cochin Education Code—a body of rules which have no statutory force and are mere administrative directions—that sanction cannot amount to a discrimination against the petitioner on the ground of his community. 1959 Ker L T 418 : 1959 Ker L J 650 : 1959 Ker L R 497 : AIR 1959 Ker 331 (332) (Pr 1) (DB).

—Art. 30 — Bihar Education Code (1944) — Bihar High Schools (Control and Regulation of Administration) Act (13 of 1960), S. 8—Brahmo Samaj is minority based on religion - Educational institution established by Brahmo Samaj — Fundamental right of Samaj to administer and manage the same under Art. 30 — Applicability of Bihar Education Code to such schools indicated. AIR 1958 SC 956 and AIR 1958 Pat 359, Rel. on. I L R 40 Pat 527 : AIR 1963 Pat 54 (57, 58, 59) (Prs 13, 14, 17) (DB)

● —Arts. 30 (1), 29 and 226—Language of Art. 30 (1) not to be restricted by reference to Art. 29 (1). AIR 1958 SC 956, Rel. on—School managed and administered by Brahmo Samaj a religious minority is entitled to protection guaranteed by Art. 30 (1), even though majority of students are not of Brahmo faith and no instructions in that faith are given—But State Government can impose regulation with regard to maintenance of discipline or standard of efficiency — Order of Government interfering with the rights of the Samaj to management and administration of school is ultra vires and void — Mandamus will go principally to the Board commanding them not to give effect to the resolution and to withdraw the recognition of the existing managing committee constituted under the resolution—Direction under Art. 226 will issue to managing committee of school to hand over charge of the school to the committee appointed by the Samaj. AIR 1957 SC 529, Disting. Dipendra Nath Sarkar v. State of Bihar, ILR 40 Pat 783 : AIR 1962 Pat 101 (105, 106, 107, 108, 109) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11) (FB).

——Art. 30 — Bihar Education Code, Art. 182 (e) — Government (Bihar) (Education) Resolution No. 17714, D/- 7-5-1958 requiring school committee to be of 11 members representing different interests—Secretary and President to be from these members – Director of Public Instruction requiring Committee to appoint person not member of Committee—Failure to comply — D. P. I. appointing ad hoc Committee under Art. 182 – Denominational school managed by denomination—Order violates the guarantee contained in Arts. 29 (1) and 30 of the Constitution. See Bihar Education Code, Art. 182 (e). AIR 1958 Pat 359.

ARTICLES 31, 31A and 31B

SYNOPSIS

(Constitution of India, Articles 31, 31A & 31B).

ARTICLE 31

1. Amendments—Validity.
2. Scope of Article 31.
   (a) Articles 31 and 19, compared.
3. Clause (1)—General.
   (a) Clauses (1) and (2)—Correlation.
   (b) Authority of law.
   See also Ibid, Note 5 (a).
   (c) Protection only against State action.
   (d) Deprivation.
   (e) Who can enforce right.
   (f) Duty of Court.
   (g) "Person".
4. "Eminent Domain".
5. Clause (2)—General.
   (a) Authority of law.
   See also Ibid, Note 3 (b).
   (b) Constitutional validity of enactments.
   (c) Comparison with S. 299 of Government of India Act (1935).
   (d) Clause (2)—Before Fourth Amendment of 1955.
   (e) Clauses (2) and (5)—Combined effect.
   See Ibid, Note 17.
6. Clause (2A).
7. "Acquired."
8. "Requisition."
9. Regulating the relation between landlord and tenant.
10. Accommodation control.
11. "Public purpose."
    (a) Public purpose—If justiciable.
    (b) Express mention of—Necessity.
    (c) Illustrative cases.
12. "Compensation."
    (a) Adequacy of compensation—Justiciability.
    (b) Constitutional validity of enactments.
    (c) Miscellaneous.
13. "Property".
14. Property of Rulers of merged States.
15. Clause (3).
16. Clause (4).
17. Clause (5).
18. Taxation.
19. Evacuee property.
20. Public health, etc.
21. Clause (6).

ARTICLES 31-A AND 31-B

22. Article 31-A—Scope.
    (a) Arts. 31-A and 31-B.
    (b) Article 31 (4) compared.
    (c) Rights conferred by this Part — Before Fourth Amendment of 1955.
23. "Acquisition."
24. "Extinguishment or modification of any such rights."
25. Taking over of management—Clause (1) (b).
26. Clause (1) (e).
27. First Proviso to Clause (1).
28. "Estate"—Clause (2) (a).
    (a) "Jagir . . . . or other similar grants."
29. Rights – Clause (2) (b).
30. Article 31-B—Scope.

ARTICLE 31

1. Amendments—Validity.

● ——Art. 31, Arts. 31A, 31B—Validity of.

Articles 31A and 31B inserted in the Constitution do not either in terms or in effect seek to make any change in Art. 226 or in Arts. 132 and 136. Article 31A aims at saving laws providing for the compulsory acquisition by the State of a certain kind of property from the operation of Art. 13 read with other relevant articles in Part III, while Art. 31B purports to validate certain specified Acts and Regulations already passed which but for such a provision, would be liable to be impugned under Art. 13. The new articles being essentially amendments of the Constitution, Parliament alone had the power of enacting them. That the laws thus saved relate to matters covered by List II does not in any way affect the position. To make a law, which contravenes the Constitution constitutionally valid is a matter of constitutional amendment and as such it falls within the exclusive power of Parliament.

Quaere.— Whether the latter part of Art. 31B is too widely expressed. Shankari Prasad v. Union of India, 1951 R D S C 219 : 64 Mad L W 1005 : 1951 All L J 740 : (1951) 2 Mad L J 683 : 88 Cal L J 281 : 1951 S C J 775 : I L R 30 Pat 1176 : 1952 S C R 89 : AIR 1951 S C 458 (463, 464) (Pt G) (Prs 14, 15).

2. Scope of Article 31.

(a) Articles 31 and 19, compared.

2. Scope of Article 31.

● ——Art. 31 and Part III — Scope—Termination of licence to cut forest trees under S. 22 long prior to Constitution — Protection of Part III of Constitution cannot be invoked. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1961 S C 1684.

● ——Arts. 31, 14, 16 (1), 19 (1) (g) and 32 — Petitioner holding contracts for supply of milk to Government Hospital—Petitioner's tender for certain year accepted but later on cancelled—Articles are not applicable. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1959 S C 490.

● ——Arts. 31 and 19—Act of State.

No State Government has a right to do anything against its citizen in the nature of an act of State.

Virendra Singh v. State of U.P., 1954 S C J 705 : (1954) 2 Mad L J 369 : 1954 S C A 686 1955 S C R 415 : AIR 1954 S C 447 (454) (Pt B) (Pr 31).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1984 S C 1043.]

● ——Art 31—Under the scheme of the Constitution rights of private property are separately dealt with and their protection provided for in Art. 31. See Bengal Land Revenue Sales (West Bengal Amendment) Act (7 of 1950), S. 7. AIR 1954 S C 92.

● ——Arts. 31 and 19 — Neither Art. 19 nor Art. 31 has anything to do with the settling of the estates or with the maintenance of possession. See Tenancy Laws—U. P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act (31 of 1952), S. 3. AIR 1964 All 213 (FB).

——Art. 31 (as it stood prior to its amendment in 1955) —Scope and meaning of old Art. 31.

The following propositions of law may be laid down regarding the scope and meaning of the old Art. 31 : (1) Clauses (1) and (2) of Art. 31 are not mutually exclusive in scope but should be read together as dealing with the same subject namely, the protection of right to property by means of limitation on the State's powers. (2) The expressions 'taking possession of' or 'acquisition' used in Cl. (2) convey the same meaning as conveyed by the word 'deprivation' used in Cl. (1) or, in other words, the deprivation contemplated by Cl (1) is no other than acquisition or taking possession of the property referred to in Cl. (2). (3) Article 31 gives complete protection to private property against executive action no matter how a person is deprived of his property or to what use the State puts that property or what title it acquires in it. (4) The protection given by Art. 31 is against the loss of the property to the owner and there is no protection given to the State by the Article. (5) Article 31 imposes limitation on the power of the State in taking property and the limitations are in the interest of the person deprived of his property. (6) Deprivation cannot be done except (i) under the authority of law, (ii) for public purposes, and (iii) on payment of compensation. (7) The property may be both tangible and intangible such as a right of business. AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 119 and AIR 1954 S C 728, Rel. on. AIR 1962 All 521 (530) (Pt B) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Arts. 31 and 19 (1) (f) and (5)—Landlord served with notice under municipal law to pull down building—Tenants challenging validity of municipal law under Art. 19 (1) (f) — Applicability of Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 — (Municipalities — Bombay Municipal Corporation Act (3 of 1888), Ss. 354, 68 (1) (c) —Constitutional validity of S. 354). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1959 Bom 332.

——Art. 31 — Scope—Tenancy Laws—Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (67 of 1948) as amended by Act (18 of 1956), Ss. 32 to 32-R.

[Article 31A is an exception to Art. 31 and even if it be assumed that, the provisions relating to extinction of the landlord's interest in land are not protected by cl. (1) of Art. 31, they are protected from the operation of cl. (2) by cl. 1 (a) of Art 31A — Ed.] 59 Bom L R 616 : A I R 1957 Bom 252 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1959 S C 459.]

——Art. 31 — State claiming to be owner of land in possession of petitioner and giving notice to quit—Art. 31 not applicable—Art. 31 relates to compulsory acquisition of property by the State and lays down limitations thereto. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1956 Cal 437.

——Art. 31 — West Bengal Food Grains (Intensive Procurement) Order, 1952, is intra vires Art. 31. A I R 1954 Cal 97.

——Art. 31, Sch. 7, List 1, Entry 33 and Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 38—Scope.

Article 31 itself contemplates the existence of the requisite powers in the legislature of the country to pass laws authorising deprivation of property and such power cannot be limited by reference to Entry 33 of List 1 or Entry 36 of List 2. A I R 1952 S C 252; AIR 1952 S C 59, Rel. on ; A I R 1951 S C 41, Ref. to. A I R 1953 Cal 695 (698) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 31 — Tenancy Laws — Bombay (Saurashtra Area) Aghat Tenure and Ujaras Abolition Act (Bom. 65 of 1959), S. 4 — Validity of Act — It falls within scope of Art. 31-A — It cannot be challenged on grounds covered by Arts. 14 and 31 — The Act is valid. See Ibid, Art. 31-A. A I R 1962 Guj 297 (DB).

——Art. 31—Municipalities—Bombay District Municipal Act (3 of 1901), S. 90 (5)—Constitutional validity —If violates Art 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 of the Constitution. See Municipalities—Bombay District Municipalities Act (3 of 1901), S. 90 (5). A I R 1962 Guj 25 (DB).

——Art. 31 (1) — Invasion of fundamental right by executive—Duty of Court—See Ibid, Art. 226. A I R 1953 Him Pra 57.

——Arts. 31 and 31-A — Landlord's rights extinguished for agrarian reforms — Section protected by Art. 31-A—Impeachment under Arts. 14, 19 or 31 not permitted. See Tenancy Laws — Malabar Tenancy Act (14 of 1953), S. 58. 1960 Ker L T 1224.

——Art. 31—Tenancy Laws—M. P. Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act, 1950 (1 of 1951) — Validity — Art. 31B expressly saves the Act being held to be void on ground that it is inconsistent with or takes away or abridges any of the fundamental rights conferred by the provision of Part III within which Art. 31 falls. 1957 M P C 771.

——Arts. 31 and 31-A — Inam, its concept and effect — Assessment does not amount to resumption — Act whether colourable legislation—Act though inconsistent with rights under Art. 14 or 19 or 31 it is saved by Art. 31 A — Act is not invalid. See Madras Inam (Assessment) Act (40 of 1956). A I R 1964 Mad 90 (DB).

——Art. 31—Scope — Settlement of certain tribe in a village under private agreement Order of S. D. O. asking them to move away under threat of prosecution—Legality — Order held not covered by Ss. 60 to 64 of Hill Peoples Regulation and infringing rights under Arts 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Interference with administrative order — Jurisdiction of High Court — Even if writ of certiorari quashing the order cannot be passed, writ of mandamus can be issued by High Court compelling the authority to act in accordance with law. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1961 Manipur 21.

● ——Arts. 31, 14, 19 (1) (f), Sch. VII List II, Entries 18, 45 — Bombay Saranjams, Jahagirs and Other Inams of Political Nature Resumption Rules, 1952 — Rules are not ultra vires — The Saranjamdars have no such proprietary right in the Saranjams as to entitle them to claim protection under Art. 19 or 31. See Bombay Saranjams, Jahagirs and Other Inams of Political Nature Resumption Rules, 1952. (1963) 2 Mys L J 164 (FB).

——Arts. 31 and 19—From the examination of Art. 19 (1) (f) read with 5) thereof and Art 31 clauses (1), (2) and (3) it is clear that no property can be acquired or taken possession of, nor any restraint, reasonable or otherwise, imposed on the proprietary right of any person in the interest of any individual or individuals. I L R 30 Pat 1085 : A I R 1952 Pat 166 (171) (Pt E) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Art. 31 — Running of parallel buses by State on routes for which private transport companies hold permits—Neither Art. 19 nor Art. 31 comes into play. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). A I R 1956 Pepsu 3.

——Arts. 31, 19 and 226 — Conduct acquiescing in order of Government—Order challenged to be ultra vires on ground of contravention of fundamental right—Waiver of fundamental right—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 115).

Where a petitioner under Art. 226 alleged that certain Government orders are illegal and ultra vires being infringements of his fundamental right and being in contravention of Art. 31, his conduct in acquiescing in the orders and the requisitioning thereunder and not questioning their legality for a year has to be considered. It does not, however, mean that because of his conduct he is estopped from questioning the legality of the order. But his conduct has very important bearing on the question whether he should be allowed to have the matter decided in his petition under Art. 226. After all, when a valuable right is guaranteed to a person either by the constitution or by some other law, it is ordinarily open to him to waive that right, unless there be an express or implied provision to the contrary. ILR (1952) Patiala 482 : A I R 1953 Pepsu 9 (11) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 31 and 31-A — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 19E (added by Punjab Act 14 of 1962) — Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (13 of 1955), S. 32-KK (added by Pepsu Act 16 of 1962)—Constitutional validity — Impugned sections are a measure of agrarian reform within ambit of Art. 31 A and are saved from attack for violation of Arts. 14, 19 and 31. See Tenancy Laws—Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 19-E. A I R 1963 Punj 319 (DB).

● ——Art. 31 — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 36 — Amendment of S. 36 by Punjab Act 20 of 1953—Amending Act not reserved for assent by President but subsequent amending Acts removed for and assented to by President — Effect of such assent on validity of S. 36—Art. 31-A (1) is attracted - S. 36 of the Punjab Act is not void. See Ibid, Art. 31-A. A I R 1963 Punj 255 (FB).

——Art. 31—Conditions for applicability of Article.

In order to bring a case within Art. 31, Constitution of India, the following conditions must be satisfied :—(a) the impugned legislation must authorise the taking possession of or the acquisition of property; (b) the property must be capable of possession or acquisition; (c) the acquisition or taking possession of property must be for public purposes; and (d) the acquisition or the taking possession of property must be without paying or providing for compensation. 1952-22 Com Cas (Ins) 33 : ILR (1952) Punj 11: AIR 1952 Punj 9 (15) (Pt C) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Arts. 31 and 19—Applicability—Articles have no application to a case, where there is no question that any fundamental right of the applicant is taken away or the applicant is being deprived of any property. 1956 Raj L W 50 : ILR (1955) 5 Raj 324: AIR 1955 Raj 166 (167) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Arts. 31 and 31-A—Tenancy Laws—Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960), Chap. XI and S. 134 (1) — Violation of Arts. 14, 19 and 31 of Constitution cannot be urged in view of Art. 31-A. See Tenancy Laws—Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960), Chap. XI. AIR 1963 Tripura 1.

——Arts. 31 and 31-A — Tenancy Laws — Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960), Ss. 123, 167—Cannot be challenged on ground that they are made retrospective so as to operate from date of Bill—As Art. 31-A applies to the acquisition of estates by the Act, the argument that the retrospective operation affects Art. 31 cannot hold water. See Tenancy Laws—Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960), S. 123. AIR 1963 Tripura 1.

2 (a). Articles 31 and 19, compared.

● ——Art. 31 (1)—Article 19 applies both to concrete and abstract rights of property — Such construction given to Art. 19 (1) (f) does not make Art. 31 (1) otiose. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1963 S C 864.

● ——Arts. 31 (1) and 19 (1)—Scope—Art. 31 (1) does not exclude Art. 19 (1). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1). A I R 1960 S C 1080.

● ——Art. 31—Arts 19 (1) (f) and 31 deal with different subjects and cover different fields. There is no overlapping. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1955 S C 41.

● ——Art. 31 — Scope of Arts. 19 and 31. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1954 S C 119.

——Arts. 31 (1) and 19 (1)—Whether mutually exclusive. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1). AIR 1962 All 521 (DB).

——Art. 31—Scope—Distinction between Art. 31 and Art. 19 (1) (f). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1958 All 126.

——Arts. 31(1) and 19 (1) (f) — Difference between—Person acquiring rights of occupant before order cancelling patta—Applicability of Art. 19 (1) (f). See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1955 (N U C) Bhopal 1784.

● ——Art. 31 — Deprivation of property — Article applicable is Art. 31 and not Art. 19 (1) (f). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1955 Bom 220 (FB).

——Art. 31 (1) —Scope of—Article 31 (1) and (2) must be read in conjunction with Art. 19 (1) (f). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1951 Bom 440 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) and (2-A)—West Bengal Land Requisition and Acquisition Act (2 of 1948) — Constitutionality — Act cannot be held to be ultra vires of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution — Art. 31 (2) read with Art. 31 (2-A) excludes operation of Art. 19 (1) (f). See West Bengal Land Requisition and Acquisition Act (2 of 1948). AIR 1962 Cal 269.

● ——Arts. 31, 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g)—Scope—Article 19 (1) (f) and (g) on the one hand and Article 31 on the other deal with different subjects and cover different fields—They are mutually exclusive—If Art. 31 applies, Art. 19 cannot be invoked. Paschim Banga Malbahi Cycle Mazdoor Union v. Commr. of Police, Calcutta, 65 Cal W N 213 : AIR 1961 Cal 125 (133-144) (Pt L) (Prs 27, 77) (SB).

——Art. 31—Where property is acquired by the State, Art. 31 and not Art. 19 applies. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1959 Cal 402.

——Art. 31—Applicability—Act dealing with proprietary right — Test of validity—If a piece of legislation directly deals with a proprietary right it would be valid if it conforms to Art. 31—Its constitutional validity need not be further tested by a reference to Art. 19 (1). See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1954 Cal 248 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 16.]

——Arts. 31 and 19—Scope—A Legislative enactment empowering Government to acquire property of a citizen compulsorily for public purpose attracts Art. 31 and not Art. 19. Where it is a composite piece of legislation the Court has to distinguish that part of it which deals with acquisition from the rest. 57 Cal W N 397 : AIR 1953 Cal 548 (553) (Pt D) (Pr 28).

——Arts. 31 and 19—Legislation dealing with acquisition of property—If should satisfy requirements of both articles.

Legislation dealing with acquisition or taking possession of property need not satisfy the requirements of both Art. 31 and also Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution. If the legislation is not directly in respect of any of the subjects mentioned in Art. 19 but as a result of the operation of other legislation any rights guaranteed by the sub-clauses in Art. 19 (1) are abridged the question of the application of Art. 19 does not arise. The contents and subject-matters of Arts. 19 and 31 are not the same and they proceed to deal with the rights covered by their respective words from totally different angles. Art. 19 should be read as a separate complete article. 55 Cal W N 463 : AIR 1951 Cal 97 (99, 100) (Pt F) (Pr 16).

——Art. 31 — If there has been expropriation of property either under Cl. (1) or Cl. (2) of Art. 31, the question of enforcement of the fundamental right under Art 19 (1) (f) does not arise. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1953 Him Pra 95.

——Art. 31—Hyderabad Jagirdars Debt Adjustment Act (12 of 1952)—Validity.

Every curtailment of right does not amount to its deprivation. Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 deal with different subjects. The former read with Cl. (5) postulates the existence of property; otherwise the reasonable restrictions contemplated by Cl. (5) could not be brought into play; whereas if there be substantially total deprivation of property, Art 31 becomes applicable. Where the property of the decree-holders has not been entirely taken away, no question of the exercise of the right of eminent domain arises.

The impugned Act cannot be declared void on the ground that the decree-holder is deprived of the fruits of his decree which is his property without any compensation. AIR 1955 S C 41, Foll. I L R (1955) Hyd 510 : AIR 1955 Hyd 194 (200) (Ft C) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Arts. 31 and 19 (1) (f) — Scope — Per Qamar Hasan J.—Art. 19 (1) (f) is not restricted to abstract rights and capacity of citizen to acquire, hold and dispose of property — It also applies to concrete rights—Per Ansari J (Contra). — Art. 19 relates to status of citizen—Rights of private property are dealt with by Art. 31. I L R (1955) Hyd 337 : A I R 1955 Hyd 82 (91) (Pt B) (Pr 39).

——Arts. 31, 19 (1) (f) — Latter Article applies in cases where property has not been taken away under Art 31. See Arms Act (11 of 1878), S. 14. AIR 1953 Madh B 236 (DB).

——Arts. 31 (2) and 19 (1) (f) — Property deprived under Art 31 (2) — Article 19 (1) (f) does not apply in such case — Right given to tenart under S. 9 of Madras Act 3 of 1922 — Deprivation of landlord's right to possession — (Tenancy Laws — Madras City Tenants Protection Act (3 of 1922) (as amended by Madras Act 19 of 1955), Ss. 3 and 9). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1960 Mad 108.

——Art. 31—Section 3 (8) of Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949) (as amended by Madras Act 8 of 1951) — Section does not infringe Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution — The subject-matter of requisition directly comes under Art. 31 which excludes the general Art. 19. See Houses and Rents — Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 3 (8). AIR 1953 Mad 257.

——Arts. 31 (2) and 19 (1) (f)—Article 19 (1) (f) must be read subject to Art. 31 (2) and where there is valid acquisition under that article there is no property in respect of which the rights conferred under Art. 19 (1) (f) could be claimed. I L R (1952) Mad 982 : 1952-2 Mad L J 298 : 1952 Mad W N 677 : 65 Mad L W 747 : A I R 1952 Mad 756 (757) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

● ——Arts. 31 and 19 — Distinction — Both cover different grounds — Art. 31 (1) has to be read with Clause (2) of the same Article. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1955 Nag 225 (FB).

——Arts. 31, 19—Scope of—Rights over property conferred by Art. 19 are subject to Art. 31. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1955 N U C (Nag) 1341.

——Arts. 31, 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5) — Have no application to a case of total and complete deprivation of property. The test of constitutional validity in such a case is Art. 31. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 4. AIR 1958 Pat 183.

——Art. 31 — Complete deprivation of property — Art. 31 applies to a case where there is complete and total deprivation of property and Art. 19 (1) (f) does not apply to such a case. Hence Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands to Raiyats) Act (30 of 1951) does not violate the guarantee under Art. 19 (1) (g). 1956 B L J R 760 : I L R 35 Pat 847 : A I R 1957 Pat 44 (51) (Pt I) (Pr 20) (DB).

● ——Arts. 31 and 19 (1) (f) — Article 31 cannot be read as an exception to the fundamental rights as declared in Art. 19 (1) (f). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1950 Pat 392 (SB).

——Arts. 31 and 19 — Scope — While Art. 19 (1) (f) speaks of general rights of a citizen to acquire, hold and dispose of property, Art. 31 deals with the specific rights of a person (whether a citizen or not) in the property that he owns. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1956 Pepsu 58.

——Art. 31 and Art. 19 (1) (f)—Correlation.

Where the property has been lawfully acquired in the terms of Art. 31 then it can be of no avail to contend that the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) must all the same remain inviolable. I L R (1956) Patiala 205 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 148 (152) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Arts. 31 and 19 — Deprivation of right — When an enactment deprives a person of a right, it cannot be regarded as the law placing restrictions upon the enjoyment of that right. I L R (1954) Patiala 433 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 161 (167) (Pt B) (Pr 17) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 222].

● ——Arts. 31 and 19 (1) (f) —Distinction between — Articles do not overlap—shelter under both of them cannot be taken at same time. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1955 Trav.Co 227 (FB).

3. Clause (1)—General.

(a) Clauses (1) and (2)—Correlation.

(b) Authority of law.

See also Ibid, Note 5 (a).

(c) Protection only against State action.

(d) Deprivation.

(e) Who can enforce right.

(f) Duty of Court.

(g) "Person".

3. Clause (1)—General.

● ——Art. 31 — Applicability—Government agreeing to grant necessary sanction to transfer of certain coal bearing areas to certain persons subject to condition that they paid enhanced rate of royalty — Contention that there was a misrepresentation by Government to the effect that it was going to enhance the rate of royalty all round, and that it was under the influence of that belief that such persons entered into the agreement in question - Held that simply because the draft amendment to the mining rules published for inviting objections from the public on July 12, 1947 was not finalised would not afford any cause of action to such persons against Government — What they paid to the Government was realisable under the terms of the contract which was not vitiated — The fact that the persons might have struck a hard bargain could not be brought under the prohibition of Art. 31 (1) of Constitution, even assuming that the Constitution applied to the transaction in question entered into in 1949. M/s M. Hassanji & Sons v. State of M. P., (1963) Supp 2 S C R 235 : 1963 Mah L J 726 : 1963 M P L J 734 : A I R 1965 S C 470 (472, 473) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 11).

● ——Art. 31 — Validity of Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisements) Act (1954), S. 8 — Contravenes Arts. 21 & 31 of the Constitution — Held invalid. See Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisements) Act (1954), S. 8. 1960 Cri L J 735 : AIR 1960 S C 554.

● ——Art. 31 (1) — Unregistered document granting petitioner right to cut trees in forest — Subsequent vesting of forest in State — Petitioner stopped from cutting trees —Fundamental right not infringed. See Ibid, Art. 32. AIR 1958 S C 532.

● ——Art. 31 (1)—Contract to grant licenses to catch fish in lake in Estate—Subsequent vesting of estate in State - State refusing to recognise contract—No question of infringement of fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 (1) arises. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1956 S C 17.

——Art. 31—S. 6, Electricity Act, does not create any option; it merely regulates procedure and manner of exercise of option—S. 6 merely empowered the State Electricity Board to exercise already existing option and not placed any burden or restriction on right of licensee—Held, S. 6 did not violate Arts. 14 or 19 (1) (f) or 31, and was not invalid. 1965 All L J 187.

——Art. 31 — Scope — Right to obtain mining lease, is not a fundamental right either under Art 19 (1) (f) or under Art. 31—Further Art. 31 has no application where the State Government is not acquiring the alleged right of the petitioner to obtain the lease. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1958 All 621 (DB).

——Arts. 31, 19—West Bengal Closing of Canals Act (2 of 1959) — Validity — Art. 31 (1) does not afford protection against legislative expropriation — Substantial abridgement of right of ownership — No compensation payable under Art. 31 — Closing of canals for considerations of health and growth of city of Calcutta — Action of Government is saved under Art 19 (5), (6)—West Bengal Closing of Canals Act is valid. AIR 1964 Cal 45 (47) (Prs 11, 12).

——Art. 31 (1)—Scope.

What Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution requires is not so much that the Act should be enacted for public purposes as that it should make provision for acquisition of property for such purposes. ('56) 60 Cal W N 962.

——Art. 31 (1)—S. 4 of West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (1948) does not contravene Article 31 (1). 92 Cal L J 279 : AIR 1953 Cal 704 (DB).

● ——Art. 31 (1) — (Hyderabad) Wali-ud-Daula Succession (Decision of Disputes) Act (Hyderabad Act (16 of 1950), S. 2 (1) — Act if ultra vires — Act takes away the property of person in contravention of Art. 31. See (Hyderabad) Wali-ud-Daula Succession (Decision of Disputes) Act (Hyd. Act 16 of 1950), S. 2 (1). AIR 1951 Hyd 1 (FB).

——Art. 31 (1) — What Art. 31 (1) aims at is that no person shall be deprived of his property by any executive act or fiat — Unauthorised sale of property by Collector — Deprivation of property. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1954 Kutch 11.

——Art. 31 (1)—Scope of.

Clause (1) of Art. 31 only contains a declaration of the fundamental rights in a negative form, namely, that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. In other words, this clause implies that a person may be deprived of his property, provided he is so deprived by authority of law. Article 31 (1) by itself in no way helps the petitioner. It is only if he shows that the legislation in question is otherwise invalid, that he can question the constitutionality of the Act on the ground that the Act infringes the provisions of Art. 31 (1). AIR 1952 Madh B 181 (186) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 31 (1)—Scope—Search warrant—Failure to record grounds of belief — Effect — It renders the warrant illegal. See Arms Act (1878), S. 25. AIR 1957 Orissa 130 (DB).

——Art. 31—Orissa Court of Wards Act (26 of 1947), S. 10 (f) — Validity — Depriving the proprietor 'temporarily of his management of the property for the professed purpose of benefiting the very proprietor standing by itself, falls neither within sub-Art. (1) or sub-Art. (2) of Art. 31. ILR (1952) Cut 529 : AIR 1953 Orissa 121 (138, 139) (Pt O) (Pr 31) (DB).

——Art. 31 — Person in occupation of land and his name entered in revenue papers — Sub-Divisional Officer cannot restrain person from cultivating or transferring same — He must take legal proceedings if he considers such person's title or possession illegal. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1964 Raj 75 (DB).

3 (a). Clauses (1) and (2)—Correlation.

● ——Art. 31 (1) — Scope of Arts. 31 (1) and 31 (2)—They are not mutually exclusive — Effect of enactment of Art 31 (2A). See Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act (40 of 1953), S. 3 (1). AIR 1958 S C 328.

● ——Art. 31 (1) and (2)—Scope.

Clauses (1) and (2) of Article 31 are not mutually exclusive in scope but should be read together as dealing with the same subject, namely, the protection of the right to property by means of limitations on the State's powers, the deprivation contemplated in clause (1) being no other than acquisition or taking possession of the property referred to in clause (2). AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 119, Rel. on. Saghir Ahmad v. State of U. P., 1954 S C J 819 : (1954) 2 Mad L J 622 : 1954 S C A 1218 : 1955 All W R 23 : 68 Mad L W 8 : 1955 All L J 38 : 1955 S C R 707 : AIR 1954 S C 728 (740) (Pt I) (Pr 25).

● ——Art. 31 (1) and (2)—Scope.

(Per Majority, S. R. Das J., Contra.) - The American doctrine of police power as a distinct and specific legislative power is not recognised in our Constitution and it is therefore contrary to scheme of the Constitution to say that cl. (1) of Art 31 must be read in positive terms and understood as conferring police power on the Legislature in relation to rights of property. It is the Legislature alone that can interpose and compel the individual to part with his property. It is this limitation which the framers of our Constitution have embodied in cl. (1) of Art. 31 which is thus designed to protect the rights to property against deprivation by the State acting through its executive organ, the Government. Cl (2) imposes two further limitations on the Legislature itself. It is prohibited from making a law authorising expropriation except for public purposes and on payment of compensation for the injury sustained by the owner. These important limitations on the power of the State, acting through the executive and legislative organs, to take away private property are designed to protect the owner against arbitrary deprivation of the property. Cls. (1) and (2) of Art. 31 are thus not mutually exclusive in scope and content, but should be read together and understood as dealing with the same subject namely, the prosecution of the right to property by means of the limitations on the State power referred to above, the deprivation contemplated in cl. (1) being no other than the acquisition or taking possession of property referred to in cl. (2). S. R. Das J.'s view in AIR 1951 S C 41, Dissented from.

(Per S. R. Das J.) — It is not correct to say that cls. (2) to (6) of Art. 19 recognise the police power of the State in that they permit it to make laws imposing restrictions on the seven rights of the citizens and that they at the same time regulate that power by placing limitations upon it by requiring that the restrictions which may be imposed must be reasonable and that the State's police power is further saved by Art. 31 (5) (b) and that the police power having been recognised and provided for in Art. 19 and Art. 31 (5) (b) there is no necessity to read Art. 31 (1) as concerned with the State's police power at all. State of West Bengal v. Subodh Gopal Bose, (1954) 1 Mad L J 314 : 1954 S C A 65 : 1954 SCR 587 : 67 Mad L W 206 : 1954 S C J 127 : AIR 1954 S C 92 (96, 97, 98, 99, 108, 117) (Pt D) (Prs 10, 12, 14, 15, 46, 65).

——Art. 31 (2) — Scope — Clauses (1) and (2) are mutually exclusive. See Ibid, Art. 31 (1). AIR 1965 Madh Pra 77 (DB).

——Art. 31 (1) and (2) — Scope — Cls. (1) and (2) are mutually exclusive — Valid law in Cl. (1) — Meaning of — Law infringing Art. 19 (1) (f) and not saved by Art. 19 (5) is not valid law — M. P. Abolition of Cash Grants Act (16 of 1963) — Validity — Cl. (1) of Art. 31, is attracted and not Cl. (2) — Act is repugnant to Art. 31 (1) in that it takes away property in violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) and is not saved by Art. 19 (5) — Act, if can be supported on ground of a "Public purpose" within Art. 31 (2). A I R 1960 S C 1080, Foll; A I R 1952 S C 252 (274 275), Rel. on. 1964 Jab L J 527 : 1964 M P L J 874 : AIR 1965 Madh-Pra 77 (82, 83, 84, 85) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 19) (DB).

——Art. 31 (1) and (2)—Scope.

Clause (1) of Art. 31 must have reference to deprivation of property otherwise than by acquisition or by taking possession for compensation. The Act, providing as it does for a general acquisition of property of a particular kind, for compensation to be determined in accordance with certain rules laid down therein, comes within the purview of Cl. (2) and not Cl. (1). AIR 1955 NUC (Nag) 1341.

● ——Art. 31 (1) and (2)—Scope.

It would be wrong to say that Cl. (1) of Art. 31 must be read in positive terms and understood as conferring police power on the legislature in relation to rights to property. Even Cl. (1) of Art. 31 is designed to protect the rights to property against deprivation by the State acting through its executive organ and Cl. (2) imposes two further limitations on the legislature itself. The legislature is prohibited from making a law authorising expropriation except for public purposes and on payment of compensation for the injury sustained by the owner. Clauses (1) and (2) are not mutually exclusive in scope and content and should be read together and understood to have dealing with the same subject, namely, the prosecution of the right to property by limitation on the State power. AIR 1954 S C 92; A I R 1954 S C 119, Foll. Brij Bhukan v. S. D. O. Siwan, 1954 B L J R 513 : I L R 33 Pat 690 : A I R 1955 Pat 1 (13, 14) (Pt F) (Pr 7) (SB).

——Art. 31 (1) and (2)—Scope.

Clause (1) enacts a general rule that no person shall be made to lose his property, either temporarily or permanently or with or without compensation, except by the authority of law, while Cl. (2) deals with particular kinds of deprivations. The statute law under which a person can be deprived of his property must be a valid and enforceable law. A I R 1952 S C 252, Foll.; A I R 1951 Bom 86, Ref. I L R (1954) Patiala 433 : A I R 1953 Pepsu 161 (168, 169) (Pt C) (Prs 19, 23) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 222.]

——Art. 31 (1) and (2)—Construction — Importation of expressions from foreign constitution.

The Indian Constitution being elaborate and written while construing Art. 31 (1) and (2) it is best to confine to the plain meaning of words used in it without importing unnecessarily expressions like "police power" and "eminent domain". Looking therefore, at the words of the two articles, it is clear that Art. 31 (1) is wider in its application than Art. 31 (2), and there may be deprivation of a person's property without there being acquisition or taking possession by the State. What Article 31 (1) has provided, therefore, is that if a person is deprived of his property without the State acquiring it or taking possession of it by paying compensation under Art. 31 (2) there should be authority of law for such deprivation. AIR 1951 S C 41, Rel on. Provisions of S. 133 of the Code of Criminal Procedure also provide for destruction of property in certain circumstances by order of a Magistrate. In such a case, the owner is deprived of the property but is not entitled to any compensation and the action of the Magistrate would be protected under Art. 31 (1), for the deprivation is by authority of law. 1953 Raj L W 144 : ILR (1952) 2 Raj 951 : AIR 1953 Raj 78 (81, 82) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 14) (DB).

3 (b). Authority of law.

See also Ibid, Note 5 (a).

● ——Art. 31 — Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules (1957), R. 12 (4)—Constitutional validity — As all the attacks on the validity of R. 12 (4) fail, the further attack on the Rule on the basis of Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution also necessarily fails for, whatever deprivation of property may result from R. 12 (4) would be by authority of law, the law being R. 12 (4). See Ibid, Art. 309. A I R 1963 S C 687.

● ——Arts. 31 (1) and 20 — 'By authority of law' — Difference between this expression and expression 'law in force at the time' used in Art. 20 (1) — Notification issued under prior invalid Act — Its validation by subsequent valid Act — Subsequent Act containing provisions operating retrospectively — Subsequent Act satisfies provision of Art. 31 (1).

The Madras Electricity Supply Undertakings (Acquisition) Act (29 of 1954) is retrospective in operation and S. 24 thereof has been enacted for the purpose of retrospectively validating actions taken under the provisions of the earlier invalid Madras Electricity Supply Undertakings (Acquisition) Act (43 of 1949). It, therefore, follows by the very retrospective operation of the relevant provisions that at the time when the notification under the prior invalid Act was issued, these provisions of the Act of 1954 were in existence. The expression 'law in force' is used in both the parts of Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution. It indicates that even if a criminal law is enacted by any Legislature retrospectively, its retrospective operation will be controlled by Art. 20 (1). A "law in force at the time" postulates actual factual existence of the law at the relevant time and that excludes the retrospective application of any subsequent law. Article 31 (1), on the other hand does not use the expression 'law in force at the time'; it merely says 'by authority of law' and so, if a subsequent law passed by the Legislature is retrospective in its operation, it would satisfy the requirement of Art. 31 (1) and would validate the notification issued under the prior Act. Hence, it is not correct to contend that the said notification is invalid for the reason that at the time when it was issued there was no law by whose authority it could be sustained. West Ramnad Electric Distribution Co., Ltd. v. State of Madras, (1964) 1 S C J 484 : (1964) 1 Mad L J (S C) 126 : (1964) 1 Andh W R (S C) 126 : (1963) 2 S C R 747 : (1963) 2 S C A 422 : A I R 1962 S C 1753 (1759, 1760) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 14).

● ——Art. 31 (1)—Scope—If deals with police power.

Article 31 (1) does not deal with police power. The plain meaning of the clear words used in Art. 31 (1) enables the State to discharge its functions in the interest of social and public welfare which the State in America can do in exercise of police power. The limitation on the power of the State to make a law depriving a person of his property is found in the word 'law'. The law made can be sustained only if it imposes reasonable restrictions in the interest of the general public. Kochuni v. States of Madras and Kerala. 1960 Ker L J 1077 : A I R 1960 S C 1080 : 1960 Ker L T (S C) 31 : (1960) 2 S C A 412 : (1960) 3 S C R 887 : (1961) 2 S C J 443 : A I R 1960 S C 1080 (1095) (Pt H) (Pr 30).

● ——Arts. 31 (1), 13 (2), 19 (1) (f), (5)—Scope—Law depriving person of his property—Validity—Law depriving person of fundamental right—Validity.

Under Art. 31 (1) a person cannot be deprived of his property save by authority of law. The law must be a valid law. Under Art. 13 (2) a law depriving a person of his property cannot take away or abridge the right conferred by Part III of the Constitution. Thus the law depriving a person of his property will be invalid if it infringes Art. 19 (1) (f) unless it imposes a reasonable restriction on the person's fundamental right. The State can establish that a law, though it purports to deprive a person of his fundamental right, under certain circumstances amounts to a reasonable restriction within the meaning of Art. 19 (5). A I R 1960 S C 430 and A I R 1959 S C 648 and AIR 1959 S C 149, Rel. on. Kochuni v. States of Madras and Kerala, 1930 Ker L J 1077 : (1960) 2 S C A 412 : 1960 Ker L T (S C) 31 : (1960) 3 S C R 887 : (1961) 2 S C J 443 : AIR 1960 S C 1080 (1091, 1092, 1096, 1097) (Pt J) (Prs 24, 32, 33).

● ——Art. 31, Cl. 9 (a) — Cancellation of licence on ground that it has been obtained by fraud—It is reasonable restriction—No infringement of fundamental right the cancellation being under a valid law. See Imports Control Order (1955), Cl. 9 (a). A I R 1960 S C 415.

● ——Art 31—U. P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act (24 of 1953)—Notification under—Notifications dated 27-9-1954 and 9-11-1955—Act and notifications do not infringe fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and Art. 31—None of the petitioners is being deprived of his property, if any, save by authority of law. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1956 S C 676.

——Art. 31—Illegal seizure of goods in possession of petitioner in India, under no authority of law, at instance of Jammu and Kashmir Police—Infringement of fundamental rights—Writ under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1954 S C 415.

——Art. 31 — Deprivation of property of insolvent under S. 28 (2) of the Provincial Insolvency Act—Not hit by Art. 31, Constitution of India—S. 28 (2) does not contravene Art. 31 Cl. (1) in as much as the vesting of the property is due to duly enacted piece of legislation and as such supported by authority of law. See Provincial Insolvency Act (1920), S. 28 (2). AIR 1962 All 256 (DB).

——Art. 31 — S. 3, Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers, Act, 1946 declared as constitutional by Supreme Court—It is a declaration of "law" binding on High Court—High Court cannot enter into question of validity of S. 3 (4), even on grounds not alleged before Supreme Court. See Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3 (4). AIR 1955 N U C (All) 3594.

——Arts. 31 (1), 265, 300 — Seizure of goods by Revenue Officer, beyond his authority—Seizure is illegal and not only irregular—Person from whose custody goods are seized is wrongfully deprived of the property, without authority of law - State is not immune in respect of such acts of its subordinates. See Ibid, Art. 300. AIR 1966 Bom 134.

——Art. 31 (1) — Restrictions under S. 31A, on landlord's right to property are imposed under the law and the provision is valid under Art. 31 (1) and 31A (1) (a)—Tenancy Laws — Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (67 of 1948), as Amended by Act (13 of 1956), S. 31-A. 59 Bom L R 616 : AIR 1957 Bom 252 (263) (Pt E) (Pr 31) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1959 S C 459.]

——Arts. 31 (1) and 31 (2) — Authority of law — Meaning—See West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (2 of 1948). AIR 1963 Cal 373.

——Art. 31 (1)—Infringement of fundamental right.

A purchasing a State house from Government—Government reserving right to repurchase it by specific term in sale deed — Notice by Deputy Commissioner asking A to vacate house within a month—A admitted to be in proprietary possession—Action by Deputy Commissioner amounts to deprivation of A by the State of his property not by authority of law and thus constitutes breach of Art. 31 (1). AIR 1931 P C 248, Rel. on. AIR 1953 Him Pra 57 (58) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 31 (1)—Law, meaning of.

The word "law" in Art. 31 is equivalent to State-made law but that law must also be a valid law. AIR 1950 S C 27, Rel. on. Mahbub Begum v. Hyderabad State, AIR 1951 Hyd 1 (10) (Pt F) (Pr 21) (FB).

● — Art. 31—Regulating relations between landlord and tenant—J. & K. Tenancy Act (2 of 1980)—Constitutional validity—Deprivation of property by authority of law. See Tenancy Laws—J. & K. Tenancy Act (2 of 1980) (as amended by Act 12 of 1955), S. 15-A. AIR 1959 J & K 35 (FB).

——Art. 31—'Law' and 'authority of law' — Meaning of.

The expression 'authority of law' in Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution means the permission under the law to do a thing and 'law' means 'State made law'. When Art. 31 (1) says 'authority of law', all that the statute should prescribe is an enabling power leaving it open to the parties concerned neither of which may necessarily be the State, to make their own arrangements by way of contract, or a set of rules or conditions by one, which are accepted by the other party.

When a grant of uncultivated forest land called the pagras tenancy is made by the Government under S. 53 (d), Bhopal Land Revenue and Tenancy Act, and the Government cancels the patta for breach of conditions in the grant and effects its right of re-entry without going to a civil Court, there is no denial of the fundamental right of the grantee under Art. 31 (1) as the action taken by the Government is under 'authority of law' as contemplated by Art. 31 (1). 1961 M P L J 138 : 1960 M P C 570 : 1960 Jab L J 1028 : AIR 1960 Madh Pra 282 (286) (Pt C) (Pr 14).

——Art. 31 (1)—"By authority of law" — Meaning—'By authority of law" means by authority of statute law (obiter). AIR 1950 S C 27, Ref. (1951) 2 F J R 229 : 64 Mad L W 851 : 1951-2 Mad L J 382 : AIR 1951 Mad 974 (977, 978) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 31 (1)—Object of.

The first clause in Art. 31 is meant to guard against taking away one's property arbitrarily or by executive action. There must be legal sanction for every act of deprivation. ILR (1956) Nag 264 : 1955 Nag L J 668: AIR 1956 Nag 50 (52) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 31 (1)—Validity — Cl. 8 (c) does not violate Art. 31 (1) — Houses and Rents — C. P. and Berar House Rent Control Order 1947, Cl. 8 (c).

If what the landlord suffers under the provisions of cl. 8 (c), C. P. and Berar House Rent Control Order is deprivation of property, it is in accordance with law, viz., Cl. 8 (c). A law of this kind is not invalid. AIR 1951 S C 41 and M P No. 29 of 1951, Foll. 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 59 (DB).

——Art. 31 — Entry in Appendix IV, East Punjab Land Resettlement Manual has no force of law. (1965) 67 Pun L R 867.

——Art. 31 (1)—Deprivation of proprietary rights in land by State — State unable to justify its action on the authority of any law — Its orders are liable to be struck down without going any further into the matter. 67 Pun L R 867 : 1965 Cur L J 673.

——Art. 31—Vesting of land which takes place under Land Acquisition Act — Necessity of possession — Order of possession passed by Ruler of Mewar after Constitution of Mewar had come into force — Effect on rights of subjects—The rights of the plaintiff over property in dispute could not be taken away without due process of law and mere executive order of the Rulers could not amount to due process of law. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6. AIR 1957 Raj 59 (DB).

——Art. 31 (1)— Deprivation of property by executive order.

The making of a grant is a sovereign act of the ruler. The grant can only be revoked by a sovereign act of the successor to that ruler. The terms of the grant could not be varied by an act of the executive Government unless it was authorized under any law. The order of the Vindhya Pradesh Government, dated 27th June 1949, was not passed under any law but was purely an executive order.

When a power is conferred and the mode of exercising it is prescribed, it can only be exercised in the prescribed manner.

It is the rule in every civilised country that no one can be deprived of his property save by authority of law. It was the rule in this country before the present constitution came into force. The State having wrongfully sold the tendu leaves belonging to the plaintiffs the latter were entitled to recover damages. They were also entitled to a declaration that they had the rights to manage their forests and the interference on behalf of the State was illegal and for a permanent injunction restraining the latter from trespassing on their right in this manner.

The deduction of 25 per cent. of the sale price by way of expenses was not justifiable. The State was not managing the forests of the plaintiffs. They were themselves managing them. The State had only sold the tendu leaves growing in them and collected the sale price. The question was not what the State actually spent in doing this but what the plaintiffs would have spent if they had done it themselves. The plaintiffs must be maintaining their staff in order to keep watch over their forests. For it was they who must be seeing to it that no one steals anything from them. If they had themselves sold the leaves, they would have incurred expenditure only in publishing the sale, and in conducting it. To meet that expense 1 per cent. of the sale-money would be ample. For they already had the necessary paid staff with them to do this work. A I R 1936 P C 253 (2), Foll.; AIR 1952 Vind Pra 13, Dissented from. A I R 1955 Vin Pra 19 (20, 21) (Pt C) (Prs 5, 7).

——Art. 31 — Seizure of goods without authority of law. It amounts to infringement of the owner's fundamental rights both under Art. 19 and Art. 31. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1955 Vind Pra 17.

——Arts. 31 and 226 — V. P. Government Revenue Department Order No. 115, dated 8-4-53/22-4-53 held without jurisdiction — Executive Order depriving property rights of petitioner without adequate reasons held not justified — Tenancy Laws — (Rewa Land Revenue and Tenancy Code (1935), Ss. 305, 322 and 325). AIR 1955 (N U C) Vind Pra 767.

——Art. 31—Realization of dues under Ordinance (57 of 1949).

The procedure by which the debtors of the Bank of Baghelkhand are likely to be deprived of their property under S. 3 of the Ordinance 57 of 1949 is in accordance with law, that is enacted law—they being the Ordinance and Rewa State Demand Rules of 1936. AIR 1951 Vind Pra 11 (13) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

3 (c). Protection only against State action.

● ——Arts. 31 and 32—Petition challenging constitutionality of Madras Act 32 of 1955 on ground of infringement of fundamental rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 (1) — Dispute held not to be of private nature—Petition maintainable. See Ibid, Art. 32. AIR 1959 S C 725.

● ——Art. 31 (1) — Does not provide protection against private actions. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1952 S C 59.

——Arts. 31 and 19 — Dispute between two individuals regarding their respective civil rights and not between State and an individual — No question of invasion of fundamental rights. 23 Cut L T 403 : I L R (1957) Cut 501 : A I R 1958 Orissa 15 (17) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

3 (d). Deprivation.

——Art. 31—'Deprived of his property.'

Even when a person has been deprived only of his right to possess and enjoy property, it amounts to deprivation of property within Art. 31 though he continues to be the owner of the same. A I R 1954 Ajmer 3 (1) (3) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 31 (as it stood prior to its amendment in 1955)—Law regulating relationship of creditors and ex-zamindars — U. P. Zamindars Debt Reduction Act (15 of 1953), Ss. 3, 4, 7 and 9 — Provisions do not amount to deprivation as contemplated by Art. 31 and do not violate that article. A I R 1960 S C 1080, Rel. on.; A I R 1953 Nag 40 and A I R 1956 Trav Co 19 (FB) and A I R 1958 Pat 442, Disting. A I R 1962 All 521 (530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 537, 541) (Pt C) (Prs 26, 27, 28, 35, 37, 38, 46, 62, 63, 65, 68, 80) (DB).

——Art. 31—Andhra Inams (Assessment) Act, 1955—Validity—There is no deprivation of property — Nor is there resumption of inam. The Andhra Inams (Assessment) Act cannot be assailed on the ground that there has been a virtual deprivation of property by reason of the levy of full assessment under the Act. See Andhra Inams (Assessment) Act (17 of 1955) S. 3. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 461 (DB).

——Art. 31 (1) and (2) — S. 84-C, Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act—Validity.

Section 84-C, Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act, does not deal with acquisition of property for a public purpose and, therefore, it is not violative of Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution.

Section 84-C in so far as it refers to the forfeiture of the land to the Government by reason of the sale being declared invalid is constitutional and can be sustained under Art. 31 (1). Under Art. 31 (1) it is open to a Legislature to make a law whereunder a person may be deprived of his property. Such deprivation, of course, may be in the exercise of the police power or may be for the purpose of taxation or penalty. The same, however, cannot be said with regard to another provision of S. 84-C which is to the effect that the purchase price received by the occupant of the land shall be forfeited to the Government and will be recoverable as an arrear of land revenue. 61 Bom L R 1276 : I L R (1960) Bom 188 : AIR 1960 Rom 459 (460) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 31—Saurashtra Land Reforms Act, S. 39—Validity — No deprivation of property as such — Section is not ultra vires as contravening Art. 31. See Tenancy Laws—Saurashtra Land Reforms Act (25 of 1951), S. 39. AIR 1959 Bom 43 (DB).

——Art. 31—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178A — Section is valid. Article 31 relates to deprivation of property of a person. On the language of S. 178A it has no relation to the question of deprivation of property. ILR (1959) Bom 1771.

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1962 S C 1559.]

——Art. 31—Deprivation must be direct.

Before a person can complain of deprivation and can urge that the deprivation is illegal because it is without compensation, the deprivation must be direct and not an indirect or incidental consequence of legislation. ILR (1955) Bom 870 : 57 Bom L R 892 : AIR 1956 Bom 21 (25) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 31—Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act (22 of 1939) does not violate Art. 31.

The Bombay Agricultural Produce Markets Act (22 of 1939) cannot be challenged on the ground that it violates Art. 31 as there is no deprivation of property within the meaning of that Article. ILR (1955) Bom 870 : 57 Bom L R 892 : A I R 1956 Bom 21 (25) (Pt I) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 31 (1)—"Deprivation of property"—If same as acquiring or taking possession under Art. 31 (2).

The "deprivation of property" prohibited by Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution does not mean the same thing as "acquisition" or 'taking' 'possession' used in Art. 31 (2). It is wider in its signification than "acquisition" or taking "possession". ILR (1951) Bom 473: 53 Bom L R 218 : A I R 1951 Bom 86 (92) (Pt H) (Pr 9) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 119.]

——Art. 31— C. P. and Berar Prohibition Act (7 of 1938), S. 24—Deprivation of property under Act— It is limited to persons who have committed an offence under the Act and no other. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 299. 1957 Nag L J 120 (Bom).

——Art. 31 (1)—The principle had been enshrined as the "fundamental right" of a person, in two articles, namely Art. 21, relating to life and personal liberty and Art. 31 (1), relating to property. No logic was required to assert that confiscation of goods seized from possession of a person was deprivation of his property within the meaning of Art. 31 (1). AIR 1956 S C 17 and AIR 1954 S C 415, Rel. on. 68 Cal W N 383 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 477 : AIR 1965 Cal 507 (515) (Pr 38) (DB).

——Art. 31—Civil Motor Transport Vehicles Control Order (1944), Cl. 5—Owner of motor vehicle directed by Government to deliver his vehicle to dealer — Government is liable to pay price as the effect of the order is to deprive the owner of the bus of his property for an indefinite period. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 299. AIR 1956 Cal 87.

——Art. 31— Licence to use loud-speaker refused — Petitioner using loud-speaker—Seizure of microphone —No deprivation —Art. 31 of the Constitution is not violated. See Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951), S. 33 (1) (r) (iii). (1963) 2 Cr L J 502 : AIR 1963 Guj 259 (DB).

——Art. 31—Right of office not a fundamental right —Removal does not amount to deprivation. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1957 Him Pra 49.

——Art. 31 (1) — Auction of trees in Government forest—Default in payment of price—Deficit on resale —Recovery of balance as arrears of land revenue — No deprivation of property—Art. 31 (1) is not attracted. See Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 54 (4). A I R 1957 Him. Pra 1.

——Art. 31 — Applicability — Ss. 48 to 51, Kerala Forest Act (4 of 1962) — Validity — Provisions contravene Arts. 19 (1) (f) and (g) and 31—Total deprivation of the rights of persons who carry on business in timber —Entire group of the sections has to be struck down as unconstitutional —Provisions are void so far as private forests and their owners in the Malabar area of Kerala State are concerned. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1964 Ker 287.

——Art. 31—Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (16 of 1959), Ss. 4 (3), 4 (4)—Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 of Constitution are not offended. — There is no deprivation of property. See Houses and Rents—Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (16 of 1959), S. 4 (3). 1960 Ker L T 456.

——Art. 31—Tenancy Laws — Madras City Tenants Protection (Amendment) Act (13 of 1960), S. 9— Validity —Does not violate Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31—Deprivation of statutory right from a subject cannot be said to amount to taking property or deprivation of property. See Tenancy Laws — Madras City Tenants Protection (Amendment) Act (13 of 1960), S. 9. ILR (1961) Mad 976.

——Art. 31—Madras Aliyasanthana Act (9 of 1949), Ss. 35 and 36 —Partition of Kutumba property — If 'deprivation'.

There is no reason to hold that a partition of the property of an Aliyasanthana Kutumba on any other basis than per capita would be deprivation of the right of property vested in the members within the meaning of Art. 31 of the Constitution of India. ILR (1956) Mad 785 : AIR 1956 Mad 642(656) (Pt K) (Pr 50) (DB).

——Art. 31—Deprivation of property.

The Madras Aliyasanthana Act, 1949, is in the language of American Constitutional law an exercise of Police Power —A power to regulate and determine the internal relationships that should subsist between the members of the family and one passed to secure the contentment and well being of the community. The deprivation of property referred to in Art. 31 has nothing to do with the so-called impairment of rights involved in a partition or with the allotment of shares to the divided groups. ILR (1956) Mad 785 : A I R 1956 Mad 642 (657, 658) (Pt N) (Pr 55) (DB).

——Art. 31 (1)—"Deprived".

It is to be seen in every case whether there has been deprivation in substance. A I R 1954 S C 119, Foll. AIR 1955 Manipur 49 (54) (Pt D) (Pr 19).

——Art. 31—Occupant's right to enjoy property — Reasonable restriction of — No deprivation — See Tenancy Laws — Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act (34 of 1951), S. 3. AIR 1955 (N U C) Nag 3959.

——Art. 31 (1), 13 (2)—Forfeiture under S. 7 (1) (b) of Essential Commodities Act (1955)—If punishment —Does not contravene Art. 13 (2) — Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 7.

The punishment for contravention of an order referred to in S. 7 of Essential Commodities Act is imprisonment and fine and also forfeiture of the property in respect of which the order has been contravened. Hence provision for forfeiture of foodgrains in S. 7 (1) (b) cannot be held to violate Art. 13 (2) on the ground that it is not by way of punishment but by way of deprivation of property within the meaning of Art. 31 (1). 1964 B L J R 638.

——Art. 31 (1)—Applicability—Employer's contribution to employees' provident fund — Demand for—Effect of—(Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 6).

An order for an employer to contribute one anna in the rupee of his employee's wages to a provident fund to which the employee also has to contribute the same amount out of his wages does not amount to deprivation of property such as was contemplated when Art. 31 was drawn up. A I R 1958 Punj 177 (179) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 31 (1)— "Deprived of his property.".

To force a mill-owner to work the mills with the result that he would be made to suffer losses amounts to depriving him of property. I L R (1953) 3 Raj 363 : 1953 Raj L W 569 : A I R 1953 Raj 188 (191) (Pt D) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Impliedly overruled on another point in A I R 1963 S C 1811].

——Art. 31 (1)—Object of Industrial Disputes Act is to harmonise the relations between the employer and employees and it is not contemplated by the Act that the employer or employees should be deprived of their property. 1953 Raj L W 569 : ILR (1953) 3 Raj 363 : AIR 1953 Raj 188 (191) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Impliedly overruled on another point in A I R 1963 S C 1811].

——Art. 31 (1)—Deprivation —Person may be deprived of property even if he still remains owner of it.

A person may be deprived of his property even though he may not have been deprived of all the rights that he has in that property. A person would be deprived of the possession of his property, even if he still remains the owner of it, if he has no control over it. The result, therefore, of the State assuming control is that the undertaking is going to be worked in the future by the State and the owner will have no voice in the management and if any loss is incurred, the State will hold the owner responsible for it. Thus the owner is deprived of effective possession as well as right of management and is attempted to be saddled with the liability that if any loss is incurred in running the undertaking, he will make it good. 68 C L R 261, Rel. on. ILR (1952) 2 Raj 951 : 1953 Raj L W 144 : AIR 1953 Raj 78 (82, 83) (Pt D) (Pr 17) (DB).

3 (e). Who can enforce right.

■ ——Art. 31 (1)—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 52-A—Foreign company whose vessel has been confiscated not entitled to challenge validity of S. 52A as being ultra vires Arts. 14, 19 and 31 (1). See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 52 A. 1964 (2) Cri L J 234 : A I R 1964 S C 1140.

■ ——Art. 31(1)—Infringement of fundamental rights —Who can apply under Art. 226—Title to hold property in dispute and subject of adjudication — Complaint about infringement of right to hold property is premature. See Ibid, Art. 226. AIR 1963 S C 516.

——Art. 31 — Person who can complain — (Iron and Steel Companies Amalgamation Ordinance (8 of 1952)) — (Iron and Steel Companies Amalgamation Act, 89 of 1953).

Neither the Iron and Steel Companies Amalgamation Ordinance nor the Iron and Steel Companies Amalgamation Act deprives the Iron and Steel Company of any of its under-takings or its assets or acquires its properties. If at all they do so it is Bengal Steel Corporation that suffers and hence only that company or its share-holders can complain about the legislation and not the Iron and Steel Company or its share-holders. A I R 1953 Cal 695 (698) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 31 and 226—Retrospective operation—Acquisition proceedings started before Constitution — Attempt to take possession after Constitution.

Where the acquisition proceedings in respect of the factory of the petitioner were commenced before the Constitution, but an attempt to take possession of the factory was still being made after the Constitution came into force:

Held, that it was futile to contend that the application of the petitioner could not be entertained and that he was not legitimately entitled to challenge the attempt to dispossess him in contravention of the provisions of Art. 31 by praying for the issue of an appropriate writ under Art. 226 I L R (1955) Hyd 494: AIR 1955 Hyd 203 (207) (Pt C) (Pr 18) (DB).

3 (f). Duty of Court.

——Art. 31 (1)—Exercise of power under — Duty of Court.

The power given to the State under Art. 31 (1) is a very drastic power, but it is a power which it is necessary to confer upon any State, and the State must be armed with such a power to be exercised wisely and under circumstances where its exercise would be absolutely necessary. On the other hand, the Court must also be careful to see that any deprivation of property by the State is not too easily put in the category of deprivation referred to in Art. 31 (1) so as to entitle the State to take possession of the property of the subject without the very salutary limitations laid down upon its power under Art. 31 (2). 53 Bom L R 218, Rel. on. 53 Bom L R 621: I L R (1952) Bom 378: AIR 1951 Bom 440 (449) (Pt II) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 31 (1)—Scope—Duty of State — Interference by executive with citizen's property rights—Deprivation against will and without recourse to or authority of law—Violation of rights—Duty of High Court to remedy wrong by writ of certiorari or direction See Ibid, Art. 226. 1952 Cri L J 340.: AIR 1952 Hyd 36 (DB).

3 (g). "Person".

■ ——Art. 31—Coal Bearing Areas (Acquisition and Development) Act (1957), Ss. 4, 7 — Acquisition of coal-bearing areas vested in State by Union — Provisions are not ultra vires.

By Cl. (2) of Art. 31 property is protected against compulsory acquisition or requisition. The clause grants protection in terms of widest amplitude against compulsory acquisition or requisition of property and there is nothing in the Article which indicates that the property protected is to be of individuals or corporations. Even the expression 'person' which is used in Cl. (1), is not used in Cls. (2) and (2A) and the context does not warrant the interpretation that the protection is not to be available against acquisition of State property. See Coal Bearing Areas (Acquisition and Development) Act (1957), S. 4. A I R 1963 S C 1241.

● ——Art. 31—Article 31 protects every person whether such person is a citizen or not and it is wide enough to cover a natural person as well as an artificial person. Charanjit Lal Choudhury v. Union of India, 64 Mad L W 47 : 1951 S C J 29 : 1951 Mad W N 111 : 1950 S C R 869 : 53 Bom L R 499 : I L R (1951) Hyd 461 : AIR 1951 S C 41 (52) (Pr 42).

——Art. 31—Person—Whether includes deity.

A Hindu deity is juridical person capable of owning and possessing property and hence the deity will also come within the ambit of Art. 31. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1960 Manipur 20.

4. "Eminent Domain".

● ——Art. 31 (2) and (4)—Legislation for acquisition of property — Limitations — Doctrine of eminent domain in American law—Applicability.

The State has no power to take possession of or to acquire property save for public purpose, and the limitation on the State's power is to be found in Art. 31 (2) and not elsewhere.

It is not to be found in Art. 19 (1) (f), for the right to property guaranteed by that clause ceases when the owner is deprived of his property by its compulsory acquisition under Art 31. AIR 1950 S C 88, Foll. The doctrine of 'eminent domain' in American law can find no place in States the Legislatures of which are either absolute in their powers, as is the British Parliament, or in which the legislatures, though limited in their powers, have been given express power to make laws on the subject of the acquisition of property.

Whether the restrictions placed by Art. 31 (2), on the State's power of acquisition are described as limitations or conditions, and whether they be express or implied, they are none the less provisions of Cl. (2) and are, therefore, in cases to which the Cl. (4) of Art. 31 applies, not to be called in question in any Court. 1950 S C R 869, Foll. Raja Surya Palsingh v. U. P. Government, I L R (1952) 2 All 46: 1951 All L J 365 : 1951 R D (HC) 122 : 1951 All W R (HC) 317 : A I R 1951 All 674 (680, 681) (Pt J) (Prs 27, 28, 29) (FB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Eminent domain — Requisition—Applicability of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5) to requisition under Bombay Land Acquisition Act—Requisition is included within the term acquisition in Art. 31 (2) and the power that is exercised under the Bombay Land Acquisition Act is under the sphere of eminent domain and the Act does not provide for the exercise of this power without fulfilling the condition of Art. 31 (2). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1955 Bom 271.

——Art. 31—Requisitioning of premises for Government servant—No choice of accommodation—Public purpose—Necessity of—Doctrine of eminent domain. See Houses and Rents—West Bengal Premises Requisition and Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (5 of 1947), S. 3 (1). ('61) 65 Cal W N 794.

——Art. 31—Power of eminent domain—Exercise of, under Land Acquisition Act. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 4. ('64) 77 Mad L W 537.

——Arts. 31, 19—Khasmahal lease — Determination of lease by Government as per terms of lease—Lessor exercises rights under Art. 19, and Art. 31 has no application—AIR 1956 Cal 437, Rel. on. Clause providing for compulsory acquisition without compensation for extinction of leasehold interest held not unconstitutional — Government acting as a private lessor and not in exercise of powers of eminent domain—Fundamental rights not contravened.

Held, on facts that once in accordance with the terms of the lease the lessor determined the lease by a valid notice, the leasehold interest was extinguished and there could be no question of any subsisting interest remaining with the lessees so as to require Government to pay compensation for the acquisition of that interest. By determining the lease and thereby extinguishing the lease-hold interest of the lessees, Government were acting merely as the lessor in accordance with the terms of the lease and not as Government exercising their powers of eminent domain. Hence the question of contravening the fundamental rights did not arise. 28 Cut L T 209 : I L R (1962) Cut 27.

——Art. 31—Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act—Validity.

Under the Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act, the Board does not take possession of the endowed properties; it does not perform any act of management with reference to the endowed properties. The Board merely exercises the power of superintendence as provided in S. 28 (1) of the Act. There is no acquisition or requisition of property right within the meaning of Art. 31. In other words, the impugned Act is legislation made in exercise of the police power and not in exercise of the right of eminent domain. 32 Pat 1148 : A I R 1954 Pat 266 (272) (Pt F) (Pr 11) (DB).

5. Clause (2)—General.

(a) Authority of law.
See also Ibid, Note 3 (b).

(b) Constitutional validity of enactments.

(c) Comparison with S. 299 of Government of India Act (1935).

(d) Clause (2)—Before Fourth Amendment of 1955.

(e) Clauses (2) and (5) — Combined effect — See Ibid, Note 17.

5. Clause (2)—General.

● ——Art. 31—Shamilat deh and abadi deh in village—Transfer of shamilat deh to village panchayat—Conferment of proprietary rights on non-proprietors in respect of lands, in abadi deh — Such transfer and conferment are valid. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1965 S C 632.

——Art. 31 (2) (as amended by Constitution Fourth Amendment Act)—Scope.

The amended Article has now made it clear that mere deprivation of property would not amount to acquisition within the meaning of the word as used in Art. 31 (2) unless the deprivation is accompanied or followed by acquisition of the property by the State. ILR (1958) 1 All 109 : AIR 1957 All 136 (141) (Pt C) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art 31 (2) (as amended by Constitution Fourth Amendment Act)—Retrospective effect.

The Constitution Fourth Amendment Act has not been given retrospective operation and, that being the position, the right of the parties for the period before the amendment would be governed by the unamended Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. ILR (1958) 1 All 109 : AIR 1957 All 136 (141) (Pt D) (Pr 30) (DB).

● ——Art. 31 (2), Sch. 7, List II, Entry 36—"Subject to provisions of Entry 42 of List III"—Meaning.

Reading the entries 33 in List I, 36 in List II and 42 in List III together, the words "subject to the provisions of entry 42 in List III" in Entry 36 of List II mean only that when a State acquires property then the principles on which compensation is to be determined may be fixed either by the State Legislature or by the Union. They have nothing to do wtth legislative competence. The provisions of Art. 31 (2) are not fetters to legislative competence but are conditions of legislative effectiveness. Raja Surya Palsingh v. U. P. Government, 1951 All L J 365 : 1951 R D

(HC) 122: 1951 All W R (HC) 317: ILR (1952) 2 All 46 : AIR 1951 All 674 (678) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (FB).

● —Art. 31 (2) and (4)—Limitations on acquisition of property—Calling in question in Court.

Article 31 (2) prescribes the limits within which the rights of the State should be exercised. Whether the restrictions placed by that clause on the State's power of acquisition are described as limitations or conditions, and whether they be express or implied they are none the less provisions of Cl. (2) and are therefore, in cases to which Cl. (4) of the Article applies, not to be called in question in any Court. Raja Suryapal Singh v. Government of Uttar Pradesh, 1951 A W R (H C) 317 : ILR (1952) 2 All 46 : 1951 ALJ 365 : A I R 1951 All 674 (680, 681) (Pt J) (Prs 27, 28, 29) (FB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Scope of.

Although Art. 31 (2) does not in terms state that acquisition or taking possession of, can only be for public purposes, reading that clause as a whole it is clear that it is implicit in the power conferred upon the Legislature to legislate for the purposes of acquisition or taking possession of property. It is also necessary that the property referred to in Art. 31 (2) must be property which is capable of being acquired or taken possession of. However wide the definition of "property" in general may be, in this particular context 'property" can only mean that kind of property which is capable of being acquired or taken possession of. Further, it also follows as a corollary that if the property is capable of being acquired or taken possession of, it is also property, the loss of which can be compensated for. 53 Bom L R 218 : ILR (1951) Bom 473 : AIR 1951 Bom 86 (90, 91) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 119.]

——Art. 31 (2)—Scope—Right to enter forest and cut trees in future—Nature of —Grantee is intermediary—His interests vest in Government — Compensation not provided—Article 31A will apply and the Court will be powerless to intervene—Effect. See Tenancy Laws —West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act, 1953 (1 of 1954), S. 5 (aa). AIR 1959 Cal 316.

——Art. 31 (2)—Article covers cases of both requisition and acquisition. AIR 1953 Cal 223 (225) (Ft A) (Pr 6).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1954 Cal 171].

——Arts. 31 (2) and 226—Proceedings for acquisition neither in conformity with provisions of Hyderabad Sanitary Powers A'in nor in accordance with Land Acquisition Act — Issue of writs of certiorari and prohibition—(Hyderabad Sanitary Powers A'in (5 of 1352-F), S. 150)—Land Acquisition Act (1894), Ss. 6 and 50)—(Hyderabad Land Acquisition Act, Ss. 5 and 35).

When statutory rights abridging the right of ownership to property have been conferred upon the Government, the conditions prescribed by the statute for the exercise of such rights must be strictly fulfilled. If this is not done Courts will afford relief to persons who are aggrieved by the non-compliance or nominal compliance with the provisions of the statute.

Where it is admitted that while the acquisition proceedings had been taken and some portion of the land was taken possession of, there was no "regional or town plan or local lay-out" sanctioned by the Government, the entire proceedings taken for the said acquisition are not in conformity with the A'in and suffer from a patent want of jurisdiction. If the land was not being acquired for the purposes of regional or town plan or local lay-out under the Hyderabad Sanitary Powers A'in a declaration under s. 5 would become necessary. If the land has to be acquired for the purpose of a company, the provisions of Chap. 7 should be followed. If this is not done, the proceedings for the acquisition are neither in conformity with the provisions of Hyderabad Sanitary Powers A'in, nor in accordance with the Land Acquisition Act and are hence invalid and of no effect and the Court will direct the issue of writs of certiorari and prohibition quashing the proceedings. ILR (1955) Hyd 494 : AIR 1955 Hyd 203 (207, 208) (Pt E) (Prs 21, 24, 25) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Madras Aliyasanthana Act (9 of 1949), S. 35—Deprivation of property.

The Madras Aliyasanthana Act, 1949, though a pre-Constitution law is not saved from the operation of Art. 31 (2), because it was enacted not more than 18 months before 26th January, 1950 and it was not submitted to the President for certification under Cl. (6) of that Article. Consequently the enactment is subject to the provisions of Art. 31. For the applicability of Art. 31, there need be no acquisition by the State in order to constitute a 'taking' within Art. 31 (2); if the right to property or its enjoyment were substantially interfered with by legislation, there will be a 'deprivation' of property, and when this is compassed without provision for fair compensation for the interest 'taken', as thus understood, there will be a violation of Art. 31 (2). AIR 1954 S C 119 and A I R 1954 S C 92, Rel. on. ILR (1956) Mad 785 : AIR 1956 Mad 642 (653, 657, 658) (Pt H) (Prs 37, 55) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Scope.

The relevancy of the provisions of Art. 31 (2) is confined to a consideration of the validity of the enactment itself. When the Act itself is declared valid by the decision of the Supreme Court, a non-compliance with any of the provisions of an Act which is a valid Act, cannot render the Act itself invalid. A I R 1955 N U C (Mad) 2432 (DB).

——Arts. 31 and 226—Applicability—Acquisition of property for public purposes — Provisions of Land Acquisition Act not followed — Effect — Writ of certiorari granted.

Under Art. 31 the deprivation of the property of the petitioner by mere executive action without applying the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 or any other law relating to compensation had to be declared as in derogation of the fundamental right of the petitioner. The order of the Chief Comsioner had to be declared as passed without jurisdiction and the petittoner was entitled to a writ of certiorati quashing the said order. A I R 1960 Manipur 20 (24) (Pt A) (Prs 20, 21).

——Arts. 31, 245, Sch. 7, List 2 Entry 36 and List 3, Entry 42 — "Subject to the provisions of this Constitution" —Law referable essentially to Entry 36 —Law not satisfying provisions of Entry 42, List 3—Art. 31 (2) contravened — Legislature can still pass law — Where the law is referable essentially to entry No. 36 of List 2, a legislature has jurisdiction to pass a law even though it does not satisfy the provisions contained in entry No. 42 of List 3 and contravenes cl. (2) of Art. 31. A I R 1955 N U C (Nag) 1341.

——Arts. 31 (2), 19 (1) (f) and (5) — Restrictions placed on landlord's rights in sub-ss. (1) and (3) of S. 73-A of Berar Land Revenue Code —Reasonableness —Mere fact that by reason of the restrictions a landlord is precluded from exercising certain rights to property would not attract Art. 31 (2) — (Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), S. 73-A (1) and (3) (enacted by Berar Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act (10 of 1948)) See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1953 Nag 40.

——Art. 31—Private recognized High School—Supersession of Managing Committee by appointment of Ad Hoc Committee under R. 182, Bihar Education Code—No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31, Constitution of India. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1956 Pat 81.

——Arts. 31 (2) and 226 — Deprivation of fundamental rights to hold property—Laches in applying under Art. 226—Effect.

The Constitution requires that property can be acquired only for a public purpose. Similarly the Land Acquisition Act lays down that land can be acquired only for a public purpose. If the land has not been acquired for a public purpose then obviously the petitioners whose property has been acquired have a valid grievance inasmuch as they would be deprived of their fundamental right to hold their property. If a party cannot waive his fundamental right by an agreement then obviously mere laches in applying under Art. 226 will not deprive him of this right. 61 Punj L R 609 : I L R (1959) Punj 1665 : A I R 1959 Punj 544 (547) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition of property—Legality.

Where the law provides for outright acquisition of the property by the State and for the vesting of that property in the State, its legality has to be considered with reference to Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. A I R 1956 Sau 32 (34) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 31 — Foreign Exchange Regulation Act (1947), Ss. 8 (1) and 23-A — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 178 — Powers of Customs Officer to seize at air port goods believed to be smuggled — Such seizure does not infringe Art. 31.

Section 23 A, Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1947, shows that the restrictions imposed regarding gold under S. 8 (1) of that Act are deemed to have been imposed under S. 19, Sea Customs Act, and the Customs Officers are competent to exercise all the powers which have been conferred on them by Ss. 169, 173, 178, 181-A, etc. So a Customs Officer can on reasonable suspicion for the purpose of prevention of smuggling, search a person at an Air Port, and he can also seize any goods which he believes to be smuggled. Such seizure will not legally be deemed to infringe the fundamental rights under Art. 31 of the Constitution of India as this seizure will be deemed to be during the course of the exercise of the police power and not of the power of eminent domain or of taxation. A I R 1950 S C 27 and A I R 1951 S C 41, Rel. on. A I R 1956 Tripura 35 (39) (Pt A) (Pr 13).

5 (a). Authority of law.

See also Ibid, Note 3 (b).

——Art. 31 (2)—"Authority of Law"—Meaning. See West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (2 of 1948). A I R 1963 Cal 373.

——Art. 31 (2)—Fixing of compensation.

The 'Law' in a given case must be an Act read with the order promulgated under it. It cannot be said that the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946) read with West Bengal Food Grains (Intensive Procurement) Order (1952) does not fix compensation. I L R (1955) 1 Cal 401 : 57 C W N 397 : A I R 1953 Cal 548 (557, 558) (Pt J) (Pr 40).

——Art. 31 — The Word "Law in cls. (2) to (6) of Art. 31 means Statute Law." AIR 1954 Trav-Co 145.

5 (b). Constitutional validity of enactments.

● ——Art. 31 — Tibbia College Act (1952)—Validity of Act—Scope of the Act—Does not provide for compulsory acquisition of any property — Art. 31 (2) or Art. 31 (1) not applicable See Tibbia College Act (5 of 1952), S. 1. A I R 1962 S C 458.

● ——Art. 31 — Sugar Export Promotion Act (1958), Ss. 1, 6 — Validity of the Act — Does not infringe Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (1) (g) and 31 — Amounts to reasonable restriction. See Sugar Export Promotion Act (1958), S. 1. A I R 1959 S C 1124.

● ——Art. 31 (2) (as it stood prior to Fourth Amendment) — U. P. Act (5 of 1954), S. 29-B—S. 29-B, does not offend Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. See Tenancy Laws—U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (5 of 1954) (as amended by U. P. Act (16 of 1957), S. 6. A I R 1959 S C 564.

● ——Art. 31 (1) — Effect of Ss. 3 (1), 3 (2), (b), 5 (1) of Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act (1953)—Wages are transferred to Board — No substitution of creditors — Liability of employers continues — Provisions are invalid as they take away the property of the appellants in violation of either Art. 19 (1) (f) or Art. 31 (2)—(Limitation Act (1908), S. 28)—(Payment of Wages Act (1936), S. 15) — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 56, 65). See Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act (40 of 1953), S. 3 (1). A I R 1958 S C 328.

● ——Arts. 31 (1), 31 (2) and 19 (1) (f)—Ss. 3 (1) and 3 (2) (a) of Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act (1953) —Validity—No contravention of Art. 31 (2) as it cannot be said that there is any such substantial deprivation of property as would offend Art. 31 (2) — (Payment of Wages Act (1936), S. 8). See Bombay Labour Welfare Funds Act (40 of 1953), S. 3 (1). A I R 1958 S C 328.

● ——Art. 31 (2) — C. P. and Berar Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act—Constitutional validity cannot be challenged after Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955—(C. P. and Berar Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act, 1947 (3 of 1948)). See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1955 S C 781.

[Held overruled by A I R 1959 S C 648 as interpreted in AIR 1961 Mys 3.]

——Art. 31 (2) — S. 6 (1) and (3) of Land Acquisition Act (1894) — Validity—Provisions do not contravene Art. 31 (2). See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6. AIR 1958 All 872.

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 764.]

——Art. 31 (2) — Applicability to Employees' State Insurance Act (1948).

To determine the validity of Chapter V-A, the provisions of the entire Act have to be considered and the question has not to be determined with reference only to the additional amount, equivalent to a small percentage of the wage bill which the employer would have to pay. His wage bill having been increased only by a small amount, it cannot be said that Chapter 5-A or Chapter 4 cause such an abridgement in the rights of the proprietor in his factory as to fall under Art. 31 (1) and (2). The whole Act including Chapter 5-A falls outside the purview of Art. 31 and cannot be said to be inconsistent with the Article. I L R (1958) 1 All 109 : A I R 1957 All 130 (143) (Pt G) (Pr 43) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) and (5) (a) — U. P. Land Acquisition (Rehabilitation of Refugees) Act, S. 11 (1) — Proviso — Validity — Act contravenes Art. 31 (2) and is not saved by Art. 31 (5) (a). See U. P. Land Acquisition (Rehabilitation of Refugees) Act (26 of 1948), S. 11 (1). AIR 1955 All 12 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 14.]

——Art. 31 (2) — U. P. Private Forest Protection Act (6 of 1949) — Act does not offend Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution — Provisions of the Act do not amount either to a dispossession of owners or to acquisitions of property of private owners by State. See U. P. Private Forest Protection Act (6 of 1949). AIR 1954 All 753.

● ——Art. 31—Applicability — U. P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, S. 3 does not offend Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (2) of the Constitution. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 3. A I R 1954 All 538 (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 420.]

——Art. 31 — Employees' State Insurance Act (1948), Ss. 1 (3), 73 A—Validity — Levy of special contribution under S. 73-A does not result in any acquisition by the Government—Provisions are beyond the scope of Art. 31 (2). See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Assam 120 (DB).

——Arts. 31 (2), 31-A — Challenge on ground of public purpose—(Bombay Personal Income Abolition Act (42 of 1953)—Validity).

The two limitations upon the power of the State with regard to acquisition of property are to be found in Art. 31 (2) itself and the limitation of public purpose is not a limitation which is outside the article but is within the ambit of that article itself. Therefore it is a right conferred by a provision of Part 3 embodied in Art. 31 (2) that the property of a person cannot be acquired by the State unless it is for a public purpose and if that is a right guaranteed by Part 3, then it is open to the Legislature, if the legislation falls under Art. 31-A, to legislate with regard to acquisition of property and it is not open to the person affected by that legislation to challenge it on the ground that the acquisition is not for public purpose.

View of Patanjali Sastri C. J. and Das J. in A I R 1952 S C 252 and of Mukherjea J. in A I R 1951 S C 41, Foll. ILR (1955) Bom 127 : 56 Bom L R 1062 : AIR 1955 Bom 28 (32, 33) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Arts. 31 (2), 31-A — Challenge on ground of compensation — (Bombay Personal Inams Abolition Act (42 of 1953)—Validity).

If it is not open to the petitioners to challenge Act (42 of 1953) on the ground that it does not subserve public interest it is even less open to them, if it falls under Art. 31-A, to challenge that the legislation does not provide for compensation. ILR (1955) Bom 127 : 56 Bom L R 1062 : A I R 1955 Bom 28 (33) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (2 of 1948), S. 3 (1) — Validity of Act — Act deals with acquisition and requisition as contemplated in Art. 31 (2) — Cannot be challenged on ground of violation of Art. 19 (1) (f) — Where Art. 31 (2) applies, Art. 19 (1) (f) has no application. See West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (2 of 1948), S. 3 (1). (1962) 66 Cal W N 423.

——Art. 31 (2) — Applicability — Tenancy Laws — West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act (1 of 1954), S. 5-A — Constitution of India, Arts. 31 (2), 31-A and 14—Sub-section (3) of S. 5-A is saved by Art. 31-A of Constitution — Provision cannot be struck down as introducing unreasonable classification or as not subserving the purpose of the Act. See Tenancy Laws — West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act (1 of 1954), S. 5-A. ('62) 66 Cal W N 405.

——Art. 31 (2)—Public purpose — Hindu Succession Act — Validity of — (Hindu Succession Act (1956), S. 14).

Article 31 (2) of the Constitution 'contemplates acquisition of property 'for public purposes'. There is nothing to indicate that the rights of the reversioner were taken away by the Hindu Succession Act for any public purpose. Hence, Cl. (2) of Art. 31 of the Constitution has not the application to the taking away the rights of a reversioner. AIR 1957 Cal 527 (528) (Pt E) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 31 — Section 7, W. B. Act 21 of 1947 does not suffer from any Constitutional invalidity under Art. 31 (2). See West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 7. A I R 1954 Cal 248 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 16.]

——Arts. 31 (2), 14 and 19 (1) (f)—Land Acquisition Act (1894) (as amended by Act 31 of 1962), Ss. 40 (1) (aa), 41 (4-A), 44 A, 44-B — Effect of amendment — Amendments are not ultra vires. See Land Acquisition Act (1894) (as amended by Act 31 of 1962), S. 40 (1) (aa). AIR 1964 Guj 82.

——Art. 31 — Tenancy legislation in Cochin area of Kerala State — Kanam Tenancy Act (24 of 1955)—Act not violative of jenmies' fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and 31 — Abridgment of property which does not bring about deprivation would not justify the complaint of the right under Art. 31 (2) having been infringed. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1961 Ker 210 (FB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Law conferring ownership on individuals — Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal (Protection) Act (14 of 1950), S. 6 — There is no contravention of Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution — It is only Acquisition of title or taking possession by the State or Union that is dealt with under Art. 31 (2)—See Tenancy Laws — Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal (Protection) Act (14 of 1950), S. 6. A I R 1954 Mad 51 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act (1 of 1951), S. 9 — Validity — See Tenancy Laws — Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act (1 of 1951), S. 9. AIR 1955 N U C (Nag) 1341.

——Art. 31 (2)— Tenancy Laws — Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act (1 of 1951), Sch. 1, Rr. 2 (b), 3 (b), 7 (b) — The provisions of the Act infringe on the equality rule guaranteed in Art. 14 with reference to the principle of determination of compensation as provided for in Cl. (2) of Art. 31. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1955 N U C (Nag) 1341.

——Art. 31 (2) — Berar Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act (10 of 1948) Preamble — Validity of Act—Contravention of Art. 31 (2) — The legislature has jurisdiction to pass a law even though it contravenes Art. 31 (2). Hence, the Amendment Act is not invalid because the right guaranteed by Art. 31 (2) is indirectly affected by its operation. See Berar Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act (10 of 1948), Pre. AIR 1953 Nag 40.

——Art. 31 — (Orissa) Puri Shri Jagannatha Temple (Administration) Act (14 of 1952), S. 2 (a), Expl.—Private religious endowments to sevaks or Pandas—Control of, by S. 15 (5) of Orissa Act 11 of 1954—Validity—Does not contravene Arts. 19 (1) (f) or 31 (2). See Orissa Sri Jagannath Temple (Administration) Act (14 of 1952), S. 2 (1), Expl. AIR 1959 Orissa 17.

——Art. 31 (2) — Orissa Estates Abolition Act (1 of 1952), S. 1—Act is valid. See Tenancy Laws — Orissa Estates Abolition Act (1 of 1952), S. 1. AIR 1957 Orissa 185.

——Art. 31 (2) — Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands to Raiyats) Act (30 of 1951)—Act became constitutionality valid with effect from 27-4-1955 on which date, Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act 1955 was passed. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1957 Pat 47 (DB).

——Arts. 31 (2) and 31 (2-A)—Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands to Raiyats) Act (30 of 1951), S. 3—Proceedings taken before 27th April, 1955, are not validated.

Bihar Act (30 of 1951) is constitutionally valid and operative after 27-4-1955, after the cloud was removed.

by the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955. The Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1965 was not retrospective with regard to the amendment of Art. 31 (2) and the insertion of the new Art. 31 (2-A). It is manifest, therefore, that the proceedings taken by the Collector under S. 3 of the Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands to Raiyats) Act before 27-4-1955, were ab initio void, illegal and without jurisdiction. The effect of the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act is not to validate or legalise such proceedings. 1956 B L J R 760 : 1956 Pat L R 540 : ILR 35 Pat 847 : AIR 1957 Pat 44 (52) (Pt J) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1947), S. 14-A, Proviso — Amendment to, made by Bihar Finance Act (4 of 1955) is unconstitutional. See Constitution of India, Art. 20 (1). AIR 1957 Pat 1 (DB).

● ——Arts. 31 (2), 31 A—Bihar Land Encroachment Act (31 of 1950), Ss. 2 (ii) (d), 5 6, 8 and 9—Validity —(Bihar Land Encroachment Act (31 of 1950), Ss. 2 (ii) (d), 5, 6, 8, 9).

Art. 31 (2) hits the taking of possession of even those lands over which the possessor has not perfected his title by being in adverse possession for a period of twelve years. The Bihar Act provides for summary eviction from such lands and, therefore, Ss. 5, 6, 8 and 9 contravene the fundamental rights, inasmuch as they authorise action in interference against a person who is legitimately in possession of such lands as are specified in S. 2 (ii) (d). Art. 31 A cannot be invoked for the obvious reason that this being a law made by the legislature of a State has not received the assent of the President. AIR 1951 S C 41; AIR 1954 S C 119, Foll. Brij Bhukan v S. D. O. Siwan, 33 Pat 690 : 1954 B L J R 513 : AIR 1955 Pat 1 (18) (Pt K) (Pr 13) (SB).

——Art. 31—Bihar Private Forests Act (9 of 1948)—Provisions of the Act do not amount to acquisition of property. See Bihar Private Forests Act (9 of 1948). AIR 1953 Pat 65 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition—(Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Biswedari Ordinance (36 of 2006), S. 6) — (Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Occupancy Tenants Tenure and Settlement of Land Dispute (Amendment) Act (IV of 2007), S. 6.

Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Biswedari Ordinance (36 of 2006) and Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Occupancy Tenants Tenure and Settlement of Land Dispute (Amendment) Act (4 of 2007) do not come within the scope of Art. 31 (2) and are not hit by it. ILR (1954) Patiala 433 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 161 (173) (Pt F) (Pr 37) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 222.]

——Art. 31 (2) and Sch. 7, List 2 Entry 36 and List 3, Entry 42 — "Subject to" in Entry 36, explained—Saurashtra Barkhali Abolition Act — Validity of — (Tenancy Laws—Saurashtra Barkhali Abolition Act (26 of 1951), S. 1).

Entry 36 in List 2 and Entry 42 in List 3 are merely heads of legislation and are neither interdependent nor complementary to one another. It is by force of the provision of Art. 31 (2) that it becomes obligatory to legislate providing for compensation under Entry 42 in order to give validity to a law enacted under Entry 36 and not by reason of the use of words "subject to', in the wording of the Entry. The only purpose of the words "subject to" occurring in Entry 36 is to indicate that legislation under Entry 36 would be subject to any law made by Parliament in exercise of its legislative power under Entry 42. AIR 1952 S C 252, Foll.

The validity of the Saurashtra Barkhali Abolition Act cannot therefore be challenged on the ground that there has been no valid exercise of the legislative power under Entry 42 in List 3. 8 Sau L R 70 : AIR 1955 Sau 80 (84, 85) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Arts. 31, 31-A and 31-B — West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 8—Section continues to be constitutional in view of Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955. See West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 8. AIR 1962 Tripura 13.

5 (c).—Comparison with S. 299 of Government of India Act (1935).

● ——Art. 31 (2) — Government of India Act (1935), S. 299 (2)—Principle governing validity of enactment for acquisition of land — Principles also directly govern the situation arising under S. 299, Government of India Act, 1935 — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6—AIR 1954 S C 170, Rel. on. Jeejeebhoy v. Assistant Collector, Thana, Prant. 67 Bom L R 575 : (1965) 2 S C A 457 : 1965 M P L J 114 : 1965 Mah L J 115 : AIR 1965 S C 1096 (1099, 1100, 1101) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

● ——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition—Scope of Art. 31 (2)—It is wider than Government of India Act (1935), S. 299.

Clause (2) of Art. 31 is wider in scope. It requires public purpose as a justifying circumstance not only where property, movable or immovable is acquired but also where it is taken possession of, S. 299, Government of India Act, 1935, was limited to acquisition. Under Art. 31 (2) even the taking of possession is placed on the same level with acquisition.

It also applies to movable property of all description, while S. 299, Government of India Act was limited to commercial or industrial undertaking or any interests in them or in company's owning any commercial or industrial undertaking apart from land. Girijananda v. State of Assam, AIR 1956 Assam 33 (40) (Pt F) (Pr 20) (SB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Art. 31 (2) and Government of India Act (1935), S. 299 (5).

In Art. 31 Constitution of India no express provision similar to sub-s. (5) of S. 299, Government of India Act, is made for the reason that Art. 31 (2) has been so worded as to include the substance of sub-s. (5) of S. 299 of the Government of India Act. AIR 1953 Assam 84 (DB).

——Art. 31—Government of India (1935)—S. 299 (2)—West Bengal Land (Requisition and Acquisition Act (2 of 1948), S. 7 (1) Second proviso—Validity—Provision though temporary in nature was hit by S. 299 (2), Government of India Act (1935)—Temporary statutes can be hit by the provisions of Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution or by S. 299 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1935. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 299. AIR 1961 Cal 112.

——Art. 31 (1) and (2) — Government of India Act (1935), S 299 (1) and (2)—Scope—Distinction.

Though Cls. (1) and (2) of Art. 31 of the Constitution of India have a similarity to sub-ss (1) and (2) of S. 299, Government of India Act, 1935, they are not expressed exactly in the same terms, for example, the scope of Cl. (2) of Art. 31 is much wider than the scope of sub-s. (2) of S. 299. ILR 34 Pat 382 : AIR 1956 Pat 149 (153) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (DB).

5 (d). Clause (2)—Before Fourth Amendment of 1955.

● ——Art. 31 (2) — (Before Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955)—Deprivation of property—U. P. Road Transport Service (Development) Act (9 of 1955), Ss 5 and 11—Validity.

The U. P. Transport Service (Development) Act which in effect prohibits the stage carriage operators from doing their motor transport business deprives them of their property or interest in a commercial undertaking within the meaning of Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. It follows that, if the Act does not provide for compensation the Act would be invalid being in conflict with the provisions of Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. A I R 1954 S C 728, Foll.

Having regard to the entire scheme of compensation provided by the Act, and S. 11 (5) in particular, it must be held that the Act provides for adequate compensation for the interest acquired within the meaning of Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. Deep Chand v. State of U. P. (1959) S C J 1069 : 1959 S C A 377 : (1959) 2 S C R (Supp) 8 : I L R (1959) 1 All 293 : A I R 1959 S C 648 (669, 670, 673) (Pt H) (Prs 38, 41).

● ——Arts. 31, 13 (1) and 32 — Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3 (4)—U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 3 (f) — Mill producing cotton yarn, closed—Thereafter orders handing over management of mill to authorised controller passed—Orders held were invalid — Deprivation of property. See Ibid Art. 13 (1). A I R 1955 S C 624.

● ——Art. 31 (2)—U. P. State Road Transport Act—Validity — Act infringes Art. 31 (2). The effect of prohibition of the trade or business of the appellants by the impugned legislation amounts to deprivation of their property or interest in a commercial undertaking within the meaning of Art. 31 (2). A I R 1954 All 257, Reversed. See U. P. State Road Transport Act (2 of 1951). A I R 1954 S C 728.

● ——Art. 31—Who can challenge constitutionality of statute offending Art. 31 — A I R 1951 Bom 86, Reversed.

The plaintiff who was the registered holder of a number of partly paid up preference shares of the Sholapur Spinning and Weaving Company filed a suit against the company its directors appointed by the Government and the Union of India in the Bombay High Court on behalf of himself and other preference share-holders praying for a declaration that the resolution of the directors appointed by the Government of Bombay under Ordinance II of 1950, making a call on them was illegal and ultra vires, as the law under which they were appointed was itself invalid. The plaintiff claimed relief in the form of a declaration regarding the invalidity of the Ordinance and prayed for injunction restraining the directors from giving effect to the resolution.

Held, that in the circumstances of the case, the plaintiff as a preference share-holder of the company was entitled to challenge the constitutionality of the Ordinance on the basis that it abridged the company's fundamental right under Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. (1922) 262 U S 447, Applied ; A I R 1951 S C 41, Disting.; A I R 1951 Bom 86 Reversed. Dwarkadas Shrinivas v. Sholapur Spinning and Weaving Co., Ltd., 1954 S C J 175 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 355 : 67 Mad L W 176 : 56 Bom L R 681 : (1954) 24 Com Cas 103 : 1954 S C A 132 : 1954 S C R 674 : A I R 1954 S C 119 (122, 130, 131, 132, 134, 135, 138, 139) (Pt F) (Prs 1, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 46, 47, 72, 75).

——Art. 31 — U. P. Act 2 of 1951 — State does not acquire any property or interest in commercial undertaking. See Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Act (1950) (2 of 1951), Preamble. A I R 1954 All 257 (DB).

Reversed in A I R 1954 S C 728.]

——Arts. 31 and 19 (1) (g)—Charitable Endowments Act (1890), Ss. 4, 5, 2, 10 — Educational purpose is charitable purpose — Property held by institution for educational purpose — Institution registered under Societies Registration Act, 1860 — Effect — Appointment of Treasurer in respect of such property under Charitable Endowments Act—Validity — Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 31 of Constitution not violated — (Societies Registration Act (1860), Ss. 3, 5, 6). See Charitable Endowments Act (1890), S. 4. A I R 1958 Andh Pra 773.

——Art. 31 — Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act, 1948, S. 20 — Acquisition of commercial venture—Section 20 of Madras Act does not enable Government to acquire commercial venture —Section is within legislative competence. See Tenancy Laws — Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act (26 of 1948), S. 20. A I R 1958 Andh Pra 522 (DB).

● ——Art. 31 (2) — Scope — Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1947), S. 3 — Validity —Taking over of management by Government — If infringes S. 299, Government of India Act, 1935.

The object of the Madras Estates Land Reduction of Rent Act, 1947, is to standardise rents in the State and to bring down the rents, payable by a royt in the estates to the level of rents obtaining in ryotwari tracts. And a law regulating the relation of a landlord with his tenant is not one which takes property within the meaning of Art. 31 (2) even though it has the effect of reducing his rights. A I R 1955 S C 795, Rel. on.

Further, the taking over of the management by the Government to collect rent does not bring the legislation within the mischief of S. 299, Government of India Act, 1935. The Act is neither confiscatory nor does it in substance amount to a deprivation of the property and as such it does not affect the title of the land-holder. Venkata Chalammayya v. The State of Madras, (1958) Andh L T 211 : I L R (1956) Andh Pra 888 : (1958) 1 Andh W R 88 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 173 (182, 183, 192) (Pt D) (Prs 19, 20, 43) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1962 S C 1687.]

● ——Art. 31 (2) (before 1955 Amendment) — "Possession"—Meaning—Possession of properties of non-evacuees by Custodian under S. 10, Administration of Evacuee Property Act.

(Per Palnitkar and Srinivasachari, JJ.)—The possession mentioned in Art. 31 (2) refers to the taking of possession of any property for public purpose thereby destroying the ownership. The possession of the properties of strangers or non-evacuees which the Custodian takes over under S. 10, Administration of Evacuee Property Act is not outright possession, nor does it destroy their ownership, but it is incidental for the purposes of the administration of the property belonging to the evacuees. Whether the Custodian has such a right under the Evacuee Property Act is a different question, but it has nothing to do with the compulsory acquisition of property for public purpose referred to in Art. 31 of the Constitution. Mohd. Fazlur Rahman v. Custodian Evacuee Property, A I R 1956 Hyd 91 (92) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (FB).

● ——Arts. 31 (2), Sch. 7, List 1, entry 33 and List 2, entry 36 — Taking possession — Meaning of —Bihar State Management of Estates and Tenures Act (21 of 1949), S. 1.

(Per Sinha J.) — Taking possession under Art. 31 has reference to the power of requisition under Item 33 of List 1 and Item 36 of List 2 of Sch. 7 to the Constitution. The Bihar State Management of Estates and Tenures Act does not contemplate requisitioning of property and hence is ultra vires on this ground. Kameshwar Singh v. Province of Bihar, I L R 29 Pat 790 : A I R 1950 Pat 392 (415, 416) (Pt L) (Pr 4) (SB).

——Art. 31 — East Punjab Movable Property (Requisitioning) Act (15 of 1947), S. 2—Order under, requisitioning brick lying in a brick kiln — Does not amount to compulsory acquisition of commercial or industrial undertaking — S. 299 not applicable. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 299. AIR 1956 Punj 247 (DB).

——Art. 31—Legislation taking over administration of secular affairs of religious institution — Validity—Nathdwara Temple Act (13 of 1959), Ss. 2 (viii), 16, 28 (2) and (3), 30 (2) (a), 36 and 37 are ultra vires the Arts. 19 (1) (f), 22 (d), 14 and 26 (b) respectively, of the Constitution — Art. 31 is not infringed. All the property belonged to Shri Shrinathji and Shri Shrinathji has not been deprived of the property. Even if it is considered that there is deprivation it is by authority of law. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Raj 196 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — (Rajasthan) (Former) Ordinances (10 and 15 of 1949) — Provisions for State taking over management of collection of revenue are not void. See Rajasthan (Former) Ordinances (10 and 15 of 1949). AIR 1953 Raj 22.

——Art. 31 (2) — Scope — "Taking of possession or acquisition" — Meaning of — "Property" including any "interest" in—Interpretation—V. P. Fequisition of Buildings and Premises and Fixation of Rent Ordinance (3 of 1949)—Ultra vires.

The words "taking of possession and acquisition" in Art. 31 (2) is comprehensive enough to include both acquisition which is a complete deprivation of all interests in the property and requisition which is the taking possession for a limited period or a limited purpose.

"Property" in this article expressly includes in its definition "any interests" in it; even a temporary or a precarious interest such as that of a mortgagee, lessee or a tenant is also property for the purposes of this article.

Under Art. 31 the law authorising such taking of possession or acquisition of property should clearly lay down that it should be done for a public purpose or in the public interests. Another requirement is that the law should expressly provide for compensation. It is also necessary that the law itself should contain the principles upon which the compensation should be worked out.

Any law, pre-existing or made after the Constitution not conforming to the above principles under Art. 31 have to be declared invalid to that extent and the High Court has power under Art. 226 to issue directions to the acquiring or requisitioning authorities not to act upon the law.

V. P. Ordinance III of 1949, makes no mention of the purpose at all but straightway authorises any officer empowered in that behalf to requisition any premises for any purpose and to that extent it is ultra vires. Further it is silent on the question of compensation or the manner of fixing the amount by specifying the principles and how it should be determined and given, even in regard to the full owner of the property. The provision for fixing the reasonable rent to a full owner is not reasonable under Art. 31 (2) since it does not show how it is to be fixed and to be paid; as regards other interests, no compensation is provided at all.

The ordinance is ultra vires on the two grounds of non-mention of public purpose and the non-provision of compensation for the tenant in any case. AIR 1952 E. P. 70; AIR 1951 Nag 32, Ref. AIR 1952 Vindh Pra 78 (79, 80) (Pts A, B, C) (Prs 3, 3a, 4, 7, 10).

5 (e). Clauses (2) and (5)—Combined effect.

See Ibid, Note 17.

6. Clause (2A).

● ——Art. 31 (2-A) — Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act (40 of 1953), Ss. 3 (1), 3 (2) (b)—Validity—Contravene Arts. 31 (1) and 31 (2) of the Constitution — Scope of Arts. 31 (1) and 31 (2)—Effect of enactment of Art. 31 (2-A) — (Quaere): — Whether the theory that acquisition in Art. 31 (2) is not confined to cases of transfer of ownership to the State, and that even deprivation of property would fall within it can be accepted as correct in view of the enactment of Art. 31 (2A). See Bombay Labour Welfare Fund Act (40 of 1953), S. 3 (1). AIR 1958 S C 328.

——Art. 31 (2 A) — Applicability — U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (1954), S. 14 (ee)—Contribution of land under—Case does not fall under Art. 31 (2A). See Ibid, Art. 31 (2). AIR 1957 All 297 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2-A) (as added by Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955)—Retrospective operation.

Clause (2-A) cannot be construed as being retrospective in operation. 1956 All W R (H C) 643 : 1956 All L J 878 : AIR 1957 All 297 (304) (Pt I) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Arts. 31 (2-A) and 31-A—Retrospective operation—(Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code (2 of 1955), S. 214)—If ultra vires.

Per Kotwal J. — Article 31, as it stood prior to the Fourth Amendment, would hit S. 214 of the Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code because no compensation has been provided therein for the abolition of the vatandari rights of the petitioners. But Art. 31 (2 A) is restrospective in its operation, and having regard to its provisions S. 214 of the Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code, 1955, cannot be declared unconstitutional though it deprives the petitioners of their property. By the use of the words "it shall not be deemed to provide for the compulsory acquisition or requisitioning of property" in Art. 31 (2-A) Parliament clearly intended to apply the fiction without reference to any point of time and to make clause (2-A) retrospective in its operation. AIR 1930 P C 54 and AIR 1957 S C 599, Rel. on.

Per Mudholkar J. —Though the Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code was enacted before the Fourth Amendment, that Amendment was clearly retrospective and S. 214 cannot be challenged as ultra vires. ILR (1958) Bom 645 : 1958 Nag L J 63 : 60 Bom L R 597 : AIR 1958 Bom 300 (303, 304, 305) (Pt B) (Prs 22, 26, 27, 34) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2A)—West Bengal Land Requisition and Acquisition Act (2 of 1948), S. 3 — Constitutionality — Act cannot be held to be ultra vires of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution — Art. 31 (2) read with Art. 31 (2A) excludes operation of Art. 19 (1) (f) — See West Bengal Land Requisition and Acquisition Act (2 of 1948). AIR 1962 Cal 269.

● ——Arts. 31 (2A), 19 (6), 31 (2) and 374 (2) —Government of India Act (1935), S. 299—Calcutta Police Act (1866), S. 61A — Calcutta Suburban Police Act (1866), S. 38A—Notifications in 1959 by Police Commissioner prohibiting use of cycle-carts in Calcutta and suburbs — Notifications are valid. See Ibid, Art. 19 (6). AIR 1961 Cal 125 (SB).

——Art. 31 (2A) — Direction to sell to Government—Question of compensation — Justiciability of. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f). AIR 1958 Cal 257.

——Arts. 31 and 31 (2-A) — M. B. Zamindari Abolition Act, S. 38 (2)—Validity—Act is saved by Art. 31 (2A). See Tenancy Laws—Madhya Bharat Revenue Administration and Ryotwari Land Revenue and Tenancy Act (66 of 1950), S. 74. 1961 Jab L J 151.

——Art. 31 (2-A) — Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands to Raiyats) Act (30 of 1951)—Act became constitutionally valid with effect from 27th April, 1955 on which date Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act 1955 was passed. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1957 Pat 44 (DB).

——Arts. 31 (2) and 31 (2-A)—Tenancy Laws—Bihar Koshi Area (Restoration of Lands of Raiyats) Act (30 of 1951), S. 3 — Proceedings taken before 27-4-1955 are not validated. ILR 35 Pat 847 : 1956 B L J R 760 : AIR 1957 Pat 44 (52) (Pt J) (Pr 21) (DB).

—— Art. 31 (2A)—East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation Act (50 of 1948), S. 34—Village land taken from proprietors and set apart for common use—User of common land is compensation — Part of proprietary land reserved for the use of the village as a whole—Such action is exempted by sub-s. (2A) introduced by the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution. 57 Pun L R 479 : ILR (1956) Punj 47 : A I R 1956 Punj 88 (89) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

7. "Acquired."

● ——Art. 31 (2) — Under Art. 31 unless there is transfer of ownership or the right to possession of any property to the State or to a Corporation owned or controlled by the State, the law shall be deemed not to provide for compulsory acquisition or requisition of property and in such a case no compensation need be provided under Art. 31 (2)—Nationalisation of bus transport—Scheme not providing for compensation to existing permit holder—Constitutional validity. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), (As amended by Act C of 1956), Chap IV-A. AIR 1959 S C 308.

● ——Art. 31 (1) and (2) — Scope—Clauses, if deal with same topic — 'Deprivation,' 'Acquisition' and 'taking possession'.

Art. 31 is a self-contained provision delimiting the field of eminent domain and Art. 31 (1) and (2) deal with the same topic of compulsory acquisition of property. The words 'acquisition' and 'taking possession' used in Art. 31 (2) have the same meaning as the word 'deprivation' in Art. 31 (1).

Art. 31 gives complete protection to private property as against executive action, no matter by what process a person is deprived of possession of it. In other words, Constitution declares that no person shall be deprived of possession of private property without payment of compensation and that too under the authority of law, provided there was a public purpose behind that law. It is immaterial to the person who is deprived of property as to what use the State makes of his property or what title it acquires in it. The protection is against loss of property to the owner and there is no protection given to the State by the Article. It has no fundamental right as against the individual citizen. Art. 31 states the limitations on the power of the State in the field of taking property and those limitations are in the interests of the person sought to be deprived of his property. The question whether acquisition has a larger concept than that conveyed by the expression "taking possession" is really of academic interest in view of the comprehensive phraseology employed by cl. (2) of Art. 31. Observations of Das J. in AIR 1951 S C 41 and AIR 1952 S C 252, Diss. from.

Per Bose, J.— The possession and acquisition referred to in cl. (2) mean the sort of 'possession' and 'acquisition' that amounts to 'deprivation' within the meaning of cl. (1). No hard and fast rule can be laid down. Each case must depend on its own facts. But if there is substantial deprivation, then cl. (2) is attracted. By substantial deprivation is meant the sort of deprivation that substantially robs a man of those attributes of enjoyment which normally accompany rights to, or an interest in, property. The form is unessential. It is the substance that one must seek."

Per Ghulam Hasan, J.—"Art. 31 (1) embodies a categorical declaration proclaiming the right of property and equally categorically prohibits the State from depriving the owner of that property by an executive act or without being backed by the authority of law. The intention underlying the Articles being the protection of property against invasion by the State, both Parts (1) and (2) of Art. 31 should be read together so as to harmonize with that intention.

"I am not prepared to subscribe to the proposition that Art. 31 (1) stands by itself and should be read separately from (2) and I cannot attribute an intention to our Parliament to deprive a person of his property merely by passing an Act. The two parts of the Article form an integral whole and cannot be dissociated from each other.

"Whether the facts in a given case amounts to deprivation of property within the meaning of Art. 31 will depend upon the circumstances of each case and it is not possible in the nature of things, to lay down any inflexible test which may be universally applicable. When it can be shown that the statute substantially interferes with the right of enjoyment of property, it will be hit by Art. 31 (2) and declared void, unless compensation is provided." Dwarkadas Shrinivas v. Sholapur Spinning and Weaving Co. Ltd. (1954) 1 Mad L J 355 : 1954 S C J 175 : 67 Mad L W 176 : (1954) 24 Com Cas 103 : 1954 S C A 132 : 1954 S C R 674 : 56 Bom L R 681 : AIR 1954 S C 119 (127, 128, 138, 139) (Pt D) (Prs 18, 23, 25, 60, 78, 79).

● ——Art. 31—'Aquisition'—Meaning of.

The word 'acquisition' has quite a wide concept, meaning the procuring of property or the taking of it permanently or temporarily. It does not necessarily imply the acquisition of legal title by the State in the property taken possession of. 68 Com W L R 261, Foll; AIR 1946 Bom 216 and Das J.'s observations in AIR 1951 S C 41, disapproved. Dwarkadas Shrinivas v. Sholapur Spinning and Weaving Co. Ltd. (1954) 1 Mad L J 355 : 67 Mad L W 176 : (1954) 24 Com Cas 103 : 1954 S C A 132 : 56 Bom L R 681 : 1954 S C R 674 : 1954 S C J 175 : AIR 1954 S C 119 (129) (Pt G) (Pr 27).

● ——Art. 31 (2)—Acquired or taken possession of.

Per Majority, S. R. Das, J. and Jagannadhadas, JJ., Contra — The words 'acquired or taken possession' used in Cl. (2) of Art. 31 cannot be construed in a narrow technical sense. It cannot be assumed that the ordinary word 'acquisition' was used in the Constitution in the same narrow sense in which it may have been used in pre-Constitution legislation relating to acquisition of land. These enactments related to land, whereas Art. 31 (2), refers to movable property also, as to which no formal transfer or vesting of title is necessary. Nor is there any warrant for the assumption that 'taking possession of property' was intended to mean the same thing as 'requisitioning property' referred to in the Entries of the Seventh Schedule. The word 'acquisition' and its grammatical variations should, in the context of Art. 31 and the Entries of 7th Schedule, be understood in their ordinary sense and the additional words 'taking possession of or 'requisitioning' are used in Art. 31 (2) and in the Entries respectively, not in contradistinction with, but in amplification of the term 'acquisition' so as to make it clear that the words taken together cover even those kinds of deprivation which do not involve the continued existence of the property after it is acquired. The expression 'taking possession' can only mean taking such possession as the property is susceptible of and not actual physical possession, as 'the interest in, or in any company owning, any commercial or industrial undertaking', which is expressly included in Cl. (2) of Art. 31, is not susceptible of any actual physical occupancy or seizure. The expression 'shall be taken possession of or acquired' in Cl. (2) does not admit of being construed in the same wide sense as the word 'taken' used in the Fifth Amendment of the American Constitution, but implies such an appropriation of the property or abridgment of the incidents of its ownership as would amount to a deprivation of the owner. Any other interference with enjoyment of private property short of such appropriation or abridgment would not be compensable under Art. 31 (2).

Per S. R. Das, J.—The word 'acquired' used in Art. 31 (2) must be given the special meaning which that word has acquired and cannot be read as synonymous with 'taken' as used in the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. The expression 'taken possession of or acquired' occurring in Cl. (2) has not the same meaning which the word 'deprived' used in Cl. (1) has. 'Taken possession of or acquired' should be read as indicative of the concept of 'requisition or acquisition'.

Per Jagannadhadas, J.—'Taking possession' and 'acquisition' are not to be construed as having reference to and meaning 'deprivation' or vice versa. Undoubtedly 'taking possession' and 'acquisition' amount to 'deprivation' but the converse may not follow in the particular context in which these words and phrases are used. While the framers of the Constitution laid down the requirement of the authority of law for 'deprivation of property' with a larger connotation, they limited the requirement of payment of compensation to what may reasonably be comprehended within the concept of 'acquisition' and 'taking possession'. To read these words and phrases in Art. 31 (2) as meaning the same thing as 'deprivation' used in Art. 31 (1) and to make the test of 'substantial abridgment' or 'deprivation' as the sine qua non for payment of compensation under Art. 31 (2) is to open the door for introduction of most, if not all the elements of wide uncertainly which have gathered round the word 'taken' used in the corresponding context in the American Constitution. State of West Bengal v. Subodh Gopal Bose. 1954 SCA 65 : 1954 SCR 587 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 314 : 67 Mad L W 206 : 1954 S C J 127 : AIR 1954 S C 92 (99, 113, 114, 115, 117, 118) (Pt E) (Prs 15, 51, 53, 58, 59, 66).

●——Art. 31—'Acquisition' and 'possession' of property—Distinction—Test.

'Acquisition' means and implies the acquiring of the entire title of the expropriated owner, whatever the nature or extent of that title might be. The entire bundle of rights which were vested in the original holder would pass on an acquisition to the acquirer leaving nothing in the former. In taking possession on the other hand, the title to the property admittedly remains in the original holder, though he is excluded from possession or enjoyment of the property. Article 31 (2) of the Constitution itself makes a clear distinction between acquisition of property and taking possession of it for a public purpose, though it places both of them on the same footing in the sense that a legislation authorising either of these acts must make provision for payment of compensation to the displaced or expropriated holder of the property. In the context in which the word "acquisition" appears in Art. 31 (2), it can only mean and refer to acquisition of the entire interest of the previous holder by transfer of title.

The test is as to whether the owner has been dispossessed substantially from the rights held by him or the loss is only with regard to some minor ingredients of the proprietary right. Charanjit Lal Choudhury v. Union of India, 54 M L W 47 : 1951 S C J 29 : 1951 Mad W N 111 : (1951) 21 Comp Cas 33 : 1950 S C R 869 : 53 Bom L R 499 : ILR (1951) Hyd 461 : A I R 1951 S C 41 (54, 55, 56) (Pt G) (Prs 49, 54).

——Arts. 31, 19, 366—Government of India Act (1935), S. 299—U. P. Tenancy (Amendment) Act (10 of 1947), S. 27—Provisions of S. 27 of U.P. Act are not void — Re-instatement of ejected tenant under S. 27 is not 'acquisition' within meaning of S. 299. Government of India Act and Art. 31 of the Constitution—U. P. Act is existing law and is saved—Rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) of new tenant are not infringed.

There is no jurisdiction for enlarging the scope of sub-s. (2) of S. 299, Government of India Act, 1935, on account of the interpretation of similar language in the Constitution. The expression 'acquisition' in sub-s. (2) of S. 299 should not be given the same interpretation as the Supreme Court gave to that expression in Art. 31 of the Constitution prior to its amendment by the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act 1955. A I R 1955 S C 781 and A I R 1954 S C 92, Rel. on.; AIR 1958 Andh Pra 173 (FB), Diss. from.

Even though the provisions of S. 27 of U. P. Ten. (Amend.) Act (10 of 1947), deprive the new tenant inducted in the place of the ejected tenant, of his tenancy rights, they will not be deemed to be law for the compulsory acquisition of his rights and consequently not be hit on account of their not providing for the payment of compensation to him for the deprivation of his rights.

The provisions of S. 27 of U. P. Act 10 of 1947 did not become void on the coming into force of the Constitution. U. P. Act 10 of 1947 comes within the expression 'existing law' as defined in cl. (10) of Art. 366 of the Constitution. U. P. Act 10 of 1947 came into force on the 14th June, 1947, more than eighteen months before the commencement of the Constitution, and therefore the provisions of cl. (5) of Art. 31 do not apply to it. It follows, therefore, that this Act being an existing law on the 26th January, 1950 is not affected by the provisions of Cl. (2) of Art. 31. Moreover the provisions of this Act do not provide for the compulsory acquisition of property in view of cl. (2-A) of Art. 31 of the Constitution and, therefore, they do not fall within the purview of cl. (2) of that Article. When the provisions of S. 27 of U. P. Act 10 of 1947 take away the right the new tenant possessed in the land no question of any restriction on his right to hold and dispose of property arises. The provisions of S. 27 of U. P. Act 10 of 1947 do not in any way infringe the new tenant's rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. 1960 All L J 936 : 1961 All W R (H C) 24 : AIR 1961 All 191 (192, 193, 194, 195) (Prs 21, 22, 24, 27, 29, 30, 34) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition—Requirements of.

The necessary requirements of acquisition both under the clause as amended by the Fourth amendment and the unamended one are firstly that the acquisition should be for public purpose and secondly that it must provide for compensation or fix the principle on which the compensation is to be determined. AIR 1958 All 126 (131) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

——Arts. 31, 19 (1) (g), 19 (6) and 246 (as amended by 4th Amendment 1955)—Acquisition—Transfer of ownership or right to possession is essential — Mere deprivation of property is not acquisition—Colourable legislation, what is—Fraud on Constitution — Motor Vehicles Act (1939 as amended by Act 100 of 1956) Chap. IVA, S. 68G—Act is not unconstitutional or void. 1958-2 Andh W R 211 : I L R (1958) Andh Pra 437: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 292 (298) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

●——Art. 31 (1) and (2) — Government of India Act (1935), S. 299—'Acquisition'— Meaning of — Interpretation of Statutes—Acts in pari materia.

Per Subba Rao C. J.—There is no reason why conflicting or different meanings should be given to the word 'acquisition' found in S. 299 of the Government of India Act and Art. 31 of the Constitution. Both the provisions are designed and intended to protect persons from being deprived of their property by the State without paying compensation. There is no justification for holding that the word 'acquisition' in Art. 31 (2) is used in a sense different from that given to it in S. 299 of the Government of India Act. Section 299 (1) was a guarantee against the deprivation of property by executive authority save by authority by law. This right created by S. 299 was similar in content and scope as that conferred by Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution. AIR 1955 S C 47, Rel. on.

Per Viswanatha Sastri J.—In the interpretation of S. 299 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1935 a reference to Art. 31 (1) and (5) of the Constitution and the manner in which they have been interpreted by the decisions of the Supreme Court is necessary because these two statutory provisions, in spite of some difference in form and expression, are in pari materia. Venkata Chalammayya v. The State of Madras. ILR (1956) Andh Pra 888 : 1958 Andh L T 211 : (1958) 1 Andh W R 88 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 173 (178, 180, 181, 186, 187) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 13, 32) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1687.]

● ——Art. 31 (2)—'Acquisition'—Meaning—Government of India Act (1935), S. 299.

Per Subba Rao C. J. — A comparative study of the two decisions of the Supreme Court in AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 119 indicates that except Das J., all the other learned Judges rejected the narrow meaning of the word 'acquisition,' i.e., transfer of the title from the owner and vesting the same in the State, and adopted the more comprehensive one viz., the procuring of property or the taking of it permanently or temporarily by the State. The word 'acquisition' in subs. (2) of S. 299, Government of India Act in view of the Supreme Court Judgment, must be held to mean any deprivation of the property of a citizen, and therefore, such deprivation cannot be affected by any act without conforming to the limitations laid down under that section.

Per Viswanatha Sastri J.— Substantial deprivation of proprietary rights is what is meant by the word 'acquisition' occurring in Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution and S. 299 (2) of the Government of India Act. AIR 1952 Mad 203, Overruled on this point.

Per Krishna Rao J. — There is nothing in the pronouncements of the Supreme Court which compels the Court to hold that the word 'acquisition' used in S. 299 (2) has the same extended meaning as it bears in the context of Art. 31 (2).

On the analogy of the rule of 'contemporanea expositio' when the meaning is not plain and unequivocal, but obscure or of doubtful import, the Court should incline to the interpretation authoritatively put upon the language by Courts at the time the statute was alive. Therefore, the correctness of the reasoning in A I R 1952 Mad 203, namely, that in S. 299 (2) acquisition imports the idea of transference of some of the owner's rights in property remains unaffected by the decision in AIR 1954 S C 119. Venkata Chalammayya v. The State of Madras, 1958 Andh L T 211 : (1958) 1 Andh W R 88 : ILR (1956) Andh Pra 888 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 173 (180, 181, 190, 193, 194) (Pt C) (Prs 13, 41, 47) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1687.]

● ——Arts. 31 (2) and 19 (1) (f)—Assam Assessment of Revenue Free Waste Land Grants Act (24 of 1948), S. 3— Land held free of land revenue — Such land assessed to land revenue — Right to enjoy interest in such land is not acquisition of property.

Per Special Bench. — There can be no acquisition of the right to enjoy landed property free of land revenue and there can, therefore, be no question of paying compensation when the land is assessed to land revenue, which is so long held free of land revenue. Hence the Assam Assessment of Revenue Free Waste Land Grants Act is not hit by the provisions of Art. 31 (2) or Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution. AIR 1944 F C 62, Rel. on. I L R (1953) 5 Assam 200, Affirmed. Girijananda v. State of Assam. AIR 1956 Assam 33 (37, 38, 45, 46, 48) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 42, 54) (SB).

● ——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition — Assessment of land revenue on land so far held free of land revenue.

Per Sarjoo Prosad C. J. — Although the interest to own land free from payment of land revenue is an interest in property, to assess such land to land revenue is not such a deprivation of interest in property as would fall within the ambit of Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution.

Per Deka J. — Assuming that the right to enjoy the landed property free from land revenue, is a property in itself, the assessment of land revenue does not amount to a substantial deprivation of the property, and is not barred under Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution under Art. 19 (1) (f). Girijananda v. State of Assam. A I R 1956 Assam 33 (37, 38, 48) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 55) (SB).

——Arts. 31 (2) and 31 (5)—Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129-A — Constitutionality — Section 129A is not ultra vires Art. 31 (2) on the ground that the collection of blood for the test under that section is acquisition of property without payment of compensation. See Prohibition—Bombay Prohibition Act (25 of 1949), S. 129-A. 1964 (2) Cri L J 523 : A I R 1964 Bom 253 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition—Meaning of.

Acquisition in every case must mean transfer of ownership. ILR (1951) Bom 473 : 53 Bom L R 218 : AIR 1951 Bom 86 (91) (Pt F) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1954 S C 119.]

——Art. 31—Calcutta Police Act (4 of 1866), S. 61A — Calcutta Suburban Police Act (1866), S. 38-A — Notifications prohibiting use of cycle-carts within Calcutta and Suburban limits— It is not a case of "compulsory acquisition" under S. 229 of Government of India Act (1935) or under Art. 31 of Constitution of India. See Calcutta Police Act (4 of 1866), S. 61A. AIR 1961 Cal 125.

——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition and requisition — Effect of—Distinction—Persons entitled to claim compensation. See Defence of India Rules (1939), R. 75-A. A I R 1954 Cal 212 (DB).

——Art. 31 — 'Acquisition' and 'deprivation' —Distinction between.

There is a distinction between the two concepts of 'deprivation' and 'acquisition.' By 'deprivation' it is meant to take away or seize the rights of another person whereas by 'acquisition' it is meant to acquire something from another person and to have it vested in him who acquires whether it is the ownership or the proprietary rights or other rights. The fact that the Aghat Tenure and Ijara Abolition Act provides for compensation, apart from the question whether such compensation is adequate or not demonstrates that the abolition is not by way of deprivation but that it amounts to acquisition. (1961) 2 Guj L R 454 : AIR 1962 Guj 297 (303) (Pt F) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 31—Tenancy Laws—Bombay Land Tenures Abolition (Recovery of Records) Act (50 of 1953), Ss. 3 and 4 — Not violative of Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 31 of the Constitution— Possession and acquisition in Art. 31 (2)—Meaning of. See Tenancy Laws—

Bombay Land Tenures Abolition (Recovery of Records) Act (50 of 1953), S. 3. AIR 1962 Guj 18.

——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition—Meaning of — (Words and Phrases).

The word 'acquisition' in Art. 31 should not be interpreted in a narrow sense but in the ordinary sense. The word has quite a wide concept meaning the procuring of property or the taking of it permanently or temporarily. It does not necessarily imply the acquisition of legal title by the State in the property taken possession of. ILR (1955) Hyd 494 : AIR 1955 Hyd 203 (207) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 31—"Acquisition"—Meaning of—Ss. 33 and 40 of Bihar Private Forests Act (9 of 1948) do not amount to acquisition of property. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 299. ('57) I L R 36 Pat 69.

——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition—Meaning of.

The word "acquisition" in S. 299 of Government of India Act had the limited meaning of actual transference of ownership and cannot be given the wide meaning of deprivation of any kind or degree of proprietary right. AIR 1956 Pat 493 (DB).

● ——Art. 31 (2)—Acquisition—What amounts to. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 299 (2). AIR 1950 Pat 392 (SB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Acquisition — (Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Biswedri Ordinance (23 of 2006)).

The Ordinance 23 of 2006 cannot be called a law of acquisition and cannot be brought within the laws referred to in clause (2) of Article 31, because it did not make a provision for acquisition of the landlords' share by the State for the tenants but gave the tenants the right to purchase that share straightway without the intervention of the State. AIR 1953 Punj 20, Rel. on. I L R (1954):Patiala 433 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 161 (170) (Pt D) (Pr 26) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1963 S C 222.]

● ——Art. 31 — Tenancy Laws — E. P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 18 (c)—Consolidation scheme—Reservation of land for extension of abadi for non-proprietors' houses falls within Act—Reservation of land for village Panchayat, unconstitutionality. See Tenancy laws—E. P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 18 (c). AIR 1960 Punj 317 (FB).

——Art. 31—Property taken under superintendence of Court of Wards — Property is not "acquired" — (Punjab Court of Wards Act (2 of 1903), S. 5 (2) (d)).

Government do not "acquire" within the meaning of Art. 31, the property of a ward whose estate is taken under the superintendence of the Court of Wards. They merely manage the property for and on behalf of the ward. Secondly, it is obvious that although the restrictions which are imposed on the right of a spendthrift to acquire, hold and dispose of property cause a certain amount of inconvenience to him these restrictious are imposed for the benefit of the public and the landholder must be deemed to have compensation in participating in the general advantage. 56 Punj L R 403 : I L R (1955) Punj 331 : AIR 1954 Punj 247 (250) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1963 Punj 9.]

8. "Requisition."

——Art. 31 — Applicability — Houses and Rents — U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947)—Validity.

Article 31 does not apply in the case of requisition of property. Requisition of property is quite different from acquisition. It does not deprive the owner of his proprietary right. The proprietorship rests in the real owner, while in case of acquisition he is deprived of that right. Requisition only temporarily deprives a party of his right to exercise his ownership over it. Hence, it cannot be said that the U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), infringes, Art. 31.

This view seems to be directly opposed to, the language of Cl. (2) of Art. 31 (as amended in 1955) which expressly covers both acquisition and requisitioning of property. AIR 1956 All 232 (233) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

——Art. 31 (2)—Taking possesssion.

The expression "taking possession of" is not synonymous with "requisitioning," but has a wider connotation than the former expression. But when possession is taken as contemplated by Art. 31 (2) the person taking possession of the property must take possession of the whole bundle of rights that goes to constitute "property." The distinction between "acquisition" and "possession" is that where as in the case of the former there is a transfer of ownership and a transfer of title, in the latter case there is no transfer of ownership or title. Just as in the case of acquisition undoubtedly the beneficial interest is transferred from the person from whom the property is acquired to the party in whose favour the acquisition is made, similarly in the case of possession the person in possession must have transferred to him the beneficial interest in the property although the title may not be divested. I L R (1951) Bom 473 : 53 Bom L R 218 : AIR 1951 Bom 86 (91, 92) (Pt G) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 S C 119.]

——Art. 31—'Requisition'. See Words and Phrases—"Requisition." AIR 1955 Nag 153 (DB).

9. Regulating the relation between landlord and tenant.

——Arts. 31, 19 (1) (f), 26 and 31A—Tenancy Laws—Mysore Tenancy Act (13 of 1952), S. 6 and Preamble—Section is valid—Mysore Act passed with an object to regulate the law which governed the relation of the landlords and tenants of agricultural lands. See Tenancy Laws—Mysore Tenancy Act 13 of 1952), S. 6. (1963) 2 S C J 246 : AIR 1966 S C 1172.

● ——Arts. 31 (1) and 19 (1) (f)—Madras City Tenants' Protection Act (3 of 1922), S. 9 — Section does not infringe Articles and hence is not invalid. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1964 SC 1440.

● ——Art. 31 (2)—'Taking property' within meaning of Art. 31 (2)—Regulation of relation between landlord and tenant.

A law which regulates the relation of landlord with his tenant is not one which 'takes property' within Art. 31 (2) even though it has the effect of reducing his rights. To regulate the relations of landlord and tenant and thereby diminish rights, hitherto exercised by the landlord in connection with his land, is different from compulsory acquisition of the land. Hence, S. 86, Marwar Land Revenue Act, 1949, is not repugnant to Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. AIR 1946 P C 127, Foll. Kishan Singh v. Rajasthan State, 1956 S C J 14 : (1955) 2 S C R 531 : 1956 S C A 402 : AIR 1955 S C 795 (798) (Pt E) (Pr 8).

——Arts. 31 and 19—Government of India Act (1935), S. 299 (2) — Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1947), S. 3 — Provisions of Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act only regulate the relationship of the landlord and tenant and are not hit by S. 299 of the Government of India Act. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 173 (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1687.]

——Art. 31 - Tenancy Laws—Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Second Amendment Act (35 of 1951), S. 4—Provision is not confiscatory and unconstitutional — Provision pertains to relationship of landlord and tenant. 1952 Mad W N 980 : 1953-1 Mad L J 29 : AIR 1953 Mad 260 (261) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 31—Violation of—Berar Alienated Villages Tenancy Law (1921), Ss. 47, (1-A) and 75-A (3) — Not repugnant to Art. 31.

The Berar Alienated Villages Tenancy Law, 1921, is not repugnant to the provisions of Art. 31 of the Constitution and is not invalid. It cannot be said that the law has authorized the taking possession or acquisition of property for public purposes. In essence the impugned provisions are regulatory, not confiscatory.

Because of the impugned provisions there is a rearrangement of the rights between the landlord and the tenant or the alienee and the occupant. The Rights of one are curtailed and that of the other are increased. But there is neither a complete annihilation of the right of the former nor the acquisition of such right by the State for public purposes. Even in the case of a permanent tenancy, the landlord's right of reversion is still present though under the limited conditions specified in sub-s. (2) of S. 48 and S. 57. I L R (1956) Nag 264 : 1955 Nag L J 668 : AIR 1956 Nag 50 (52, 53) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art 31 (2) — Orissa Tenancy Act (3 of 1948), S. 6—Section is not confiscatory and does not offend Art 31 (2)—There is only diminution of rights of landlord which is inevitable in legislation of tenancy reform. I L R (1953) Cut 45 : AIR 1953 Orissa 171 (175) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Bihar Emergency Cultivation and Irrigation (Temporary Provisions) Act (2 of 1951), S. 8—Act only regulates rights of tenants—It does not abridge or take away rights in land Hence omission to obtain assent of President to the Act does not render section unconstitutional. ('62) I L R 41 Pat 581.

——Art. 31 — Chota Nagpur Tenancy (Amendment) Act (Bihar Act 25 of 1947), S. 9—Chota Nagpur Tenancy (Amendment) Act (Bihar Act (11 of 1950) — Acts are not confiscatory — True effect — Regulate relation of landlord and tenant in respect of occupancy holding. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 299. AIR 1956 Pat 149.

——Arts. 31, 14, 19 — Rajasthan Tenants Protection Ordinance, S. 7—Validity—It was promulgated with a view to put a check on the growing tendency of landholders to eject or dispossess tenant from holdings. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1953 Raj 53.

10. Accommodation control.

——Art. 31—Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), S. 3—Validity—Provisions do not violate Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 of the Constitution. I L R (1963) 2 All 186 : AIR 1963 All 592 (594) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art 31—Landlord intimating Deputy Commissioner that he needs house for his occupation—Allotment without enquiry — Validity — Constitutional guarantee, if violated. See Houses and Rents—C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 23. 1959 Nag L J (Notes) 135.

——Art. 31—C. P. and Berar Regulation of Letting of Accommodation Act (11 of 1946) — Regulation of letting of premises and of specifying the class of persons to whom may be let. See Ibid, Sch, VII, List II, Entry 18. AIR 1955 Nag 153 (DB).

11. "Public purpose".

(a) Public purpose—If justiciable.

(b) Express mention of—Necessity.

(c) Illustrative cases.

11. "Public purpose."

● ——Art. 31—Land Acquisition Act (1894), Ss. 2 (f) and 6—Public purpose — Meaning of. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), s. 2 (f). AIR 1963 SC 151.

● ——Art. 31 (2)—Scope—Requirement as to 'public purpose.'

(Per Mahajan and Chandrasekhara Aiyar JJ.):—The existence of a 'public purpose' is an implied condition of the exercise of compulsory powers of acquisition by the State but the language of Art. 31 (2) does not expressly make it a condition precedent to acquisition. It assumes that compulsory acquisition can be for a 'public purpose' only, which is inherent in such acquisition.

(Per Patanjali Sastri C. J. and Das J.) : The existence of a public purpose as a prerequisite to the exercise of the power of compulsory acquisition is an essential and integral part of the "provisions" of Cl. (2). State of Bihar v. Kameshwar Singh, 65 Mad L W 527 : 1952 S C J 427 : I L R 31 Pat 565 : 1952 S C R 889 : 1953 S C A 53 : AIR 1952 SC 252 (263, 273, 288, 295) (Pt F) (Prs 11, 45, 102, 128).

● — Art. 31, Sch. 7, Entry 36, List III, Entry 42—"Public purpose"—Meaning of—Words and Phrases—Public purpose).

(Per Das J.) : —Whatever furthers the general interests of the community as opposed to the particular interest of the individual must be regarded as a public purpose.

The proper approach is to take the scheme as a whole and then examine whether the entire scheme of acquisition is for a public purpose. It is an entirely wrong approach to pick out an item out of a scheme and say that that item is not supported by a public purpose.

(Per Mahajan and Das JJ.) : —The phrase "public purpose" has to be construed according to the spirit of the times in which particular legislation is enacted. (Patanjali Sastri C. J., Mahajan, B. K Mukherjea, S. R. Das and Chandrasekhara Aiyar JJ.) State of Bihar v. Kameshwar Singh, 65 Mad L W 527 : 1952 S C J 427 : ILR 31 Pat 565 : 1952 S C R 889 : 1953 S C A 53 : AIR 1952 SC 252 (274, 289, 290, 291) (Pt N) (Prs 52, 105, 106, 107).

● ——Art. 31 (2)—"Public purpose," what is — U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (1 of 1951)—Acquisition is for public purpose.

(Per Mahajan J.)—The expression "public purpose" is not capable of a precise definition and has not a rigid meaning. It can only be defined by a process of judicial inclusion and exclusion. In other words, the definition of the expression is elastic and takes its colour from the statute in which it occurs, the concept varying with the time and state of society and its needs. The point to be determined in each case is whether the acquisition is in the general interest of the community as distinguished from the private interest of an individual. Legislation (U. P. Act 1 of 1951) which aims at elevating the status of tenants by conferring upon them the bhumidari rights to which status the big zamindars have also been levelled down cannot be said as wanting in public purposes in a democratic State. It aims at destroying the inferiority complex in a large number of citizens of the State and giving them a status of equality with their former lords and prevents the accumulation of big tracts of land in the hands of a few individuals which is contrary to the expressed intention of the Constitution. Zamindaries are not being taken for the private benefit of any particular individual or individuals, but are being acquired by the State in the general interests of the community. Property acquired will be vested either in the State or in the body corporate, the gaon samaj which has to function under the supervision of the State. All that the Act achieves is the equality of the status of the different persons holding lands in the State. It is not correct to say that Government is acquiring the properties for the purpose of carrying on a business or trade. The moneys received from persons seeking bhumidari status or from the income of zamindari estates will be used for State purposes and for the benefit of the community at large. State of Bihar v. Kameshwar Singh, 65 Mad L W 527 : 1952 S C J 427 : I L R 31 Pat 565 : 1952 S C R 889 : 1953 S C A 53 : AIR 1952 SC 252 (311, 312) (Pt Z-C) (Prs 208, 209).

——Art. 31 (2)—Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6 (1) —Validity—If violates Art. 31 (2)—'Public purpose' —Meaning. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6 (1). AIR 1958 All 126.

——Art. 31—Public purpose, meaning of—Rehabilitation of refugees—(Words and Phrases).

The concept of public purpose is not fixed and unalterable, and is regarded at the present time as more nearly meaning of purpose useful to the public rather than use by the public. AIR 1952 SC 252 and AIR 1950 SC 222, Ref. to.

Acquisition of land for the rehabilitation of refugees is one for the public purpose. 1954 All L J 673 : AIR 1955 All 12 (19) (Pt H) (Prs 28, 29) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 SC 14.]

● ——Art. 31 (2)—"Public purpose"—Meaning.

A law made for the purpose of securing an aim declared in the Constitution to be a matter of State policy is for a public purpose.

The acquisition of property sought to be effected by the U. P. Zamindary Abolition and Land Reforms Act (1 of 1951) having for its objects the implementation of one or more of the directive principles of State policy, is for a public purpose within the meaning of the Constitution.

It is not for the Court to weigh in the balance relative merits of schemes designed to achieve a particular end. The Legislature in its wisdom has chosen one method and unless it can be shown that the judgment of the Legislature is absurd or manifestly unreasonable that judgment must be respected. 327 U S 546, Rel. on.

Even where the social undesirability of a law may be conveniently urged, invalidation of the law by a Court debilitates popular democratic Govt : 385 U S 538, Rel. on. Raja Surya Palsingh v U. P. Government. 1951 All L J 365 : 1951 R D (H C) 122 : 1951 All W R (H C) 317 : ILR (1952) 2 All 46 : AIR 1951 All 674 (683, 684, 685) (Pt K) (Prs 37, 38, 42, 43, 46, 47) (FB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Assam Act 1 of 1957—Validity—Not repugnant to Art. 31—'Public purpose'— Meaning of. See Tenancy Laws — Assam Fixation of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act (1 of 1957). A I R 1959 Assam 147 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Public purpose—Meaning of.

Acquisition or requisition of property for public purpose includes whatever results in an advantage to the public. It is not necessary that it should be available for public use as such. Where in order to give effect to a part of a development scheme, some land is acquired or requisitioned for an individual, such acquisition or requisition may still be regarded as for public purpose. But where the whole purpose of the requisition is to provide accommodation to an individual concern, howsoever beneficial that concern may be, it cannot be said to be for a public purpose. ILR (1959) 11 Assam 1 : AIR 1958 Assam 140 (152) (Pt G) (Pr 39) (DB).

——Art. 31—'Public purpose', meaning of. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 3 (f). AIR 1956 Assam 190 (DB).

——Art. 31—Land Acquisition Act (1894) (as amended by Bombay Act 8 of 1958), Ss. 3 (f) (2), 6 — Public purpose — Criteria to determine — Land acquired from public revenue for development into industrial area — Acquisition is for public purpose— Development of land — Meaning of — S. 3 (f) (2) is intra vires of Art. 31 and S. 6 of Land Acquisition Act.

The important criteria to determine a public purpose are : firstly that it is not necessary in order that there should be a public purpose that the land which is taken must always be made available to the public at large. It may be that it may benefit only a small section of the community. Secondly, it must be for an object or aim in which the general interest of the community as opposed to the particular interest of individuals is directly and vitally concerned. The expression 'public purpose' has been used in the Land Acquisition Act in its generic sense of including any purpose in which even a fraction of the community may be interested or by which it may be benefited. AIR 1914 P. C. 20 and A I R 1960 S C 1203, Rel. on. Further, the question whether there is a public purpose or not must be gathered from the facts and circumstances before the Court. Thus where the notifications under Ss. 4 and 6 read with S. 3 (f) (2) of the Land Acquisition Act as amended by the Bombay Act 8 of 1958 stated the public purpose as 'for the development and utilisation of land as an industrial area' and it was further pointed out that the object of Government was that these areas which were being acquired would be properly laid out and planned with some deliberation so that their development as an industrial area would be a proper development and space would be reserved for social services, recreational facilities there could be no doubt that the purpose mentioned therein was a public purpose. It would thus appear that in so far as these activities are undertaken by the State by the very use of the word 'development' a public purpose is implicit, for it means 'the realisation of the potentialities of land or territory by building or mining'. Therefore, even though by the addition of sub-clause (2) of S. 3 (f) the connotation of the expression 'public purpose' has been considerably enlarged by the local amendment, still the new definition has implicit in it the idea of a public purpose. To that extent, therefore, the definition does not conflict with either S. 6 or Article 31 which lays it down as a condition to the acquisition of a citizen's property that there should be a public purpose. In that view, the amended definition of 'public purpose' is intra vires of Article 31 as well as S. 6 of the Land Acquisition Act. 67 Bom L R 101 : 1965 Mah L J 290 : ILR (1965) Bom 394 : AIR 1965 Bom 224 (241, 242) (Pt E) (Pr 44, 45, 47, 48, 50) (DB).

——Art. 31 — 'Public purpose' — Connotation of — Broad general considerations which determine public purpose indicated — Saving of foreign exchange by production of chemicals in India by a private company held to be public purpose. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6. AIR 1961 Guj 93 (DB).

——Art. 31—'Public purpose'—Meaning of—Acquisition of land for housing accommodation for Harijans—Notification— Validity — Discrimination — If involved—Art. 15 (4).

The definition of 'public purpose' might arise even when the scheme be in favour of individuals provided thereby public prosperity, public welfare or public convenience is served. A I R 1960 Ker 321 and A I R 1959 Punj 544, Rel. on.

A notification purporting to acquire land for providing housing accommodation for Harijans cannot be challenged on the ground that it is not for a public purpose. Such notification cannot also be challenged on the ground of discrimination in view of Art. 15 (4) of the Constitution. AIR 1952 Bom 461, Diss from; AIR 1960 Ker 98, Affirmed. (1960) 2 Ker L R 547 : 1960 Ker L T 630 : 1960 Ker L J 1185 : A I R 1960 Ker 355 (356) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Acquisition for public purpose — What is — Individuals benefited by acquisition — Public purpose not affected.

Acquisition of property for public purpose under Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution includes whatever results in advantage to the public. It might be in favour of individuals in furtherance of a scheme of public utility. Schemes for construction of houses for clearing slum areas, relieving congestion and housing poor people are for public purpose as they tend to promote social welfare and prosperity. It follows, therefore, that the mere effect of the Government Order is to enable it to acquire a particular house site for a particular individual is not in any way fatal. AIR 1952 Mad 756; AIR 1953 Mad 537 and AIR 1930 Mad 798, Rel. on; AIR 1956 Assam 190 and AIR 1914 P C 20, Disting. 1959 Ker L J 820 : 1959 Ker L T 844 : AIR 1960 Ker 96 (97) (Pr 5).

——Art. 31 (2) - "Public purpose." meaning of —AIR 1958 Orissa 187, Not Foll.

An acquisition can be for a public purpose, even though all the members of the public do not take the benefit, but only a section of it takes the benefit. Public purpose in an acquisition may be served even though the acquisition is for the benefit of particular members of the public, provided the object of acquisition advances a public purpose. In this category may be included advancement of public prosperity, public welfare and the convenience of the public. 1959-2 Mad L J 469 : 72 Mad L W 781 : I L R (1959) Mad 997 : A I R 1960 Mad 108 (113) (Pt B) (Pr 17).

——Art. 31 (2) Public purpose - Meaning explained —(Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6)—(Words and Phrases —Public Purpose).

Acquisition of property for public purpose under Art. 31 (2) includes whatever results in advantage to the public. It is not necessary that it should be available to the public as such. It might be in favour of individuals provided they are benefited not as individuals but in furtherance of a scheme of public utility. Schemes for construction of houses for clearing slum areas, relieving congestion and housing poor people are for a public purpose as they tend to promote social welfare and prosperity. 164 U. S. 112; 270 N. Y. P. 333 ; A I R 1914 P C 20 ; A I R 1925 Mad 837 ; AIR 1930 Mad 798, Rel on.

A society was formed and registered under the Madras Co-operative Societies Act, 1932 with the object of enabling its members to construct houses. This society considered that certain block of lands within the municipal limits of the city of T. would serve as suitable building sites and moved the Government for its acquisition. The Government gave its consent to the scheme and issued a notification declaring that the lands were needed for public purpose, to wit, construction of houses and in pursuance of this notification proceeded to acquire lands. The petitioner filed an application attacking the validity of the acquisition proceedings, contending that the public as such had no interest in the land or buildings, that neither the public nor even a considerable portion thereof would be benefited by the scheme and in effect the acquisition would amount to taking property of one individual and transferring it to another.

Held, (1) that the society could be regarded as constituted for the benefit of the public.

(2) that in general, building schemes were to be considered as advantageous to the public.

(3) that even though the direct and immediate beneficiaries under the scheme might be individuals it was a public purpose as it benefited the public generally.

(4) that therefore the acquisition was valid. 65 Mad L W 747 : (1952) 2 Mad L J 298: 1952 Mad W N 677: I L R (1952) Mad 982 : A I R 1952 Mad 756 (758, 760, 761, 762) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 12, 14, 16, 19) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2), Sch. 7, List 2, Entry 36, List 3, Entry 42— Public purpose —"Purposes of Union" or "purposes of State" are public purposes—Purpose of M. P. Act 1 of 1951 is public — (Tenancy Laws — Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act (1 of 1951), Ss. 3, 4). AIR 1955 NUC (Nag) 1341.

——Art. 31 (2)—"Public purpose"—Act of requisitioning accommodation for— C. P. and Berar Accommodation (Requisition) Act, 63 of 1948, S. 3 (1).

A public office, whether of the Central or the Provincial Government or of a local authority exists for the benefit of the public and requisitioning accommodation for locating such office is a "public purpose." Similarly, a person holding an office of profit under the Government is charged with the performance of public duties. Such a person must, for enabling him to discharge his duties, be housed and requisitioning accommodation for him is as much a public purpose as is the location of a public office. 1951 Nag L J 346 : ILR (1951) Nag 791 : A I R 1951 Nag 33 (36) (Pt F) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) and (6)—Orissa Act 18 of 1948—Validity —Public purpose —What constitutes—Notification under S. 2 (c) of Orissa Act whether infringes Art 31 (2)—(Orisssa Development of Industries, Irrigation, Agriculture, Capital Construction and Resettlement of Displaced Persons (Land Acquisition) Act (18 of 1948), S. 2 (c)).

Orissa Act 18 of 1948, though passed within 18 months before the commencement of the Constitution was not submitted to the President for his certification as required by clause (6) of Art. 31 of the Constitution and consequently the Courts are entitled to examine whether there is 'public purpose' behind the proposed acquisition.

What constitutes a public purpose would vary according to the prevailing theories with regard to the functions of a Government. It is not intended to apply where the land is required for an industrial concern working purely for its own gain, even though the goods produced by the concern may be of use to the general public.

Where, in pursuance of S. 2 (c) of the Orissa Act, 18 of 1948 the Governor of Orissa was pleased to specify that the project of establishment of a paper mill at a place in Cuttack district shall be included within the meaning of the expression 'development of industries' as defined in the said section.

Held, that there was no 'public purpose' in the proposed acquisition and as such the impugned notification infringed the fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution. ILR (1958) Cut 269 : 24 Cut L T 191 : AIR 1958 Orissa 187 (192, 193) (Pt E) (Pr 14, 16, 20) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Requirements of public purpose and proper compensation.

The requirements of public purpose or of proper compensation are not to be considered with reference to each item of the property comprised in the estate, but in respect of the acquisition of the estate taken as a whole. The proper approach is to take the scheme as a whole and then examine whether the entire scheme of acquisition is for a public purpose. The same purpose which supports the acquisition of the estate taken as a whole will support the acquisition of every item involved in the abolition scheme, which is an integral part of the estate, or, which is reasonably incidental to, or is the natural consequence of the main scheme of the acquisition itself. ILR (1953) Cut 71 : AIR 1953 Orissa 185 (196) (Pt I) (Pr 22) (DB).

● ——Art. 31 (2)—"Public purposes"— Absence of.

Per Reuben J.—If the Court is satisfied that there is no public purpose in the acquisition of property forming the subject matter of an Act, the assent of the President cannot save the legislation. Kameswar Singh v. State of Bihar, I L R 30 Pat 454 : A I R 1951 Pat 91 (106) (Pt E) (Pr 33) (SB).

● ——Art. 31 (2)— "Public purpose" —Meaning of.

Per Reuben and Das JJ.—Taking into consideration Entries 33 of the Union List, 36 of the State List and 42 of the Concurrent List, the intention of the Constitution appears to be to give the term "public purpose" a wide and comprehensive meaning. Therefore, acquisition for a purpose of the Union or for a purpose of a State is acquisition for a public purpose. So also is the nationalisation of land. Kameshwar Singh v. State of Bihar, ILR 30 Pat 454 : A I R 1951 Pat 91 (107, 122) (Pt F) (Prs 37, 40, 89) (SB).

——Art. 31 (2)— Public purpose — (Farman-i-Shahi 11 of 11-3-1947) — Patiala and East Punjab States Union Abolition of Biswedari Ordinance 23 of 2006.)

The existence of a public purpose is not a condition precedent for the validity of a legislation under clause (2) of the Articte but the clause assumes that when a legislation authorises acquisition or requisition it does so only for a public purpose. If it is shown that there was no public purpose for the acquisition or requisition authorised by the law, it will have to be held that the law is inconsistent with Clause (2) of Article 31 and is hence void under Article 13. Farman-i Shahi, dated 11-3-1947 and the Ordinance 23 of 2006 were made for a public purpose. A I R 1951 All 674 (F B), Rel. on. I L R (1954) Patiala 433 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 161 (171, 172) (Pt E) (Prs 29, 33) (DB)

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 222.]

——Art. 31 (2)—'Public purpose' — Agency selected for achieving public purpose not able to achieve same —Effect —(Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6).

When Courts are considering whether or not a particular piece of land has been acquired for a public purpose it is incumbent upon them to consider the agency selected for achieving that purpose. The agency selected for achieving a public purpose is an integral part of the public purpose. In any case such an agency is an important and relevant factor which cannot be ignored when the purpose of an acquisition is under consideration. If the selected agency cannot achieve the public object of the acquisition then it cannot be said that the land has been acquired for a public purpose. 61 Punj L R 609 : ILR (1959) Punj 1665 : AIR 1959 Punj 544 (549) (Pt G) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 31 — Public purpose — Benefit to public — (Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6).

A public purpose does not cease to be so simply because incidental benefit will enure to private individuals. Nor does it cease to be so on the ground that private persons are being paid out of the public revenues. It is always open to the Government to spend money out of public revenues in aid of general welfare and for public purpose even when money is to be paid to private individuals or to a private body as long as it promotes public welfare.

Hence a notification under S. 6 (1) acquiring land for the purpose of the use by a private body for establishing a school of technology and stating that the compensation will be paid by the Government is a valid and constitutional notification. ILR (1958) Punj 1451 : A I R 1959 Punj 538 (542, 543) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13).

● ——Art. 31 (2)—Public purpose—What is—Rajasthan Act 6 of 1952 effects acquisition for public purpose—(Rajasthan Land Reforms and Resumption of Jagirs Act (6 of 1952), S. 1).

The phrase 'public purpose' has to be construed according to the spirit of the times in which particular legislation is enacted. Whatever furthers the general interests of the community as opposed to the particular interest of the individual must be regarded as a public purpose.

The proper approach is to take the scheme provided by the legislation as a whole, and then to examine whether the entire scheme of acquisition is for a public purpose.

Held, that the acquisitions effected by the Rajasthan Land Reforms and Resumption of Jagirs Act, 1952 were for public purpose. A I R 1952 S C 252, Rel. on. Amar Singh v. State of Rajasthan, 1955 Raj L W 212 : ILR (1955) 5 Raj 149 : AIR 1954 Raj 291 (300) (Pt J) (Pr 27) (FB).

11 (a). Public purpose—If justiciable.

——Art. 31 (2)—'Public purpose' – Assam Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (25 of 1948) — Scope and validity of.

In order to sustain a legislation, it is essential that the requisition or acquisition must be for a public purpose. The question whether it purports to authorise acquisition or requisition for public purpose is justiciable. It is clear that the Act contemplates a purpose which is a public purpose. The legislation cannot be held as being contrary to the provisions of Art. 31 (2). ILR (1959) 11 Assam 1: A I R 1958 Assam 140 (149) (Pt C) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Public purpose — Assam Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (25 of 1948), S. 3 — Order for requisition—Legality.

When the State Government passes an order for requisition, it is open to the Courts to examine and see whether the purposes for which the requisition has been made constitutes a public purpose or not and if it is so, the order of requisition will be upheld as being not contrary to the provisions of Art. 31 (2). If it is held contrary, it will be invalid because it contravenes Art. 31 (2). I L R (1959) 11 Assam 1 : A I R 1958 Assam 140 (150) (Pt D) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Acquisition and requisition for public purpose—Public purposes include purposes of the union and purposes of a State. Whether acquisition or requisition has been permitted for a public purpose, is a justiciable matter. See Assam Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (25 of 1948), S. 3. A I R 1953 Assam 177 (DB).

[Note : — This was a petition under Art. 226 of Constitution for enforcement of fundamental rights by a Corporation. It was assumed by the High Court that Corporation could enforce rights under Art. 19 (1) (f). But it was held in A I R 1963 S C 1811 that a Corporation not being a citizen cannot claim fundamental rights. In this view the Assam High Court should not have entertained the Corporation's petition—Ed.]

——Art. 31 (2) — 'Public purpose' — If justiciable— (W. B Premises Requisition and Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (5 of 1947), S 3 (1)).

If the Act under which the requisition order is made is governed by Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution, the question whether the Act at all purports to authorize acquisition or requisition for a public purpose or wnether the purpose it mentions or contemplates is a purpose of a public character and the question whether a particular order made under it is actually supported by a public purpose as contemplated by the Act, are both justiciable.

Where therefore Art. 31 (2) applies to an Act, a provision contained in it, which makes the subjective satisfaction of the Government the sole condition precedent to the exercise of the power of acquisition or requisition, will be of no avail against Courts and in spite of such a provision the Courts will have jurisdiction to judge both the existence or otherwise of a purpose and its character. A I R 1954 S C 170, Rel. on.

It is immaterial that the only condition precedent to a requisition order under S. 3 (1) of the West Bengal Act (5 of 1947) is that it should appear to the State Government that any premises in any locality are likely to be needed for any purpose. In spite of that provision, the jurisdiction of the Court to enquire whether an order of requisition is supported by a public purpose remains. A I R 1954 Cal 171, Commented upon. ILR (1958) 2 Cal 1 : 61 Cal W N 420 : 99 Cal L J 39 : A I R 1957 Cal 310 (314, 315) (Pt D) (Prs 14, 16) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — On true construction of S. 3 of W. B. Act 5 of 1947, the factual existence of public purpose depends entirely on subjective satisfaction of State Government and is not justiciable. A I R 1953 Cal 223, Overruled. See Houses and Rents — West Bengal Premises Requisition and Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (5 of 1947), S. 3 (1). A I R 1954 Cal 171 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—Public purpose — Whether requisition is for public purpose, is justiciable in Court of law — (Houses and Rents — West Bengal Premises Requisition and Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (5 of 1947), S. 3 (1)). 89 Cal L J 268 : A I R 1953 Cal 223 (225) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

[Overruled in A I R 1954 Cal 171.]

——Art. 31 (2), Sch. VII, List I, item 33, List II, item 36 and List III, item 42 — Compulsory acquisition of land for private purposes — Act authorising such acquisition Validity—Court's power to scrutinise Acts going beyond powers of Legislature.

The effect of Art. 31, Cl. (2) together with item 33 of List I, item 36 of List II, and item 42 of List III of the Seventh Schedule is that neither the Central Legislature nor the State Legislature have any power to legislate in respect of compulsory acquisition for private purposes. That being so, compulsory acquisition of property for private purposes by a State is not permitted by the Constitution, and any Act which authorises the Central Government or a State Government compulsorily to acquire land for private purposes would be ultra vires the Constitution.

Further it is clear from Art. 31 (2) and the three items in the three lists that it is open to the Courts to scrutinise Acts empowering Government to acquire property compulsorily and to consider whether or not such Acts go beyond the powers given to the various legislatures by the Constitution. No Act can be passed which permits compulsory acquisition of a citizen's property for purposes other than public and the Courts must see that no Act allows acquisition beyond that permitted by the Constitution. AIR 1952 Cal 554 (555, 556) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 13) (DB).

——Art. 31 — 'Public purpose' — Decision as to, if conclusive — West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act (21 of 1948), S. 4.

The decision of the Government as to the "public purpose" is conclusive and cannot be questioned in a Court of law. The use of the words, 'if it is satisfied' in S. 4 of West Bengal Act 21 of 1948 makes the decision unchallengeable. A I R 1951 Cal 294; 54 Cal W N 855 and A I R 1950 S C 222, Rel. on. 55 Cal W N 463 : A I R 1951 Cal 97 (99) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——Arts. 31 and 226 — Declaration by Government that land is required for public purpose — If justiciable.

The declaration made by a Government that a land is required for 'public purpose' is justiciable under Art. 226 of the Constitution. Courts have not only jurisdiction, but it is also their duty, to consider the matter and determine whether a public purpose has been established, because the Constitution authorises requisition or acquisition only for a public purpose. A I R 1958 S C 294 Rel. on 1960 Ker L J 170 : 1960 Ker L T 232 : ILR (1960) Ker 351 (1960) 1 Ker L R 520 : A I R 1962 Ker 321 (324) (Pt 4) (Pr 25).

——Art 31 (4)—Existence of public purpose whether justiciable — Madhya Bharat Zamindari Abolition Act (13 of 1951), S. 38.

The existence of a public purpose is not a justiciable issue in case of an enactment which having fulfilled the requirement of Cl. (4) of Art. 31 of the Constitution enjoys the protection afforded by it. The Madhya Bharat Zamindari Abolition Act is an Act which has fulfilled the requirements of Cl. (4) of Art. 31, and therefore, S. 38 cannot be challenged on ground that there was no existence of a public purpose behind the provision. A I R 1954 S C 257 and AIR 1953 S C 375, Rel. on. Madh B L J (1955) H C R 954 : I L R (1955) Madh-B 441 : A I R 1955 Madh B 146 (147, 148) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

● ——Art. 31 (4)—Public purpose is not justiciable issue.

Per Dixit and Chaturvedi JJ (Shinde C. J. dissenting)—The existence of a public purpose as a condition precedent to the exercise of the power of compulsory acquisition being a provision of Art. 31 (2), an infringement of such a provision cannot, under Art. 31 (4), be put forward as a ground for questioning the validity of the Act. AIR 1952 S C 252, Rel.on.

(Note : Shinde C J., has held that Mukherjea, J. has agreed with Mahajan and Aiyar, JJ., in AIR 1952 S C 252), Malojirao v. State of M. B., M B L J 1952 H C R 467 : A I R 1953 Madh B 97 (99, 110, 128) (Pt B) (Prs 2, 44, 98) (FB).

● ——Art. 31(2)—Public purpose—Question of, whether justiciable.

The validity of a requisition order can be questioned on the ground of non-existence of a public purpose, notwithstanding that the relevant statute (M. P. Accommodation (Requisition) Act (63 of 1948), S. 3 in the instant case) makes it final.

The provisions of the Constitution must prevail over legislation and if an enactment violates constitutional provisions, no finality can be attached to the opinion of an authority even though the express words of the statute make it so. Article 31 (2) of the Constitution makes the existence of a public purpose a condition precedent to every acquisition or requisition of property. Unless the necessary pre-requisites exist, the acquisition or requisition would be unconstitutional irrespective of anything contained in the relevant statute. AIR 1950 S C 222; AIR 1952 S C 252 and AIR 1956 S C 294, Rel. on., Jagdish Narain Babulal Jaiswal v. Collector, Damoh, 1962 Jab L J 533 : 1962 M P C 355: 1962 M P L J 363: AIR 1962 Madh Pra 146 (168, 169) (Pt C) (Prs 131, 133) (FB).

——Art. 31—Public purpose—Issue of, is justiciable. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 4. A I R 1961 Madh Pra 140 (DB).

——Art. 31 (2) — Orissa Hereditary Village Offices (Abolition) Act (12 of 1962), Pre—Validity of the Act —Compulsory acquisition of property for a 'public purpose', as contemplated by Art. 31 (2) of the Constitution is a justiciable issue to a limited extent — Orissa Act (12 of 1962) abolishing Hereditary Village Offices being a piece of legislation aiming at economy in expenditure and seeking to bring about uniformity in revenue administration cannot be said to be not for a public purpose. I L R (1964) Cut 289 : 30 Cut L T 359 : A I R 1964 Orissa 235 (236) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 31 (2)—'Public purpose'—Court's power to examine—Decision of State Government as to public purpose—Presumption—Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6.

